[a] Ch. 47. 15, &c. — [b] Heb. one portion. — [c] Ch. 45. 1—6. — [d] Ch. 44. 15. [e] Or, The sanctified portion shall be for the priests. — [f] Or, ward, or, ordinance. — [g] Ch. 44. 10. — [h] Exod. 22. 29. Lev. 27. 10, 28, 33. — [i] Ch. 45. 6. — [k] Ch. 42. 20.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XLVIII.

Verse 1. Now these are the names of the tribes] See the division mentioned Numb. xxxiv, 7—12, which casts much light upon this.

Verse 9. The oblation] This was a portion of land, twenty-five thousand cubits in length, by ten thousand broad; in the centre of which was the Temple, which must be destined for the use of the priests, the Levites, and the prince.

Verse 15. And the five thousand that are left] The territory of the Levites was twenty-five thousand square cubits, ver. 20. But their city was only four thousand five hundred square cubits, see ver. 13, and 16: there remained, therefore, ten thousand cubits square to be divided, of which five thousand cubits in breadth, by twenty-five thousand in length, on the east and west sides, were reserved for a sort of second city; or for suburbs where laymen might dwell who were employed by those priests and Levites who lodged in the Temple and in the city, ver. 18. And another space of one thousand cubits in breadth, by twenty-five thousand in length, which extended only from north to south, was for fields and gardens appointed for the support of those lay servants. On which we may remark, there was no cultivated land between the portion of the Levites and that of the prince, but only on the east and west sides. See chap. xlv, 6, and the Map FF.

A. M. 3430. B. C. 574. Olymp. LI. 3. Anno Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. 5.

south two hundred and fifty, and toward the east two hundred and fifty, and toward the west two hundred and fifty.

18 And the residue in length over against the oblation of the holy portion shall be ten thousand eastward, and ten thousand westward: and it shall be over against the oblation of the holy portion; and the increase thereof shall be for food unto them that serve the city.

19 [a] And they that serve the city shall serve it out of all the tribes of Israel.

20 All the oblation shall be five and twenty thousand by five and twenty thousand: ye shall offer the holy oblation foursquare, with the possession of the city.

21 [b] And the residue shall be for the prince, on the one side and on the other of the holy oblation, and of the possession of the city, over against the five and twenty thousand of the oblation toward the east border, and westward over against the five and twenty thousand toward the west border, over against the portions for the prince: and it shall be the holy oblation; [c] and the sanctuary of the house shall be in the midst thereof.

22 Moreover from the possession of the Levites, and from the possession of the city being in the midst of that which is the prince's, between the border of Judah and the border of Benjamin, shall be for the prince.

A. M. 3430. B. C. 574. Olymp. LI. 3. Anno Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. 5.

23 As for the rest of the tribes from the east side unto the west side, Benjamin shall have [d] a portion.

24 And by the border of Benjamin, from the east side unto the west side, Simeon shall have a portion.

25 And by the border of Simeon, from the east side unto the west side, Issachar a portion.

26 And by the border of Issachar, from the east side unto the west side, Zebulun a portion.

27 And by the border of Zebulun, from the east side unto the west side, Gad a portion.

28 And by the border of Gad, at the south side southward, the border shall be even from Tamar unto [e] the waters of [f] strife in Kadesh, and to the river toward the great sea.

29 [g] This is the land which ye shall divide by lot unto the tribes of Israel for inheritance, and these are their portions, saith the Lord GOD.

30 And these are the goings out of the city on

[a] Ch. 45. 6.——[b] Ch. 45. 7.——[c] Ver. 8, 10.——[d] Heb. one portion.

[e] Ch. 47. 19.——[f] Heb. Meribahkadesh.——[g] Ch. 47. 14, 21, 22.

Verse 21. And the residue—for the prince] His portion was alongside of that of the Levites, from west to east: these were on each side twenty-five thousand cubits in length, from the east to the west, by twelve thousand five hundred cubits in breadth from north to south. The space both above and below was equal, between the tribe of Judah and that of Benjamin, to the north and south; and the portion of the Levites, which had Judah and Benjamin to the north and south, and the portion of the prince to the east and to the west. See the Map.

Verse 28. From Tamar—in Kadesh] The former was on the south of the Dead sea; and the latter, or Kadesh-Barnea, was still farther south, and at the extremity of the portion of Gad, which was the most southern tribe, as Dan was the most northern.

Verse 30. These are the goings out] Each of the four sides of the city was four thousand five hundred cubits long. There were three gates on each side, as mentioned below; and the whole circumference of the city was eighteen thousand cubits. See the Map, Plan B. dddd.

The Rector of Newhaven College, in New England, supposes the preceding representations to refer to the happy state of the church in what is called the Millennium. Leaving this period out of the question, the following observations are worthy of notice:—

"The Jews, for whom this vision was intended, would conceive their country to be divided to the twelve tribes, in lots of a regular and mathematical form; and not confused or intermixed, as in Joshua's time. Their city laid out larger than before; and exactly four square, with regular suburbs; the Temple and appendages much more commodious for their sacrifices, and the habitations of the priests and Levites regularly formed near round about the Temple. So that this whole plan of the division of the country, laying out of the city, Temple, and all the appendages, appears to be perfectly regular and uniform, as if it were drawn all at one time, and by one hand, who had power to effect it; and therefore conveyed to the Jews the most complete idea they were capable of conceiving of the most perfect church, commonwealth, city, Temple, and conveniences, for Divine worship. I. The Holy Land, as described, chap. xlvii and xlviii, according to the original grant being about two hundred and fifty miles long, north and south, and about one hundred and fifty miles wide, is divided by parallel lines east and west, to the twelve tribes; each of them having a portion twenty miles wide. Only between Judah and Benjamin, there is a holy portion near ten miles wide; in the middle of which is the holy oblations, twenty-five thousand cubits; that is, about ten miles square for the priests, Levites, city, and Temple, chap. xlv, 1, xlviii, 8;

A. M. 3430. B. C. 574. Olymp. LI. 3. Anno Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. 5.

the north side, four thousand and five hundred measures.

31 [a] And the gates of the city shall be after the names of the tribes of Israel: three gates northward; one gate of Reuben, one gate of Judah, one gate of Levi.

32 And at the east side four thousand and five hundred: and three gates; and one gate of Joseph, one gate of Benjamin, one gate of Dan.

33 And at the south side four thousand and five hundred measures: and three gates; one gate of Simeon, one gate of Issachar, one gate of Zebulun.

A. M. 3430. B. C. 574. Olymp. LI. 3. Anno Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. 5.

34 At the west side four thousand and five hundred, with their three gates; one gate of Gad, one gate of Asher, one gate of Naphtali.

35 It was round about eighteen thousand measures: [b] and the name of the city from that day shall be, [c] The [d] LORD is there.

[a] Rev. 21. 12, &c.——[b] Jer. 33. 16.——[c] Heb. Jehovah-shammah: See Exod 17. 15. Judg. 6. 24.

[d] Psa. 2. 6. & 9. 11. & 76. 2. & 99. 2. Jer. 3. 17. Joel 3. 21. Zech. 2. 10. Rev. 21. 3. & 22. 3.

the two ends are for the prince, chap. xlv, 7, &c. II. The holy oblation, lying in the middle of the holy portion, is twenty-five thousand cubits square, which is near ten miles; of which ten thousand cubits, or four miles, are taken off from the north side for a habitation for the priests, and as much for the Levites on the south side, chap. xlv, 4, 5, and xlviii, 20; and five thousand cubits in the middle for the city portion, chap. xlv. 6; in the middle of which is the city four thousand five hundred cubits square, which is nearly two miles, chap. xlviii, 15, 16. Round about this is left two hundred and fifty cubits, near thirty rods, for suburbs, ver. 17. The remaining ten thousand cubits on the east side, and the ten thousand cubits on the west side, are for the profit of those who serve the city, out of all the tribes, ver. 18, 19. The sanctuary is in the midst of the city, chap. xlviii, 8. III. The sanctuary or Temple, and its appendages, were entirely surrounded with a wall six cubits high, and six cubits thick, chap. xl, 5; and five hundred cubits long on each side, chap. xlii, 15, &c., and xlv, 2. In the middle square stands the Temple, which was surrounded by a wall one hundred cubits long on each side, chap. xli, 13; and six cubits thick, chap. xli, 6. The side-chambers on the outside four cubits, ver. 6. The Holy of Holies, at the west end, was twenty cubits square on the inside, ver. 4. The holy place, or outer court at the east end, was forty cubits, ver. 12. The length of the porch on the north side was twenty cubits; the breadth was eleven cubits, chap. xl, 49; and the width of the separate place on the south side twenty cubits. On each side of the Temple, towards the four gates in the outer wall, stood two courts, eight in the whole, each one hundred cubits square, chap. xl, 19, 23, 27. In each of these were thirty-six little chambers or buildings, about six cubits square, viz. six at the entrance of the gate, chap. xl, 7, 17, 20, &c., and thirty on the pavement, ver. 17, &c., which were for lodgings for the priests, for hanging up their garments, and their part of the sacrifices, chap. xlii, 13."

Calmet has constructed a map to shew the position of the tribes, and the quantum of space each was to possess. As this will give a better view of the subject than any written description can, I have inserted one constructed for this work, which, consulting the places said to be connected with the possessions of the different tribes, shews that the tribes did not all possess the same quantum of space, five of the southern tribes possessing only one half as much as those of the north.

Verse 35. The name of the city from that day shall be, The LORD is there.] It would have been better to have retained the original words:—

יהוה שמה YEHOVAH SHAMMAH.

Thus an allusion to the Shekina, or symbol of this Divine presence, which was in the first, but most certainly was not in the second Temple: but Ezekiel tells us that the Divine presence should be in the city of which he speaks; and should be there, so fully and so powerfully, that it should give name to the city itself; and that the very name Jehovah shammah, should remind all men of the supereminently glorious Being who had condescended to make this city His habitation.

Two points must be considered here:—1. That the prophet intended that, when they should be restored, they should build the Temple, and divide the land as he here directs, if the thing could be found to be practicable. 2. That he had another Temple, another holy city, another Promised Land, in view. The land of Immanuel, the city of the New Jerusalem; and His Temple, the Christian church, which is the house of the living God, 1 Tim. iii, 15, in which the presence of Christ shall ever be found; and all its inhabitants, all that believe on His name, shall be temples of the Holy Ghost. Nor can there be any reasonable doubt that the prophet here, by the Spirit of God, not only points out the return of the Israelites from the Babylonish captivity, and what was to befall them previously to the advent of Jesus Christ; but also the glorious spread of the Gospel in the earth, and the final conversion of the tribes of Israel by the preaching of that Gospel.

In conclusion, I think it necessary to state, that there are but few of the prophets of the Old Testament who have left a more valuable treasure to the church of God than Ezekiel. It is true, he is in several places obscure: but there is a great proportion of the Work that is in the highest degree edifying; and several portions that for the depth of the salvation predicted, and the accuracy and minuteness of the description, have nothing equal to them in the Old Testament Scriptures. On such portions, I have felt it my duty to be very particular, that I might be able to point out spiritual beauties and excellencies in this Book, which are beyond all praise; while I passed slightly over prophecies and symbols which I did not fully understand: but have left to time, by the fulfilment of the events, to prove to successive generations with what heavenly wisdom this much neglected prophet has spoken. And I take this opportunity to recommend this Book to the serious perusal of every pious man; and while he wonders at the extent of the wisdom by which Ezekiel has fathomed the depth of so many Divine mysteries, let him give God the glory for this additional testimony to the unsearchable riches of Christ, and that plenary salvation which He has purchased for, and freely offers to, the vilest of the vile; and to the whole of the descendants of Adam.

Masoretic Notes.

Number of Verses, 1,273.—Middle Verse, Chap. xxvi, 1.
Masoretic Sections, 29.

Description of the Plan of Ezekiel's Temple.

As I utterly despair of making the Prophet's description of this Temple intelligible without a Plan, I have introduced one drawn up with great labour and skill by Dom. August. Calmet; where the measurements, distances, gates, chambers, courts, inclosures, &c., are all carefully entered as far as they could possibly be ascertained from Ezekiel's description; which it must be allowed, though wondrously circumstantial, is in several respects obscure. But by referring to the places both in Kings and Chronicles, as well as in this Prophet, where the same things are mentioned; this obscurity will be considerably diminished, if not entirely removed. At the same time, for a description of the Temple in general, I beg leave to refer the Reader to 1 Kings, chap. vi, at the end, where this subject is considered at large.

THE PLAN.

(Let it be observed that the Hebrew cubit is about twenty inches and a half.)

AAAA The first inclosure, or wall of six hundred cubits, i. e. one thousand and twenty-five royal feet in length, on each side, chap. xlv, 2; and six cubits or ten feet three inches high, and as many in breadth, chap. xl, 5.

BBBB The court of the Gentiles, or first court, fifty cubits in breadth, or eighty-five feet five inches, chap. xlv, 2.

CCCC The outward wall of the court of Israel, or inclosure, five hundred cubits square; i. e. eight hundred and fifty-four feet two inches. This wall might be thirty cubits high, taken from the level of the threshold of the gate.

DDDD The court of Israel, one hundred cubits, or one hundred and seventy feet ten inches broad, chap. xl, 19.

EEEE The outer wall, or inclosure of the court of the priests, two hundred cubits, or three hundred and forty-one feet eight inches square; is supposed to be thirty cubits, or fifty-one feet three inches, in height.

FFF The court of the priests, one hundred cubits, or one hundred and seventy feet ten inches square, chap. xl, 47; xli, 14, 15.

G The Sanctuary, or Holy of Holies, twenty cubits, or thirty-four feet two inches square, chap. xli, 4; 1 Kings vi, 2.

H The Holy place, forty cubits long by twenty broad, or sixty-eight feet two inches long, by thirty-four feet two inches broad, chap. xli, 2, and 1 Kings vi, 2.

I The vestibule or porch, twenty cubits in breadth, by ten (or, according to Ezekiel, eleven) cubits in length; i. e. thirty-four feet two inches long, by seventeen feet one inch broad, chap. xl, 48; 1 Kings vi, 3.

K The altar of burnt-offerings, twelve cubits, or twenty feet six inches square, according to Ezekiel, chap. xliii, 12, 13, &c., or ten cubits high, by twenty broad, i. e. seventeen feet one inch high, and thirty-four feet two inches broad, according to 2 Chron. iv, 1.

LLL The wall of separation which encompassed the Temple, and the altar of burnt-offerings, of which the Scriptures do not give the dimensions. It was twenty cubits from the buildings in the court of the priests, and five from the Temple, chap. xli, 9, 10. Josephus makes it three cubits high, Antiq. lib. viii, c. 2.

MMMMMM Gates of the court of Israel, and of the court of the priests, all of the same dimensions, chap. xl, 1, 22, 36. Each of the porches was fifty cubits long, i. e. eighty-five feet five inches; as much as the depth of the aisles, chap. xl, 15; and twenty-five cubits, or forty-two feet eight inches and a half in breadth in the opening; and sixty cubits high, i. e. one hundred and two feet six inches, chap. xl, 14. On each side of the porches there were three chambers, each six cubits square, chap. xl, 6. And the separations between the three chambers were five cubits in thickness, chap. xl, 6.

NNNNNNNN Galleries around the court of Israel, chap. xl. I place there thirty pillars, on a line of two hundred cubits in length, which is the same proportion as those given for one hundred cubits long, 1 Kings vii, 2, 3, 4, for the court of the palace of Solomon.

OOOOOOOO Chambers or apartments round the court of Israel; there were thirty on both sides of the gate, or fifteen on each side, chap. xl, 17.

PPPP The kitchens of the Temple, forty cubits, or sixty-eight feet four inches long, by thirty cubits, or fifty-one feet three inches broad, chap. xlv, 21, 22, 23, 24.

Q The north gate of the court of the priests, where the victims were prepared, and where they slew the animals designed for sacrifice, chap. xl, 38, 39.

RRRR Galleries around the court of the priests, chap. xlii, 3.

SSSSSS Apartments continued round the court of the priests. The aisle, which was to the south of the eastern gate, was for the priests employed as guards of the Temple, during his life, and that after his death his memory became immortal. He observes also that, in the complexion of his predictions, he differs widely from all the other prophets: they foretold scarcely any thing but disastrous events; on the contrary, he predicts the most joyous events, and fixes the times of accomplishment with more circumstantial precision than they did. And this is so true, that we cannot help thinking that God had given this eminent man a greater degree of light to fix the times when his predictions should issue, than he had given in general to all his predecessors, who simply declared the mind of God in relation to things future, without attempting to indicate the distance of time in which they should be fulfilled. There are but very few exceptions to this, either in Isaiah or Jeremiah. And, in this respect, the prophecy of the seventy weeks of Daniel exceeds all that have gone before; as the incidents and transactions relative to its fulfilment were so various, and yet so fixed and declared six hundred years before the time; that when the time came in which they were predicted to take place, they were expected, and occurred exactly according to the prediction and the expectations founded upon it. This Prophet therefore, far from occupying a lower place among divinely inspired men, deserves to be placed in the front rank with all those who have been most distinguished among the men who have partaken most largely of the rophetic gift.

The Rabbins have endeavoured to degrade Daniel; and have placed his prophecies among the hagiographa, books which they conceive to possess a minor degree of inspiration;—and it is probable that he meets with this treatment from them, because his prophecies are proofs too evident that Jesus Christ is the true Messiah, and that he came at the very time that Daniel said the Prince Messiah should come. But the testimony and sayings of such men are infinitely overpowered by the testimony of Ezekiel, which has been produced above; and the testimony of our Lord, who gives him the title of Prophet, Matt. xxiv, 15, without the slightest intimation that he was to wear this title with abatement.

It is very probable that Daniel did not return at the general restoration from the Babylonish captivity. At that time, if alive, he must have been an old man; and it is most likely that he finished his days in Babylon;—though some Asiatic authors hold that he returned to Judea with Ezra,—that he came back afterwards to Persia,—and died in the city of Susa.

Josephus speaks of his skill in architecture, Antiq. lib. x, c. 12; and that he built a famous tower at Ecbatane, or Susa, which remained to his time; and was so exquisitely finished, that it always appeared as if newly built. In this tower, or palace, the kings of Persia were interred; and, in consideration of its founder, the guard of it was always chosen out of the Jews.

Daniel is famous among the Orientals. The author of the Tareekh Muntekheb says that Daniel flourished in the time of Lohorasp, king of Persia; and, consequently, in that of Ceresh, or Cyrus, who gave him the government of Syria; and that he taught these two princes the knowledge of the true God:—that he preached the true faith through the whole of the Babylonian Irak; and was, on the death of Nebuchadnezzar, sent by Bahman, (Artaxerxes Longimanus) son of Asfendiar, who then reigned in Persia, into Judea; and that, having returned, he died at Shouster, or Susa, the capital of Persia, where he lies interred.

Some have supposed that the Zoroaster, or Zeradusht of the Persians, is a confused picture of the prophet Daniel. The account given by Abulferage, in his fifth dynasty, may be considered favourable to this opinion. He says, "Zeradusht, author of the Magiouseiah Magism, or sect of the worshippers of fire, flourished in the reign of Cambasous (Cambyses);—that he was a native of the province of Adherbigian, or Media, or, according to others, of Assyria;—that he foretold to his disciples the coming of the Messiah, who should be pointed out by a star which should appear in the day-time at his birth;—that they should have the first information of His advent;—that He should be born of a virgin;—and that they should present Him with gifts;—because He is that Word that made the heavens." See Pocock's Abul Pharajius, p. 83 of the Arabic, and 54 of the Latin.

D'Herbelot, on this account, makes the following remark:—We may see, by these words of the historian, that the prophecy of Balaam was pretty generally known throughout the East; and that the magi, who came to worship our Lord, were the true magians of Persia, and not Arab kings.

The account given by Abul Pharaje makes Daniel and Zeradusht contemporary; and thus far is favourable to the opinion, that the history of the former may be disguised under that of the latter. There have been several Zoroasters, of whom many fables are told;—and no wonder, when the persons themselves are generally fabulous.

The Asiatics make him the inventor of رمل remel, or geomancy; and among them he passes for the author of a work intituled Assoul ol Tabeer, The Principles of the Interpretation of Dreams. I have in my own library a very ancient work, which pretends to be drawn from this, and is intituled Somnia Daniel: it was printed in the infancy of printing, but without date; small 4to. There is an Arabic work in the French king's library, No. 410, intituled Odhmet al Mancoul, ân Danial an Nabi, The Traditionary Predictions of Daniel the Prophet; which is said to contain many falsities, built on the foundation of Daniel's Prophecies: but it has never been given to the public, and I have no other notice of it than the above from D'Herbelot. But although all these are curious from their antiquity, yet they are doubtless impostures.

Abul Farage, in his history of the Dynasties, says, that the seventy weeks of Daniel are to be dated from the twentieth year of اردشير ديرازدست Ardsheer Dirazdest, the Artaxerxes Longimanus of the Greeks, (called Bahaman above) and the same to whom Nehemiah was ساقي sakee, or cup-bearer. Other Orientalists are of the same opinion. This shall be considered more at large when we come to the Prophecy itself. Artaxerxes had the name of Longimanus, or Long-handed, from the great extent of his dominions.

Daniel cannot be ranked among the Hebrew poets:—his Book is all in prose; and it is written partly in Hebrew, and partly in Chaldee. The Chaldee, or Syro-Chaldaic part, begins with מלכא לעלמין חיי malka leâlmin chei, "O king, live for ever!" and continues to the end of the seventh Chapter.

In the interpretation of his prophecies I have endeavoured to follow the best critics and chronologists; and without an extended comment, I have endeavoured to give in as short a space as possible, the meaning of every place. On the metallic images and seventy weeks I have been obliged to be more prolix, as these are of too much importance to be slightly handled. It is not my province to enter into the controversy about the date when the seventy weeks commence: even they who disagree so much from each other on this point, come so near to the general issue that the difference is immaterial.

The Chronology of the several events mentioned in this Book Calmet endeavours to fix as follows:—

A. M.

3398 Daniel led captive to Babylon, chap. i, 1—7.

3399 Death of Nabopolassar, father of Nebuchadnezzar.

3401 Jehoiakim revolts against Nebuchadnezzar, 2 Kings xxiv, 1.

3402 Dream of the compound statue, Dan. ii, 1, &c.
Daniel and his companions promoted to honour at court.
Birth of Cyrus, son of Cambyses and Mandane.

3405 Jehoiakim is taken and put to death by the Chaldeans.
Jeconiah is raised to his throne, but reigns only three months and ten days.
Zedekiah, last king of Judah, succeeds; and reigns eleven years.

3416 Taking of Jerusalem, and destruction of the Temple, 1 Chron. xxxvi.

3434 Return of Nebuchadnezzar to Babylon after his great conquests in Phœnicia, Judea, Egypt, &c.
His dream of the great tree, chap. iv, 7, &c.

3435 He becomes insane, which lasts for seven years, chap. iv, 32, 33.

3442 He becomes sane, and remounts the throne.
The golden image set up. The three Hebrews cast into the fiery furnace, chap. iii.
Death of Nebuchadnezzar after a reign of forty-three years, according to Berosus.
Evil-Merodach succeeds him, and reigns two years.—Berosus.
He sets Jeconiah at liberty, Jer. lii, 31.

3444 Belshazzar his son succeeds, Dan. vii, 1.
Daniel's vision of the four beasts, representing the four great empires, chap. vii.

3447 Vision of the ram and he-goat, chap. viii.
The death of Belshazzar, chap. v.

3449 Darius the Mede, called Cyaxares by Xenophon, and Astyages in the Apocrypha, son of Astyages, king of the Medes, and maternal great uncle to Belshazzar, succeeds him in the government of Chaldea, chap. v, 30, 31. See Isa. xiii, 1, &c.
The visions of Daniel related, chap. ix, x, xi, xii.
Cyrus attacks the Medes in the first or second year of Darius the Mede, chap. x, 1.

A. M.
3455 Daniel is cast into the den of lions, chap. vi.
3456 Death of Darius. Cyrus succeeds him.
3457 End of the Babylonish captivity declared by Cyrus, in the first year of his reign, 2 Chron. xxxvi, 22, and Ezra i, 1: but afterwards interrupted. See below.
3485 Termination of Jeremiah's seventy years under Darius Hystaspes, who gives orders to continue the rebuilding of the Temple.
3550 Commencement of the seventy weeks, chap. ix, 24.
Nehemiah returns to Jerusalem, Neh. ii, 1—6.

In this Chronology Calmet differs from Ussher.

As a writer, this prophet is simple, yet pure and correct: and he is so conscientious that he relates the very words of those persons whom he introduces as speaking. He writes Hebrew where what he delivers is a bare narrative: but he relates in Chaldee the conversations which he had with the wise men, and the kings; and in the same language he relates Nebuchadnezzar's edict, which he made after Daniel had interpreted his dream concerning the great metalline image. This is a proof of his great and conscientious accuracy; and exhibits this prophet in a most advantageous point of view. Daniel writes both Hebrew and Chaldee with great purity.

This Book divides itself into two parts. Part I, is historical, and is contained in the six former Chapters;—Part II, is prophetical, and occupies the other six.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET DANIEL.

Chronological Notes relative to the commencement of Daniel's prophesying.

Year from the Creation, according to Archbishop Ussher, 3397.—Year of the Jewish æra of the world, 3154.—Year from the Deluge, 1741.—Second year of the forty-third Olympiad.—Year from the building of Rome, according to the Varronian or generally received account, 147.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Cato and the Fasti Consulares, 146.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Polybius the historian, 145.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Fabius Pictor, 141.——Year of the Julian Period, 4107.—Year of the æra of Nabonassar, 141.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's temple, 397.—Year since the destruction of the kingdom of Israel by Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, 114.—Fourth year after the first sabbatic year after the seventeenth Jewish jubilee, according to Helvicus.—Year before the birth of Christ, 603.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 607.—Cycle of the Sun, 19.—Cycle of the Moon, 3.—Tenth year of Tarquinius Priscus, the fifth king of the Romans.—Nineteenth year of Cyaxares, or Cyaraxes, the fourth king of Media.—Forty-fourth year of Archidamus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—First year of Leon, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Thirteenth year of Alyattes II, king of Lydia, and father of the celebrated Crœsus.—Thirty-fourth year of Philip, the sixth king of Macedon.—Eleventh year of Pharaoh-necho, called Necus by Herodotus. This king was the immediate predecessor of Psammis; and Psammis was succeeded by the celebrated Pharaoh-hophra, called also Apries.—Eighth year of Ithobalus, king of the Tyrians, according to Helvicus.—Third year (ending) of Jehoiakim, king of Judah; for the principal part of A. M. 3397 corresponded to the fourth year of this prince.

CHAPTER I.

This Chapter begins with giving a short account of Nebuchadnezzar's conquest of Judea, when Jehoiakim became tributary to him; and, consequently, the seventy years' captivity and vassalage began, 1, 2. On this expedition (taking Egypt in his way) the king of Babylon set out towards the end of the third year of Jehoiakim; but did not take Jerusalem before the ninth month of the year following. Hence the seeming discrepancy between Daniel and Jeremiah (chap. xxv, 1); the one computing from the time of his setting out on the expedition, and the other from the time in which the purpose of it was accomplished. We have next an account of the manner in which Daniel and his companions were brought up at the king's court, 3—7. They reject the daily provision of meat granted by the king, lest they should be defiled; and are allowed to live on pulse, 8—16. Their great proficiency in the wisdom of that time, 17—20. Daniel flourishes till the reign of Cyrus the Persian, 21.

A. M. 3397. B. C. 607. Ol. XLIII. 2. Anno Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. 10.

A. M. cir. 3398. B. C. cir. 606. Ol. XLIII. 3. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 11.

IN the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim king of Judah [a] came Nebuchadnezzar king of Babylon unto Jerusalem, and besieged it.

2 And the LORD gave Jehoiakim king of Judah into his hand, with [b] part of the vessels of the house of God: which he carried [c] into the land of Shinar to the house of his god; [d] and he brought the vessels into the treasure house of his god.

3 And the king spake unto Ashpenaz the master of his eunuchs, that he should bring certain of the children of Israel, and of the king's seed, and of the princes;

A. M. cir. 3398. B. C. cir. 606. Ol. XLIII. 3. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 11.

4 Children [e] in whom was no blemish, but well favoured, and skilful in all wisdom, and cunning in knowledge, and understanding science, and such as had ability in them to stand in the king's palace, and [f] whom they might teach the learning and the tongue of the Chaldeans.

5 And the king appointed them a daily provision of the king's meat, and of [g] the wine which

[a] 2 Kings 24. 1. 2 Chron. 36. 6.——[b] Jer. 27. 19, 20.——[c] Gen. 10. 10. & 11. 2. Isa. 11. 11. Zech. 5. 11.

[d] 2 Chron. 36. 7.——[e] See Lev. 24. 19, 20.——[f] Acts 7. 22.——[g] Heb. the wine of his drink.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. In the third year of the reign of Jehoiakim] This king was raised to the throne of Judea in the place of his brother Jehoahaz, by Pharaoh-necho, king of Egypt, 2 Kings xxiii, 34—36, and continued tributary to him during the first three years of his reign: but in the fourth, which was the first of Nebuchadnezzar, Jer. xxv, 1, Nebuchadnezzar completely defeated the Egyptian army near the Euphrates, Jer. xlvi, 2; and this victory put the neighbouring countries of Syria (among which Judea was the chief,) under the Chaldean government. Thus Jehoiakim, who had first been tributary to Egypt, became now the vassal of the king of Babylon, 2 Kings xxiv, 1.

At the end of three years Jehoiakim rebelled against Nebuchadnezzar, who, then occupied with other wars, did not proceed against Jerusalem till three years after, which was the eleventh, and last of Jehoiakim; 2 Kings xxiii, 36.

There are some difficulties in the chronology of this place. Calmet takes rather a different view of these transactions. He connects the history thus:—Nabopolassar, king of Babylon, finding that one of his lords whom he had made governor of Cœlosyria and Phœnicia, had revolted from him, and formed an alliance with the king of Egypt, sent Nebuchadnezzar his son, whom he invested with the authority of king, to reduce those provinces, as was customary among the Easterns when the heir presumptive was sent on any important expedition, or embassy. This young prince, having quelled the insurrection in those parts, marched against Jerusalem, about the end of the third, or beginning of the fourth, year of the reign of Jehoiakim, king of Judah. He soon took the city, and put Jehoiakim in chains with the design of carrying him to Babylon: but, changing his mind, he permitted him to resume the reins of government under certain oppressive conditions. At this year, (which was A. M. 3398,) the seventy years of the Babylonish captivity commence. Nabopolassar dying in the interim, Nebuchadnezzar was obliged to return speedily to Babylon, leaving his generals to conduct the Jewish captives to Babylon, among whom were Daniel and his companions.

Verse 2. Part of the vessels of the house of God] He took the richest and finest of them for the service of his god Bel, and left what were necessary for carrying on the public worship of Jehovah; (for he did not attempt to altar the civil or religious constitution of Judea) for, leaving Jehoiakim on the throne, he only laid the land under tribute. The Chaldeans carried these sacred vessels away at three different times:—1. In the war spoken of in this place. 2. In the taking of Jerusalem and Jeconiah a few months after, 2 Kings xxiv, 13. 3. Eleven years after, under the reign of Zedekiah, when the city and Temple were totally destroyed, and the land ruined, 2 Kings xxv, 8—15.

The land of Shinar] This was the ancient name of Babylon. See Gen. xi, 2.

The treasure house of his god.] This was Bel, who had a splendid temple in Babylon, and was the tutelar god of the city and empire.

Verse 3. Master of his eunuchs] This word eunuchs signifies officers about or in the palace, whether literally eunuchs or not.

Verse 4. Children] ילדים yeladim, youths, young men; and so the word should be rendered throughout this Book.

Skilful in all wisdom] Rather, persons capable of every kind of literary accomplishment, that they might be put under proper instruction. And as children of the blood and of the nobles were most likely, from the care usually taken of their initiatory education, to profit most by the elaborate instruction here designed, the master of the eunuchs, the king's chamberlain, was commanded to choose the youths in question out of such.

Verse 5. A daily provision] Athenæus, lib. iv, c. 10, says,—The kings of Persia (who succeeded the kings of Babylon, on whose empire they had seized,) were accustomed to order the food left at their own tables to be delivered to their courtiers.

So nourishing them three years] This was deemed a sufficient time to acquire the Chaldee language, and the sciences peculiar to that people. I suppose they had good introductory books, able teachers, and a proper method;

A. M. cir. 3398. B. C. cir. 606. Ol. XLIII. 3. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 11.

he drank: so nourishing them three years, that at the end thereof they might [a] stand before the king.

6 Now among these were of the children of Judah, Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah:

7 [b] Unto whom the prince of the eunuchs gave names: [c] for he gave unto Daniel the name of Belteshazzar; and to Hananiah, of Shadrach; and to Mishael, of Meshach; and to Azariah, of Abed-nego.

8 But Daniel purposed in his heart that he would not defile himself [d] with the portion of the king's meat, nor with the wine which he drank: therefore he requested of the prince of the eunuchs that he might not defile himself.

9 Now [e] God had brought Daniel into favour and tender love with the prince of the eunuchs.

A. M. cir. 3398. B. C. cir. 606. Ol. XLIII. 3. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 11.

10 And the prince of the eunuchs said unto Daniel, I fear my lord the king, who hath appointed your meat and your drink: for why should he see your faces [f] worse liking than the children which are of your [g] sort? then shall ye make me endanger my head to the king.

11 Then said Daniel to [h] Melzar, whom the prince of the [i] eunuchs had set over Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, 12 Prove thy servants, I beseech thee, ten days; and let them give us [k] pulse [l] to eat, and water to drink.

13 Then let our countenances be looked upon before thee, and the countenance of the children

[a] Ver. 19. Gen. 41. 46. 1 Kings 10. 8.——[b] Gen. 41. 45. 2 Kings 24. 17.——[c] Ch. 4. 8. & 5. 12.——[d] Deut. 32. 38. Ezek. 4. 13. Hos. 9. 3.——[e] See Gen. 39. 21. Psa. 106. 46. Prov. 16. 7.

[f] Heb. sadder.——[g] Or, term, or, continuance.——[h] Or, the steward.——[i] 2 Kings 9. 32. & 20. 18. Isa. 39. 7. Acts 8. 27.——[k] Heb. of pulse.——[l] Heb. that we may eat, &c.

else they would have been obliged, like us, to send their children seven years to school, and as many to the university, to teach them any tolerable measure of useful and ornamental literature! O how reproachful to the nations of Europe, and particularly to our own, is this backward mode of instruction. And what is generally learned after this vast expense of time and money? A little Latin, Greek, and mathematics,—perhaps a little moral philosophy; and by this they are entitled, not qualified, to teach others; and especially to teach the people the important science of salvation! To such shepherds, and there are many such, the hungry sheep look up, and are not fed:—and if all are not such, no thanks to our plan of national education.

Verse 6. Now among these] There were no doubt several noble youths from other provinces: but the four mentioned here were Jews, and are supposed to have all been of royal extraction.

Verse 7. Unto whom the prince of the eunuchs gave names] This change of names, Calmet properly remarks, was a mark of dominion and authority. It was customary for masters to impose new names upon their slaves; and rulers often, on their ascending the throne, assumed a name different from that which they had before.

Daniel דניאל signifies, God is my Judge. This name they changed into Belteshatsar בלטשאצר; in Chaldee—the treasure of Bel; or, the depository of the secrets, or treasure of Bel.

Hananiah חנניה signifies, the Lord has been gracious to me; or, he to whom the Lord is gracious. This name was changed into Shadrach שדרך Chaldee;—which has been variously translated:—The inspiration of the sun; God, the Author of evil, be propitious to us; let God preserve us from evil.

Mishael מישאל signifies, he who comes from God. Him they called Meshach מישך, which in Chaldee signifies, he who belongs to the goddess Sheshach,—a celebrated deity of the Babylonians mentioned by Jeremiah, chap. xxv, 26.

Azariah עזריה which signifies, the Lord is my Helper, they changed into Abed-nego אבד נגו which in Chaldee is, the servant of Nego, who was one of their divinities; by which they meant either the sun, or the morning star; whether Jupiter or Venus.

The vicious pronunciation of this name should be carefully avoided; I mean that which lays the accent on the first syllable, and hurries to the end, without attending to the natural division of the word Abed-nego.

Verse 8. But Daniel—would not defile himself] I have spoken of this resolution in the Introduction. The chief reasons why Daniel would not eat meat from the royal table were probably these three:—1. Because they ate unclean beasts, which were forbidden by the Jewish law. 2. Because they ate, as did the Heathens in general, beasts which had been strangled, or not properly blooded. 3. Because the animals that were eaten, were first offered as victims to their gods. It is on this account that Athenæus calls the beasts which were served up at the tables of the Persian kings, ιερια, victims, Lib. iv, c. 10, p. 145.

Verse 11. Then said Daniel to Melzar] Melzar was an officer under Ashpenaz, whose office it was to attend to the food, clothing, &c., of these royal captives. Others think מלצר meltsar, master of the inn or hotel, the name of an office.

Verse 12. Give us pulse to eat] הזרעים ha-zerôim, seeds of grain, such as barley, wheat, rye, and peas, &c. Though a vegetable diet might have produced that healthiness of the system in general, and of the countenance particularly, as that eat of the portion of the king's meat: and as thou seest, deal with thy servants.

A. M. cir. 3398. B. C. cir. 606. Ol. XLIII. 3. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 11.

14 So he consented to them in this matter, and proved them ten days.

15 And at the end of ten days their countenances appeared fairer and fatter in flesh than all the children which did eat the portion of the king's meat.

16 Thus Melzar took away the portion of their meat, and the wine that they should drink; and gave them pulse.

17 As for these four children, [a] God gave them [b] knowledge and skill in all learning and wisdom; and [c] Daniel had [d] understanding in all visions and dreams.

18 Now at the end of the days that the king had said he should bring them in, then the prince of the eunuchs brought them in before Nebuchadnezzar.

A. M. cir. 3401. B. C. cir. 603. Ol. XLIV. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir annum 14.

19 And the king communed with them; and among them all was found none like Daniel, Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah: therefore [e] stood they before the king.

20 [f] And in all matters of [g] wisdom and understanding, that the king enquired of them, he found them ten times better than all the magicians and astrologers that were in all his realm.

21 [h] And Daniel continued even unto the first year of king Cyrus.

---

[a] 1 Kings 3. 12. Jam. 1. 5, 17.——[b] Acts 7. 22.——[c] Or, he made Daniel understand.——[d] Numb. 12. 6. 2 Chron. 26. 5. ch. 5. 11, 12, 14. & 10. 1.——[e] Gen. 41. 46. ver. 5.——[f] 1 Kings 10. 1.

[g] Heb. wisdom of understanding.——[h] Ch. 6. 28. & 10. 1. He lived to see that glorious time of the return of his people from the Babylonian captivity, though he did not die then. So till is used, Psa. 110. 1. & 112. 8.

---

mentioned here; yet we are to understand that there was an especial blessing of God in this, because this spare diet was taken on a religious account.

Verse 17. As for these four children] Young men or youths. Our translation gives a false idea.

In all visions and dreams.] That is, such as are divine; for, as to dreams in general, they have as much signification as they have connexion, being the effects of the state of the body, of the mind, or of the circumstances of the dreamer. A dream may be considered supernatural, if it have nothing preposterous, nothing monstrous, and nothing irregular. If the whole order and consequences of the things be preserved in them, from beginning to end, then we may presume they are supernatural. In such dreams, Daniel had understanding.

Verse 18. Now at the end of the days] That is, at the end of three years, ver. 5.

Verse 19. And among them all] All the young noble captives from different nations.

Therefore stood they before the king.] It appears that only four were wanting.

Verse 20. Magicians and astrologers] Probably the same as philosophers and astronomers among us.

Verse 21. The first year of king Cyrus.] That is, to the end of the Chaldean empire. And we find Daniel alive in the third year of Cyrus, see chap. x, 1.

CHAPTER II.

Nebuchadnezzar, in the second year of his reign, (or in the fourth, according to the Jewish account, which takes in the first two years in which he reigned conjointly with his father,) had a dream which greatly troubled him; but of which nothing remained in the morning but the uneasy impression. Hence the diviners, when brought in before the king, could give no interpretation, as they were not in possession of the dream, 1—13. Daniel then, having obtained favour from God, is made acquainted with the dream, and its interpretation, 14—19; for which he blesses God in a lofty and beautiful ode, 20—23; and reveals both unto the king, telling him first the particulars of the dream, 24—35; and then interpreting it of the four great monarchies. The then existing Chaldean empire, represented by the head of gold, is the first; the next is the Medo-Persian; the third the Macedonian or Grecian; the fourth the Roman, which should break every other kingdom in pieces, but which, in its last stage, should be divided into ten kingdoms, represented by the ten toes of the image, as they are in another vision (chap. vii,) by the ten horns of the fourth beast. He likewise informs the king that in the time of this last monarchy, viz. the Roman, God would set up the kingdom of the Messiah; which, though small in its commencement, should ultimately be extended over the whole earth, 36—45. Daniel and his three friends Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, (named by the prince of the eunuchs Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego,) are then promoted by the king to great honour, 46—49.

A. M. 3401. B. C. 603. Ol. XLIV. 2. Anno Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. 14.

AND in the second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams, [a] wherewith his spirit was troubled, and [b] his sleep brake from him.

2 [c] Then the king commanded to call the magicians, and the astrologers, and the sorcerers, and the Chaldeans, for to shew the king his dreams. So they came and stood before the king.

3 And the king said unto them, I have dreamed a dream, and my spirit was troubled to know the dream.

4 Then spake the Chaldeans to the king in Syriac, [d] O king, live for ever: tell thy servants the dream, and we will shew the interpretation.

5 The king answered and said to the Chaldeans, The thing is gone from me: if ye will not make known unto me the dream, with the interpretation thereof, ye shall be [e] cut [f] in pieces, and your houses shall be made a dunghill.

A. M. 3401. B. C. 603. Ol. XLIV. 2. Anno Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. 14.

6 [g] But if ye shew the dream, and the interpretation thereof, ye shall receive of me gifts and [h] rewards and great honour: therefore shew me the dream, and the interpretation thereof.

7 They answered again and said, Let the king tell his servants the dream, and we will shew the interpretation of it.

8 The king answered and said, I know of certainty that ye would [i] gain the time, because ye see the thing is gone from me.

9 But if ye will not make known unto me the dream, [k] there is but one decree for you: for ye have prepared [l] lying and corrupt words to speak before me, till the time be changed: therefore tell me the dream, and I shall know that ye can shew me the interpretation thereof.

10 The Chaldeans answered before the king, and said, There is not a man upon the earth

[a] Gen. 41. 8. ch. 4. 5.——[b] Esth. 6. 1. ch. 6. 18.——[c] Gen. 41. 8. Exod. 7. 11. ch. 5. 7.——[d] 1 Kings 1. 31. ch. 3. 9. & 5. 10. & 6. 6, 21.——[e] Ezra 6. 11. 2 Kings 10. 27. ch. 3. 29.

[f] Chald. made pieces.——[g] Ch. 5. 16.——[h] Or, fee, ch. 5. 17. ver. 48.——[i] Chald. buy. Eph. 5. 16.——[k] Esth. 3. 15. & 4. 11. & 9. 14.——[l] Prov. 6. 17. & 12. 19. & 21. 6. & 26. 28.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. The second year of the reign of Nebuchadnezzar] That is, the second year of his reigning alone, for he was king two years before his father's death. See the Notes on chap. i, 1. This was therefore the fifth year of his reign, and the fourth of the captivity of Daniel.

Nebuchadnezzar dreamed dreams wherewith his spirit was troubled] The dream had made a deep and solemn impression upon his mind; and, having forgotten all but general circumstances, his mind was distressed.

Verse 2. The magicians] חרטמים charetummim. See the Note on Gen. xli, 8.

The astrologers] אשפים ashaphim. Perhaps from נשף nashaph, to breathe, because they laid claim to Divine inspiration: but probably the persons in question were the philosophers and astronomers among the Babylonians.

The sorcerers] מכשפים mecashaphim. See the Note on Deut. xviii, 10, and on Exod. xxii, 18, and Lev. xix, 31, where several of these arts are explained.

The Chaldeans] Who these were is difficult to be ascertained. They might be a college of learned men, where all arts and sciences were professed and taught. The Chaldeans were the most ancient philosophers of the world: they might have been originally inhabitants of the Babylonian Irak; and still have preserved to themselves exclusively, the name of Chaldeans, to distinguish themselves from other nations and peoples, who inhabited the one hundred and twenty provinces, of which the Babylonish government was composed.

Verse 4. Then spake the Chaldeans to the king in Syriac] ארמית aramith, the language of Aram or Syria. What has been generally called the Chaldee.

O king, live for ever] מלכא לעלמין חיי Malka le-âlamin cheyi. With these words the Chaldee part of Daniel commences; and continues to the end of the seventh chapter.

Verse 5. Ye shall be cut in pieces] This was arbitrary and tyrannical in the extreme: but, in the order of God's Providence, it was overruled to serve the most important purpose.

Verse 8. That ye would gain the time] The king means either that they wished to prolong the time that he might recollect it, or get indifferent about it; or that they might invent something in the place of it; or make their escape to save their lives, after having packed up their valuables. See ver. 9.

Verse 10. There is not a man upon the earth] The thing is utterly impossible to man. This was their decision: and when Daniel gave the dream, with its interpretation, they that can shew the king's matter: therefore there is no king, lord, nor ruler, that asked such things at any magician, or astrologer, or Chaldean.

A. M. 3401. B. C. 603. Ol. XLIV. 2. Anno Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. 14.

11 And it is a rare thing that the king requireth, and there is none other that can shew it before the king, [a] except the gods, whose dwelling is not with flesh.

12 For this cause the king was angry and very furious, and commanded to destroy all the wise men of Babylon.

13 And the decree went forth that the wise men should be slain; and they sought Daniel and his fellows to be slain.

14 Then Daniel [b] answered with counsel and wisdom to Arioch the [c] captain [d] of the king's guard, which was gone forth to slay the wise men of Babylon:

15 He answered and said to Arioch the king's captain, Why is the decree so hasty from the king? Then Arioch made the thing known to Daniel.

16 Then Daniel went in, and desired of the king that he would give him time, and that he would shew the king the interpretation.

17 Then Daniel went to his house, and made the thing known to Hananiah, Mishael, and Azariah, his companions:

18 [e] That they would desire mercies [f] of the God of heaven concerning this secret; [g] that Daniel and his fellows should not perish with the rest of the wise men of Babylon.

A. M. 3401. B. C. 603. Ol. XLIV. 2. Anno Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. 14.

19 Then was the secret revealed unto Daniel [h] in a night vision. Then Daniel blessed the God of heaven.

20 Daniel answered and said, [i] Blessed be the name of God for ever and ever: [k] for wisdom and might are his:

21 And he changeth [l] the times and the seasons: [m] he removeth kings, and setteth up kings: [n] he giveth wisdom unto the wise, and knowledge to them that know understanding:

22 [o] He revealeth the deep and secret things: [p] he knoweth what is in the darkness, and [q] the light dwelleth with him.

23 I thank thee, and praise thee, O thou God of my fathers, who hast given me wisdom and might, and hast made known unto me now what we [r] desired of thee: for thou hast now made known unto us the king's matter.

24 Therefore Daniel went in unto Arioch, whom the king had ordained to destroy the wise men of Babylon: he went and said thus unto him; Destroy not the wise men of Babylon: bring me in before the king, and I will shew unto the king the interpretation.

25 Then Arioch brought in Daniel before the

---

[a] Ver. 28. ch. 5. 11.——[b] Chald. returned.——[c] Or, chief marshal.——[d] Chald. chief of the executioners, or, slaughtermen, Gen. 37. 36.——[e] Matt. 18. 12.——[f] Chald. from before God.——[g] Or, that they should not destroy Daniel, &c.——[h] Numb. 12. 6. Job 33. 15, 16.

[i] Psa. 113. 2. & 115. 18.——[k] Jer. 32. 19.——[l] Esth. 1. 13. 1 Chron. 29. 30. ch. 7. 25. & 11. 6.——[m] Job 12. 18. Psa. 75. 6, 7. Jer. 27. 5. ch. 4. 17.——[n] Jam. 1. 5.——[o] Job 12. 22. Psa. 25. 14. ver. 28, 29.——[p] Psa. 139. 11, 12. Heb. 4. 13.——[q] Ch. 5. 11, 14. Jam. 1. 17.——[r] Ver. 18.

---

knew that the spirit of the holy gods was in him. So, even according to their own theology, he was immeasurably greater than the wisest in Babylon, or in the world.

Verse 13. They sought Daniel and his fellows] As the decree stated that all the wise men of Babylon should be slain, the four young Hebrews, being reputed among the wisest, were considered as sentenced to death also.

Verse 16. That he would give him time] That is, that he might seek unto God for a revelation of the thing. The Chaldeans dared not even to promise this; they would only pledge themselves for the interpretation, provided the king would furnish the dream. Daniel engages to find both the lost dream, and to give the proper interpretation.

Verse 18. That they would desire mercies] For this, Daniel had requested a little time; and doubtless both he and his three companions prayed incessantly till God gave the wished for revelation: but whether it was given that same night, we do not know.

Verse 19. Then was the secret revealed—in a night vision] Daniel either dreamed it, or it was represented to his mind by an immediate inspiration.

Verse 20. Wisdom and might are his] He knows all things; and can do all things.

Verse 21. He changeth the times] Time, duration, succession, are His, and under His dominion. It is in the course of His providence, that one king is put down, and another raised up; and, therefore, He can distinctly tell what He has purposed to do in the great empires of the earth.

Verse 23. I thank thee, and praise thee] No wonder he should feel gratitude, when God by this merciful interference had saved both the life of him and his fellows; and was about to reflect the highest credit on the God of the Jews, and on the people themselves.

Verse 24. Destroy not the wise men] The decree was suspended, till it should be seen whether Daniel could tell the dream, and give its interpretation.

A. M. 3401. B. C. 603. Ol. XLIV. 2. Anno Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. 14.

king in haste, and said thus unto him, [a] I have found a man of the [b] captives of Judah, that will make known unto the king the interpretation.

26 The king answered and said to Daniel, whose name was Belteshazzar, Art thou able to make known unto me the dream which I have seen, and the interpretation thereof?

27 Daniel answered in the presence of the king, and said, The secret which the king hath demanded cannot the wise men, the astrologers, the magicians, the soothsayers, shew unto the king;

28 [c] But there is a God in heaven that revealeth secrets, and [d] maketh known to the king Nebuchadnezzar [e] what shall be in the latter days. Thy dream, and the visions of thy head upon thy bed, are these;

29 As for thee, O king, thy thoughts [f] came into thy mind upon thy bed, what should come to pass hereafter: [g] and he that revealeth secrets maketh known to thee what shall come to pass

30 [h] But as for me, this secret is not revealed to me for any wisdom that I have more than any living, [i] but for their sakes that shall make known the interpretation to the king, [k] and that thou mightest know the thoughts of thy heart.

A. M. 3401. B. C. 603. Ol. XLIV. 2. Anno Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. 14.

31 Thou, O king, [l] sawest, and behold a great image. This great image, whose brightness was excellent, stood before thee; and the form thereof was terrible.

32 [m] This image's head was of fine gold, his breast and his arms of silver, his belly and his [n] thighs of brass, 33 His legs of iron, his feet part of iron and part of clay.

34 Thou sawest till that a stone was cut out [o] without [p] hands, which smote the image upon his feet that were of iron and clay, and brake them to pieces.

35 Then was the iron, the clay, the brass, the silver, and the gold, broken to pieces together, and became [q] like the chaff of the summer threshing-floors; and the wind carried them away, that [r] no place was found for them: and the stone that smote the image [s] became a great mountain, [t] and filled the whole earth.

36 This is the dream; and we will tell the interpretation thereof before the king.

37 [u] Thou, O king, art a king of kings: [x] for the God of heaven hath given thee a kingdom, power, and strength, and glory.

---

[a] Chald. That I have found.——[b] Chald. children of the captivity of Judah.——[c] Gen. 40. 8. & 41. 16. ver. 18, 47. Amos 4. 13.——[d] Chald. hath made known.——[e] Gen. 49. 1.——[f] Chald. came up.——[g] Ver. 22. & 28.——[h] So Gen. 41. 16. Acts 3. 12.——[i] Or, but for the intent that the interpretation may be made known to the king.

[k] Ver. 47.——[l] Chald. wast seeing.——[m] See ver. 38, &c.——[n] Or, sides.——[o] Or, which was not in hands: as ver. 45.——[p] Ch. 8. 25. Zech. 4. 6. 2 Cor. 5. 1. Heb. 9. 24.——[q] Psa. 1. 4. Hos. 13. 3.——[r] Psa. 37. 10, 36.——[s] Isa. 2. 2, 3.——[t] Psa. 80. 9.——[u] Ezra 7. 12. Isa. 47. 5. Jer. 27. 6, 7. Ezek. 26. 7. Hos. 8. 10.——[x] Ezra 1. 2.

Verse 27. Cannot the wise men] Cannot your own able men, aided by your gods, tell you the secret?—This question was necessary, in order that the king might see the foolishness of depending on the one, or worshipping the other.

The soothsayers] One of our old words—The tellers of truth: but גזרין gazerin, is the name of another class of those curious artists, unless we suppose it to mean the same as the CHALDEANS, ver. 2, They are supposed to be persons who divined by numbers, amulets, &c. There are many conjectures about them, which, whatever learning they shew, cast little light upon this place.

Verse 28. There is a God in heaven] To distinguish Him from those idols, the works of men's hands; and from the false gods in which the Chaldeans trusted.

In the latter days] A phrase which, in the prophets, generally means the times of the Messiah. God is about to shew what shall take place from this time to the latest ages of the world. And the vision most certainly contains a very extensive and consecutive prophecy; which I shall treat more largely at the close of the Chapter, giving in the mean time a short exposition.

Verse 31. A great image] Representing the four great monarchies.

Verse 32. Head was of fine gold] The Babylonish empire, the first and greatest.

Breast and his arms of silver] The Medo-Persian empire, under Cyrus, &c.

His belly and his thighs of brass] The Macedonian empire, under Alexander the Great, and his successors.

Verse 33. His legs of iron] The Roman government.

His feet part of iron and part of clay.] The same, mixed with the barbaric nations, and divided into ten kingdoms. See at the end of the Chapter.

Verse 34. A stone was cut out] The fifth monarchy; the spiritual kingdom of the Lord Jesus, which is to last for ever, and diffuse itself over the whole earth.

Verse 35. The stone—became a great mountain] There is the kingdom of the stone, and the kingdom of the mountain. See at the end of the Chapter.

Verse 37. The God of heaven] Not given by thy own gods, nor acquired by thy own skill and prowess; it is a Divine gift.

A. M. 3401. B. C. 603. Ol. XLIV. 2. Anno Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. 14.

38 [a] And wheresoever the children of men dwell, the beasts of the field and the fowls of the heaven hath he given into thine hand, and hath made thee ruler over them all. [b] Thou art this head of gold.

39 And after thee shall arise [c] another kingdom [d] inferior to thee, and another third kingdom of brass, [e] which shall bear rule over all the earth.

40 And [f] the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron: forasmuch as iron breaketh in pieces, and subdueth all things: and as iron that breaketh all these, shall it break in pieces and bruise.

41 And whereas thou sawest [g] the feet and toes, part of potters' clay, and part of iron, the kingdom shall be divided; but there shall be in it of the strength of the iron, forasmuch as thou sawest the iron mixed with miry clay.

42 And as the toes of the feet were part of iron, and part of clay, so the kingdom shall be partly strong, and partly [h] broken.

43 And whereas thou sawest iron mixed with miry clay, they shall mingle themselves with the seed of men: but they shall not cleave [i] one to another, even as iron is not mixed with clay.

44 And in [k] the days of these kings [l] shall the God of heaven set up a kingdom, [m] which shall never be destroyed: and the [n] kingdom shall not be left to other people, [o] but it shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms, and it shall stand for ever.

A. M. 3401. B. C. 603. Ol. XLIV. 2. Anno Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. 14.

45 [p] Forasmuch as thou sawest that the stone was cut out of the mountain [q] without hands, and that it brake in pieces the iron, the brass, the clay, the silver, and the gold; the great God hath made known to the king what shall come to pass [r] hereafter: and the dream is certain, and the interpretation thereof sure.

46 [s] Then the king Nebuchadnezzar fell upon his face, and worshipped Daniel, and commanded that they should offer an oblation [t] and sweet odours unto him.

47 The king answered unto Daniel, and said, Of a truth it is, that your God is a God of gods, and a Lord of kings, [u] and a revealer of secrets, seeing thou couldest reveal this secret.

48 Then the king made Daniel a great man, [x] and gave him many great gifts, and made him ruler over the whole province of Babylon, and [y] chief of the governors over all the wise men of Babylon.

49 Then Daniel requested of the king, [z] and he set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, over the affairs of the province of Babylon: but Daniel [a] sat in the gate of the king.

---

[a] Ch. 4. 21, 22. Jer. 27. 6.——[b] Ver. 32.——[c] Ch. 5. 28, 31.——[d] Ver. 32.——[e] 1 Mac. 1. 3.——[f] Ch. 7. 7, 23.——[g] Ver. 33.——[h] Or, brittle.——[i] Chald. this with this.——[k] Chald. their days.——[l] Ver. 28.——[m] Ch. 4. 3, 34. & 6. 26. & 7. 14, 27. Mic. 4. 7. Luke 1. 32, 33.

[n] Chald. kingdom thereof.——[o] Psa. 2. 9. Isa. 60. 12. 1 Cor. 15. 24.——[p] Ver. 35. Isa. 28. 16.——[q] Or, which was not in hand.——[r] Chald. after this.——[s] See Acts 10. 25. & 14. 13. & 28. 6.——[t] Ezra 6. 10.——[u] Ver. 28.——[x] Ver. 6.——[y] Ch. 4. 9. & 5. 11.——[z] Ch. 3. 12.——[a] Esth. 2. 19, 21. & 3. 2.

Power] To rule this kingdom.

And strength] To defend it against all foes.

And glory.] Great honour and dignity.

Verse 38. Thou art this head of gold] See on ver. 31—34, and at the end.

Verse 44. A kingdom which shall never be destroyed] The extensive and extending empire of Christ.

Shall not be left to other people] All the preceding empires have swallowed up each other successively: but this shall remain to the end of the world.

Verse 45. The dream is certain] It contains a just representation of things as they shall be.

And the interpretation thereof sure.] The parts of the dream being truly explained.

Verse 46. The king—fell upon his face] Prostrated himself; this was the fullest act of adoration among the ancients.

Worshipped Daniel] Supposing him to be a god, or divine being. No doubt Daniel forbad him: for to receive this would have been gross idolatry.

Verse 47. Your God is a God of gods] He is greater than all others.

And a Lord of kings] He governs both in heaven and earth.

Verse 48. Made Daniel a great man] By, 1. Giving him many rich gifts. 2. By making him governor over the whole province of Babylon. And, 3. By making him the chief or president over all the wise men.

Verse 49. Daniel requested of the king, and he set Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, over the affairs of the province of Babylon] He wished his three companions promoted, who had shared his anxieties, and helped him by their prayers. They all had places of trust, in which they could do much good, and prevent much evil.

Daniel sat in the gate of the king.] That is, was the chief officer in the palace; and the greatest confidant and counsellor of the king. But whatever his influence and that of his friends was, it extended only over the province of Babylon; not through the empire.

A DISCOURSE on Nebuchadnezzar's Dream, chap. ii, 41—45.

I shall now consider this most important vision more at large, and connect it with a portion of the previous history of the Jewish people.

The kingdoms of Israel and Judah after a series of the most unparalleled ingratitude and rebellion, against displays of mercy and benevolence, only equalled by their rebellions, were at last, according to repeated threatenings, given over into the hands of their enemies. The inhabitants of the former country were subdued and carried away captives by the Assyrians; and those of the latter, by the Chaldeans.

The people of Israel never recovered their ancient territories; and were so disposed of by their conquerors, that they either became amalgamated with the heathen nations, so as to be utterly undistinguishable; or they were transported to some foreign and recluse place of settlement, that the land of their residence, though repeatedly sought for and guessed at, has for more than two thousand years been totally unknown.

Judah, after having been harassed by the Chaldeans, Egyptians, and others, was at last invaded by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon; Jerusalem besieged and taken; and Jehoiachin the king, who had before become tributary to the Babylonians, with his mother, wives, officers of state, and chief military commanders, princes, and mighty men of valour, to the amount of ten thousand; and all the artificers, smiths, &c., to the number of one thousand, with all that were fit for war, he carried captives to Babylon; leaving only the poorest of the people behind, under the government of Mattaniah, son of the late king Josiah, and uncle to Jehoiachin; and, having changed his name to Zedekiah, gave him a nominal authority as king over the wretched remains of the people. Zedekiah, after having reigned nine years, rebelled against Nebuchadnezzar, who, coming against Jerusalem with all his forces, besieged it; and having reduced it to the last extremity by famine, and made a breach in the walls, took the city, pillaged and destroyed the Temple by fire, slew the sons of Zedekiah before his face, then put out his eyes, and carried him bound in brazen fetters to Babylon, 2 Kings, chap. xxiv and xxv. Thus, the Temple of GOD, the most glorious building ever laid on the face of the earth, was profaned, pillaged, and burnt, with the king's palace, and all the houses of the Jewish nobility, in the eleventh year of Zedekiah,—the nineteenth of Nebuchadnezzar,—the first of the forty-eighth Olympiad,—the one hundred and sixtieth current year of the æra of Nabonassar,—four hundred and twenty-four years, three months, and eight days, from the time in which Solomon laid its foundation stone!

In the same month in which the city was taken, and the Temple burnt, Nebuzar-adan, commander in chief of the Babylonish forces, carried off the spoils of the Temple, with the Jewish treasures, and the principal part of the residue of the people; and brought them also to Babylon. And thus Judah was carried away out of her own land, four hundred and sixty-eight years after David began to reign over it; from the division under Rehoboam, three hundred and eighty-eight years; from the destruction of the kingdom of Israel, one hundred and thirty-four years; in the year of the world three thousand four hundred and sixteen; and before the Nativity of our Lord, five hundred and eighty-eight.

In the fourth year of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, A. M. 3397, B. C. 607, Nebuchadnezzar, having besieged Jerusalem, and made its king tributary, carried away a number of captives; and among them was the prophet Daniel, then in his youth, who became, for his wisdom, and knowledge of future events, very eminent at Babylon; and, with some other Jewish captives, great favourites of Nebuchadnezzar, the king; who made Daniel president of all the wise men of his city. It was in the second year of the reign of this king, that a circumstance occurred, which, though at first it threatened the destruction of the prophet, finally issued in the increase of his reputation and celebrity.

As prophecy is one of the strongest proofs of the authenticity of what professes to be a Divine Revelation, God endued this man with a large portion of His Spirit, so that he clearly predicted some of the most astonishing political occurrences and changes which have ever taken place on the earth: no less than the rise, distinguishing characteristics, and termination, of the FOUR great monarchies, or empires, which have been so celebrated in all the histories of the world. And as the Babylonian, under which he then lived, was one of these monarchies, and was shortly to be absorbed by the Medo-Persian, which was to succeed it; he made Nebuchadnezzar, the then reigning monarch, by means of a most singular dream, the particulars of which he had forgotten, the instrument that appeared to give birth to a prediction, in which the ruin of his own empire was foretold; as well as other mighty changes which should take place in the political state of the world, for at least the term of one thousand years next ensuing. Nor did the prophetic spirit in this eminent man limit his predictions with these; but shewed at the same time the origin and nature of that FIFTH monarchy, which, under the great King of kings, should be administered, and prevail to the end of time.

The dream itself, with its interpretation, and the exact and impressive manner in which the predictions relative to the four great monarchies have been fulfilled, and those which regard the fifth monarchy are in the course of being accomplished, are the subjects to which I wish to call the reader's most serious and deliberate attention.

This image, so circumstantially described from the thirty-eighth to the forty-fourth verse, was, as we learn from the prophet's general solution, intended to point out the rise and fall of four different empires and states; and the final prevalence and establishment of a fifth empire, that shall never have an end, and which shall commence in the last days, ver. 28; a phrase commonly used in the Prophets to signify the times of the Messiah, and in the New Testament, His advent to judge the world.

Before we proceed to particular parts, we may remark in general, that the whole account strongly indicates:—

1. The especial providence of God in behalf of the Jews at that time. For, although suffering grievously because of their sins, being deprived of both their political and personal liberty, God shews them that He has not abandoned them; and the existence of a prophet among them is a proof of His fatherly care and unremitted attention to their eternal welfare.

2. The particular interference of God to manifest the superiority of His truth, to wean an idolatrous nation from their vanity and superstition, and lead them to that God who is the Fountain of truth, the Revealer of secrets, and the Governor of all things.

And, 3. The direct inspiration of God immediately teaching His servant things which could be known only to God Himself. And thus shewing the Babylonians, that His prophets had spoken by an unerring Spirit; that the Jews were the depositaries of true religion; that He was the only true God; and as He was omniscient, so He was omnipotent; and the things which His wisdom had predicted, His power could and would accomplish.

The sum of the account given in this Chapter is the following:—

1. Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, in the second year of his reign, about A. M. 3401, and B. C. 603, had a remarkable dream, which, although it made a deep impression on his mind; yet, on his awaking, he found it impossible to recollect; the general impression only remaining.

2. He summoned his wise men, astrologers, &c., told them that he had a dream or vision, which he had forgotten; and commanded them to tell him the dream, and its interpretation.

3. They request the king to tell them the dream; and promise, then, to make known the meaning. This he could not do, having forgotten it; yet he insists on their compliance on pain of death.

4. To tell the king his dream they find impossible; and a decree for the destruction of the wise men of Babylon is issued, in which Daniel and his fellows are involved.

5. Daniel, hearing of it, speaks to Arioch, captain of the king's guard; desires to be brought before the king; and promises to tell the dream, &c.

6. He is introduced; and immediately tells the king what he had dreamed, and shews him its interpretation.

THE DREAM.

A vast image, exceedingly luminous, of terrible form, and composed of different substances, appears in a night vision to the king, of which the following is the description.

I. The head was of fine gold.

II. His breast and arms of silver.

III. His belly and thighs of brass.

IV. His legs of iron, and his feet and toes of iron and clay. While gazing on this image he sees,—

V. A stone cut out of a mountain without hands, which smites the image on its feet, and dashes it all to pieces; and the gold, and silver, brass, iron, and clay, become as small and as light as chaff.

VI. A wind carries the whole away, so that no place is found for them.

VII. The stone becomes a great mountain, and fills the earth.

In order to explain this, certain DATA must be laid down.

1. This image is considered a political representation of as many different governments, as it was composed of materials; and as all these materials are successively inferior to each other, so are the governments in a descending ratio.

2. The human figure has been used, both by historians and geographers, to represent the rise, progress, establishment, and decay of empires, as well as the relative situation and importance of the different parts of the government. Thus Florus, in the proœmium to his Roman history, represents the Romans under the form of a human being, in its different stages, from infancy to old age, viz.

Si quis ergo populum Romanum quasi hominem consideret, totamque ejus ætatem percenseat, ut CŒPERIT, utque ADOLEVERIT, ut quasi ad quemdam JUVENTÆ florem pervenerit; ut postea velut CONSENUERIT, quatuor gradus progressusque ejus inveniet.

1. Prima ætas sub Regibus fuit, prope ducentos quinquaginta per annos, quibus circum ipsam matrem suam cum finitimis luctatus est. Hœc erit ejus INFANTIA.

2. Sequens à Bruto, Collatinoque consulibus, in Appium Claudium, Quinctiumque Fulvium consules, ducentos quinquaginta annos habet, quibus Italiam subegit. Hoc fuit tempus viris armisque exercitatissimum: ideo quis ADOLESCENTIAM dixerit.

3. Dehinc ad Cæsarem Augustum, ducenti quinquaginta anni, quibus totum orbem pacavit. Hîc jam ipsa JUVENTA Imperii, et quasi quædam robusta MATURITAS.

4. A Cæsare Augusto in sæculum nostrum, sunt non multò minus anni ducenti, quibus inertia Cæsarum quasi CONSENUIT atque DECOXIT. L. An. Flori PROŒM.

1. INFANCY; first stage—under KINGS, from Romulus to Tarquinus Superbus; about two hundred and fifty years.

2. YOUTH; second stage—under CONSULS, from Brutus and Collatinus to Appius Claudius and M. Fulvius; about two hundred and fifty years.

3. MANHOOD; third stage—the empire from the conquest of Italy to Cæsar Augustus; about two hundred and fifty years.

4. OLD AGE; fourth stage—from Augustus, through the twelve Cæsars, down to A. D. 200; about two hundred years.

Geographers have made similar representations. The Germanic empire, in the totality of its dependant states, has been represented by a map, in the form of a man; different parts being pointed out by head, breast, arms, belly, thighs, legs, feet, &c., according to their geographical and political relation to the empire in general.

3. Different metals are used to express different degrees of political strength, excellence, durability, &c.

4. Clay, earth, dust, are emblems of weakness, instability, &c.

5. Mountains express, in Scripture, mighty empires, kingdoms, and states.

6. Stone signifies Jesus Christ, Gen. xlix, 24. From thence (of the posterity of Jacob) is the Shepherd, the Stone of Israel. That our blessed Lord, the good Shepherd,

John x, 11—17, is here intended, will appear most plainly from the following passages; Isa. viii, 14, And he shall be for a sanctuary; but for a STONE of stumbling and for a ROCK of offence to both the houses of Israel. Isa. xxviii, 16, Thus saith the Lord God, Behold, I lay in Zion for a foundation, a STONE, a tried stone, a precious corner STONE, a sure foundation: he that believeth shall not make haste. 1 Peter ii, 4, 6, 8. Collate these with Psa. cxviii, 22, The STONE which the builders refused is become the head STONE of the corner. Matt. xxi, 42. Mark xii, 10. Luke xx, 17. Acts iv, 11, in which latter quotations the whole is positively applied to Christ: as also 1 Peter ii, 4—8, To whom coming as unto a living STONE, &c.; who seems to have all the preceding passages in view. See also Isa. ii, 2, The mountain of the Lord's house shall be established in the top of the mountains, &c.

7. Without hands, signifies that which is spiritual. So 2 Cor. v, 1, A house not made with hands, means a spiritual building.

EXPLANATION.

The Chaldean empire, called the Assyrian in its commencement, the Chaldean from the country, the Babylonish from its chief city.

I. HEAD OF GOLD. This was the first monarchy, begun by Nimrod, A. M. 1771, B. C. 2233; and ended with the death of Belshazzar, A. M. 3466, B. C. 538, after having lasted nearly seventeen hundred years. In the time of Nebuchadnezzar, it extended over Chaldea, Assyria, Arabia, Syria, and Palestine. HE was the head of gold.

II. BREAST AND ARMS OF SILVER. The Medo-Persian empire; which properly began under Darius the Mede, allowing him to be the same with Cyaxares, son of Astyages, and uncle to Cyrus, the great son of Cambyses. He first fought under his uncle Cyaxares; defeated Neriglissar, king of the Assyrians, and Crœsus, king of the Lydians; and by the capture of Babylon, B. C. 538, he terminated the Chaldean empire. On the death of his father Cambyses, and his uncle Cyaxares, B. C. 536, he became sole governor of the Medes and Persians; and thus established a potent empire on the ruins of that of the Chaldeans.

III. BELLY AND THIGHS OF BRASS. The Macedonian or Greek empire, founded by Alexander the Great. He subdued Greece, penetrated into Asia, took Tyre, reduced Egypt, overthrew Darius Codomanus, at Arbela, Oct. 2, A. M. 3673, B. C. 331; and thus terminated the Persian monarchy. He crossed the Caucasus, subdued Hyrcania, and penetrated India as far as the Ganges; and having conquered all the countries that lay between the Adriatic sea and this river, the Ganges, he died A. M. 3681, B. C. 323; and after his death his empire became divided among his generals, Cassander, Lysimachus, Ptolemy, and Seleucus. CASSANDER had Macedon and Greece; LYSIMACHUS had Thrace, and those parts of Asia which lay on the Hellespont and Bosphorus; PTOLEMY had Egypt, Libya, Arabia, Palestine, and Cœlosyria; SELEUCUS had Babylon, Media, Susiana, Persia, Assyria, Bactria, Hyrcania, and all other provinces, even to the Ganges. Thus this empire, founded on the ruin of that of the Persians, had rule over all the earth.

IV. LEGS OF IRON, AND FEET AND TOES OF IRON AND CLAY. I think this means, in the first place, the kingdom of the LAGIDÆ, in Egypt: and the kingdom of the SELEUCIDÆ, in Syria. And, secondly, the ROMAN empire, which was properly composed of them.

1. PTOLEMY LAGUS, one of Alexander's generals, began the new kingdom of Egypt, A. M. 3692, B. C. 312; which was continued through a long race of sovereigns, till A. M. 3974, B. C. 30; when Octavius Cæsar took Alexandria, having in the preceding year defeated Anthony and Cleopatra at the battle of Actium, and so Egypt became a Roman province. Thus ended the kingdom of the Lagidæ, after it had lasted two hundred and eighty-two years.

2. SELEUCUS NICATOR, another of Alexander's generals, began the new kingdom of Syria, A. M. 3692, B. C. 312; which continued through a long race of sovereigns, till A. M. 3939, B. C. 65, when Pompey dethroned Antiochus Asiaticus; and Syria became a Roman province, after it had lasted two hundred and forty-seven years.

That the two legs of iron meant the kingdom of the Lagidæ and that of the Seleucidæ seems strongly intimated by the characters given in the Text. And the fourth kingdom shall be strong as iron. Forasmuch as iron breaketh in pieces and subdueth all things; and as iron that breaketh all these, shall it break in pieces and bruise, ver. 40. 1. The iron here not only marks the strength of these kingdoms, but also their violence and cruelty towards the people of God. History is full of the miseries which the kings of Egypt and Syria inflicted on the Jews. 2. It is said that these legs should break in pieces and bruise. How many generals and princes were destroyed by Seleucus Nicator, and by Ptolemy, son of Lagus? Seleucus, particularly, could not consider himself secure on his throne, till he had destroyed Antigonus, Nicanor, and Demetrius: and Ptolemy endeavoured to secure himself by the ruin of Perdiccas, and the rest of his enemies. 3. The dividing of the kingdom, the iron and clayey mixture of the feet, point out the continual divisions which prevailed in those empires; and the mixture of the good and evil qualities which appeared in the successors of Seleucus and Ptolemy: none of them possessing the good qualities of the founders of those monarchies; neither their valour, wisdom, nor prudence. 4. The efforts which these princes made to strengthen their respective governments by alliances, which all proved not only useless, but injurious, are here pointed out by their mingling themselves with the seed of men. But they shall not cleave one to another, ver. 43. Antiochus Theos, king of Syria, married both Laodice, and Berenice, daughters of Ptolemy Philadelphus, king of Egypt. Antiochus Magnus, king of Syria, gave his daughter Cleopatra to Ptolemy Epiphanes, king of Egypt: but these marriages, instead of being the means of consolidating the union between those kingdoms, contributed more than any thing else to divide them, and excite the most bloody and destructive wars.

In chap. vii, 7, the prophet, having the same subject in view, says, I saw in the night visions, and behold a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible, and strong exceedingly; and it had great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with the feet of it: and in chap. viii, 22. Now that being broken, (the horn of the rough goat, the Grecian monarchy,) whereas four stood up for it, four kingdoms shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power. These, and other declarations, point out those peculiar circumstances, that distinctly mark the kingdom of the Seleucidæ, and that of the Lagidæ: both of which rose out of the Macedonian or Grecian empire, and both terminated in that of the Romans.

2. These TWO LEGS OF IRON became absorbed in the Roman government, which also partook of the iron nature; strong, military, and extensive in its victories: and by its various conquests united to and amalgamated with itself various nations, some strong, and some weak; so as to be fitly represented in the symbolical image by feet and toes, partly of iron, and partly of clay. Thus, as the Lagidæ and Seleucidæ arose out of the wreck of the Grecian empire; so the Roman empire arose out of their ruin. But the empire became weakened by its conquests; and although by mingling themselves with the seed of men, that is, by strong leagues and matrimonial alliances as mentioned above, they endeavoured to secure a perpetual sovereignty, yet they did not cleave to each other, and they also were swallowed up by the barbarous northern nations;—and thus terminated those four most powerful monarchies.

V. A stone cut out of the mountain without hands.

1. That Jesus Christ has been represented by a stone we have already seen: but this stone refers chiefly to His church, which is represented as a spiritual building, which He supports as a foundation stone; connects and strengthens as a corner stone; and finishes and adorns, as a top stone. He is called a stone also, in reference to the prejudice conceived against Him by His countrymen. Because He did not come in worldly pomp, they therefore refused to receive Him; and to them He is represented as a stone of stumbling, and rock of offence.

2. But here He is represented under another notion, viz. that of a stone projected from a catapult, or some military engine, which smote the image on its feet; that is, it smote the then existing government at its foundation, or principles of support; and, by destroying these, brought the whole into ruin.

3. By this stroke the clay, the iron, the brass, the silver, and the gold, were broken to pieces, and became like chaff which the wind carried away. Now, we have already seen that the Roman empire, which had absorbed the kingdoms of the Lagidæ and Seleucidæ, was represented by the legs of iron, and feet and toes of iron and clay: but, as we find that not only the iron and clay, but also the brass, silver, and gold, were confounded and destroyed by that stroke, it follows that there was then remaining in, and compacted with the Roman government, something of the distinguishing marks and principles of all the preceding empires; not only as to their territorial possessions, but also as to their distinctive characteristics. There were at the time here referred to, in the Roman empire, the splendour of the CHALDEANS, the riches of the PERSIANS, the discipline of the GREEKS, and the strength of the EGYPTIAN and SYRIAN governments, mingled with the incoherence and imbecility of those empires, kingdoms, and states, which the Romans had subdued. In short, with every political excellence, it contained the principles of its own destruction; and its persecution of the church of Christ accelerated its ruin.

4. As the stone represents Christ and His governing influence, it is here said to be a kingdom, that is, a state of prevailing rule and government; and was to arise in the days of those kings or kingdoms, ver. 44. And this is literally true; for its rise was when the Roman government, partaking of all the characteristics of the preceding empires, was at its zenith of imperial splendour, military glory, legislative authority, and literary eminence. It took place a few years after the battle of Actium, and when Rome was at peace with the whole world, September 2, B. C. 31.

5. This stone, or government, was cut out of the mountain; arose in, and under, the Roman government; Judea being, at the time of the birth of Christ, a Roman province.

6. It was cut out without hands: probably alluding to the miraculous birth of our Lord; but particularly to the spiritual nature of His kingdom and government, in which no worldly policy, human maxims, or military force, were employed; for it was not by might nor power, but by the Spirit of the Lord of hosts.

Two things may be here distinguished,—1. The government, or kingdom, of the STONE. 2. The government, or kingdom, of the MOUNTAIN.

1. The kingdom of the STONE smites, breaks to pieces, and destroys, all the other kingdoms, till no vestige of them remains; and till the whole earth is subdued by it.

2. The kingdom of the MOUNTAIN fills, and continues to govern, all that has been thus subdued; maintaining endless peace and righteousness in the earth.

First, The stone began to strike the image, when the apostles went out into every part of the Roman empire, pulling down idolatry, and founding Christian churches.

Secondly, But the great blow was given to the Heathen Roman empire by the conversion of Constantine, just at the time when it was an epitome of the four great monarchies, being under the government of FOUR EMPERORS at once, A. D. 308:—CONSTANTIUS, who governed Gaul, Spain, and Britain; GALERIUS, who had Illyricum, Thrace, and Asia; SEVERUS, who had Italy and Africa; and MAXIMIN, who had the East and Egypt.

1. The conversion of Constantine took place while he was in Gaul, A. D. 312, by the appearance of a luminous cross in the sky above the sun, a little after noon day, with this inscription, Εν τουτῳ νικα,—By this conquer. Euseb. De Vit. Const. lib. i, cap. 28. In A. D. 324 he totally defeated Licinius, who had shared the empire with him, and became sole emperor. He terminated the reign of idolatry in A. D. 331, by an edict ordering the destruction of all the Heathen temples. This made CHRISTIANITY the religion of the empire.

2. The stroke which thus destroyed idolatry in the Roman empire is continual in its effects; and must be so till idolatry be destroyed over the face of the earth, and the universe filled with the knowledge of Christ.

3. This smiting has been continued by all the means which God in His providence and mercy has used for the dissemination of Christianity, from the time of Constantine to the present: and particularly now, by means of the British and Foreign Bible Society, and its countless ramifications, and by the numerous missionaries sent by Christian societies to almost every part of the globe. Thus far the kingdom of the stone.

In verse 44, the kingdom of the stone, grown into a great mountain and filling the whole earth, is particularly described by various characters.

1. It is a kingdom which the God of heaven sets up. That this means the whole dispensation of the Gospel, and the moral effects produced by it in the souls of men and in the world, needs little proof; for our Lord, referring to this and other prophecies in this Book, calls its influence and His Gospel, the kingdom of God, and the kingdom of heaven; shewing thereby that it is a kingdom not of this world, not raised by human ambition, the lust of rule, or military conquest,—but a spiritual kingdom, raised and maintained by the grace of God Himself, in which He Himself lives and rules, governing by His own laws, influencing and directing by His own Spirit; producing not wars and contentions, but glory to God in the highest; and on earth peace, and good-will among men.

2. This is called the kingdom of heaven, because it is to be a counterpart of the kingdom of glory. The kingdom of God, says the apostle, is righteousness, peace, and joy in the Holy Ghost, (Rom. xiv, 17,) righteousness, without any sin; peace, without inward disturbance; joy, without any mental unhappiness. An eternity of righteousness, peace, and spiritual joy, constitutes HEAVEN; nor can we conceive in that state any thing higher, or more excellent, than these.

3. This kingdom shall never be destroyed: it is the everlasting gospel; and the work of the everlasting GOD. As it neither originates in, nor is dependent on, the passions of men, it cannot be destroyed. All other governments, from the imperfection of their nature, contain in them the seeds of their own destruction. Kings die,—ministers change,—subjects are not permanent; new relations arise, and with them new measures, new passions, and new projects;—and these produce political changes, and often political ruin. But this government, being the government of GOD, cannot be affected by the changes and chances to which mortal things are exposed.

4. This kingdom shall not be left to other people. Every dispensation of God, prior to Christianity, supposed another, by which it was to be succeeded. 1. Holy patriarchs and their families were the first people among whom the kingdom of God was found. 2. Hebrews, in Egypt and in the wilderness, were the next. 3. Jews, in the Promised Land, were a third denomination. 4. And after the division of the kingdoms, captivity, and dispersion, of the Jews,—the Israel of God became a fourth denomination. 5. Under the Gospel, CHRISTIAN is the name of the people of this kingdom. Every thing in the construction of the Gospel system, as well as its own declarations, shew that it is not to be succeeded by any other dispensation: its name can never be changed;—and CHRISTIAN will be the only denomination of the people of God while sun and moon endure. All former empires have changed, and the very names of the people have changed with them. The Assyrians were lost in the Chaldeans and Babylonians; the Babylonians were lost in the Medes; the Medes in the Persians; the Persians in the Greeks; and the Greeks in the Syrians and Egyptians; these, in the Romans; and the Romans in the Goths, and a variety of other nations. Nor does the name of those ancient governments, nor the people who lived under them, remain on the face of the earth in the present day! They are only found in the page of history! This spiritual kingdom shall never be transferred; and the name of its subjects shall never be changed.

5. It shall break in pieces and consume all these kingdoms; that is, the preaching and influence of Christianity shall destroy idolatry universally. They did so in the Roman empire, which was the epitome of all the rest. But this was not done by the sword, nor by any secular influence. Christians wage no wars for the propagation of Christianity; for the religion of Christ breathes nothing but love to God, and peace and good-will to all mankind. The sum of the Gospel is contained in these words of Christ:—God so loved the world that he gave his only begotten Son, that whosoever believeth in him should not perish, but have everlasting life;—for the Son of man is not come to destroy men's lives, but to save.

For His own cause, God fights in the course of His providence. He depresses one, and exalts another: but permits not His own people to join with Him in the infliction of judgments. It is by His own Spirit and energy that His kingdom is propagated and maintained in the world; and by the same His enemies are confounded. All false religions, as well as falsified and corrupted systems of Christianity, have had recourse to the sword, because they were conscious they had NO GOD;—no influence, but what was merely human.

6. The kingdom of Christ breaks in pieces and consumes all other kingdoms; that is, it destroys every thing in every earthly government where it is received, that is opposed to the glory of God, and the peace and happiness of men; and yet in such a way as to leave all political governments unchanged. No law or principle in Christianity is directed against the political code of any country. Britain is Christian without the alteration of her Magna Charta or her Constitution. All the other empires, kingdoms, and states, on the face of the earth may become Christian, and preserve their characteristic forms of political government. If there be in them any thing hostile to Christianity, and the peace and happiness of the subject, the WIND of God—the Divine Spirit, will fan or winnow it away, so that no more place shall be found for it. But this He will do in the way of His ordinary providence; and by His influence on their hearts, dispose truly Christianised rulers to alter or abrogate whatever their laws contain inimical to the mild sway of the sceptre of Christ.

7. And it shall stand for ever. This is its final characteristic. It shall prevail over the whole world,—it shall pervade every government,—it shall be the basis of every code of laws,—it shall be professed by every people of the earth. "The Gentiles shall come to its light, and kings to the brightness of its rising." The whole earth shall be subdued by its influence; and the whole earth filled with its glory.

8. The actual constitution, establishment, and maintenance, of this kingdom, belong to the LORD; yet He will use human means in the whole administration of His government. His WORD must be distributed, and that Word must be PREACHED. Hence, under God, BIBLES and MISSIONARIES are the grand means to be employed in things concerning His kingdom. BIBLES must be printed, sent out, and dispersed; MISSIONARIES must be equipped, sent out, and maintained;—therefore, expenses must necessarily be incurred. Here the people now of the kingdom must be helpers. It is the duty, therefore, of every soul professing Christianity, to lend a helping hand to send forth the Bible; and wherever the Bible is sent, to send a Missionary to enforce its truths.

9. The duration of the kingdom of the mountain upon earth.

The world has now lasted nearly six thousand years; and a very ancient tradition has predicted its termination at the close of this period. Its duration has been divided into three grand periods, each comprising two thousand years, which should be closed by a period without terminating limits;—and these have been supposed to have their types in the six days' work of the creation; and the seventh day, called sabbath, or rest.

1. There have been two thousand years from the creation without any written revelation from God;—this was called the patriarchal dispensation.

2. There have been two thousand years under the Law, where there has been a written revelation, a succession of prophets, and a Divine ecclesiastical establishment. This has been termed the Mosaic dispensation.

3. One thousand eight hundred and twenty-nine years have passed since the true epoch of the nativity of our blessed Lord; and this is called the Gospel, or Christian dispensation, which is now within one hundred and seventy-one years of closing its two thousand!

According to the ancient tradition there were,—1. Two thousand years void; that is, without the law. 2. Two thousand years under the Law. And, 3. Two thousand years under the Messiah. And at the termination of the third the endless sabbath should commence. The comments on this ancient tradition go on to state, that at the termination of each day's work of the creation it was said, The evening and the morning were the first,—second,—third,—fourth,—fifth, and sixth day: but when the sabbath is introduced, and God is said to rest from his work, and to have hallowed this day, there is no mention of the evening and the morning being the seventh day. That is left without termination; and therefore a proper type of the eternal sabbath,—that rest which remains for the people of God.

And are we indeed so near that time when the elements of all things shall be dissolved by fervent heat; when the heavens shall be shrivelled up like a scroll, and the earth and all it contains be burnt up? Is the fifth empire, the kingdom of the stone, and the kingdom of the mountain, so near its termination? Are all vision and prophecy about to be sealed up, and the whole earth to be illuminated with the bright beams of the Sun of righteousness? Are the finally incorrigible and impenitent about to be swept off the face of the earth by the besom of destruction, while the righteous shall be able to lift up their heads with ineffable joy, knowing their final redemption is at hand? Are we so near the eve of that period when they who turn many to righteousness shall shine as the stars for ever and ever? What sort of persons should we then be in all holy conversation and godliness! Where is our zeal for God? Where, the sounding of our bowels over the perishing nations who have not yet come under the yoke of the Gospel? Multitudes of whom are not under the yoke, because they have never heard of it;—and they have not heard of it, because those who enjoy the blessings of the Gospel of Jesus have not felt, (or have not obeyed the feeling,) the imperious duty of dividing their heavenly bread with those who are famishing with hunger! and giving the water of life to those who are dying of thirst! How shall they appear in that great day when the conquests of the Lion of the tribe of Judah are ended;—when the mediatorial kingdom is delivered up unto the Father; and the Judge of quick and dead sits on the great white throne, and to those on his left hand says,—"I was hungry, and ye gave me no meat; I was thirsty, and ye gave me no drink." I say,—How shall they appear who have made no exertions to tell the lost nations of the earth the necessity for preparing to meet their God; and shewing them the means of doing it by affording them the blessings of the Gospel of the grace of God? Let us beware lest the stone that struck the motley image, and dashed it to pieces, fall on us, and grind us to powder!

Bibles are sent out by millions into Heathen countries;—but how shall they hear without a preacher; and how shall they understand the things which they read, unless those who know the things of God teach them? Let us haste, then; and send missionaries after the Bibles! God is mightily at work in the earth: let us be workers together with him, that we receive not the grace of God in vain! He that giveth to those poor, (emphatically POOR, for they are without God in the world, and consequently without the true riches,) lendeth unto the Lord; and let him look what he layeth out, and it shall be paid unto him again. For "he that converteth a sinner from the error of his ways, shall save a soul from death, and hide a multitude of sins." God does not call on us to shake hands with all secular, social, and family comfort; and go to the Heathen with the glad tidings of great joy: but He loudly calls on us to assist in sending those who, in the true spirit of sacrifice, the love of Christ constraining them, say, —Here are we! O Lord, send us. Let these servants of God run to and fro; that, by their ministry, knowledge may be increased. Amen.

CHAPTER III.

Nebuchadnezzar having erected an image, whose height (including probably a very high pedestal) was sixty cubits, and the breadth six, ordered a numerous assembly, which he had convened, to fall down and worship it; threatening, at the same time, that whosoever refused should be cast into a fiery furnace, 1—7; a punishment not uncommon in that country, (see Jer. xxix, 22.) Daniel's three companions, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, who were present, being observed to refrain from this idolatrous worship, were accused before the king; who, in great wrath, commanded them to comply with his orders on pain of death, 8—15. But these holy men, with the greatest composure and serenity, expressed their firm resolution not to worship his gods or his images, whatever might be the consequence, 16—18. Upon which the king, unaccustomed to have his will opposed, in the height of his wrath, ordered the furnace to be made seven times hotter than usual; and these men to be cast into it, bound, by the most mighty of his army, who were killed by the flame in the execution of this service, 19—23. On this occasion God literally performed His promise by Isaiah (chap. xliii, 2,) "When thou walkest through the fire, thou shalt not be burnt; neither shall the flame kindle upon thee;" for an angel of God, appearing in the furnace, protected these young men, and counteracted the natural violence of the fire; which, only consuming the cords with which they were bound, left them to walk at liberty, and in perfect safety, in the midst of the furnace. The king, astonished at this prodigy, called to them to come out of the furnace, and blessed God for sending an angel to deliver His servants; and commanded all his subjects, upon pain of death, not to speak irreverently of the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, who were promoted to great power and honour, 24—30. A striking example of the interposition of Providence in favour of true and inflexible piety.

A. M. cir. 3424. B. C. cir. 580. Ol. cir. L. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 37.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king made [a] an image of gold, whose height was threescore cubits, and the breadth thereof six cubits: he set it up in the plain of Dura, in the [b] province of Babylon.

2 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king sent to gather together the princes,

A. M. cir. 3424. B. C. cir. 580. Ol. cir. L. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 37.

[a] Ver. 5, 7, 10, 12, 14.

[b] Ch. 2. 48.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. Nebuchadnezzar the king made an image of gold] It is supposed that the history given here did not occur till the close, or near the end, of Nebuchadnezzar's reign. For it was after his insanity, as we see chap. iv, 33—36; and this happened near the close of his reign. The Authorized Version, which is followed in the Margin, fixes the date of this event seventeen years earlier, and ten years before the king's insanity. A few observations on this image may be necessary:—

1. It is not likely that this image was in human form,—the dimensions shew the improbability of this: for what proportion is there between sixty cubits (ninety feet) in length, and six cubits (nine feet) in breadth?

2. It is not likely that this image was all of gold; for this would have required more of this precious metal than the whole province of Babylon could produce: for, as I suppose the sixty cubits apply to the perpendicular altitude, so I take it for granted that the six cubits intend the diameter. Now a column of gold of this height and diameter, upon the supposition that the pillar was circular, contains five thousand seven hundred and twenty-five and a half cubic feet; and, as there are nineteen thousand avoirdupois ounces in a cubic foot, the weight of the whole pillar would be eight millions two hundred and sixty-two thousand eight hundred and six pounds, ten ounces of gold.

3. It might have been a pillar, on which an image of the god Bel was erected. The image itself might be of gold; or, the governors, and the captains, the judges, the treasurers, the counsellers, the sheriffs, and all the rulers of the provinces, to come to the dedication of the image which Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

A. M. cir. 3424. B. C. cir. 580. Ol. cir. L. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 37.

3 Then the princes, the governors, and captains, the judges, the treasurers, the counsellers, the sheriffs, and all the rulers of the provinces, were gathered together unto the dedication of the image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up; and they stood before the image that Nebuchadnezzar had set up.

A. M. cir. 3424. B. C. cir. 580. Ol. cir. L. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 37.

4 Then a herald cried [a] aloud, To you [b] it is commanded, [c] O people, nations, and languages,

5 That at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, [d] dulcimer, [e] and all kinds of music, ye fall down and worship the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king hath set up:

[a] Chald. with might.——[b] Chald. they command.——[c] Ch. 4. 1. & 6. 25.——[d] Or, singing.——[e] Chald. symphony.

more probably, gilt, that is, covered with thin plates of gold; and on this account it might be called the golden image: and most probably the height of the image may be confounded with the height of the pillar. Or perhaps it was no more than a pillar, on the sides of which their gods and sacred emblems were engraven, surmounted with Bel on the top.

The plain of Dura] The situation of this place is not exactly known:—there was a town, or city, called Dura, or Doura, in Mesopotamia, near the Tigris.

Verse 2. Sent to gather together the princes] It is not easy to shew what these different offices were; as it is difficult to ascertain the meaning of the Chaldee words. Parkhurst analyzes them thus:—

The PRINCES] אחשדרפניא achashdarpenaiya; from אחש achash, great or eminent, and דר dar, to go about freely, and פנים panim, the presence. Satraps or privy-counsellors, who had free access to the presence of the king.

The GOVERNORS] סגניא sigenaiya, lieutenants, or viceroys; for סגן sagan, among the Hebrews, was the name of the high-priest's deputy.

The CAPTAINS] פחותא pachavota, from פח pach, to extend; because set over those provinces that had been annexed to the kingdom by conquest. Pashas—This word and office are still in use in Asiatic countries. By corruption, we pronounce bashaw.

The JUDGES] אדרגזריא adargezeraiya, from אדר adar, noble or magnificent, and גזר gazar, to decree. The nobles; the assistants to the king in making laws, statutes, &c. The same probably in Babylon, as the House of Lords in England.

The TREASURERS] גדבריא gedaberaiya, from גנז ganaz, (the ז zain being changed into ד daleth, according to the custom of the Chaldee) to treasure up, and בר bar, pure. Those who kept the current coin, or were over the mint;—the treasurers of the exchequer in Babylon.

The COUNSELLERS] דתבריא dethaberaiya, from דת dath, a statute, and בר bar, to declare the meaning of the law;—for in all ages and countries there has been what is termed the glorious uncertainty of the law; and therefore there must be a class of men whose business it is to explain it. What a pity that law cannot be tendered to the people, as other sciences are,—in plain, unsophisticated, and intelligible terms.

The SHERIFFS] תפתיא taphtaya, from תפת taphath, in Hebrew, שפת shaphath, to set in order. Probably civil magistrates.

And all the rulers of the provinces] All other state or civil officers; not only to grace the solemnity, but to maintain order. My old Bible renders them,—Satrapis, or wise men. Magistratis. Jugis. Dukis, Tyrauntis, or stronge men. Prefectis, and alle the Princes of Cuntreese.

Verse 4. Then a herald cried aloud] כרוזא קרא כחיל caroza kara bechayil, a crier called with might. A bedel cried mightili.—Old MS. Bible.

Verse 5. The sound of the CORNET] There is not less difficulty in ascertaining the precise meaning of these musical instruments than there is in the offices in ver. 2. קרנא karna, here translated cornet, is the common blowing horn, which makes a deep and hollow sound, as well as one shrill and piercing.

FLUTE] משרוקיתא mashrokita, from שרק sharak, to whistle, shriek. A wind instrument which made a strong and shrill noise, such as the hautbois or clarionet.

HARP] קיתרס kithros, cytharus,—κιθαρα. Some kind of stringed instrument. It seems to be formed from the Greek word.

SACKBUT] סבכא sabeca. The Greek has it σαμβυκη, from which our word sackbut, from סבך sabac, to interweave; probably on account of the number of chords, for it seems to have been a species of harp.

PSALTERY] פסנתרין psanterin; Greek,—ψαλτηριον. A stringed instrument, struck with a plectrum: that called santeer in Egypt is probably the same. Dr. Russel says,—"It is a large triangle; and has two bottoms two inches from each other, with about twenty catguts of different sizes." It was the ancient psalterium, and most probably the same as David's harp.

DULCIMER] סומפניה sumphoneiah; Greek,—συμφωνια. Probably a kind of tamboor, tamboorin, or tomtom drum. It does not mean the same as the Greek symphonia, which signifies a concert or harmony of many instruments; but here one kind of instrument only is intended.

A. M. cir. 3424. B. C. cir. 580. Ol. cir. L. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 37.

6 And whoso falleth not down and worshippeth shall the same hour [a] be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

7 Therefore at that time, when all the people heard the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and all kinds of music, all the people, the nations, and the languages, fell down and worshipped the golden image that Nebuchadnezzar the king had set up.

8 Wherefore at that time certain Chaldeans [b] came near, and accused the Jews.

9 They spake and said to the king Nebuchadnezzar, [c] O king, live for ever.

10 Thou, O king, hast made a decree, that every man that shall hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all kinds of music, shall fall down and worship the golden image:

11 And whoso falleth not down and worshippeth, that he should be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.

12 [d] There are certain Jews whom thou hast set over the affairs of the province of Babylon, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego; these men, O king, [e] have not regarded thee: they serve not thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

13 Then Nebuchadnezzar in his rage and fury commanded to bring Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego. Then they brought these men before the king.

A. M. cir. 3424. B. C. cir. 580. Ol. cir. L. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 37.

14 Nebuchadnezzar spake and said unto them, Is it [f] true, O Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, do not ye serve my gods, nor worship the golden image which I have set up?

15 Now if ye be ready that at what time ye hear the sound of the cornet, flute, harp, sackbut, psaltery, and dulcimer, and all kinds of music, ye fall down and worship the image which I have made; [g] well: but if ye worship not, ye shall be cast the same hour into the midst of a burning fiery furnace: [h] and who is that God that shall deliver you out of my hands?

16 Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, answered and said to the king, O Nebuchadnezzar, [i] we are not careful to answer thee in this matter.

17 If it be so, our God whom we serve is able to deliver us from the burning fiery furnace, and he will deliver us out of thine hand, O king.

18 [k] But if not, be it known unto thee, O king, that we will not serve thy gods, nor worship the golden image which thou hast set up.

19 Then was Nebuchadnezzar [l] full of fury,

---

[a] Jer. 29. 22. Rev. 13. 15.——[b] Ch. 6. 12.——[c] Ch. 2. 4. & 5. 10. & 6. 6, 21.——[d] Ch. 2. 49.——[e] Chald. have set no regard upon thee.——[f] Or, of purpose, as Exod. 21. 13.——[g] As Exod. 32. 32. Luke 13. 9.——[h] Exod. 5. 2. 2 Kings 18. 35.——[i] Matt. 10. 19.——[k] 2 Macc. 7. 2.——[l] Chald. filled.

All kinds of music] כל זני זמרא col zeney zamara, the whole stock, or band, of music; the preceding being the chief, the most common, and the most sonorous. My old MS. Bible has—Trumpe, and Pipe, and Harpe: Sambuke, Santrie and Synfonye, and al kynde of musykes.

Verse 6. Shall the same hour] This is the first place in the Old Testament where we find the division of time into hours. The Greeks say that Anaximander was the inventor. He had it probably from the Chaldeans, among whom this division was in use long before Anaximander was born.

Be cast into the midst of a burning fiery furnace.] This was an ancient mode of punishment among the Chaldeans, if we may credit the tradition, that Abram was cast into such a fire by this idolatrous people, because he would not worship their idols.

Verse 8. Accused the Jews.] That is, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego. The other Jews were left unnoticed;—and probably at this time Daniel was too high to be touched: but we may rest assured that he was not found among these idolaters, see ver. 12.

Verse 16. We are not careful] We have no need to put thee to any farther trouble; we have made up our minds on this subject, and have our answer ready:—Be it known unto thee, WE WILL NOT SERVE THY GODS. This was as honest as decisive.

Verse 17. If it be so] Thou mayest cast us into the furnace:—the terror of it has no effect on our minds to induce us to alter the resolution we have taken; nor shall the fire change our purpose. We serve a God who is able to deliver us. Should He not, we are equally determined;—but we are satisfied that in some way or other He will deliver us out of thy hand. Thy power cannot affect us in the kingdom of our God to which we shall ascend from thy furnace, should He permit the fire to kindle upon us.—Render to Cæsar the things which are Cæsar's, is a maxim of Jesus Christ: but when Cæsar arrogates to himself the things that are the Lord's, then, and in such cases, his authority is to be resisted. God does not desire Cæsar's things; Cæsar must not have the things of God.

Verse 19. Then was Nebuchadnezzar full of fury] How strange is this, after having had so many proofs of the supremacy of Jehovah! He had seen how God poured contempt and the form of his visage was changed against Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego: therefore he spake, and commanded that they should heat the furnace one seven times more than it was wont to be heated.

A. M. cir. 3424. B. C. cir. 580. Ol. cir. L. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 37.

20 And he commanded the [a] most mighty men that were in his army to bind Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, and to cast them into the burning fiery furnace.

21 Then these men were bound in their [b] coats, their hosen, and their [c] hats, and their other garments, and were cast into the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

22 Therefore because the king's [d] commandment was urgent, and the furnace exceeding hot, the [e] flame of the fire slew those men that took up Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego.

23 And these three men, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, fell down bound into the midst of the burning fiery furnace.

24 Then Nebuchadnezzar the king was astonied, and rose up in haste, and spake, and said unto his [f] counsellers, Did not we cast three men bound into the midst of the fire? They answered and said unto the king, True, O king.

A. M. cir. 3424. B. C. cir. 580. Ol. cir. L. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 37.

25 He answered and said, Lo, I see four men loose, [g] walking in the midst of the fire, and [h] they have no hurt; and the form of the fourth is like [i] the Son of God.

26 Then Nebuchadnezzar came near to the [k] mouth of the burning fiery furnace, and spake, and said, Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, ye servants of the most high God, come forth, and come hither. Then Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, came forth of the midst of the fire.

27 And the princes, governors, and captains, and the king's counsellers, being gathered together, saw these men, [l] upon whose bodies the fire had no power, nor was a hair of their head

[a] Chald. mighty of strength.——[b] Or, mantles.——[c] Or, turbans.——[d] Chald. word.——[e] Or, sparks.——[f] Or, governors.

[g] Isa. 43. 2.——[h] Chald. there is no hurt in them.——[i] Job 1. 6. & 38. 7. Psa. 34. 7. ver. 28.——[k] Chald. door.——[l] Heb. 11. 34.

upon his authority in the case of the three Hebrews; and yet he will try his strength once more! How infatuated is man!

Seven times more] As hot as it could be made. Seven expresses the great intensity of the heat.

Verse 20. The most mighty men] The generals, or chief officers, of his army: not strong men; there was no need of such.

Verse 21. Their hats] This word, hat, is found only in this place in the Old Testament. The word סרבל sarbal properly means an outer garment. Herodotus, who lived about one hundred years after Daniel, says, "the dress of the Babylonians consisted of a tunic of linen reaching down to the feet; over this, a tunic of woollen; and over all, a white short cloak or mantle, χλανιδιον; and on their heads they wore turbans, μιτρησι." Following this, Mr. Parkhurst translates the verse thus:—"Then these three men were bound [בסרבליהון be-śarbeleyhon] in their CLOAKS, [פתישיהון patesheyhon] their TURBANS, [וכרבלתהון ve-carbelatehon] and in their UPPER (woollen) TUNICS, [ולבושיהון u-lebusheyhon] and their UNDER (linen) TUNICS." And as, according to this interpretation, their סרבלי sarbeley were their outermost garments, we see the propriety with which it is observed at ver. 17, that these were not changed by the fire.

Verse 23. And these three men fell down bound] There is a most evident want of connexion between this and the following verse; and it is between these verses that the apocryphal Song of the Three Children, as it is called, has been inserted by St. Jerom and others; but with this note, —Quæ sequuntur in Hebræis voluminibus non reperi,—"What follows I have not found in the Hebrew books." And then begins, "They walked in the midst of the flame, praising God and blessing the Lord." The Septuagint and Arabic read the twenty-fourth verse thus,—"Then Nebuchadnezzar heard them singing praise, and was astonished." To connect the two verses Houbigant adds two verses found in the Vulgate, which are the forty-ninth and the twenty-third:—"But an angel of the Lord went down with Azariah and his companions into the furnace, and drove out the flame of fire from the furnace; and they walked in the midst of the furnace." This verse (the forty-ninth) has been added to shew the reason of Nebuchadnezzar's astonishment; and also to account for the appearance of a fourth person in the furnace, as in ver. 25.

Verse 25. Is like the Son of God] A most improper translation. What notion could this idolatrous king have of the Lord Jesus Christ? for so the place is understood by thousands. בר אלהין bar elohin signifies a son of the gods, that is, a Divine person, or angel; and so the king calls him in ver. 28, God hath sent his ANGEL and delivered his servants. And though even from this some still contend that it was the Angel of the covenant, yet the Babylonish king just knew as much of the one as he did of the other. No other ministration was necessary: a single angel from heaven was quite sufficient to answer this purpose, as that which stopped the mouths of the lions when Daniel was cast into their den.

Verse 27. Upon whose bodies the fire had no power] The Heathens boasted that their priests could walk on burning singed, neither were their coats changed, nor the smell of fire had passed on them.

A. M. cir. 3424. B. C. cir. 580. Ol. cir. L. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 37.

28 Then Nebuchadnezzar spake, and said, Blessed be the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, who hath sent his angel, and delivered his servants that [a] trusted in him, and have changed the king's word, and yielded their bodies, that they might not serve nor worship any god, except their own God.

29 [b] Therefore [c] I make a decree, That every people, nation, and language, which speak [d] any thing amiss against the God of Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, shall be [e] cut [f] in pieces, and their houses shall be made a dunghill: [g] because there is no other god that can deliver after this sort.

30 Then the king [h] promoted Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, in the province of Babylon.

[a] Psa. 34. 7, 8. Jer. 17. 7. ch. 6. 22, 23.—[b] Ch. 6. 26.—[c] Chald. a decree is made by me.

[d] Chald. error.—[e] Ch. 2. 5.—[f] Chald. made pieces.—[g] Ch. 6. 27.—[h] Chald. made to prosper.

coals unhurt; and Virgil mentions this of the priests of Apollo of Soracté:—

Summe Deûm, sancti custos Soractis Apollo!
Quem primi colimus, cui pineus ardor acervo
Pascitur; et medium freti pietate, per ignem
Cultores multâ premimus vestigia prunâ.

VIRG. Æn. xi, 785.

O Phœbus, guardian of Soracté's woods
And shady hills; a god above the gods;
To whom our natives pay the rites divine,
And burn whole crackling groves of hallow'd pine;
Walk through the fire in honour of thy name,
Unhurt, unsinged, and sacred from the flame.

PITTS.

But Varro tells us that they anointed the soles of their feet with a species of unguent that preserved them from being burnt. Very lately a female shewed many feats of this kind; put red-hot iron upon her arms, breasts, &c., passing it over her hair without the slightest inconvenience: but in the case of the three Hebrews all was supernatural.

Verse 28. Blessed be the God of Shadrach, &c.] Here is a noble testimony from a Heathen. And what produced it? The intrepidly pious conduct of these three noble Jews. Had they been time-servers, the name of the true God had not been known in Babylon. What honour does the Lord put on them that are steadfast in the faith!

Verse 29. Speak any thing amiss] Though by the decree the king does not oblige the people to worship the true God, yet he obliges them to treat Him with reverence.

Verse 30. Then the king promoted, &c.] He restored them to the offices which they held before the charge of disobedience and treason was brought against them.

At the end of this verse the Septuagint add,—"And he advanced them to be governors over all the Jews that were in his kingdom." This may be the meaning of the latter verse. They were more likely to be set over the Jews than over the Chaldeans.

CHAPTER IV.

Nebuchadnezzar, after having subdued all the neighbouring countries, and greatly enriched and adorned his own, became so intoxicated with his prosperity, as to draw down upon himself a very remarkable judgment, of which this Chapter gives a particular account, in the very words of the edict or proclamation which the Babylonish monarch issued on his restoration to the throne. This state-document begins with Nebuchadnezzar's acknowledging the hand of God in his late malady, 1—3. It then gives an account of the dream of Nebuchadnezzar, which portended the loss of his kingdom and reason for seven years, on account of his pride and arrogance, 4—18. So it was explained by Daniel, 19—27, and so it was verified by the event, 28—33. It then recites how, at the end of the period fixed by the God of heaven for the duration of his malady, the Chaldean monarch became sensible of his dependance on the Supreme Being; and lifted up his eyes to heaven in devout acknowledgment of the sovereign majesty of the King of kings, the Ruler of the earth, whose dominion alone is universal, unchangeable, and everlasting, 34—37.

A. M. cir. 3434. B. C. cir. 570. Ol. cir. LII. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 9.

NEBUCHADNEZZAR the king, [a] unto all people, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth; Peace be multiplied unto you.

2 [b] I thought it good to shew the signs and wonders [c] that the high God hath wrought toward me.

3 [d] How great are his signs! and how mighty are his wonders! his kingdom is [e] an everlasting kingdom, and his dominion is from generation to generation.

4 I Nebuchadnezzar was at rest in mine house, and flourishing in my palace:

5 I saw a dream which made me afraid, [f] and the thoughts upon my bed and the visions of my head [g] troubled me.

6 Therefore made I a decree to bring in all the wise men of Babylon before me, that they might make known unto me the interpretation of the dream.

7 [h] Then came in the magicians, the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers: and I told the dream before them; but they did not make known unto me the interpretation thereof.

8 But at the last Daniel came in before me, [i] whose name was Belteshazzar, according to the name of my god, [k] and in whom is the spirit of the holy gods: and before him I told the dream, saying,

A. M. cir. 3434. B. C. cir. 570. Ol. cir. LII. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 9.

9 O Belteshazzar, [l] master of the magicians, because I know that the spirit of the holy gods is in thee, and no secret troubleth thee, tell me the visions of my dream that I have seen, and the interpretation thereof.

10 Thus were the visions of mine head in my bed; [m] I saw, and behold [n] a tree in the midst of the earth, and the height thereof was great.

11 The tree grew, and was strong, and the height thereof reached unto heaven, and the sight thereof to the end of all the earth:

12 The leaves thereof were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all: [o] the beasts of the field had shadow under it, and the fowls of the heaven dwelt in the boughs thereof, and all flesh was fed of it.

13 I saw in the visions of my head upon my bed, and, behold, [p] a watcher and [q] a holy one came down from heaven;

14 He cried [r] aloud, and said thus, [s] Hew down the tree, and cut off his branches, shake off his leaves, and scatter his fruit: [t] let the beasts get away from under it, and the fowls from his branches:

---

[a] Ch. 3. 4. & 6. 25.——[b] Chald. It was seemly before me.——[c] Ch. 3. 26.——[d] Ch. 6. 27.——[e] Ver. 34. ch. 2. 44. & 6. 26.——[f] Ch. 2. 28, 29.——[g] Ch. 2. 1.——[h] Ch. 2. 2.——[i] Ch. 1. 7.——[k] Isa. 63. 11. ver. 18. ch. 2. 11. & 5. 11, 14.——[l] Ch. 2. 48. & 5. 11.

[m] Chald. I was seeing.——[n] Ezek. 31. 3, &c. ver. 20.——[o] Ezek. 17. 23. & 31. 6. See Lam. 4. 20.——[p] Psa. 103. 20. ver. 17. 23.——[q] Deut. 33. 2. ch. 8. 13. Zech. 14. 5. Jude 14.——[r] Chald. with might.——[s] Matt. 3. 10.——[t] Ezek. 31. 12.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IV.

Verse 1. Nebuchadnezzar the king, unto all people] This is a regular decree, and is one of the most ancient on record; and no doubt was copied from the state papers of Babylon. Daniel has preserved it in the original language.

Verse 2. I thought it good to shew] A part of the decree was a recital of the wonders wrought by the hand of the true God in his kingdom, and on his person.

Verse 3. How great are his signs!] There are no preternatural signs like His! His wonders,—miraculous interferences,—are mighty; they surpass all human power. He is the Sovereign of all kings, and His dominion is everlasting; and every generation is a proof of His all-governing influence. These are very fine sentiments, and shew how deeply his mind was impressed with the majesty of God.

Verse 4. I—was at rest] I had returned to my palace in Babylon, after having subdued Syria, Phœnicia, Judea, Egypt, and Arabia. It was probably these great conquests that puffed him up with pride, and brought that chastisement upon him which he afterwards describes. See the dream of the emblematical tree explained.

Verse 5. I saw a dream] See this dream circumstantially explained in the following verses.

Verse 10. I saw—a tree] This vision, Nebuchadnezzar says, made him afraid. What a mercy it is that God has hidden futurity from us. Were He to shew every man the lot that is before him, the misery of the human race would be complete.

Great men and princes are often represented, in the language of the prophets, under the similitude of trees; see Ezek. xvii, 5, 6, xxxi, 3, &c.; Jer. xxii, 15; Psal. i, 3, xxxvii, 35.

Verse 13. A watcher and a holy one] These are both angels; but, according to the Chaldean oracles, of different orders. They appear, according to their opinions, to be a kind of judges of human actions, who had the power of determining the lot of men, see ver. 17.

Verse 14. Hew down the tree] As the tree was to be cut down, the beasts are commanded to flee away from under his branches. His courtiers, officers, &c., all abandoned him as soon as his insanity appeared: but he soon fled from the society of men.

A. M. cir. 3434. B. C. cir. 570. Ol. cir. LII. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 9.

15 Nevertheless leave the stump of his roots in the earth, even with a band of iron and brass, in the tender grass of the field; and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, and let his portion be with the beasts in the grass of the earth:

16 Let his heart be changed from man's, and let a beast's heart be given unto him; and let seven [a] times pass over him.

17 This matter is by the decree of the watchers, and the demand by the word of the holy ones: to the intent [b] that the living may know [c] that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will, and setteth up over it the basest of men.

18 This dream I king Nebuchadnezzar have seen. Now thou, O Belteshazzar, declare the interpretation thereof, [d] forasmuch as all the wise men of my kingdom are not able to make known unto me the interpretation: but thou art able; [e] for the spirit of the holy gods is in thee.

19 Then Daniel, [f] whose name was Belteshazzar, was astonied for one hour, and his thoughts troubled him. The king spake, and said, Belteshazzar, let not the dream, or the interpretation thereof, trouble thee. Belteshazzar answered and said, My lord, [g] the dream be to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies.

A. M. cir. 3434. B. C. cir. 570. Ol. cir. LII. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 9.

20 [h] The tree that thou sawest, which grew, and was strong, whose height reached unto the heaven, and the sight thereof to all the earth;

21 Whose leaves were fair, and the fruit thereof much, and in it was meat for all; under which the beasts of the field dwelt, and upon whose branches the fowls of the heaven had their habitation:

22 [i] It is thou, O king, that art grown and become strong: for thy greatness is grown, and reacheth unto heaven, [k] and thy dominion to the end of the earth.

23 [l] And whereas the king saw a watcher and a holy one coming down from heaven, and saying, Hew the tree down, and destroy it; yet leave the stump of the roots thereof in the earth, even with a band of iron and brass, in the tender grass of the field; and let it be wet with the dew of heaven, [m] and let his portion be with the beasts of the field, till seven times pass over him;

24 This is the interpretation, O king, and this is the decree of the Most High, which is come upon my lord the king:

25 That they shall [n] drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field, and they shall make thee [o] to eat grass as oxen, and they shall wet thee with the dew of heaven, and seven times shall pass over thee, [p] till thou

---

[a] Ch. 11. 13. & 12. 7.——[b] Psa. 9. 16.——[c] Ch. 2. 21. & 5. 21. ver. 25, 32.——[d] Gen. 41. 8, 15. ch. 5. 8, 15.——[e] Ver. 8.——[f] Ver. 8.——[g] See 2 Sam. 18. 32. Jer. 29. 7.

[h] Ver. 10, 11, 12.——[i] Ch. 2. 38.——[k] Jer. 27. 6, 7, 8.——[l] Ver. 13.——[m] Ch. 5. 21.——[n] Ver. 32. ch. 5. 21, &c.——[o] Psa. 106. 20.——[p] Ver. 17, 32, Psa. 83. 18.

Verse 15. Leave the stump] Let him not be destroyed, nor his kingdom alienated.

Verse 16. Let his heart be changed] Let him conceive himself to be a beast; and act as such, herding among the beasts of the field.

Let seven times pass over him.] Let him continue in this state for seven years. I knew a man who was thus changed in his heart,—in his imagination. He believed himself to be a bear, and would imitate the ursal growl, &c.; and the case did not appear to be hypochondriacal. Whether he ever came to sound mind I know not.

Verse 17. This matter is by the decree of the watchers] See on ver. 13.

The Most High ruleth] He never leaves the government of the world to man,—to second causes,—or to fortuitous occurrences. What are thus called, are His agents; they are no moving causes.

And setteth up—the basest of men.]

"Tyrants and kings from Jove proceed;
Those permitted,—these decreed."

The throne ennobles no man: to be properly filled, the man must be noble. Some of the greatest, and some of the meanest, of men have sat on the throne. Kings differ in education, seldom in intellect, from the common mass of men;—the power and authority are from God. The king himself may be given either in mercy or in wrath. When James II. ruled this kingdom, it might well be said,—God hath set up over it the basest of men. His successor was one of the best. The former nearly ruined it both in a civil and religious point of view; the latter was the means of restoring it in both these respects.

Verse 19. Daniel—was astonied for one hour] He saw the design of the dream, and he felt the great delicacy of interpreting it. He was not puzzled by the difficulties of it. He felt for the king, and for the nation; and with what force and delicacy does he express the general portent!—The dream to them that hate thee, and the interpretation thereof to thine enemies!

Verse 20. The tree that thou sawest] The dream is so fully interpreted in the following verses that it needs no comment.

A. M. cir. 3434. B. C. cir. 570. Ol. cir. LII. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 9.

know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and [a]giveth it to whomsoever he will.

26 And whereas they commanded to leave the stump of the tree roots; thy kingdom shall be sure unto thee, after that thou shalt have known that the [b]heavens do rule.

27 Wherefore, O king, let my counsel be acceptable unto thee, and [c]break off thy sins by righteousness, and thine iniquities by shewing mercy to the poor; [d]if it may be [e]a [f]lengthening of thy tranquillity.

28 All this came upon the king Nebuchadnezzar.

29 At the end of twelve months he walked [g]in the palace of the kingdom of Babylon.

30 The king [h]spake, and said, Is not this great Babylon, that I have built for the house of the kingdom by the might of my power, and for the honour of my majesty?

31 [i]While the word was in the king's mouth, there fell [k]a voice from heaven, saying, O king Nebuchadnezzar, to thee it is spoken; The kingdom is departed from thee.

32 And [l]they shall drive thee from men, and thy dwelling shall be with the beasts of the field: they shall make thee to eat grass as oxen, and seven times shall pass over thee, until thou know that the Most High ruleth in the kingdom of men, and giveth it to whomsoever he will.

33 The same hour was the thing fulfilled upon Nebuchadnezzar: and he was driven from men, and did eat grass as oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven, till his hairs were grown like eagles' feathers, and his nails like birds' claws.

A. M. cir. 3434. B. C. cir. 570. Ol. cir. LII. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 9.

A. M. cir. 3441. B. C. cir. 563. Ol. LIV. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 16.

34 And [m]at the end of the days I Nebuchadnezzar lifted up mine eyes unto heaven, and mine understanding returned unto me, and I blessed the Most High, and I praised and honoured him [n]that liveth for ever, whose dominion is [o]an everlasting dominion, and his kingdom is from generation to generation:

35 And [p]all the inhabitants of the earth are reputed as nothing: and [q]he doeth according to his will in the army of heaven, and among the inhabitants of the earth: and [r]none can stay his hand, or say unto him, [s]What doest thou?

36 At the same time my reason returned unto me; [t]and for the glory of my kingdom, mine honour and brightness returned unto me; and my counsellers and my lords sought unto me; and I was established in my kingdom, and excellent majesty was [u]added unto me.

37 Now I Nebuchadnezzar praise and extol and honour the King of heaven, [x]all whose works are truth, and his ways judgment: [y]and those that walk in pride he is able to abase.

---

[a] Jer. 27. 5.——[b] Matt. 21. 25. Luke 15. 18, 21.——[c] 1 Pet. 4. 8.——[d] Psa. 41. 1, &c.——[e] Or, a healing of thine error.——[f] 1 Kings 21. 29.——[g] Or, upon.——[h] Prov. 16. 18. ch. 5. 20.——[i] Ch. 5. 5. Luke 12. 20.——[k] Ver. 24.——[l] Ver. 25.——[m] Ver. 26.——[n] Ch. 12. 7. Rev. 4. 10.

[o] Psa. 10. 16. ch. 2. 44. & 7. 14. Mic. 4. 7. Luke 1. 33.——[p] Isa. 40. 15, 17.——[q] Psa. 115. 3. & 135. 6.——[r] Job 34. 29.——[s] Job 9. 12. Isa. 45. 9. Rom. 2. 20.——[t] Ver. 26.——[u] Job 42. 12. Prov. 22. 4. Matt. 6. 33.——[x] Psa. 33. 4. Rev. 15. 3. & 16. 7.——[y] Exod. 18. 11. ch. 5. 20.

Verse 26. Thy kingdom shall be sure unto thee] No new king was set up; Evil-merodach his son was regent during his father's insanity.

Verse 27. Break off thy sins by righteousness] Do justice. Thou hast been an oppressive man; shew mercy to the poor, many of whom have been made such by thyself: witness the whole nation of the Jews. He was to cease from his sins,—repent, and bring forth fruits meet for repentance,—in order that he might find mercy at the hand of God.

Verse 30. Is not this great Babylon] Here his heart was inflated with pride; he attributed every thing to himself, and acknowledged God in nothing. The walls, hanging gardens, temple of Bel, and the royal palace, all built by Nebuchadnezzar, made it the greatest city in the world.

Verse 31. While the word was in the king's mouth] How awful to a victorious and proud king:—Thy kingdom is departed from thee! All thy goods and gods are gone in a moment!

Verse 32. They shall make thee, &c.] Thou shalt be made to eat grass as oxen. The madness that fell upon him induced him to forsake society, and to run to the woods and deserts, where he lived like a wild beast, his hairs growing long and thick, so as to be a substitute for clothing; and his nails strong and hooked, that he might the better climb trees and grub up the ground, in order to get roots and earth-nuts. It was the mercy of God that thus clothed and accoutred him. His case seems much like that of the maniac in the Gospel, whose dwelling was among the tombs and in the mountains, and who shunned the society of men.

Verse 36. My reason returned] Every thing was fulfilled that was exhibited by the dream and its interpretation. It is very likely that this unfortunate king had so concealed himself that the place of his retreat was not found out; and so had the providence of God watched over every thing that, on his return to his palace, he found his counsellers and his lords, who received him gladly, and cleaved to and served him as they had formerly done.

Verse 37. Now I—praise and extol] It is very probable that Nebuchadnezzar was a true convert,—that he relapsed no more into idolatry, and died in the faith of the God of Israel. It is supposed that he lived seventeen years after his restoration. But the Authorized Version, which is followed in the Margin, states the date of this decree to be B. C. 563, the year preceding Nebuchadnezzar's death.

CHAPTER V.

In the commencement of this Chapter we are informed how Belshazzar, the grandson of Nebuchadnezzar, when rioting in his palace, and profaning the sacred vessels of the Temple, 1—4, was suddenly terrified with the appearance of the fingers of a man's hand, which wrote a few words on the wall before him, 5, 6. The wise men and astrologers were immediately called in to shew the king the interpretation: but they could not so much as read the writing; because (as Houbigant and others have conjectured,) though the words are in the Chaldee tongue, yet they were written in the Samaritan or ancient Hebrew characters, with which the wise men of Babylon were very probably unacquainted, as the Jews were at that time a despised people, and the knowledge of their language not a fashionable attainment, 7—9. Daniel, who had been so highly esteemed by Nebuchadnezzar for his superior wisdom, appears to have been altogether unknown to Belshazzar, till the queen (the same who had been the wife of Nebuchadnezzar according to the general opinion, or the queen consort according to others,) had informed him, 10—12. Upon the queen's recommendation, Daniel is called in, 13—16; who boldly tells this despotic king that as he had not benefited by the judgments inflicted on his grandfather, but gave himself up to pride and profanity, and had added to his other sins an utter contempt for the God of the Jews by drinking wine out of the sacred vessels of Jehovah in honour of his idols, 17—23, the Supreme Being, the Ruler of heaven and earth, had written his condemnation in three words, MENE, TEKEL, PERES, 24, 25; the first of which is repeated in the copies containing the Chaldean original: but all the ancient Versions, except the Syriac, are without this repetition. Daniel then gives the king and his lords the fearful import of the writing, viz. that the period allotted for the duration of the Chaldean empire was now completed, (see Jer. xxv. 12—14,) and that the kingdom was about to be transferred to the Medes and Persians, 26—28. However unwelcome such an interpretation must have been to Belshazzar; yet the monarch, overwhelmed with its clearness and certainty, commanded the Prophet to be honoured, 29. And that very night the prediction was fulfilled; for the king was slain, 30, and the city taken by the Medes and Persians, 31. This great event was also predicted by Isaiah and Jeremiah; and the manner in which it was accomplished is recorded by Herodotus and Xenophon.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

BELSHAZZAR the king [a] made a great feast to a thousand of his lords, and drank wine before the thousand.

2 Belshazzar, whiles he tasted the wine, commanded to bring the [b] golden and silver vessels [c] which his [d] father Nebuchadnezzar had [e] taken out of

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

[a] Esth. 1. 3.——[b] 1 Chron. 28. 17. Ezra 6. 5. ver. 3. 23.——[c] Ch. 1. 2. Jer. 52. 19.

[d] Or, grandfather: As Jer. 27. 7. 2 Sam. 9. 7. 2 Chron. 15. 16. ver. 11. 13.
[e] Chald. brought forth.

NOTES ON CHAPTER V.

Verse 1. Belshazzar the king made a great feast] This Chapter is out of its place, and should come in after the seventh and eighth. There are difficulties in the chronology. After the death of Nebuchadnezzar, Evil-merodach, his son, ascended the throne of Babylon. Having reigned about two years, he was slain by his brother-in-law, Neriglissar. He reigned four years; and was succeeded by his son Laborosoarchod, who reigned only nine months. At his death Belshazzar, the son of Evil-merodach, was raised to the throne, and reigned seventeen years; and was slain, as we read here, by Cyrus, who surprised and took the city on the night of this festivity. This is the chronology on which Archbishop Ussher, and other learned chronologists, agree: but the Scripture mentions only Nebuchadnezzar, Evil-merodach, and Belshazzar, by name: and Jeremiah, chap. xxvii, 7, the temple which was in Jerusalem; that the king, and his princes, his wives, and his concubines, might drink therein.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

3 Then they brought the golden vessels that were taken out of the temple of the house of God which was at Jerusalem; and the king, and his princes, his wives, and his concubines, drank in them.

4 They drank wine, [a] and praised the gods of gold, and of silver, of brass, of iron, of wood, and of stone.

5 [b] In the same hour came forth fingers of a man's hand, and wrote over against the candlestick upon the plaister of the wall of the king's palace: and the king saw the part of the hand that wrote.

6 Then the king's [c] countenance [d] was changed, and his thoughts troubled him, so that the [e] joints [f] of his loins were loosed, and his [g] knees smote one against another.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

7 [h] The king cried [i] aloud to bring in [k] the astrologers, the Chaldeans, and the soothsayers. And the king spake, and said to the wise men of Babylon, Whosoever shall read this writing, and shew me the interpretation thereof, shall be clothed with [l] scarlet, and have a chain of gold about his neck, [m] and shall be the third ruler in the kingdom.

8 Then came in all the king's wise men: [n] but they could not read the writing, nor make known to the king the interpretation thereof.

---

[a] Rev. 9. 20.——[b] Ch. 4. 31.——[c] Chald. brightnesses, ver. 9.——[d] Chald. changed it.——[e] Or, girdles. Isa. 5. 27.——[f] Chald. bindings, or, knots.

[g] Nah. 2. 10.——[h] Ch. 2. 2. & 4. 6.——[i] Chald. with might.——[k] Isa. 47. 13. [l] Or, purple.——[m] Ch. 6. 2.——[n] Ch. 2. 27. & 4. 7.

---

expressly says, All nations shall serve him, (Nebuchadnezzar,) and his son, (Evil-merodach,) and his son's son, (Belshazzar,) until the very time of his land come; i. e. till the time in which the empire should be seized by Cyrus. Here there is no mention of Neriglissar, nor Laborosoarchod: but, as they were usurpers, they might have been purposely passed by. But there remains one difficulty still: Belshazzar is expressly called the son of Nebuchadnezzar, by the queen mother, ver. 11. There is a man in thy kingdom, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods: and in the days of THY FATHER light and understanding and wisdom, like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him: whom the king NEBUCHADNEZZAR THY FATHER, the king, I say, thy father, made master of the magicians. The solution of this difficulty is, that in Scripture the name of son is indifferently given to sons and grandsons, and even to great grandsons. And, perhaps, the repetition in the above verse, may imply this:—"The king, Nebuchadnezzar thy father, the king thy father,"—The king thy father's father, and consequently thy grandfather. If it have not some such meaning as this, it must be considered an idle repetition. As to the two other kings, Neriglissar and Laborosoarchod, mentioned by Josephus and Berosus, and by whom the chronology is so much puzzled, they might have been some petty kings or viceroys, or satraps, who affected the kingdom, and produced disturbances, one for four years, and the other for nine months; and would in consequence not be acknowledged in the Babylonish chronology, nor by the Sacred Writers, any more than finally unsuccessful rebels are numbered among the kings of those nations which they have disturbed. I believe the only sovereigns we can acknowledge here are the following:—1. Nabopolassar. 2. Nebuchadnezzar. 3. Evil-merodach. 4. Belshazzar; and with this last the Chaldean empire ended.

To a thousand of his lords] Perhaps this means lords or satraps, that were each over one thousand men. But we learn from antiquity, that the Persian kings were very profuse in their entertainments: but it does not follow that the Chaldeans were so too. Besides, one thousand lords, and their appropriate attendants, would have been very inconvenient in a nocturnal assembly. The Text, however, supports the common translation. Literally, Belshazzar the king, made bread for his lords a thousand; and against the thousand he drank wine. That is, say some, he was a very great drinker.

Verse 2. Whiles he tasted the wine] He relished it; got heated by it; and when WINE got fully in, WIT went wholly out; and, in consequence, he acted the profane part which we immediately read.

Verse 4. And praised the gods of gold] They had gods of all sorts, and of all metals, with wooden gods, and stone gods beside!

Verse 5. Fingers of a man's hand] The fingers were collected about the stile or pen, as in the act of writing.

Verse 6. The king's countenance was changed] Here is a very natural description of fear and terror. 1. The face grows pale. 2. The mind becomes greatly agitated. 3. Pains seize on the lower part of the back and kidneys. 4. A universal tremor takes place, so that the knees smite against each other. 5. And, lastly, either a syncope takes place, or the cry of distress is uttered, ver. 7. The king cried.

Verse 7. Whosoever shall read this writing] He knew it must be some awful portent, and wished to know what.

Verse 8. They could not read the writing] Because it

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

9 Then was king Belshazzar greatly [a] troubled, and his [b] countenance was changed in him, and his lords were astonied.

10 Now the queen by reason of the words of the king and his lords came into the banquet house: and the queen spake and said, [c] O king, live for ever: let not thy thoughts trouble thee, nor let thy countenance be changed:

11 [d] There is a man in thy kingdom, in whom is the spirit of the holy gods; and in the days of thy [e] father light and understanding and wisdom, like the wisdom of the gods, was found in him; whom the king Nebuchadnezzar thy [f] father, the king, I say, thy father, made [g] master of the magicians, astrologers, Chaldeans, and soothsayers;

12 [h] Forasmuch as an excellent spirit, and knowledge, and understanding, [i] interpreting of dreams, and shewing of hard sentences, and [k] dissolving of [l] doubts, were found in the same Daniel, [m] whom the king named Belteshazzar: now let Daniel be called, and he will shew the interpretation.

13 Then was Daniel brought in before the king. And the king spake and said unto Daniel, Art thou that Daniel, which art of the children of the captivity of Judah, whom the king my [n] father brought out of Jewry?

14 I have even heard of thee, that [o] the spirit of the gods is in thee, and that light and understanding and excellent wisdom is found in thee.

15 And now [p] the wise men, the astrologers, have been brought in before me, that they should read this writing, and make known unto me the interpretation thereof: but they could not shew the interpretation of the thing:

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

16 And I have heard of thee, that thou canst [q] make interpretations, and dissolve doubts: [r] now if thou canst read the writing, and make known to me the interpretation thereof, thou shalt be clothed with scarlet, and have a chain of gold about thy neck, and shalt be the third ruler in the kingdom.

17 Then Daniel answered and said before the king, Let thy gifts be to thyself, and give thy [s] rewards to another; yet I will read the writing unto the king, and make known to him the interpretation.

18 O thou king, [t] the most high God gave Nebuchadnezzar thy father a kingdom, and majesty, and glory, and honour:

19 And for the majesty that he gave him, [u] all people, nations, and languages, trembled and feared before him: whom he would he slew; and whom he would he kept alive; and whom he would he set up; and whom he would he put down.

20 [x] But when his heart was lifted up, and his mind hardened [y] in pride, he was [z] deposed from his kingly throne, and they took his glory from him:

21 And he was [a] driven from the sons of men; and [b] his heart was made like the beasts, and his dwelling was with the wild asses: they fed him with grass like oxen, and his body was wet with the dew of heaven; [c] till he knew that the most

---

[a] Ch. 2. 1.——[b] Chald. brightnesses, ver. 6.——[c] Ch. 2. 4. & 3. 9.——[d] Ch. 2. 48. & 4. 8, 9, 18.——[e] Or, grandfather, ver. 2.——[f] Or, grandfather, ver. 2.——[g] Ch. 4. 9.——[h] Ch. 6. 3.——[i] Or, of an interpreter, &c.——[k] Or, of a dissolver.——[l] Chald. knots.——[m] Ch. 1. 7.——[n] Or, grandfather.

[o] Ver. 11, 12.——[p] Ver. 7, 8.——[q] Chald. interpret.——[r] Ver. 7.——[s] Or, fee, as ch. 2. 6.——[t] Ch. 2. 37, 38. & 4. 17, 22, 25.——[u] Jer. 27. 7. ch. 3. 4.——[x] Ch. 4. 30, 37.——[y] Or, to deal proudly. Exod. 18. 11.——[z] Chald. made to come down.——[a] Ch. 4. 32, &c.——[b] Or, he made his heart equal, &c.——[c] Ch. 4. 17, 25.

---

was in the pure Hebrew, not the Chaldean, character. See below.

Verse 10. The queen—came] This is generally allowed to have been the widow of Nebuchadnezzar: if so, she was the queen Amiyt, daughter of Astyages, sister of Darius the Mede, and aunt of Cyrus, according to Polyhistor, cited by Cedrenus. See Calmet. Others think that Nitocris was the person; who is said to be queen when Cyrus took the city; and is stated to have been a lady of eminent wisdom and discretion, and to have had the chief direction of the public affairs. She was the mother of Labynithus; and, if this be the same as Belshazzar, she must be the person here introduced.

Verse 11. Nebuchadnezzar thy father] See the Note on ver. 1.

Verse 16. Dissolve doubts] Untie knots—unbind what is bound. An expression used in the East to signify a judge of eminent wisdom and skill.

Verse 17. Let thy gifts be to thyself] They could be of little use to any, as the city was in a few hours to be taken and pillaged.

Verse 18. Nebuchadnezzar thy father] Or grandfather, as the Margin reads, ver. 2. See the notes on ver. 1.

Verse 19. Whom he would he slew] The genuine character of a despot whose will is the only rule of his conduct.

Verse 20. He was deposed from his kingly throne] Became high God ruled in the kingdom of men, and that he appointeth over it whomsoever he will.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

22 And thou his son, O Belshazzar, [a] hast not humbled thine heart, though thou knewest all this;

23 [b] But hast lifted up thyself against the Lord of heaven; and they have brought the vessels of his house before thee, and thou, and thy lords, thy wives, and thy concubines, have drunk wine in them; and thou hast praised the gods of silver, and gold, of brass, iron, wood, and stone, [c] which see not, nor hear, nor know: and the God in whose hand thy breath is, [d] and whose are all thy ways, hast thou not glorified:

24 Then was the part of the hand sent from him; and this writing was written.

25 And this is the writing that was written, MENE, MENE, TEKEL, UPHARSIN.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

26 This is the interpretation of the thing: MENE; God hath numbered thy kingdom, and finished it.

27 TEKEL; [e] Thou art weighed in the balances, and art found wanting.

28 PERES; Thy kingdom is divided, and given to the [f] Medes and [g] Persians.

29 Then commanded Belshazzar, and they clothed Daniel with scarlet, and put a chain of gold about his neck, and made a proclamation concerning him, [h] that he should be the third ruler in the kingdom.

30 [i] In that night was Belshazzar the king of the Chaldeans slain.

31 [k] And Darius the Median took the kingdom, [l] being [m] about threescore and two years old.

---

[a] 2 Chron. 33. 23. & 36. 12.——[b] Ver. 3, 4.——[c] Psa. 115. 5, 6.——[d] Jer. 10. 23.——[e] Job 31. 6. Psa. 62. 9. Jer. 6. 30.——[f] Foretold, Isa. 21. 2. ver. 31. ch. 9. 1.

[g] Ch. 6. 28.——[h] Ver. 7.——[i] Jer. 51. 31, 39, 57.——[k] Ch. 6. 1, 6, 9, 25, 28. & 9. 1, 2. & 11. 1.——[l] Chald. he as the son of, &c.——[m] Or, now.

---

insane; and the reins of government were taken out of his hands.

Verse 22. Hast not humbled thine heart] These judgments and mercies have had no good effect upon thee.

Verse 23. But hast lifted up thyself against the Lord] And the highest evidence of this rebellion was, the profaning the sacred vessels of the Lord's house.

Verse 24. Then was the part of the hand sent] This was the filling up of the cup of thy iniquity; this last act made thee ripe for destruction.

Verse 25. And this is the writing] Had the words been written in the Chaldean character, every wise man there, every one that could read the alphabet of his own language, could have interpreted them. Let it be observed,—1. That the character which we now call Hebrew is the Chaldean character. 2. That the true Hebrew character is that which we call the Samaritan. 3. Daniel could easily read this, for it was the character used by the Jews previously to the Babylonish captivity. 4. It appears that it was simply on account of the strangeness of the character, that the Chaldeans could not read it.

I shall set down the words in both characters, by which the least learned reader may see that it was quite possible that one might be well known, while the other might be unintelligible.

HEBREW.

מנא מנא תקל ופרסין

SAMARITAN.

In ancient times, no doubt, these letters differed more from each other than they appear to do now; for we know that the Samaritan on ancient coins, though radically the same, differs very much from that now used in printing.

It should be observed, that each word stands for a short sentence: מנא mené, signifies NUMERATION; תקל tekel, WEIGHING; and פרס pheres, DIVISION. And so the Arabic translates them. مثيسن mokeeson, measured; موزون mewzonon, weighed; مقسوم mokesoomon, divided. All the ancient Versions, except the Syriac, read the words simply Mené, Tekel, Phares, as they are explained in the following verses; without the repetition of Mené, and without the conjunction and plural termination in Peres.

Verse 29. Clothed Daniel with scarlet] ארגונא argavana, more probably with purple. The gold chain about the neck was an emblem of magisterial authority. It is often thus mentioned in Scripture.

Verse 30. In that night was Belshazzar—slain.] Xenophon says, he was despatched by two lords, Gadatus and Gobrias, who went over to Cyrus, to avenge themselves of certain wrongs which Belshazzar had done them. We have already seen that Cyrus entered the city by the bed of the Euphrates, which he had emptied, by cutting a channel for the waters, and directing them into the marshy country.

Verse 31. Darius the Median took the kingdom] This is supposed to be the same as Cyaxares, son of Astyages, and maternal uncle of Cyrus, to whom he gave the throne of Babylon, after himself had had the honour of taking the city.

Daniel speaks nothing of the war that raged between the Babylonians and the Medes: but Isaiah speaks particularly of it, chap. xiii, xiv, xlv, xlvi, xlvii; and so does Jeremiah, chap. l, li. I need not add, that it is largely spoken of by profane authors. The Medes and Persians were confederates in the war; the former under Darius, the latter under Cyrus. Both princes are supposed to have been present at the taking of this city. Mandane, daughter of Astyages, was mother of Cyrus, and sister to Cyaxares.

CHAPTER VI.

Darius the Median, who succeeded Belshazzar in the kingdom of Babylon, having heard of Daniel's extraordinary wisdom and understanding, constitutes him the chief of the three presidents who were over the whole empire, and purposed also to make him prime minister or viceroy, 1—3. This great partiality of the king towards a stranger, of Jewish extraction, and who had been carried captive into Chaldea, raised up a great many enemies to Daniel; and a scheme was even contrived by the presidents and princes to ruin him, 4—15; which succeeded so far that he was cast into a den of lions, but was miraculously delivered, 16—23. Darius, who was greatly displeased with himself for having been entrapped by the governors of the provinces to the prejudice of his faithful minister, is pleased and astonished at this deliverance; punished Daniel's enemies with the same kind of death which they had designed for the Prophet; and made a decree that throughout his dominions the God of Daniel should be had in the greatest veneration, 24—28.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

IT pleased Darius to set [a] over the kingdom a hundred and twenty princes, which should be over the whole kingdom;

2 And over these three presidents; of whom Daniel was first: that the princes might give accounts unto them, and the king should have no damage.

3 Then this Daniel was preferred above the presidents and princes, [b] because an excellent spirit was in him; and the king thought to set him over the whole realm.

A. M. cir. 3467. B. C. cir. 537. Ol. cir. LX. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 42.

4 [c] Then the presidents and princes sought to find occasion against Daniel concerning the kingdom; but they could find none occasion nor fault; forasmuch as he was faithful, neither was there any error or fault found in him.

A. M. cir. 3467. B. C. cir. 537. Ol. cir. LX. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 42.

5 Then said these men, We shall not find any occasion against this Daniel, except we find it against him concerning the law of his God.

6 Then these presidents and princes [d] assembled together to the king, and said thus unto him, [e] King Darius, live for ever.

7 All the presidents of the kingdom, the governors, and the princes, the counsellers, and the captains, have consulted together to establish a royal statute, and to make a firm [f] decree, that whosoever shall ask a petition of any god or man for thirty days, save of thee, O king,

[a] Esth. 1. 1.——[b] Ch. 5. 12.——[c] Eccles. 4. 4.

[d] Or, came tumultuously.——[e] Neh. 2. 3. ver. 21. ch. 2. 4.——[f] Or, interdict.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VI.

Verse 1. A hundred and twenty princes] A chief or satrap over every province which belonged to the Medo-Persian empire. Afterwards we find it enlarged to one hundred and twenty-seven provinces, by the victories of Cambyses and Darius Hystaspes, see Esth. i, 1. Josephus reckons three hundred and sixty satrapies or lordships: but this is most probably an exaggeration or mistake.

Verse 2. Three presidents] Each having forty of these presidents accountable to him for their administration.

Daniel was first] As being established over that part where was the seat of government. He was confirmed in his offices by Darius.

Verse 3. The king thought to set him over the whole realm] Intended to make him grand vizier or emir ul amrin. This partiality of the king made Daniel the object of the envy of the other presidents, and the grandees of the kingdom.

Verse 4. Sought to find occasion against Daniel] But they found no blemish in his administration, for he was faithful to his king; this was a virtue. But he was faithful also to his God: this they hoped to construe into a crime, and make it the cause of his ruin.

Verse 7. Whosoever shall ask a petition] What pretence could they urge for so silly an ordinance? Probably, to flatter the ambition of the king, they pretend to make he shall be cast into the den of lions.

A. M. cir. 3467. B. C. cir. 537. Ol. cir. LX. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 42.

8 Now, O king, establish the decree, and sign the writing, that it be not changed, according to the [a]law of the Medes and Persians, which [b]altereth not.

9 Wherefore king Darius signed the writing and the decree.

10 Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed, he went into his house; and his windows being open in his chamber [c]toward Jerusalem, he kneeled upon his knees [d]three times a day, and prayed, and gave thanks before his God, as he did aforetime.

11 Then these men assembled, and found Daniel praying and making supplication before his God.

12 [e]Then they came near, and spake before the king concerning the king's decree; Hast thou not signed a decree, that every man that shall ask a petition of any god or man within thirty days, save of thee, O king, shall be cast into the den of lions? The king answered and said, The thing is true, [f]according to the law of the Medes and Persians, which altereth not.

A. M. cir. 3467. B. C. cir. 537. Ol. cir. LX. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 42.

13 Then answered they and said before the king, That Daniel, [g]which is of the children of the captivity of Judah, [h]regardeth not thee, O king, nor the decree that thou hast signed, but maketh his petition three times a day.

14 Then the king, when he heard these words, [i]was sore displeased with himself, and set his heart on Daniel to deliver him: and he laboured till the going down of the sun to deliver him.

15 Then these men assembled unto the king, and said unto the king, Know, O king, that [k]the law of the Medes and Persians is, That no decree nor statute which the king establisheth may be changed.

16 Then the king commanded, and they brought Daniel, and cast him into the den of lions. Now

---

[a] Esth. 1. 19. & 8. 8. ver. 12, 15.——[b] Chald. passeth not.——[c] 1 Kings 8. 44, 48. Psa. 5. 7. Jonah 2. 4.

[d] Psa. 55. 17. Acts 2. 1, 2, 15. & 3. 1. & 10. 9.——[e] Ch. 3. 8.——[f] Ver. 8.
[g] Ch. 1. 6. & 5. 13.——[h] Ch. 3. 12.——[i] So Mark 6. 26.——[k] Ver. 8.

---

him a god for thirty days; so that the whole empire should make prayer and supplication to him, and pay him divine honours! This was the bait: but their real object was to destroy Daniel.

Verse 8. According to the law of the Medes and Persians] I do not think that this is to be understood so as to imply, that whatever laws or ordinances the Medes or Persians once enacted, they never changed them. This would argue extreme folly in legislators in any country. But nothing else appears to be meant, than that the decree should be enacted, written, and registered, according to the legal forms among the Medes and Persians; and this one to be made absolute for thirty days. The laws were such among this people, that when once passed with the usual formalities, the king could not change them at his own will. This is the utmost that can be meant by the laws of the Medes and Persians that could not be changed.

Verse 10. Now when Daniel knew that the writing was signed] He saw what was designed, and he knew whom he served.

His windows being open] He would not shut them to conceal himself; but kneeled down with his face turned towards Jerusalem, and prayed thrice each day, giving thanks to God as usual. When the Jews were in distant countries, in prayer they turned their faces towards Jerusalem; and when in Jerusalem, they turned their faces towards the Temple. Solomon in his prayer at the dedication of the Temple, 1 Kings viii, 48, had entreated God to hear all prayers of those who might be in strange lands, or in captivity, when they should turn their faces toward their own land, which God gave unto their fathers; and towards the city which He had chosen, and the house which was dedicated to His name. It was in reference to this, that Daniel turned his face towards Jerusalem, when he prayed.

Verse 12. Shall be cast into the den of lions] Either this was the royal menagerie, like that place in the Tower of London, where wild beasts are kept for the king's pleasure, and the public amusement; or they were kept for the purpose of devouring certain criminals, which the laws might consign to that kind of death. This is most likely from the case before us.

Verse 14. The king—was sore displeased with himself] And well he might, when, through his excessive folly, he passed a law that, for its ostensible object, would have been a disgrace almost to an idiot.

And set his heart on Daniel] He strove by every means to get the law annulled. He had no doubt spoke to several of his lords in private; and had gone from one to another, till the going down of the sun.

Verse 15. Then these men assembled] Having got favourable answers, as we may presume, from many individuals, he called a parliament: but they now collectively joined to urge the execution of the law, not its repeal.

Verse 16. Then the king commanded] With a heavy heart he was obliged to warrant this murderous conspiracy. But, when passing sentence, his last words were affecting:—Thy God, whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee. He is thy God: thou servest him, not occasionally, the king spake and said unto Daniel, Thy God, whom thou servest continually, he will deliver thee.

A. M. cir. 3467. B. C. cir. 537. Ol. cir. LX. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 42.

17 [a] And a stone was brought, and laid upon the mouth of the den; [b] and the king sealed it with his own signet, and with the signet of his lords; that the purpose might not be changed concerning Daniel.

18 Then the king went to his palace, and passed the night fasting: neither were [c] instruments of music brought before him: [d] and his sleep went from him.

19 Then the king arose very early in the morning, and went in haste unto the den of lions.

20 And when he came to the den, he cried with a lamentable voice unto Daniel: and the king spake and said to Daniel, O Daniel, servant of the living God, [e] is thy God, whom thou servest continually, able to deliver thee from the lions?

21 Then said Daniel unto the king, [f] O king, live for ever.

22 [g] My God hath sent his angel, and hath [h] shut the lions' mouths, that they have not hurt me: forasmuch as before him innocency was found in me; and also before thee, O king, have I done no hurt.

A. M. cir. 3467. B. C. cir. 537. Ol. cir. LX. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 42.

23 Then was the king exceeding glad for him, and commanded that they should take Daniel up out of the den. So Daniel was taken up out of the den, and no manner of hurt was found upon him, [i] because he believed in his God.

24 And the king commanded, [k] and they brought those men which had accused Daniel, and they cast them into the den of lions, them, [l] their children, and their wives; and the lions had the mastery of them, and brake all their bones in pieces or ever they came at the bottom of the den.

25 [m] Then king Darius wrote unto all people, nations, and languages, that dwell in all the earth; Peace be multiplied unto you.

26 [n] I make a decree, That in every dominion

[a] Lam. 3. 53.—[b] So Matt. 27. 66.—[c] Or, table—[d] Ch. 2. 1.—[e] Ch. 3. 15. [f] Ch. 2. 4.—[g] Ch. 3. 28.—[h] Heb. 11. 33.

[i] Heb. 11. 33.—[k] Deut. 19. 19.—[l] Esth. 9. 10. See Deut. 24. 16. 2 Kings 14. 6.—[m] Ch. 4. 1.—[n] Ch. 3. 29.

but continually; therefore, He will deliver thee. Daniel had now the same kind of opportunity of shewing his fidelity to God, as his three Hebrew companions before. The lions were not less terrible than the fiery furnace.

Verse 17. A stone was brought] All this precaution served the purposes of the Divine Providence. There could be no trick nor collusion here: if Daniel be preserved, it must be by the power of the Supreme God. The same precaution was taken by the Jews, in the case of the burial of our blessed Lord; and this very thing has served as one of the strongest proofs of the certainty of His resurrection, and their unmixed wickedness.

Verse 18. Passed the night fasting] He neither eat nor drank,—had no music to solace,—nor sweet odours burnt or brought before him; and he passed the night without sleep. All this points out his great sincerity; and, when it is considered that Darius could not be less than sixty-two or sixty-three years of age at this time, it shews more fully the depth of his concern.

Verse 19. The king arose very early] By the break of day.

Verse 20. He cried with a lamentable voice] His heart, full of grief, affected his speech.

Servant of the living God] The king was convinced that, unless his God saved him, his destruction was inevitable.

Verse 22. My God hath sent his angel] Such a one as that who attended Shadrach, Meshach, and Abed-nego, in the fiery furnace; and blew aside the flames, so that they could not hurt them.

Before him innocency was found in me] Because I was innocent, God has preserved me; and now that I am preserved, my innocence is fully proved.

Verse 23. No manner of hurt was found upon him] And why? Because he believed in his God. How mighty is faith! It interests that power in the behalf of the believer, by which the sea is dried up, the mountains removed, the dead raised to life, sin forgiven, the heart purified, Satan vanquished, death conquered, and God himself delighted and glorified! See Heb. xi.

Verse 24. They brought those men] It was perfectly just that they should suffer that death to which they had endeavoured to subject the innocent: but it was savage cruelty to destroy the women and children who had no part in the transgression.

Verse 25. Then king Darius wrote] And the substance of this decree, which was made by a Heathen king, was to point out the perfections of the true God, and the fidelity of his devoted servant.

Verse 26. I make a decree, that—men tremble and fear before the God of Daniel] As in the case of the three Hebrews, chap. iii, 29. The true God was known by His servants, and by the deliverances He wrought for them. See His characters in this decree. 1. He is the living God; the Author and Giver of life: all others are dead gods. 2. He is of my kingdom men [a] tremble and fear before the God of Daniel: [b] for he is the living God, and stedfast for ever, and his kingdom that which shall not be [c] destroyed, and his dominion shall be even unto the end.

A. M. cir 3467. B. C. cir. 537. Ol. cir. LX. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 42.

27 He delivereth and rescueth, [d] and he worketh signs and wonders in heaven and in earth, who hath delivered Daniel from the [e] power of the lions.

A. M. cir. 3467. B. C. cir. 537. Ol. cir. LX. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 42.

28 So this Daniel prospered in the reign of Darius, [f] and in the reign of [g] Cyrus the Persian.

[a] Psa. 99. 1.——[b] Ch. 4. 34.——[c] Ch. 2. 44. & 4. 3, 34. & 7. 14, 27. Luke 1. 33.——[d] Ch. 4. 3.——[e] Heb. hand.——[f] Ch. 1. 21.——[g] Ezra 1. 1, 2.

steadfast for ever. All things change: but He is unchangeable. 3. He has a kingdom; for as He made all things, so He governs all things. 4. His kingdom shall not be destroyed. No human power can prevail against it, because it is upheld by His omnipotence. 5. His dominion is without end. It is an everlasting dominion, under an everlasting rule, by an everlasting God. 6. He delivereth them that are in danger and bondage. 7. He rescueth those who have fallen into the hands of their enemies, and implore His succour. 8. He worketh signs in the heavens. 9. And wonders upon earth; shewing that both are under His sway, and are parts of His dominion. 10. And, to complete all, He hath delivered Daniel. Before our own eyes He has given the fullest proof of his power and goodness, in rescuing His faithful servant from the teeth of the lions. What a fine eulogium on the great God, and His faithful servant!

Verse 28. So this Daniel prospered] He had served five kings:—Nebuchadnezzar, Evil-merodach, Belshazzar, Darius, and Cyrus. Few courtiers have had so long a reign, served so many masters without flattering any, been more successful in their management of public affairs, been so useful to the states where they were in office, or have been more owned of God, or have left such an example to posterity.

Where shall we find ministers like Samuel and Daniel? None so wise, so holy, so disinterested, so useful, have ever since appeared in the nations of the earth.

CHAPTER VII.

The Prophet having, in the preceding Chapters of his Book, related some remarkable events concerning himself and his brethren in the captivity, and given proof of his being enabled, by Divine assistance, to interpret the dreams of others, enters now into a detail of his own visions; returning to a period prior to the transactions recorded in the last Chapter. The first in order of the Prophet's visions is that of the four beasts, which arose out of a very tempestuous ocean, 1—9; and of one like the Son of man who annihilated the dominion of the fourth beast, because of the proud and blasphemous words of one of its horns, 9—14. An angel decyphers the hieroglyphics contained in this Chapter, declaring that the FOUR beasts, diverse one from another, represent the FOUR PARAMOUNT empires of the habitable globe, which should succeed each other; and are evidently the same which were shadowed forth to Nebuchadnezzar by another set of hieroglyphics, (see the second Chapter) 15—26. But, for the consolation of the people of God, it is added that, at the time appointed in the counsel of Jehovah, "the kingdom, and dominion, and the greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the saints of the Most High;" and that this kingdom shall never be destroyed or transferred to another people, as all the preceding dominations have been, but shall itself stand for ever, 27, 28. It will be proper to remark that the period of a time, times, and a half, mentioned in the twenty-fifth verse as the duration of the dominion of the little horn that made war with the saints, (generally supposed to be a symbolical representation of the Papal power) had most probably its commencement in A. D. 755 or 756, when Pepin, king of France, invested the Pope with temporal power. This hypothesis will bring the conclusion of the period to about the year of Christ 2000, a time fixed by Jews and Christians for some remarkable revolution; when the world (as they suppose) will be renewed, the wicked cease from troubling the church, and the saints of the Most High have dominion over the whole habitable globe. But all this is hypothesis.

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

IN the first year of Belshazzar king of Babylon [a]Daniel [b]had a dream and [c]visions of his head upon his bed: then he wrote the dream, and told the sum of the [d]matters.

2 Daniel spake and said, I saw in my vision by night, and, behold, the four winds of the heaven strove upon the great sea.

3 And four great beasts [e]came up from the sea, diverse one from another.

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

4 The first was [f]like a lion, and had eagle's wings: I beheld till the wings thereof were plucked, [g]and it was lifted up from the earth, and made stand upon the feet as a man, and a man's heart was given to it.

[a] Numb. 12. 6. Amos 3. 7.——[b] Chald. saw.——[c] Ch. 2. 28.——[d] Or, words. [e] Rev. 13. 1.

[f] Deut. 28. 49. 2 Sam. 1. 23. Jer. 4. 7, 13. & 48. 40. Ezek. 17. 3. Hab. 1. 8. [g] Or, wherewith.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VII.

Verse 1. In the first year of Belshazzar] This is the same Belshazzar who was slain at the taking of Babylon, as we have seen at the conclusion of Chapter the Fifth. That Chapter should have followed both this and the succeeding. The reason why the fifth Chapter was put in an improper place was that all the historic parts might be together, and the prophetic be by themselves; and, accordingly, the former end with the preceding Chapter, and the latter with this. The division therefore is not chronological, but merely artificial.

Told the sum of the matters.] That he might not forget this extraordinary dream, he wrote down the leading particulars when he arose.

Verse 2. The four winds of the heaven strove upon the great sea] The idea of strife is taken here from the effects that must be produced were the east, the west, the north, and the south winds, to rise tempestuously, and meet on the surface of the sea. By the great sea, the Mediterranean is meant; and is so called to distinguish it from those lakes called seas by the Hebrews; such as the sea of Galilee, Dead sea, sea of Tiberias, &c.: but even that may refer to Asia, the scene of all these contentions. This dream is the same in meaning, under different emblems, as that of Nebuchadnezzar's metallic image: but in Daniel's dream, several circumstances are added. It is supposed that Daniel had this dream about forty-eight years after Nebuchadnezzar had the vision of the great image.

Verse 3. Four great beasts came up from the sea] The term sea, in Hebrew ים yam, from המה hamah, to be tumultuous, agitated, &c., seems to be used here, to point out the then known terraqueous globe, because of its generally agitated state; and the four winds striving, point out those predatory wars that prevailed almost universally among men, from the days of Nimrod, the founder of the Assyrian or Babylonish monarchy, down to that time; and in the end gave birth to the four great monarchies, which are the subject of this vision.

Diverse one from another] The people were different; the laws and customs different; and the administration of each differently executed.

Verse 4. The first was like a lion, and had eagle's wings] Bp. Newton well remarks, these great beasts, as explained by the angel, ver. 17, are kingdoms. They arise out of a stormy and tempestuous sea; that is, out of the wars and commotions of the world; and they are called great in comparison of other states and kingdoms; and are denominated beasts for their tyrannical and cruel oppression.

These four beasts are indeed monstrous productions: a lion with eagle's wings; a bear with three ribs in its mouth; a leopard with four wings and four heads; and a beast with ten horns. But such emblems and hieroglyphics were usual among the eastern nations, as may be seen in the monuments of antiquity. A winged lion, and such like fictitious animals, may be seen in many parts of the ruins of Persepolis. Horns are attributed to beasts which naturally have none, being used in hieroglyphic writings for symbols of strength and power. And such figures are supposed to be the symbols of different nations; and are not more strange than many that are still used in heraldry. I believe the science of heraldry arose out of the knowledge gained from the symbols used in the Sacred Writings; and the little acquaintance anciently obtained of the meaning of some of the Ægyptian hieroglyphics. Hence our wiverons, griffins, unicorns, with a congeries of natural unnatural things, split eagles, two-headed swans, &c. &c. &c.

The beast like a lion, is the kingdom of the Babylonians; and the king of Babylon is compared to a lion, Jer. v, 7; Isa. v, 29; and is said to fly as an eagle, Jer. xlviii, 40; Ezek. xvii, 3, 7. The lion is considered the king of the beasts, and the eagle the king of the birds; and therefore the kingdom of Babylon, which was signified by the golden head of the great image, was the first and noblest of all the kingdoms; and was the greatest then in being. The wings of the eagle denote the rapidity with which the lion, Nebuchadnezzar, made his conquests; for in a few years, by his own arms, he brought his empire to such an extent, and raised it to such a degree of eminence, as was truly surprising; and all tended to shew with what propriety this eagle-winged lion is here made his emblem.

The wings thereof were plucked] Lydia, Media, and Persia, which had been provinces of the Babylonish empire, cast off the yoke, and put themselves under kings of their own. Besides, the rapidity of its conquests was stopped by its wars with the Medes and Persians; by whom it was

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

5 [a] And behold another beast, a second, like to a bear, and [b] it raised up itself on one side, and it had three ribs in the mouth of it between the teeth of it: and they said thus unto it, Arise, devour much flesh.

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

6 After this I beheld, and lo another, like a leopard, which had upon the back of it four wings of a fowl; the beast had also [c] four heads; and dominion was given to it.

7 After this I saw in the night visions, and at last conquered, and divided between Darius the Mede, and Cyrus the Persian.

[a] Ch. 2. 39.——[b] Or, it raised up one dominion.

[c] Ch. 8. 8, 22.

And it was lifted up from the earth] That is, the wings were plucked, rendered unfit for farther flight, by which it had before been lifted up from the earth; making its conquests almost with the rapidity of an eagle's flight. In what a short time did Nebuchadnezzar, who is here chiefly intended, conquer Syria, Phœnicia, Judea, Egypt, Arabia, &c.: but on his death the wings were plucked; and no farther extension of the empire took place under Evil-merodach or Belshazzar, till it was lost by the latter, and became divided as we have seen above.

And made stand upon the feet as a man] This I think refers to the taming of Nebuchadnezzar's pride. He had acted like a fierce and ravening lion. God struck him with insanity; he then lived the life of a beast, and had a beast's heart, disposition, and habits. At last God restored him.

And a man's heart was given to it] He became humane, humble, and pious; and in this state he appears to have died.

Verse 5. Another beast—like to a bear] This was the Medo-Persian empire, represented here under the symbol of the bear, as the largest species of these animals was found in Media, a mountainous, cold, and rough country, covered with woods. The Medes and Persians are compared to a bear on account of their cruelty and thirst after blood; a bear being a most voracious and cruel animal. The bear is termed by Aristotle an all-devouring animal; and the Medo-Persians are known to have been great robbers and spoilers. See Jer. li. 48—56. The Persians were infamous for the cruelty of their punishments. See Calmet.

Raised up itself on one side] Cyrus arose on the borders of Chaldea, and thus the bear appeared to put itself in the position to attack the lion.

It had three ribs in the mouth of it] As if it had just finished its repast on some animal that it had seized. Some think three tusks, curved like ribs, are meant; others three throats, עלעין illin, by which it (Cyrus) had absorbed the three empires of the Babylonians, Medes, and Persians; for these symbolic animals do not so much denote four empires as four kings. See ver. 17. Others think three rows of teeth are meant, to denote the triple power of the Medes, Persians, and Babylonians, conjoined. Or the east, north, and south, which were subdued by the Persians. But the ribs being between the teeth of the bear may shew how Babylon, Lydia, and Egypt, were ground and oppressed by the bear, the Persians; though, as ribs strengthen the body, they were a powerful support to their conquerors.

Verse 6. Another, like a leopard—four wings—four heads] This was the Macedonian or Greek empire; and Alexander the Great its king. Alexander and his subjects are fitly compared to a leopard. 1. The leopard is remarkable for its swiftness. Alexander and the Macedonians were very rapid in their conquests. 2. The leopard is a spotted animal; a proper emblem of the various nations, with their various customs and languages, which constituted the Macedonian empire. It may refer to the character of Alexander himself, sometimes mild, at others cruel; sober, and drunken; continent, and lecherous; having a great power of self-government, and at other times a slave to his passions. 3. The leopard, though small, is not afraid to attack the lion.

Four wings of a fowl] The Babylonian empire was represented with two wings; and they sufficiently marked the rapidity of Nebuchadnezzar's conquests: but the Macedonian has here four wings; for nothing, in the history of the world, was equal to the conquests of Alexander, who ran through all the countries from Illyricum and the Adriatic sea to the Indian ocean and the river Ganges; and in twelve years subdued part of Europe, and all Asia.

The beast had also four heads] Signifying the empire after the death of Alexander, divided between his four generals. Cassander reigning over Macedon and Greece; Lysimachus over Thrace and Bithynia; Ptolemy over Egypt; and Seleucus over Syria.

Dominion was given to it.] It was not owing to the skill, courage, or valour, of Alexander and his troops, that he made those wondrous conquests: the nations were given to him. For, as Bishop Newton says, had he not been assisted by the mighty power of God, how could he with only thirty thousand men, have overcome Darius with six hundred thousand; and in so short a time have brought the countries from Greece as far as India into subjection?

Verse 7. I saw—a fourth beast—it had great iron teeth] This is allowed, on all hands, to be the Roman empire. It was dreadful, terrible, and exceeding strong; it devoured, and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue, that is, the remains of the former kingdoms, with its feet. It reduced Macedon into a Roman province about one hundred and sixty-eight years before Christ; the kingdom of Pergamos about one hundred and thirty-three years; Syria about behold [a] a fourth beast, dreadful and terrible, and strong exceedingly; and it had great iron teeth: it devoured and brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with the feet of it: and it was diverse from all the beasts that were before it; [b] and it had ten horns.

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

8 I considered the horns, and, behold, [c] there came up among them another little horn, before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up by the roots: and, behold, in this horn were eyes like the eyes [d] of man, [e] and a mouth speaking great things.

9 [f] I beheld till the thrones were cast down, and [g] the Ancient of days did sit, [h] whose garment was white as snow, and the hair of his head like the pure wool: his throne was like the fiery flame, [i] and his wheels as burning fire.

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

10 [k] A fiery stream issued and came forth from before him: [l] thousand thousands ministered unto him, and ten thousand times ten thousand stood before him: [m] the judgment was set, and the books were opened.

11 I beheld then because of the voice of the great words which the horn spake: [n] I beheld even till the beast was slain, and his body destroyed, and given to the burning flame.

[a] Ch. 2. 40. ver. 19, 23.——[b] Ch. 2. 41. Rev. 13. 1.——[c] Ver. 20, 21, 24. ch. 8. 9.——[d] Rev. 9. 7.——[e] Psa. 12. 3. ver. 25. Rev. 13. 5.——[f] Rev. 20. 4.——[g] Psa. 90. 2. ver. 13, 22.

[h] Psa. 104. 2. Rev. 1. 14.——[i] Ezek. 1. 15, 16.——[k] Psa. 50. 3. & 97. 3. Isa. 30. 33. & 66. 15.——[l] 1 Kings 22. 19. Psa. 68. 17. Heb. 12. 22. Rev. 5. 11.——[m] Rev. 20. 4, 12.——[n] Rev. 19. 20.

sixty-five; and Egypt about thirty years before Christ. And, besides the remains of the Macedonian empire, it subdued many other provinces and kingdoms; so that it might, by a very usual figure, be said to devour the whole earth, to tread it down, and break it to pieces; and became in effect, what the Roman writers delight to call it, the empire of the whole world.

It (the fourth beast) was diverse from all the beasts that were before it. Not only in its republican form of government; but also in power and greatness, extent of dominion, and length of duration.

It had ten horns.] The ten kingdoms into which the Roman empire was afterwards divided. Calmet says, ten Syrian kings: and he finds them thus,—1. Seleucus Nicator. 2. Antiochus Soter. 3. Antiochus Theos. 4. Antiochus Callinicus. 5. Seleucus Ceraunus. 6. Antiochus the Great. 7. Seleucus, surnamed Philopater, brother of Antiochus Epiphanes. 8. Laomedon of Mitylene, to whom Syria and Phœnicia had been entrusted. 9. Antigone. And, 10. His son Demetrius, who possessed those provinces, with the title of kings. This is too much like forced work. There are different opinions concerning these ten kings; or, rather, which they were that constituted this division of the Roman empire. They are reckoned thus:—1. The Roman senate. 2. The Greeks, in Ravenna. 3. The Lombards, in Lombardy. 4. The Huns, in Hungary. 5. The Alemans, in Germany. 6. The Franks, in France. 7. The Burgundians, in Burgundy. 8. The Saracens, in Africa, and a part of Spain. 9. The Goths, in other parts of Spain. 10. And the Saxons, in Britain.

Verse 8. Another little horn] Among Protestant writers, this is considered to be the Popedom.

Before whom there were three of the first horns plucked up] These were probably,—1. The exarchate of Ravenna. 2. The kingdom of the Lombards. And, 3. The state of Rome. The first was given to the Pope, Stephen II., by Pepin, king of France, A. D. 755; and this constituted the Popes, temporal princes. The second was given to St. Peter by Charlemagne in 774. The third, the state of Rome, was vested in the Pope, both in spirituals and temporals, and confirmed to him by Lewis the Pious. These are the three horns which were plucked up from the roots before the little horn.

Were eyes like the eyes of man] Intimating cunning and superintendence; for the Pope calls himself Episcopus episcoporum, the Overseer of overseers.

And a mouth speaking great things.] Full of boasting; pretending to unlimited jurisdiction; binding and loosing at pleasure. Promising to absolve from all sins, present, past, and future; and threatening to send to everlasting destruction all kings, kingdoms, and individuals, who would dare to dispute his power and authority.

Verse 9. The thrones were cast down] רמיו might be translated erected; so the Vulgate positi sunt, and so all the Versions: but that ours is a proper translation, is sufficiently evident from chap. iii, 6, 15, 20; vi, 17, &c.; where the original word can be used in no other sense than that of throwing or casting down. There is a reference here to preparations made for a general assize, or to the convocation of the Sanhedrin, where the father of the consistory sat with his assessors on each side in the form of a semicircle, and the people stood before them.

The Ancient of days] God Almighty; and this is the only place in the Sacred Writings where God the Father is represented in a human form.

Verse 10. A fiery stream issued] This is not spoken of the final judgment: but of that which He was to execute upon this fourth beast, the Roman empire; and the little boasting horn, which is a part of the fourth beast, and must fall when the other falls.

Verse 11. I beheld then because of the voice (or, the beast will be destroyed, because) of the great words which

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

12 As concerning the rest of the beasts, they had their dominion taken away: yet [a] their lives were prolonged for a season and time.

13 I saw in the night visions, and, behold, [b] one like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven, and came to [c] the Ancient of days, and they brought him near before him.

14 [d] And there was given him dominion, and glory, and a kingdom, that all [e] people, nations, and languages, should serve him: his dominion is [f] an everlasting dominion, which shall not pass away, and his kingdom that which shall not be destroyed.

15 I Daniel [g] was grieved in my spirit in the midst of my [h] body, and the visions of my head troubled me.

16 I came near unto one of them that stood by, and asked him the truth of all this. So he told me, and made me know the interpretation of the things.

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

17 [i] These great beasts, which are four, are four kings, which shall arise out of the earth.

18 But [k] the saints of the [l] Most High shall take the kingdom, and possess the kingdom for ever, even for ever and ever.

19 Then I would know the truth of [m] the fourth beast, which was diverse [n] from all the others, exceeding dreadful, whose teeth were of iron, and his nails of brass; which devoured, brake in pieces, and stamped the residue with his feet;

20 And of the ten horns that were in his head, and of the other which came up, and before whom three fell; even of that horn that had eyes, and a mouth that spake very great things, whose look was more stout than his fellows.

21 I beheld, [o] and the same horn made war

[a] Chald. a prolonging in life was given them.——[b] Ezek. 4. 26. Matt. 24. 30. & 26. 64. Rev. 1. 7, 13. & 14. 14.——[c] Ver. 9.——[d] Psa. 2. 6, 7, 8. & 8. 6. & 110. 1, 2. Matt. 11. 27. & 28. 18. John 3. 35. 1 Cor. 15. 27. Eph. 1. 33.——[e] Ch. 3. 4.——[f] Psa. 145. 13. ch. 2. 44. ver. 27. Mic. 4. 7. Luke 1. 33. John 12. 34. Heb. 12. 28.

[g] Ver. 28.——[h] Chald. sheath.——[i] Ver. 3.——[k] Isa. 60. 12, 13, 14. ver. 22, 27. 2 Tim. 2. 11, 12. Rev. 2. 26, 27. & 3. 21. & 20. 4.——[l] Chald. high ones, that is, things, or, places.——[m] Ver. 7.——[n] Chald. from all those.——[o] Ch. 8. 12, 24. & 11. 31. Rev. 11. 7. & 13. 7. & 17. 14. & 19. 19.

the horn spake—his body destroyed] When the dominion was taken from the rest of the beasts, their bodies were not destroyed, but suffered to continue still in being; but when the dominion shall be taken away from this beast, his body shall be totally destroyed; because other kingdoms succeeded to those, but none other earthly kingdom shall succeed to this.—Bishop Newton.

Verse 13. One like the Son of man came with the clouds of heaven] This most certainly points out the Lord Jesus, בר אנש bar enosh, the Son of miserable man; who took our nature upon Him that He might redeem us unto Himself. To prove Himself to be the Messiah He applies, before the high priests, these words of the prophet Daniel to Himself, Matt. xxiv, 30.

Near before him.] The Ancient of days.

Verse 14. And there was given him dominion] This also is applied to our Lord Jesus by Himself, after His resurrection, Matt. xxviii, 18.

His dominion is an everlasting dominion] Christianity shall increase, and prevail, to the end of the world. See the parallel passages in the Margin.

Verse 15. I Daniel was grieved, &c.] The words in the original are uncommonly emphatic. My spirit was grieved, or sickened, בגו נרנה bego nedaneh, within its sheath, or scabbard. Which I think proves,—1. That the human spirit is different from the body. 2. That it has a proper subsistence independently of the body, which is only its sheath for a certain time. 3. That the spirit may exist independently of its body, as the sword does independently of its sheath.

Verse 17. These great beasts—are four kings] See the preceding verses, where the following explanations are inserted and illustrated.

Verse 18. But the saints of the Most High shall take the kingdom] I doubt whether this be the true sense of the original Chaldee, ויקבלון מלכותא קדישי עליונין ve-yikabelun malcutha kadishey êlionin. "But the supreme holy ones shall receive the kingdom;" or, "they shall receive the kingdom of the supreme saints." Properly translated by Montanus, Et suscipient regnum sanctorum altissimorum. Whatever we may think of the Patriarchs and the Jews, in their best times, there has never been so much holiness of heart possessed, and so much righteousness practised, as by the genuine disciples of Christ. Christianity alone has provided a full redemption for man. They are the chief saints, and to them God gives the kingdom: and this gospel dispensation, called often the kingdom of God, and the kingdom of heaven, shall last for ever, during the whole lapse of time; and for ever and ever, throughout eternity, shall they and its blessings endure.

Verse 19. His nails of brass] This is not mentioned in the seventh verse, where the description of the beast is given. It might be added, for the first time, by the person who is now explaining the fourth beast. Houbigant thinks it has been lost out of the Text: but such loss is not intimated by any MS.; nor does any of the ancient Versions acknowledge this addition in the seventh verse.

Verse 21. The same horn made war with the saints, and prevailed against them.] Those who make Antiochus the little horn, make the saints the Jewish people. Those who

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

with the saints, and prevailed against them;

22 [a] Until the Ancient of days came, [b] and judgment was given to the saints of the Most High; and the time came that the saints possessed the kingdom.

23 Thus he said, The fourth beast shall be [c] the fourth kingdom upon earth, which shall be diverse from all kingdoms, and shall devour the whole earth, and shall tread it down, and break it in pieces.

24 [d] And the ten horns out of this kingdom are ten kings that shall arise: and another shall rise after them; and he shall be diverse from the first, and he shall subdue three kings.

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

25 [e] And he shall speak great words against the Most High, and shall [f] wear out the saints of the Most High, and [g] think to change times and laws: and [h] they shall be given into his hand [i] until a time and times and the dividing of time.

26 [k] But the judgment shall sit, and they shall take away his dominion, to consume and to destroy it unto the end.

27 And the [l] kingdom and dominion, and the

[a] Ver. 9.——[b] Ver. 18. 1 Cor. 6. 2. Rev. 1. 6. & 5. 10. & 20. 4.——[c] Ch. 2. 40.——[d] Ver. 7. 8, 20. Rev. 17. 12.——[e] Isa. 37. 23. ch. 8. 24, 25. & 11. 28, 30, 31, 36. 1 Macc. 1. 46. Rev. 13. 5, 6.

[f] Rev. 17. 6. & 18. 24.——[g] Ch. 2. 21.——[h] Rev. 13. 7.——[i] Ch. 12. 7. Rev. 12. 14.——[k] Ver. 10, 22.——[l] Ver. 14, 18, 22. ch. 2. 42. Obad. 21. Matt. 25. 34. Mark 11. 20. Luke 22. 32.

understand the Popedom by it, see this as referring to the cruel persecutions of the Popes of Rome against the Waldenses and Albigenses, and the Protestant church in general.

Verse 22. Saints of the Most High] To the supereminent saints; see the Note on ver. 18.

Verse 25. He shall speak great words against the Most High] Sermones quasi Deus loquetur; "He shall speak as if he were God." So St. Jerom quotes from Symmachus. To none can this apply so well, and so fully, as to the Popes of Rome. They have assumed infallibility, which belongs only to God. They profess to forgive sins, which belongs only to God. They profess to open and shut heaven, which belongs only to God. They profess to be higher than all the kings of the earth, which belongs only to God. And they go beyond God, in pretending to loose whole nations from their oath of allegiance to their kings, when such kings do not please them! And they go against God, when they give indulgences for sin. This is the worst of all blasphemies.

And shall wear out the saints] By wars, crusades, massacres, inquisitions, and persecutions of all kinds. What, in this way, have they not done against all those who have protested against their innovations, and refused to submit to their idolatrous worship? Witness the exterminating crusades published against the Waldenses and Albigenses. Witness John Huss, and Jerom of Prague. Witness the Smithfield fires in England! Witness God and man against this bloody, persecuting, ruthless, and impure church!

And think to change times and laws] Appointing fasts and feasts; canonizing persons whom he chooses to call saints; granting pardons and indulgences for sins; instituting new modes of worship utterly unknown to the Christian church; new articles of faith; new rules of practice; and reversing, with pleasure, the laws both of God and man.—Dodd.

Until a time and times and the dividing of time.] In prophetic language, a time signifies a year; and a prophetic year has a year for each day. Three years and a half, (a day standing for a year, as in chap. ix, 24,) will amount to one thousand two hundred and sixty years, if we reckon thirty days to each month, as the Jews do.

If we knew precisely when the Papal power began to exert itself in the Antichristian way, then we could at once fix the time of its destruction. The end is probably not very distant; it has already been grievously shaken by the French. In 1798, the French republican army, under General Berthier, took possession of the city of Rome, and entirely superseded the whole Papal power. This was a deadly wound, though at present it appears to be healed: but it is but skinned over; and a dreadful cicatrice remains. The Jesuits, not Jesus, are now the church's doctors.

If the Papal power as a horn, or temporal power, be intended here, which is most likely; (and we know that that power was given in 755, to Pope Stephen II, by Pepin, king of France;) counting one thousand two hundred and sixty years from that, we are brought to A. D. 2015, about one hundred and ninety years from the present A. D. 1825.—But I neither lay stress, nor draw conclusions, from these dates. If the church of Rome will reform itself, it will then be the true Christian church, and will never be destroyed. Let it throw aside all that is ritually Jewish; all that is heathen; all that which pretends to be of God, and which is only of man; all doctrines that are not in the Bible; and all rites and ceremonies which are not of the appointment of Christ and His apostles;—and then, all hail the once Roman, but now, after such a change, the Holy Catholic church! Every true Protestant would wish rather the reform than the extinction of this church.

Verse 27. The kingdom and dominion] The people of the saints of the Most High, or the people who are the supereminent saints, shall have the kingdom. Whatever name they may be distinguished by among men, these are the people, and theirs is the church, that no lapse of time greatness of the kingdom under the whole heaven, shall be given to the people of the saints of the Most High, [a] whose kingdom is an everlasting kingdom, [b] and all [c] dominions shall serve and obey him.

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

28 Hitherto is the end of the matter. As for me Daniel, [d] my cogitations much troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I [e] kept the matter in my heart.

A. M. cir. 3449. B. C. cir. 555. Ol. cir. LVI. 2. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 24.

[a] Ch. 2. 44. Luke 1. 33. John 12. 34. Rev. 11. 15.——[b] Isa. 60. 12.

[c] Or, rulers.——[d] Ver. 15. ch. 8. 27. & 10. 8, 16.——[e] Luke 2. 19, 51.

shall injure, and no power be able to destroy: but shall last as long as time shall endure.

Verse 28. The end of the matter] So said the expounding angel; and he said so, because the purpose of God had determined it. In considering these things, and looking at the evils that shall come upon the world before those auspicious times can take place, I may say with Daniel, My cogitations much troubled me, and my countenance changed in me: but I keep the matter of my conjectures and consequent feelings in my own heart.

CHAPTER VIII.

This Chapter contains Daniel's vision of the ram and he-goat, 1—14; referring, as explained by the angel, to the Persian and Grecian monarchies, 15—26. The little horn mentioned in the ninth verse, (or fierce king as interpreted in the twenty-third,) is supposed by some to denote Antiochus Epiphanes; but seems more properly to apply to the Roman power in general, by which the polity and Temple of the Jews were destroyed, on account of the great transgressions of these ancient people of God; and particularly because of their very obstinate and unaccountable rejection of the glorious doctrines of Christianity, which had been preached among them by Jesus Christ and His apostles, and the truth of which God had attested "by signs and wonders, and by divers miracles and gifts of the Holy Ghost." Daniel is then informed of the two thousand and three hundred prophetic days, (that is, years,) which must elapse before the sanctuary be cleansed; or, in other words, before righteousness shall prevail over the whole earth. This period is supposed, with considerable probability, to have had its commencement when Alexander the Great invaded Asia, in the year before Christ 334. This will bring the close of it to about the end of the SIXTH chiliad of the world; when, as already observed, some astonishing changes are expected to take place in the moral condition of the human race; when the power of Antichrist, both Papal and Mohammedan, shall be totally annihilated; and universal dominion be given to the saints of the Most High. The Chapter concludes with the distress of Daniel on account of the fearful judgments with which his country should be visited in after ages, 27.

A. M. cir. 3451. B. C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

IN the third year of the reign of king Belshazzar a vision appeared unto me, even unto me Daniel, after that which appeared unto me [a] at the first.

2 And I saw in a vision; and it came to pass, when I saw, that I was at [b] Shushan in the palace, which is in the province of Elam; and I saw in a vision, and I was by the river of Ulai.

A. M. cir. 3451. B. C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

[a] Ch. 7. 1.

[b] Esth. 1. 2.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VIII.

Verse 1. In the third year of the reign of—Belshazzar] We now come once more to Hebrew; the Chaldee part of the book being finished. As the Chaldeans had a particular interest, both in the history and prophecies, from chap. ii, 4, to the end of chap. vii, the whole is written in Chaldee: but as the prophecies which remain concern times posterior to the Chaldean monarchy, and principally relate to the church and people of God generally, they are written in the Hebrew language, this being the tongue in which God chose

A.M. cir. 3451. B.C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

3 Then I lifted up mine eyes, and saw, and, behold, there stood before the river a ram which had two horns: and the two horns were high; but one was higher than [a] the other, and the higher came up last.

4 I saw the ram pushing westward, and northward, and southward; so that no beasts might stand before him, neither was there any that could deliver out of his hand; [b] but he did according to his will, and became great.

A.M. cir. 3451. B.C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

5 And as I was considering, behold, a he-goat came from the west on the face of the whole earth, and [c] touched not the ground: and the goat had [d] a [e] notable horn between his eyes.

6 And he came to the ram that had two horns,

[a] Heb. the second.——[b] Ch. 5. 19. & 11. 3, 16.

[c] Or, none touched him in the earth.——[d] Heb. a horn of sight.——[e] Ver. 21.

to reveal all His counsels given under the Old Testament relative to the New.

Verse 2. I saw in a vision] Daniel was at this time in Shushan, which appears to have been a strong place, where the kings of Persia had their summer residence. It was the capital of the province of Elam, or the Elymais; which province was most probably added to the Chaldean territories by Nebuchadnezzar; see Jer. xlix, 34, 35. Here was Daniel's ordinary residence; and though here at this time, he, in vision, saw himself on the banks of the river Ulai. This is the same as the river Euleus, which divided Shushan, or Susiana, from Elymais.

Verse 3. A ram which had two horns] In the former vision there were four beasts, pointing out four empires: in this we have but two, as only two empires are concerned here, viz., the Grecian and the Persian. The Babylonish empire is not mentioned: its fate was before decided; and it was now at its close.

By the ram, the empire of the Medes and Persians was pointed out, as explained by the angel Gabriel, ver. 20; and particularly Cyrus, who was the founder of that empire. Cyrus was the son of Cambyses, king of Persia; and grandson of Astyages, king of Media, by his daughter Mandane, who had been given in marriage to Cambyses. Cyrus, marrying Roxana, the daughter and only child of his uncle Cyaxares, called in Scripture Ahasuerus, succeeded to both crowns, and thus united Media and Persia. A ram was the symbol of the Persians; and a ram's head with two horns, one higher than the other, appears as such in different parts of the ruins of Persepolis. See the plates of these ruins in the Supplement to the seventh volume of the ancient part of the Universal History.

This ram had two horns; that is, two kingdoms, viz. Media and Persia: but one was higher than the other; and the higher came up last. Media, signified by the shorter horn, was the more ancient of the two kingdoms. Persia, the higher horn, had come up but lately, and was of little historic or political consequence till the time of Cyrus; but in the reigns of this prince and his immediate successors, Persia attained a political consequence greatly superior to that possessed at any time by the kingdom of Media; therefore, it is said to have been the higher, and to have come up last.

Verse 4. I saw the ram pushing westward] The Persians, who are signified by the ram, as well as their founder Cyrus, pushed their conquests west, north, and south. The principal theatre of their wars, says Calmet, was against the Scythians, northward; against the Greeks, westward; and against the Egyptians, southward.

He did according to his will] There was no other nation at that time that could stay the progress of the Persian arms.

Verse 5. Behold, a he-goat] This was Alexander the Great; and a goat was a very proper symbol of the Grecian or Macedonian people. Bp. Newton very properly observes that, two hundred years before the time of Daniel, they were called Ægeadæ, the goat's people; the origin of which name is said to be as follows:—Caranus, their first king, going with a multitude of Greeks to seek a new habitation in Macedonia, was advised by an oracle to take the goats for his guides; and afterwards, seeing a herd of goats, flying from a violent storm, he followed them to Edessa, and there fixed the seat of his empire, and made the goats his ensigns or standards; and called the place Ægæ or Ægea, the goats' town; and the people Ægeadæ, the goats' people; names which are derived from αιξ, αιγος, a goat. The city Ægæ, or Ægea, was the usual burying place of the Macedonian kings; and, in reference to this origin, Alexander called his son by Roxana Alexander Ægus, Alexander the goat. All this shews the very great propriety of the symbol here used.

Came from the west] Europe lies westward of Asia.

On the face of the whole earth] Carrying every thing before him.

Touched not the ground] Seemed to fly from conquest to conquest. By the time Alexander was thirty years of age he had conquered all Asia; and, because of the rapidity of his conquests, he is represented as a leopard with four wings, in the preceding vision.

A notable horn between his eyes] This, says the angel, is the first king, ver. 21, that is, the first kingdom of the Greeks in Asia, which was erected by Alexander; and continued some years in his brother Philip Aridæus, and in his two young sons, Alexander Ægus and Hercules. See Newton.

Verse 6. And he came to the ram] This and the following verse give an account of the overthrow of the Persian empire by Alexander.

And ran unto him in the fury of his power.] The conflicts which I had seen standing before the river, and ran unto him in the fury of his power.

A. M. cir. 3451. B. C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

7 And I saw him come close unto the ram, and he was moved with choler against him, and smote the ram, and brake his two horns: and there was no power in the ram to stand before him, but he cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him: and there was none that could deliver the ram out of his hand.

8 Therefore the he-goat waxed very great: and when he was strong, the great horn was broken; and for it came up [a] four notable ones toward the four winds of heaven.

A. M. cir. 3451. B. C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

9 [b] And out of one of them came forth a little horn, which waxed exceeding great, [c] toward the south, and toward the east, and toward the [d] pleasant land.

10 [e] And it waxed great, even [f] to [g] the host of heaven; and [h] it cast down some of the host and of the stars to the ground, and stamped upon them.

11 Yea, [i] he magnified himself even [k] to [l] the prince of the host, [m] and [n] by him [o] the daily sacrifice was taken away, and the place of his sanctuary was cast down.

[a] Ch. 7. 6. & 11. 4. ver. 22.——[b] Ch. 7. 8. & 11. 21.——[c] Ch. 11. 25. 1 Macc. 1. 16—19.——[d] Psa. 48. 2. Ezek. 20. 6, 15. ch. 11. 16, 41, 45.——[e] Ch. 11. 28.——[f] Or, against the host.——[g] So Isa. 14. 13.

[h] Rev. 12. 4.——[i] Jer. 48. 26, 42. ch. 11. 36. ver. 25.——[k] Or, against.——[l] Josh. 5. 14.——[m] Ch. 11, 31. & 12. 11. 1 Macc. 1. 44—64.——[n] Or, from him.——[o] Exod. 29. 38. Numb. 28. 3. Ezek. 46. 13.

between the Greeks and the Persians were excessively severe. Alexander first vanquished the generals of Darius, at the river Granicus, in Phrygia; he next attacked and totally routed Darius, at the straits of Issus, in Cilicia; and afterwards at the plains of Arbela, in Assyria. One can hardly read these words, says Bp. Newton,—the ram—which I had seen standing by the river, ran unto him in the fury of his power, without having the image of Darius' army standing and guarding the river Granicus; and of Alexander on the other side, with his forces plunging in, swimming across the stream, and rushing on the enemy, with all the fire and fury that can be conceived.

Verse 7. And brake his two horns] Subdued Persia and Media;—sacked and burnt the royal city of Persepolis, the capital of the Persian empire; and, even in its ruins, one of the wonders of the world to the present day. This he did because he was moved with choler against Darius, who had endeavoured to draw off his captains with bribes, and had laboured to induce some of his friends to assassinate him. Alexander, finding this, would listen to no proposals of peace; and was determined never to rest till he had destroyed Darius and his whole empire. In Media, Darius was seized and made prisoner by some of his own treacherous subjects, and afterwards basely murdered.

There was no power in the ram to stand before him] Alexander's victories over the Persians were as easy as they were rapid and decisive.

He cast him down to the ground, and stamped upon him] Totally destroyed the family, and overturned the whole monarchy.

Verse 8. The he-goat waxed very strong] He had subdued nearly the whole of the then known world.

The great horn was broken] Alexander died in the height of his conquests, when he was but about thirty-three years of age. His natural brother, Philip Aridæus, and his two sons, Alexander Ægus and Hercules, kept up the show and name of the Macedonian kingdom for a time: but they were all murdered within fifteen years; and thus the great horn, the Macedonian kingdom was broken, Alexander's family being now cut off.

And for it came up four notable ones] The regal family being all dead, the governors of provinces usurped the title of kings; and Antigonus, one of them, being slain at the battle of Ipsus, they were reduced to four, as we have already seen. 1. Seleucus, who had Syria and Babylon, from whom came the Seleucidæ, famous in history. 2. Lysimachus, who had Asia Minor. 3. Ptolemy, son of Lagus, who had Egypt, from whom sprang the Lagidæ. And, 4. Cassander, who had Greece and the neighbouring countries. These held dominion towards the four winds of heaven. Cassander had the western parts, Lysimachus had the northern regions. Ptolemy possessed the southern countries, and Seleucus had the eastern provinces.

Verse 9. Out of one of them came forth a little horn] Some think that Antiochus Epiphanes is meant: but Bp. Newton contends that it is the Roman government that is intended; and although very great at its zenith, yet very little in its origin.

Waxed—great toward the south] The Romans made Egypt a province of their empire, and it continued such for some centuries.

Toward the east] They conquered Syria, and made it a province.

Toward the pleasant land.] Judea, so called Psa. cvi, 24; Jer. iii, 19; Dan. xi, 16, 41. It is well known that they took Judea, and made it a province; and afterwards burnt the city and the Temple, and scattered the Jews over the face of the earth.

Verse 10. The host of heaven] The Jewish hierarchy. The stars, the priests and Levites. The powers or host of heaven are probably intended by our Lord, Matt. xxiv, 29, to signify the whole Jewish hierarchy.

Verse 11. Even to the prince of the host] They seemed, in this case, to fight against God Himself.

A. M. cir. 3451. B. C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

12 [1] And [a] a [b] host was given him against the daily sacrifice [c] by reason of transgression, and it cast down [d] the truth to the ground; and it [e] practised, and prospered.

13 Then I heard [f] one saint speaking, and another saint said unto [g] that [h] certain saint which spake, How long shall be the vision concerning the daily sacrifice, and the transgression of [i] desolation, to give both the sanctuary and the host to be trodden under foot?

14 And he said unto me, Unto two thousand and three hundred [k] days; [l] then shall the sanctuary be [m] cleansed.

15 And it came to pass, when I, even I Daniel, had seen the vision, and [n] sought for the meaning, then, behold, there stood before me [o] as the appearance of a man.

16 And I heard a man's voice [p] between the banks of Ulai, which called, and said, [q] Gabriel, make this man to understand the vision.

17 So he came near where I stood; and when he came, I was afraid, and [r] fell upon my face: but he said unto me, Understand, O son of man, for at the time of the end shall be the vision.

A. M. cir. 3451. B. C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

18 [s] Now as he was speaking with me, I was in a deep sleep on my face toward the ground: [t] but he touched me, and [u] set me upright.

19 And he said, Behold, I will make thee know what shall be in the last end of the indignation: [x] for at the time appointed the end shall be.

20 [y] The ram which thou sawest having two horns are the kings of Media and Persia.

21 [z] And the rough goat is the king of Grecia: and the great horn that is between his eyes [a] is the first king.

22 [b] Now that being broken, whereas four stood up for it, four kingdoms shall stand up out of the nation, but not in his power.

23 And in the latter time of their kingdom, [c] when the transgressors [d] are come to the full,

---

[a] Ch. 11. 31.——[b] Or, the host was given over for the transgression against the daily sacrifice.——[c] 1 Macc. 1. 11, &c. 2 Macc. 4. 13—17.——[d] Psa. 119. 43, 142. Isa. 59. 14.——[e] Ver. 4. ch. 11. 28, 36.——[f] Ch. 4. 13. & 12. 6. 1 Pet. 1. 12.——[g] Or, the numberer of secrets, or, the wonderful numberer.——[h] Heb. Palmoni.——[i] Or, making desolate, ch. 11. 31. & 12. 11. 1 Macc. 1. 54.——[k] Heb. evening morning.——[l] 1 Macc. 4. 36, &c.

[m] Heb. justified.——[n] See ch. 12. 8. 1 Pet. 1. 10, 11.——[o] Ezek. 1. 26.——[p] Ch. 12. 6, 7.——[q] Ch. 9. 21. Luke 1. 19, 26.——[r] Ezek. 1. 28. Rev. 1. 17.——[s] Ch. 10. 9, 10. Luke 9. 32.——[t] Ezek. 2. 2.——[u] Heb. made me stand upon my standing.——[x] Ch. 9. 27. & 11. 27, 35, 36. & 12. 7. Hab. 2. 3.——[y] Ver. 3.——[z] Ver. 5.——[a] Ch. 11. 3.——[b] Ver. 8. ch. 11. 4.——[c] 1 Macc. 1. 11, &c., & 2. 15.——[d] Heb. are accomplished.

The daily sacrifice was taken away] By the destruction of the city and Temple; and has never been restored from that day until now.

Verse 12. And a host was given him] That is, power—or, perhaps, the host of heaven; the priesthood, the whole sacrificial system,—by reason of transgression. They had filled up the measure of their iniquities in rejecting the Lord that bought them; and the daily sacrifice, being no longer of use, was given up with the rest to destruction.

Cast down the truth] Probably the whole Jewish ritual and religion.

Practised, and prospered] Prosperity or success followed all their acts.

Verse 13. One saint speaking, and another saint said] One angel asked another how long the sanctuary was to be trodden down?

Verse 14. Unto two thousand and three hundred days] Though literally it be two thousand three hundred evenings and mornings; yet I think the prophetic day should be understood here, as in other parts of this prophet, and must signify so many years. If we date these years from the vision of the he-goat, (Alexander's invading Asia,) this was A. M. 3670, B. C. 334; and two thousand three hundred years from that time will reach to A. D. 1966, or one hundred and forty-one years from the present A. D. 1825. This will bring it near to the time mentioned chap. vii, 25, where see the Note.

Verse 15. As the appearance of a man.] Supposed to be the Messiah.

Verse 17. At the time of the end shall be the vision.] Or, as Houbigant,—"The vision shall have an end at the proper time."

Verse 20. The ram which thou sawest] See this explained under the vision itself, ver. 3, &c.

Verse 22. But not in his power.] The four kingdoms which shall arise out of the Macedonian empire shall not be of Alexander's power or family, nor have his strength and dignity.

Verse 23. When the transgressors are come to the full] When the utmost degradation has taken place, by the buying and selling of the high priesthood; for Onias was ejected for a sum of money, to make room for wicked Jason;—and Jason again was supplanted for a greater sum, by a worse man, if possible, than himself, Menelaus: and the golden vessels of the Temple were sold to pay for this sacrilegious purchase. Thus transgressions were come to the full, before the Romans had commission to destroy Jerusalem and its Temple, &c.

A king of fierce countenance] The Roman government, as before; for king is often taken for kingdom, or empire.

Understanding dark sentences] Very learned, and skilful in all things relating to government and its intrigues. The learning of Rome is proverbial to the present time.

A. M. cir. 3451. B. C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

a king [a] of fierce countenance, and understanding dark sentences, [b] shall stand up.

24 And his power shall be mighty, [c] but not by his own power: and he shall destroy wonderfully [d] and shall prosper, and practise, [e] and shall destroy the mighty and the [f] holy people.

25 And [g] through his policy also he shall cause craft to prosper in his hand; [h] and he shall magnify himself in his heart, [i] and by [k] peace shall destroy many: [l] he shall also stand up against the Prince of princes; but he shall be [m] broken without hand.

A. M. cir. 3451. B. C. cir. 553. Ol. cir. LVI. 4. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 26.

26 [n] And the vision of the evening and the morning which was told is true: [o] wherefore shut thou up the vision; for it shall be for many days.

27 [p] And I Daniel fainted, and was sick certain days; afterward I rose up, [q] and did the king's business; and I was astonished at the vision, [r] but none understood it.

---

[a] Deut. 28. 50.——[b] Ver. 6.——[c] Rev. 17. 13, 17.——[d] Ver. 12. ch. 11. 36.——[e] Ver. 10. ch. 7. 25.——[f] Heb. people of the holy ones.——[g] Ch. 11. 21, 23, 24.——[h] Ver. 11. ch. 11. 36. 2 Macc. 9. 4, 7, 8, 11.——[i] 1 Macc. 1. 30, &c.

[k] Or, prosperity.——[l] Ver. 11. ch. 11. 36.——[m] Job 34. 20. Lam. 4. 6. ch. 2. 34, 45. 1 Macc. 6. 8—13. 2 Macc. 9. 9, &c.——[n] Ch. 10. 1.——[o] Ezek. 12. 27. ch. 10. 14. & 12. 4, 9. Rev. 22. 10.——[p] Ch. 7. 28. & 10. 8, 16.——[q] Ch. 6, 2, 3.——[r] See ver. 16.

Verse 24. But not by his own power] The strength of the other kingdoms consisted in themselves:—but the Roman empire, as a horn or kingdom of the goat, was not mighty by its own power,—was not strong by virtue of the goat,—but drew its nourishment and strength from Rome and Italy. There grew the trunk and body of the tree; though the branches extended over Greece, Asia, Syria, and Egypt.—Bp. Newton.

Shall destroy wonderfully] In the taking of Jerusalem by the Romans ninety-seven thousand Jews were made captives, and eleven hundred thousand were slain. So they destroyed this once mighty and holy people!

Verse 25. He shall cause craft to prosper] They subdued as many by their diplomatic skill and political intrigues as they did by the sword.

He shall also stand up against the Prince of princes] Against Christ,—for it was by the Roman authority that He was condemned to death and crucified; and their persecutions had nearly destroyed the Christian religion—but the house was founded on a Rock.

But he shall be broken without hand.] The tide was turned by the invisible hand of God; and thus Heathen Rome was overcome, and converted to Christianity.

Verse 26. The vision of the evening and the morning which was told is true] That mentioned in ver. 14.

For it shall be for many days] Not less than two thousand three hundred years!

Verse 27. Daniel fainted] To foresee the desolations that were coming on the land, the city, the Temple, and the people.

Did the king's business] Transacted the affairs of state that belonged to my department,—after having been sick for certain days through the effects of this vision. He had a pious and feeling heart; and he was distressed for the desolations that were coming upon his people.

CHAPTER IX.

Daniel, understanding from the prophecies of Jeremiah that the seventy years' captivity was now terminating, pours out his soul in fervent prayer to God, and earnestly supplicates pardon and restoration for his captive people, 1—19. When thus supplicating God in behalf of Israel, the angel Gabriel is sent to inform him of the seventy prophetic weeks, or four hundred and ninety natural years, which should elapse from the date of the edict to rebuild Jerusalem and the Temple to the death of the Messiah, 20—27; a prophecy most exactly fulfilled by the event, according to the computation of the best chronologers. Dean Prideaux states the commencement of these seventy prophetic weeks to have been in the month Nisan, in the year of the Julian Period 4256, which corresponds with A. M. 3546, B. C. 458, according to the Ussherian account. How awfully are the Jews blinded; who, in contradiction to so clear a prophecy, still expect the Messiah who was cut off; and, after suffering, is entered into His glory!

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

IN the first year [a] of Darius the son of Ahasuerus, of the seed of the Medes, [b] which was made king over the realm of the Chaldeans;

2 In the first year of his reign I Daniel understood by books the number of the years, whereof the word of the LORD came to [c] Jeremiah the prophet, that he would accomplish seventy years in the desolations of Jerusalem.

3 [d] And I set my face unto the Lord GOD, to seek by prayer and supplications, with fasting, and sackcloth, and ashes:

4 And I prayed unto the LORD my God, and made my confession, and said, O [e] Lord, the great and dreadful God, keeping the covenant and mercy to them that love him, and to them that keep his commandments;

5 [f] We have sinned, and have committed iniquity, and have done wickedly, and have rebelled, even by departing from thy precepts and from thy judgments:

6 [g] Neither have we hearkened unto thy servants the prophets, which spake in thy name to our kings, our princes, and our fathers, and to all the people of the land.

7 O Lord, [h] righteousness [i] belongeth unto thee, but unto us confusion of faces, as at this day; to the men of Judah, and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem, and unto all Israel, that are near, and that are far off, through all the countries whither thou hast driven them, because of their trespass that they have trespassed against thee.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

8 O Lord, to us belongeth [k] confusion of face, to our kings, to our princes, and to our fathers, because we have sinned against thee.

9 [l] To the Lord our God belong mercies and forgivenesses, though we have rebelled against him;

10 [m] Neither have we obeyed the voice of the LORD our God, to walk in his laws, which he set before us by his servants the prophets.

11 Yea, [n] all Israel have transgressed thy law, even by departing, that they might not obey thy voice; therefore the curse is poured upon us, and the oath that is written in the [o] law of Moses the servant of God, because we have sinned against him.

12 And he hath [p] confirmed his words, which he spake against us, and against our judges that judged us, by bringing upon us a great evil: [q] for under the whole heaven hath not been done as hath been done upon Jerusalem.

13 [r] As it is written in the law of Moses, all this evil is come upon us: [s] yet [t] made we not our prayer before the LORD our God, that we might turn from our iniquities, and understand thy truth.

14 Therefore hath the LORD [u] watched upon the evil, and brought it upon us: for [x] the

---

[a] Ch. 1. 21. & 5. 31. & 6. 28.——[b] Or, in which he, &c.——[c] 2 Chron. 36. 21. Jer. 25. 11, 12. & 29. 10.——[d] Neh. 1. 4. ch. 6. 10. Jer. 29. 12, 13. Jam. 4. 8, 9, 10.——[e] Exod. 20. 6. Deut. 7. 9. Neh. 1. 5. & 9. 32.——[f] 1 Kings 8. 47, 48. Neh. 1. 6, 7. & 9. 33, 34. Psa. 106. 6. Isa. 64. 5, 6, 7. Jer. 14. 7. ver. 15. Baruch 1. 17, 18.——[g] 2 Chron. 36. 15, 16. ver. 10.——[h] Neh. 9. 33. Baruch 1. 15.——[i] Or, thou hast, &c.——[k] Ver. 7. Baruch 1. 15.

[l] Neh. 9. 17. Psa. 130. 4, 7.——[m] Ver. 6.——[n] Isa. 1. 4, 5, 6. Jer. 3. 5, 10.——[o] Lev. 26. 14, &c. Deut. 27. 15, &c., & 28. 15, &c., & 29. 20, &c., & 30. 17, 18. & 31. 17, &c., & 32. 19, &c. Lam. 2. 17.——[p] Zech. 1. 6.——[q] Lam. 1. 12. & 2. 13. Ezek. 5. 9. Amos 3. 2.——[r] Lev. 26. 14, &c. Deut. 28. 15. Lam. 2. 17.——[s] Isa. 9. 13. Jer. 2. 30. & 5. 3. Hos. 7. 7, 10.——[t] Heb. intreated we not the face of the, &c.——[u] Jer. 31. 28. & 44. 27.——[x] Neh. 9. 33. ver. 7.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IX.

Verse 1. In the first year of Darius] This is the same Darius the Mede, spoken of before, who succeeded Belshazzar king of the Chaldeans. See chap. v, 31.

Verse 2. I Daniel understood by books] The prophecy referred to here is found Jer. xxv, 12; xxix, 10. The people must have been satisfied of the Divine inspiration of Jeremiah; or his prophecies would not have been so speedily collected, nor so carefully preserved. It appears that there was a copy of them then in Daniel's hands.

Verse 3. I set my face—to seek by prayer] He found that the time of the promised deliverance could not be at any great distance; and as he saw nothing that indicated a speedy termination of their oppressive captivity, he was very much afflicted, and earnestly besought God to put a speedy end to it: and how earnestly he seeks, his own words shew. He prayed,—he supplicated,—he fasted,—he put sackcloth upon his body,—and he put ashes upon his head. He uses that kind of prayer prescribed by Solomon in his prayer at the dedication of the Temple. See 1 Kings viii, 47, 48.

Verse 4. Keeping the covenant] Fidelity and truth are characteristics of God. He had never yet broken His engagements to His followers; and was ever shewing mercy to men.

Verse 7. All Israel, that are near, and that are far off] He prays both for Judah and Israel. The latter were more dispersed, and had been much longer in captivity.

Verse 9. Mercies and forgivenesses] From God's goodness flow God's mercies;—from His mercies, forgivenesses.

Verse 11. Therefore the curse is poured upon us] It is probable that he alludes here to the punishment of certain criminals, by pouring melted metal upon them;—therefore, he uses the word תתך tittac, it is poured out, like melted metal,—for this is the proper meaning of the root נתך natac.

Verse 14. The LORD watched upon the evil] In conse-

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

LORD our God is righteous in all his works which he doeth: [a] for we obeyed not his voice.

15 And now, O Lord our God, [b] that hast brought thy people forth out of the land of Egypt with a mighty hand, and hast [c] gotten thee [d] renown, as at this day; [e] we have sinned, we have done wickedly.

16 O Lord, [f] according to all thy righteousness, I beseech thee, let thine anger and thy fury be turned away from thy city Jerusalem, [g] thy holy mountain: because for our sins, [h] and for the iniquities of our fathers, [i] Jerusalem and thy people [k] are become a reproach to all that are about us.

17 Now therefore, O our God, hear the prayer of thy servant, and his supplications, [l] and cause thy face to shine upon thy sanctuary [m] that is desolate, [n] for the Lord's sake.

18 [o] O my God, incline thine ear, and hear; open thine eyes, [p] and behold our desolations, and the city [q] which [r] is called by thy name: for we do not [s] present our supplications before thee for our righteousnesses, but for thy great mercies.

19 O Lord, hear; O Lord, forgive; O Lord, hearken and do; defer not, [t] for thine own sake, O my God: for thy city and thy people are called by thy name.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

20 [u] And whiles I was speaking, and praying, and confessing my sin and the sin of my people Israel, and presenting my supplication before the LORD my God for the holy mountain of my God;

21 Yea, whiles I was speaking in prayer, even the man [x] Gabriel, whom I had seen in the vision at the beginning, being caused to fly [y] swiftly, [z] touched me [a] about the time of the evening oblation.

22 And he informed me, and talked with me, and said, O Daniel, I am now come forth [b] to give thee skill and understanding.

23 At the beginning of thy supplications the [c] commandment came forth, and [d] I am come to shew thee; [e] for thou art [f] greatly beloved: therefore [g] understand the matter, and consider the vision.

24 Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people and upon thy holy city, [h] to finish the transgression, and [i] to make an end of sins, [k] and to make reconciliation for iniquity, [l] and to bring in everlasting righteousness, and to seal up the vision and [m] prophecy, [n] and to anoint the Most Holy.

---

[a] Ver. 10.——[b] Exod. 6. 1, 6. & 32. 11. 1 Kings 8. 51. Neh. 1. 10. Jer. 32. 21.——[c] Heb. made thee a name.——[d] Exod. 14. 18. Neh. 9. 10. Jer. 32. 20.——[e] Ver. 5.——[f] 1 Sam. 12. 7. Psa. 31. 1. & 71. 2. Mic. 6. 4, 5.——[g] Ver. 20. Zech. 8. 3.——[h] Exod. 20. 5.——[i] Lam. 2. 15, 16.——[k] Psa. 44. 13, 14. & 79. 4.——[l] Numb. 6. 25. Psa. 67. 1. & 80. 3, 7, 19.——[m] Lam. 5. 18.——[n] Ver. 19. John 16. 24.——[o] Isa. 37. 17.——[p] Exod. 3. 7. Psa. 80. 14, &c.——[q] Jer. 25. 29.——[r] Heb. whereupon thy name is called.——[s] Heb. cause to fall, Jer. 36. 7.

[t] Psa. 79. 9, 10. & 102. 15, 16.——[u] Psa. 32. 5. [x] Isa. 65. 24.——[x] Ch. 8. 16.——[y] Heb. with weariness, or, flight.——[z] Ch. 8. 18. & 10. 10, 16.——[a] 1 Kings 18. 36.——[b] Heb. to make thee skilful of understanding.——[c] Heb. word.——[d] Ch. 10. 12.——[e] Ch. 10. 11, 19.——[f] Heb. a man of desires.——[g] Matt. 24. 15.——[h] Or, to restrain.——[i] Or, to seal up, Lam. 4. 22.——[k] Isa. 53. 10.——[l] Isa. 53. 11. Jer. 23. 5, 6. Heb. 9. 12. Rev. 14. 6.——[m] Heb. prophet.——[n] Psa. 45. 7. Luke 1. 35. John 1. 41. Heb. 9. 11.

---

quence of our manifold rebellions He hath now watched for an opportunity to bring these calamities upon us.

Verse 17. And cause thy face to shine] Give us proof that Thou art reconciled to us.

Verse 19. Thy city and thy people are called by thy name.] The holy city,—the city of the Great King. I think it scarcely possible for any serious man to read these impressive and pleading words, without feeling a measure of the prophet's earnestness.

Verse 21. The man Gabriel] Or, the angel Gabriel, who had appeared to me as a man.

Being caused to fly swiftly] God hears with delight such earnest, humble, urgent, prayers; and sends the speediest answer. Gabriel himself was ordered on this occasion to make more than usual speed.

Verse 24. Seventy weeks are determined] This is a most important prophecy, and has given rise to a variety of opinions relative to the proper mode of explanation;—but the chief difficulty, if not the only one, is to find out the time from which these seventy weeks should be dated. What is here said by the angel is not a direct answer to Daniel's prayer. He prays to know when the seventy weeks of the captivity are to end. Gabriel shews him that there are seventy weeks determined relative to a redemption from another sort of captivity, which shall commence with the going forth of the edict to restore and rebuild Jerusalem; and shall terminate with the death of Messiah the Prince, and the total abolition of the Jewish sacrifices. In the four following verses he enters into the particulars of this most important determination; and leaves them with Daniel for his comfort; who has left them to the Church of God for the confirmation of its faith, and a testimony to the truth of Divine revelation, from which the fullest confirmation of Christianity may be drawn, and a complete refutation of the Jewish cavils and blasphemies on this subject.

Of all the writers I have consulted on this most noble prophecy, Dean Prideaux appears to me the most clear and satisfactory. I shall therefore follow his method in my explanation, and often borrow his words.

Seventy weeks are determined—The Jews had sab-

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir annum 41.

25 [a] Know therefore and understand, that [b] from the going forth of the commandment [c] to restore and to build Jerusalem unto [d] the Messiah [e] the Prince shall be seven weeks, and threescore and two weeks: the street [f] shall be built again, and the [g] wall, [h] even [i] in troublous times.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

[a] Ver. 23. Matt. 24. 15.——[b] Ezra 4. 24. & 6. 1, 15. & 7. 1. Neh. 2. 1, 3, 5, 6, 8.——[c] Or, to build again Jerusalem: as 2 Sam. 15. 25. Psa. 71. 20.

[d] John 1. 41. & 4. 25.——[e] Isa. 55. 4.——[f] Heb. shall return and be builded.——[g] Or, breach, or, ditch.——[h] Neh. 4. 8, 16, 17, 18.——[i] Heb. in strait of times, Neh. 6. 15.

batic years, Lev. xxv, 8, by which their years were divided into weeks of years, as in this important prophecy, each week containing seven years. The seventy weeks therefore, here spoken of, amount to four hundred and ninety years.

In ver. 24, there are six events mentioned which should be the consequences of the incarnation of our Lord:—

I. To finish (לכלא lecalle, "to restrain,") the transgression; which was effected by the preaching of the Gospel, and pouring out of the Holy Ghost among men.

II. To make an end of sins; rather ולהתם חטאות u-le-hatem chataoth, "to make an end of sin-offerings;" which our Lord did when He offered His spotless soul and body on the cross once for all.

III. To make reconciliation (ולכפר ulcapher, "to make atonement or expiation,") for iniquity; which He did by the once offering up of Himself.

IV. To bring in everlasting righteousness, צדק עלמים tsedek ôlamim, that is, "the Righteousness, or righteous One, of ages;" that Person who had been the Object of the faith of mankind, and the Subject of the predictions of the prophets through all the ages of the world.

V. To seal up (ולחתם u-lachtom, "to finish or complete,") the vision and prophecy; that is, to put an end to the necessity of any farther revelations, by completing the canon of Scripture, and fulfilling the prophecies which related to His Person, sacrifice, and the glory that should follow.

VI. And to anoint the Most Holy; קדש קדשים kodesh kodashim, the Holy of holies. משח mashach, to anoint, (from which comes משיח mashiach, the Messiah, the anointed One,) signifies, in general, to consecrate, or appoint, to some especial office. Here it means the consecration or appointment of our blessed Lord, the Holy One of Israel, to be the Prophet, Priest, and King, of mankind.

Verse 25. From the going forth of the commandment to restore and to build Jerusalem] The foregoing events being all accomplished by Jesus Christ, they of course determine the prophecy to Him. And if we reckon back four hundred and ninety years, we shall find the time of the going forth of this command.

Most learned men agree that the death of Christ happened at the pass-over in the month Nisan, in the four thousand seven hundred and forty-sixth year of the Julian period. Four hundred and ninety years, reckoned back from the above year, leads us directly to the month Nisan in the four thousand two hundred and fifty-sixth year of the same period; the very month and year in which Ezra had his commission from Artaxerxes Longimanus, king of Persia, (see Ezra vii, 9,) to restore and rebuild Jerusalem. See the commission in Ezra, chap. vii, 11—26, and Prideaux's Connexions, vol. ii, p. 380.

The above seventy weeks, or four hundred and ninety years, are divided in ver. 25 into three distinct periods, to each of which particular events are assigned. The three periods are,—

I. Seven weeks, that is, forty-nine years.

II. Sixty-two weeks, that is, four hundred and thirty-four years.

III. One week, that is, seven years.

To the first period of seven weeks the restoration and repairing of Jerusalem are referred; and so long were Ezra and Nehemiah employed in restoring the sacred constitutions and civil establishments of the Jews, for this work lasted forty-nine years after the commission was given by Artaxerxes.

From the above seven weeks the second period of sixty-two weeks, or four hundred and thirty-four years more, commences, at the end of which the prophecy says, Messiah the Prince should come, that is, seven weeks, or forty-nine years, should be allowed for the restoration of the Jewish state; from which time till the public entrance of the Messiah on the work of the ministry should be sixty-two weeks, or four hundred and thirty-four years; in all, four hundred and eighty-three years.

From the coming of our Lord, the third period is to be dated, viz. He shall confirm the covenant with many for one week, that is, seven years, ver. 27.

This confirmation of the covenant must take in the ministry of John the Baptist with that of our Lord, comprehending the term of seven years, during the whole of which He might be well said to confirm or ratify the New Covenant with mankind. Our Lord says, The Law was until John: but from his first public preaching the kingdom of God, or Gospel dispensation, commenced.

These seven years, added to the four hundred and eighty-three, complete the four hundred and ninety years, or seventy prophetic weeks: so that the whole of this prophecy, from the times and corresponding events, has been fulfilled to the very letter.

Some imagine that the half of the last seven years is to be referred to the total destruction of the Jews by Titus, when the daily sacrifice for ever ceased to be offered; and that the

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

26 And after threescore and two weeks [a] shall Messiah be cut off, [b] but [c] not for himself: [d] and [e] the people of the prince that shall come [f] shall destroy the city [g] and the sanctuary; [h] and the end thereof shall be [i] with a flood, and unto the end of the war [k] desolations are determined.

27 And he shall confirm [l] the [m] covenant with [n] many for one week: and in the midst of the week he shall cause the sacrifice and the oblation to cease, [o] and for the overspreading of [p] abominations he shall make it desolate, [q] even until the consummation, and that determined shall be poured [r] upon the desolate.

A. M. cir. 3466. B. C. cir. 538. Ol. cir. LX. 3. Servii Tullii, Reg. Rom. cir. annum 41.

[a] Isa. 53. 8. Mark 9. 12. Luke 24. 26, 46. —— [b] 1 Pet. 2. 21. & 3. 18. —— [c] Or, and shall have nothing, John 14. 30. —— [d] Or, and [the Jews] they shall be no more his people, ch. 11. 17; or, and the Prince's [Messiah's, ver. 25,] future people. —— [e] Matt. 22. 7. —— [f] Luke 19. 44. —— [g] Matt. 24. 2. —— [h] Matt. 24. 6, 14. —— [i] Isa. 8. 7, 8. ch. 11. 10, 22. Nah. 1. 8. —— [k] Or, it shall be cut off by desolations. —— [l] Or, a. —— [m] Isa. 42. 6. & 55. 3. Jer. 31. 31. Ezek. 16. 60, 61, 62. —— [n] Isa. 53. 11. Matt. 26. 28. Rom. 5. 15, 19. Heb. 9. 28. —— [o] Or, and upon the battlements shall be the idols of the desolator. —— [p] Matt. 24. 15. Mark 13. 14. Luke 21. 20 —— [q] See Isa. 10. 22, 23. & 28. 22. ch. 11. 36. Luke 21. 24. Rom. 11. 26. —— [r] Or, upon the desolator.

intermediate space of thirty-seven years, from our Lord's death till the destruction of the city, is passed over as being of no account in relation to the prophecy; and that it was on this account that the last seven years are divided. But Dean Prideaux thinks that the whole refers to our Lord's preaching, connected with that of the Baptist. וחצי vachatsi, says he, signifies in the half part of the week; that is, in the latter three years and a half in which He exercised Himself in the public ministry, He caused by the sacrifice of Himself, all other sacrifices and oblations to cease which were instituted to signify His.

In the latter parts of ver. 26 and of ver. 27, we find the THIRD PART of this great prophecy, which refers to what should be done after the completion of these seventy weeks.

Verse 26. And the people of the prince that shall come shall destroy the city and the sanctuary] By the "prince" Titus, the son of Vespasian, is plainly intended; and "the people of that prince" are no other than the Romans, who, according to the prophecy, destroyed the sanctuary, הקדש hakkodesh, the holy place, or Temple; and as a flood swept away all, till the total destruction of that obstinate people finished the war.

Verse 27. And for the overspreading of abominations he shall make it desolate] This clause is remarkably obscure. כנף שקוצים משמם kenaph shikkotsim meshomem, And upon the wing of abominations causing amazement. This is a literal translation of the place: but still there is no determinate sense. A Hebrew MS., written in the thirteenth century, has preserved a very remarkable reading here, which frees the place from all embarrassment. Instead of the above reading this valuable MS. has ובהיכל יהיה שיקוץ u-beheycal yehiyeh shikkuts, that is, And in the Temple (of the Lord) there shall be abomination. This makes the passage plain; and is strictly conformable to the facts themselves, for the Temple was profaned: and it agrees with the prediction of our Lord, who said that the abomination that maketh desolate should stand in the holy place, Matt. xxiv, 15; and quotes the words as spoken (δια Δανιηλ του προφητου,) by Daniel the prophet. That the above reading gives the true sense there can be little doubt, because it is countenanced by the most eminent ancient Versions.

The Vulgate reads Et erit in Templo abominatio, "And in the Temple there shall be abomination."

The Septuagint,—Και επι το ιερον βδελυγμα των ερημωσεων, And upon the Temple there shall be the abomination of desolation.

The Arabic,—And upon the sanctuary there shall be the abomination of ruin.

The above reading is celebrated by J. D. Michaelis, Epist. De Ebdom. Dan., p. 210. "Vix insignius exemplum reperiri posse autumem, ostensuro in codicibus Hebræis latere lectiones dignissimas quæ eruantur," &c. "A more illustrious example can, I think, hardly be found to shew that various readings lie hid in Hebrew MSS., which are most worthy of being exhibited." Vid. Bib. Heb. KENNICOTT, Dis. Gen.

I have only to add, that this mode of reckoning years and periods by weeks is not solely Jewish. Macrobius, in his book on Scipio's Dream, has these remarkable words:—Sed a sextâ usque ad septimam septimanam fit quidem diminutio, sed occulta, et quæ detrimentum suum apertâ defectione non prodat: ideo nonnullarum rerumpublicarum hic mos est, ut post sextam ad militiam nemo cogatur. Somn. Scip., lib. i, c. vi, in fine. "From the sixth to the seventh week, there is a diminution of strength: but it is hidden, and does not manifest itself by any outward defect. Hence it was the custom in some republics not to oblige a man to go to the wars after the sixth week, i. e. after forty-two years of age."

Having now gone through the whole of this important prophecy, and given that interpretation which the original seemed best to warrant, I shall next proceed to notice the principal various readings found in the Collections of Kennicott and De Rossi, with those from my own MSS., which the Reader may collate with the words of the common printed Text.

Verse 24. שבעים שבעים נחתך על עמך ועל עיר קדשך
לכלא הפשע ולחתם חטאות
ולכפר עון ולהביא צדק עלמים
ולהתם חזון ונביא ולמשח קדש קדשים:

Verse 25. ותדע ותשכל
מן מצא דבר לחשיב ולבנות ירושלם
עד משיח נגיד שבעים שבעה

ושבעים ששים ושנים תשוב
ונבנתה רחוב וחרוץ ובצוק העתים׃
Verse 26. ואחרי השבעים ששים ושנים
יכרת משיח ואין לו׳
והעיר והקדש ישחית עם נגיד הבא
וקצו בשטף׳
ועד קץ מלחמה נחרצת שממות׃
Verse 27. והגביר ברית לרבים שבוע אחד׳
והצי השבוע ישבית זבח ומנחה׳
ועל כנף שקוצים משמם׳
ועד כלה ונחרצה תתך על שומם׃

Of the whole passage Houbigant gives the following translation:—

Verse 24. Seventy weeks are determined upon thy people, and the city of thy sanctuary:
That sin may be restrained, and transgressions have an end;
That iniquity may be expiated, and an everlasting righteousness brought in;
That visions and prophecies may be sealed up, and the Holy of holies anointed.
Verse 25. Know therefore and understand:—
From the edict which shall be promulgated, to return and rebuild Jerusalem, there shall be seven weeks.
Then it shall be fully rebuilt, with anxiety, in difficult times.
Thence, to the Prince Messiah, there shall be sixty-two weeks.
Verse 26. And after sixty-two weeks the Messiah shall be slain, and have no justice.
Afterwards He shall waste the city and the sanctuary, by the prince that is to come.
And his end shall be in straits; and to the end of the war desolation is appointed.
Verse 27. And for one week He shall confirm a covenant with many;
And in the middle of the week He shall abrogate sacrifice and offering;
And in the Temple there shall be the abomination of desolation,
Until the ruin which is decreed rush on after the desolation.

In this translation there are some peculiarities.

Instead of the street shall be built again, and the wall, ver. 25, he translates רחוב וחרוץ (with the prefix ב beth, instead of ו vau in the latter word,) "it shall be fully" (the city and all its walls) "rebuilt with anxiety."

Instead of but not for himself ואין לו, he translates "Nor shall justice be done him;" supposing that דין justice, was originally in the verse.

Instead of the people of the prince, ver. 26, he translates by the prince, using עם îm, as a preposition, instead of עם âm, the people.

Instead of and for the overspreading, he translates ועל כנף in the Temple; following the Septuagint, και επι το ιερον. This rendering is at least as good as ours: but see the marginal readings here, and the preceding notes.

Houbigant contends also, that the arrangement of the several members in these passages is confused. He proposes one alteration, which is important, viz. From the promulgation of the decree to rebuild Jerusalem shall be seven weeks; and unto Messiah the Prince, sixty-two weeks. All these alterations he vindicates in his notes at the end of this chapter. In the text I have inserted Houbigant's dots, or marks of distinction between the different members of the verses.

Various Readings.

Verse 24. שבועים, שבעים weeks written full, so as to prevent mistakes, in thirteen of Kennicott's, four of De Rossi's, and one ancient of my own.

שבעים Seventy-one of Kennicott's, and one of De Rossi's, have שבועים weeks, weeks, weeks; that is, many weeks: but this is a mere mistake.

לכלא to restrain. לכלה to consume, is the reading of twenty-nine of Kennicott's, thirteen of De Rossi's, and one ancient of my own.

ולחתם and to seal up. Forty-three of Kennicott's, twelve of De Rossi's, and one of my own, have ולהתם to make an end. One reads ולחתום more full.

חטאות sins. חטאת sin, in the singular, is the reading of twenty-six of De Rossi's; and so, in the second instance where this word occurs, two of my MSS.

עלמים everlasting. Two of my oldest MSS. read שלמים, and so in the next instance.

ונביא and the prophet. The conjunction is omitted by two of Kennicott's.

ותשכל and understand. One of my MSS. has ותשכיל.

Verse 25. מן מוצא From the publication. One MS. of De Rossi omits the מן from; and, instead of either, one of my oldest MSS. has למוצא to the publication.

משיח Messiah. Nine MSS. read the word with the point sheva, which makes it read in regimine, the anointed of the prince. But this is evidently the effect of carelessness, or rather design.

שבעה seven. Two MSS. add the conjunction ו vau, and.

ולבנות and to build. One of mine omits the conjunction.

שבעים שבעה seven weeks. One of Kennicott's has שבעים שנה seventy years.

ושבעים and weeks. One of Kennicott's has ושבוע and a week.

ששים sixty. A few add the conjunction, AND sixty; and another has ששה six; and another שבעים seventy. Wherever this word signifies weeks, two of my oldest MSS. write it full, שבועים. In one of my MSS. השבועים ששים are omitted in the Text, but added by a later hand in the Margin.

וחרוץ and the ditch. One MS. has העיר the city. And for רחב street, one of mine has רחוב of the same meaning, but more full.

ובצוק and in straits, or anxiety. One MS. without and, as the Vulgate and Septuagint.

Verse 26. והקדש and the holy place or sanctuary. But two of my most ancient MSS., and four of Kennicott's, leave out the (vau ו) and read והעיר הקדש and the holy city, or city of holiness, instead of the city and sanctuary. In one MS. ו is omitted in העיר.

וקצו and its end. One MS. omits the conjunction ו and; one omits the following קץ the end; reading thus,—and unto the war. But a more singular reading is that of one of my own MSS. written about A. D. 1136, which has וקיצו and its summer.

ששים sixty. But one of Kennicott's MSS. has ששים שבעים sixty weeks; and another adds the conjunction, AND sixty.

ישחית shall destroy. But one of De Rossi's has ישחת shall be destroyed.

עם the people. עם îm, with, is the reading of one of Kennicott's, with the Septuagint, Theodotion, Syriac, Hexapla, Vulgate, and Arabic.

בשטף with a flood. One MS. has השטף the flood.

ועל כנף and upon the wing. Nearly twenty MSS. have ועד and unto, &c.

Verse 27. ועד קץ and unto the end. ־עד to the end; and one has ועל and upon.

קץ the end. One has עת the time; and another both, עת קץ the time of the end.

ועל כנף שקוצים and upon the wing, (or battlement) abomination. Instead of this one of the Parisian MSS., numbered three hundred and thirteen in Kennicott, has ובהיכל יהיה שקוץ and in the Temple there shall be abomination. See the preceding Notes. This is a similar reading to Theodotion, the Vulgate, Septuagint, Syriac, Hexapla, and the Arabic; and is countenanced by our Lord, Matt. xxiv, 15. After all that has been said on this reading, (which may be genuine, but is still liable to suspicion, as the MS. appears to be the work of some Christian; it is written from the left to the right hand, and is accompanied by the Vulgate Latin:) if this be an attempt to accommodate the Hebrew to the Vulgate, it should be stated, that they who have examined this MS. closely, have asserted that there is no evidence that the writer has endeavoured to conform the Hebrew to the Latin Text, unless this be accounted such. The ancient Versions give this reading great credit.

שקוצים abomination. One of mine has less fully שקצים.

משמם desolation. One of mine has more fully משומם.

ועד and unto, is wanting in one of mine; ועל and upon is the reading in one other.

על שומם y until the desolation. שומם the desolation. One of mine has שמם without the ו vau. על y is wanting; but is added in the Margin, by a later hand, in another of these ancient MSS.

I have thus set down almost all the variations mentioned by Kennicott and De Rossi, and those furnished by three ancient MSS. of my own, that the learned Reader may avail himself of every help, to examine thoroughly, this important prophecy. Upwards of thirty various readings in the compass of four verses, and several of them of great moment.

CHAPTER X.

This and the two following Chapters give an account of Daniel's last vision, wherein the succession of the Persian and Grecian monarchies is described, together with the wars that should take place between Syria and Egypt under the latter monarchy. The last part of the vision (from chap. xi, 36,) seems to relate chiefly to the persecutions of the church in the times of Antichrist, till it be purified from all its pollutions; after which will follow that glorious kingdom of the saints spoken of in the seventh and eighth Chapters. This Chapter begins with an account of Daniel's fasting and humiliation, 1—3. Then we have a description of the Divine Person who appeared to the prophet, not unlike Him who appeared to the apostle in the isle of Patmos, 4—21. See Rev. i, 10—16.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

IN the third year of Cyrus king of Persia a thing was revealed unto Daniel, [a] whose name was called Belteshazzar; [b] and the thing was true, [c] but the time appointed was [d] long; and [e] he understood the thing, and had understanding of the vision.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

2 In those days I Daniel was mourning three [f] full weeks.

3 I ate no [g] pleasant bread, neither came flesh

[a] Ch. 1. 7.——[b] Ch. 8. 26. Rev. 19. 9.——[c] Ver. 14.——[d] Heb. great.

[e] Ch. 1. 17. & 8. 16.——[f] Heb. weeks of days.——[g] Heb. bread of desires.

NOTES ON CHAPTER X.

Verse 1. In the third year of Cyrus] Which answers to the first year of Darius the Mede.

The time appointed was long] וצבא גדול ve-tsaba gadol, but the warfare long; there will be many contentions and wars before these things can be accomplished.

Verse 2. I—was mourning three full weeks.] The weeks are most probably dated from the time of the termination of the last vision.—Calmet proves this by several reasons.

Verse 3. I ate no pleasant bread] This fast was rather a general abstinence; living all the while on coarse and unsavoury food, drinking nothing but water, not using the nor wine in my mouth, [a] neither did I anoint myself at all, till three whole weeks were fulfilled.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

4 And in the four and twentieth day of the first month, as I was by the side of the great river, which is [b] Hiddekel;

5 Then [c] I lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and [d] behold [e] a certain man clothed in linen, whose loins were [f] girded with [g] fine gold of Uphaz:

6 His body also was [h] like the beryl, and his face [i] as the appearance of lightning, [k] and his eyes as lamps of fire, and his arms [l] and his feet like in colour to polished brass, [m] and the voice of his words like the voice of a multitude.

7 And I Daniel [n] alone saw the vision: for the men that were with me saw not the vision; but a great quaking fell upon them, so that they fled to hide themselves.

8 Therefore I was left alone, and saw this great vision, [o] and there remained no strength in me: for my [p] comeliness [q] was turned in me into corruption, and I retained no strength.

9 Yet heard I the voice of his words: [r] and when I heard the voice of his words, then was I in a deep sleep on my face, and my face toward the ground.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

10 [s] And, behold, a hand touched me, which [t] set me upon my knees and upon the palms of my hands.

11 And he said unto me, O Daniel, [u] a [x] man greatly beloved, understand the words that I speak unto thee, and [y] stand upright: for unto thee am I now sent. And when he had spoken this word unto me, I stood trembling.

12 Then said he unto me, [z] Fear not, Daniel: for from the first day that thou didst set thine heart to understand, and to chasten thyself before thy God, [a] thy words were heard, and I am come for thy words.

13 [b] But the prince of the kingdom of Persia, withstood me one and twenty days: but, lo, [c] Michael, [d] one of the chief princes, came to help me; and I remained there with the kings of Persia.

14 Now I am come to make thee understand what shall befal thy people [e] in the latter days: [f] for yet the vision is for many days.

---

[a] Matt. 6. 17.——[b] Gen. 2. 14.——[c] Josh. 5. 13.——[d] Ch. 12. 6, 7.——[e] Heb. one man.——[f] Rev. 1. 13, 14, 15. & 15. 6.——[g] Jer. 10. 9.——[h] Ezek. 1. 16.——[i] Ezek. 1. 14.——[k] Rev. 1. 14. & 19. 12.——[l] Ezek. 1. 7. Rev. 1. 15.——[m] Ezek. 1. 24. Rev. 1. 15.——[n] 2 Kings 6. 17. Acts 9. 7.——[o] Ch. 8. 27.——[p] Or, vigour.——[q] Ch. 7. 28.——[r] Ch. 8. 18.

[s] Jer. 1. 9. ch. 9. 21. Rev. 1. 17.——[t] Heb. moved.——[u] Ch. 9. 23.——[x] Heb. a man of desires.——[y] Heb. stand upon thy standing.——[z] Rev. 1. 17.——[a] Ch. 9. 3, 4, 22, 23. Acts 10. 4.——[b] Ver. 20.——[c] Ver. 21. ch. 12. 1. Jude 9. Rev. 12. 7.——[d] Or, the first.——[e] Gen. 49. 1. ch. 2. 28.——[f] Ch. 8. 26. ver. 1. Hab. 2. 3.

---

bath, and most probably wearing haircloth next the skin, during the whole of the time.

Verse 4. By the side of—Hiddekel] The same as the Tigris, the great river of Assyria; as the Euphrates, was of Syria; and the Nile, of Egypt.

Verse 5. Clothed in linen] The description is intended to point out the splendour of the garments.

Gold of Uphaz] The same as Ophir.

Verse 6. His body also was like the beryl] The description of this Person is very similar to that of our Lord, in Rev. i, 13—15.

Verse 7. The men that were with me saw not the vision] An exactly parallel case with what occurred at the conversion of Saul of Tarsus, Acts ix, 7. There was a Divine influence which they all felt: but Daniel only saw the corporeal appearance.

Verse 9. I was in a deep sleep] I fell into a swoon.

Verse 10. A hand touched me] Nothing was apparent, or palpable, but a hand. A hand had written Belshazzar's fate upon the wall; and hand is frequently mentioned when the power or majesty of God is intended. Perhaps by hand, God Himself may be meant. It is remarkable that in a very ancient MS. of the Septuagint, more than a thousand years old, now in the imperial library of Vienna, adorned with paintings which have been engraved for the catalogue of Lambechius, and transferred to that of Nesselius, all the appearances of God are represented by a hand in the clouds.

Verse 12. I am come for thy words] On account of thy prayers, I am sent to comfort and instruct thee.

Verse 13. But the prince of the kingdom of Persia withstood me] I think it would go far to make a legend, or a precarious tale, of this important place, to endeavour to maintain that either a good or evil angel is intended here. Cyrus alone was the prince of Persia, and God had destined him to be the deliverer of His people: but there were some matters, of which we are not informed, that caused him to hesitate for some time. Fearing probably the greatness of the work, and not being fully satisfied of his ability to execute it; he therefore for a time resisted the secret inspirations which God had sent him. The opposition might be in reference to the building of the Temple.

But, lo, Michael] Gabriel, who speaks, did not leave Cyrus till Michael came to take his place. Michael, he who is like God, sometimes appears to signify the Messiah; at other times, the highest or chief archangel. Indeed there is no archangel mentioned in the whole Scripture, but this one. See Jude 9; Rev. xii, 7.

Verse 14. For yet the vision is for many days] There

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

15 And when he had spoken such words unto me, [a] I set my face toward the ground, and I became dumb.

16 And, behold, [b] one like the similitude of the sons of men [c] touched my lips: then I opened my mouth, and spake, and said unto him that stood before me, O my lord, by the vision [d] my sorrows are turned upon me, and I have retained no strength.

17 For how can [e] the servant of this my lord talk with this my lord? for as for me, straightway there remained no strength in me, neither is there breath left in me.

18 Then there came again and touched me one like the appearance of a man, and he strengthened me,

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

19 [f] And said, O man greatly beloved, [g] fear not: peace be unto thee, be strong, yea, be strong. And when he had spoken unto me, I was strengthened, and said, Let my lord speak; for thou hast strengthened me.

20 Then said he, Knowest thou wherefore I come unto thee? and now will I return to fight [h] with the prince of Persia: and when I am gone forth, lo, the prince of Grecia shall come.

21 But I will shew thee that which is noted in the scripture of truth: and there is none that [i] holdeth with me in these things, [k] but Michael your prince.

---

[a] Ver. 9. ch. 8. 18.——[b] Ch. 8. 15.——[c] Ver. 10. Jer. 1. 9.——[d] Ver. 8.——[e] Or, this servant of my lord.

[f] Ver. 11.——[g] Judg. 6. 23.——[h] Ver. 13.——[i] Heb. strengtheneth himself.——[k] Ver. 13. Jude 9. Rev. 12. 7.

---

are many things which remain yet to be revealed; and the time of the accomplishment is very distant.

Verse 15. I set my face toward the ground] He was standing upright, ver. 11; and he now bent his body in reverence, and looked down upon the ground.

And became dumb.] Found himself unable to speak.

Verse 16. Like the similitude of the sons of men] I think Gabriel is here meant, who appeared to Daniel in a human form; and so in ver. 18, and see also chap. ix, 21.

Touched my lips] Before this, he was unable to speak.

By the vision] The vision that I have already had, and of which I have not a proper knowledge, has greatly afflicted me, because I see it intimates grievous calamities to my people. See chap. ix, 26.

Verse 17. Neither is there breath] He could not breathe freely; he was almost suffocated with sorrow.

Verse 19. O man, greatly beloved] איש חמדות ish chamudoth, man of delights; the most amiable of men.

Let my lord speak] I am now so strengthened and encouraged, that I shall be able to bear any revelation that thou mayest make.

Verse 20. Knowest thou wherefore I come] So high art thou in the favour of God, that He hath sent me unto thee, to give thee farther satisfaction; though I was elsewhere employed upon a most important mission, and I must speedily return to accomplish it, viz.

To fight with the prince of Persia] To remove all the scruples of Cyrus; and to excite him to do all that God designs him to do for the restoration of my people, and the rebuilding of the city and Temple of Jerusalem. Nothing less than a supernatural agency in the mind of Cyrus can account for his decree in favour of the Jews. He had no natural, no political, inclination to it; and his reluctance to obey the heavenly motions is here represented as a fight between him and the angel.

The prince of Grecia shall come.] I believe this refers to Alexander the Great, who was to destroy the Persian empire. See the second and third verses of the following Chapter.

Verse 21. Noted in the scripture of truth] Perhaps this refers to what he had already written down. See the preceding visions, which Daniel did not fully understand, though a general impression from them had filled his heart with sorrow.

Michael your prince.] The archangel mentioned before, ver. 13, and who has been always supposed to be appointed by God as the guardian of the Jewish nation. It appears that God chose to make use of the ministry of angels in this work; that angels, as they could be only in one place at one time, could not produce influence where they were not; and that, to carry on the operation on the mind of the Persian king, it was necessary that either Gabriel or Michael should be present with him; and when one went on another commission, the other took his place, see ver. 13. But we know so little of the invisible world, that we cannot safely affirm any thing positively.

CHAPTER XI.

This Chapter gives a more particular explanation of those events which were predicted in the eighth Chapter. The Prophet had foretold the partition of Alexander's kingdom into four parts. Two of these, in which were included Egypt and Syria, the one to the north, the other to the south, in respect of Judea, appear to take up the chief attention of the Prophet, as his people were particularly concerned in their fate; these being the countries in which by far the greatest number of the Jews were, and still are, dispersed. Of these countries he treats (according to the views of the most enlightened expositors) down to the conquest of Macedon, A. M. 3836, B. C. 168, when he begins to speak of the Romans, 1—30; and then of the church under that power, 31—35. This leads him to speak of Antichrist, who was to spring up in that quarter, 36—39; and of those powers which, at the TIME of the end, or latter days of the Roman monarchy, (as this term is generally understood,) were to push at it, and overthrow many countries, 40—43. By the king of the SOUTH in the fortieth verse, the dominion of the Saracens, or Arabs, is supposed to be intended, which was an exceeding great plague to the Roman empire in the east, and also to several Papistical countries, for the space of one hundred and fifty years, i. e. from A. D. 612, when Mohammed and his followers first began their depredations, to A. D. 762, when Bagdad was built, and made the capital of the caliphs of the house of Abbas; from which epoch the Saracens became a more settled people. By the king of the NORTH in the same verse the Prophet is supposed by some to design that great scourge of eastern Christendom, the Ottoman or Othman empire, by which, after about a hundred and fifty years of almost uninterrupted hostilities, the Roman empire in the east was completely overturned, A. D. 1453. The chapter concludes with a prediction of the final overthrow of this northern power, and of the manner in which this great event shall be accomplished, 44, 45. But it should be observed that, notwithstanding the very learned observations of Bishop Newton and others upon this Chapter, their scheme of interpretation presents very great and insurmountable difficulties; among which the very lengthy detail of events in the Syrian and Egyptian histories, comprising a period of less than two hundred years, and the rather uncouth transition to the incomparably greater transactions in Antichristian times, and of much longer duration, which are passed over with unaccountable brevity, are not the least. On all these subjects, however, the Reader must judge for himself. See the Notes.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

ALSO I [a] in the first year of [b] Darius the Mede, even I, stood to confirm and to strengthen him.

2 And now will I shew thee the truth. Behold, there shall stand up yet three kings in Persia; and the fourth shall be far richer than they

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

[a] Ch. 9. 1.

[b] Ch. 5. 31.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XI.

Verse 1. In the first year of Darius the Mede] This is a continuation of the preceding Discourse. Bp. Newton, who is ever judicious and instructing, remarks:—It is the usual method of the Holy Spirit, to make the latter prophecies explanatory of the former; and thus revelation is a shining light that shineth more and more unto the perfect day. The four great empires shewn to Nebuchadnezzar, under the symbol of a great image, were again more particularly represented to Daniel under the forms of four great wild beasts. In like manner, the memorable events that were revealed to Daniel in the vision of the ram and he-goat, are here more clearly revealed in this last vision by an angel; so that this latter prophecy may not improperly be said to be a comment on the former. It comprehends many signal events. The types, figures, and symbols, of the things are not exhibited in this, as in most other visions, and then expounded by the angel; but the angel relates the whole: and not by way of vision, but by narration, informs Daniel of that which is noted in the Scripture of truth, chap. x, 21.

Verse 2. There shall stand up yet three kings] Gabriel had already spoken of Cyrus, who was now reigning; and after him three others should arise. These were:—1. Cambyses, the son of Cyrus. 2. Smerdis, the Magian, who was an impostor, who pretended to be another son of Cyrus. And, 3. Darius, the son of Hystaspes, who married Mandané, the daughter of Cyrus.

Cambyses reigned seven years and five months; Smerdis reigned only seven months; and Darius Hystaspes reigned thirty-six years.

The fourth shall be far richer than they all] This was Xerxes, the son of Darius, of whom Justin says:—"He had so great an abundance of riches in his kingdom, that although rivers were dried up by his numerous armies, yet his wealth remained unexhausted."

He shall stir up all against the realm of Grecia.] His military strength was such, that Herodotus, who lived in that time, informs us, that his army amounted to five millions, two hundred and eighty-three thousand, two hundred and twenty men. Besides these, the Carthaginians furnished all: and by his strength through his riches he shall stir up all against the realm of Grecia.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

3 And [a] a mighty king shall stand up, that shall rule with great dominion, and [b] do according to his will.

4 And when he shall stand up, [c] his kingdom shall be broken, and shall be divided toward the four winds of heaven, and not to his posterity, [d] nor according to his dominion which he ruled: for his kingdom shall be plucked up, even for others beside those.

5 And the king of the south shall be strong, and one of his princes; and he shall be strong above him, and have dominion; his dominion shall be a great dominion.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

6 And in the end of years they [e] shall join themselves together; for the king's daughter of the south shall come to the king of the north to make [f] an agreement: but she shall not retain the power of the arm; neither shall he stand, nor his arm: but she shall be given up, and they that brought her, and [g] he that begat her, and he that strengthened her in these times.

7 But out of a branch of her roots shall one

[a] Ch. 7. 6. & 8. 5.——[b] Ch. 8. 4. ver. 16. 36.——[c] Ch. 8. 8.——[d] Ch. 8. 22.

[e] Heb. shall associate themselves.——[f] Heb. rights.——[g] Or, whom she brought forth.

him with an army of three hundred thousand men, and a fleet of two hundred ships. He led an army against the Greeks of eight hundred thousand men, and twelve hundred and seven ships, of three banks of rowers, each. As he marched along, he obliged all the people of the countries through which he passed to join him.

Verse 3. A mighty king shall stand up] This was Alexander the Great. It is not said that this mighty king shall stand up against Xerxes, for he was not born till one hundred years after that monarch: but simply that he should stand up; i. e. that he should reign in Greece.

Verse 4. His kingdom shall be broken] Shall, after his death, be divided among his four chief generals, as we have seen before. See chap. viii, 8—22.

Verse 4. And not to his posterity] The family of Alexander had a most tragical end:—1. His wife Statira was murdered soon after his death by his other wife Roxana. 2. His brother Aridæus, who succeeded him, was killed, together with his wife Euridice, by command of Olympias, Alexander's mother, after he had been king about six years and some months. 3. Olympias herself was killed by the soldiers in revenge. 4. Alexander Ægus, his son, together with his mother Roxana, were slain by order of Cassander. 5. Two years after, his other son Hercules, with his mother Barsiné, were privately murdered by Polysperchon; so that in fifteen years after his death not one of his family or posterity remained alive!

"Blood calls for blood." He, (Alexander,) was the great butcher of men. He was either poisoned, or killed himself by immoderate drinking, when he was only thirty-two years and eight months old: and a retributive Providence destroyed all his posterity, so that neither root nor branch of them was left on the face of the earth.

Verse 5. The king of the south] This was Ptolemy Lagus, one of his generals, who had the government of Egypt, Libya, &c., which are on the south of Judea. He was strong, for he had added Cyprus, Phœnicia, Caria, &c., to his kingdom of Egypt.

And one of his princes—shall be strong above him] This was Seleucus Nicator, who possessed Syria, Babylon, Media, and the neighbouring countries. This was the king of the north, for his dominions lay north of Judea.

Verse 6. In the end of years] Several historical circumstances are here passed by.

The king's daughter of the south] Berenice, daughter of Ptolemy Philadelphus, king of Egypt, was married to Antiochus Theos, king of Syria. These two sovereigns had a bloody war for some years; and they agreed to terminate it by the above marriage, on condition that Antiochus would put away his wife Laodice and her children; which he did: and Berenice having brought an immense fortune to her husband, all things appeared to go on well for a time.

But she shall not retain the power of the arm] זרע zarô, her posterity, shall not reign in that kingdom.

But she shall be given up] Antiochus recalled his former wife Laodice and her children; and she, fearing that he might recal Berenice, caused him to be poisoned and her to be murdered, and set her son Callinicus upon the throne.

And they that brought her] Her Egyptian women, striving to defend their mistress, were many of them killed.

And he that begat her] Or, as the Margin, he whom she brought forth; the son being murdered, as well as the mother, by order of Laodice.

And he that strengthened her] Probably her father Ptolemy, who was excessively fond of her, and who had died a few years before.

Verse 7. But out of a branch of her roots] A branch from the same root from which she sprang. This was Ptolemy Euergetes, her brother, who, to avenge his sister's death, marched with a great army against Seleucus Callinicus, took some of his best places, indeed all Asia from mount Taurus to India, and returned to Egypt with an immense booty, forty thousand talents of silver, precious vessels, and images stand up [a] in his estate, which shall come with an army, and shall enter into the fortress of the king of the north, and shall deal against them, and shall prevail:

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

8 And shall also carry captives into Egypt their gods, with their princes, and with [b] their precious vessels of silver and of gold; and he shall continue more years than the king of the north.

9 So the king of the south shall come into his kingdom, and shall return into his own land.

10 But his sons [c] shall be stirred up, and shall assemble a multitude of great forces: and one shall certainly come, [d] and overflow, and pass through: [e] then shall he return, and be stirred up, [f] even to his fortress.

11 And the king of the south shall be moved with choler, and shall come forth and fight with him, even with the king of the north: and he shall set forth a great multitude; but the multitude shall be given into his hand.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

12 And when he hath taken away the multitude, his heart shall be lifted up; and he shall cast down many ten thousands: but he shall not be strengthened by it.

13 For the king of the north shall return, and shall set forth a multitude greater than the former, and shall certainly come [g] after certain years with a great army and with much riches.

14 And in those times there shall many stand up against the king of the south: also [h] the robbers of thy people shall exalt themselves to establish the vision; but they shall fall.

---

[a] Or, in his place, or, office, ver. 20.——[b] Heb. vessels of their desire.——[c] Or, shall war.——[d] Isa. 8. 8. ch. 9. 26.——[e] Or, then shall he be stirred up again.——[f] Ver. 7.——[g] Heb. at the end of times, even years, ch. 4. 16. & 12. 7.——[h] Heb. the children of robbers.

---

of their gods two thousand five hundred, without Callinicus daring to offer him battle. I can but touch on these historic facts for fear of extending these Notes to an immoderate length.

Verse 8. He shall continue more years] Seleucus Callinicus died (an exile) by a fall from his horse; and Ptolemy Euergetes survived him four or five years.—Bp. Newton.

Verse 9. So the king of the south] Ptolemy Euergetes—Shall come into his kingdom] That of Seleucus Callinicus.

And shall return] Having heard that a sedition had taken place in Egypt, Ptolemy Euergetes was obliged to return speedily in order to repress it; else he had wholly destroyed the kingdom of Callinicus.

Verse 10. But his sons shall be stirred up] That is, the sons of Callinicus, who were Seleucus Ceraunus and Antiochus, afterwards called the Great.

Shall assemble a multitude] Seleucus Ceraunus did assemble a multitude of forces in order to recover his father's dominions: but, not having money to pay them, they became mutinous, and he was poisoned by two of his own generals. His brother Antiochus was then proclaimed king; so that one only of the sons did certainly come, and overflow, and pass through;—he retook Seleucia, and regained Syria. He then returned, and overcame Nicolaus the Egyptian general;—and seemed disposed to invade Egypt, as he came even to his fortress, to the frontiers of Egypt.

Verse 11. The king of the south] Ptolemy Philopater, who succeeded his father Euergetes.

Shall come forth and fight with him] He did come forth to Raphia, where he was met by Antiochus, when a terrible battle was fought between these two kings.

And he (Antiochus, the king of the north,) set forth a great multitude] Amounting to sixty-two thousand foot, six thousand horse, and one hundred and two elephants: but yet the multitude was given into his hand, the hand of the king of the south; for Ptolemy gained a complete victory. Raphia, and other neighbouring towns, declared for the victor; and Antiochus was obliged to retreat with his scattered army to Antioch, from which he sent to solicit a peace. See 3 Macc. i, 1—6, and Polybius, lib. v.

Verse 12. His heart shall be lifted up] Had Ptolemy improved his victory, he might have dispossessed Antiochus of his whole empire: but giving way to pride, and a criminal sensual life, he made peace on dishonourable terms; and though he had gained a great victory, yet his kingdom was not strengthened by it,—for his subjects were displeased and rebelled against him, or at least became considerably disaffected.

Verse 13. The king of the north shall return—after certain years] In about fourteen years Antiochus did return, Philopater being dead, and his son Ptolemy Epiphanes being then a minor. He brought a much larger army and more riches: these he had collected in a late Eastern expedition.

Verse 14. Many stand up against the king of the south] Antiochus, and Philip king of Macedon, united together to overrun Egypt.

Also the robbers of thy people] The Jews, who revolted from their religion, and joined Ptolemy, under Scopas,— Shall exalt themselves to establish the vision] That is, to build a temple like that of Jerusalem, in Egypt, hoping thereby to fulfil a prediction of Isaiah, chap. xxx, 18—25, which seemed to intimate that the Jews and the Egyptians should be one people. They now revolted from Ptolemy, and joined Antiochus; and this was the means of contributing greatly to the accomplishment of prophecies that foretold the calamities that should fall upon the Jews.

But they shall fall.] For Scopas came with a great army

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

15 So the king of the north shall come, and cast up a mount, and take [a] the most fenced cities: and the arms of the south shall not withstand, neither [b] his chosen people, neither shall there be any strength to withstand.

16 But he that cometh against him [c] shall do according to his own will, and [d] none shall stand before him: and he shall stand in the [e] glorious [f] land, which by his hand shall be consumed.

17 He shall also [g] set his face to enter with the strength of his whole kingdom, and [h] upright ones with him; thus shall he do: and he shall give him the daughter of women, [i] corrupting her: but she shall not stand on his side, [k] neither be for him.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

18 After this shall he turn his face unto the isles, and shall take many: but a prince [l] for his own behalf shall cause [m] the reproach offered by him to cease; without his own reproach he shall cause it to turn upon him.

19 Then he shall turn his face toward the fort

[a] Heb. the city of munitions.——[b] Heb. the people of his choices.——[c] Ch. 8. 4, 7. ver. 3, 36.——[d] Josh. 1. 5.——[e] Or, goodly land, ch. 8. 9. ver. 41, 45.——[f] Heb. the land of ornament.

[g] 2 Chron. 20. 3.——[h] Or, much uprightness: or, equal conditions.——[i] Heb. to corrupt.——[k] Ch. 9. 26.——[l] Heb. for him.——[m] Heb. his reproach.

from Ptolemy; and, while Antiochus was engaged in other parts, reduced Cœlosyria and Palestine, subdued the Jews, placed guards on the coasts of Jerusalem, and returned with great spoils to Egypt.

Verse 15. So the king of the north] Antiochus came to recover Judea. Scopas was sent by Ptolemy to oppose him: but he was defeated near the fountains of Jordan, and was obliged to take refuge in Sidon with ten thousand men. Antiochus pursued and besieged him; and he was obliged by famine to surrender at discretion; and their lives only were spared. Antiochus afterwards besieged several of the fenced cities, and took them; in short, carried all before him: so that the king of the south, Ptolemy, and his chosen people —his ablest generals, were not able to oppose him.

Verse 16. He shall stand in the glorious land] Judea. For he reduced Palestine; and the Jews supplied him with provisions, and assisted him to reduce the garrison that Scopas had left in the citadel of Jerusalem.

Which by his hand shall be consumed] Or, which shall be perfected in his hand. For Antiochus shewed the Jews great favour,—brought back those that were dispersed, and re-established them in the land; freed the priests and Levites from all tribute, &c.

Verse 17. He shall also set his face to enter] He purposed to have marched his army unto Egypt: but he thought it best to proceed by fraudulence; and therefore proposed a treaty of marriage between him and his daughter Cleopatra, called here the daughter of women, because of her great beauty and accomplishments. And this he appeared to do, having upright ones with him. Or, as the Septuagint have it, και ευθεια παντα μετ' αυτου ποιησει, and he will make all things straight with him; that is, he acted as if he were influenced by nothing but the most upright views. But he intended his daughter to be a snare to him; and, therefore, purposed to corrupt her that she might betray her husband.

But she shall not stand on his side] On the contrary, her husband's interests became more dear to her than her father's; and by her means Ptolemy was put upon his guard against the intentions of Antiochus.

Verse 18. Shall he turn his face unto the isles] Antiochus had fitted out a great fleet of one hundred large ships and two hundred smaller, and with this fleet subdued most of the maritime places on the coast of the Mediterranean;—took many of the isles, Rhodes, Samos, Eubœa, Colophon, and others.

But a prince for his own behalf] Or, a captain. The consul Acilius Glabrio caused the reproach to cease;—beat and routed his army at the straits of Thermopylæ, and expelled him from Greece. So he obliged him to pay the tribute which he hoped to impose on others: for he would grant him peace only on condition of paying the expense of the war, fifteen thousand talents; five hundred on the spot, —two thousand five hundred when the peace should be ratified by the senate,—and the remaining twelve thousand in twelve years, each year one thousand. See Polybius in his Legations, and Appian in the Wars of Syria. And thus,—

Without his own reproach] Without losing a battle, or taking a false step, Acilius caused the reproach which he was bringing upon the Romans to turn upon himself.

Verse 19. He shall turn his face toward the fort of his own land] After this shameful defeat, Antiochus fled to Sardis, thence to Apamea, and the next day got into Syria, and to Antioch, his own fort, whence he sent ambassadors to treat for peace; and was obliged to engage to pay the immense sum of money mentioned above.

But he shall stumble and fall] Being under the greatest difficulties how to raise the stipulated sums, he marched into his eastern provinces to exact the arrears of taxes; and, attempting to plunder the temple of Jupiter Belus at Elymais, he was opposed by the populace, and he and his attendants slain. This is the account that Diodorus Siculus, Strabo, and Justin, give of his death: but it is variously related by others, some saying that he was assassinated by some of his own people whom he had punished for being drunk at a feast.—So Aurelius Victor. St. Jerom says he lost his life in a battle against the inhabitants of Elymais;—in short, the manner of his death is uncertain; and perhaps of his own land: but he shall stumble and fall, [a] and not be found.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

20 Then shall stand up [b] in his estate [c] a raiser of taxes in the glory of the kingdom: but within few days he shall be destroyed, neither in [d] anger, nor in battle.

21 And [e] in his estate [f] shall stand up a vile person, to whom they shall not give the honour of the kingdom: but he shall come in peaceably, and obtain the kingdom by flatteries.

22 [g] And with the arms of a flood shall they be overflown from before him, and shall be broken; [h] yea, also the prince of the covenant.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

23 And after the league made with him [i] he shall work deceitfully: for he shall come up, and shall become strong with a small people.

24 He shall enter [k] peaceably even upon the fattest places of the province; and he shall do that which his fathers have not done, nor his fathers' fathers; [l] he shall scatter among them the prey, and spoil, and riches: yea, and he shall [m] forecast his devices against the strong holds, even for a time.

---

[a] Job 20. 8. Psa. 37. 36. Ezek. 26. 21.——[b] Or, in his place, ver. 7.——[c] Heb. one that causeth an exacter to pass over.——[d] Heb. angers.——[e] Or, in his place.

[f] Ch. 7. 8. & 8. 9, 23, 25.——[g] Ver. 10.——[h] Ch. 8. 10, 11, 25.——[i] Ch. 8. 25.——[k] Or, into the peaceable and fat, &c.——[l] 1 Macc. 3. 28. &c.——[m] Heb. think his thoughts.

---

even this circumstance is referred to by the prophet, when he says, he shall stumble and fall, and NOT BE FOUND.

Verse 20. Then shall stand up in his estate a raiser of taxes] Seleucus Philopater succeeded his father Antiochus. He sent his treasurer, Heliodorus, to seize the money deposited in the Temple of Jerusalem, which is here called the glory of the kingdom, see 2 Macc. ix, 23. He was so cramped to pay the annual tax to the Romans that he was obliged to burthen his subjects with continual taxes.

He shall be destroyed, neither in anger (fighting against an enemy,) nor in battle—at the head of his troops; but basely and treacherously, by the hand of Heliodorus his treasurer, who hoped to reign in his stead.

Verse 21. In his estate shall stand up a vile person] This was Antiochus, surnamed Epiphanes the Illustrious. They did not give him the honour of the kingdom—he was at Athens, on his way from Rome, when his father died; and Heliodorus had declared himself king, so had several others. But Antiochus came in peaceably, for he obtained the kingdom by flatteries. He flattered Eumenes, king of Pergamus, and Attalus his brother; and got their assistance. He flattered the Romans; and sent ambassadors to court their favour, and pay them the arrears of the tribute. He flattered the Syrians, and gained their concurrence; and as he flattered the Syrians, so they flattered him, giving him the epithet of Epiphanes,—the Illustrious. But that he was what the prophet here calls him, a vile person, is fully evident from what Polybius says of him, from Athenæus, lib. v,—"He was every man's companion: he resorted to the common shops, and prattled with the workmen;—he frequented the common taverns, and ate and drank with the meanest fellows, singing debauched songs, &c., &c." On this account a contemporary writer, and others after him, instead of Epiphanes, called him Epimanes,—the Madman.

Verse 22. And with the arms of a flood] The arms which were overflown before him were his competitors for the crown. They were vanquished by the forces of Eumenes and Attalus; and were dissipated by the arrival of Antiochus from Athens, whose presence disconcerted all their measures.

The prince of the covenant.] This was Onias, the high priest, whom he removed, and put Jason in his place, who had given him a great sum of money;—and then put wicked Menelaus in his room, who had offered him a larger sum. Thus he acted deceitfully in the league made with Jason.

Verse 23. He shall come up] From Rome, where he had been a hostage for the payment of the tax laid on his father.

Shall become strong with a small people] At first he had but few to espouse his cause when he arrived at Antioch, the people having been greatly divided by the many claimants of the crown: but, being supported by Eumenes and Attalus, his few people increased, and he became strong.

Verse 24. He shall enter peaceably even upon the fattest places] The very richest provinces,—Cœlosyria and Palestine.

He shall do that which his fathers have not done, nor his fathers' fathers] He became profuse in his liberalities; and scattered among them the prey of his enemies; the spoil of temples, and the riches of his friends. As well as his own revenues, he spent much in public shows, and bestowed largesses among the people. We are told in 1 Macc. chap. iii, 30, that in the liberal giving of gifts he abounded above all the kings that went before him. These are nearly the words of the prophet; and perhaps without any design to copy them on the part of the apocryphal writers. He would sometimes go into the streets, and throw about a handful of money, crying out,—"Let him take it to whom Fortune sends it."

He shall forecast his devices] As Eulæus and Lenæus, who were the guardians of the young Egyptian king Ptolemy Philometor, demanded from Antiochus the restitution of Cœlosyria and Palestine, which he refused, he foresaw that he might have a war with that kingdom; and therefore he forecast devices,—fixed a variety of plans to prevent this;—

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

25 And he shall stir up his power and his courage against the king of the south with a great army; and the king of the south shall be stirred up to battle with a very great and mighty army; but he shall not stand: for they shall forecast devices against him.

26 Yea, they that feed of the portion of his meat shall destroy him, and his army shall [a] overflow: and many shall fall down slain.

27 And both these kings' [b] hearts shall be to do mischief, and they shall speak lies at one table; but it shall not prosper: for [c] yet the end shall be at the time appointed.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

28 Then shall he return into his land [d] with great riches; and [e] his heart shall be against the holy covenant; and he shall do exploits, and return to his own land.

29 At the time appointed he shall return, and come toward the south; [f] but it shall not be as the former, [g] or as the latter.

[a] Ver. 10, 22.—[b] Heb. their hearts.—[c] Ver. 29, 35, 40. Ch. 8. 19.—[d] 1 Macc. 1. 19.

[e] Ver. 22. 1 Macc. 1. 20, &c. 2 Macc. 5. 11, 14, &c.—[f] Ver. 23.—[g] Ver. 25.

visited the strong holds and frontier places to see that they were in a state of defence. And this he did for a time,—he employed some years in hostile preparations against Egypt.

Verse 25. He shall stir up his power] Antiochus marched against Ptolemy, the king of the south, (Egypt) with a great army; and the Egyptian generals had raised a mighty force.

Stirred up to battle] The two armies met between Pelusium and Mount Casius: but he (the king of the south) could not stand;—the Egyptian army was defeated. The next campaign he had greater success: he routed the Egyptian army, took Memphis, and made himself master of all Egypt, except Alexandria; see 1 Macc. i, 16—19. And all these advantages he gained by forecasting devices;—probably by corrupting his ministers and captains. Ptolemy Macron gave up Cyprus to Antiochus; and the Alexandrians were led to renounce their allegiance to Ptolemy Philometor; and took Euergetes, or Physcon his younger brother, and made him king in his stead. All this was doubtless by the corruptions of Antiochus. See below.

Verse 26. Yea, they that feed of a portion of his meat] This is the proof of what has been last noted, that the intrigues of Antiochus, corrupting the ministers and officers of Ptolemy, were the cause of all the disasters that fell on the Egyptian king. They that fed of the portion of his meat;—who were in his confidence and pay, and possessed the secrets of the state, betrayed him; and these were the means of destroying him and his army, so that he was defeated as was before observed.

Verse 27. And both these kings' hearts shall be to do mischief] That is, Antiochus, and Ptolemy Philometor, who was nephew to the former, and whose interest he now pretended to have much at heart, since the Alexandrians had renounced their allegiance to him, and set his younger brother Euergetes upon the throne. When Antiochus came to Memphis, he and Philometor had frequent conferences at the same table; and at these times they spoke lies to each other. Antiochus professing great friendship to his nephew, and concern for his interests; yet in his heart designing to ruin the kingdom, by fomenting the discords which already subsisted between the two brothers. On the other hand, Philometor professed much gratitude to his uncle for the interest he took in his affairs, and laid the blame of the war upon his minister Eulæus; while at the same time he spake lies,—determining as soon as possible to accommodate matters with his brother, and join all their strength against their deceitful uncle.

But it shall not prosper] Neither succeeded in his object; for the end of the appointed time was not yet come.

Verse 28. Then shall he return into his land with great riches] Antiochus did return laden with riches, from the spoils that he took in Egypt, see 1 Macc. i, 19, 20. And hearing that there had been a report of his death, at which the citizens of Jerusalem had made great rejoicings,—

His heart shall be against the holy covenant] He was determined to take a severe revenge: and he had an ostensible pretext for it; for Jason, who had been deprived of the high-priesthood, hearing the report of the death of Antiochus, raised forces, marched against Jerusalem, took it, and obliged Menelaus, the high-priest, to shut himself up in the castle. Antiochus brought a great army against Jerusalem; took it by storm; slew forty thousand of the inhabitants; sold as many more for slaves; boiled swine's flesh, and sprinkled the Temple and the altar with the broth; broke into the Holy of holies; took away the golden vessels and other sacred treasures, to the value of one thousand eight hundred talents; restored Menelaus to his office; and made one Philip, a Phrygian, governor of Judea, 1 Macc. i, 24; 2 Macc. v, 21. Prideaux and Newton. These are what we term exploits; which, having finished, he returned to his own land.

Verse 29. At the time appointed he shall return] Finding that his treachery was detected, and that the two brothers had united their counsel and strength for their mutual support, he threw off the mask; and having collected a great army, early in the spring, he passed through Cœlosyria; entered Egypt; and the inhabitants of Memphis having submitted to him, he came by easy marches to Alexandria. But, says the prophet, it shall not be as the former or as the latter: he had not the same success as the former, when he

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

30 [a] For the ships of Chittim shall come against him: therefore he shall be grieved, and return, and have indignation [b] against the holy covenant: so shall he do; he shall even return, [c] and have intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant.

31 And arms shall stand on his part, [d] and they shall pollute the sanctuary of strength, and shall take away the

[a] Numb. 24. 24. Jer. 2. 10.—[b] Ver. 28. 1 Macc. 1. 30, 44, &c. 2 Macc. 5. 24, &c.

[c] 1 Macc. 1. 43, 52. 2 Macc. 5. 15, 23.—[d] Ch. 8. 11. & 12. 11. 1 Macc. 1. 37, 39, 41, 45, 46.

overthrew the Egyptian army at Pelusium; nor as the latter, when he took Memphis, and subdued all Egypt, except Alexandria. See the reason:—

Verse 30. For the ships of Chittim shall come against him] Chittim is well known to mean the Roman empire. Antiochus being now in full march to besiege Alexandria, and within seven miles of that city, heard that ships were arrived there from Rome, with legates from the senate. He went to salute them. They delivered to him the letters of the senate, in which he was commanded, on pain of the displeasure of the Roman people, to put an end to the war against his nephews. Antiochus said, "he would go and consult his friends;" on which Popilius, one of the legates, took his staff, and instantly drew a circle round Antiochus on the sand, where he stood; and commanded him not to pass that circle, till he had given a definitive answer. Antiochus intimidated, said he would do whatever the senate enjoined; and in a few days after began his march, and returned to Syria. This is confirmed by Polybius, Livy, Velleius, Paterculus, Valerius Maximus, and Justin.

Therefore he shall be grieved] "Grieving and groaning," says Polybius; both mortified, humbled, and disappointed.

Have indignation against the holy covenant] For he vented his rage against the Jews; and he sent his general Apollonius with twenty-two thousand men against Jerusalem, plundered and set fire to the city, pulled down the houses round about it, slew much of the people, and built a castle on an eminence that commanded the Temple, and slew multitudes of the poor people who had come up to worship; polluted every place, so that the Temple service was totally abandoned, and all the people fled from the city. And, when he returned to Antioch, he published a decree that all should conform to the Grecian worship; and the Jewish worship was totally abrogated, and the Temple itself consecrated to Jupiter Olympius. How great must the wickedness of the people have been, when God could tolerate this!

In the transacting of these matters he had intelligence with them that forsake the holy covenant; with wicked Menelaus the high-priest, and the apostate Jews united with him, who gave from time to time such information to Antiochus as excited him against Jerusalem, the Temple, and the people. See 1 Macc. i, 41, 62; 2 Macc. vi, 1—9; confirmed by Josephus, War, Book i, ch. 1, s. 1. The concluding reflection of Bp. Newton here is excellent:

"It may be proper to stand a little here; and reflect how particular and circumstantial this prophecy is, concerning Egypt and Syria, from the death of Alexander to the time of Antiochus Epiphanes. There is not so concise, comprehensive, and regular, an account of their kings and affairs to be found in any authors of those times. The prophecy is really more perfect than any history; and is so wonderfully exact, not only to the time of Antiochus Epiphanes, but likewise equally so beyond that time, that we may conclude in the words of the inspired writer,—No one could thus declare the times and seasons, but He who hath them in His own power." See Acts i, 7.

Verse 31. And arms shall stand on his part] After Antiochus, arms,—that is, the Romans,—shall stand up; for arms in this prophecy every where denote military power; and standing up, the military power in activity and conquering. Both Sir Isaac Newton and Bp. Newton agree, that what follows is spoken of the Romans. Hitherto Daniel has described the actions of the kings of the north and of the south, that of the kings of Syria and Egypt: but, upon the conquest of Macedon by the Romans, he has left off describing the actions of the Greeks, and begun to describe those of the Romans in Greece, who conquered Macedon, Illyricum, and Epirus, in the year of the æra of Nabonassar 580. Thirty-five years after, by the will of Attalus, they inherited all Asia westward of Mount Taurus; sixty-five years after, they conquered the kingdom of Syria, and reduced it into a province; and thirty-four years after they did the same to Egypt. By all these steps, the Roman arms stood up over the Greeks; and after ninety-five years more, by making war upon the Jews, they polluted the sanctuary of strength,—the Temple, (so called by reason of its fortifications)—and took away the daily sacrifice, and placed the abomination that maketh desolate—or, of the desolator: for that this abomination was thus placed after the time of Christ, appears from Matt. xxiv, 15.

In the sixteenth year of the emperor Adrian, A. D. 132, they placed this abomination, by building a temple to Jupiter Capitolinus, where the Temple of God in Jerusalem stood; upon which the Jews, under Barchocab, rose up against the Romans. But in this war they had fifty cities demolished, nine hundred and fifty of their best towns destroyed, and eighty thousand men were slain by the sword; and in the end of the war, A. D. 136, were banished Judea on pain of death: and thenceforth the land became desolate. Observations on Daniel, and Bp. Newton on the Prophecies.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

daily sacrifice, [a] and they shall place the abomination that [b] maketh desolate.

32 [c] And such as do wickedly against the covenant shall he [d] corrupt by flatteries: [e] but the people that do know their God shall be strong, and do exploits.

33 [f] And they that understand among the people shall instruct many: [g] yet they shall fall by the sword, and by flame, by captivity, and by spoil, many days.

34 Now when they shall fall, [h] they shall be holpen with a little help: [i] but many shall cleave to them with flatteries.

35 And some of them of understanding shall fall, [k] to try [l] them, and to purge, and to make them white, [m] even to the time of the end: [n] because it is yet for a time appointed.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

36 And the king [o] shall do according to his will; and he shall [p] exalt himself, and magnify himself above every god, and shall speak marvellous things [q] against the God of gods, and shall prosper [r] till the indignation be accomplished: for that that is determined shall be done.

37 Neither shall he regard the God of his fathers, [s] nor the desire of women, [t] nor regard any god: for he shall magnify himself above all.

[a] 1 Macc. 1. 54, 59. & 4. 38.——[b] Or, astonisheth.——[c] 1 Macc. 1. 43, 52. 2 Macc. 4. 13, 14. & 5. 15.——[d] Or, cause to dissemble.——[e] 1 Macc. 1. 62. & 2. 41, 42, 43. 2 Macc. 5. 27. & 6. 19, 20. & 7. 1, &c.——[f] Mal. 2. 7.——[g] Heb. 11. 35, &c.——[h] 1 Macc. 3. 2. 2 Macc. 8. 1.

[i] 2 Macc. 12. 40. & 13. 21.——[k] Ch. 12. 10. 1 Pet. 1. 7.——[l] Or, by them.——[m] Ch. 8. 17, 19. ver. 40.——[n] Ver. 29.——[o] Ver. 16.——[p] Ch. 7. 8, 25. & 8. 25. 2 Thess. 2. 4. Rev. 13. 5, 6.——[q] Ch. 8. 11, 24, 25.——[r] Ch. 9. 27.——[s] 1 Tim. 4. 3.——[t] Isa. 14. 13. 2 Thess. 2. 4.

Verse 32. Such as do wickedly against the covenant] This is understood of the Christian Jews; for the NEW had now succeeded to the OLD, the whole of the Jewish ritual having been abolished, and Jerusalem filled with Heathen temples. And he,—the Roman power, did all they could by flatteries, as well as threats, to corrupt the Christians, and cause them to sacrifice to the statues of the emperors.

But the people that do know their God] The genuine Christians.

Shall be strong] Shall be strengthened by His grace and Spirit.

And do exploits.] Continue steadfast in all temptations, hold fast their faith, and enjoy a good conscience.

Verse 33. And they that understand] The apostles and primitive Christians in general, who understood from the prophets, and His own actions, that JESUS was the true MESSIAH.

Instruct many] Preach the gospel every where, and convert multitudes to the faith.

Yet they shall fall by the sword, and by flame, by captivity, and by spoil, many days.] They were exposed to the malice and fury of their enemies, during TEN STATE PERSECUTIONS; and suffered all kinds of tortures, with but little intermission, for three hundred years.—Newton.

Verse 34. Now when they shall fall] When the storm of the tenth persecution under Dioclesian, which lasted ten years, fell upon them, they were sorely oppressed.

They shall be holpen with a little help] By Constantine; who, while he removed all persecution, and promoted the temporal prosperity of the Christian church, yet added little to its spiritual perfection and strength. For many, now seeing the Christians in prosperity,—

Cleave to them with flatteries.] Became Christians BECAUSE the EMPEROR was such.

Verse 35. And some of them of understanding] Disputes on certain points of religion soon agitated the Christian church; and now, having no outward persecution, they began to persecute each other. And many excellent men, men of understanding, fell victims, because they would not embrace erroneous doctrines, when professed by the state. But this was permitted,—

To try them, and to purge, and to make them white] To bring all to the pure profession, possession, and practice, of Christianity.

To the time of the end] To the time that God shall cause pure and undefiled religion every where to prevail. But when is the time appointed for this?

Verse 36. And the king shall do according to his will] This may apply to Antiochus, who exalted himself above every god, called himself a god, sported with all religion, profaned the Temple, &c., &c. But others think an Antichristian power in the church is intended; for, in the language of this prophecy, king is taken for power, a kingdom, &c. That such a power did spring up in the church, that acted in an arbitrary manner against all laws human and Divine, is well known. This power shewed itself in the Greek emperors in the east, and in the Bishops of Rome in the west. And this is to continue—

Till the indignation be accomplished: for that that is determined shall be done.] This is the same as what was called in chap. viii, 19, the last end of the indignation; and chap. ix, 27, the consummation; and means the end or consummation of God's indignation against the Jews. And this seems more clearly expressed, chap. xii, 7, When he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of the holy people. We see this still subsisting in the church of Rome; and it was a saying of Rabbi David Kimchi, "When Rome shall be laid waste, then shall be redemption for Israel." For the destruction of Rome and the restoration of the Jews shall fall out about the same time.—Bp. Newton.

Verse 37. Neither shall he regard the God of his fathers] That God who sent the evangelists and apostles to preach

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

38 [a] But [b] in his estate shall he honour the god of [c] forces: [d] and a god whom his fathers knew not shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones, and [e] pleasant things.

39 Thus shall he do in the [f] most strong holds with a strange god, whom he shall acknowledge and increase with glory: and he shall cause them to rule over many, and shall divide the land for [g] gain.

40 [h] And at the time of the end shall the king of the south push at him: and the king of the north shall come against him [i] like a whirlwind, with chariots, [k] and with horsemen, and with many ships; and he shall enter into the countries, [l] and shall overflow and pass over.

41 He shall enter also into the [m] glorious [n] land, and many countries shall be overthrown: but these shall escape out of his hands, [o] even Edom,

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

[a] Or, But in his stead.——[b] Heb. as for the Almighty God, in his seat he shall honour, yea, he shall honour a god, whom, &c.——[c] Or, munitions.——[d] Heb. Mauzzim, or, gods protectors.——[e] Heb. things desired, Isa. 44. 9.——[f] Heb. fortresses of munitions.

[g] Heb. a price.——[h] Ver. 35.——[i] Psa. 58. 9. Prov. 1. 27. & 10. 25. Isa. 21. 1. & 40. 24. & 41. 16. & 66. 15. Zech. 9. 14.——[k] Ezek. 38. 4, 15. Rev. 9. 16.——[l] Ver. 10, 22.——[m] Or, goodly land, ver. 16.——[n] Heb. land of delight, or, ornament.——[o] Isa. 11. 14.

the pure doctrine. These true fathers of the Christian church, and their God, this church has not regarded; but put councils, and traditions, and apocryphal writings, in their place.

Nor the desire of women] Both the Greek and Latin church, in their Antichristian enactments, have discouraged, and in several cases proscribed, marriage, under the pretence of greater chastity, to the discredit of God's ordinance, and Christianity itself.

Nor regard any god] For the mandates and decrees of that church have been often in defiance of God and His word; for it has magnified itself above all power and authority in heaven and on earth. It professes to hold the keys, and to open and shut heaven at pleasure, both to states and individuals.

Verse 38. Shall he honour the god of forces] מעוזים mâuzzim, or gods protectors, as in the Margin; worshipping saints and angels, as guardians and protectors, and mediators; leaving out, in general, the true God, and the only Mediator, Jesus Christ.

And a god whom his fathers knew not] For these gods guardians, the Virgin Mary, saints, and angels, were utterly unknown, as mediators and invokable guardians, in the primitive apostolic church.

Shall he honour with gold, and silver, and with precious stones] How literally does this apply to the church of Rome! See the house of our lady at Loretto; the shrines of saints; the decorated images, costly apparel, gold jewels, &c., profusely used about images of saints, angels, and the blessed virgin, in different Popish churches. This superstition began to prevail in the fourth century; and was established in 787, by the seventh general council, for in that the worship of images was enacted.

Verse 39. In the most strong holds with a strange god] Bishop Newton proposed the following translation, after justly finding fault with our common Version. Thus shall he do to the defenders of Mauzzim, together with the strange god whom he shall acknowledge, he shall multiply honour, and he shall cause him to rule over many; and the earth he shall divide for a reward. The defenders of Mauzzim, these saint and angel gods protectors, were the monks, priests, and bishops, of whom it may be truly said, they were increased with honour, ruled over many, and divided the land for gain. They have been honoured and reverenced almost to adoration; their jurisdiction was extended over the purses and consciences of men; they have been enriched with the noblest buildings and largest endowments, and the choicest lands have been appropriated for church lands. These are points of such public notoriety, that they require no proof.—Newton.

Verse 40. At the time of the end shall the king of the south push at him] These kings are to be understood in reference to the times of which the prophet speaks. While the kingdoms of Egypt and Syria were subsisting, the king of the south and the north applied to them exclusively: but they did not exist at the time of which the prophet speaks; therefore, other southern and northern powers must be sought. These we may find in the Saracens, who were of the Arabians, who came from the south, headed by the false prophet Mohammed, who pushed at him,—made war on the Greek emperor Heraclius, and with amazing rapidity deprived him of Egypt, Syria, and many of his finest provinces.

And the king of the north] The Turks, who were originally Scythians, seized on the remains of the Greek empire; and, in process of time, rendered themselves masters of the whole. They are represented as coming like a whirlwind, with chariots, and with horsemen; their armies being chiefly composed of cavalry.

And with many ships] With these they got possession of many islands and maritime countries; and were so powerful in their fleets, that they entirely defeated the Venetians; and at last their fleets became of the utmost consequence to them in besieging, and at last taking Constantinople, in A. D. 1453, which they hold to the present day. So they entered into the countries, and overflowed, rendering themselves masters of all Asia Minor and Greece.

Verse 41. He shall enter also into the glorious land] Entirely subdue Judea.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon.

42 He shall [a] stretch forth his hand also upon the countries: and the land of Egypt shall not escape.

43 But he shall have power over the treasures of gold and of silver, and over all the precious things of Egypt: and the Libyans and the Ethiopians shall be [b] at his steps.

44 But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble him: therefore he shall go forth with great fury to destroy, and utterly to make away many.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

45 And he shall plant the tabernacles of his palaces between the seas in [c] the [d] glorious [e] holy mountain; [f] yet he shall come to his end, and none shall help him.

[a] Heb. send forth.——[b] Exod. 11. 8. Judg. 4. 10.——[c] Psa. 48. 2. ver. 16, 41. 2 Thess. 2. 4.——[d] Or, goodly.

[e] Heb. mountain of delight of holiness.——[f] 1 Macc. 6. 8—16. 2 Thess. 2. 8. Rev. 19. 20.

And many countries shall be overthrown] Aleppo, Damascus, Gaza, and many other cities, were forced to submit to them; and they hold them still.

But these shall escape—Edom and Moab, and the chief of the children of Ammon.] These, and other Arabians, they have never been able to subdue. They still occupy the deserts; and receive a yearly pension of forty thousand crowns of gold, from the Ottoman emperors, to permit the caravans, with the pilgrims for Mecca, to have a free passage.

Verse 42. He shall stretch forth his hand] He,—the Ottoman emperors, have stretched forth the hand, not only on European, but also upon Asiatic and African countries. Egypt has not escaped; it is a province of the Turkish government, as are also Fez, Morocco, Algiers, and many other African countries. And as the prophecy says they got power over the silver and gold, and the precious things of Egypt: so it was; for when Selim conquered Egypt, A. D. 1517, he took all its spoils; and the immense sums drawn from it to the present day, and the wretchedness of the land in consequence, are almost incredible.

The Libyans and the Æthiopians] The Cushim,—unconquered Arabs, all sought their friendship; and many of them are tributary to the present time.

Verse 44. But tidings out of the east and out of the north shall trouble him] This part of the prophecy is allowed to be yet unfulfilled; and what is portended, the course of prophetic events will shew. Were we to understand it as applying to Antiochus, then the news might be of the preparations which he heard, that the provinces of the East, and Artaxes, king of Armenia, on the north, were intending to rise up against him. But if the Turkish power be understood, as in the preceding verses, it may mean that the Persians on the east, and the Russians on the north, will at some time greatly embarrass the Ottoman government.

Verse 45. He shall plant the tabernacles] He shall make a last stand in Judea, and there shall his power be smitten.

He shall come to his end, and none shall help him.] All his confederate and tributary kingdoms, states, and provinces, shall desert him, and leave that government to come to a shameful end.

In the interpretation of this Chapter I have generally followed Bp. Newton, in his most excellent Dissertations on the Prophecies, consulting other eminent authors occasionally. From the beginning of the Chapter to the end of verse 30, all is very clear and plain, relative to the Grecian, Syrian, and Egyptian histories; from the thirty-first verse to the end, the mode of interpretation is not so satisfactory, in its application to the times since Christ. Yet possibly these alone may be intended; though the whole might be, with considerable ease, applied to the remaining part of the Syrian and Egyptian history. It is a wonderful piece of prophecy, and of great utility to the cause of Divine revelation.

CHAPTER XII.

The proper conclusion to the great revolutions predicted in this and the following Chapters is the general resurrection, of which the beginning of this Chapter (if to be literally understood) gives some intimation, 1—3. Daniel is then commanded to shut up the words and to seal the book to the time of the end, 4; and is informed of the three grand symbolical periods of a time, times, and a half, twelve hundred and ninety days, and thirteen hundred and thirty-five days, 4—12, at the end of the last of which Daniel shall rest, and stand in his lot, 13. It is generally thought by commentators that the termination of the last period is the epoch of the FIRST resurrection. See Rev. xx, 4, 5.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

AND at that time shall [a] Michael stand up, the great prince which standeth for the children of thy people: [b] and there shall be a time of trouble, such as never was since there was a nation even to that same time: and at that time thy people [c] shall be delivered, every one that shall be found [d] written in the book.

2 And many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth shall awake, [e] some to everlasting life, and some to shame [f] and everlasting contempt.

3 And [g] they that be [h] wise shall [i] shine as the brightness of the firmament; [k] and they that turn many to righteousness [l] as the stars for ever and ever.

4 [m] But thou, O Daniel, [n] shut up the words, and seal the book, even to [o] the time of the end: many shall run to and fro, and knowledge shall be increased.

5 Then I Daniel looked, and, behold, there stood other two, the one on this side of the [p] bank of the river, and the other on that side of the bank [q] of the river.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

6 And one said to [r] the man clothed in linen, which was [s] upon the waters of the river, [t] How long shall it be to the end of these wonders?

7 And I heard the man clothed in linen, which was upon the waters of the river, when he [u] held up his right hand and his left hand unto heaven, and sware by him [x] that liveth for ever [y] that it shall be for a time, times, and [z] a half; [a] and when he shall have accomplished to scatter the power of [b] the holy people, all these things shall be finished.

8 And I heard, but I understood not: then said I, O my Lord, what shall be the end of these things?

9 And he said, Go thy way, Daniel: for the words are closed up and sealed [c] till the time of the end.

[a] Ch. 10. 13. 21.——[b] Isa. 26. 20, 21. Jer. 30. 7. Matt. 24. 21. Rev. 16. 18.——[c] Rom. 11. 26.——[d] Exod. 32. 32. Psa. 56. 8. & 69. 28. Ezek. 13. 9. Luke 10 20. Phil. 4. 3. Rev. 3. 5. & 13. 8.——[e] Matt. 25. 46. John 5. 28, 29. Acts 24. 15.——[f] Isa. 66. 24. Rom. 9. 21.——[g] Ch. 11. 33, 35.——[h] Or, teachers.——[i] Prov. 4. 18. Wisd. 3. 7. Matt. 13. 43.

[k] Jam. 5. 20.——[l] 1 Cor. 15. 41, 42.——[m] Ch. 8. 26. ver. 9.——[n] Rev. 10. 4. & 22. 10.——[o] Ch. 10. 1. ver. 9.——[p] Heb. lip.——[q] Ch. 10. 4.——[r] Ch. 10. 5.——[s] Or, from above.——[t] Ch. 8. 13.——[u] Deut. 32. 40. Rev. 10. 5, 6.——[x] Ch. 4. 34.——[y] Ch. 7. 25. & 11. 13. Rev 12. 14.——[z] Or, part.——[a] Luke 21. 24. Rev. 10. 7.——[b] Ch. 8. 24.——[c] Ver. 4.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XII.

Verse 1. And at that time Michael shall stand up] Michael the archangel, as has already been observed, was ever reputed the guardian of the Jewish people.

Every one that shall be found written in the book] All that truly fear, love, and obey the Lord. On the phrase, written in the book, the book of life, &c., see the passages in the Margin, and the Notes on those passages.

Verse 2. Many of them that sleep in the dust of the earth] This prophecy has been referred to the future restoration of the Jews. It will be also true of the state of mankind at the general judgment.

Verse 3. And they that be wise] Those that are thoroughly instructed in Christ's word and doctrine,—shall shine—shall be eminently distinguished in the Christian church by the holiness of their lives, and the purity of their creed.

And they that turn many to righteousness] They who, by preaching Christ crucified among their brethren, shall be the means of converting them to the Christian faith,—shall be as the stars—bright luminaries in the gospel kingdom of Jesus Christ. This also may be applied to the case of holy and useful men, particularly the faithful ministers of the gospel, in the day of judgment. See the parallel Texts in the Margin; and the Notes on them.

Verse 4. Shut up the words, and seal the book] When a prophet received a prediction concerning what was at a considerable distance of time, he shut his book, did not communicate his revelation for some time after. This Daniel was commanded to do, chap. viii, 26. See also Isa. xxix, 10, 11; Rev. xxii, 10.

Many shall run to and fro] Many shall endeavour to search out the sense; and knowledge shall be increased—by these means. Though the meaning shall not be fully known till the events take place; THEN the seal shall be broken, and the sense become plain. This seems to be the meaning of this verse; though another has been put on it, viz. "Many shall run to and fro preaching the gospel of Christ, and therefore religious knowledge and true wisdom shall be increased." This is true in itself: but it is not the meaning of the prophet's words.

Verse 5. Behold there stood other two] Probably two angels. We know no more of them, unless they be the same as those called saints, chap. viii, 13, which see. The river was most likely the Tigris.

Verse 6. The man clothed in linen] Gabriel, in a human form. Thus he is represented, chap. x, 5.

Verse 7. Which was upon the waters] By this description, he was standing on the water. This is very similar to the description of the angel, Rev. x, 5, 6; and the seventh verse there seems to be a reference to this prophecy, a time, times, and a half. See the note on chap. vii, 25.

Verse 8. I heard, but I understood not] Could not comprehend what the time, times, and half time, should refer to. These make three years and a half of prophetic time, answering to one thousand two hundred and sixty years.

Verse 9. The words are closed up] The prophecy shall not be understood, but in its accomplishment; and then the depth of the wisdom and providence of God will be clearly seen in these matters. We must wait TILL the time of the end; and this, it appears from the following calculations, will not arrive before the TWENTIETH century. We here see the

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

10 [a] Many shall be purified, and made white, and tried; [b] but the wicked shall do wickedly: and none of the wicked shall understand; but [c] the wise shall understand.

11 And from the time [d] that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away, and [e] the abomination that [f] maketh desolate set up, there shall be a thousand two hundred and ninety days.

A. M. 3470. B. C. 534. Ol. LXI. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 1.

12 Blessed is he that waiteth, and cometh to the thousand three hundred and five and thirty days.

13 But [g] go thou thy way till the end be: [h] for [i] thou shalt rest, [k] and stand in thy lot at the end of the days.

[a] Ch. 11. 35. Zech. 13. 9.——[b] Hos. 14. 9. Rev. 9. 20. & 22. 11.——[c] Ch. 11. 33, 35. John 7. 17. & 8. 47. & 18. 37.——[d] Ch. 8. 11. & 11. 31.

[e] Heb. to set up the abomination, &c.——[f] Or, astonisheth.——[g] Ver. 9.——[h] Or, and thou, &c.——[i] Isa. 57. 2. Rev. 14. 13.——[k] Psa. 1. 5.

reason why these prophecies are at present so imperfectly understood. God has SEALED them.

Verse 10. Many shall be purified] During the interim, the great work of God's providence and grace shall be carried on in the salvation of men; who, in the midst of trials, temptations, and difficulties, shall be purified and made white; be fully saved from their sins.

None of the wicked shall understand] Because they are wicked, and will continue in their sins, the eyes of their understanding shall be closed, and their hearts hardened; so that they shall not see the light of the glorious gospel.

But the wise] Those who open their hearts to God, that He may pour in His light; they shall understand the things that make for their peace.

Verse 11. From the time that the daily sacrifice shall be taken away] See the notes on chap. xi, 25—27.

The abomination that maketh desolate set up] I believe, with Bp. Newton, that this is a proverbial phrase; and may be applied to any thing substituted in the place of, or set up in opposition to, the ordinances of God, His worship, His truth, &c. Adrian's temple, built in the place of God's Temple at Jerusalem, the church of St. Sophia turned into a Mohammedan mosque, &c. &c., may be termed abominations that make desolate. Perhaps Mohammedanism may be the abomination; which sprang up, A. D. 612. If we reckon one thousand two hundred and ninety years, ver. 11, from that time, it will bring us down to A. D. 1902, when we might presume, from this calculation, that the religion of the FALSE PROPHET will cease to prevail in the world. Which, from the present year 1825, is distant only seventy-seven years.

Verse 12. Blessed is he that waiteth] He who implicitly depends on God, expecting, as His truth cannot fail, that these predictions shall be accomplished in due time.

And cometh to the thousand three hundred and five and thirty days] This is seventy-five days more than what is included in the three years and a half, or the time, times, and a half, in the seventh verse; and as we have met with so many instances of prophetical days and years, this undoubtedly is another instance; and as a day stands for a year, this must mean a period of one thousand three hundred and thirty-five years, which period is to bring all these wonders to an end, ver. 6. But we are left totally in the dark relative to the time from which these one thousand three hundred and thirty-five years are to be reckoned. If, however, we reckon them from the above epoch, A. D. 612, when Mohammedanism arose, they lead us to A. D. 1947, when the fulness of the Gentiles shall be brought in; and thus a final closure of vision and prophecy be made, as then all the great events relative to the salvation of men shall have taken place. Wars and contentions will probably then cease over the whole world; Jews and Gentiles become one fold, under one Shepherd and Bishop of all souls; and the Triune God be properly worshipped and glorified, from generation to generation, over the face of the whole earth. But all these conjectures may be founded in darkness. We have not chronological data; and the times and seasons God has reserved in His own power.

Verse 13. But go thou thy way till the end be] Here is proper advice for every man. 1. Thou hast a way, a walk in life, which God has assigned thee; walk in that way. 2. There will be an end to thee of all earthly things. Death is at the door, and eternity is at hand; go on to the end, be faithful unto death. 3. There is a rest provided for the people of God. Thou shalt rest;—thy body in the grave, thy soul in the Divine favour here, and, finally, in Paradise. 4. As in the Promised Land there was a lot for each of God's people, so in heaven there is a lot for thee. Do not lose it, do not sell it, do not let thy enemy rob thee of it. Be determined to stand in thy own lot at the end of the days. See that thou keep the faith; die in the Lord Jesus, that thou may rise and reign with Him to all eternity. Amen.

MASORETIC NOTES.

Number of Verses, 357. Middle Verse, Chap. v, 30.

Masoretic Sections, 7.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET DANIEL.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE BOOK OF

THE PROPHET HOSEA.

HOSEA, the son of Beeri, is the first of the small Prophets. Epiphanius says, that he was of the town of Belemoth, in the tribe of Issachar; which is no other, in all probability, than Beelmeon, towards Esdraelon, in this tribe. The Rabbins say, Bura was his father, who is mentioned in the Chronicles; and was prince of the tribe of Reuben, at the time when Tiglath-pileser carried some of the tribes of Israel into captivity. But if it be so, Hosea must be said to be of the tribe of Reuben; and a native of Beelmeon, beyond Jordan. This Prophet lived in the kingdom of Samaria; and his prophecies for the most part have a view to this state, though there are likewise some particular things which concern the kingdom of Judah.

We read, in the introduction to his Prophecy, that he prophesied under the kings of Judah, Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz and Hezekiah, and under Jeroboam II, king of Israel. If he prophesied in the reign of all these princes, he must have lived a very long time; for there are a hundred and twelve years from the beginning of Uzziah's reign to the end of Hezekiah's reign. Uzziah began to reign A. M. 3194, and Hezekiah's reign ended in 3306. Add, if you please, twenty or five and twenty years, which might be the age of Hosea when he began to prophesy; and this will make one hundred and thirty-two, or one hundred and thirty-seven years. And if we were to take ten years from Uzziah, and as many from Hezekiah, during which Hosea might not have prophesied, there will still remain one hundred and twelve, or, one hundred and fifteen years.

In the whole collection of Hosea's prophecies, we find nothing which proves that he prophesied so long. And, besides, why should his prophecies be dated in the title by the reigns of the kings of Judah, when he did not live under their dominion? It is therefore very probable that this title is not Hosea's, but some ancient transcriber's; and that the true beginning of this Prophet's work is at these words, The beginning of the word of the Lord by Hosea. It is our opinion, that he began about the end of Jeroboam's reign, who was the second king of Israel of this name. See Calmet.

St. Jerome, and many others, believe Hosea to be the oldest prophet, whose writings are in our possession; and that he was witness to the first captivity of the four tribes carried away by Tiglath-pileser, and the extinction of the kingdom of Samaria by Shalmanezer. St. Jerome will have it, that he prophesied even afterwards. The first verses of Chapter I, have a view to the death of Zechariah, king of Israel, and son of Jeroboam II. From the sixth verse of the first Chapter, to the third Chapter, is a prediction of the captivity of Israel: but, after he has foretold this captivity, he declares the return and end of it. He inveighs strongly against the disorders which prevailed in the kingdom of the ten tribes. It appears that, in his time, there were idols; not only at Dan, Bethel, and Samaria, but likewise at Gilgal, upon Tabor, at Sichem, Beersheba, and upon the mountains of Gilead. He speaks of the Israelites as of a people entirely corrupted, and the measure of whose sins was filled up; he foretels that their golden calves should be pulled down, cast upon the ground, and carried into Assyria.

He reflects with the same severity, upon the irregularities which reigned in Judah. He stands up against those who went to worship the false gods at Gilgal. He speaks of Sennacherib's invading the territories of Judah. He foretels that the people of Judah should still continue some time in their country after the captivity of the ten tribes: but that after this they themselves should likewise be carried captives beyond the Euphrates, from whence the Lord would bring them back after a certain number of years. The style of Hosea is obscure, and his expressions often dubious and perplexed. The things whereof he speaks contribute farther to his obscurity, by reason of their distance, and our ignorance of the history of those times.

In the beginning of Hosea's prophecy, we read that the Lord directed him to take unto him a wife of whoredoms, and children of whoredoms; that is, to marry a woman, who before her marriage had lived a debauched life, but who after her marriage should retire from all bad conversation, and whose children should be legitimate, notwithstanding, that by reason of the blemish which their mother had contracted by her former life, they were called the children of whoredoms. This prostitute woman, and the children who were to be born of her, were a figure and a kind of real prophecy which described the idolatry and infidelity of Samaria, and the ten tribes, formerly the Lord's spouse, but who afterwards became idolatrous and corrupt.

The children of this faithless woman are children of prostitution, since they imitate the idolatry of their mother. God gives these children the names of Jezreel, God will disperse; Lo-rechamah, or, Without mercy; and Lo-ammi, Thou art no longer my people; to shew.—1. That God was going to revenge upon the house of Jehu, king of Israel, the sins which he had committed at Jezreel, when he usurped the kingdom of the ten tribes. 2. That the Lord would treat His idolatrous and sinful people without mercy. 3. That he would reject them, and no more look upon them as His people.

Hosea is concise, sententious, and abrupt. It is his manner to omit the connexive and adversative particles; an observation which we should recollect, when we observe them occasionally supplied by Versions or manuscripts. These are among the causes of that obscurity for which he is remarkable: but the greatest difficulties arise from the corrupt readings which deform the printed text. He chiefly addresses Israel: but introduces frequent mention of Judah. He not only inveighs against the vices of the people; but sharply arraigns the conduct of their kings, princes, and priests.

Like many of the Hebrew prophets, he tempers denunciations of God's vengeance against an idolatrous and vicious people, with promises of abundant mercies in store for them; and his transitions from one of these subjects to the other are rapid and unexpected. He abounds with short and lively comparisons; and, like the best Greek and Roman writers, often omits the particle of similitude. These comparisons he sometimes accumulates in the spirit of that poetry which is most admired. See chap. vi, 3, 4; ix, 10; xi, 11; xiii, 3; xiv, 5, 6, 7. He has often a GREAT FORCE OF EXPRESSION. See chap. i, 7; ii, 3, 18, 21, 22; iv, 2; vi, 5; xi, 4. l. 1; xii, 1. l. 1. He is sometimes HIGHLY ANIMATED. See chap. iv, 14; v, 8; viii, 1; ix, 5, 14; xiii, 10, 14. Many BEAUTIFUL PASSAGES occur in this prophet, as in the SIMILES throughout; in the ALLEGORIES, chap. ii, 2, 20; vii, 11, 12; viii, 7. l. 2, 3, 4; x, 11, 12, 13; xiii, 15; in the PATHOS, chap. xi, 3; l. 1, 2; and ver. 8, 9; in the FIGURES, chap. xiii, 12; xiv, 2. l. 5. There are also some parts which are truly SUBLIME, as chap. v, 14, 15; viii, 7. l. 1. x, 8. l. 2, 3; xiii, 7, 8.

I have already, at the beginning of Isaiah, given a Table of the chronological succession of all the prophets: that of Archbishop Newcome on the Twelve Minor Prophets I subjoin here, because it contains some differences from the preceding.

Order and Time in which the Twelve Minor Prophets flourished.

1. JONAH prophesied between 823 B. C · and 783 B. C., in the reign of Jeroboam II, king of Israel. See 2 Kings xiv, 25.

2. AMOS prophesied from about 823 B. C. to about 758 B. C., in the reign of Uzziah, king of Judah, and in that of Jeroboam II, king of Israel. See Amos i, 1.

3. HOSEA flourished from about 809 B. C. to about 698 B. C., in the reigns of Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in that of Jeroboam II, king of Israel. See Hos. i, 1.

4. MICAH flourished between 757 B. C. and 698 B. C., in the reigns of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah. See Mic. i, 1.

5. NAHUM is supposed to have prophesied between 720 B. C. and 698 B. C., in the reign of Hezekiah.

6. JOEL is supposed to have prophesied between 697 B. C. and 660 B. C., in the reign of Manasseh.

7. ZEPHANIAH prophesied between 640 B. C. and 609 B. C., in the reign of Josiah. See Zeph. i, 1.

8. HABAKKUK is thought to have prophesied between 606 B. C. and 598 B. C., in the reign of Jehoiakim.

9. OBADIAH prophesied soon after 587 B. C., between the taking of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, and the destruction of the Edomites by the same prince.

10. HAGGAI prophesied about 520 B. C., after the return from Babylon. See Haggai i, 1.

11. ZECHARIAH prophesied from 520 B. C. to about 518 B. C.; and was contemporary with Haggai. See Zech. i, 1.

12. MALACHI is generally believed to have prophesied about 436 B. C.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET HOSEA.

Chronological Notes relative to the commencement of Hosea's prophesying, upon the supposition that this event took place in the last year of the reign of Jeroboam II, king of Israel.

Year of the world, according to the Ussherian account, 3219.—Year of the Julian Period, 3929.—Year since the Flood, 1563.—Year from the vocation of Abram, 1136.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's Temple, 227.—Year before the First Olympiad, 9.—Year before the building of Rome, 32.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 785.—Cycle of the sun, 9.—Cycle of the Moon, 15.—Second year of Cœnus, the second king of Macedon; which was the thirtieth from the foundation of the monarchy.—Thirteenth year of Agamestor, perpetual archon of the Athenians.—Thirteenth year of Ardysus, king of Lydia.—Twelfth year of Amulius Sylvius, king of the Albans.—Twenty-fifth year of Charilaus, king of the Lacedemonians.—Forty-first year of Jeroboam II, king of Israel.—Twenty-sixth year of Uzziah, king of Judah.

CHAPTER I.

Under the figure of a wife proving false to her marriage vows, and bearing children that should follow her example, the Prophet represents the shameful idolatry of the ten tribes, which provoked God to cast them off. The whole passage is information by action instead of words. The names of the children are all emblematical. The first is intended to put Israel in mind of their unrepented guilt, and the acts of cruelty committed in their palace of Jezreel, (1 Kings xxi, 1.) The second and third, signifying Not finding mercy, and Not my people, denote that, in consequence of their guilt, they were to be rejected of God, 1—9. God promises, however, to repair the loss to His church by calling in the Gentiles, 10; and by uniting all the children of God under one Head, the Messiah, in the latter days, 11.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

THE word of the LORD that came unto Hosea, the son of Beeri, in the days of [a] Uzziah, Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, and in the days of [b] Jeroboam the son of Joash, king of Israel.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

2 The beginning of the word of the LORD by Hosea. And the LORD

[a] Isa. 1. 1.

[b] 2 Kings 14. 23.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. Hosea the son of Beeri] See the preceding account of this Prophet.

In the days of Uzziah, &c.] If we suppose, says Bp. Newcome, that Hosea prophesied during the course of sixty-six years, and place him from the year 790 before Christ to said to Hosea, [a] Go, take unto thee a wife of whoredoms and children of whoredoms: for [b] the land hath committed great whoredom, departing from the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

3 So he went and took Gomer the daughter of Diblaim; which conceived, and bare him a son.

4 And the LORD said unto him, Call his name Jezreel; for yet a little while, [c] and I will [d] avenge the blood of Jezreel upon the house of Jehu, [e] and will cause to cease the kingdom of the house of Israel.

5 [f] And it shall come to pass at that day, that I will break the bow of Israel in the valley of Jezreel.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

6 And she conceived again, and bare a daughter. And God said unto him, Call her name [g] Lo-ruhamah: [h] for [i] I will no more have mercy upon the house of Israel; [k] but I will utterly take them away.

7 [l] But I will have mercy upon the house of Judah, and will save them by the LORD their God, and [m] will not save them by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, by horses, nor by horsemen.

---

[a] So ch. 3. 1.——[b] Deut. 31. 16. Psa. 73. 27. Jer. 2. 13. Ezek. 23. 3, &c.——[c] 2 Kings 10. 11.——[d] Heb. visit.——[e] 2 Kings 15. 10, 12.——[f] 2 Kings 15. 29.

[g] That is, Not having obtained mercy.——[h] 2 Kings 17. 6, 23.——[i] Heb. I will not add any more to.——[k] Or, that I should altogether pardon them.——[l] 2 Kings 19. 35.——[m] Zech. 4. 6. & 9. 10.

---

the year 724, he will have exercised his office eight years in the reign of Jeroboam the second, thirty-three years in the reign of Uzziah, the whole reigns of Jotham and Ahaz, and three years in the reign of Hezekiah; but will not have survived the taking of Samaria. But see the preceding account of this Prophet.

I think the first verse to be a title to this Book added by the compiler of his prophecies; and that it relates more to facts which took place in those reigns, and had been predicted by Hosea, who would only be said to have prophesied under all those kings, by his predictions, which were consecutively fulfilled under them. By those, though dead, he continued to speak. The Prophet's work properly begins at ver. 2; hence called, The beginning of the word of the LORD by Hosea.

Verse 2. A wife of whoredoms] That is, says Newcome, a wife from among the Israelites, who were remarkable for spiritual fornication or idolatry. God calls Himself the Husband of Israel; and this chosen nation owed Him the fidelity of a wife. See Exod. xxxiv, 15; Deut. xxxi, 16; Judg. ii, 17; Isa. liv, 5; Jer. iii, 14; xxxi, 32; Ezek. xvi, 17; xxiii, 5, 27; Hos. 2, 5; Rev. xvii, 1, 2. He therefore, says, with indignation, Go join thyself in marriage to one of those who have committed fornication against me; and raise up children who, by the power of example, will themselves swerve to idolatry. See chap. v, 7. And thus shew them that they are radically depraved.

Verse 3. He went and took Gomer] All this appears to be a real transaction, though having a typical meaning. If he took an Israelite, he must necessarily have taken an idolatress: one who had worshipped the calves of Jeroboam at Dan, or at Bethel.

Verse 4. Call his name Jezreel] יזרעאל that is, God will disperse. This seems to intimate that a speedy dispersion or sowing of Israel shall take place; which happened under Shalmanezer, king of Assyria, 2 Kings xvii, 5, 6. But the word refers also to the name of a city, where Jehu slew Jezebel, and all the children of Ahab. 2 Kings ix, 10, 36. and x, 6.

This was one of those prophetic names which we so often meet with in the Scriptures; e. g. Japhet, Abraham, Israel, Judah, Joshua, Zerubbabel, Solomon, Sheer-jashub, &c.

The blood of Jezreel] Not Jehu's vengeance on Ahab's family; but his acts of cruelty while he resided at Jezreel, a city in the tribe of Issachar, Josh. xix, 18, where the kings of Israel had a palace, 1 Kings xxi, 1.

Will cause to cease the kingdom] Either relating to the cutting off of the kingdom of Israel by the Assyrians, see ver. 6; or, to the ceasing of the kingdom of Israel from the house of Jehu, 2 Kings x, 30; and which was fulfilled, 2 Kings xv, 10.—Newcome.

Verse 5. In the valley of Jezreel.] This also is supposed to relate either to some signal defeat of the Israelites by the Assyrians, which took place in the valley of Jezreel; or to the death of Zechariah, the fourth lineal descendant of Jehu, which may have happened here. See 2 Kings xv, 10.—Newcome.

Verse 6. Call her—Lo-ruhamah] לא רחמה, Not having obtained mercy. This also was a prophetic or typical name; and the reason of its imposition is immediately given:—

For I will no more have mercy] כי לא אוסיף עוד ארחם ki lo osiph ód erachem, "For I will no more add to have mercy upon the house of Israel." This refers to the total destruction of that kingdom.

Verse 7. But I will have mercy upon the house of Judah] I will spare them as a kingdom, after Israel has been carried away into captivity by the Assyrians.

And will save them by the LORD their God] Remarkably fulfilled in the supernatural defeat of the army of the Assyrians, see 2 Kings xix, 35; and so they were saved not by bow, nor by sword, nor by battle, nor by horses, nor by horsemen. The former expression may mean, not in war by horses, i. e. yoked to war chariots; nor by horsemen,—nor

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

8 Now when she had weaned Lo-ruhamah, she conceived, and bare a son.

9 Then said God, Call his name [a] Lo-ammi: for ye are not my people, and I will not be your God.

10 Yet [b] the number of the children of Israel shall be as the sand of the sea, which cannot be measured nor numbered; [c] and it shall come to pass, that [d] in the place where it was said unto them, [e] Ye are not my people, there it shall be said unto them, Ye are [f] the sons of the living God.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

11 [g] Then shall the children of Judah and the children of Israel be gathered together, and appoint themselves one head, and they shall come up out of the land: for great shall be the day of Jezreel.

[a] That is, Not my people.——[b] Gen. 32. 12. Rom. 9. 27, 28.——[c] Rom. 9. 25, 26. 1 Pet. 2. 10.——[d] Or, Instead of that.

[e] Ch. 2. 23.——[f] John 1. 12. 1 John 3. 1.——[g] Isa. 11. 12, 13. Jer. 3. 18. Ezek. 34. 23. & 37. 16—24.

by cavalry, however efficient such troops might have then been deemed.

Verse 9. Call his name Lo-ammi] לא עמי lo-ammi, Not my people; for which the reason is immediately given:—

Ye are not my people, and I will not be your God] The word God is not added here by any of the ancient Versions or MSS.; and yet the construction absolutely requires it, as Houbigant properly observes, who thinks the present reading לא אהיה לכם lo eheyeh lacem, I will not be to you, a corruption of the word אלהיכם eloheycem, your God. It is strange that no various reading occurs on this verse in any MS. yet discovered. In two of the oldest of mine, there is a blank of half a line left after the last word: and so it is in the Masoretic Bibles, though the sense is not complete; for it is evidently continued in the following verse. Probably God refers to the words, Exod. iii, 14. אהיה אשר אהיה I am that I am. I am, אהיה ehiyeh,—I shall be, hath sent me unto you. I will not be your ehiyeh, i. e. I will not be your God.

Verse 10. Yet the number of the children of Israel] God had promised that the children of Israel should be as the sand of the sea. See Gen. xxxii, 12; Rom. ix, 25, 26. And though, for their iniquities, He had thinned and scattered them; yet the spirit and design of His promise and covenant shall be fulfilled. An Israel there shall be. In the place of the reprobated people, who were now no longer His people, there shall be found an Israel, that shall be the children of the living God. See the above Scriptures, and 1 Pet. ii, 10. This must mean, either the Israelites after their conversion to Christianity; or, even the Gentiles themselves, converted to God, and now become the true Israel.

Verse 11. The children of Judah and the children of Israel] After the return from Babylon, the distinction between Israel and Judah was entirely destroyed; and those of them that did return were all included under one denomination, Jews; and the one head may refer to Zerubbabel their leader, and afterwards under Ezra and Nehemiah. In the more extensive view of the Prophet, the one Head may mean Jesus Christ, under whom the true Israel, Jews and Gentiles, shall be finally gathered together; so that there shall be one flock, and one Shepherd over that flock.

They shall come up out of the land] Assyria and Chaldea in particular; but also the various places of their dispersions in general.

Great shall be the day of Jezreel.] He alludes to the meaning of the word, the seed of God. God who has dispersed, sown, them in different lands, shall gather them together; and that God of gods' power shall be great and glorious. It was a wonderful seed time in the Divine justice: it shall then be a wonderful harvest in the Divine mercy. He sowed them among the nations in His wrath; He shall reap them and gather them in His bounty.

CHAPTER II.

The Prophet exhorts his people to speak and to act as became those who obtained mercy of God; and to remonstrate strongly against the conduct of their mother (Samaria,) whose captivity is threatened on account of her forsaking God, and ascribing her prosperity to idols, 1—5. As an amplification of this threatening, the Prophet enumerates a series of afflictions which were to befall her to bring her to a sense of her duty to God; and of her folly in seeking after idols, and falsely ascribing to them the blessings of Providence, 6—13. After these corrections, however, God promises to conduct Israel safely to their own land; perhaps alluding to their restoration from the Babylonish captivity, for this prophecy is supposed to have been delivered about two hundred and fifty years prior to this event, 14, 15. He farther engages to deal with them as a tender husband; and not as a severe master, as were the idols which they served, 16, 17. The rest of the Chapter promises the people of God, the true Israel, security from every evil, with the possession of every blessing, under a new covenant; and that in terms full of beauty, energy, and consolation. Heaven and earth, and whatever they contain; all nature, and the God of nature, are represented as uniting to make the people of God happy; so that if they only breathe a wish, one part of nature, animate or inanimate, echoes it to another, and all join in sweet harmony to transmit it to the ear of the Almighty. "I will hear, saith the LORD; I will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth; and the earth shall hear the corn, and the wine, and the oil; and they shall hear Jezreel."

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

SAY ye unto your brethren, [a] Ammi; and to your sisters, [b] Ruhamah.

2 Plead with your mother, plead: for [c] she is not my wife, neither am I her husband: let her therefore put away her [d] whoredoms out of her sight, and her adulteries from between her breasts;

3 Lest [e] I strip her naked, and set her as in the day that she was [f] born, and make her [g] as a wilderness, and set her like a dry land, and slay her with [h] thirst.

4 And I will not have mercy upon her children; for they be the [i] children of whoredoms.

5 [k] For their mother hath played the harlot: she that conceived them hath done shamefully: for she said, I will go after my lovers, [l] that give me my bread and my water, my wool and my flax, mine oil and my [m] drink.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

6 Therefore, behold, [n] I will hedge up thy way with thorns, and [o] make a wall, that she shall not find her paths.

7 And she shall follow after her lovers, but she shall not overtake them; and she shall seek them, but shall not find them: then shall she say, [p] I will go and return to my [q] first Husband; for then was it better with me than now.

8 For she did not [r] know that [s] I gave her corn, and [t] wine, and oil, and multiplied her

[a] That is, My people.——[b] That is, Having obtained mercy.——[c] Isa. 50. 1. ——[d] Ezek. 16. 25.——[e] Jer. 13. 22, 26. Ezek. 16. 37, 39.——[f] Ezek. 16. 4.——[g] Ezek. 19. 13.——[h] Amos 8. 11, 13.——[i] John 8. 41.——[k] Isa. 1. 21. Jer. 3. 1, 6, 8, 9. Ezek. 16. 15, 16, &c.

[l] Ver. 8, 12. Jer. 44. 17.——[m] Heb. drinks.——[n] Job 3. 23. & 19. 8. Lam. 3. 7, 9.——[o] Heb. wall a wall.——[p] Ch. 5. 15. Luke 15. 18.——[q] Ezek. 16. 8.——[r] Isa. 1. 3.——[s] Ezek. 16. 17, 18, 19.——[t] Heb. new wine.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. Say ye unto your brethren, Ammi] I prefer the interpretation of these proper names.—Say ye unto your brethren, MY PEOPLE; and to your sisters, who have OBTAINED MERCY.

Verse 2. Plead with your mother] People of Judah, accuse your mother (Jerusalem) who has abandoned my worship, and is become idolatrous; convince her of her folly and wickedness, and let her return to Him from whom she has so deeply revolted.

Verse 3. Lest I strip her naked] Lest I expose her to infamy, want, and punishment. The punishment of adulteresses among the ancient Germans was this:—"They shaved off her hair, stripped her naked in the presence of her relatives, and in this state drove her from the house of her husband." See on Isa. iii, 17; and see also Ezek. xvi, 39; xxiii, 26. However reproachful this might be to such delinquents, it had no tendency to promote their moral reformation.

And set her like a dry land] The Israelites, if obedient, were promised a land flowing with milk and honey; but, should they be disobedient, the reverse. And this is what God here threatens against disobedient Israel.

Verse 4. They be the children of whoredoms.] They are all idolaters; and have been consecrated to idols, whose marks they bear.

Verse 5. That give me my bread] See the Note on Jer. xliv, 17, 18, where nearly the same words are found and illustrated.

Verse 6. I will hedge up thy way with thorns] I will put it out of your power to escape the judgments I have threatened: and, in spite of all your attachment to your idols, you shall find that they can give you neither bread, nor water, nor wool, nor flax, oil, nor drink. And ye shall be brought into such circumstances that the pursuit of your expensive idolatry shall be impossible. And she shall be led so deep into captivity, as never to find the road back to her own land. And this is the fact; for those who were carried away into Assyria have been lost among the nations, few of them having ever returned to Judea. And, if in being, where they are now is utterly unknown.

Verse 8. For she did not know that I gave her corn] How often are the gifts of God's immediate bounty attributed to fortuitous causes:—to any cause but the right one.

Which they prepared for Baal.] And how often are the gifts of God's bounty perverted into means of dishonouring silver and gold, [a] which they prepared for Baal.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

9 Therefore will I return, and [b] take away my corn in the time thereof, and my wine in the season thereof, and will [c] recover my wool and my flax given to cover her nakedness.

10 And now [d] will I discover her [e] lewdness in the sight of her lovers, and none shall deliver her out of mine hand.

11 [f] I will also cause all her mirth to cease, her [g] feast days, her new moons, and her sabbaths, and all her solemn feasts.

12 And I will [h] destroy her vines and her fig trees, [i] whereof she hath said, These are my rewards that my lovers have given me: and [k] I will make them a forest, and the beasts of the field shall eat them.

13 And I will visit upon her the days of Baalim, wherein she burned incense to them, and she [l] decked herself with her earrings and her jewels, and she went after her lovers, and forgat me, saith the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

14 Therefore, behold, I will allure her, and [m] bring her into the wilderness, and speak [n] comfortably [o] unto her.

15 And I will give her vineyards from thence, and [p] the valley of Achor for a door of hope: and she shall sing there, as in [q] the days of her youth, and [r] as in the day when she came up out of the land of Egypt.

16 And it shall be at that day, saith the LORD, that thou shalt call me [s] Ishi; and shalt call me no more [t] Baali.

17 For [u] I will take away the names of Baalim out of her mouth, and they shall no more be remembered by their name.

---

[a] Or, wherewith they made Baal, ch. 8. 4.——[b] Ver. 3.——[c] Or, take away.——[d] Ezek. 16. 37. & 23. 29.——[e] Heb. folly, or villany.——[f] Amos 8. 10.——[g] 1 Kings 12. 32. Amos 8. 5.——[h] Heb. make desolate.——[i] Ver. 5.——[k] Psa. 80. 12, 13. Isa. 5. 5.——[l] Ezek. 23. 40, 42.

[m] Ezek. 20. 35.——[n] Or, friendly.——[o] Heb. to her heart.——[p] Josh. 7. 26. Isa. 65. 10.——[q] Jer. 2. 2. Ezek. 16. 8, 22, 60.——[r] Exod. 15. 1.——[s] That is, My husband.——[t] That is, My lord.——[u] Exod. 23. 13. Josh. 23. 7. Psa. 16. 4. Zech. 13. 2.

Him! God gives us wisdom, strength, and property; and we use them to sin against Him with the greater skill, power, and effect! Were the goods those of the enemy, in whose service they are employed, the crime would be the less. But the crime is deeply engrained, when God's property is made the instrument to dishonour Himself.

Verse 9. Therefore will I return, and take away] In the course of my providence, I will withhold those benefits which she has prostituted to her idolatrous services. And I will neither give the land rain, nor fruitful seasons.

Verse 10. In the sight of her lovers] Her idols, and her faithful or faithless allies.

Verse 11. Her feast days] Jerusalem shall be pillaged, and destroyed; and therefore all her joyous assemblies, and religious feasts, &c, shall cease.

Verse 12. These are my rewards] They attributed all the blessings of Providence as rewards received from the idols which they worshipped.

Verse 13. Days of Baalim] To visit signifies to inflict punishment; the days are taken for the acts of idolatrous worship committed on them; and Baalim means the multitude of false gods worshipped by them. Baal was a general name for a male idol, as Astarte was for a female. Baalim includes all the male idols, as Ashtaroth all those that were female. But the species of idol was often designated by some adjunct; as Baal-Zebub, Baal-Peor, Baal-Zephon, Baal-Berith, &c.

Her earrings] נזמה nizmah, signifies rather a nose jewel. These are worn by females in the east to the present day, in great abundance.

And her jewels] וחליתה ve-chaliyatah, rings, armlets, bracelets, ankle-rings, and ornaments of this kind.

Verse 14. I will allure her, and bring her into the wilderness, and speak comfortably unto her.] After inflicting many judgments upon her, I will restore her again. I will deal with her as a very affectionate husband would do to an unfaithful wife. Instead of making her a public example, he takes her in private, talks, and reasons with her; puts her on her good behaviour; promises to pass by all, and forgive all, if she will now amend her ways. In the mean time he provides what is necessary for her wants and comfortable support; and thus, opening a door of hope for her, she may be fully reconciled; rejoice as at the beginning, when He first took her by the hand, and she became His bride. This is most probably the simple meaning of the above metaphorical expressions. The valley of Achor was very fruitful: it lay to the north of Jericho, not far from Gilgal. See Isa. lxv, 10.

Verse 15. She shall sing there] There she shall sing the responsive song, as on high festival occasions, and in marriage ceremonies. The Book of Canticles is of this sort.

Verse 16. Thou shalt call me Ishi] That is, my man, or my husband; a title of love and affection: and not BAALI, my master; a title exciting fear and apprehension; and, howsoever good in itself, was now rendered improper to be applied to Jehovah, having been prostituted to false gods. This intimated that they should scrupulously avoid idolatry: and they had such a full proof of the inefficacy of their idolatrous worship, that, after their captivity, they never more served idols.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

18 And in that day will I make a [a] covenant for them with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven, and with the creeping things of the ground: and [b] I will break the bow and the sword and the battle out of the earth, and will make them to [c] lie down safely.

19 And I will betroth thee unto me for ever; yea, I will betroth thee unto me in righteousness, and in judgment, and in lovingkindness, and in mercies.

20 I will even betroth thee unto me in faithfulness; and [d] thou shalt know the LORD.

21 And it shall come to pass in that day, [e] I will hear, saith the LORD, I will hear the heavens, and they shall hear the earth;

22 And the earth shall hear the corn, and the

[a] Job 5. 23. Isa. 11. 6—9. Ezek. 34. 25.——[b] Psa. 46. 9. Isa. 2. 4. Ezek. 39. 9, 10. Zech. 9. 10.

[c] Lev. 26. 5. Jer. 23. 6.——[d] Jer. 31. 33, 34. John 17. 3.——[e] Zech. 8. 12.

Verse 18. Will I make for them a covenant] I will make an agreement between them and the birds, beasts, and reptiles, so that they shall not be injured by those; their flocks shall not be destroyed, nor their crops spoiled. I will also prevent every species of war, that they may no more have the calamities that arise from that source. They shall also be safe from robbers, and nightly alarms; for I will make them to lie down in safety.

Verse 19. I will betroth thee unto me] The people are always considered under the emblem of a wife, unfaithful to her husband.

In righteousness] According to law, reason, and equity.

In judgment] According to what is fit and becoming.

In lovingkindness] Having the utmost affection and love for thee.

In mercies.] Forgiving and blotting out all past miscarriages. Or, there may be an allusion here to the dowry given by the husband to his wife. I will give righteousness, &c, as a dowry.

Verse 20. In faithfulness] Thou shalt no more prostitute thyself to idols; but be faithful to Him who calls Himself thy Husband.

Thou shalt know the LORD.] There shall be no more infidelity on thy part, nor divorce upon mine; and thou shalt experience me to be the sole, present, and eternal good of thy immortal spirit: and when this conviction is fully rooted, then there can be no more idolatry, for it shall be seen that an idol is nothing in the world.

Verse 21. I will hear, saith the LORD] The sentence is repeated, to shew how fully the thing was determined by the Almighty, and how implicitly they might depend on the Divine promise.

I will hear the heavens] The visible heavens—the atmosphere, where vapours are collected. The clouds, when they wish to deposit their fertilizing showers upon the earth.

They shall hear the earth.] When it seems to supplicate for rain.

Verse 22. Shall hear the corn, and the wine] When they seem to express a desire to supply the wants of man.

And they shall hear Jezreel.] The destitute people, who are in want of the necessaries of life.

This most elegant gradation in the exertion of the influences of nature, for the supply of the wants of man, may be considered thus:—

1. There is a concord, harmony, and mutual influence, which God has established in all the parts of created nature, in reference to the support and preservation of the human race.

2. God alone is the Author of all this; and unless He give His command, communicate His energetic influence to the different parts of nature, these effects will not, cannot, be produced.

3. Jezreel, the people who have been dispersed for their iniquities, and now about to be sown or planted in their own land, will require the most fostering care. See on ver. 23.

4. They are heard in desiring oil, wine, and corn. These are necessary to the support and comfort of life: and to those the desire of animal life naturally aspires.

5. These products are looked for from the EARTH. On it, and by it, grass grows for the cattle, and corn for the service of man.

6. The seeds or germs, whence proceed corn, wine, and oil, live and grow in the earth: but cannot come to perfection, unless the earth be impregnated with the dews and rains from the clouds. They are therefore represented as imploring the heavens to collect their clouds, to pour down their fructifying moisture upon it.

7. The clouds, or materials of which they are composed, not being able to arrange themselves, nor aggregate themselves so as to meet those demands; to prevent drought and maintain an effective vegetation, are represented as calling upon the heavens to form, arrange, and supply them with the requisite quantity of moisture.

8. God, who is the Author of all being and all bounty, dependant on nothing, comes forward and says, I will hear the heavens,—the clouds which are gathered in the atmosphere; He will arrange their particles, saturate those that are light, till they become sufficiently impregnated with the necessary fluid; and then direct them in His providence where to deposit their contents. And—

9. When brought to the proper place, He will shake them with His winds, or strike them with his thunder, so as to cause them to fall down in drops to fertilize the earth with their showers.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

wine, and the oil; [a] and they shall hear Jezreel.

23 And [b] I will sow her unto me in the earth; [c] and I will have mercy upon her that had not obtained mercy; and I [d] will say to them which were not my people, Thou art my people; and they shall say, Thou art my God.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

[a] Ch. 1. 4.——[b] Jer. 31. 27. Zech. 10. 9.——[c] Ch. 1. 6.

[d] Ch. 1. 10. Zech. 13. 9. Rom. 9. 26. 1 Pet. 2. 10.

Thus, then,—

1. God works upon the heavens.
2. In them the clouds are collected.
3. The clouds drop their moisture upon the earth.
4. The earth exerts its vegetative influence upon the germs which it contains.
5. They expand, increase, and become matured, under the genial influences of the heavens, sun, air, water from the clouds, &c.
6. Man receives and applies these bounties of Providence and variously prepares them for the support and comfort of life.

Take all this in still fewer words:—

As Jezreel, or the Israelites, are here considered as perishing for want of food, all inanimate nature is represented as invoking God in their behalf.

1. The heavens have prayed that they may be stored with clouds, that they may drop down fatness upon the earth.
2. The Lord answers the heavens, and clouds are formed.
3. The earth invokes the clouds, that they may drop down their fatness into its bosom.
4. The bottles of heaven are, consequently, unstopped for this purpose.
5. Then the corn, vine, and olive, implore the earth to put forth its vegetative energy.
6. The earth answers; and corn, wine, and oil, are produced.
7. Jezreel cries for the necessaries of life, and the abundance of the above supplies all his wants.

All these are dependant on each other as the links are which constitute a chain; and God has the government of the whole: and He manages all for the benefit of man. How wondrous is this providence! How gracious is this GOD.

Here is a series of prosopopœias together. Corn, wine, oil, the earth, the clouds and their contents, the heavens, sun, moon, &c, are all represented as intelligent beings, speaking to, and influencing each other. GOD is at one end of the chain, and MAN at the other; and, by means of the intermediate links the latter is kept in a state of continued dependance upon the former for life, breath, and all things.

Verse 23. I will sow her] Alluding to the import of the name Jezreel,—the seed of God. Then shall it appear that God has shewn mercy to them that had not obtained mercy. Then the covenant of God will be renewed; for He will call them his people who were not his people; and they shall call Jehovah their God, who before, had Him not for the Object of their worship. It does not appear that these promises have had their fulfilment among the Jews. They must either be understood of the blessings experienced by the Gentiles on their conversion to God by the preaching of the Gospel;—or are yet to be fulfilled to the Jews, on their embracing the Gospel, and being brought back to their own land.

The sentences in the latter part of this verse are very abrupt, but exceedingly expressive; leaving out those words supplied by the translators, and which unnerve the passage; it stands thus:—I will say to NOT MY PEOPLE, THOU MY PEOPLE; and they shall say, MY GOD.

CHAPTER III.

By the Prophet's taking back his wife, for whom he (her friend or husband) still retained his affection, though she had proved unfaithful;—by his entering into a new contract with her;—and by his giving her hopes of reconciliation, after she should for some time prove, as in a state of widowhood, the sincerity of her repentance;—is represented the gracious manner in which God will restore the Jews from the Babylonish captivity, 1—4. It is also very strongly intimated that the whole house of Israel will be added to the church of Christ in the latter days.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

THEN said the LORD unto me, [a] Go yet, love a woman beloved of her [b] friend, yet an adulteress, according to the love of the LORD toward the children of Israel, who look to other gods, and love flagons [c] of wine.

2 So I bought her to me for fifteen pieces of silver, and for a homer of barley, and a [d] half homer of barley:

3 And I said unto her, Thou shalt [e] abide for me many days; thou shalt not play the harlot, and thou shalt not be for another man: so will I also be for thee.

4 For the children of Israel shall abide many

[a] Ch. 1. 2.——[b] Jer. 3. 20.——[c] Heb. of grapes.

[d] Heb. lethech.——[e] Deut. 21. 13.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. Go yet, love a woman] This is a different command from that mentioned in the first Chapter. That denoted the infidelity of the kingdom of Israel, and God's divorce of them. He gave them up to their enemies and caused them to be carried into captivity. The woman mentioned here represents one who was a lawful wife, joining herself to a paramour;—then divorced by her husband—afterwards repenting, and desirous to be joined to her spouse; ceasing from her adulterous commerce, but not yet reconciled to him. This was the state and disposition of the Jews under the Babylonish captivity. Though separated from their own idols, they continued separated from their God. He is still represented as having affectionate feelings towards them;—awaiting their full repentance and contrition, in order to renew the marriage covenant. These things are pointed out by the symbolical actions of the prophet.

Beloved of her friend] Or, a lover of evil; or, loving another;—for the Hebrew words אהבת רע ahabath rô, mean one who loves evil; or, a friend: because רע signifies a friend, or evil, according as it is pointed. The former seems to be its best sense here: רע reâ is a friend; רע râ is evil.

According to the love of the LORD] This woman, who had proved false to her husband, was still beloved by him, though he could not acknowledge her; as the Israelites were beloved by the Lord, while they were looking after other gods. The flagons of wine were probably such as were used for libations, or drunk in idol feasts. Others think that the words should be translated cakes of dried grapes,—sweet cakes,—consecrated wafers.

Verse 2. Fifteen pieces of silver] If they were shekels, the price of this woman was about two pounds five shillings.

A homer of barley] As the homer was about eight bushels, or something more, the homer and half was about twelve or thirteen bushels.

Verse 3. Thou shalt abide for me many days] He did not take her home; but made a contract with her that, if she would abstain from her evil ways, he would take her to himself, after a sufficient trial. In the mean time, he gave her the money and the barley to subsist upon, that she might not be under the temptation of becoming again unfaithful.

So will I also be for thee] That is, if thou, Israel, wilt keep thyself separate from thy idolatry, and give me proof, by thy total abstinence from idols, that thou wilt be my faithful worshipper, I will receive thee again, and in the mean time support thee with the necessaries of life while thou art in the land of thy captivity. This is farther illustrated in the following verses.

Verse 4. Many days without a king] Hitherto this prophecy has been literally fulfilled. Since the destruction of the Temple by the Romans, they have neither had king nor prince, nor any civil government of their own; but have lived in different nations of the earth as mere exiles. They have neither priests nor sacrifices, nor urim nor thummim;—no prophet,—no oracle,—and no communication from God of any kind.

Without an image—ephod—teraphim] The Septuagint read, Ουδε ουσης θυσιας, ουδε οντος Θυσιαστηριου, ουδε ιερατειας, ουδε δηλων, without a sacrifice, without an altar, without a priesthood, and without oracles; that is, the urim and thummim. The Vulgate, Arabic, and Syriac, read nearly the same. Instead of מצבה matsebah, an image, they have evidently read מזבח mizbeach, an altar; the letters of these words being very similar, and easily mistaken for each other. But, instead of either, one (if not two) of Kennicott's MSS. has מנחה minchah, an oblation.

What is called image may signify any kind of pillar, such as God forbad them to erect Lev. xxvi, 1, lest it should be an incitement to idolatry.

The ephod was the highpriest's garment of ceremony; the teraphim were some kind of amulets, telesms, or idolatrous images; the urim and thummim belonged to the breast-plate, which was attached to the ephod.

Instead of teraphim, some would read seraphim, changing the ת tau into ש shin; these are an order of the celestial hierarchy. In short, all the time that the Israelites were in captivity in Babylon, they seem to have been as wholly without forms of idolatrous worship as they were without the worship of God; and this may be what the prophet designs:—they were totally without any kind of public worship, whether true or false. As well without images and teraphim, as they were without sacrifice and ephod, though still idolators in their hearts. They were in a state of the most miserable darkness, which was to continue many days: and it has continued now nearly eighteen hundred years; and must continue yet longer, till they acknowledge Him as their Saviour whom they crucified as a blasphemer.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

days [a] without a king, and without a prince, and without sacrifice, and without [b] an image, and without an [c] ephod, and without [d] teraphim:

5 Afterward shall the children of Israel return, and [e] seek the LORD their God, and [f] David their King; and shall fear the LORD and his goodness in the [g] latter days.

A. M. cir. 3219. B. C. cir. 785. Ante U. C. 32. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 12.

[a] Ch. 10. 3. Song of the three children, ver. 15.——[b] Heb. a standing, or, statue, or, pillar, Isa. 19. 19.——[c] Exod. 28. 6.——[d] Judg. 17. 5.

[e] Jer. 50. 4, 5. ch. 5. 6.——[f] Jer. 30. 9. Ezek. 34. 23, 24. & 37. 22, 24.——[g] Isa. 2. 2. Jer. 30. 24. Ezek. 38. 8, 16. Dan. 2. 28. Mic. 4. 1.

Verse 5. Afterward shall the children of Israel return] Shall repent of their iniquities, and seek the Lord; lay aside their mock worship, and serve the true God in spirit and in truth.

And David their King] Or, as the Targum, "They shall obey the Messiah, the Son of David, their King;" and thus look believingly upon Him whom they have pierced, and mourn. And then shall their long spiritual darkness and dismal captivity have an end; but not before. The Messiah, as David, is promised in Jer. xxx, 9; Ezek. xxxiv, 23; xxxvii, 22, 24, 25, (where see the Notes) and in this place of Hosea. Some think that the family of David is intended: but, if we go to the rigour of the letter, the house of Israel was scarcely ever perfectly submissive to David. And we know that after the death of Solomon they never acknowledged the house of David till they were all carried away captive; and certainly never since. And to say that Zerubbabel is here meant is not supportable; as the very short and imperfect obedience of the Jews to Zerubbabel can never comport with the high terms of this and similar prophecies. We are obliged therefore, from the evidence of these prophecies,—from the evidence of the above facts,—from the evidence of the Rabbins themselves,—and from the evidence of the New Testament,—to consider these Texts as applying solely to JESUS CHRIST, the promised MESSIAH; who has been a light to lighten the Gentiles, and will yet be the glory of his people Israel. There is a strange propensity in some men to deny these evidences of Christianity, while they profess to believe its doctrines.

CHAPTER IV.

The Prophet charges his people with their enormous sins, 1, 2; in consequence of which they are threatened with heavy judgments, 3—5. God Himself is then introduced complaining of the ignorance and obstinacy of Israel; and as their priests had a large share in the common guilt, it is declared that they shall be visited with a proportionable share of the common ruin, 6—11. The sins of idolatry and divination are then particularly reproved, 12—14; and Judah admonished to beware of these sins, which would leave her rebellious sister Israel helpless and desolate as a lamb in a desert, 15, 16. In the remaining verses the style is varied, but the subject is the same. Ephraim is given up to idolatry, and the necessary consequence declared to be a bitter draught! Immediately we see him bound in the wings of a mighty tempest; and driven as chaff before the wind, either to destruction or captivity, 17—19.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

HEAR the word of the LORD, ye children of Israel: for the LORD hath a [a] controversy with the inhabitants of the land, because there is no truth, nor mercy, nor [b] knowledge of God in the land.

2 By swearing, and lying, and killing, and stealing, and commit-

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

[a] Isa. 1. 18. & 3. 13, 14. Jer. 25. 31. ch. 12. 2. Mic. 6. 2.

[b] Jer. 4. 22. & 5. 4.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IV.

Verse 1. The LORD hath a controversy] ריב rib, what we should call a lawsuit; in which God is plaintiff, and the Israelites defendants. It is Jehovah versus Israel and Judah.

But when has God a controversy with any land?—Answer. When there is no truth, nor mercy, nor knowledge of God, in the land. These refer to the minds of the people. But wherever these righteous principles are wanting, there will soon be a vicious practice: hence it is added,

Verse 2. By swearing and lying] Where there is no truth, there will be lies and perjury; for false swearing is ting adultery, they break out, and [a] blood toucheth blood.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

3 Therefore [b] shall the land mourn, and [c] every one that dwelleth therein shall languish, with the beasts of the field, and with the fowls of heaven; yea, the fishes of the sea also shall be taken away.

4 Yet let no man strive, nor reprove another: for thy people are as they [d] that strive with the priest.

5 Therefore shalt thou fall [e] in the day, and the prophet also shall fall with thee in the night, and I will [f] destroy thy mother.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

6 [g] My people are [h] destroyed for lack of knowledge: because thou hast rejected knowledge, I will also reject thee, that thou shalt be no priest to me: seeing thou hast forgotten the law of thy God, I will also forget thy children.

[a] Heb. bloods.——[b] Jer. 4. 28. & 12. 4. Amos 5. 16. & 8. 8.——[c] Zeph. 1. 3.

[d] Deut. 17. 12.——[e] See Jer. 6. 4, 5. & 15. 8.——[f] Heb. cut off.——[g] Isa. 5. 13.——[h] Heb. cut off.

brought in to confirm lying statements. And when there is no mercy, killing, slaying, and murders, will be frequent. And where there is no knowledge of God, no conviction of His omnipresence and omniscience, private offences, such as stealing, adulteries, &c, will prevail. These, sooner or later, break out; become a flood, and carry all before them. Private stealing will assume the form of public robbery; and adulteries become fashionable; especially among the higher orders: and suits of crim. con. render them more public, scandalous, and corrupting. By the examination of witnesses, and reading of infamous letters, in a court of justice, people are taught the wiles and stratagems to be used to accomplish these ends, and prevent detection; and also how to avoid those circumstances which have led to the detection of others. Every report of such matters is an experimental lecture on successful debauchery.

Blood toucheth blood.] Murders are not only frequent, but assassinations are mutual. Men go out to kill each other; as in our duels, the phrensy of cowards: and as there is no law regarded, and no justice in the land, the nearest akin slays the murderer. Even in our land, where duels are so frequent, if a man kill his antagonist, it is murder; and so generally brought in by an honest coroner, and his jury. It is then brought into court:—but who is hanged for it? The very murder is considered as an affair of honour, though it began in a dispute about a prostitute; and it is directed to be brought in manslaughter; and the murderer is slightly fined for having hurried his neighbour, perhaps once his friend, into the eternal world, with all his imperfections on his head! No wonder that a land mourns where these prevail; and that God should have a controversy with it. Such crimes as these are sufficient to bring God's curse upon any land. And how does God shew His displeasure? See the following verse.

Verse 3. Therefore shall the land mourn] Fruitful seasons shall be denied.

That dwelleth therein shall languish] Endemic and epidemic disorders shall prevail, and multitudes shall die; so that mourning shall be found in all quarters.

The beasts of the field, and with the fowls] There is a death of cattle and domestic animals, in consequence of the badness of the season.

The fishes of the sea also shall be taken away.] Those immense shoals which at certain seasons frequent the coasts, which are caught in millions, and become a very useful home supply, and a branch of most profitable traffic, they shall be directed by the unseen influence of God to avoid our coasts, as has frequently been the case with herrings, mackarel, pilchards, &c; and so this source of supply and wealth has been shut up, because of the iniquities of the land.

Verse 4. Yet let no man strive] Or, no man contendeth. All these evils stalk abroad unreproved, for all are guilty. None can say, "Let me pluck the mote out of thy eye," because he knows that "there is a beam in his own."

For thy people are] The people and the priest are alike rebels against the Lord; the priests having become idolaters, as well as the people. Bishop Newcome renders this clause, "And as is the provocation of the priest, so is that of my people." The whole clause in the original is, ועמך כמריבי כהן ve-âmeca ke-meribey cohen, "and thy people as the rebellions of the priest. But one of my oldest MSS. omits כהן cohen, priest; and then the Text may be read, And thy people are as rebels. In this MS. כהן cohen, is added in the Margin by a much later hand.

Verse 5. Therefore shalt thou fall in the day] In the most open and public manner, without snare or ambush.

And the prophet also shall fall—in the night] The false-prophet, when employed in taking prognostications from stars, meteors, &c.

And I will destroy thy mother.] The metropolis, or mother city. Jerusalem, or Samaria, is meant.

Verse 6. My people are destroyed for lack of knowledge] They have not the knowledge of God, nor of sacred things, nor of their own interest, nor of the danger to which they are exposed. They walk on blindly, and perish.

Because thou hast rejected knowledge] So they might have become wise, had they not rejected the means of improvement.

Thou shalt be no priest to me] If this be the true reading, there must be reference to some particular priest, well

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

7 [a] As they were increased, so they sinned against me: [b] therefore will I change their glory into shame.

8 They eat up the sin of my people, and they [c] set their heart on their iniquity.

9 And there shall be, [d] like people, like priest: and I will [e] punish them for their ways, and [f] reward them their doings.

10 For [g] they shall eat, and not have enough: they shall commit whoredom, and shall not increase: because they have left off to take heed to the LORD.

11 Whoredom and wine and new wine [h] take away the heart.

12 My people ask counsel at their [i] stocks, and their staff declareth unto them: for [k] the spirit of whoredoms hath caused them to err, and they have gone a whoring from under their God.

13 [l] They sacrifice upon the tops of the mountains, and burn incense upon the hills, under oaks and poplars and elms, because the shadow thereof is good: [m] therefore your daughters shall commit whoredom, and your spouses shall commit adultery.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

14 [n] I will not punish your daughters when they commit whoredom, nor your spouses when they commit adultery: for themselves are separated with whores, and they sacrifice with harlots: therefore the people that [o] doth not understand shall [p] fall.

15 Though thou, Israel, play the harlot, yet let not Judah offend; [q] and come not ye unto Gilgal, neither go ye up to [r] Bethaven, [s] nor swear, The LORD liveth.

16 For Israel [t] slideth back as a backsliding

[a] Ch. 13. 6.——[b] 1 Sam. 2. 30. Mal. 2. 9. Phil. 3. 19.——[c] Heb. lift up their soul to their iniquity.——[d] Isa. 24. 2. Jer. 5. 31.——[e] Heb. visit upon.——[f] Heb. cause to return.——[g] Lev. 26. 26. Mic. 6. 14. Hag. 1. 6.——[h] Isa. 28. 7. See Eccles. 7. 7.——[i] Jer. 2. 27. Hab. 2. 19.——[k] Isa. 44. 20. Ch. 5. 4.——[l] Isa. 1. 29. & 57. 5, 7. Ezek. 6. 13. & 20. 28.——[m] Amos 7. 17. Rom. 1. 28.——[n] Or, Shall I not, &c.——[o] Ver. 1. 6.——[p] Or, be punished.——[q] Ch. 9. 15. & 12. 11. Amos 4. 4. & 5. 5.——[r] 1 Kings 12. 29. ch. 10. 5.——[s] Amos 8. 14. Zeph. 1. 5.——[t] Jer. 3. 6. & 7. 24. & 8. 5. Zeph. 7. 11.

known to whom these words are personally addressed; unless by priest the whole priesthood is meant, and then it may apply to the priests of Jeroboam's calves.

Verse 7. Will I change their glory into shame] As the idolaters at Dan and Bethel have changed my glory into the similitude of an ox that eateth grass, (Rom. i, 23,) so will I change their glory into shame, or ignominy. In the day of my wrath, their calf-gods shall not deliver them.

Verse 8. They eat up the sin of my people] חטאת chatath, the sin-offering, though it be offered contrary to the law; for their hearts are set on iniquity, they wish to do whatever is contrary to God.

Verse 9. Like people, like priest]

"The priest a wanderer from the narrow way;
The silly sheep, no wonder that they stray."

I will punish them] Both priest and people: both equally bad.

Verse 10. They shall eat, and not have enough] Whatever means they may use to satisfy or gratify themselves shall be ineffectual.

Verse 11. Whoredom and wine] These debaucheries go generally together.

Take away the heart.] Darken the understanding, deprave the judgment, pervert the will, debase all the passions, &c.

Verse 12. At their stocks] They consult their wooden gods.

And their staff declareth] They use divination by rods: see the Note on Ezek. xxi, 21, where this sort of divination (rabdomaney) is explained.

Verse 13. Under oaks] אילון eilon, from איל ayal, he was strong. Hence, the oak, in Latin, is called robur; which word means also, strength, the oak being the strongest of all the trees of the forest.

The shadow thereof is good] Their daughters committed whoredom, and their spouses committed adultery. 1. Their deities were worshipped by prostitution. 2. They drank much in their idol worship, ver. 11: and thus their passions became inflamed. 3. The thick groves were favourable to the whoredoms and adulteries mentioned here. In imitation of these, some nations have their public gardens.

Verse 14. I will not punish] Why should you be stricken any more; ye will revolt more and more. When God, in judgment, removes His judgments, the case of that people is desperate. While there is hope, there is correction.

Themselves are separated] There is a reference here to certain debaucheries, which should not be described. The state of the people at this time must have been abominable beyond all precedent. Animal, sensual, bestial, diabolical. Women consecrating themselves to serve their idols, by public prostitution; boys dismembered like the Galli, or priests of Cybele. Men and women acting unnaturally, and all conjoining to act diabolically.

Verse 15. Let not Judah offend] Israel was totally dissolute; Judah was not so. Here she is exhorted to maintain her integrity. If the former will go to what was once Beth-el, the house of God, now Beth-aven, the house of iniquity, because Jeroboam has set up his calves there, let not Judah imitate them. Gilgal was the place where the covenant of circumcision was renewed when the people passed over Jordan: but was rendered infamous by the worship of idols, after Jeroboam had set up his idolatry.

Verse 16. Israel slideth back] They are untractable, like heifer: now the LORD will feed them as a lamb in a large place.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

17 Ephraim is joined to idols: [a] let him alone.

18 Their drink [b] is sour: they have committed whoredom continually: [c] her [d] rulers with shame do love, Give ye.

19 [e] The wind hath bound her up in her wings, and [f] they shall be ashamed because of their sacrifices.

[a] Matt. 15. 14.——[b] Heb. is gone.——[c] Mic. 3. 11. & 7. 3.——[d] Heb. shields. Psa. 74. 9.

[e] Psa. 1. 4. & 83. 13. Isa. 11. 15. & 41. 16. & 57. 13. Jer. 4. 11, 12. & 51. 1.——[f] Isa. 1. 29. Jer. 2. 26.

an unbroken heifer, or steer, that pulls back, rather than draw in the yoke.

Will feed them as a lamb in a large place.] A species of irony. Ye shall go to Assyria, and be scattered among the nations: ye may sport yourselves in the extensive empire, whither ye shall be carried captives.

Verse 17. Ephraim] The ten tribes.

Is joined to idols] Is become incorporated with false gods.

Let him alone.] They are irreclaimable, leave them to the consequences of their vicious conduct.

Verse 18. Their drink is sour] Or, rather, he is gone after their wine. The enticements of idolatry have carried them away.

Her rulers with shame do love] Rather, have loved shame; they glory in their abominations.

Give ye.] Perhaps it would be better to read, her rulers have committed, &c. They have loved gifts. What a shame! These were their rulers; literally, their shields. Justice and judgment were perverted.

Verse 19. The wind hath bound her] A parching wind has blasted them in their wings—coasts, borders; or, they are carried away into captivity, as with the most rapid blight. These two last verses are very obscure.

CHAPTER V.

This Chapter begins with threatening the Israelites for ensnaring the people to idolatry by their sacrifices and other rites on Mizpah and Tabor, 1—5. Their sacrifices, however costly, are declared to be unacceptable, 6; and their substance is devoted to the locust, 7. Nor is judgment to stop here. The cities of Judah are called upon in a very animated manner to prepare for the approach of enemies. Benjamin is to be pursued; Ephraim is to be desolate: and all this is intimated to Israel that they may by repentance avert the judgment, 8, 9. The following verses contain farther denunciations, 10—13, expressed in terms equally terrible and sublime, 14. The Lord afflicts not willingly the children of men: He visits them with temporal calamities that He may heal their spiritual malady, 15.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

HEAR ye this, O priests; and hearken, ye house of Israel; and give ye ear, O house of the king; for judgment is toward you, because [a] ye have been a snare on Mizpah, and a net spread upon Tabor.

2 And the revolters are [b] profound

[a] Ch. 6. 9.

[b] Isa. 29. 15.

NOTES ON CHAPTER V.

Verse 1. Hear ye this, O priests] A process is instituted, against the priests, the Israelites, and the house of the king; and they are called on to appear and defend themselves. The accusation is, that they have ensnared the people; caused them to practise idolatry, both at Mizpah and Tabor. Mizpah was situated beyond Jordan, in the mountains of Gilead, see Judg. xi, 29. And Tabor was a beautiful mountain in the tribe of Zabulon. Both these places are said to be eminent for hunting, &c; and hence the natural occurrence of the words snare and net, in speaking of them.

Verse 2. The revolters are profound to make slaughter] Here may be a reference to the practice of hunters; making deep pits in the ground, and lightly covering them over, that the beasts not discovering them, might fall in, and become a prey.

Though I have been a Rebuker] "I will bring chastisement on them all." As they have made victims of others to

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

to make slaughter, [a] though I have been [b] a Rebuker of them all.

3 [c] I know Ephraim, and Israel is not hid from me: for now, O Ephraim, [d] thou committest whoredom, and Israel is defiled.

4 [e] They [f] will not frame their doings to turn unto their God: for [g] the spirit of whoredoms is in the midst of them, and they have not known the LORD.

5 And [h] the pride of Israel doth testify to his face: therefore shall Israel and Ephraim fall in their iniquity; Judah also shall fall with them.

6 [i] They shall go with their flocks and with their herds to seek the LORD; but they shall not find him; he hath withdrawn himself from them.

7 They have [k] dealt treacherously against the LORD: for they have begotten strange children: now shall [l] a month devour them with their portions.

8 [m] Blow ye the cornet in Gibeah, and the trumpet in Ramah: [n] cry aloud at [o] Bethaven, [p] after thee, O Benjamin.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

9 Ephraim shall be desolate in the day of rebuke: among the tribes of Israel have I made known that which shall surely be.

10 The princes of Judah were like them that [q] remove the bound: therefore I will pour out my wrath upon them like water.

11 Ephraim is [r] oppressed and broken in judgment, because he willingly walked after [s] the commandment.

12 Therefore will I be unto Ephraim as a moth, and to the house of Judah [t] as [u] rottenness.

13 When Ephraim saw his sickness, and Judah saw his [x] wound, then went Ephraim [y] to the Assyrian, [z] and sent [a] to king Jareb: yet could he not heal you, nor cure you of your wound.

---

[a] Or, and, &c.——[b] Heb. a correction.——[c] Amos 3. 2.——[d] Ezek. 23. 5, &c. ch. 4. 17.——[e] Heb. They will not give.——[f] Or, Their doings will not suffer them.——[g] Ch. 4. 12.——[h] Ch. 7. 10.——[i] Prov. 1. 28. Isa. 1. 15. Jer. 11. 11. Ezek. 8. 18. Mic. 3. 4. John 7. 34.——[k] Isa. 48. 8. Jer. 3. 20. & 5. 11. ch. 6. 7. Mal. 2. 11.——[l] Zech. 11. 8.

[m] Ch. 8. 1. Joel 2. 1.——[n] Isa. 10. 30.——[o] Josh. 7. 2. ch. 4. 15.——[p] Judg. 5. 14.——[q] Deut. 19. 14. & 27. 17.——[r] Deut. 28. 33.——[s] 1 Kings 12. 28. Mic. 6. 16.——[t] Prov. 12. 4.——[u] Or, a worm.——[x] Jer. 30. 12.——[y] 2 Kings 15. 19. ch. 7. 11. & 12. 1.——[z] Ch. 10. 6.——[a] Or, to the king of Jareb; or, to the king that should plead.

their idolatry, I will make victims of them to my justice. Some have thought that as many as wished to depart from the idolatrous worship set up by Jeroboam, were slaughtered; and thus Jeroboam the son of Nebat MADE Israel to sin.

Verse 3. I know Ephraim] I know the whole to be idolaters.

Verse 4. They will not frame their doings] They never purpose to turn to God; they have fully imbibed the spirit of idolatry.

Verse 5. The pride of Israel doth testify to his face] The effrontery with which they practise idolatry manifests not only their insolence, but the deep depravity of their heart: but their pride and arrogance shall be humbled.

Verse 6. They shall go with their flocks] They shall offer many sacrifices professing to seek and be reconciled to the Lord: but they shall not find Him. As they still retain the spirit of their idolatry, He has withdrawn Himself from them.

Verse 7. Now shall a month devour them] In a month's time, the king of Assyria shall be upon them; and oblige them to purchase their lives and liberties, by a grievous tax of fifty shekels per head. This Menahem, king of Israel, gave to Pul, king of Assyria, 2 Kings xv, 16—20. Instead of month, some translate the original locust. The locusts shall devour them.

Verse 8. Blow ye the cornet in Gibeah] Gibeah and Ramah were cities of Judah, in the tribe of Benjamin.

After thee, O Benjamin.] An abrupt call of warning.—"Benjamin! fly for thy life! The enemy is just behind thee!" This is a prediction of the invasion of the Assyrians, and the captivity of the ten tribes.

Verse 9. Among the tribes of Israel have I made known] They have got sufficient warning: it is their own fault that they have not taken it.

Verse 10. Like them that remove the bound] As execrable as they who remove the land-mark. They have leaped over law's enclosure, and scaled all the walls of right; they have despised and broken all laws, human and divine.

Verse 11. Walked after the commandment.] Jeroboam's commandment to worship his calves at Dan and Bethel. Many of them were not forced to do this; they did it willingly.

Verse 12. Unto Ephraim as a moth] I will consume them by little and little, as a moth frets a garment.

Verse 13. When Ephraim saw his sickness] When both Israel and Judah felt their own weakness to resist their enemies, instead of calling upon, and trusting in Me, they sought sinful alliances, and trusted in their idols.

King Jareb] This name occurs no where in Scripture, but here, and in chap. x, 6. The Vulgate and Targum render יריב yareb, an avenger; a person whom they thought able to save them from their enemies. It is well known that Menahem, king of Israel, sought alliance with Pul and Tiglath-pileser, kings of Assyria, and Ahaz, king of Judah. These were the protectors that Ephraim sought after. See

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

14 For [a] I will be unto Ephraim as a lion, and as a [b] young lion to the house of Judah: [c] I, even I, will tear and go away; I will take away, and none shall rescue him.

15 I will go and return to my place, [d] till [e] they acknowledge their offence, and seek my face: [f] in their affliction they will seek me early.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

[a] Lam. 3. 10. ch. 13. 7, 8.——[b] Isa. 30. 6.——[c] Psa. 50. 22.——[d] Heb. till they be guilty.

[e] Lev. 26. 40, 41. Jer. 29. 12, 13. Ezek. 6. 9. & 20. 43. & 36. 31.——[f] Psa. 78. 34.

2 Kings xv, and xvi. But, far from healing them, by making them tributary, the Assyrians made their wound more dangerous.

Verse 14. I will be—as a lion] כשחל ke-shachel, as a panther, or lioness.

Verse 15. I will go and return to my place] I will abandon them till they acknowledge their offences. This had the wished for effect, as we shall see in the following Chapter; for they repented and turned to God, and He had mercy upon them.

CHAPTER VI.

The Prophet earnestly exhorts to repentance, 1—3. God is then introduced as very tenderly and pathetically remonstrating against the backslidings of Ephraim and Judah, 4—11.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

COME, and let us return unto the LORD: for [a] he hath torn, and [b] he will heal us; he hath smitten, and he will bind us up.

2 [c] After two days will he revive us: in the third day he will raise us up, and we shall live in his sight.

3 [d] Then shall we know, if we

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

[a] Deut. 32. 39. 1 Sam. 2. 6. Job 5. 18. ch. 5. 14.

[b] Jer. 30. 17.——[c] 1 Cor. 15. 4.——[d] Isa. 54. 13.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VI.

Verse 1. Come, and let us return unto the LORD] When God had purposed to abandon them, and they found that He had returned to his place, to His Temple, where alone He could be successfully sought;—they, feeling their weakness, and the fickleness, weakness, and unfaithfulness of their idols and allies, now resolve to return to the Lord: and, referring to what He said, chap. v, 14; I will tear and go away; they say, He hath torn, but he will heal us;—their allies had torn, but they gave them no healing. While, therefore, they acknowledge the justice of God in their punishment, they depend on His well known mercy and compassion for restoration to life and health.

Verse 2. After two days will he revive] Such is His power, that in two or three days He can restore us. He can realize all our hopes, and give us the strongest token for good.

In the third day he will raise us up] In so short a time can He give us complete deliverance. These words are supposed to refer to the death and resurrection of our Lord; and it is thought that the apostle refers to them, 1 Cor. x, 4. Christ rose again the third day, according to the Scriptures; and this is the only place in the Scriptures, i. e. of the Old Testament, where His resurrection on the third day seems to be hinted at. The original יקמנו yekamenu, has been translated, he will raise HIM up. Then they that trusted in Him, could believe that they should be quickened together with Him.

And we shall live in his sight.] His resurrection being a proof of theirs.

Verse 3. Then shall we know] We shall have the fullest evidence that we have not believed in vain.

If we follow on to know the LORD] If we continue to be as much in earnest as we now are.

His going forth] The manifestation of His mercy to our souls is as certain as the rising of the sun at the appointed time.

And he shall come unto us as the rain] As surely as the early and latter rain come: the first to prepare the earth for the seed, this fell in autumn; and the second to prepare the full ear for the harvest, this fell in spring. Here is strong confidence; but not misplaced, however worthless the persons were. As surely as the sun, who is now set, is running his course to arise on us in the morning, and make a glorious day after a dreary night; so surely shall the Lord come again from His place, and the Sun of righteousness follow on to know the LORD: his going forth is prepared [a] as the morning; and [b] he shall come unto us [c] as the rain, as the latter and former rain unto the earth.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

4 [d] O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee? O Judah, what shall I do unto thee? for your [e] goodness is [f] as a morning cloud, and as the early dew it goeth away.

5 Therefore have I hewed them [g] by the prophets; I have slain them by [h] the words of my mouth: [i] and thy judgments are as the light that goeth forth.

6 For I desired [k] mercy, and [l] not sacrifice; and the [m] knowledge of God more than burnt offerings.

7 But they [n] like men [o] have transgressed the covenant: there [p] have they dealt treacherously against me.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir annum 17.

8 [q] Gilead is a city of them that work iniquity, and is [r] polluted with blood.

9 And as troops of robbers wait for a man, so [s] the company of priests murder in the way [t] by consent: for they commit [u] lewdness.

10 I have seen [x] a horrible thing in the house of Israel: there is [y] the whoredom of Ephraim, Israel is defiled.

11 Also, O Judah, [z] he hath set a harvest for thee, [a] when I returned the captivity of my people.

---

[a] 2 Sam. 23. 4.——[b] Psa. 72. 6.——[c] Job 29. 23.——[d] Ch. 11. 8.——[e] Or, mercy, or, kindness.——[f] Ch. 13. 3.——[g] Jer. 1. 10. & 5. 14.——[h] Jer. 23. 29. Heb. 4. 12.——[i] Or, that thy judgments might be, &c.——[k] 1 Sam. 15. 22. Eccles. 5. 1. Mic. 6. 8. Matt. 9. 13. & 12. 7.——[l] Psa. 50. 8, 9. Prov. 21. 3. Isa. 1. 11.

[m] Jer. 22. 16. John 17. 3.——[n] Or, like Adam. Job 31. 33.——[o] Ch. 8. 1.——[p] Ch. 5. 7.——[q] Ch. 12. 11.——[r] Or, cunning for blood.——[s] Jer. 11. 9. Ezek. 22. 25. ch. 5. 1, 2.——[t] Heb. with one shoulder, or, to Shechem.——[u] Or, enormity.——[x] Jer. 5. 30.——[y] Ch. 4. 12, 13, 17.——[z] Jer. 51. 33. Joel 3. 13. Rev. 14. 15.——[a] Psa. 126. 1.

---

shall arise on our souls with healing in His wings. He is already on His way to save us.

Verse 4. O Ephraim, what shall I do unto thee?] This is the answer of the Lord to the above pious resolutions:—sincere while they lasted; but frequently forgotten, because the people were fickle. Their goodness,—for goodness it was while it endured,—was like the morning cloud that faded away before the rising sun; or, like the early dew which is speedily evaporated by heat. Ephraim and Judah had too much goodness in them to admit of their total rejection, and too much evil to admit of their being placed among the children. Speaking after the manner of men, the justice and mercy of God seem puzzled how to act toward them. When justice was about to destroy them for their iniquity, it was prevented by their repentance and contrition: when mercy was about to pour upon them as penitents its choicest blessings, it was prevented by their fickleness and relapse! These things induce the just and merciful God to exclaim, O Ephraim, what shall I do unto THEE? O Judah, what shall I do unto THEE? The only thing that could be done in such a case was that which God did:—

Verse 5. Therefore have I hewed them by the prophets] I have sent my prophets to testify against their fickleness. They have smitten them with the most solemn and awful threatenings; they have, as it were, slain them by the words of my mouth. But to what purpose!

Thy judgments are as the light that goeth forth.] Instead of ומשפטיך אור יצא u-mispateyca aur yatsé, and thy judgments a light that goeth forth, the Versions in general have read ומשפטי כאור u-meshpati ke-aur, and MY judgment is as the light. The final ך caph in the common reading has by mistake been taken from אור aur, and joined to משפטי mishpati; and thus turned it from the singular to the plural number, with the postfix ך ca. The proper reading is most probably, And my judgment is as the light going forth. It shall be both evident and swift; alluding both to the velocity and splendour of light.

Verse 6. I desired mercy, and not sacrifice] I taught them righteousness by my prophets; for I desired mercy. I was more willing to save than to destroy;—and would rather see them full of penitent and holy resolutions, than behold them offering the best and most numerous victims upon my altar. See Mat. ix, 13.

Verse 7. But they like men (כאדם ke-adam, like Adam) have transgressed the covenant] They have sinned against light and knowledge as he did. This is sense, the other is scarcely so. There was a striking similarity in the two cases.—Adam in Paradise transgressed the commandment, and I cast him out: Israel, in possession of the Promised Land, transgressed my covenant, and I cast them out, and sent them into captivity.

Verse 8. Gilead is a city of them that work iniquity] In this place Jacob and Laban made their covenant, and set up a heap of stones, which was called Galeed, the heap of testimony; and most probably idolatry was set up here. Perhaps the very heap became the object of superstitious adoration.

Verse 9. As troops of robbers] What a sad picture is this of the state of the priesthood! The country of Gilead was infamous for its robberies and murders. The idolatrous priests there formed themselves into companies, and kept possession of the roads and passes; and if they found any person going to Jerusalem to worship the true God, they put him to death. The reason is given,—

For they commit lewdness.] They are gross idolaters.

Verse 10. I have seen a horrible thing] That is, the idolatry that prevailed in Israel to such a degree that the whole land was defiled.

Verse 11. O Judah, he hath set a harvest for thee] Thou also hast transgressed; thy harvest will come; thou shalt be reaped down, and sent into captivity. The sickle is already thrust in. That which thou hast sowed shalt thou reap. They who sow unto the flesh shall reap corruption.

When I returned the captivity of my people.] Bishop Newcome translates,—"Among those who lead away the captivity of my people." There is thy harvest; they who have led Israel into captivity shall lead thee also into the same. The Assyrians and Babylonians were the same kind of people; equally idolatrous,—equally oppressive,—equally cruel. From the common reading some suppose this to be a promise of return from captivity. It is true that Judah was gathered together again and brought back to their own land:—but the majority of the Israelites did not return, and are not now to be found.

CHAPTER VII.

Here God complains that, though He had employed every mean for reforming Israel, they still persisted in their iniquity, without fearing the consequences, 1, 2; that those who ought to check their crimes were pleased with them, 3; and that they all burned with adultery, as an oven when fully heated, and ready to receive the kneaded dough, 4. The fifth verse alludes to some recent enormities; the sixth charges them with dividing their time between inactivity and iniquity; the seventh alludes to their civil broils and conspiracies, (see 2 Kings xv, 10, 14, 25;) the eighth to their joining themselves with idolatrous nations; and the ninth describes the sad consequence. The tenth verse reproves their pride and open contempt of God's worship; the eleventh reproves their foolish conduct in applying for aid to their enemies, (see 2 Kings xv, 19, and xvii, 4;) the twelfth and thirteenth threaten them with punishments; the fourteenth charges them with hypocrisy in their acts of humiliation; the fifteenth with ingratitude; and the image of the deceitful bow, in the sixteenth verse, is highly expressive of their frequent apostasies; and their hard speeches against God shall be visited upon them by their becoming a reproach in the land of their enemies.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

WHEN I would have healed Israel, then the iniquity of Ephraim was discovered, and the [a] wickedness of Samaria: for [b] they commit falsehood; and the thief cometh in, and the troop of robbers [c] spoileth without.

2 And they [d] consider not in their hearts that I [e] remember all their wickedness: now [f] their own doings have beset them about; they are [g] before my face.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

3 They make the king glad with their wickedness, and the princes [h] with their lies.

4 [i] They are all adulterers, as an oven heated

[a] Heb. evils.—[b] Ch. 5. 1. & 6. 10.—[c] Heb. strippeth.—[d] Heb. say not to.

[e] Jer. 17. 1.—[f] Psa. 9. 16. Prov. 5. 22.—[g] Psa. 90. 8.—[h] Rom. 1. 32.—[i] Jer. 9. 2.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VII.

Verse 1. When I would have healed Israel] As soon as one wound was healed, another was discovered. Scarcely was one sin blotted out till another was committed.

The thief cometh in] Their own princes spoil them.

The troop of robbers spoileth without] The Assyrians under different leaders, waste and plunder the country.

Verse 2. They consider not in their hearts] They do not consider that my eye is upon all their ways;—they do not think that I record all their wickedness;—and they know not that their own evil doings are as a host of enemies encompassing them about.

Verse 3. They make the king glad] They pleased Jeroboam by coming readily into his measures, and heartily joining with him in his idolatry. And they professed to be perfectly happy in their change, and to be greatly advantaged by their new gods; and that the religion of the state now was better than that of Jehovah. Thus, they made all their rulers glad with their lies.

Verse 4. As an oven heated by the baker] Calmet's paraphrase on this and the following verses expresses pretty nearly the sense. Hosea makes a twofold comparison of the Israelites—to an oven, and to dough. Jeroboam set fire to his own oven,—his kingdom, and the leaven in his dough; and afterwards went to rest that the fire might have time to heat his oven, and the leaven to raise his dough,—that the false principles which he introduced might infect the whole population. This prince, purposing to make his subjects relin-by the baker, [a] who ceaseth [b] from raising after he hath kneaded the dough, until it be leavened.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

5 In the day of our king the princes have made him sick [c] with bottles of wine; he stretched out his hand with scorners.

6 For they have [d] made ready their heart like an oven, whiles they lie in wait: their baker sleepeth all the night; in the morning it burneth as a flaming fire.

7 They are all hot as an oven, and have devoured their judges; [e] all their kings [f] are fallen: [g] there is none among them that calleth unto me.

8 Ephraim, he [h] hath mixed himself among the people; Ephraim is a cake not turned.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

9 [i] Strangers have devoured his strength, and he knoweth it not: yea, gray hairs are [k] here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not.

10 And the [l] pride of Israel testifieth to his face: and [m] they do not return to the LORD their God, nor seek him for all this.

11 [n] Ephraim also is like a silly dove without heart: [o] they call to Egypt, they go to Assyria.

12 When they shall go, [p] I will spread my net

[a] Or, the raiser will cease.——[b] Or, from waking.——[c] Or, with heat through wine.——[d] Or, applied.——[e] Ch. 8. 4.——[f] 2 Kings 15. 10, 14, 25, 30.——[g] Isa. 64. 7.

[h] Psa. 106. 35.——[i] Ch. 8. 7.——[k] Heb. sprinkled.——[l] Ch. 5. 5.——[m] Isa. 9. 13.——[n] Ch. 11. 11.——[o] See 2 Kings 15. 19. & 17. 4. ch. 5. 13. & 9. 3. & 12. 1.——[p] Ezek. 12. 13.

quish their ancient religion, put, in a certain sense, the fire to his own oven, and mixed his dough with leaven. At first he used no violence: but was satisfied with exhorting them, and proclaiming a feast. This fire spread very rapidly, and the dough was very soon impregnated by the leaven. All Israel was seen running to this feast, and partaking in these innovations. But what shall become of the oven,—the kingdom; and the bread,—the people? The oven shall be consumed by these flames; the king, the princes, and the people, shall be enveloped in the burning, ver. 7. Israel was put under the ashes, as a loaf well kneaded and leavened: but, not being carefully turned, it was burnt on one side before those who prepared it could eat of it; and enemies and strangers came and carried off the loaf, see ver. 8 and 9. Their lasting captivity was the consequence of their wickedness and their apostasy from the religion of their fathers. On this explication verses 4, 5, 6, 7, 8, and 9, may be easily understood.

Verse 7. All their kings are fallen] There was a pitiful slaughter among the idolatrous kings of Israel; four of them had fallen in the time of this prophet. Zechariah was slain by Shallum;—Shallum, by Menahem;—Pekahiah, by Pekah;—and Pekah, by Hoshea, 2 Kings xv. All were idolaters, and all came to an untimely death.

Verse 8. A cake not turned.] In the East, having heated the hearth, they sweep one corner, put the cake upon it, and cover it with embers; in a short time they turn it, cover it again, and continue this several times, till they find it sufficiently baked. All travellers into Asiatic countries have noted this.

Verse 9. Gray hairs are here and there upon him, yet he knoweth not] The kingdom is grown old in iniquity:—the time of their captivity is at hand, and they are apprehensive of no danger. They are in the state of a silly old man, who through age and infirmities is become nearly bald, and the few remaining hairs on his head are quite grey. But he does not consider his latter end;—is making no provision for that eternity on the brink of which he is constantly standing;—does not apply to the sovereign Physician to heal his spiritual diseases; but calls in the doctors to cure him of old age and death! This miserable state and preposterous conduct we witness every day. O how fast does the human being cling to his native earth! Reader, hear the voice of an old man:—

> O my coevals! remnants of yourselves,
> Shall our pale withered hands be still stretched out?
> Trembling at once with eargerness and age:
> With av'rice and ambition grasping,—fast
> Grasping at air! For what hath earth beside?
> We want but little; nor THAT LITTLE long.

Verse 10. The pride of Israel] The same words as at chap. v, 5, where see the Note.

Verse 11. Ephraim also is like a silly dove without heart] A bird that has little understanding; that is easily snared and taken;—that is careless about its own young, and seems to live without any kind of thought. It has been made by those which, like itself, are without heart, the symbol of conjugal affection. Nothing worse could have been chosen, for the dove and his mate are continually quarrelling.

They call to Egypt, they go to Assyria.] They strive to make these their allies and friends: but in this they shewed that they were without heart,—had not a sound understanding; for these were rival nations, and Israel could not attach itself to the one without incurring the jealousy and displeasure of the other. Thus, like the silly dove, they were constantly falling into snares,—sometimes of the Egyptians, at others of the Assyrians. By the former they were betrayed;—by the latter, ruined.

Verse 12. When they shall go] To those nations for help,—

I will spread my net upon them] I will cause them to be taken by those in whom they trusted.

I will bring them down] They shall no sooner set off to upon them; I will bring them down as the fowls of the heaven; I will chastise them, [a] as their congregation hath heard.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

13 Woe unto them! for they have fled from me: [b] destruction unto them! because they have transgressed against me: though [c] I have redeemed them, yet they have spoken lies against me.

14 [d] And they have not cried unto me with their heart, when they howled upon their beds: they assemble themselves for corn and wine, and they rebel against me.

A. M. cir. 3224. B. C. cir. 780. Ante U. C. 27. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 17.

15 Though I [e] have bound and strengthened their arms, yet do they imagine mischief against me.

16 [f] They return, but not to the Most High: [g] they are like a deceitful bow: their princes shall fall by the sword for the [h] rage of their tongue: this shall be their derision [i] in the land of Egypt.

[a] Lev. 26. 14, &c. Deut. 28. 15, &c. 2 Kings 17. 13, 18.——[b] Heb. spoil. [c] Mic. 6. 4.——[d] Job 35. 9, 10. Psa. 78. 36. Jer. 3. 10. Zech. 7. 5.

[e] Or, chastened.——[f] Ch. 11. 7.——[g] Psa. 78. 57.——[h] Psa. 73. 9.——[i] Ch. 9. 3, 6.

seek this foreign help, than my net shall bring them down to the earth. The allusion to the dove, and the mode of taking the fowls of heaven, are still carried on.

As their congregation hath heard.] As in their solemn assemblies they before have heard; in the reading of my law, and the denunciation of my wrath against idolaters.

Bishop Newcome translates,—"I will chastise them when they hearken to their assembly." That is, when they take the counsel of their elders to go down to Egypt for help, and trust in the arm of the Assyrians for succour.

Verse 13. Woe unto them!] They shall have woe, because they have fled from me. They shall have destruction, because they have transgressed against me.

Though I have redeemed them]—Out of Egypt; and given them the fullest proof of my love and power.

Yet they have spoken lies against me.] They have represented me as rigorous and cruel; and my service as painful and unprofitable.

Verse 14. They have not cried unto me with their heart] They say they have sought me, but could not find me;—that they have cried unto me, but I did not answer. I know they have cried, yea, howled: but could I hear them, when all was forced and hypocritical?—not one sigh coming from their heart.

They assemble themselves for corn and wine] In dearth and famine they call and howl: but they assemble themselves not to seek ME, but to invoke their false gods for corn and wine.

Verse 15. Though I have bound and strengthened their arms] Whether I dealt with them in judgment or mercy, it was all one: in all circumstances they rebelled against me.

Verse 16. They return, but not to the Most High] They go to their idols.

They are like a deceitful bow] Which, when it is reflexed in order to be strung, it suddenly springs back into its quiescent curve: for the Eastern bows stand in their quiescent state in a curve, something like ☾; and, in order to be strung, must be bended back in the opposite direction. This bending of the bow requires both strength and skill; and, if not properly done, will fly back, and regain its former position; and in this recoil endanger the archer,—may even break an arm. I have been in this danger myself in bending the Asiatic bow. For want of this knowledge not one commentator has hit the meaning of the passage.

Shall fall by the sword] Their tongue has been enraged against ME; the sword shall be enraged against them. They have mocked me, (ver. 5,) and their fall is now a subject of derision in the land of Egypt. What they have sown that they now reap.

CHAPTER VIII.

This Chapter begins with threatening some hostile invasion in short and broken sentences, full of rapidity, and expressive of sudden danger and alarm.—"The trumpet to thy mouth; he cometh as an eagle," 1. And why?—For their hypocrisy, 2, iniquity, 3, treason, (see 2 Kings xv, 13, 17,) and idolatry, 4; particularly the worshipping of the calves of Dan and Bethel, 5, 6. The folly and unprofitableness of pursuing evil courses is then set forth in brief but very emphatic terms. The labour of the wicked is vain like sowing of the wind; and the fruit of it destructive as the whirlwind. Like corn blighted in the bud, their toil shall have no recompense; or, if it should have a little, their enemies shall devour it, 7. They themselves too shall suffer the same fate; and shall be treated by the nations (of Assyria and Egypt) as the vile shreds of a broken vessel, 8, 9.

Their incorrigible idolatry is again declared to be the cause of their approaching captivity under the king of Assyria. And as they delighted in idolatrous altars; there they shall have these in abundance, 10—14. The last words contain a prediction of the destruction of the fenced cities of Judah, because the people trusted in these for deliverance, and not in the Lord their God.

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

SET[a] the trumpet to [b] thy mouth. He shall come [c] as an eagle against the house of the LORD, because [d] they have transgressed my covenant, and trespassed against my law.

2 [e] Israel shall cry unto me, My God, [f] we know thee.

3 Israel hath cast off the thing that is good: the enemy shall pursue him.

4 [g] They have set up kings, but not by me: they have made princes, and I knew it not: [h] of their silver and their gold have they made them idols, that they may be cut off.

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

5 Thy calf, O Samaria, hath cast thee off; mine anger is kindled against them: [i] how long will it be ere they attain to innocency?

6 For from Israel was it also: the workman made it; therefore it is not God; but the calf of Samaria shall be broken in pieces.

7 For [k] they have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind: it hath no [l] stalk: the bud shall yield no meal: if so be it yield, [m] the strangers shall swallow it up.

---

[a] Ch. 5. 8.——[b] Heb. the roof of thy mouth.——[c] Deut. 28. 49. Jer. 4. 13. Hab. 1. 8.——[d] Ch. 6. 7.——[e] Psa. 78. 34. ch. 5. 15.——[f] Tit. 1. 16.

[g] 2 Kings 15. 13, 17, 25, Shallum, Menahem, Pekahiah.——[h] Ch. 2. 8. & 13. 2.——[i] Jer. 13. 27.——[k] Prov. 22. 8. ch. 10. 12, 13.——[l] Or, standing corn.——[m] Ch. 7. 9.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VIII.

Verse 1. Set the trumpet to thy mouth.] Sound another alarm. Let them know that an enemy is fast approaching.

As an eagle against the house of the LORD] If this be a prophecy against Judah, as some have supposed;—then by the eagle Nebuchadnezzar is meant, who is often compared to this king of birds. See Ezek. xvii, 3; Jer. xlviii, 40; xlix, 22; Dan. vii, 4.

But if the prophecy be against Israel, which is the most likely, then Shalmanezer, king of Assyria, is intended, who for his rapidity, avarice, rapacity, and strength, is fitly compared to this royal bird. He is represented here as hovering over the house of God, as the eagle does over the prey which he has just espied, and on which he is immediately to pounce.

Verse 2. Israel shall cry] The rapidity of the eagle's flight is well imitated in the rapidity of the sentences in this place.

My God, we know thee.] The same sentiment, from the same sort of persons, under the same feelings as that in the Gospel of St. Matthew, chap. vii, 22;—Lord, have we not prophesied in thy name? and in thy name have cast out devils? Then will I profess unto them, I never KNEW YOU.

Verse 4. They have set up kings, but not by me] Properly speaking, not one of the kings of Israel, from the defection of the ten tribes from the house of David, was the anointed of the Lord.

I knew it not] It had not my approbation. In this sense the word know is frequently understood.

That they may be cut off.] That is, they shall be cut off in consequence of their idolatry.

Verse 5. Thy calf, O Samaria, hath cast thee off] Bishop Newcome translates,—"Remove far from thee thy calf, O Samaria!" Abandon thy idolatry; for my anger is kindled against thee.

How long will it be ere they attain to innocency?] How long will ye continue your guilty practices!—when shall it be said that ye are free from these vices! The calf, or ox, which was the object of the idolatrous worship of the Israelites, was a supreme deity in Egypt; and it was there they learned this idolatry. A white ox was worshipped under the name of Apis, at Memphis; and another ox under the name of Mnevis, was worshipped at On, or Heliopolis. To Osiris the males of this genus were consecrated, and the females to Isis. It is a most ancient superstition, and still prevails in the East. The cow is a most sacred animal among the Hindoos.

Verse 6. The workman made it, therefore it is not God] As God signifies the supreme eternal good, the Creator and Upholder of all things; therefore, the workman cannot make Him, who made all things. This is an overwhelming argument against all idols. Nothing need be added:—the workman has made them; therefore, they are not God.

Verse 7. They have sown the wind, and they shall reap the whirlwind] As the husbandman reaps the same kind of grain which he has sown, but in a far greater abundance, thirty, sixty, or one hundred fold; so he who sows the wind, shall have a whirlwind to reap. The vental seed shall be multiplied into a tempest; so they who sow the seed of unrighteousness, shall reap a harvest of judgment.

It hath no stalk] Nothing that can yield a blossom. If it have a blossom, that blossom shall not yield fruit: if there be fruit, the sower shall not enjoy it; for strangers shall eat it. The meaning is, the labours of this people shall be utterly unprofitable and vain.

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

8 [a] Israel is swallowed up: now shall they be among the Gentiles [b] as a vessel wherein is no pleasure.

9 For [c] they are gone up to Assyria, [d] a wild ass alone by himself: Ephraim [e] hath hired [f] lovers.

10 Yea, though they have hired among the nations, now [g] will I gather them, and they shall [h] sorrow [i] a little for the burden of [k] the king of princes.

11 Because Ephraim hath made [l] many altars to sin, altars shall be unto him to sin.

12 I have written to him [m] the great things of my law, but they were counted as a strange thing.

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

13 [n] They [o] sacrifice flesh for the sacrifices of mine offerings, and eat it; [p] but the LORD accepteth them not; [q] now will he remember their iniquity, and visit their sins: [r] they shall return to Egypt.

14 [s] For Israel hath forgotten [t] his Maker, and [u] buildeth temples; and Judah hath multiplied fenced cities: but [x] I will send a fire upon his cities, and it shall devour the palaces thereof.

[a] 2 Kings 17. 6.——[b] Jer. 22. 28. & 48. 38.——[c] 2 Kings 15. 19.——[d] Jer. 2. 24.——[e] Isa. 30. 6. Ezek. 16. 33, 34.——[f] Heb. loves.——[g] Ezek. 16. 37. ch. 10. 10.——[h] Or, begin.——[i] Or, in a little while, as Hag. 2. 6.——[k] Isa. 10. 8. Ezek. 26. 7. Dan. 2. 37.——[l] Ch. 12. 11.——[m] Deut. 4. 6, 8. Psa. 119. 18. & 147. 19, 20.

[n] Jer. 7. 21. Zech. 7. 6.——[o] Or, In the sacrifices of mine offerings they, &c.——[p] Jer. 14. 10, 12. ch. 5. 6. & 9. 4. Amos 5. 22.——[q] Ch. 9. 9. Amos 8. 7.——[r] Deut. 28. 68. ch. 9. 3, 6. & 11. 5.——[s] Deut. 32. 18.——[t] Isa. 29. 23. Eph. 2. 10.——[u] 1 Kings 12. 31.——[x] Jer. 17. 27. Amos 2. 5.

Verse 8. Now shall they be among the Gentiles] They shall be carried into captivity, and there be as a vessel wherein there is no pleasure; one soiled, unclean, infectious, to be despised, abhorred, not used. The allusion is to a rotten corrupted skin-bottle; a bottle made of goat, deer, or calf hide, still commonly used in Asia and Africa. Some of them are splendidly ornamented. This is the case with one now before me, made of a goat's skin, well dressed, variously painted, and ornamented with leather fringes, tassels, &c. In such a bottle there might be pleasure: but the Israelites are compared to such a bottle, rough, ill-dressed, not ornamented, old, musty, and putrid. This shews the force of the comparison.

Verse 9. They are gone up to Assyria] For succour.

A wild ass alone by himself] Like that animal, jealous of its liberty, and suffering no rival. If we may credit Pliny and others, one male wild ass will keep a whole flock of females to himself; suffer no other to approach them; and even bite off the genitals of the colts, lest in process of time they should become his rivals.—Mares singuli fœminarum gregibus imperitant; timent libidinis æmulos, et ideo gravidas custodiunt, morsuque natos mares castrant.—Hist. Nat. lib. viii, c. 30. The Israelites, with all this selfishness and love of liberty, took no step that did not necessarily lead to their thraldom and destruction.

Ephraim hath hired lovers.] Hath subsidized the neighbouring Heathen states.

Verse 10. For the burden of the king of princes.] The exactions of the Assyrian king, and the princes of the provinces.

Verse 11. Many altars to sin] Though it does not appear that the Jews in Babylon were obliged to worship the idols of the country, except in the case mentioned by Daniel; yet it was far otherwise with the Israelites in Assyria, and the other countries of their dispersion. Because they had made many altars to sin, while they were in their own land; they were obliged to continue in the land of their captivity a similar system of idolatry against their will. Thus they felt and saw the evil of their idolatry, without power to help themselves.

Verse 12. I have written to him the great things of my law] I have, as it were, inscribed my laws to them; and they have treated them as matters in which they had no interest.

Verse 13. They sacrifice flesh] Bp. Newcome translates thus:—"They sacrifice gifts appointed unto me, and eat flesh." They offer to their idols the things which belong to Jehovah; or, while pretending to offer unto the Lord, they eat and drink idolatrously; and therefore the Lord will not accept them.

They shall return to Egypt.] Many of them did return to Egypt after the conquest of Palestine by Shalmanezer, and many after the ruin of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar: but they had in effect returned to Egypt by setting up the worship of the golden calves, which were an imitation of the Egyptian Apis.

Verse 14. Israel hath forgotten his Maker] And therefore built temples to other gods. Judah had lost all confidence in the Divine protection, and therefore built many fenced cities. But the fire of God's anger burnt up both the temples and the fortified cities.

CHAPTER IX.

The Prophet reproves the Israelites for their sacrifices and rejoicings on their corn-floors, by which they ascribed to idols, as the Heathen did, the praise of all their plenty, 1. For which reason they are threatened with famine and exile, 2, 3, in a land where they should be polluted, and want the means of worshipping the God of their fathers, or observing the solemnities of His appointment, 4, 5. Nay more; they shall speedily fall before the destroyer, be buried in Egypt, and leave their own pleasant places desolate, 6—9. God is then introduced declaring His early favour for His people, and the delight he took in their obedience: but, now they had so deeply revolted, all their glory will take wing, God will forsake them, and their offspring is devoted to destruction, 10—16.

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

REJOICE not, O Israel, for joy, as other people: for thou [a] hast gone a whoring from thy God, thou hast loved a [b] reward [c] upon every cornfloor.

2 [d] The floor and the [e] winepress shall not feed them, and the new wine shall fail in her.

3 They shall not dwell in [f] the LORD's land; [g] but Ephraim shall return to Egypt, and [h] they shall eat unclean things [i] in Assyria.

4 [k] They shall not offer wine offerings to the LORD, [l] neither shall they be pleasing unto him: [m] their sacrifices shall be unto them as the bread of mourners; all that eat thereof shall be polluted: for their bread [n] for their soul shall not come into the house of the LORD.

5 What will ye do in [o] the solemn day, and in the day of the feast of the LORD?

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

6 For, lo, they are gone because of [p] destruction: [q] Egypt shall gather them up, Memphis shall bury them: [r] the [s] pleasant places for their silver, [t] nettles shall possess them: thorns shall be in their tabernacles.

7 The days of visitation are come, the days of recompence are come; Israel shall know it: the prophet is a fool, [u] the [x] spiritual man is mad, for the multitude of thine iniquity, and the great hatred.

8 The [y] watchman of Ephraim was with my God: but the prophet is a snare of a fowler in all his ways, and hatred [z] in the house of his God.

---

[a] Ch. 4. 12. & 5. 4, 7.——[b] Jer. 44. 17. ch. 2. 12.——[c] Or, in, &c.——[d] Ch. 2. 9, 12.——[e] Or, wine-fat.——[f] Lev. 25. 23. Jer. 2. 7. & 16. 18.——[g] Ch. 8. 13. & 11. 5. Not into Egypt itself, but into another bondage as bad as that.——[h] Ezek. 4. 13. Dan. 1. 8.——[i] 2 Kings 17. 6. ch. 11. 11.——[k] Ch. 3. 4.

[l] Jer. 6. 20. ch. 8. 13.——[m] Deut. 26. 14.——[n] Lev. 17. 11.——[o] Ch. 2. 11.——[p] Heb. spoil.——[q] Ch. 7. 16. ver. 3.——[r] Or, their silver shall be desired, the nettle, &c.——[s] Heb. the desire.——[t] Isa. 5. 6. & 32. 13. & 34. 13. ch. 10. 8.——[u] Heb. man of the spirit.——[x] Ezek. 13. 3, &c. Mic. 2. 11. Zeph. 3. 4.——[y] Jer. 6. 17. & 31. 6. Ezek. 3, 17. & 33. 7.——[z] Or, against.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IX.

Verse 1. Rejoice not] Do not imitate the heathens, nor serve their idols. Do not prostitute thy soul and body in practising their impurities. Hitherto thou hast acted as a common harlot, who goes even to the common threshing places,—connects herself with the meanest, in order to get a hire, even of the grain there threshed out.

Verse 3. But Ephraim shall return to Egypt] See on chap. viii, 12.

Verse 4. As the bread of mourners] By the law, a dead body, and every thing that related to it, the house where it lay, and the persons who touched it, were all polluted and unclean; and whatever they touched was considered as defiled. See Deut. xxvi, 14; Numb. xix, 11, 13, 14.

For their bread for their soul] The bread for the common support of life shall not be sanctified to them, by having the first fruits presented at the Temple.

Verse 5. What will ye do in the solemn day] When ye shall be despoiled of every thing by the Assyrians; for the Israelites who remained in the land after its subjection to the Assyrians did worship the true God, and offer unto Him the sacrifices appointed by the law, though in an imperfect and schismatic manner; and it was a great mortification to them to be deprived of their religious festivals in the land of strangers. See Calmet.

Verse 6. For, lo, they are gone] Many of them fled to Egypt to avoid the destruction: but they went there only to die.

Memphis] Now Cairo,—found them graves.

The pleasant places for their silver] The fine estates or villas, which they had purchased by their money, being now neglected and uninhabited, are covered with nettles; and even in their tabernacles, thorns and brambles of different kinds grow. These are the fullest marks of utter desolation.

Verse 7. The days of visitation] Of punishment, are come.

The prophet is a fool] Who has pretended to foretel, on Divine authority, peace and plenty; for, behold, all is desolation.

The spiritual man] איש הרוח ish ha-ruach, the man of Spirit, who was ever pretending to be under a Divine afflatus.

Is mad] He is now enraged to see every thing falling out contrary to his prediction.

Verse 8. The watchman of Ephraim] The true prophet; was with,—faithful to,—God.

The prophet] The false prophet is the snare of a fowler; is continually deceiving the people, and leading them into snares; and infusing into their hearts deep hatred against God and His worship.

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

9 [a] They have deeply corrupted themselves, as in the days of [b] Gibeah: [c] therefore he will remember their iniquity, he will visit their sins.

10 I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness; I saw your fathers as [d] the firstripe in the fig tree [e] at her first time: but they went to [f] Baal-peor, and [g] separated themselves [h] unto that shame; [i] and their abominations were according as they loved.

11 As for Ephraim, their glory shall fly away like a bird, from the birth, and from the womb, and from the conception.

12 [k] Though they bring up their children, yet [l] will I bereave them, that there shall not be a man left: yea, [m] woe also to them when I [n] depart from them!

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

13 Ephraim, [o] as I saw Tyrus, is planted in a pleasant place: [p] but Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer.

14 Give them, O LORD: what wilt thou give? give them [q] a [r] miscarrying womb and dry breasts.

15 All their wickedness [s] is in Gilgal: for there I hated them: [t] for the wickedness of their doings I will drive them out of mine house, I will love them no more: [u] all their princes are revolters.

16 Ephraim is smitten, their root is dried

[a] Isa. 31. 6. ch. 10. 9.——[b] Judg. 19. 22.——[c] Ch. 8. 13.——[d] Isa. 28. 4. Mic. 7. 1.——[e] See ch. 2. 15.——[f] Numb. 25. 3. Psa. 106. 28.——[g] Ch. 4. 14.——[h] Jer. 11. 13. See Judg. 6. 32.——[i] Psa. 81. 12. Ezek. 20. 8. Amos 4. 5.

[k] Job 27. 14.——[l] Deut. 28. 41, 62.——[m] Deut. 31. 17. 2 Kings 17. 18. ch. 5. 6.——[n] See 1 Sam. 28. 15, 16.——[o] See Ezek. 26, & 27, & 28.——[p] Ver. 16. ch. 13. 16.——[q] Luke 23. 29.——[r] Heb. that casteth the fruit.——[s] Ch. 4. 15. & 12. 11.——[t] Ch. 1. 6.——[u] Isa. 1. 23.

Verse 9. They have deeply corrupted themselves as in the days of Gibeah] This relates to that shocking rape and murder of the Levite's wife, mentioned Judg. xix, 16, &c.

Verse 10. I found Israel like grapes in the wilderness] While they were faithful, they were as acceptable to me as ripe grapes would be to a thirsty traveller in the desert.

I saw your fathers] Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, Moses, Joshua, Caleb, Samuel, &c.

As the firstripe] Those grapes, whose bud having come first, and being exposed most to the sun, have been the first ripe upon the tree; which tree was now in the vigour of youth, and bore fruit for the first time. A metaphor of the rising prosperity of the Jewish state.

But they went to Baal-peor] The same as the Roman Priapus, and worshipped with the most impure rites.

And their abominations were according as they loved.] Or, they became as abominable as the object of their love. So Bp. Newcome. And this was superlatively abominable.

Verse 11. Their glory shall fly away] It shall suddenly spring away from them, and return no more.

From the birth] So that there shall be no birth, no carrying in the womb, no conception.—Newcome. They shall cease to glory in their numbers; for no children shall be born, no woman shall be pregnant, for none shall conceive. Here judgment blasts the very germs of population.

Verse 12. Though they bring up their children] And were they even to have children, I would bereave them of them; for, when I depart from them, they shall have all manner of wretchedness and woe.

Verse 13. Ephraim, as I saw Tyrus] Tyre was strongly situated on a rock in the sea; Samaria was on a mountain, both strong and pleasant. But the strength and beauty of those cities shall not save them from destruction.

Ephraim shall bring forth his children to the murderer] The people shall be destroyed or led into captivity by the Assyrians. Of the grandeur, wealth, power, &c, of Tyre, see the Notes on Ezekiel, chap. xxvii and xxviii.

Verse 14. Give them, O LORD: what wilt thou give?] There is an uncommon beauty in these words. The prophet, seeing the evils that were likely to fall upon his countrymen, begins to make intercession for them: but when he had formed the first part of his petition, Give them, O LORD! the prophetic light discovered to him that the petition would not be answered, and that God was about to give them something widely different. Then changing his petition, which the Divine Spirit had interrupted, by signifying that he must not proceed in his request, he asks the question, then, What wilt thou give them? and the answer is, Give them a miscarrying womb, and dry breasts. And this he is commanded to announce. It is probable that the Israelites had prided themselves in the fruitfulness of their families, and the numerous population of their country. God now tells them that this shall be no more; their wives shall be barren, and their land cursed.

Verse 15. All their wickedness is in Gilgal] Though we are not directly informed of the fact, yet we have reason to believe they had been guilty of some scandalous practices of idolatry in Gilgal. See chap. iv, 15.

For there I hated them] And therefore he determined, for the wickedness of their doings, to drive them out of his house, so that they should cease to be a part of the heavenly family, either as sons or servants; for he would love them no more, and bear with them no longer.

Verse 16. Ephraim is smitten] The thing being determined, it is considered as already done.

Their root is dried up] They shall never more be a kingdom. And they never had any political form from their captivity by the Assyrians to the present day.

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

up, they shall bear no fruit: yea, [a] though they bring forth, yet will I slay even [b] the beloved fruit of their womb.

17 My God will cast them away, because they did not hearken unto him: and they shall be [c] wanderers among the nations.

A. M. cir. 3244. B. C. cir. 760. Ante U. C. 7. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 37.

[a] Ver. 13.——[b] Heb. the desires, Ezek. 24. 21.

[c] Deut. 28. 64, 65.

Yea, though they bring forth] See the note on ver. 11, 12.

Verse 17. My God will cast them away] Here the prophet seems to apologize for the severity of these denunciations; and to vindicate the Divine justice, from which they proceeded. It is—

Because they did not hearken unto him] That my God, the Fountain of mercy and kindness, will cast them away.

And they shall be wanderers among the nations.] And where they have wandered to who can tell? and in what nations to be found, no man knows. Wanderers they are; and perhaps even now unknown to themselves. Some have thought they have found them in one country, some in another; and a very pious writer, in a Book intituled, The Star in the West, thinks he has found their descendants in the American Indians; among whom he has discovered many customs, apparently the same with those of the ancient Jews, and commanded in the Law. He thinks even that the word Je-ho-vah is found in their solemn festal cry, Ye-ho-wa-he. If they be this long lost people, they are utterly unknown to themselves; their origin being lost in a very remote antiquity.

CHAPTER X.

This Chapter treats of the same subject, but elegantly varied. It begins with comparing Israel to a fruitful vine; but corrupted by too much prosperity, 1. It next reproves and threatens them for their idolatry, 2, anarchy, 3, and breach of covenant, 4. Their idolatry is then enlarged on; and its fatal consequences declared in terms full of sublimity and pathos, 5—8. God is now introduced complaining of their excessive guilt; and threatening them with captivity in terms that bear a manifest allusion to their favourite idolatry, the worshipping the similitude of a calf or heifer, 9—11. Upon which the Prophet, in a beautiful allegory suggested by the preceding metaphors, exhorts them to repentance; and warns them of the dreadful consequences of their evil courses, if obstinately persisted in, 12—15.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

ISRAEL is [a] an [b] empty vine, he bringeth forth fruit unto himself: according to the multitude of his fruit [c] he hath increased the altars; according to the goodness of his land [d] they have made goodly [e] images.

2 [f] Their heart is [g] divided; now

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

[a] Nah. 2. 2.——[b] Or, a vine emptying the fruit which it giveth.——[c] Ch. 8. 11. & 12. 11.——[d] Ch. 8. 4.

[e] Heb. statues, or, standing images.——[f] Or, He hath divided their heart. [g] 1 Kings 18. 21. Matt. 6. 24.

NOTES ON CHAPTER X.

Verse 1. Israel is an empty vine] Or, a vine that casteth its grapes.

He bringeth forth fruit] Or, he laid up fruit for himself. He abused the blessings of God to the purposes of idolatry. He was prosperous: but his prosperity corrupted his heart.

According to the multitude of his fruit] He became idolatrous in proportion to his prosperity; and in proportion to their wealth was the costliness of their images, and the expensiveness of their idol worship. True is the homely saying of old Quarles:—

"So God's best gifts, usurp'd by wicked ones,
To poison turn, by their con-ta-gi-ons."

Another poet of a higher order, but worse school, says:—

Effodiuntur opes, irritamenta malorum.—Ovid.

Of which the words of St. Paul are nearly a literal rendering,—

Ριζα γαρ παντων των κακων εστιν ἡ φιλαργυρια.

"For the love of money is the root of all these evils." 1 Tim. vi, 10. Pity that this beautiful metal, on which God has bestowed such a large portion of mineral perfection, and then hid in the earth, should, on its being shall they be found faulty: he shall [a] break down their altars, he shall spoil their images.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

3 [b] For now they shall say, We have no king, because we feared not the LORD; what then should a king do to us?

4 They have spoken words, swearing falsely in making a covenant: thus judgment springeth up [c] as hemlock in the furrows of the field.

5 The inhabitants of Samaria shall fear because of [d] the calves of [e] Beth-aven: for the people thereof shall mourn over it, and [f] the priests thereof that rejoiced on it, [g] for the glory thereof, because it is departed from it.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

6 It shall be also carried unto Assyria for a present to [h] king Jareb: Ephraim shall receive shame, and Israel shall be ashamed [i] of his own counsel.

7 [k] As for Samaria, her king is cut off as the foam upon [l] the water.

8 [m] The high places also of Aven, [n] the sin of Israel, shall be destroyed: [o] the thorn and the thistle shall come up on their altars; [p] and they shall say to the mountains, Cover us; and to the hills, Fall on us.

---

[a] Heb. behead.——[b] Ch. 3. 4. & 11. 5. Mic. 4. 9. ver. 7.——[c] See Deut. 29. 18. Amos 5. 7. & 6. 12. Acts 8. 23. Heb. 12. 15.——[d] 1 Kings 12. 28, 29. ch. 8. 5, 6.——[e] Ch. 4. 15.——[f] Or, Chemarim, 2 Kings 23. 5. Zeph. 1. 4.

[g] 1 Sam. 4. 21, 22. ch. 9. 11.——[h] Ch. 5. 13.——[i] Ch. 11. 6.——[k] Ver. 3, 15.——[l] Heb. the face of the water.——[m] Ch. 4. 15.——[n] Deut. 9. 21. 1 Kings 12. 30.——[o] Ch. 9. 6.——[p] Isa. 2. 19. Luke 23. 30. Rev. 6. 16. & 9, 6.

---

digged up by man, become the incentive to so many vices, and draw away his heart from the Creator of all things, and the Fountain of ineffable perfection and goodness.

Verse 2. Their heart is divided] They wish to serve God and Mammon, Jehovah and Baal: but this is impossible. Now God will do in judgment what they should have done in contrition, break down their altars, and spoil their images.

Verse 3. We have no king] We have rejected the King of kings; and had we any king, he would be of no service to us in this state, as he would be a captive like ourselves; nor could we have the approbation of God, as we now lie justly under His displeasure.

Verse 4. They have spoken words] Vain, empty, deceitful words.

Swearing falsely] This refers to the alliances made with strange powers, to whom they promised fidelity, without intending to be faithful; and from whom they promised themselves protection and support, notwithstanding God was against them, and they knew it. All their words were vain, and in the end as bitter as gall.

Judgment springeth up as hemlock] As our land lies without cultivation, so that we have nothing but noxious weeds instead of crops; so we have no administration of justice. What is done in this way is a perversion of law, and is as hurtful to society as hemlock would be to animal life. All this may refer to the anarchy that was in the kingdom of Israel before Hoshea's reign; and which lasted, according to Archbishop Ussher, nine years. They then, literally, had no king.

Verse 5. The inhabitants of Samaria shall fear] According to Calmet, shall worship the calves of Beth-aven; those set up by Jeroboam, at Beth-el. Fear is often taken for religious reverence.

The people thereof shall mourn] On seeing the object of their worship carried into captivity, as well as themselves.

And the priests thereof] כמרים camarim. The priests of Samaria, says Calmet, are here called camarim, that is, black coats, or shouters, because they made loud cries in their sacrifices. Instead of יגילו yagilu, they shall rejoice; learned men propose ילילו yalilu, shall howl, which is likely to be the true reading: but it is not supported by any of the MSS. yet discovered. But the exigentia loci,—the necessity of the place, requires some such word.

Verse 6. A present to king Jareb] See on chap. v, 13. If this be a proper name, the person intended is not known in history: but it is most likely Pul, king of Assyria, is intended, to whom Menahem, king of Israel, appears to have given one of the golden calves to ensure his assistance.

Verse 7. Her king is cut off as the foam] As lightly as a puff of wind blows off the foam that is formed below by a fall of water; so shall the kings of Israel be cut off. We have already seen that not less than four of them died by assassination in a very short time. See on chap. vii, 7.

Verse 8. The high places] Idol temples.

Of Aven] Beth-aven.

The thorn and the thistle shall come up on their altars] Owing to the uncultivated and unfrequented state of the land, and of their places of idol worship, the people being all carried away into captivity.

And they shall say to the mountains, Cover us!
And to the hills, Fall on us!

"This sublime description of fear and distress our Lord had in view, Luke xxiii, 30, which may be a reference, and not a quotation. However the Septuagint, in the Codex Alexandrinus, has the same order of words as occurs in the Evangelist. The parallelism makes the passages more beautiful than Rev. vi, 16; and Isa. ii, 19, wants the animated dramatic form. That there is a reference to the caverns that abounded in the mountainous countries of Palestine, see the Note on Is. ii, 19."—Newcome.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

9 [a] O Israel, thou hast sinned from the days of Gibeah: there they stood: [b] the battle in Gibeah against the children of iniquity did not overtake them.

10 [c] It is in my desire that I should chastise them; and [d] the people shall be gathered against them, [e] when they shall bind themselves in their two furrows.

11 And Ephraim is as [f] a heifer that is taught, and loveth to tread out the corn; but I passed over upon [g] her fair neck: I will make Ephraim to ride; Judah shall plow, and Jacob shall break his clods.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

12 [h] Sow to yourselves in righteousness, reap in mercy; [i] break up your fallow ground: for it is time to seek the LORD, till he come and rain righteousness upon you.

13 [k] Ye have plowed wickedness, ye have reaped iniquity; ye have eaten the fruit of lies: because thou didst trust in thy way, in the multitude of thy mighty men.

14 [l] Therefore shall a tumult arise among thy

[a] Ch. 9. 9.——[b] See Judges 20.——[c] Deut. 28. 63.——[d] Jer. 16. 16. Ezek. 23. 46, 47. ch. 8. 10.——[e] Or, when I shall bind them for their two transgressions, or, in their two habitations.

[f] Jer. 50. 11. Mic. 4. 13.——[g] Heb. the beauty of her neck.——[h] Prov. 18. 21.——[i] Jer. 4. 3,——[k] Job 4. 8. Prov. 22. 8. ch. 8. 7. Gal. 6. 7, 8.——[l] Ch. 13. 16.

Verse 9. Thou hast sinned from the days of Gibeah] This is another reference to the horrible rape and murder of the Levite's wife, Judg. xix, 13, 14.

There they stood] Only one tribe was nearly destroyed, viz. that of Benjamin. They were the criminals, the children of iniquity; the others were faultless, and stood only for the rights of justice and mercy.

Verse 10. When they shall bind themselves in their two furrows.] When they are chastised for their two iniquities, i. e. the calves in Dan and Beth-el.—Newcome. But this double iniquity may refer to what Jeremiah says, chap. xi, 13. My people have committed two evils:—1. They have forsaken me. 2. They have joined themselves to idols.

Verse 11. Ephraim is as a heifer that is taught] One thoroughly broken in to the yoke.

And loveth to tread out] Goes peaceably in the yoke; and is pleased because, not being muzzled, she eats of the corn.

I passed over upon her fair neck] I brought the yoke upon it, that she should not tread out the corn merely, but drive the plough, and drag the harrow. These operations of husbandry are all referred to here, with some others. Ephraim shall tread out the corn, that there may be seed for the fields.

Judah shall plough] That the furrows may receive it.

Jacob shall break his clods] Harrow,—that the seed may be covered with the mould.

Israel very frequently made great depredations on Judah; and as this heifer loved to tread out the corn, and not plow, it is therefore added, that he should be made to plow,—be put under the yoke, namely, that of the Assyrians. What is added, Judah and Jacob shall plow for themselves, means that Judah should not now plow for Israel, but for himself; as Israel shall no more make depredations upon him.—Dodd.

Verse 12. Sow to yourselves in righteousness] Let the seed you sow be of the best kind, and in just measure.

Reap in mercy] By the blessings of God on this plowing, sowing, and harrowing, you may expect a good crop in harvest.

Break up your fallow ground] Do not be satisfied with a slight furrow: let the land that was fallowed (slightly plowed) be broken up again with a deep furrow.

For it is time to seek the LORD] This should be immediately done: the season is passing; and if you do not get the seed in the ground, the early rain will be past, and your fields will be unfruitful.

Rain down righteousness upon you] God will give you the early rain in due time, and in proper measure. Here are the metaphors, and the application cannot be difficult. Here are plowing, fallowing, sowing, harrowing, watering, reaping, threshing, and feeding on the produce of well directed labour. All may be applied to the human heart, and the work of God upon it. Correction, contrition, conversion, receiving the grace of Christ, bringing forth fruit, &c.

Verse 13. Ye have plowed wickedness] Ye have laboured sinfully.

Ye have reaped iniquity] The punishment due to your iniquity.

Ye have eaten the fruit of lies] Your false worship, and your false gods, have brought you into captivity and misery.

Because thou didst trust in thy way] Didst confide in thy own counsels, and in thy mighty men, and not in the God who made you.

Verse 14. Shall a tumult arise] The enemy shall soon fall upon thy people, and take all thy fortified places.

As Shalman spoiled Beth-arbel] Some think that this refers to Jerub-baal, or Gideon's victory over Zalmunna, general of the Midianites; see Judg. vii, viii. Others think that an allusion is made here to the destruction of Arbela, a city of Armenia, by Shalmanezer, here called Shalman; and this while he was only general of the Assyrian forces, and not yet king. I think, the history to which this refers is unknown. It seems that it was distinguished by some remarkable ferocities.

The mother was dashed in pieces upon her children.] But when, where, how, and by whom, still remain unknown. Conjecture in such a case, must be useless.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

people, and all thy fortresses shall be spoiled, as Shalman spoiled [a] Beth-arbel in the day of battle: [b] the mother was dashed in pieces upon her children.

15 So shall Beth-el do unto you because of [c] your great wickedness: in a morning [d] shall the king of Israel utterly be cut off.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

[a] 2 Kings 13. 34. & 19. 13.——[b] Ch. 13. 16.

[c] Heb. the evil of your evil.——[d] Ver. 7.

Verse 15. So shall Beth-el do unto you] This shall be the consequence of your idolatry.

In a morning shall the king of Israel utterly be cut off.] Suddenly, unexpectedly. Hoshea, the king of Israel, shall be cut off by the Assyrians. There are some allusions to facts in this Chapter, which cannot be easily verified, as we have not sufficient acquaintance with the history of those times.

CHAPTER XI.

This Chapter gives a very pathetic representation of God's tender and affectionate regard for Israel, by metaphors chiefly borrowed from the conduct of mothers towards their tender offspring. From this, occasion is taken to reflect on their ungrateful return to the Divine goodness, and to denounce against them the judgments of the Almighty, 1—7. But suddenly and unexpectedly the prospect changes. Beams of mercy break from the clouds just now fraught with vengeance. God, to speak in the language of men, feels the relentings of a tender parent;—His bowels yearn,—His mercy triumphs,—His rebellious child shall yet be pardoned. As the Lion of the tribe of Judah, He will employ His power to save His people, He will call His children from the land of their captivity; and, as doves, they will fly to Him, a faithful and a holy people, 8—12.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

WHEN [a] Israel was a child, then I loved him, and [b] called my [c] son out of Egypt.

2 As they called them, so they went from them: [d] they sacrificed unto Baalim, and burned incense to graven images.

3 [e] I taught Ephraim also to go, taking them by their arms; but they knew not that [f] I healed them.

4 I drew them with cords of a man, with bands of love: and [g] I was to them as they

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

[a] Ch. 2. 15.——[b] Matt. 2. 15.——[c] Exod. 4. 22, 23.——[d] 2 Kings 17. 16. ch. 2. 13. & 13. 2.

[e] Deut. 1. 31. & 32. 10, 11, 12. Isa. 46. 3.——[f] Exod. 15. 26.——[g] Lev. 26. 13.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XI.

Verse 1. When Israel was a child] In the infancy of his political existence.

I loved him, and called my son out of Egypt.] Where he was greatly oppressed; and in this I gave the proof of my love. I preserved my people in their affliction there, and brought them safely out of it.

Verse 3. I taught Ephraim also to go] An allusion to a mother or nurse teaching a child to walk: directing it how to lift and lay its feet; and supporting it in the mean time by the arms, that it may use its feet with the greater ease.

Verse 4. I drew them with cords of a man] This is a reference to leading strings, one end of which is held by the child, the other by the nurse, by which the little one, feeling some support, and gaining confidence, endeavours to walk. God, their heavenly Father, made use of every means and method to induce the Israelites to walk in the right and only safe path; for, as the Targum says, "As beloved children are drawn, I drew them by the strength of love."

That take off the yoke on their jaws] I did every thing that mercy could suggest, and justice permit, to make their duty their delight and profit. There appears to be here an allusion to the moving and pulling forward the collar or yoke of beasts which have been hard at work, to let in the cool air between it and their neck, so as to refresh them, and prevent that heat, which with the sweat would scald their necks, and take off not only the hair, but the skin. I have often done this at the land ends, in plowing, when at the turnings the cattle were permitted a few moments to draw their breath after the hard pull that terminated the furrow at either end of the field:—

And I laid meat unto them.] Giving them at the same

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

that [a] take off the yoke on their jaws, and [b] I laid meat unto them.

5 [c] He shall not return into the land of Egypt, but the Assyrian shall be his king, [d] because they refused to return.

6 And the sword shall abide on his cities, and shall consume his branches, and devour them [e] because of their own counsels.

7 And my people are bent to [f] backsliding from me: [g] though they called them to the Most High, [h] none at all would exalt him.

8 [i] How shall I give thee up, Ephraim? how shall I deliver thee, Israel? how shall I make thee as [k] Admah? how shall I set thee as Zeboim? [l] mine heart is turned within me, my repentings are kindled together.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

9 I will not execute the fierceness of mine anger, I will not return to destroy Ephraim: [m] for I am God, and not man; the Holy One in the midst of thee: and I will not enter into the city.

10 They shall walk after the LORD: [n] he shall roar like a lion: when he shall roar, then the children shall tremble [o] from the west.

11 They shall tremble as a bird out of Egypt,

[a] Heb. lift up.——[b] Psa. 78. 25. ch. 2. 8.——[c] See ch. 8. 13. & 9. 3.——[d] 2 Kings 17. 13, 14. cir. 728, they became tributaries to Salmanasser.——[e] Ch. 10. 6.——[f] Jer. 3. 6, &c. & 8. 5. ch. 4. 16.——[g] Ch. 7. 16.——[h] Heb. together they exalted not.

[i] Jer. 9. 7. ch. 6. 4.——[k] Gen. 14. 8. & 19. 24, 25. Deut. 29. 23. Amos 4. 11.——[l] Deut. 32. 36. Isa. 63. 15. Jer. 31. 20.——[m] Numb. 23. 19. Isa. 55. 8, 9. Mal. 3. 6.——[n] Isa. 31. 4. Joel 3. 16. Amos 1. 2.——[o] Zech. 8. 7.

time a bite of grass or hay to encourage them to go on afresh. The metaphor is strong and expressive; and he who ever had or saw the management of cattle in the plough or cart must admire it. Thus God acted with the people on whose necks was the yoke of His law. How many privileges, advantages, and comforts, did He mingle with His precepts, to make them at once a righteous and a happy people!

Verse 5. He shall not return into—Egypt] I have brought them thence already, with the design that the nation should never return thither again: but, as they have sinned, and forfeited my favour and protection, they shall go to Assyria; and this, because they refused to return to me. This view of the verse removes every difficulty.

Verse 6. The sword shall abide on his cities] Israel was agitated with external and intestine wars from the time of Jeroboam the Second. Although Zechariah his son reigned twelve years, yet it was in continual troubles; and he was at last slain by the rebel Shallum; who, having reigned one month, was slain by Menahem. Pekahiah succeeded his father Menahem, and reigned two years; and was killed by Pekah, son of Remaliah. He joined Rezin, king of Assyria; and made an irruption into the land of Judah: but Ahaz having obtained succour from Tiglath-Pileser, king of Assyria, Pekah was defeated, and the tribes of Reuben, Gad, Naphtali, and the half-tribe of Manasseh, were carried away captives by the Assyrian king; and in a short time after, Hoshea, son of Elah, slew Pekah, and usurped the kingdom, which he could not possess without the assistance of Shalmanezer, who for his services imposed a tribute on the Israelitish king. Wishing to rid himself of this yoke, he applied to the king of Egypt:—but this being known to Shalmanezer, he came against Samaria; and, after a three years' siege, took and destroyed it. Thus, the sword rested on their cities;—it continued in the land till all was ruined. See Calmet.

Verse 7. Though they called them to the Most High] Newcome is better;—And though they call on him together because of the yoke, he will not raise it. He shall receive no refreshment. See the metaphor, ver. 4.

Verse 8. How shall I give thee up] See the Notes on chap. vi, 4, where we have similar words from similar feelings.

Mine heart is turned within me] Justice demands thy punishment; Mercy pleads for thy life. As thou changest, Justice resolves to destroy, or Mercy to save. My heart is oppressed; and I am weary with repenting,—with so frequently changing my purpose. All this, though spoken after the manner of men, shews how merciful, compassionate, and loath to punish, the God of heaven is. What sinner, or saint, upon earth has not been a subject of these gracious operations!

Verse 9. I will not execute] Here is the issue of this conflict in the Divine mind. Mercy triumphs over judgment: Ephraim shall be spared. He is God, and not man. He cannot be affected by human caprices. They are now penitent, and implore mercy;—He will not, as man would do, punish them for former offences, when they have fallen into His hand. The holy place is in Ephraim, and God is in this holy place; and He will not go into the cities, as He did into Sodom and Gomorrah, to destroy them. Judgment is His strange work.

Verse 10. They shall walk after the LORD] They shall discern the operations of His providence; when—

He shall roar like a lion] When He shall utter His majestic voice, Cyrus shall make his decree. The people shall tremble,—be in a state of commotion; every one hurrying to avail himself of the opportunity to return to his own land.

Verse 11. They shall tremble as a bird] Those of them that are in Egypt shall also be called thence, and shall speed hither as a bird. Those in Assyria shall also be called to return, and they shall flee as doves to their windows. All shall, in the fulness of time, return to their own land. And—

I will place them in their houses, saith the LORD.] They

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

[a] and as a dove out of the land of Assyria: [b] and I will place them in their houses, saith the LORD.

12 [c] Ephraim compasseth me about with lies, and the house of Israel with deceit: but Judah yet ruleth with God, and is faithful [d] with the saints.

A. M. cir. 3264. B. C. cir. 740. A. U. C. cir. 14. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 14.

[a] Isa. 60. 8. ch. 7. 11.——[b] Ezek. 28. 25, 26. & 37. 21, 25.

[c] Ch. 12. 1.——[d] Or, with the most holy.

shall have their Temple once more; and all their holy ordinances.

Verse 12. Ephraim compasseth me about with lies] I think this verse does not well unite with the above; that it belongs to another subject, and should begin the following Chapter, as in the Hebrew.

Judah yet ruleth with God] There is an allusion here to Gen. xxxii, 24, where Jacob, having wrestled with the Angel, had his name changed to Israel, one that rules with God. That glory the Israelites had lost by their idolatry: but Judah still retained the true worship, and alone deserved the name of Israel.

Bishop Newcome translates this clause thus:—

"But hereafter they shall come down a people of God;
Even a faithful people of saints."

Even allowing this to be the most correct view of the original, I do not see what we gain by this change.

CHAPTER XII.

The Prophet, in very pointed terms, describes the unprofitableness and destruction attending vicious courses; particularly such as Ephraim pursued, who forsook God, and courted the alliance of idolatrous princes, 1. Judah is also reproved, 2. He is reminded of the extraordinary favour of God to his father Jacob, in giving him the birthright; and exhorted, after his example, to wrestle with God (the Angel of the covenant, the same unchangeable Jehovah,) for a blessing; and to love mercy, and execute justice, 3—6. Ephraim is accused of pursuing practices that are deceitful, although pretending to integrity, 7, 8. God then threatens to deprive this people of their possessions, 9, as they had rejected every means of reformation, 10, and given themselves up to gross impieties, 11. And, as an aggravation of their guilt, they are reminded from what humble beginnings they had been raised, 12, 13. The Divine judgments about to fall upon Israel are declared to be the result of great provocation, 14.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

EPHRAIM [a] feedeth on wind, and followeth after the east wind: he daily increaseth lies and desolation; [b] and they do make a covenant with the Assyrians, and [c] oil is carried into Egypt.

2 [d] The LORD hath also a controversy with Judah, and will [e] punish

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

[a] Ch. 8. 7.——[b] 2 Kings 17. 4. ch. 5. 13. ch. 7. 11.

[c] Isa. 30. 6. & 57. 9——[d] Ch. 4. 1. Mic. 6. 2.——[e] Heb. visit upon.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XII.

Verse 1. Ephraim feedeth on wind] He forms and follows empty and unstable counsels.

Followeth after the east wind] They are not only empty, but dangerous and destructive. The east wind was, and still is, in all countries, a parching, wasting, injurious, wind.

He daily increaseth lies] He promises himself safety from foreign alliances. He made a covenant with the Assyrians, and sent a subsidy of oil to Egypt. The latter abandoned him; the former oppressed him.

Verse 2. The LORD hath also a controversy with Judah] The rest of the Prophecy belongs both to Judah and Israel. He reproaches both with their ingratitude, and threatens them with God's anger. In order to make their infidelity the more hateful, and their malice the more sensible, He opposes to them the righteousness, obedience, and piety, of their father Jacob. He recals to their minds the benefits they had received since they returned from Egypt. He speaks afterwards of their kings; and how, in their ingratitude, they refused to have Him for their Monarch. Having mentioned this fact, he subjoins reflections, exhortations, invectives, and threatenings; and continues this subject in this and the two following Chapters.—Calmet.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

Jacob according to his ways; according to his doings will he recompense him.

3 He took his brother [a] by the heel in the womb, and by his strength he [b] had [c] power with God:

4 Yea, he had power over the Angel, and prevailed: he wept, and made supplication unto him: he found him in [d] Beth-el, and there he spake with us;

5 Even the LORD God of hosts; the LORD is his [e] memorial.

6 [f] Therefore turn thou to thy God: keep mercy and judgment, and [g] wait on thy God continually.

7 He is [h] a merchant, [i] the balances of deceit are in his hand: he loveth to [k] oppress.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

8 And Ephraim said, [l] Yet I am become rich, I have found me out substance: [m] in all my labours they shall find none iniquity in me [n] that were sin.

9 And [o] I that am the LORD thy God from the land of Egypt [p] will yet make thee to dwell in tabernacles, as in the days of the solemn feasts.

10 [q] I have also spoken by the prophets, and I have multiplied visions, and used similitudes, [r] by the ministry of the prophets.

11 [s] Is there iniquity in Gilead? surely they are

[a] Gen. 25. 26.——[b] Heb. was a prince, or, behaved himself princely.——[c] Gen. 32. 24, &c.——[d] Gen. 28. 12, 19. & 35. 9, 10, 15.——[e] Exod. 3. 15.——[f] Ch. 14. 1. Mic. 6. 8.——[g] Psa. 37. 7.——[h] Or, Canaan: See Ezek. 16. 3.——[i] Prov. 11. 1. Amos 8. 5.——[k] Or, deceive.——[l] Zech. 11. 5. Rev. 3. 17.

[m] Or, all my labours suffice me not: he shall have punishment of iniquity in whom is sin.——[n] Heb. which.——[o] Ch. 13. 4.——[p] Lev. 23. 42, 43. Neh. 8. 17. Zech. 14. 16.——[q] 2 Kings 17. 13.——[r] Heb. by the hand.——[s] Ch. 5. 1. & 6. 8.

Verse 3. He took his brother by the heel] See on Gen. xxv. 26, and xxxii, 24, &c.

Verse 4. He had power over the Angel] Who represented the invisible Jehovah.

He wept, and made supplication] He entreated with tears that God would bless him; and he prevailed. The circumstance of his weeping is not mentioned in Genesis.

He found him in Beth-el] It was there that God made those glorious promises to Jacob relative to his posterity. See Gen. xxviii, 13—15.

Verse 5. The LORD is his memorial.] He is the same God He was when Jacob so successfully wrestled with him.

Verse 6. Therefore turn thou to thy God] Because He is the same, and cannot change. Seek Him as faithfully and as fervently as Jacob did, and you will find Him the same merciful and compassionate Being.

Verse 7. He is a merchant] Or, a Canaanite; referring to the Phœnicians, famous for their traffic. Ephraim is as corrupt as those heathenish traffickers were. He kept, as many in all ages have done, a weight and a weight; a heavy one to buy with, and a light one to sell by.

Verse 8. I am become rich] They boasted in their riches, notwithstanding the unjust manner in which they were acquired.

In all my labours they shall find none iniquity in me] This is frequently the language of merchants, tradesmen, &c. None are so full of professions of equity and justice, while all the time they are endeavouring to overreach, both in buying and selling.—"Sir, I cannot afford it at that price."—"It is not mine for that money."—"I assure you that it cost me more than you offer."—"I am sorry I cannot take your money: but if I did, I should lose by the article," &c, &c, &c. I have heard such language over and over, when I knew every word was false. Truth is a sacred thing in the sight of God! but who regards it as he should! There are however many noble exceptions among merchants and tradesmen. Bp. Newcome gives another turn to the subject, by translating:—

"All his labours shall not be found profitable unto him,
For the iniquity wherewith he hath sinned."

Verse 9. And I—the LORD thy God] I who brought thee out of the land of Egypt, will again make thee to dwell in tabernacles. This appears to be a threatening. I will reduce you to as miserable a state in the land of your captivity, as you often were through your transgressions in the wilderness. This was the opinion of some of the ancients, on this verse; and the context requires to be understood in this way. I do not think that the feast of tabernacles is referred to.

Verse 10. I have also spoken] I have used every means, and employed every method, to instruct and save you. I have sent prophets, who spake plainly, exhorting, warning, and beseeching you, to return to me. They have had Divine visions, which they have declared and interpreted. They have used similitudes, symbols, metaphors, allegories, &c, in order to fix your attention, and bring you back to your duty and interest. And, alas! all is in vain; you have not profited by my condescension. This text St. Paul seems to have had full in view, when he wrote Heb. i, 1. God who, at SUNDRY TIMES and DIVERS MANNERS, spake in time past unto the FATHERS by the PROPHETS. See the Note on the above.

Dr. Dodd supposes that there are three distinct kinds of prophecy mentioned here:—1. Immediate inspiration, when God declares the very words. 2. Vision; a representation of external objects to the mind, in as lively a manner as if they were conveyed by the senses. 3. Parables and apt resemblances.

Verse 11. Iniquity in Gilead] Gilgal and Gilead are equally iniquitous, and equally idolatrous. Gilead, which vanity: they sacrifice bullocks in [a] Gilgal; yea, [b] their altars are as heaps in the furrows of the fields.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

12 And Jacob [c] fled into the country of Syria, and Israel [d] served for a wife, and for a wife he kept sheep.

13 [e] And by a prophet the LORD brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a prophet was he preserved.

14 [f] Ephraim provoked him to anger [g] most bitterly: therefore shall he leave his [h] blood upon him, [i] and his [k] reproach shall his Lord return unto him.

[a] Ch. 4. 15. & 9. 15. Amos 4. 4. & 5. 5.——[b] Ch. 8. 11. & 10. 1.——[c] Gen. 28. 5. Deut. 26. 5.——[d] Gen. 29. 20, 28.——[e] Exod. 12. 50, 51. & 13. 3. Psa. 77. 20. Isa. 63. 11. Mic. 6. 4.

[f] 2 Kings 17. 11,—18.——[g] Heb. with bitternesses.——[h] Heb. bloods: See Ezek. 18. 13. & 19. 10. & 24. 7, 8.——[i] Dan. 11. 18.——[k] Deut. 23. 37. Lam. 3. 61—66.

was beyond Jordan, had already been brought under subjection by Tiglath-pileser. Gilgal, which was on this side Jordan, shall share the same fate; because it is now as idolatrous as the other.

Their altars are as heaps] They occur every where. The whole land is given to idolatry.

Verse 12. Israel served for a wife] Seven years for Rachel.

For a wife he kept sheep.] Seven years for Leah; having been cheated by Laban, who gave him first Leah, instead of Rachel; and afterwards made him serve seven years more before he would confirm his first engagement. Critics complain of want of connexion here. Why is this isolated fact predicted? Thus, in a detached sentence, the prophet speaks of the low estate of their ancestors, and how amply the providence of God had preserved and provided for them. This is all the connexion this place requires.

Verse 13. By a prophet (Moses) the LORD brought Israel out of Egypt, and by a prophet (Joshua) was he preserved.] Joshua succeeded Moses, and brought the Israelites into the Promised Land; and when they passed the Jordan at Gilgal, he received the covenant of circumcision;—and yet this same place was now made by them the seat of idolatry! How blind, and how ungrateful!

Verse 14. Therefore shall he leave his blood upon him] He will not remove his guilt. These are similar to our Lord's words, John iii, 36; ix, 41. "He that believeth not on the Son of God, shall not see life, for the wrath of God ABIDETH ON HIM;" shall not be removed by any remission, as he rejects the only way in which he can be saved. Because ye say, we see: therefore, YOUR SIN REMAINETH, i. e. it still stands charged against you. Your miseries and destruction are of your own procuring; your perdition is of yourselves. God is as merciful as He is just.

CHAPTER XIII.

This Chapter begins with observing that the fear of God leads to prosperity, but sin to ruin: a truth most visibly exemplified in the sin and punishment of Ephraim, 1—3. As an aggravation of their guilt, God reminds them of His former favours, 4, 5, which they had shamefully abused, 6, and which now expose them to dreadful punishments, 7, 8. He tempers however, these awful threatenings with gracious promises; and, on their repentance, engages to save them when no other could protect them, 9—11. But, alas! instead of repenting, Ephraim is filling up the measure of his iniquity, 12, 13. Notwithstanding this God promises to put forth His Almighty power in behalf of His people; and, as it were, raise them from the dead, 14; although, in the mean time, they must be visited with great national calamities, compared first to the noxious and parching east wind, 15; and described immediately after in the plainest terms, 16.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

WHEN Ephraim spake trembling, he exalted himself in Israel; but [a] when he offended in Baal, he died.

2 And now [b] they sin more and more, and [c] have made them molten images of their silver, and idols according to their own understanding,

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

[a] 2 Kings 17. 16, 18. ch. 11. 2.

[b] Heb. they add to sin.——[c] Ch. 2. 8. & 8. 4.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XIII.

Verse 1. When Ephraim spake trembling] When he was meek and humble.

He exalted himself in Israel] He became great in God's sight; he rose in the Divine esteem in proportion as he sunk in his own. But this did not continue.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

all of it the work of the craftsmen: they say of them, Let [a] the men that sacrifice [b] kiss the calves.

3 Therefore they shall be [c] as the morning cloud, and as the early dew that passeth away, [d] as the chaff that is driven with the whirlwind out of the floor, and as the smoke out of the chimney.

4 Yet [e] I am the LORD thy God from the land of Egypt, and thou shalt know no god but me: for [f] there is no saviour beside me.

5 [g] I did know thee in the wilderness, [h] in the land of [i] great drought.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

6 [k] According to their pasture, so were they filled; they were filled, and their heart was exalted; therefore [l] have they forgotten me.

7 Therefore [m] I will be unto them as a lion: as [n] a leopard by the way will I observe them:

8 I will meet them [o] as a bear that is bereaved of her whelps, and will rend the caul of their heart, and there will I devour them like a

[a] Or, the sacrifices of men.——[b] 1 Kings 19. 18.——[c] Ch. 6. 4.——[d] Dan. 2. 35.——[e] Isa. 43. 11. ch. 12. 9.——[f] Isa. 43. 11. & 45. 21.——[g] Deut. 2. 7. & 32. 10.

[h] Deut. 8. 15. & 32. 10.——[i] Heb. droughts.——[k] Deut. 8. 12, 14. & 32. 15.——[l] Ch. 8. 14.——[m] Lam. 3. 10. ch. 5. 14.——[n] Jer. 5. 6.——[o] 2 Sam. 17. 8. Prov. 17. 12.

He offended in Baal] He became an idolater.

He died] The sentence of death from the Divine justice went out against him.

This has been differently understood.—As soon as Ephraim spake (To your tents, O Israel!) there was a trembling or commotion: then the kingdom was exalted in Israel. Thus taken, it refers to the division of the ten tribes from Rehoboam, son of Solomon, 1 Kings xii, 16, &c, and the establishment of the kingdom of Israel under Jeroboam, in opposition to that of Judah; which breach was never healed.

Verse 2. And now they sin more and more] They increase in every kind of vice, having abandoned the great Inspirer of virtue.

Let the men that sacrifice kiss the calves.] This was the test. If there be a Jew that pretends to sacrifice, and whose conversion is dubious, let him come openly, and kiss the calves. This will shew what he is; no real Jew will do this. If he be an idolater, he will not scruple. This was the ancient method of adoration. 1. They kissed the idol. 2. When the statue was too high, or too far off, they presented the hand in token of alliance. 3. They brought that hand respectfully to their mouths, and kissed it. This was the genuine act of adoration; from ad, to, and os, oris, the mouth. So PLINY, Hist. Nat. lib. xxviii, c. 1. Adorando, dexteram ad oscula referimus.

And APULEIUS, Asin. lib. iv, Admoventes oribus suis dexteram, ut ipsam prorsus deam religiosis adorationibus venerabantur. See Calmet, and see the Note on Job xxxi, 17.

Verse 3. Therefore they shall be as the morning CLOUD—as the early DEW—as the CHAFF—as the SMOKE] Four things, most easy to be driven about and dissipated, are employed here to shew how they should be scattered among the nations, and dissipated by captivity.

Verse 4. I am the LORD thy God] This was the first discovery I made of myself to you, and the first commandment I gave; and I shewed you that besides me there was no Saviour. There is a remarkable addition in the Septuagint here:—"But I am Jehovah thy God, who stretched out the heavens, and created the earth. And I shewed them not to thee, that thou shouldst walk after them. And I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt," &c. This might have been once in the Hebrew text.

Verse 5. I did know thee] I approved of thee;—I loved thee;—and, by miraculously providing for thee in that land of drought, I demonstrated my love.

Verse 6. According to their pasture] They had a rich pasture, and they were amply supplied with every good. They became exalted in heart, forgat their God, and became a prey to their enemies. He that exalteth himself shall be abased.

Verse 7. I will be unto them as a lion] שחל shachal, is supposed to mean here the black lion, frequent in Æthiopia.

As a leopard] נמר namar, so termed from its spotted skin; for, to be spotted is the signification of the root.

Will I observe them] The leopard, tiger, panther, will hide themselves in thick bush wood, near where they expect any prey to pass; and, as soon as it comes near, spring suddenly upon it. To this is the allusion in the Text:—By the way will I observe them; watch for them as the leopard does. They shall be greatly harassed even on their way to Assyria, when going into captivity.

Verse 8. As a bear—bereaved] This is a figure to denote excessive ferocity. See the Note on 2 Sam. xvii, 8, where a remarkable instance is given.

And will rend the caul of their heart] Every savage beast goes first to the seat of the blood, when it has seized its prey; as in this fluid they delight more than in the most delicate parts of the flesh.

There will I devour them like a lion] לביא labi, the old strong lion; drinking the blood, tearing the flesh, and breaking the bones to extract the marrow.

The wild beast shall tear them] Probably this refers to the chakal or jackal, who frequently hunts down the prey, which the lion takes the liberty to devour, while the jackal stands by; and afterwards picks the bones. Hence he has been called the lion's PROVIDORE, and the lion's waiting man.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

lion: [a] the wild beast shall tear them.
9 O Israel, [b] thou hast destroyed thyself; [c] but in me [d] is thine help.
10 [e] I will be thy king: [f] where is any other that may save thee in all thy cities? and thy judges of whom [g] thou saidst, Give me a king and princes?
11 [h] I gave thee a king in mine anger, and took him away in my wrath.
12 [i] The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up; his sin is hid.
13 [k] The sorrows of a travailing woman shall come upon him: he is [l] an unwise son; for he should not [m] stay [n] long in the place of the breaking forth of children.
14 [o] I will ransom them from [p] the power of the grave; I will redeem them from death: [q] O death, I will be thy plagues; O grave, I will be

[a] Heb. the beast of the field.——[b] Prov. 6. 32. ch. 14. 1. Mal. 1. 9.——[c] Ver. 4.——[d] Heb. in thy help.——[e] Rather, Where is thy king? King Hoshea being then in prison, 2 Kings 17. 4.——[f] Deut. 32. 38. ch. 10. 3. ver. 4.——[g] 1 Sam. 8. 5, 19.

[h] 1 Sam. 8. 7. & 10. 19. & 15. 22, 23. & 16. 1. Ch. 10. 3.——[i] Deut. 32. 34. Job 14. 17.——[k] Isa. 13. 8. Jer. 30. 6.——[l] Prov. 22. 3.——[m] 2 Kings 19. 3.——[n] Heb. a time.——[o] Isa. 25. 8. Ezek. 37. 12.——[p] Heb. the hand.——[q] 1 Cor. 15. 54, 55.

Verse 9. O Israel, thou hast destroyed thyself] These evils come not by my immediate infliction; they are the consequences of thy own crimes. In the above terrifying figures of the ferocious beasts, the prophet only shews what they would meet with from the hand of the Assyrians, in the war, the famine, and the captivity; God being represented as doing what He only permits to be done.

But in me is thine help.] "Though thou hast destroyed thyself, yet in me alone can thy help be found."—Newcome. And others read, And who will help thee? reading מי mi, who, for בי bi, in me. Though this is countenanced by the Syriac, yet there is no evidence of it in any of the MSS. yet collated; nor do I think it to be the true reading.

Verse 10. Give me a king and princes?] Referring to the time in which they cast off the Divine theocracy; and chose Saul in the place of Jehovah.

Verse 11. I gave thee a king in mine anger] Such was Saul; for they highly offended God, when they clamoured to have a king like the heathen nations that were around them.

Took him away in my wrath.] Permitted him and the Israelites to fall before the Philistines. Others think that Shalmaneser was the king thus given, and Hoshea the king thus taken away.

Verse 12. The iniquity of Ephraim is bound up] It is registered in my court of justice: the death-warrant is in store, and will be produced in due time. Though there be not at present the judgment inflicted, which such glaring transgressions demand, yet it will surely come. Such crimes cannot go unpunished.

Verse 13. The sorrows of a travailing woman] These judgments shall come suddenly and unavoidably.

The place of the breaking forth of children] As there is a critical time in parturition in which the mother, in hard labour, may by skilful assistants be eased of her burden, which, if neglected, may endanger the life both of parent and child; so there was a time in which Ephraim might have returned to God, but they would not; therefore they are now in danger of being finally destroyed. And, speaking after the manner of men, he must be deemed an unwise son who, if he had power and consideration, would prolong his stay in the porch of life, where he must be necessarily suffocated; so is Ephraim, who, though warned of his danger, having yet power to escape, continued in his sin, and is now come to destruction. I could illustrate the allusion in the Text farther, and shew the accurate propriety of the original: but the subject forbids it.

Verse 14. I will ransom them from the power of the grave] In their captivity, they are represented as dead and buried, which is a similar view to that taken of the Jews in the Babylonish captivity by Ezekiel, in his vision of the valley of dry bones. They are now lost as to the purpose for which they were made, for which God had wrought so many miracles for them and for their ancestors: but the gracious purpose of God shall not be utterly defeated. He will bring them out of that grave, and ransom them from that death; for as they have deserved that death and disgraceful burial, they must be redeemed and ransomed from it, or still lie under it. And who can do this but God Himself? And He will do it. In the prospect of this, the prophet exclaims, in the Person of the universal Redeemer, O death, I will be thy plagues; I will bring into thy reign the principle of its destruction. The Prince of life shall lie for a time under thy power, that he may destroy this power.

O grave, I will be thy destruction] I will put an end to thy dreary domination by rising from the dead, and bring life and immortality to light by my gospel; and in finally raising from death the whole human race in the day of the general resurrection.

שאול sheol, which we translate grave, is the state of the dead. מות maveth, which we translate death, is the principle of corruption, that renders the body unfit to be longer the tenement of the soul, and finally decomposes it. Sheol shall be destroyed, for it must deliver up all its dead. Maveth shall be annihilated, for the body shall be raised incorruptible. See the use which the apostle makes of this passage, 1 Cor. xv, 54, 55: but he does not quote from the Hebrew, nor from any of the ancient Versions. He had to apply the subject anew; and the Spirit, which had originally given the words, chose to adapt them to the subject then in hand, which was the resurrection of the dead in the last day. Instead of דבריך debarica, thy plagues, one of my oldest thy destruction: [a] repentance shall be hid from mine eyes.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

15 Though [b] he be fruitful among his brethren, [c] an east wind shall come, the wind of the LORD shall come up from the wilderness, and his spring shall become dry, and his fountain shall be dried up: he shall spoil the treasure of all [d] pleasant vessels.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

16 [e] Samaria shall become desolate; [f] for she hath rebelled against her God: [g] they shall fall by the sword: their infants shall be dashed in pieces, and their women with child shall be ripped up.

[a] Jer. 15. 6. Rom. 11. 29.——[b] See Gen. 41. 52. & 48. 19.——[c] Jer. 4. 11. Ezek. 17. 10. & 19. 12. ch. 4. 19.——[d] Heb. vessels of desire, Nah. 2. 9.

[e] Fulfilled, cir. 721. 2 Kings 17. 6.——[f] 2 Kings 18. 12.——[g] 2 Kings 8. 12. & 15. 16. Isa. 13. 16. ch. 10. 14, 15. Amos 1. 13. Nah. 3. 10.

MSS., ninety-six of Kennicott, and thirty-two of De Rossi, have דברך debarca, thy plague, that which shall carry thee off, as the plague does them who are affected by it. To carry off, carry away, is one of the regular meanings of the verb דבר dabar.

Repentance shall be hid from mine eyes.] On these points I will not change my purpose; this is the signification of repentance, when attributed to God.

Verse 15. Though he be fruitful] יפריא yaphri; a paranomasia on the word אפרים ephraim, which comes from the same root פרה pharah, to be fruitful, to sprout, to bud.

An east wind shall come] As the east wind parches and blasts all vegetation, so shall Shalmaneser blast and destroy the Israelitish state.

Verse 16. Samaria shall become desolate] This was the capital of the Israelitish kingdom. What follows is a simple prophetic declaration of the cruelties which should be exercised upon this hapless people by the Assyrians, in the sackage of the city.

CHAPTER XIV.

By the terrible denunciation of vengeance which concludes the preceding Chapter, the Prophet is led to exhort Israel to repentance, furnishing them with a beautiful form of prayer, very suitable to the occasion, 1—3. Upon which God, ever ready to pardon the penitent, is introduced making large promises of blessings, in allusion to those copious dews which refresh the green herbs, and which frequently denote not only temporal salvation, but also the rich and refreshing comforts of the Gospel, 4—7. Their reformation from idolatry is foretold, and their consequent prosperity, under the emblem of a green flourishing fir-tree, 8: but these promises are confined to those who bring forth the fruits of righteousness, and the wicked declared to have no share in them, 9.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

O ISRAEL, [a] return unto the LORD thy God; [b] for thou hast fallen by thine iniquity.

2 Take with you words, and turn to the LORD: say unto him, Take away all iniquity, and [c] receive us graciously: so will we render [d] the calves of our lips.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

[a] Ch. 12. 6. Joel 2. 13.——[b] Ch. 13. 9.

[c] Or, give good.——[d] Heb. 13. 15.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XIV.

Verse 1. O Israel, return unto the LORD] These words may be considered as addressed to the people now in captivity, suffering much; but having still much more to suffer, if they did not repent. But it seems that all these evils might yet be prevented, though so positively predicted, if the people would repent and return; and the very exhortation to this repentance shews, that they had still power to repent, and that God was ready to save them and avert all these evils. All this is easily accounted for on the doctrine of the contingency of events, i. e. the poising a multitude of events on the possibility of being or not being, and leaving the will of man to turn the scale; and that God will not foreknow a thing as absolutely certain, which His will has determined to make contingent. A doctrine against which some solemn men have blasphemed, and philosophic infidels declaimed; but without which fate and dire necessity must be the universal governors, prayer be a useless meddling, and Providence nothing but the ineluctable adamantine chain of unchangeable events; that all virtue is vice, or vice virtue; or that there is no

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

3 [a] Asshur shall not save us; [b] we will not ride upon horses: [c] neither will we say any more to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods: [d] for in thee the fatherless findeth mercy.

4 I will heal [e] their backsliding, I will love them [f] freely: for mine anger is turned away from him.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

5 I will be as [g] the dew unto Israel: he shall [h] grow as the lily, and [i] cast forth his roots as Lebanon.

6 His branches [k] shall spread, and [l] his beauty

[a] Jer. 11. 18, &c. ch. 5. 13. & 12. 1.——[b] Deut. 17. 16. Psa. 33. 17. Isa. 30. 2, 16. & 31. 1.——[c] Ch. 2. 17. ver. 8.——[d] Psa. 10. 14. & 68. 5.

[e] Jer. 5. 6. & 14. 7. ch. 11. 7.——[f] Eph. 1. 6.——[g] Job 29. 19. Prov. 19. 12.——[h] Or, blossom.——[i] Heb. strike.——[k] Heb. shall go.——[l] Psa. 52. 8. & 128. 3. Ecclus. 50. 10.

distinction between them, each being eternally determined and unalterably fixed by a sovereign and uncontrollable will and unvarying necessity, from the operation of which no soul of man can escape, and no occurrence in the universe be otherwise than it is. From such blasphemy good Lord deliver us.

Verse 2. Take with you words] And you may be assured that you pray aright, when you use the words which God Himself has put in your mouths. On this very ground, there is a potency in the LORD'S PRAYER, when offered up believingly, beyond what can be found in any human composition. And it may be presumed that it was this consideration that induced our reformers to introduce it so frequently in the public Liturgy.

See the order of God's directions here:—

1. Hearing these merciful invitations, believe them to be true.

2. Cast aside your idols; and return to God as your Maker, King, and Saviour.

3. Take with you the words by which you have been encouraged, and plead them before God.

4. Remember your iniquity, deeply deplore it, and beg of God to take it all away.

5. Let faith be in exercise to receive what God waits to impart. Receive us graciously; וקח טוב ve-kach-tob, receive, or let us receive good:—when thou hast emptied us of evil, fill us with goodness.

6. Be then determined (through grace) to live to His glory, so shall we render thee the calves (פרים parim, for which the Versions in general read פרי peri, fruits, omitting the ם mem,) of our lips; the sacrifices of praise, thanksgiving, gratitude, and the hearty obedience which your lips have often promised.

7. Having thus determined, specify your resolutions to depend on God alone for all that can make you wise, useful, holy, and happy. The resolutions are,—

1. Asshur shall not save us—We will neither trust in, nor fear, this rich and powerful king. We will not look either to riches or power for true rest and peace of mind.

2. We will not ride upon horses—We shall no more fix our hopes on the proud Ægyptian cavalry, to deliver us out of the hands of enemies to whom thy Divine justice has delivered us. We will expect no rest nor happiness in the elegances of life, and gratification of our senses.

3. Neither shall we say to the work of our hands, Ye are our gods—We will not trust in any thing without us; nor even in any good thing we are able to do through Thy grace; knowing we have nothing but what we have received. We will trust in Thy infinite mercy for our final salvation.

4. And we will do all this from the conviction that in Thee the fatherless findeth mercy; for we are all alike helpless, desolate, perishing orphans, till translated into Thy family.

Verse 4. I will heal their backsliding] Here is the answer of God to these prayers and resolutions. See its parts:—

1. Ye have backslidden and fallen, and are grievously and mortally wounded by that fall: but I who am the Author of life, and am He who redeems from death, will heal all these wounds and spiritual diseases.

2. I will love them freely—נדבה nidebah, after a liberal, princely manner. I will love them so, as to do them incessant good. It shall not be a love of affection merely, but shall be a beneficial love. A love that not only feels delight in itself; but fills them with delight who are its objects, by making them unutterably and supremely happy.

3. For mine anger is turned away from him—Because he has turned back to me. Thus God and man become friends.

Verse 5. I will be as the dew unto Israel—On these metaphors I gladly avail myself of the elegant and just observations of Bp. Lowth.—"These verses, (5, 6, 7,) contain gracious promises of God's favour and blessings upon Israel's conversion. In the fifth verse, it is described by that refreshment, which copious dews give to the grass in summer. If we consider the nature of the climate, and the necessity of dews in so hot a country, not only to refresh, but likewise to preserve life; if we consider also the beauty of the oriental lilies, the fragrance of the cedars which grow upon Lebanon, the beauteous appearance which the spreading olive trees afforded, the exhilarating coolness caused by the shade of such trees, and the aromatic smell exhaled by the cedars; we shall then partly understand the force of the metaphors here employed by the prophet: but their full energy no one can conceive, till he feels both the want, and enjoys the advantage, of the particulars referred to in that climate where the prophet wrote."—Lowth's Twelfth and Nineteenth Prelection; and Dodd on the place.

What a glorious prophecy! what a wonderful prophet! how sublime, how energetic, how just. The great master prophet Isaiah alone, could have done this better. And shall be as the olive tree, and [a] his smell as Lebanon.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

7 [b] They that dwell under his shadow shall return; they shall revive as the corn, and [c] grow as the vine: the [d] scent thereof shall be as the wine of Lebanon.

8 Ephraim shall say, [e] What have I to do any more with idols? [f] I have heard him, and observed him: I am like a green these are not for Israel merely after the flesh; they are for the Israel of God. We have lot and portion in the matter; God also places His love upon us. Here the Reader must feel some such sentiment as the shepherd in Virgil, when enraptured with the elegy which his associate had composed on their departed friend. The phraseology and metaphors are strikingly similar; and therefore I shall produce it.

[a] Gen. 27. 27. Cant. 4. 11.——[b] Psa. 91. 1.——[c] Or, blossom.

[d] Or, memorial.——[e] Ver. 3.——[f] Jer. 31. 18.

Tale tuum carmen nobis, divine Poeta,
Quale sopor fessis in gramine, quale per æstum,
Dulcis aquæ saliente sitim restinguere rivo.
Nec calamis solum æquiparas, sed voce magistrum.
Fortunate puer! tu nunc eris alter ab illo.
Nos tamen hæc quocunque modo tibi nostra vicissim
Dicemus, Daphnimque tuum tollemus ad astra:
Daphnim ad astra feremus: amavit nos quoque Daphnis.
VIRGIL, Ecl. v, ver. 45.

"O heavenly poet, such thy verse appears,
So sweet, so charming to my ravish'd ears,
As to the weary swain with cares opprest,
Beneath the sylvan shade, refreshing rest:
As to the feverish traveller, when first
He finds a crystal stream to quench his thirst.
In singing, as in piping, you excel;
And scarce your master could perform so well.
O fortunate young man! at least your lays
Are next to his, and claim the second praise.
Such as they are, my rural songs I join
To raise your Daphnis to the powers divine;
For Daphnis was my friend, as well as thine."

Verse 7. They that dwell under his shadow shall return] The Targum is curious:—"They shall be gathered together from the midst of their captivity; they shall dwell under the shadow of his CHRIST, and the dead shall revive."

They shall revive as the corn] The justness and beauty of this metaphor is not generally perceived. After the corn has been a short time above the earth, in a single spike, the blades begin to separate, and the stalk to spring out of the centre. The side leaves turn back to make way for the protruding stalk; and fall bending down to the earth, assuming a withered appearance, though still attached to the plant. To look at the corn in this state, no one, unacquainted with the circumstance, could entertain any sanguine hope of a copious harvest. In a short time other leaves spring out; the former freshen, and begin to stand erect; and the whole seems to revive from a vegetative death. This is the circumstance to which the prophet refers; they shall revive as the corn. Of this a prudent and profitable use may be made.

1. When a soul is first drawn by the cords of love, chap. xi, 4, every thing seems to it promising, comfortable, and delightful, like the corn in its first state.

2. But when the Spirit of Judgment brings to the light of conscience the hidden things of iniquity, and repentance is deepened into contrition, the broken and the contrite heart groans, and thinks that all is lost; deep distress takes place, and discouragement succeeds discouragement. This answers to the corn in its second state.

3. By and by the pardon comes, and God's love is shed abroad in the heart by the Holy Ghost; every hope is revived and realized, the full corn in the ear becomes manifest; and this answers to the corn in its third state.—They shall revive as the corn.—Glory be to God for his unspeakable gift!

Verse 8. What have I to do any more with idols?] The conversion of Ephraim is now as complete as it was sincere. God hears and observes this.

I am like a green fir-tree] Perhaps these words should be joined to the preceding, as Newcome has done; and be a part of God's speech to Ephraim. I have heard him; and I have seen him as a flourishing fir-tree. He is become strong and vigorous; and, from his present appearance of healthiness, his future increase and prosperity may be safely anticipated.

From me is thy fruit found.] All thy goodness springs from the principle of grace which I have planted in thy soul: for as the earth cannot bring forth fruit without the blessing of God, sending the dews and rains, with the genial rays of the sun; so neither can the soul of man, even of the most pious, bear fruit, without a continual influence from the Most High. Without the former, neither grass could grow for cattle, nor corn for the service of man: without the latter, no seeds of righteousness could take root, no stalk of promise could grow, no fruit of grace could be produced. And the unclean spirit, which was cast out, would soon return; and, finding his former house empty, swept, and garnished, would re-enter with seven dæmons of greater power, and worse influence; and the latter end of that man would be worse than the first. Reader, ever consider that all thy good must be derived from God; and all that good must be preserved in thee by His continued influence of light, love, and power, upon thy soul.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

fir tree. [a] From me is thy fruit found.

9 [b] Who is wise, and he shall understand these things? prudent, and he shall know them? for [c] the ways of the LORD are right, and the just shall walk in them: but the transgressors shall fall therein.

A. M. cir. 3279. B. C. cir. 725. A. U. C. cir. 29. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 29.

[a] Jam. 1. 17.——[b] Psa. 107. 43. Jer. 9. 12. Dan. 12. 10. Ecclus. 39. 24, 27. John 8. 47. & 18. 37.

[c] Psa. 119. 14, 27, 33. & 145. 17. Prov. 10. 29. Luke 2. 34. 2 Cor. 2. 16. 1 Pet. 2. 7, 8.

Verse 9. Who is wise, and he shall understand these things] What things? Those which relate to the backslidings, iniquity, and punishment, of Israel; and to the mercy and kindness of God in their promised restoration. The things which belong to the work of sin in the heart; the things which belong to the work of grace in the soul; and particularly the things mentioned in this wonderful Chapter.

Prudent, and he shall know them] He who endeavours to understand them, who lays his heart to them, such a person shall understand them.

For the ways of the LORD are right] This is the conclusion which the prophet makes from the whole. All God's conduct, both in the dispensation of justice and mercy, is right; all as it should be, all as it must be, because He is too wise to err, too good to be unmerciful.

The just shall walk in them] This is a truth which he will always acknowledge; and illustrate it by a righteous and godly life.

But the transgressors shall fall therein.] Howsoever good they might have been before, if they do not consider the necessity of depending upon God; of receiving all their light, life, power, and love, from Him; ever evidencing that faith which worketh by love; maintaining an obedient conduct, and having respect to all God's precepts; they shall fall, even in the way of righteousness. When still using the Divine ordinances, and associating with God's people, they shall perish from the way; and be like Ephraim who once spoke trembling, and was exalted in Israel, who was God's beloved son, and called out of Egypt; yet, by offending in Baal, giving way to the idols of his heart, fell from God, fell into the hands of his enemies, and became a wretched thrall in a Heathen land.

Whoso is wise, let him understand these things!
Whoso is prudent, let him know them!——

He who is well instructed will make a proper application of what he has here read:—will tremble at the threatenings, and embrace the promises, of his God.

The Targum is worthy the most serious attention.

The ways of the Lord are right, and the just who walk in them shall live for ever: but the ungodly, because they have not walked in them, shall be delivered into hell.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET HOSEA.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE BOOK OF

THE PROPHET JOEL.

JOEL, the son of Pethuel, the second of the Twelve Small Prophets, was, as is said, of the tribe of Reuben, and city of Bethoran; or rather Betharan, for Bethoran was on this side Jordan, in the tribe of Ephraim, and Betharan was on the other side of the river, in the tribe of Reuben. Joel prophesied in the kingdom of Judah; and it is the opinion of some critics, that he did not appear there till after the removal of the ten tribes and the destruction of the kingdom of Israel. We do not know distinctly the year wherein he began to prophesy, nor that in which he died. He speaks of a great famine, and an inundation of locusts which ravaged Judea: but as these are evils not uncommon in that country, and all sorts of events have not been registered in history, we can infer nothing from thence towards fixing the particular period of Joel's prophecy.

St. Jerom, followed by many others, both ancients and moderns, believed Joel to have been contemporary with Hosea, according to this rule laid down by him, that when there is no certain proof of the time wherein any prophet lived, we are to be directed in our conjectures by the time of the preceding prophet, whose epoch is better known. But this rule is not always certain; and should not hinder us from following another system, if we have good reason for doing so. The Hebrews maintain that Joel prophesied under Manasseh; and as collateral circumstances seem to preponderate in favour of this hypothesis, it has been accordingly followed in the Margin. Under the idea of an enemy's army, the prophet represents a cloud of locusts, which in his time fell upon Judah, and caused great desolation. This, together with the caterpillars, and the drought, brought a terrible famine upon the land. God, being moved with the calamities and prayers of His people, scattered the locusts, and the wind blew them into the sea. These misfortunes were succeeded by plenty and fertility. After this, the prophet foretold the day of the Lord, and the vengeance He was to exercise in the valley of Jezreel. He speaks of the Teacher of righteousness, whom God was to send; and of the Holy Spirit which was to descend upon all flesh. He says that Jerusalem will be inhabited for ever; that salvation will come out from thence; and that whosoever shall call upon the name of the Lord shall be saved. All this relates to the New Covenant, and the time of the Messiah. See Calmet.

Bishop Lowth observes that "the style of Joel differs much from that of Hosea; but, though of a different kind, is equally poetical. It is elegant, perspicuous, clear, diffusive, and flowing; and, at the same time, very sublime, nervous, and animated. He displays the whole power of poetic description in the first and second Chapters; and at the same time his fondness for metaphors, comparisons, and allegories: nor is the connexion of his subjects less remarkable than the graces of his diction. It is not to be denied that in some places he is very obscure; which every attentive Reader will perceive, especially in the end of this prophecy." Præl. xxi; and see Dodd. The two first Chapters are inimitably beautiful; and the language, in force, and often in sound, well adapted to the subject. See the Note on ver. 1.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET JOEL.

Chronological Notes relative to the commencement of Joel's prophesying, upon the supposition that this event took place about six hundred and ninety years before the commencement of the Christian æra.

Year from the Creation, according to Archbishop Ussher, 3314.—Year of the Julian Period, 4024.—Year since the Flood, 1658.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's temple, 322.—Year since the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 285.—Year since the extinction of the kingdom of Israel by Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, 31.—Third year of the Twenty-second Olympiad.—Year from the building of Rome, according to the Varronian computation, 64.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 690.—Cycle of the Sun, 20.—Cycle of the Moon, 15.—Third year of Eryxias, the last decennial archon of the Athenians.—First year of Anaxidamus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—Thirty-fifth year of Eurycrates I, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Eleventh year of Deioces, the first king of the Medes.—Fortieth year of Perdiccas I, king of Macedon.—Twenty-ninth year of Gyges, king of Lydia.—Ninth year of Manasseh, king of Judah.

CHAPTER I.

This and the beginning of the next Chapter contain a double prophecy, applicable in its primary sense to a plague of locusts which was to devour the land, and to be accompanied with a severe drought and famine; and in its secondary sense it denotes the Chaldean invasion. Both senses must be admitted; for some of the expressions will apply only to the dearth by insects, others to the desolation by war. The contexture of both is beautiful and well conducted. In this Chapter the distress of every order of people is strongly painted; and not only does the face of nature languish when the God of nature is displeased, 1—19; but the very beasts of the field, by a bold figure, are represented as supplicating God in their distress, and reproaching the stupidity of man, 20.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

THE word of the LORD that came to Joel the son of Pethuel.

2 Hear this, ye old men, and give ear, all ye inhabitants of the land. Hath this been in your days, or even in the days of your fathers?

3 Tell ye your children of it, and

[a] Ch. 2. 2.

[b] Psa. 78. 4.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. The word of the LORD that came to Joel] See the Introduction for some account of this prophet, whose history is very obscure. Bishop Newcome thinks that he prophesied while the kingdom of Judah subsisted, and refers to chap. ii, 1, 15, (see also chap. i, 14, and the Note there)

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

let your children tell their children, and their children another generation.

4 [a] That [b] which the palmerworm hath left hath the locust eaten; and that which the locust hath left hath the cankerworm eaten; and that which the cankerworm hath left hath the caterpillar eaten.

5 Awake, ye drunkards, and weep; and howl, all ye drinkers of wine, because of the new wine; [c] for it is cut off from your mouth.

6 For [d] a nation is come up upon my land, strong, and without number, [e] whose teeth are the teeth of a lion, and he hath the cheek-teeth of a great lion.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

7 He hath [f] laid my vine waste, and [g] barked my fig tree: he hath made it clean bare, and cast it away; the branches thereof are made white.

8 [h] Lament like a virgin girded with sackcloth for [i] the husband of her youth.

[a] Deut. 28. 38. ch. 2. 25.——[b] Heb. The residue of the palmerworm.——[c] Isa. 32. 10.——[d] So Prov. 30. 25, 26, 27. ch. 2. 2, 11, 25.

[e] Rev. 9. 8.——[f] Isa. 5. 6.——[g] Heb. laid my fig-tree for a barking.——[h] Isa. 22. 12.——[i] Prov. 2. 17. Jer. 3. 4.

but not long before its subversion; as his words, chap. iii, 1, seem to imply that its captivity was approaching. See 2 Kings xxi, 10—15. He therefore favours the conjecture of Drusius, that this prophet lived under Manasseh, and before his conversion, 2 Chron. xxxiii, 13; that is, some time from before Christ 697 to (suppose) 660.

Verse 2. Ye old men] Instead of זקנים ha-zekanim, old men, a few MSS. have הכהנים ha-cohanim, ye priests,—but improperly.

Hath this been in your days] He begins very abruptly; and, before he proposes his subject, excites attention and alarm by intimating that he is about to announce disastrous events, such as the oldest man among them has never seen, nor any of them learnt from the histories of ancient times.

Verse 3. Tell ye your children of it] To heighten the effect, he still conceals the subject; and informs them that it is such as should be handed down from father to son through all generations.

Verse 4. That which the palmerworm hath left] Here he begins to open his message; and the words he chooses shew that he is going to announce a devastation of the land by locusts, and a famine consequent on their depredations. What the different insects may be which he specifies is not easy to determine. I shall give the words of the original, with their etymology.

The palmerworm, גזם gazam, from the same root, to cut short: probably the caterpillar, or some such blight, from its cutting the leaves of the trees into pieces for its nourishment.

The locust, ארבה arabah, from רבה rabah, to multiply, from the immense increase and multitude of this insect.

Cankerworm, ילק yalek, from לק lak, to lick, or lap with the tongue: the reference uncertain.

Caterpillar, חסיל chasil, from חסל chasal, to consume, to eat up; the consumer. Bishop Newcome translates the first, the grasshopper; the second, locust; the third, devouring locust; and the fourth, consuming locust. After all that has been said by interpreters concerning these four animals, I am fully of opinion that the arabah, or locust himself, is the gazem, the yalek, and the chasil; and that these different names are used here by the prophet to point out the locust in its different states, or progress, from embryo to full growth. See the Note on chap. ii, 2.

Verse 5. Awake, ye drunkards] The general destruction of vegetation by these devouring creatures has totally prevented both harvest and vintage; so that there shall not be wine even for necessary uses, much less for the purposes of debauchery. It is well known that the ruin among the vines by locusts prevents the vintage for several years after.

Verse 6. A nation is come up upon my land] That real locusts are intended there can be little doubt: but it is thought that this may be a double prophecy, and that the destruction by the Chaldeans may also be intended; and that the four kinds of locust mentioned above may mean the four several attacks made on Judea by them. The first in the last year of Nabonassar, (father of Nebuchadnezzar,) which was the third of Jehoiakim; the second when Jehoiakim was taken prisoner, in the eleventh year of his reign; the third in the ninth year of Zedekiah; and the fourth, three years after, when Jerusalem was destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar. Others say that they mean four powers which have been enemies of the Jews:—1. The palmerworm,—the Assyrians and Chaldeans. 2 The locust,—the Persians and Medes. 3. The cankerworm,—the Greeks, and particularly Antiochus Epiphanes. 4. The caterpillar,—the Romans. Others make them four kings,—Tiglath-pileser, Shalmaneser, Sennacherib, and Nebuchadnezzar. But of such similitudes there is no end; and the best of them is arbitrary and precarious.

Verse 7. He hath laid my vine waste] The locusts have eaten off both leaves and bark. חשף חשפה chashoph chashophah, he hath made it clean bare; שדד שדה shudad sadeh, the field is laid waste, ver. 10; and כשד משדי keshod mishadai, a destruction from the Almighty, ver. 15; are all paranomasias in which this prophet seems to delight.

Verse 8. Lament like a virgin—for the husband of her youth.] Virgin is a very improper version here. The original is בתולה bethulah, which signifies a young woman, or bride; not a virgin, the proper Hebrew for which is עלמה alamah. See the Notes on Isa. vii, 14, and Matt. i, 23.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

9 [a] The meat offering and the drink offering is cut off from the house of the LORD; the priests, the LORD'S ministers, mourn.

10 The field is wasted, [b] the land mourneth; for the corn is wasted: [c] the new wine is [d] dried up, the oil languisheth.

11 [e] Be ye ashamed, O ye husbandmen; howl, O ye vine-dressers, for the wheat and for the barley; because the harvest of the field is perished.

12 [f] The vine is dried up, and the fig-tree languisheth; the pomegranate-tree, the palm-tree also, and the apple-tree, even all the trees of the field, are withered: because [g] joy is withered away from the sons of men.

13 [h] Gird yourselves, and lament, ye priests: howl, ye ministers of the altar; come, lie all night in sackcloth, ye ministers of my God: for [i] the meat offering and the drink offering is withholden from the house of your God.

14 [k] Sanctify ye a fast, call [l] a [m] solemn assembly, gather the elders and [n] all the inhabitants of the land into the house of the LORD your God, and cry unto the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

15 [o] Alas for the day! for [p] the day of the LORD is at hand, and as a destruction from the Almighty shall it come.

16 Is not the meat cut off before our eyes, yea, [q] joy and gladness from the house of our God?

17 The [r] seed is rotten under their clods, the garners are laid desolate, the barns are broken down; for the corn is withered.

18 How do [s] the beasts groan! the herds of cattle are perplexed, because they have no pasture; yea, the flocks of sheep are made desolate.

19 O LORD, [t] to thee will I cry: for [u] the fire hath devoured the [x] pastures of the wilderness, and the flame hath burned all the trees of the field.

20 The beasts of the field [y] cry also unto thee: for [z] the rivers of waters are dried up, and the fire hath devoured the pastures of the wilderness.

---

[a] Ver. 13. Ch. 2. 14.——[b] Jer. 12. 11. & 14. 2.——[c] Isa. 24. 7. ver. 12.——[d] Or, ashamed.——[e] Jer. 14. 3, 4.——[f] Ver. 10.——[g] Isa. 24. 11. Jer. 48. 33. See Psa. 4. 7. Isa. 9. 3.——[h] Ver. 8. Jer. 4. 8.——[i] Ver. 9.——[k] 2 Chron. 20. 3. 4. ch. 2. 15, 16.——[l] Lev. 23. 36.——[m] Or, day of restraint.——[n] 2 Chron. 20. 13.——[o] Jer. 30. 7.——[p] Isa. 13. 6, 9. ch. 2. 1.——[q] See Deut. 12. 6, 7. & 16. 11, 14, 15.——[r] Heb. grains.——[s] Hos. 4. 3.——[t] Psa. 50. 15.——[u] Jer. 9. 10. ch. 2. 3.——[x] Or, habitations.——[y] Job 38. 41. Psa. 104. 21. & 145. 15.——[z] 1 Kings 17. 7. & 18. 5.

Verse 9. The meat offering and the drink offering is cut off] The crops and the vines being destroyed by the locusts, the total devastation in plants, trees, corn, &c, is referred to and described with a striking variety of expression in this and the following verses.

Verse 12. The vine is dried up] Dr. Shaw observes, that in Barbary, in the month of June, the locusts collect themselves into compact bodies, a furlong or more square; and march on, eating up every thing that is green or juicy; and letting nothing escape them, whether vegetables or trees.

They destroy the pomegranate, the palm, the apple, (תפוח tappuach, the citron tree,) the vine, the fig, and every tree of the field. See the Note on chap. ii, 2.

Verse 14. Call a solemn assembly] עצרה âtsarah signifies a time of restraint, as the Margin has it. The clause should be translated,—consecrate a fast, proclaim a time of restraint; that is, of total abstinence from food, and from all secular employment. All the elders of the land and the representatives of the people were to be collected at the Temple, to cry unto the Lord, to confess their sins, and pray for mercy. The Temple was not yet destroyed. This prophecy was delivered before the captivity of Judah.

Verse 15. Alas for the day!] The Syriac repeats this;—the Vulgate, Septuagint, and Arabic, thrice,—"Alas, alas, alas, for the day!"

As a destruction from the Almighty] The destruction that is now coming is no ordinary calamity; it is as a signal judgment immediately inflicted by the Almighty.

Verse 17. The seed is rotten under their clods] When the sprout was cut off as low as possible by the locusts, there was no further germination. The seed rotted away.

Verse 18. How do the beasts groan!] I really think that the neighing of horses, or braying of asses, is wonderfully expressed by the sound of the original: מה נאנחה בהמה mah NEENACHAH behemah, how do the horses neigh,—how do the asses bray! בהמה behemah is a collective name for all domestic cattle, and those used in husbandry.

Cattle are perplexed] They are looking every where, and wandering about to find some grass, and know not which way to run.

Verse 19. O LORD, to thee will I cry] Let this calamity come as it may, we have sinned, and should humble ourselves before God; and it is such a calamity as God alone can remove, therefore, unto Him must we cry.

The fire hath devoured the pastures] This may either refer to a drought, or to the effects of the locusts; as the ground, after they have passed over it, every where appears as if a sheet of flame had not only scorched, but consumed every thing.

Verse 20. The beasts of the field cry also unto thee] Even the cattle, wild and tame, are represented as supplicating God to have mercy upon them, and send them provender! There is a similar affecting description of the effects of a drought in Jeremiah, chap. xiv, 6.

The rivers of waters are dried up] There must have been a drought as well as a host of locusts; as some of these expressions seem to apply to the effects of intense heat.

For המדבר ha-midbar, the wilderness, one of my oldest MSS. reads מדבר midbar, wilderness simply, as in ver. 19. Eight or ten of Dr. Kennicott's have the same reading.

CHAPTER II.

The Prophet sounds the alarm of a dreadful calamity, the description of which is most terribly worked up, 1—11. Exhortation to repentance, fasting, and prayer, that the Divine judgments may be averted, 12—17. God will in due time take vengeance on all the enemies of pure and undefiled religion, 18—20. Great prosperity of the Jews subsequent to their return from the Babylonish captivity, 21—27. Joel then makes an elegant transition to the outpouring of the Holy Ghost on the day of Pentecost, 28—30; for so these verses are explained by one of the twelve apostles of the Lamb. See Acts ii, 16—21. Prophecy concerning the destruction of Jerusalem, which was shortly to follow the opening of the Gospel dispensation, 31. Promises of safety to the faithful and penitent; promises afterwards remarkably fulfilled to the Christians in their escape to Pella from the desolating sword of the Roman army, 32.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

BLOW [a] ye the [b] trumpet in Zion, and [c] sound an alarm in my holy mountain: let all the inhabitants of the land tremble: for [d] the day of the LORD cometh, for it is nigh at hand;

2 [e] A day of darkness and of gloominess, a day of clouds and of

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

[a] Jer. 4. 5. ver. 15.——[b] Or, cornet.——[c] Numb. 10. 5, 9.

[d] Ch. 1. 15. Obad. 15. Zeph. 1. 14, 15.——[e] Amos 5. 18, 20.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. Blow ye the trumpet in Zion] This verse also shews that the Temple was still standing. All assemblies of the people were collected by the sound of the trumpet.

The day of the LORD cometh] This phrase generally means a day of judgment or punishment.

Verse 2. A day of darkness, &c.] The depredations of the locusts are described from the second to the eleventh verse, and their destruction in the twentieth. Dr. Shaw, who saw locusts in Barbary in 1724 and 1725, thus describes them:—

"I never observed the mantes, bald locusts, to be gregarious. But the locusts properly so called which are so frequently mentioned by sacred as well as profane writers, are sometimes so beyond expression. Those which I saw in 1724 and 1725 were much bigger than our common grasshoppers; and had brown spotted wings, with legs and bodies of a bright yellow. Their first appearance was toward the latter end of March, the wind having been for some time south. In the middle of April their numbers were so vastly increased that, in the heat of the day, they formed themselves into large and numerous swarms; flew in the air like a succession of clouds; and, as the prophet Joel expresses it, (ii, 10,) they darkened the sun. When the wind blew briskly, so that these swarms were crowded by others, or thrown one upon another, we had a lively idea of that comparison of the Psalmist, (Psa. cix, 23,) of being tossed up and down as the locust. In the month of May, when the ovaries of those insects were ripe and turgid, each of these swarms began gradually to disappear; and retired into the Mettijiah, and other adjacent plains, where they deposited their eggs. These were no sooner hatched in June, than each of these broods collected itself into a compact body of a furlong or more in square; and marching directly afterwards, forwards directly towards the sea, they let nothing escape them; eating up every thing that was green and juicy, not only the lesser kinds of vegetables, but the vine likewise; the fig tree, the pomegranate, the palm, and the apple tree; even all the trees of the field, Joel i, 12; in doing which they kept their ranks like men of war; climbing over, as they advanced, every tree or wall that was in their way. Nay, they entered into our very houses and bedchambers, like so many thieves. The inhabitants, to stop their progress, made a variety of pits and trenches all over their fields and gardens, which they filled with water; or else they heaped up in them heath, stubble, and such like combustible matter, which were severally set on fire upon the approach of the locusts. But this was all to no purpose; for the trenches were quickly filled up, and the fires extinguished, by infinite swarms succeeding one another; while the front was regardless of danger, and the rear pressed on so close, that a retreat was altogether impossible. A day or two after thick darkness, as the morning spread upon the mountains: [a] a great people and a strong; [b] there hath not been ever the like, neither shall be any more after it, even to the years [c] of many generations.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

3 [d] A fire devoureth before them; and behind them a flame burneth: the land is as [e] the garden of Eden before them, [f] and behind them a desolate wilderness; yea, and nothing shall escape them.

4 [g] The appearance of them is as the appearance of horses; and as horsemen, so shall they run.

5 [h] Like the noise of chariots on the tops of mountains shall they leap, like the noise of a flame of fire that devoureth the stubble, [i] as a strong people set in battle array.

6 Before their face the people shall be much pained: [k] all faces shall gather [l] blackness.

7 They shall run like mighty men; they shall climb the wall like men of war; and they shall

[a] Ver. 5, 11, 25. ch. 1. 6.——[b] Exod. 10. 14.——[c] Heb. of generation and generation.——[d] Ch. 1. 19, 20.——[e] Gen. 2. 8. & 13. 10. Isa. 51. 3.

[f] Zech. 7. 14.——[g] Rev. 9. 7.——[h] Rev. 9. 9.——[i] Ver. 2.——[k] Jer. 8. 21. Lam. 4. 8. Nah. 2. 10.——[l] Heb. pot.

one of these broods was in motion, others were already hatched to march and glean after them; gnawing off the very bark, and the young branches, of such trees as had before escaped with the loss only of their fruit and foliage. So justly have they been compared by the prophet Joel (chap. ii, 3,) to a great army; who farther observes, that the land is as the garden of Eden before them, and behind them a desolate wilderness.

"Having lived near a month in this manner, (like a μυριοξομον ξιφος, or sword with ten thousand edges, to which they have been compared,) upon the ruin and destruction of every vegetable substance which came in their way, they arrived at their full growth, and threw off their nympha state by casting their outward skin. To prepare themselves for this change, they clung by their hinder feet to some bush, twig, or corner of a stone; and immediately, by using an undulating motion, their heads would first break out, and then the rest of their bodies. The whole transformation was performed in seven or eight minutes, after which they lay for a short time in a torpid and seemingly languishing condition: but as soon as the sun and the air had hardened their wings, by drying up the moisture which remained upon them, after casting their sloughs, they reassumed their former voracity, with an addition both of strength and agility. Yet they did not continue long in this state, before they were entirely dispersed, as their parents were before, after they had laid their eggs; and as the direction of the marches and flights of them both was always to the northward, and not having strength, as they have sometimes had, to reach the opposite shores of Italy, France, or Spain, it is probable they perished in the sea; a grave which, according to these people, they have in common with other winged creatures."—Travels, 4to edition, pp. 187, 8.

A day of darkness] They sometimes obscure the sun. And Thuanus observes of an immense crowd, that they darkened the sun at mid day.

As the morning spread upon the mountains] They appeared suddenly; as the sun, in rising behind the mountains, shoots his rays over them. Adanson, in his voyage to Senegal, says,—"Suddenly there came over our heads a thick cloud, which darkened the air, and deprived us of the rays of the sun. We soon found that it was owing to a cloud of locusts." Some clouds of them are said to have darkened the sun for a mile; and others for the space of twelve miles! See on ver. 10.

Verse 3. A fire devoureth before them] They consume like a general conflagration. "They destroy the ground, not only for the time, but burn trees for two years after." Sir Hans Sloane, Nat. Hist. of Jamaica, Vol. I, p. 29.

Behind them a flame burneth] "Wherever they feed," says Ludolf, (in his History of Æthiopia) "their leavings seem as if parched with fire."

Nothing shall escape them.] "After devouring the herbage," says Adanson, "with the fruits and leaves of trees, they attacked even the buds and the very bark; they did not so much as spare the reeds with which the huts were thatched."

Verse 4. The appearance of horses] The head of the locust is remarkably like that of the horse; and so Ray on Insects describes them,—Caput oblongum, equi instar, prona spectans,—"They have an oblong head, like to that of a horse, bending downward." On this account, the Italians call them cavaletta, cavalry. Bochart remarks, from an Arabic writer, that the locusts resemble ten different kinds of animals:—1. The HORSE in its head. 2. The ELEPHANT in its eyes. 3. The BULL in its neck. 4. The STAG in its horns. 5. The LION in its breast. 6. The SCORPION in its belly. 7. The EAGLE in its wings. 8. The CAMEL in its thighs. 9. The OSTRICH in its feet. And, 10. The SERPENT in its tail. Vid. Hieroz. Vol. II, p. 475, edit. 1692. But its most prominent resemblance is to the horse, which the prophet mentions; and the Arabic writer puts in the first place, as being the chief.

Verse 5. Like the noise of chariots] Bochart also remarks:—"The locusts fly with a great noise, so as to be heard six miles off; and, while they are eating the fruits of the earth, the sound of them is like that of a flame driven by the wind."—Ibid. p. 478.

Verse 6. All faces shall gather blackness.] Universal mourning shall take place, because they know that such a plague is irresistible.

Verse 7. Like mighty men—like men of war (and as

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

march every one on his ways, and they shall not break their ranks:

8 Neither shall one thrust another; they shall walk every one in his path: and when they fall upon the [a] sword, they shall not be wounded.

9 They shall run to and fro in the city; they shall run upon the wall, they shall climb up upon the houses; they shall [b] enter in at the windows [c] like a thief.

10 [d] The earth shall quake before them; the heavens shall tremble: [e] the sun and the moon shall be dark, and the stars shall withdraw their shining:

11 [f] And the LORD shall utter his voice before [g] his army: for his camp is very great: [h] for he is strong that executeth his word: for the [i] day of the LORD is great and very terrible; and [k] who can abide it?

12 Therefore also now, saith the LORD, [l] turn ye even to me with all your heart, and with fasting, and with weeping, and with mourning:

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

13 And [m] rend your heart, and not [n] your garments, and turn unto the LORD your God: for he is [o] gracious and merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repenteth him of the evil.

14 [p] Who knoweth if he will return and repent, and leave [q] a blessing behind him; even [r] a meat offering and a drink offering unto the LORD your God?

15 [s] Blow the trumpet in Zion, [t] sanctify a fast, call a solemn assembly:

16 Gather the people, [u] sanctify the congregation, [x] assemble the elders, [y] gather the children, and those that suck the breasts: [z] let the bridegroom go forth of his chamber, and the bride out of her closet.

17 Let the priests, the ministers of the LORD,

---

[a] Or, dart.——[b] Jer. 9. 21.——[c] John 10. 1.——[d] Psa. 18. 7.——[e] Isa. 13. 10. Ezek. 32. 7. ver. 31. ch. 3. 15. Matt. 24. 29.——[f] Jer. 25. 30. ch. 3. 16. Amos 1. 2.——[g] Ver. 25.——[h] Jer. 50. 34. Rev. 18. 8.——[i] Jer. 30. 7. Amos 5. 18. Zeph. 1. 15.——[k] Numb. 24. 23. Mal. 3. 2.——[l] Jer. 4. 1. Hos. 12. 6. & 14. 1.——[m] Psa. 34. 18. & 51. 17.

[n] Gen. 37. 34. 2 Sam. 1. 11. Job 1. 20.——[o] Exod. 34. 6. Psa. 86. 5, 15. Jonah 4. 2.——[p] Josh. 14. 12. 2 Sam. 12. 22. 2 Kings 19. 4. Amos 5. 15. Jonah 3. 9. Zeph. 2. 3.——[q] Isa. 65. 8. Hag. 2. 19.——[r] Ch. 1. 9, 13.——[s] Numb. 10. 3. ver. 1.——[t] Ch. 1. 14.——[u] Exod. 19. 10, 22.——[x] Ch. 1. 14.——[y] 2 Chron. 20. 13.——[z] 1 Cor. 7. 5.

---

horsemen, ver. 4.)] The Prophet does not say they are such, but they resemble. They are locusts: but, in their operations, are LIKE the above.

They shall not break their ranks] See the account on ver. 2, from Dr. Shaw.

Verse 8. They shall not be wounded.] They have hard scales like a coat of mail: but the expression refers to the utter uselessness of all means to prevent their depredations. See Shaw's account above.

Verse 10. The earth shall quake—the heavens shall tremble] Poetical expressions, to point out universal consternation and distress. The earth quaked to see itself deprived of its verdure; the heavens trembled to find themselves deprived of their light.

The sun and the moon shall be dark] Bochart relates, that "their multitude is sometimes so immense, as to obscure the heavens for the space of twelve miles!"—Ibid. p. 479.

Verse 11. The LORD shall utter his voice] Such a mighty force seems as if summoned by the Almighty; and the noise they make in coming announces their approach, while yet afar off.

Verse 12. Turn ye even to me] Three means of turning are recommended:—Fasting, weeping, mourning; i. e. continued sorrow.

Verse 13. Rend your heart] Let it not be merely a rending of your garments, but let your hearts be truly contrite. Merely external worship and hypocritical pretensions will only increase the evil, and cause God to meet you with heavier judgments.

For he is gracious] Good and benevolent in his own nature.

Merciful] Pitying and forgiving, as the effect of this goodness and benevolence.

Slow to anger] Is not easily provoked to punish, because He is gracious and merciful.

Of great kindness] Exuberant goodness to all them that return to Him.

And repenteth him of the evil.] Is ever ready to change His purpose to destroy, when He finds the culprit willing to be saved. See the Notes on Exod. xxxiv, 6, 7.

Verse 14. Who knoweth if he will return] He may yet interpose and turn aside the calamity threatened; and so far preserve the land from these ravagers, that there will be food for men and cattle, and a sufficiency of offerings for the Temple service. Therefore,— Verse 15. Blow the trumpet] Let no time be lost, let the alarm be sounded.

Verse 16. Gather the children] Let all share in the humiliation; for all must feel the judgment, should it come. Let no state nor condition among the people be exempted. The elders, the young persons, the infants, the bridegroom, and the bride; let all leave their houses, and go to the Temple of God.

Verse 17. Let the priests—weep between the porch and the altar] The altar of burnt-offerings stood before the porch of the Temple, 2 Chron. viii, 12; and between them there was an open space of fifteen or twenty cubits. It was there that the priests prostrated themselves on such occa-

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

weep [a] between the porch and the altar, and let them say, [b] Spare thy people, O LORD, and give not thine heritage to reproach, that the heathen should [c] rule over them: [d] wherefore should they say among the people, Where is their God?

18 Then will the LORD [e] be jealous for his land, [f] and pity his people.

19 Yea, the LORD will answer and say unto his people, Behold, I will send you [g] corn, and wine, and oil, and ye shall be satisfied therewith: and I will no more make you a reproach among the heathen:

20 But [h] I will remove far off from you [i] the northern army, and will drive him into a land barren and desolate, with his face [k] toward the east sea, and his hinder part [l] toward the utmost sea, and his stink shall come up, and his ill savour shall come up, because [m] he hath done great things.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

21 Fear not, O land; be glad and rejoice: for the LORD will do great things.

22 Be not afraid, [n] ye beasts of the field: for [o] the pastures of the wilderness do spring, for the tree beareth her fruit, the fig tree and the vine do yield their strength.

23 Be glad then, ye children of Zion, and [p] rejoice in the LORD your God: for he hath given you [q] the former rain [r] moderately, and he [s] will cause to come down for you [t] the rain, the former rain, and the latter rain in the first month.

24 And the floors shall be full of wheat, and the fats shall overflow with wine and oil.

25 And I will restore to you the years [u] that the locust hath eaten, the cankerworm, and the [a] Ezek. 8. 16. Matt. 23. 35.——[b] Exod. 32. 11, 12. Deut. 9. 26—29.——[c] Or, use a by word against them.——[d] Psa. 42. 10. & 79. 10. & 115. 2. Mic. 7. 10.——[e] Zech. 1. 14. & 8. 2.——[f] Deut. 32. 36. Isa. 60. 10.——[g] See ch. 1. 10. Mal. 3. 10, 11, 12.——[h] See Exod. 10. 19.——[i] Jer. 1. 14.——[k] Ezek. 47. 18. Zech. 14. 8.

[l] Deut. 11. 24.——[m] Heb. he hath magnified to do.——[n] Ch. 1. 18, 20.——[o] Zech. 8. 12. See ch. 1. 19.——[p] Psa. 41. 16. & 61. 10. Hab. 3. 18. Zech. 10. 7.——[q] Or, a teacher of righteousness.——[r] Heb. according to righteousness.——[s] Lev. 26. 4. Deut. 11. 14. & 28. 12.——[t] Jam. 5. 7.——[u] Ch. 1. 4.

sions. It was into this place that the priests brought the sacrifice, or victim of atonement; and where the highpriest laid his hands on the head of the victim confessing his sins.

Let them say] The following was the form to be used on this occasion,—Spare thy people, &c. And if this be done with a rent heart, &c, then will the LORD be jealous for his land, and pity his people, ver. 18. He will surely save, if ye seriously return to, and penitentially seek Him.

Verse 19. Yea, the LORD will answer] It is not a peradventure; it will surely be done: if ye seek God as commanded, ye will find Him as promised.

I will send you corn, and wine] He will either prevent the total ravaging of the land; or, so bless it with extraordinary vegetable strength, that ye shall have plentiful crops.

Verse 20. I will remove far off from you the northern army] "That is, the locusts; which might enter Judea by the north, as Circassia and Mingrelia abound with them. Or the locusts may be thus called, because they spread terror like the Assyrian armies, which entered Judea by the north. See Zeph. ii, 13."—Newcome. Syria, which was northward of Judea, was infested with them: and it must have been a northern wind that brought them into Judea in the time of Joel; as God promises to change this wind, and carry them into a barren and desolate land, Arabia Deserta. And his face towards the east sea, i. e. the Dead sea, which lay eastward of Jerusalem. His hinder part toward the utmost sea, the western sea; that is, the Mediterranean.

And his stink shall come up] After having been drowned by millions in the Mediterranean, the reflux of the tide has often brought them back, and thrown them in heaps upon the shore; where they putrified in such a manner as to infect the air, and produce pestilence, by which both men and cattle have died in great multitudes. See Bochart. Hieroz. Vol. II, p. 481.

Livy, and St. Augustin after him, relate that there was such an immense crowd of locusts in Africa, that, having eaten up every green thing, a wind arose that carried them into the sea, where they perished: but being cast upon the shore, they putrified, and bred such a pestilence, that eighty thousand men died of it in the kingdom of Massinissa, and thirty thousand in the garrison of Utica, in which only ten remained alive. See Calmet and Livy, lib. xc, and August. De Civitate Dei, lib. iv, c. 31. We have many testimonies of a similar kind.

Because he hath done great things.] Or, כי ki, although he have done great things; or, after he has done them, i. e. in almost destroying the whole country.

Verse 21. Fear not—for the LORD will do great things.] The words are repeated from the preceding verse; Jehovah will do great things in driving them away, and supernaturally restoring the land to fertility.

Verse 23. The former rain moderately] המותה לצדקה ha-moteh le-tsedekah, "in righteousness," that is, in due time, and in just proportion. This rain fell after autumn, the other in spring. See Hosea vi, 3.

In the first month.] בראשון ba-rishon, "as aforetime." So Bp. Newcome. In the month Nisan.—Syriac.

Verse 25. I will restore—the years] It has already been remarked that the locusts not only destroyed the produce of caterpillar, and the palmerworm, [a] my great army which I sent among you.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

26 And ye shall [b] eat in plenty, and be satisfied, and praise the name of the LORD your God, that hath dealt wondrously with you: and my people shall never be ashamed.

27 [c] And ye shall know that I am [d] in the midst of Israel, and that [e] I am the LORD your God, and none else: and my people shall never be ashamed.

28 [f] And it shall come to pass afterward, that I [g] will pour out my Spirit upon all flesh; [h] and your sons and [i] your daughters shall prophesy, your old men shall dream dreams, your young men shall see visions:

29 And also upon [k] the servants and upon the handmaids in those days will I pour out my Spirit.

30 And [l] I will shew wonders in the heavens

[a] Ver. 11.——[b] Lev. 26. 5. Psa. 22. 26. See Lev. 26. 26. Mic. 6. 14.——[c] Ch. 3. 17.——[d] Lev. 26. 11, 12. Ezek. 37. 26, 27, 28.——[e] Isa. 45. 5, 21, 22. Ezek. 39. 22, 28.

[f] Isa. 44. 3. Ezek. 39. 29. Acts 2. 17.——[g] Zech. 12. 10. John 7. 39.——[h] Isa. 54. 13.——[i] Acts 21. 9.——[k] 1 Cor. 12. 13. Gal. 3. 28. Col. 3. 11.——[l] Matt. 24. 29. Mark 13. 24. Luke 21. 11, 25.

that year, but so completely eat up all buds, and barked the trees, that they did not recover for some years. Here God promises that He would either prevent or remedy, that evil; for He would restore the years that the locust, cankerworm, caterpillar, and palmerworm, had eaten.

Verse 26. Praise the name of the LORD your God, that hath dealt wondrously with you] In so destroying this formidable enemy; and so miraculously restoring the land to fertility, after so great a devastation.

Verse 28. Shall come to pass afterward] אחרי כן achari ken, "after this;" the same, says Kimchi, as in the latter days, which always refers to the days of the Messiah; and thus this prophecy is to be interpreted: and we have the testimony of St. Peter, Acts ii, 17, that this prophecy relates to that mighty effusion of the Holy Spirit which took place after the day of Pentecost. Nor is there any evidence that such an effusion took place, nor such effects were produced, from the days of this prophet till the day of Pentecost. And the Spirit was poured out then upon all flesh, that is, on people of different countries, speaking the languages of almost all the people of the earth which intimated that these were the firstfruits of the conversion of all the nations of the world. For there was scarcely a tongue in the universe that was not to be found among the Parthians, Medes, Elamites, Mesopotamians, Jews, Cappadocians, people of Pontus, of Asia, Phrygia, Pamphylia, Egypt, Libya, Cyrene, Rome, Crete, and Arabia, who were residents at Jerusalem at that time; and on whom this mighty gift was poured out, each hearing and apprehending the truths of the Gospel, in his own language wherein he was born. Thus we have Divine authority for saying, that was the fulfilment of this prophecy by Joel. And the mighty and rapid spread of the Gospel of Christ in the present day, by means of the translations of the Scriptures into almost all the regular languages of the world, and the sending missionaries to all nations, who preach the Gospel in those tongues, are farther proofs that the great promise is in the fullest progress to be speedily fulfilled, even in the utmost sense of the words.

Your sons and your daughters shall prophesy] Shall preach, exhort, pray, and instruct, so as to benefit the church.

Your old men shall dream dreams] Have my will represented to them in this way, as the others by direct inspiration.

Your young men shall see visions] Have true representations of Divine things made upon their imaginations by the power of God; that they shall have as full an evidence of them as they could have of any thing that came to the mind through the medium of the senses.

Verse 29. And also upon the servants and upon the handmaids] The gifts of teaching and instructing men shall not be restricted to any one class or order of people. He shall call and qualify the men of His own choice; and shall take such out of all ranks, orders, degrees, and offices, in society. And He will pour out His Spirit upon them; and they shall be endowed with all the gifts and graces necessary to convert sinners, and build up the church of Christ on its most holy faith.

And this God has done, and is still doing. He left the line of Aaron, and took His apostles indiscriminately from any tribe. He passed by the regular order of the priesthood, and the public schools of the most celebrated doctors; and took His evangelists from among fishermen, tentmakers, and even the Roman tax-gatherers. And He, lastly, passed by the Jewish tribes: and took the Gentile converts, and made them preachers of righteousness to the inhabitants of the whole earth. The same practice He continues to the present day; yet He did not then pass by a man brought up at the feet of Gamaliel, no more than He would now a man brought up in a celebrated seminary of learning. He is ever free to use His own gifts, in His own way; and when learning is sanctified, by being devoted to the service of God, and the possessor is humble and pious, and has those natural gifts necessary for a public teacher, perhaps we might safely say, God would in many cases prefer such: but He will have others, as intimated in the prophecy, that we may see the conversion of men is not by human might, nor power, but by the Spirit of the Lord of hosts. The learned man can do nothing without His Spirit; the unlearned must have His gifts and graces, without which both their labours would be unprofitable; and thus the excellency of the power is of God, and no flesh can glory in his presence.

Verse 30. Wonders in the heavens and in the earth] This refers to those fearful sights, dreadful portents, and destrucand in the earth, blood, and fire, and pillars of smoke.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

31 [a] The sun shall be turned into darkness, and the moon into blood, [b] before the great and the terrible day of the LORD come.

32 And it shall come to pass, that [c] whosoever shall call on the name of the LORD shall be delivered: for [d] in mount Zion and in Jerusalem shall be deliverance, as the LORD hath said, and in [e] the remnant whom the LORD shall call.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

[a] Ver. 10. Isa. 13. 9, 10. ch. 3. 1, 15. Matt. 24. 29. Mark 13. 24. Luke 21. 25. Rev. 6. 12. —— [b] Mal. 4. 5. —— [c] Rom. 10. 13.

[d] Isa. 46. 13. & 59. 20. Obad. 17. Rom. 11. 26. —— [e] Isa. 11. 11, 16. Jer. 31. 7. Mic. 4. 7. & 5. 3, 7, 8. Rom. 9. 27. & 11. 5. 7.

tive commotion, by which the Jewish polity was finally overthrown, and the Christian religion established in the Roman empire. See how our Lord applies this prophecy, Matt. xxiv, 29, and the parallel Texts.

Verse 31. The sun shall be turned into darkness] The Jewish polity, civil and ecclesiastical, shall be entirely destroyed.

Before the great and the terrible day of the LORD come.] In the taking and sacking of Jerusalem, and burning of the Temple, by the Romans under Titus, the son of Vespasian. This was, perhaps, the greatest and most terrible days of God's vengeance ever shewn to the world; or that ever will be shewn, till the great day of the general judgment. For a full view of this subject I wish to refer the Reader to the Notes on Matt. xxiv.

Verse 32. Whosoever shall call on the name of the LORD] כל אשר יקרא בשם יהוה col asher yikra be-shem yehovah, "All who shall invoke in the name of Jehovah." That CHRIST is the Jehovah here mentioned appears plain from Rom. x, 15, where the Reader had better consult the Notes. "This refers," says Bp. Newcome, "to the safety of the Christians during the Jewish and the Roman war." It may: but it has a much more extensive meaning, as the use of it by St. Paul, as above, evidently shews. Every man who invokes Jehovah for mercy and salvation by or in the name—JESUS—that very name given under heaven among men for this purpose,—shall be saved. Nor is there salvation in any other; and those who reject Him had better to lay these things to heart before it be too late.

For in mount Zion and in Jerusalem] Our blessed Lord first began to preach the gospel in mount Zion, in the Temple, and throughout Jerusalem. There He formed His church; and thence He sent His apostles and evangelists to every part of the globe:—Go ye into all the world, and preach the gospel to every creature. Of the Jews there was but a remnant, a very small number, that received the doctrine of the gospel, here termed the remnant that the Lord should call; קרא kore, whom He calleth. Many were called who would not obey: but those who obeyed the call were saved: and still He delivers those who call upon him.

CHAPTER III.

The prophecy in this Chapter is thought by some to relate to the latter times of the world, when God shall finally deliver His people from all their adversaries; and, it must be confessed, the figures employed are so lofty as to render it impossible to restrain the whole of their import to any events prior to the commencement of the Christian æra. The whole prophecy is delivered in a very beautiful strain of poetry: but what particular events are referred to is at present very uncertain, 1—21.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

FOR, behold, [a] in those days, and in that time, when I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem,

2 [b] I will also gather all nations, and will bring them down into [c] the valley of Jehoshaphat, and [d] will plead with them there for my people

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

[a] Jer. 30. 3. Ezek. 38. 14. —— [b] Zech. 14. 2, 3, 4.

[c] 2 Chron. 20. 26. ver. 12. —— [d] Isa. 66. 16. Ezek. 38. 22.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. For, behold, in those days] According to the preceding prophecy, these days should refer to gospel times, or to such as should immediately precede them. But this is a part of the prophecy which is difficult to be understood. All interpreters are at variance upon it;—some applying its principal parts to Cambyses; his unfortunate expedition to Egypt; the destruction of fifty thousand of his troops (by the

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

and for my heritage Israel, whom they have scattered among the nations, and parted my land.

3 And they have [a] cast lots for my people; and have given a boy for a harlot, and sold a girl for wine, that they might drink.

4 Yea, and what have ye to do with me, [b] O Tyre, and Zidon, and all the coasts of Palestine? [c] will ye render me a recompence? and if ye recompense me, swiftly and speedily will I return your recompence upon your own head;

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

5 Because ye have taken my silver and my gold, and have carried into your temples my goodly [d] pleasant things:

6 The children also of Judah and the children of Jerusalem have ye sold unto [e] the Grecians, that ye might remove them far from their border.

7 Behold, [f] I will raise them out of the place whither ye have sold them, and will return your moving pillars of sand) whom he had sent across the desert to plunder the rich temple of Jupiter Ammon; his return to Judea, and dying of a wound which he received from his own sword, in mounting his horse, which happened at Ecbatana, at the foot of mount Carmel. On which his army, composed of different nations, seeing themselves without a head, fell out, and fought against each other, till the whole were destroyed. And this is supposed to be what Ezekiel means by Gog and Magog, and the destruction of the former. See Ezek xxxviii, and xxxix.

[a] Obad. 11. Nah. 3. 10.——[b] Amos 1. 6, 9.——[c] Ezek. 25. 15, 16, 17.——[d] Heb. desirable: Dan. 11. 38.

[e] Heb. the sons of the Grecians.——[f] Isa. 43. 5, 6. & 49. 12. Jer. 23. 8.

Others apply this to the victories gained by the Maccabees, and the destruction brought upon the enemies of their country; while several consider the whole as a figurative prediction of the success of the gospel among the nations of the earth. It may refer to those times in which the Jews shall be brought in with the fulness of the Gentiles, and be re-established in their own land. Or, there may be portions in this prophecy that refer to all the events; and to others that have not fallen yet into the range of human conjecture; and will be only known when the time of fulfilment shall take place. In this painful uncertainty, rendered still more so by the discordant opinions of many wise and learned men, it appears to be my province, as I have nothing in the form of a new conjecture to offer, to confine myself to an explanation of the phraseology of the Chapter; and leave the Reader to apply it as may seem best to his own judgment.

I shall bring again the captivity of Judah and Jerusalem.] This may refer to the return from the Babylonish captivity; extending also to the restoration of Israel, or the ten tribes.

Verse 2. The valley of Jehoshaphat] There is no such valley in the land of Judea; and hence the word must be symbolical. It signifies the judgment of God, or Jehovah judgeth; and may mean some place (as Bp. Newcome imagines,) where Nebuchadnezzar should gain a great battle, which would utterly discomfit the ancient enemies of the Jews; and resemble the victory which Jehoshaphat gained over the Ammonites, Moabites, and Edomites, 2 Chron. xx, 22—26.

And parted my land.] The above nations had frequently entered into the territories of Israel; and divided among themselves the lands they had thus overrun.

While the Jews were in captivity, much of the land of Israel was seized on, and occupied by the Philistines, and other nations, that bordered on Judea.

Verse 3. Have given a boy for a harlot] To such wretched circumstances were the poor Jews reduced in their captivity, that their children were sold by their oppressors; and both males and females used for the basest purposes. And they were often bartered for the necessaries or luxuries of life. Or, this may refer to the issue of the Chaldean war in Judea, where the captives were divided among the victors. And, being set in companies, they cast lots for them:—and those to whom they fell sold them for various purposes; the boys to be slaves and catamites, the girls to be prostitutes; and in return they got for them wine, and such things. I think this is the meaning of the Text.

Verse 4. What have ye to do with me] Why have the Tyrians and Sidonians joined their other enemies to oppress my people; for they who touch my people, touch me.

Will ye render me a recompence] Do you think by this to avenge yourselves upon the Almighty! to retaliate upon God! Proceed: and speedily will I return your recompence; I will retaliate.

Verse 5. Ye have taken my silver and my gold] The Chaldeans had spoiled the Temple; and carried away the sacred vessels, and put them in the temple of their own god in Babylon.

Verse 6. Sold unto the Grecians] These were the descendants of Javan, Gen. x, 2—5. And with them the Tyrians trafficked, Ezek. xxvii, 18.

That ye might remove them far from their border.] Intending to send them as far off as possible, that it might be impossible for them to get back to reclaim the land of which you had dispossessed them.

Verse 7. I will raise them] I shall find means to bring them back from the place whither ye have sold them; and they shall retaliate upon you the injuries they have sustained. It is said that Alexander and his successors set at liberty many Jews that had been sold into Greece. And it is likely that many returned from different lands, on the publication of the edict of Cyrus.—Newcome.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

recompence upon your own head:
8 And I will sell your sons and your daughters into the hand of the children of Judah, and they shall sell them to the [a] Sabeans, to a people [b] far off: for the LORD hath spoken it.

9 [c] Proclaim ye this among the Gentiles; [d] Prepare war, wake up the mighty men, let all the men of war draw near; let them come up.

10 [e] Beat your plowshares into swords, and your [f] pruninghooks into spears: [g] let the weak say, I am strong.

11 [h] Assemble yourselves, and come, all ye heathen, and gather yourselves together round about: thither [i] cause [k] thy mighty ones to come down, O LORD.

12 Let the heathen be wakened, [l] and come up to the valley of Jehoshaphat: for there will I sit to [m] judge all the heathen round about.

13 [n] Put ye in the sickle, for [o] the harvest is ripe: come, get you down; for the [p] press is full, the fats overflow; for their wickedness is great.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

14 Multitudes, multitudes in [q] the valley of [r] decision: for [s] the day of the LORD is near in the valley of decision.

15 The [t] sun and the moon shall be darkened, and the stars shall withdraw their shining.

16 The LORD also shall [u] roar out of Zion, and utter his voice from Jerusalem; and [x] the heavens and the earth shall shake: [y] but the LORD will be the [z] hope of his people, and the strength of the children of Israel.

17 So [a] shall ye know that I am the LORD your God dwelling in Zion, [b] my holy mountain: then shall Jerusalem be [c] holy, and there shall [d] no strangers pass through her any more.

18 And it shall come to pass in that day, that the mountains shall [e] drop down new wine, and the hills shall flow with milk, [f] and all the rivers

[a] Ezek. 23. 42.——[b] Jer. 6. 20.——[c] See Isa. 8. 9, 10. Jer. 46. 3, 4. Ezek. 38. 7.——[d] Heb. sanctify.——[e] See Isa. 2. 4. Mic. 4. 3.——[f] Or, scythes.——[g] Zech. 12. 8.——[h] Ver. 2.——[i] Or, the LORD shall bring down.——[k] Psa. 103. 20. Isa. 13. 3.——[l] Ver. 2.——[m] Psa. 96. 13. & 98. 9. & 110. 6. Isa. 2. 4. & 3. 13. Mic. 4. 3.——[n] Matt. 13. 39. Rev. 14. 15, 18.——[o] Jer. 51. 33. Hos. 6. 11.

[p] Isa. 56. 3. Lam. 1. 15. Rev. 14. 19, 20.——[q] Ver. 2.——[r] Or, concision, or, threshing.——[s] Ch. 2. 1.——[t] Ch. 2. 10, 31.——[u] Jer. 25. 30. Ch. 2. 11. Amos 1. 2.——[x] Hag. 2. 6.——[y] Isa. 51. 5, 6.——[z] Heb. place of repair, or, harbour.——[a] Ch. 2. 27.——[b] Dan. 11. 45. Obad. 16. Zech. 8. 3.——[c] Heb. holiness.——[d] Isa. 35. 8. & 52. 1. Nah. 1. 15. Zech. 14. 21. Rev. 21. 27.——[e] Amos 9. 13.——[f] Isa. 30. 25.

Verse 8. I will sell your sons] When Alexander took Tyre, he reduced into slavery all the lower people, and the women. Arrian, lib. ii, says that thirty thousand of them were sold. Artaxerxes Ochus destroyed Sidon, and subdued the other cities of Phœnicia. In all these wars, says Calmet, the Jews, who obeyed the Persians, did not neglect to purchase Phœnician slaves, whom they sold again to the Sabeans, or Arabs.

Verse 9. Prepare war] Let all the enemies of God and of his people join together; let them even call all the tillers of the ground to their assistance, instead of labouring in the field; let every peasant become a soldier. Let them turn their agricultural implements into offensive weapons, so that the weak, being well armed, may confidently say, I am strong:—yet, when thus collected and armed, Jehovah will bring down thy mighty ones; for so the clause in verse 11 should be rendered.

Verse 12. Let the heathen be wakened] The Heathen shall be wakened.

The valley of Jehoshaphat] Any place which God may choose to display His judgments against His enemies.

Verse 13. Put ye in the sickle] The destruction of His enemies is represented here under the metaphor of reaping down the harvest; and of gathering the grapes, and treading them in the wine presses.

Verse 14. Multitudes, multitudes] המונים המונים hamonim, hamonim; crowds upon crowds, in the valley of decision, or excision: the same as the valley of Jehoshaphat, the place where God is to execute judgment on His enemies.

Verse 15. The sun and the moon shall be darkened] High and mighty states shall be eclipsed, and brought to ruin; and the stars, petty states, princes, and governors, shall withdraw their shining, withhold their influence and tribute from the kingdoms to which they have belonged; and set up themselves as independent governors.

Verse 16. The LORD also shall roar out of Zion] His Temple and worship shall be re-established there; and He will thence denounce His judgments against the nations. The heavens and the earth shall shake. There shall be great commotions in powerful empires, and their dependencies: but in all these things His own people shall be unmoved, for God shall be their hope and strength.

Verse 17. So shall ye know] By the judgments I execute on your enemies, and the support I give to yourselves, that I am the all-conquering Jehovah; and that I have again taken up my residence in Jerusalem. All this may refer, ultimately, to the restoration of the Jews to their own land; when holiness to the Lord shall be their motto; and no strange god, nor impure people, shall be permitted to enter the city, or even pass through it; they shall neither have civil nor religious connexions with any who do not worship the true God in spirit and in truth. This, I think, must refer to gospel times. It is a promise not yet fulfilled.

Verse 18. In that day] After their return from their captivities.

The mountains shall drop down new wine] A poetic expression for great fertility. Happy times:—peace and plenty. The vines shall grow luxuriantly on the sides of the of Judah shall [a] flow with waters, and [b] a fountain shall come forth of the house of the LORD, and shall water [c] the valley of Shittim.

A. M. cir. 3314. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

19 [d] Egypt shall be a desolation, and [e] Edom shall be a desolate wilderness, for the violence against the children of Judah, because they have shed innocent blood in their land.

A. M. cir. 3214. B. C. cir. 690. Ol. cir. XXII. 3. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 26.

20 But Judah shall [f] dwell [g] for ever, and Jerusalem from generation to generation.

21 For I will [h] cleanse their blood that I have not cleansed: [i] for [k] the LORD dwelleth in Zion.

[a] Heb. go.——[b] Psa. 46. 4. Ezek. 47. 1. Zech. 14. 8. Rev. 22. 1.——[c] Numb. 25. 1.——[d] Isa. 19. 1, &c.——[e] Jer. 49. 17. Ezek. 25. 12, 13. Amos 1. 11. Obad. 10.

[f] Or, abide.——[g] Amos 9. 15.——[h] Isa. 4. 4.——[i] Ezek. 48. 35. ver. 17. Rev. 21. 3.——[k] Or, even I the LORD that dwelleth in Zion.

mountains; and the hills shall produce such rich pastures that the flocks shall yield abundance of milk.

And all the rivers of Judah] Far from being generally dry in the summer, shall have their channels always full of water.

And a fountain shall come forth of the house of the LORD] See the account of the typical waters in Ezekiel, chap. xlvii, to which this seems to have reference; at least the subject is the same, and seems to point out the grace of the Gospel, —the waters of salvation, that shall flow from Jerusalem, and water the valley of Shittim. Shittim was in the plains of Moab, beyond Jordan (Numb. xxxiii, 49; Josh. iii, 1:) but as no stream of water could flow from the Temple, pass across Jordan, or reach this plain, the valley of Shittim must be considered symbolical, as the valley of Jehoshaphat. But as Shittim may signify thorns, it may figuratively represent the most uncultivated and ferocious inhabitants of the earth receiving the Gospel of Christ, and being civilized and saved by it. We know that briars and thorns are emblems of bad men; see Ezek. ii, 6. Thus all the figures in this verse will point out the happy times of the Gospel:—the mountains shall drop down new wine;—the hills flow with milk;—the thorny valleys become fertile, &c. Similar to those almost parallel words of the prince of poets:—

Mistaque ridenti colocasia fundet acantho.
Ipsæ lacte domum referent distenta capellæ
Ubera: nec magnos metuent armenta leones.—
Molli paullatim flavescet campus aristâ,
Incultisque rubens pendebit sentibus uva:
Et duræ quercus sudabunt roscida mella.

VIRG. Ecl. iv, 20.

Unbidden earth shall wreathing ivy bring,
And fragrant herbs the promises of spring.
The goats with streaming dugs shall homeward speed;
And lowing herds, secure from lions, feed.—
Unlaboured harvests shall the fields adorn,
And clustered grapes shall grow on every thorn:
The knotted oaks shall showers of honey weep.

DRYDEN.

Verse 19. Egypt shall be a desolation] While peace, plenty, and prosperity of every kind, shall crown my people, all their enemies shall be as a wilderness; and those who have used violence against the saints of God, and shed the blood of innocents (of the holy MARTYRS,) in their land, when they had political power; these, and all such, shall fall under the just judgments of God.

Verse 20. But Judah shall dwell for ever] The true church of Christ shall be supported, while all false and persecuting churches shall be annihilated. The promise may also belong to the full and final restoration of the Jews, when they shall dwell at Jerusalem as a distinct people professing the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Verse 21. For I will cleanse their blood] נקיתי nikeiti, I will avenge the slaughter and martyrdom of my people, which I have not yet avenged. Persecuting nations and persecuting churches shall all come, sooner or later, under the stroke of vindictive justice.

For the LORD dwelleth in Zion.] He shall be the Life, Soul, Spirit, and Defence, of His Church for ever.

This prophet, who has many things similar to Ezekiel, ends his prophecy nearly in the same way:—

Ezekiel says of the glory of the Church, יהוה שמה yehovah shammah, THE LORD IS THERE:

Joel says, יהוה שכן בציון yehovah shaken be-tsion, THE LORD DWELLETH IN ZION.

Both point out the continued indwelling of Christ among His people.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET JOEL.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE BOOK OF

THE PROPHET AMOS.

AMOS, the third of the smaller Prophets, was, as it is said, of the little town of Tekoa, in the tribe of Judah, about four leagues southward of Jerusalem. There is no good proof, however, that he was a native of this place; but only that he retired thither when he was driven from Bethel, which was in the kingdom of the ten tribes. It is very probable that he was born within the territories of Israel, and that his mission was directed principally to this kingdom.

As he was prophesying in Bethel, where the golden calves were, in the reign of Jeroboam the Second, about the year of the World, 3217;—before the birth of Jesus Christ, 783; before the Vulgar æra, 787;—Amaziah, the High Priest of Bethel, accused him before king Jeroboam, saying, "Amos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land is not able to bear all his words. For thus Amos saith, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall surely be led away captive out of their own land. Amaziah said therefore unto Amos, O thou seer, go, flee thee away into the land of Judah, and there eat bread, and prophesy there: but prophesy not again any more at Bethel; for it is the king's chapel, and it is the king's court.

"Amos answered Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I a prophet's son; but I was a herdman, and a gatherer of sycamore fruit. And the Lord took me as I followed the flock; and the Lord said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel. Now therefore hear thou the word of the Lord; Thou sayest, Prophesy not against Israel, and drop not thy word against the house of Isaac. Therefore thus saith the Lord, Thy wife shall be a harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line; and thou shalt die in a polluted land, and Israel shall surely go into captivity forth of his land."

After this the prophet retired into the kingdom of Judah; and dwelt in the town of Tekoa, where he continued to prophesy. He complains in many places of the violence offered him by endeavouring to oblige him to silence, and bitterly exclaims against the disorders of Israel.

He began to prophesy the second year before the earthquake, which happened in the reign of king Uzziah; and which Josephus, with most of the ancient and modern commentators, refers to this prince's usurpation of the priests' office, when he attempted to offer incense to the Lord.

The first of his prophecies, in order of time, are those of the seventh Chapter. The others he pronounced in the town of Tekoa, whither he retired. His first two chapters are against Damascus, the Philistines, Tyrians, Edomites, Ammonites, Moabites, the kingdom of Judah, and that of the ten tribes. The evils with which he threatens them refer to the times of Shalmaneser, Tiglath-pileser, Sennacherib, and Nebuchadnezzar, who did so much mischief to these provinces, and at last led the Israelites into captivity.

He foretold the misfortunes into which the kingdom of Israel should fall after the death of Jeroboam the Second, who was then living. He foretold the death of king Zechariah,—the invasion of the lands belonging to Israel by Pul and Tiglath-pileser, kings of Assyria;—and speaks of the captivity of the ten tribes, and of their return into their own country. He makes sharp invectives against the sins of Israel, against their effeminacy and avarice, their harshness to the poor, the splendour of their buildings, and the delicacy of their tables. He reproves the people of Israel for going to Bethel, Dan, Gilgal, and Beersheba, which were the most famous pilgrimages of the country; and for swearing by the gods of these places.

The time and manner of his death are not known. Some old authors relate that Amaziah, priest of Bethel, whom we have spoken of, provoked by the discourses of the prophet, had his teeth broken in order to silence him. Others say that Hosea, or Uzziah, the son of Amaziah, struck him with a stake upon the temples, and knocked him down, and almost killed him;—that in this condition he was carried to Tekoa, where he died, and was buried with his fathers. This is the account these authors give us. On the contrary, it is the opinion of others, that he prophesied a long time at Tekoa, after the adventure he had with Amaziah: and the prophet taking no notice of the ill-treatment which he is said to have received from Uzziah, his silence is no argument that he suffered nothing from him.

St. Jerom observes, that there is nothing great and sublime in the style of Amos. He applies these words of St. Paul to him, rude in speech, though not in knowledge. He says farther, that as every one chooses to speak of his own art, Amos generally makes use of comparisons taken from the country life wherein he had been brought up. St. Austin shews that there was a certain kind of eloquence in the Sacred Writers, directed by the spirit of wisdom, and so proportioned to the nature of the things they treated of, that even they who accuse them of rusticity and unpoliteness in their way of writing could not choose a style more suitable, were they to have spoken on the same subject, to the same persons, and in the same circumstances.

Bishop Lowth is not satisfied with the judgment of St. Jerom. His authority, says the learned prelate, has occasioned many commentators to represent this prophet as entirely rude, void of eloquence, and wanting in all the embellishments of style; whereas any one who reads him, with due attention, will find him, though a herdsman, not a whit behind the very chiefest prophets; almost equal to the greatest in the loftiness of his sentiments; and not inferior to any in the splendour of his diction, and the elegance of his composition. And it is well observed, that the same heavenly Spirit which inspired Isaiah and Daniel in the palace, inspired David and Amos in their shepherds' tents: always choosing proper interpreters of His will; and sometimes perfecting praise, even out of the mouths of babes. At one time using the eloquence of some; at another, making others eloquent, to subserve his great purposes. See Calmet and Dodd.

Archbishop Newcome speaks also justly of this prophet:—Amos borrows many images from the scenes in which he was engaged: but he introduces them with skill, and gives them tone and dignity by the eloquence and grandeur of his manner. We shall find in him many affecting and pathetic, many elegant and sublime passages. No prophet has more magnificently described the Deity; or more gravely rebuked the luxurious; or reproved injustice and oppression with greater warmth, and a more generous indignation. He is a prophet on whose model a preacher may safely form his style and manner in luxurious and profligate times.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET AMOS.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book.

Year from the Creation, according to Archbishop Ussher, 3217.—Year of the Julian Period, 3927.—Year since the Flood, 1561.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's temple, 225.—Year since the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 188.—Year since the first Olympic games were celebrated in Elis by the Idæ Dactyli, 667.—Year since the restoration of the Olympic games at Elis by Lycurgus, Iphitus, and Cleosthenes, 97.—Year before the conquest of Corœbus at Olympia, vulgarly called the First Olympiad, 11.—Year before the building of Rome, according to the Varronian computation, 34.—Year before the birth of Jesus Christ, 783.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 787.—Cycle of the Sun, 7.—Cycle of the Moon, 13.—Twenty-eighth, and last, year of Caranus, the founder of the kingdom of Macedon.—Twenty-third year of Nicander, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—Twenty-seventh year of Alcamenes, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Eleventh year of Ardysus, king of Lydia.—Eleventh year of Agamestor, perpetual archon of the Athenians.—Tenth year of Amulius Sylvius, king of the Albans.—Fifth year of Telestus, monarch of Corinth.—Sixth year of Sosarmus, king of the Medes, according to some Chronologers.—Thirty-ninth year of Jeroboam II, king of Israel.—Twenty-fourth year of Uzziah, king of Judah.

CHAPTER I.

This Chapter denounces judgments against the nations bordering on Palestine, enemies to the Jews: viz. the Syrians, 1—5, Philistines, 6—8, Tyrians, 9, 10, Edomites, 11, 12, and Ammonites, 13—15. The same judgments were predicted by other prophets; and fulfilled partly by the kings of Assyria, and partly by those of Babylon; though, like many other prophecies, they had their accomplishment by degrees, and at different periods. The prophecy against the Syrians, whose capital was Damascus, was fulfilled by Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria. See 2 Kings xvi, 9. The prophecy against Gaza of the Philistines was accomplished by Hezekiah, 2 Kings xviii, 8; by Pharaoh, Jer. xlvii, 1; and by Alexander the Great. See Quintius Curtius, lib. iv, c. 6. The prophecy against Ashdod was fulfilled by Uzziah, 2 Chron. xxvi, 6; and that against Ashkelon by Pharaoh, Jer. xlvii, 5. All Syria was also subdued by Pharaoh-necho; and again by Nebuchadnezzar, who also took Tyre, as did afterwards Alexander. Nebuchadnezzar also subdued the Edomites, Jer. xxv, 9, 21, and xxvii, 3, 6. Judas Maccabeus routed the remains of them, 1 Macc. v, 3; and Hyrcanus brought them under entire subjection. The Ammonites were likewise conquered by Nebuchadnezzar. The earthquake, which the Prophet takes for his æra, is perhaps referred to in Zech. xiv, 5, and also in Isa. v, 25. Josephus ascribes it to Uzziah's invasion of the priestly office. See 2 Chron. xxvi, 16.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

THE words of Amos, [a] who was among the herdmen of [b] Tekoa, which he saw concerning Israel [c] in the days of Uzziah king of Judah, and in the days of [d] Jeroboam the son of Joash king of Israel, two years before the [e] earthquake.

2 And he said, The LORD will [f] roar from Zion and utter his voice from Jerusalem; and the habitations of the shepherds shall mourn, and the top of [g] Carmel shall wither.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

3 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [h] Damascus, [i] and for four, I will not [k] turn away the punishment thereof; [l] because they have threshed Gilead with threshing instruments of iron:

[a] Ch. 7. 14.——[b] 2 Sam. 14. 2. 2 Chron. 20. 20.——[c] Hos. 1. 1.——[d] Ch. 7. 10.——[e] Zech. 14. 5.——[f] Jer. 25. 30. Joel 3. 16.——[g] 1 Sam. 25. 2. Isa. 33. 9.

[h] Isa. 8. 4. & 17. 1. Jer. 49. 23. Zech. 9. 1.——[i] Or, yea, for four.——[k] Or, convert it, or, let it be quiet: and so ver. 6, &c.——[l] 2 Kings 10. 33. & 13. 7.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. The words of Amos] This person and the father of Isaiah, though named alike in our translation, were as different in their names as in their persons. The father of Isaiah, אמוץ Amots; the prophet before us, עמוס Amos. The first, aleph, mem, vau, tsaddi; the second, ain, mem, vau, samech. For some account of this prophet, see the Introduction.

Among the herdmen] He seems to have beem among the very lowest orders of life;—a herdsman,—one who tended the flocks of others in the open fields, and a gatherer of sycamore fruit. Of whatever species these were, whether a kind of figs, it is evident they were wild fruit; and he probably collected them for his own subsistence; or to dispose of either for the service of his employer, or to increase his scanty wages.

Before the earthquake.] Probably the same as that referred to Zech. xiv, 5, if הרעש ha raâsh do not mean some popular tumult.

Verse 2. The LORD will roar from Zion] It is a pity that our translators had not followed the hemistich form of the Hebrew:—

Jehovah from Zion shall roar,
And from Jerusalem shall give forth His voice;
And the pleasant dwellings of the shepherds shall mourn,
And the top of Mount Carmel shall wither.

Carmel was a very fruitful mountain in the tribe of Judah, Josh. xv, 55; Isa. xxxv, 2.

This introduction was natural in the mouth of a herdsman, who was familiar with the roaring of lions, the bellowing of bulls, and the lowing of kine. The roaring of the lion in the forest is one of the most terrific sounds in nature:—when near, it strikes terror into the heart both of man and beast.

Verse 3. For three transgressions of Damascus, and for four] These expressions of three and four, so often repeated in this Chapter, mean repetition, abundance, and any thing that goes towards excess. Very, very; exceedingly; and so it was used among the ancient Greek and Latin poets. See the passionate exclamation of Ulysses, in the storm, Odyss. lib. v, 306.—

Τρις μακαρες Δαναοι και τετρακις, οι τοτ' ολοντο Τροιη εν ευρειη, χαριν Ατρειδησι φερουτες.

"Thrice happy Greeks! and four times, who were slain
In Atreus' cause, upon the Trojan plain."

Which words Virgil translates; and puts in the mouth of his hero in similar circumstances, Æn. i, 93.

Extemplo Æneæ solvuntur frigore membra
Ingemit; et, duplicis tendens ad sidera palmas,
Talia voce refert: O terque quaterque beati!
Quîs ante ora patrum Trojæ sub mœnibus altis Contigit oppetere.

"Struck with unusual fright, the Trojan chief
With lifted hands and eyes invokes relief.
And thrice, and four times happy those, he cried,
That under Ilion's walls before their parents died."
DRYDEN.

On the words, O terque quaterque, SERVIUS makes this remark,—Hoc est sæpius: finitus numerus pro infinito. "O thrice and four times, that is, very often; a finite number for an infinite." Other poets use the same form of expression. So SENECA in Hypolit. Act ii, 694.

O ter quaterque prospero fato dati,
Quos hausit, et peremit, et leto dedit
Odium dolusque!

"O thrice and four times happy were the men
Whom hate devour'd, and fraud hard pressing on,
Gave as a prey to death."

And so the ancient oracle quoted by Pausanias, Achaic. lib. vii, c. 6,—Τρις μακαρες κεινοι και τετρακις ανδρες εσονται, "Those men shall be thrice and four times happy."

These quotations are sufficient to shew that this form of speech is neither infrequent nor inelegant, being employed by the most correct writers of antiquity.

Damascus was the capital of Syria.

Verse 4. Ben-hadad.] He was son and successor of Hazael. See the cruelties which they exercised upon the

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

4 [a] But I will send a fire into the house of Hazael, which shall devour the palaces of Ben-hadad.

5 I will break also the [b] bar of Damascus, and cut off the inhabitant from [c] the plain of Aven, and him that holdeth the sceptre from [d] the house of Eden: and [e] the people of Syria shall go into captivity [f] unto Kir, saith the LORD.

6 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [g] Gaza, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they [h] carried away captive the whole captivity, [i] to deliver them up to Edom:

7 [k] But I will send a fire on the wall of Gaza, which shall devour the palaces thereof:

8 And I will cut off the inhabitant [l] from Ashdod, and him that holdeth the sceptre from Ashkelon, and I will [m] turn mine hand against Ekron: and [n] the remnant of the Philistines shall perish, saith the Lord GOD.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

9 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [o] Tyrus, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; [p] because they delivered up the whole captivity to Edom, and remembered not [q] the brotherly covenant:

10 [r] But I will send a fire on the wall of Tyrus, which shall devour the palaces thereof.

11 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [s] Edom, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because he did pursue [t] his brother [u] with the sword, and [x] did cast off all pity, [y] and his anger did tear perpetually, and he kept his wrath for ever:

12 But [z] I will send a fire upon Teman, which shall devour the palaces of Bozrah.

---

[a] Jer. 17. 27. & 49. 27. ver. 7, 10, 12. ch. 2. 2, 5.——[b] Jer. 51. 30. Lam. 2. 9 ——[c] Or, Bikath-aven.——[d] Or, Beth-eden.——[e] Fulfilled, 2 Kings 16. 9. ——[f] Ch. 9. 7.——[g] 2 Chron. 28. 18. Isa. 14. 29. Jer. 47. 4, 5. Ezek. 25. 15. Zeph. 2. 4.——[h] Or, carried them away with an entire captivity, 2 Chron. 21. 16, 17. Joel 3. 6.——[i] Ver. 9.——[k] Jer. 47. 1.——[l] Zeph. 2. 4. Zech. 9. 5, 6.——[m] Psa. 81. 14.

[n] Jer. 47. 4. Ezek. 25. 16.——[o] Isa. 23. 1. Jer. 47. 4. Ezek. 26, & 27, & 28. Joel 3. 4, 5.——[p] Ver. 6.——[q] Heb. the covenant of brethren, 2 Sam. 5. 11. 1 Kings 5. 1. & 9. 11–14.——[r] Ver. 4, 7, &c.——[s] Isa. 21. 11. & 34. 5. Jer. 49. 8, &c. Ezek. 25. 12, 13, 14. & 35. 2, &c. Joel 3. 19. Obad. 1, &c. Mal. 1. 4.——[t] Gen. 27. 41. Deut. 23. 7. Mal. 1. 2.——[u] 2 Chron. 23. 17.——[x] Heb. corrupted his compassions.——[y] Ezek. 35. 5.——[z] Obad. 9, 10.

Israelites, 2 Kings x, 32; xiii, 7, &c; and see especially, 2 Kings viii, 12, where these cruelties are predicted.

The fire threatened here is the war so successfully carried on against the Syrians by Jeroboam II, in which he took Damascus and Emath, and re-conquered all the ancient possessions of Israel. See 2 Kings xiv, 25, 26, 28.

Verse 5. The bar of Damascus] The gates, whose long transverse bars, running from wall to wall, was their strength. I will throw it open: and the gates were forced, and the city taken, as above.

The plain of Aven—the house of Eden] These are names, says Bochart, of the valley of Damascus. The plain of Aven, or Birkath-Aven, Calmet says, is a city of Syria, at present called Baal-Bek, and by the Greeks Heliopolis; and is situated at the end of that long valley which extends from south to north, between Libanus and Antilibanus.

The people of Syria shall go into captivity unto Kir] KIR is supposed to be the country of Cyrene in Albania, on the river Cyrus, which empties itself into the Caspian sea. The fulfilment of this prophecy may be seen in 2 Kings xvi, 1—9.

Verse 6. They carried away captive] Gaza is well known to have been one of the five lordships of the Philistines; it lay on the coast of the Mediterranean sea, near to Egypt. Ekron, Ashdod, and Ashkelon, were other seignories of the same people, which are here equally threatened with Gaza. The captivity mentioned here may refer to inroads and excursions made by the Philistines in times of peace. See 2 Chron. xxi, 16. The margin reads, an entire captivity. They took all away, none of whom afterwards returned.

Verse 9. Tyrus] See an ample description of this place, and of its desolation and final ruin, in the Notes on Ezek. xxvi, xxvii, and xxviii.

The brotherly covenant] This possibly refers to the very friendly league made between Solomon and Hiram, king of Tyre, 1 Kings v, 12: but some contend that the brotherly covenant refers to the consanguinity between the Jews and Edomites. The Tyrians, in exercising cruelties upon these, did it, in effect, on the Jews, with whom they were connected by the most intimate ties of kindred; the two people having descended from the two brothers, Jacob and Esau. See Calmet.

Verse 10. I will send a fire on the wall of Tyrus] This destructive fire, or siege, by Nebuchadnezzar, which lasted thirteen years, and ended in the destruction of this ancient city; see on Ezekiel, chap. xxvi, 7—14, as above. It was finally ruined by Alexander, and is now only a place for a few poor fishermen to spread their nets upon.

Verse 11. For three transgressions of Edom] That the Edomites (notwithstanding what Calmet observes above of the brotherly covenant) were always implacable enemies of the Jews is well known: but most probably that which the prophet has in view was the part they took in distressing the Jews when Jerusalem was besieged, and finally taken, by the Chaldeans. See Obad. 11—14; Ezek. xxv, 12; xxxv, 5; Psa. cxxxvii, 7.

Verse 12. Teman—Bozrah] Principal cities of Idumea.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

13 Thus saith the LORD; for three transgressions of [a] the children of Ammon, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because they have [b] ripped [c] up the women with child of Gilead, [d] that they might enlarge their border:

14 But I will kindle a fire in the wall of [e] Rabbah, and it shall devour the palaces thereof, [f] with shouting in the day of battle, with a tempest in the day of the whirlwind:

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

15 And [g] their king shall go into captivity, he and his princes together, saith the LORD.

[a] Jer. 49. 1, 2. Ezek. 25. 2. Zeph. 2. 9.——[b] Or, divided the mountains. [c] Hos. 13. 16.——[d] Jer. 49. 1.

[e] Deut. 3. 11. 2 Sam. 12. 26. Jer. 49. 2. Ezek. 25. 5.——[f] Ch. 2. 2.——[g] Jer. 49. 3.

Verse 13. The children of Ammon] The country of the Ammonites lay to the east of Jordan, in the neighbourhood of Gilead. Rabbah was its capital.

Because they have ripped up] This refers to some barbarous transaction well known in the time of this prophet; but of which we have no distinct mention in the sacred historians.

Verse 14. With shouting in the day of battle] They shall be totally subdued. This was done by Nebuchadnezzar. See Jer. xxvii, 3, 6.

Verse 15. Their king shall go into captivity] Probably מלכם Malecem should be Milcom, who was a chief god of the Ammonites: and the following words, he and his princes, may refer to the body of his priesthood. See 1 Kings xi, 33, and the Notes there. All these countries were subdued by Nebuchadnezzar.

CHAPTER II.

The Prophet goes on to declare the judgments of God against Moab, 1—3; against Judah, 4, 5; and then against Israel, the particular object of his mission. He enumerates some of their sins, 6—8, aggravated by God's distinguishing regard to Israel, 9—12; and they are in consequence threatened with dreadful punishments, 13—16. See 2 Kings xv, 19, and xvii, 6.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

THUS saith the LORD; For three transgressions of [a] Moab, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because he [b] burned the bones of the king of Edom into lime:

2 But I will send a fire upon Moab, and it shall devour the palaces of [c] Kirioth: and Moab shall die with tumult, [d] with shouting, and with the sound of the trumpet;

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

3 And I will cut off [e] the judge from the midst thereof, and will slay all the princes thereof with him, saith the LORD.

[a] Isa. 15. & 16. Jer. 48. Ezek. 25. 8. Zeph. 2. 8.——[b] 2 Kings 3. 27.

[c] Jer. 48. 41.——[d] Ch. 1. 14.——[e] Numb. 24. 17. Jer. 48. 7.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. For three transgressions of Moab, and for four] See an explanation of this form, chap. i, 3. The land of the Moabites lay to the east of the Dead sea. For the origin of this people, see Gen. xix, 37.

He burned the bones of the king of Edom into lime.] Possibly referring to some brutality; such as opening the grave of one of the Idumean kings, and calcining his bones. It is supposed by some to refer to the fact mentioned 2 Kings iii, 26, when the kings of Judah, Israel, and Idumea, joined together to destroy Moab. The king of it despairing to save his city, took seven hundred men, and made a desperate sortie on the quarter where the king of Edom was; and, though not successful, took prisoner the son of the king of Edom; and, on their return into the city, offered him as a burnt offering upon the wall, so as to terrify the besieging armies, and cause them to raise the siege. Others understand the son that was sacrificed to be the king of Moab's own son.

Verse 2. The palaces of Kirioth] This was one of the principal cities of the Moabites.

Moab shall die with tumult] All these expressions seem to refer to this city's being taken by storm, which was followed by a total slaughter of its inhabitants.

Verse 3. I will cut off the judge] It shall be so destroyed

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

4 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of Judah, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; [a] because they have despised the law of the LORD, and have not kept his commandments, and [b] their lies caused them to err, [c] after the which their fathers have walked:

5 [d] But I will send a fire upon Judah, and it shall devour the palaces of Jerusalem.

6 Thus saith the LORD; For three transgressions of Israel, and for four, I will not turn away the punishment thereof; because [e] they sold the righteous for silver, and the poor for a pair of shoes;

7 That pant after the dust of the earth on the head of the poor, and [f] turn aside the way of the meek: [g] and a man and his father will go in unto the same [h] maid, [i] to profane my holy name:

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

8 And they lay themselves down upon clothes [k] laid to pledge [l] by every altar, and they drink the wine of [m] the condemned in the house of their god.

9 Yet destroyed I the [n] Amorite before them, [o] whose height was like the height of the cedars, and he was strong as the oaks; yet I [p] destroyed his fruit from above, and his roots from beneath.

10 Also [q] I brought you up from the land of Egypt, and [r] led you forty years through the wilderness, to possess the land of the Amorite.

11 And I raised up of your sons for prophets, and of your young men for [s] Nazarites. Is it not even thus, O ye children of Israel? saith the LORD.

---

[a] Lev. 26. 14, 15. Neh. 1. 7. Dan. 9. 11.——[b] Isa. 28. 15. Jer. 16. 19, 20. Rom. 1. 25.——[c] Ezek. 20. 13, 16, 18, 24, 30.——[d] Jer. 17. 27. Hos. 8. 14.——[e] Isa. 29. 21. ch. 8. 6.——[f] Isa. 10. 2. ch. 5. 12.——[g] Ezek. 22. 11.——[h] Or, young woman.——[i] Lev. 20. 3. Ezek. 36. 20. Rom. 2. 24.

[k] Exod. 22. 26.——[l] Ezek. 23. 41. 1 Cor. 8. 10. & 10. 21.——[m] Or, such as have fined, or, mulcted.——[n] Numb. 21. 24. Deut. 2. 31. Josh. 24. 8.——[o] Numb. 13. 28, 32, 33.——[p] Isa. 5. 24. Mal. 4. 1.——[q] Exod. 12. 51. Mic. 6. 4.——[r] Deut. 2. 7. & 8. 2.——[s] Numb. 6. 2. Judg. 13. 5.

---

that it shall never more have any form of government. The judge here, שופט shophet, may signify the chief magistrate. The chief magistrates of the Carthaginians were called suffetes; probably taken from the Hebrew JUDGES, שופטים shophetim.

Verse 4. For three transgressions of Judah] We may take the three and FOUR here to any latitude; for this people lived in continual hostility to their God, from the days of David to the time of Uzziah, under whom Amos prophesied. Their iniquities are summed up under three general heads. 1. They despised, or rejected, the law of the Lord. 2. They kept not his statutes. 3. They followed lies, were idolaters, and followed false prophets rather than those sent by Jehovah.

Verse 5. I will send a fire upon Judah] This fire was the war made upon the Jews by Nebuchadnezzar, which terminated with the sackage and burning of Jerusalem, and its palace, the Temple.

Verses 6—8. For three transgressions of Israel, &c.] To be satisfied of the exceeding delinquency of this people, we have only to open the historical and prophetic books in any part; for the whole history of the Israelites is one tissue of transgression against God. Their crimes are enumerated under the following heads:—

1. Their judges were mercenary and corrupt. They took bribes to condemn the righteous; and even for articles of clothing, such as a pair of shoes, they condemned the poor man, and delivered him into the hands of his adversary.

2. They were unmerciful to the poor generally. They pant after the dust of the earth on the head of the poor; or, to put it on the head of the poor; or, they bruise the head of the poor against the dust of the earth. Howsoever the clause is understood, it shews them to have been general oppressors of the poor, neither shewing them justice nor mercy.

3. They turn aside the way of the meek. They are peculiarly oppressive to the weak and afflicted.

4. They were licentious to the uttermost abomination; for in their idol feasts, where young women prostituted themselves publicly, in honour of Astarte, the father and son entered into impure connexions with the same female.

5. They were cruel in their oppressions of the poor; for the garments or beds which the poor had pledged, they retained contrary to the Law, Exod. xxii, 7—26, which required that such things should be restored before the setting of the sun.

6. They punished the people by unjust and oppressive fines, and served their tables with wine bought by such fines. Or, it may be understood of their appropriating to themselves that wine which was allowed to criminals to mitigate their sufferings in the article of death; which was the excess of inhumanity and cruelty.

Verse 9. Yet destroyed I the Amorite] Here follow general heads of God's mercies to them, and the great things He had done for them. 1. Bringing them out of Egypt. 2. Miraculously sustaining them in the wilderness forty years. 3. Driving out the Canaanites before them, and giving them possession of the Promised Land. 4. Raising up prophets among them to declare the Divine will. 5. And forming the holy institution of the Nazarites among them, to shew the spiritual nature of His holy religion, ver. 9—11.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

12 But ye gave the Nazarites wine to drink; and commanded the prophets, [a] saying, Prophesy not.

13 [b] Behold, [c] I am pressed under you, as a cart is pressed that is full of sheaves.

14 [d] Therefore the flight shall perish from the swift, and the strong shall not strengthen his force, [e] neither shall the mighty deliver [f] himself.

15 Neither shall he stand that handleth the bow; and he that is swift of foot shall not deliver himself: [g] neither shall he that rideth the horse deliver himself.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

16 And he that is [h] courageous among the mighty shall flee away naked in that day, saith the LORD.

[a] Isa. 30. 10. Jer. 11. 21. ch. 7. 12, 13. Mic. 2. 6.——[b] Isa. 1. 14.——[c] Or, I will press your place, as a cart full of sheaves presseth.

[d] Ch. 9. 1, &c. Jer. 9. 23.——[e] Psa. 33. 16.——[f] Heb. his soul, or, life.——[g] Psa. 33. 17.——[h] Heb. strong of his heart.

Verse 12. But ye gave the Nazarites wine] This was expressly forbidden in the laws of their institution. See Numb. vi, 1—3.

Prophesy not.] They would not worship God; and they would not hear the voice of his prophets.

Verse 13. Behold, I am pressed under you] The marginal reading is better: Behold, I will press your place, as a cart full of sheaves presseth. I will bring over you the wheel of destruction; and it shall grind your place, your city and temple, as the wheel of a cart laden with sheaves presses down the ground, gravel, and stones, over which it rolls.

Verse 14. The flight shall perish from the swift] The swiftest shall not be able to save himself from a swifter destruction. None by might, by counsel, or by fleetness, shall be able to escape from the impending ruin. In a word, God has so fully determined to avenge the quarrel of His broken covenant, that all attempts to escape from His judgments shall be useless.

Verse 15. Neither shall he that rideth the horse deliver himself.] I believe all these sayings from verse 13 to 16 inclusive, are proverbs to shew the inutility of all attempts, even in the best circumstances, to escape the doom now decreed, because the cup of their iniquity was full.

Verse 16. Shall flee away naked] In some cases the alarm shall be in the night: and even the most heroic shall start from his bed; and, through terror, not wait to put on his clothes.

CHAPTER III.

This Chapter begins with reproving the twelve tribes in general, 1, 2; and then particularly the kingdom of Israel, whose capital was Samaria. The Prophet assures them that, while they were at variance with God, it would be unreasonable in them to expect His presence or favour, 3—8. Other neighbouring nations are then called upon to take warning from the judgments about to be inflicted upon the house of Israel, which would be so general that only a small remnant should escape them, 9—15. The image used by the Prophet on this occasion, (see verse 12,) and borrowed from his former calling, is very natural and significant, and not a little dignified by the inspired writer's lofty air and manner.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

HEAR this word that the LORD hath spoken against you, O children of Israel, against the whole family which I brought up from the land of Egypt, saying,

2 [a] You only have I known of all the families of the earth: [b] therefore I will [c] punish you for all your iniquities.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

3 Can two walk together, except they be agreed?

[a] Deut. 7. 6. & 10. 15. Psa. 147. 19, 20.——[b] See Dan. 9. 12. Matt. 11. 22. Luke 12. 47. Rom. 2. 9. 1 Pet. 4. 17.——[c] Heb. visit upon.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. Against the whole family] i. e. all, both of the kingdoms of Israel and Judah. In this all the twelve tribes are included.

Verse 2. You only have I known] I have taken no other people to be my own people. I have approved of you, loved you, fed, sustained, and defended you: but because you have forsaken me, became idolatrous and polluted; therefore,

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

4 Will a lion roar in the forest, when he hath no prey? will a young lion [a] cry out of his den, if he have taken nothing?

5 Can a bird fall in a snare upon the earth, where no gin is for him? shall one take up a snare from the earth, and have taken nothing at all?

6 Shall a trumpet be blown in the city, and the people [b] not be afraid? [c] shall there be evil in a city, [d] and the LORD hath not done it?

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

7 Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing, but [e] he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.

8 [f] The lion hath roared, who will not fear? the Lord GOD hath spoken, [g] who can but prophesy?

9 Publish in the palaces at Ashdod, and in the palaces in the land of Egypt, and say, Assemble

[a] Heb. give forth his voice.——[b] Or, not run together.——[c] Isa. 45. 7.——[d] Or, and shall not the LORD do somewhat?

[e] Gen. 6. 13. & 18. 17. Psa. 25. 14. John 15. 15.——[f] Ch. 1. 2.——[g] Acts 4. 20. & 5. 20, 29. 1 Cor. 9. 16.

will I punish you. And the punishment shall be in proportion to the privileges you have enjoyed, and the grace you have abused.

Verse 3. Can two walk together] While ye loved and served me, I dwelt in you, and walked among you. Now, ye are become alienated from me, your nature and mine are totally opposite. I am holy, ye are unholy. We are no longer agreed; and can no longer walk together. I can no longer hold communion with you. I must cast you out. The similes in this, and the three following verses, are all chosen to express the same thing; viz. that no calamities or judgments can fall upon any people but by the express will of God, on account of their iniquities; and that whatever His prophets have foretold, they have done it by direct revelation from their Maker; and that God has the highest and most cogent reason for inflicting the threatened calamities. The correctness of the prophets' predictions shews that they and I are in communion.

Verse 4. Will a lion roar] Should I threaten such judgment without cause?

Verse 5. Can a bird fall in a snare] Can ye, as a sinful people, fall into calamities which I have not appointed?

Shall one take up a snare—and have taken nothing] Will the snare be removed before it has caught the expected prey?—shall I remove my judgments till they are fully accomplished? This is a curious passage, and deserves farther consideration. The original, literally translated, is nearly as follows:—Shall the trap arise from the ground; and catching, shall it not catch!—Here is a very plain allusion to such traps as we employ to catch rats, foxes, &c. The jaws of the trap opening backward, press strongly upon a spring so as to keep it down; and a key passing over one jaw, and hooking on a table in the centre, the trap continues with expanded jaws, till any thing touch the table, when the key, by the motion of the table, being loosened, the spring recovers all its elastic power, and throws up the jaws of the trap; and their serrated edges either close in each other, or on the prey that has moved the table of the trap. Will, then, the jaws of such a trap suddenly spring up from the ground, on which before they were lying flat, and catch nothing? Shall they let the prey that was within them escap? Certainly not. So my trap is laid for these offenders; and when it springs up, (and they themselves will soon by their transgressions free the key,) shall not the whole family of Israel be inclosed in it? Most certainly they shall. This is a singular and very remarkable passage; and, when properly understood, is beautifully expressive.

Verse 6. Shall a trumpet be blown] The sign of alarm and invasion.

And the people not be afraid?] Not take the alarm, and provide for their defence and safety.

Shall there be evil in a city] Shall there be any public calamity on the wicked, that is not an effect of my displeasure? The word does not mean moral evil, but punishment for sin; calamities falling on the workers of iniquity. Natural evil is the punishment of moral evil; God sends the former, when the latter is persisted in.

Verse 7. Surely the Lord GOD will do nothing] In reference to the punishment, correction, or blessing, of His people:—

But he revealeth his secret unto his servants the prophets.] They are in strict correspondence with Him, and He shews them things to come. Such secrets of God are revealed to them, that they may inform the people, that by repentance and conversion they may avoid the evil; and, by walking closely with God, they may secure the continuance of His favour.

Verse 8. The lion hath roared] God hath sent forth a terrible alarm,—Who will not fear? Can any hear such denunciations of Divine wrath, and not tremble?

The Lord GOD hath spoken] And those only who are in communion with Him have heard the speech:—Who can but prophesy? Who can help proclaiming at large the judgments threatened against the nation?

But I think נבא naba, here, is to be taken in its natural and ideal signification, to pray, supplicate, or deprecate vengeance. The Lord hath spoken of punishment,—who can help supplicating His mercy, that His judgments may be averted?

Verse 9. Publish in the palaces] The housetops or flat roofs were the places from which public declarations were made. See on Isa. xxii, 1, and on Matt. x, 27. See whether yourselves upon the mountains of Samaria, and behold the great tumults in the midst thereof, and the [a] oppressed in the midst thereof.

A. M. cir. 3317. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

10 For they [b] know not to do right, saith the LORD, who store up violence and [c] robbery in their palaces.

11 Therefore thus saith the Lord GOD; [d] An adversary there shall be even round about the land; and he shall bring down thy strength from thee, and thy palaces shall be spoiled.

12 Thus saith the LORD; As the shepherd [e] taketh out of the mouth of the lion two legs, or a piece of an ear; so shall the children of Israel be taken out that dwell in Samaria in the corner of a bed, and [f] in Damascus in a couch.

A. M. cir. 3317. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

13 Hear ye, and testify in the house of Jacob, saith the Lord GOD, the God of hosts, 14 That in the day that I shall [g] visit the transgressions of Israel upon him I will also visit the altars of Beth-el: and the horns of the altar shall be cut off, and fall to the ground.

15 And I will smite [h] the winter house with [i] the summer house; and [k] the houses of ivory shall perish, and the great houses shall have an end, saith the LORD.

[a] Or, oppressions.—[b] Jer. 4. 22.—[c] Or, spoil.—[d] 2 Kings 17. 3, 6. & 18. 9, 10, 11.—[e] Heb. delivereth.

[f] Or, on the bed's feet.—[g] Or, Punish Israel for.—[h] Jer. 36. 22.—[i] Judg. 3. 20.—[k] 1 Kings 22. 39.

in those places there be not tumults, oppressions, and rapine, sufficient to excite my wrath against them.

Verse 10. For they know not to do right] So we may naturally say, that they who are doing wrong, and to their own prejudice and ruin, must certainly be ignorant of what is right, and what is their own interest. But we say again, There are none so blind as those who will not see.—Their eyes, saith the Lord, they have closed.

Verse 11. An adversary—round about the land] Ye shall not be able to escape; wherever ye turn, ye shall meet a foe.

Verse 12. As the shepherd taketh out of the mouth of the lion] Scarcely any of you shall escape; and those that do, it shall be with extreme difficulty, just as a shepherd (of a whole sheep carried away by a lion) can recover no more than two of its legs, or a piece of its ear; just enough to prove by the marks on those parts, that they belonged to a sheep which was his own.

So shall the children of Israel be taken out] Those of them that escape these judgments shall escape with as great difficulty, and be of as little worth, as the two legs and piece of an ear, that shall be snatched out of the lion's mouth. We know that when the Babylonians carried away the people into Chaldea, they left behind only a few, and they the refuse of the land.

In the corner of a bed] As the corner is the most honourable place in the East, and a couch in the corner of a room is the place of the greatest distinction; so the words in the Text may mean, that even the metropolitan cities, which are in the corner, in the most honourable place of the land, whether Samaria in Israel, or Damascus in Syria, shall not escape these judgments; and if any of the distinguished persons who dwell in them escape, it must be with as great difficulty as the fragments above mentioned have been recovered from a lion. The passage is obscure. Mr. Harmer has taken great pains to illustrate it: but I fear with but little success. A general sense is all we can arrive at.

Verse 13. Hear ye] This is an address to the prophet.

Verse 14. In the day that I shall visit] When Josiah made a reformation in the land, he destroyed idolatry, pulled down the temples and altars that had been consecrated to idol worship, and even burnt the bones of the priests of Baal and of the golden calves upon their own altars. See 2 Kings xxiii, 15, 16, &c.

Verse 15. I will smite the winter-house with the summer-house] I will destroy not only the poor habitations and villages in the country, but I will destroy those of the nobility and gentry; as well the lofty palaces in the fortified cities in which they dwell in the winter season, as those light and elegant seats in which they spend the summer season. Dr. Shaw observes, that "the hills and valleys round about Algiers are all over beautified with gardens and country seats, whither the inhabitants of better fashion retire during the heats of the summer season. They are little white houses, shaded with a variety of fruit trees and evergreens; which, besides shade and retirement, afford a gay and delightful prospect toward the sea. The gardens are all well stocked with melons, fruits, and pot-herbs, of all kinds; and (which is chiefly regarded in these hot countries) each of them enjoys a great command of water."

And the houses of ivory] Those remarkable for their magnificence and their ornaments; not built of ivory, but in which ivory vessels, ornaments, and inlaying, abounded. Thus then the winter-houses and the summer-houses, the great houses and the houses of uncommon splendour, shall all perish; there should be a total desolation in the land. No kind of house should be a refuge, and no kind of habitation should be spared. Ahab had at Samaria, a house that was called the ivory-house, 1 Kings xxii, 39. This may be particularly referred to in this place. We cannot suppose that a house constructed entirely of ivory, can be intended.

CHAPTER IV.

Israel reproved for their oppression, 1—3; idolatry, 4, 5; and for their impenitence under the chastising hand of God, 6—11. The omniscience and uncontrollable power of God, 12, 13.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

HEAR this word, ye [a] kine of Bashan, that are in the mountain of Samaria, which oppress the poor, which crush the needy, which say to their masters, Bring, and let us drink.

2 [b] The Lord God hath sworn by his holiness, that, lo, the days shall come upon you, that he will take you away [c] with hooks, and your posterity with fishhooks.

3 And [d] ye shall go out at the breaches, every cow at that which is before her; and [e] ye shall cast them into the palace, saith the Lord. A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

4 [f] Come to Beth-el, and transgress; at [g] Gilgal multiply transgression; and [h] bring your sacrifices every morning, [i] and your tithes after [k] three years:

5 [l] And [m] offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving with leaven, and proclaim and publish [n] the free offerings: [o] for [p] this liketh you, O ye children of Israel, saith the Lord God.

6 And I also have given you cleanness of [a] Psa. 22. 12. Ezek. 39. 18.——[b] Psa. 89. 35.——[c] Jer. 16. 16. Hab. 1. 15.——[d] Ezek. 12. 5, 12.——[e] Or, ye shall cast away the things of the palace.——[f] Ezek. 20. 39.——[g] Hos. 4. 15. & 12. 11. ch. 5. 5.

[h] Numb. 28. 3, 4.——[i] Deut. 14. 28.——[k] Heb. three years of days.——[l] Lev. 7. 13. & 23. 17.——[m] Heb. offer by burning.——[n] Lev. 22. 18, 21. Deut. 12. 6.——[o] Psa. 81. 12.——[p] Heb. so ye love.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IV.

Verse 1. Hear this word, ye kine of Bashan] Such an address was quite natural from the herdsman of Tekoa. Bashan was famous for the fertility of its soil, and its flocks and herds; and the prophet here represents the iniquitous, opulent, idle, lazy drones, whether men or women, under the idea of fatted bullocks, which were shortly to be led out to the slaughter.

Verse 2. He will take you away with hooks] Two modes of fishing are here alluded to:—1. Angling with rod, line, and baited hook. 2. That with the gaff, eel-spear, harpoon, or such like; the first used in catching small fish, to which the common people may be here represented; the second for catching large fish, such as leave the sea, and come up the rivers to deposit their spawn; or such as are caught in the sea, as sharks, whales, dolphins, and even the hippopotamos, to which the more powerful and opulent inhabitants may be likened. But as the words in the Text are generally feminine, it has been supposed that the prophecy is against the proud, powerful, voluptuous women. I rather think that the prophet speaks catachrestically; and means men of effeminate manners and idle lives. They are not the bulls of Bashan, but the cows; having little of the manly character remaining. Some understand the latter word as meaning a sort of basket or wicker fish nets.

Verse 3. And ye shall go out at the breaches] Probably the metaphor is here kept up. They shall be caught by the hooks, or by the nets; and though they may make breaches in the latter, by their flouncing when caught, they shall be taken out at these very breaches; and cast not into the palace, but into a reservoir to be kept a while, and afterwards be taken out to be destroyed. Samaria itself is the net; your adversaries shall besiege it, and make breaches in its walls. At those breaches ye shall endeavour to make your escape: but ye shall be caught and led into captivity, where most of you shall be destroyed. See Houbigant on this passage.

Verse 4. Come to Beth-el, and transgress] Spoken ironically. Go on to worship your calves at Beth-el; and multiply your transgressions at Gilgal; the very place where I rolled away the reproach of your fathers, by admitting them there into my covenant by circumcision. A place that should have ever been sacred to me: but you have now desecrated it by enormous idolatries. Let your morning and evening sacrifices be offered still to your senseless gods; and continue to support your present vicious priesthood, by the regular triennial tithes, which should have been employed in my service: and,

Verse 5. Offer a sacrifice of thanksgiving] To the senseless metal, and the unfeeling stock and stone images, from which ye never did, and never could, receive any help. Proceed yet farther; and bring free will offerings: testify superabundant gratitude to your wooden and metallic gods, to whom ye are under such immense imaginary obligations! Proclaim and publish these offerings, and set forth the perfections of the objects of your worship; and see what they can do for you, when I, Jehovah, shall send drought, and blasting, and famine, and pestilence, and the sword, among you.

Verse 6. Cleanness of teeth] Scarcity of bread, as immediately explained. Ye shall have no trouble in cleaning your teeth, for ye shall have nothing to eat.

Yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the Lord.] This teeth in all your cities, and want of bread in all your places: [a] yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

7 And also I have withholden the rain from you, when there were yet three months to the harvest: and I caused it to rain upon one city, and caused it not to rain upon another city: one piece was rained upon, and the piece whereupon it rained not withered.

8 So two or three cities wandered unto one city, to drink water: but they were not satisfied: [b] yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

9 [c] I have smitten you with blasting and mildew: [d] when your gardens and your vineyards and your fig trees and your olive trees increased, [e] the palmerworm devoured them: yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

10 I have sent among you the pestilence [f] after [g] the manner of Egypt: your young men have I slain with the sword, [h] and have taken away your horses; and I have made the stink of your camps to come up unto your nostrils: [i] yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

11 I have overthrown some of you, as God overthrew [k] Sodom and Gomorrah, [l] and ye were as a firebrand plucked out of the burning: [m] yet have ye not returned unto me, saith the LORD.

12 Therefore thus will I do unto thee, O Israel: and because I will do this unto thee, [n] prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.

13 For, lo, he that formeth the mountains, and createth the [o] wind, [p] and declareth unto man what is his thought, [q] that maketh the morning darkness, [r] and treadeth upon the high places of the earth, [s] The LORD, The God of hosts, is his name.

[a] Isa. 26. 11. Jer. 5. 3. Hag. 2. 17. ver. 8, 9.——[b] Ver. 6, 10, 11.——[c] Deut. 28. 22. Hag. 2. 17.——[d] Or, the multitude of your gardens, &c, did the palmerworm, &c.——[e] Joel 1. 4. & 2. 25.——[f] Or, in the way.——[g] Exod. 9. 3, 6. & 12. 29. Deut. 28. 27, 60. Psa. 78. 50.——[h] Heb. with the captivity of your horses, 2 Kings 13. 7.

[i] Ver. 6.——[k] Gen. 19. 24, 25. Isa. 13. 19. Jer. 49. 18.——[l] Zech. 3. 2. Jude 23.——[m] Ver. 6.——[n] See Ezek. 13. 5. & 22. 30. Luke 14. 31, 32.——[o] Or, spirit.——[p] Psa. 139. 2. Dan. 2. 28.——[q] Ch. 5. 8. & 8. 9.——[r] Deut. 32. 13. & 33. 29. Mic. 1. 3.——[s] Isa. 47. 4. Jer. 10. 16. ch. 5. 8. & 9. 6.

reprehension is repeated five times in this Chapter; and in it are strongly implied God's long-suffering, His various modes of fatherly chastisement, the ingratitude of the people, and their obstinate wickedness. The famine mentioned here is supposed to be that which is spoken of 2 Kings viii, 1: but it is most likely to have been that mentioned by Joel, chap. i and ii.

Verse 7. When there were yet three months to the harvest] St. Jerom says, from the end of April, when the latter rain falls, until harvest, there are three months, May, June, and July, in which no rain falls in Judea. The rain, therefore, that God had withheld from them, was that which was usual in the spring months, particularly in April.

I caused it to rain upon one city] To prove to them that this rain did not come fortuitously, or of necessity, God was pleased to make these most evident distinctions. One city had rain and could fill all its tanks, or cisterns, while a neighbouring city had none. One farm, or field, was well watered, and abundant in its crops, while one contiguous to it had not a shower. In these instances a particular Providence was most evident. And yet, they did not return to the Lord.

Verse 9. I have smitten you with blasting and mildew] He sent blasting and mildew on the crops, and the locust on the gardens, vineyards, and fields; and this in such a way as to shew it was a Divine judgment. They saw this; yet they did not return unto the Lord!

Verse 10. I have sent—the pestilence] After the blasting and the mildew, the pestilence came; and it acted among them as one of the plagues of Egypt. Besides this, He had suffered their enemies to attack, and prevail against them; alluding to the time in which the Syrians besieged Samaria, and reduced it to the most extreme necessity, when the head of an ass was sold for eighty pieces of silver, and the fourth part of a cab of dove's dung for five; and mothers ate the flesh of their children that had died through hunger, 2 Kings vi, 25. And the people were miraculously relieved by the total slaughter of the Syrians by the unseen hand of God, 2 Kings vii, 1, &c. And yet after all those signal judgments, and singular mercies, they did not return unto the Lord!

Verse 11. I have overthrown some of you] In the destruction of your cities I have shewn my judgments as signally as I did in the destruction of Sodom and Gomorrah; and those of you that did escape were as brands plucked out of the fire; if not consumed, yet much scorched. And as the judgment was evidently from my hand, so was the deliverance: and yet ye have not returned to me, saith the Lord.

Verse 12. Therefore thus will I do unto thee] I will continue my judgments, I will fight against you; and, because I am thus determined,—

Prepare to meet thy God, O Israel.] This is a military phrase, and here to be understood as a challenge to come out to battle. As if the Lord had said, I will attack you immediately. Throw yourselves into a posture of defence, summon your idols to your help; and try how far your strength, and that of your gods, will avail you against the unconquerable arm of the Lord of Hosts! This verse has been often painfully misapplied by public teachers;—it has no particular relation to the day of judgment, nor to the hour of death. These constructions are impositions on the Text.

Verse 13. He that formeth the mountains] Here is a powerful description of the majesty of God. He formed the earth; He created the wind; He knows the inmost thoughts of the heart; He is the Creator of darkness and light; He steps from mountain to mountain, and has all things under His feet!—Who is He who hath done, and can do, all these things? JEHOVAH ELOHIM TSEBAOTH, that is, his name. 1. The self-existing, eternal, and independent Being. 2. The God who is in covenant with mankind. 3. The universal Commander of all the hosts of earth and heaven. This name is farther illustrated in the following Chapter. These words are full of instruction, and may be a subject of profitable meditation to every serious mind.

CHAPTER V.

This Chapter opens with a tender and pathetic lamentation, in the style of a funeral song, over the house of Israel, 1, 2. The Prophet then glances at the awful threatenings denounced against them, 3; earnestly exhorting them to renounce their idols, and seek Jehovah, of whom he gives a very magnificent description, 4—9. He then reproves their injustice and oppression with great warmth and indignation; exhorts them again to repentance; and enforces his exhortation with the most awful threatenings delivered with great majesty and authority, and in images full of beauty and grandeur, 10—24. The Chapter concludes with observing that their idolatry was of long standing; that they increased the national guilt, by adding to the sins of their fathers; and that their punishment, therefore, should be great in proportion, 25—27. Formerly numbers of them were brought captive to Damascus, (2 Kings x, 32, 33:) but now they must go beyond it to Assyria, 2 Kings xv, 29; xvii, 6.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787 Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

HEAR ye this word which I [a] take up against you, even a lamentation, O house of Israel.

2 The virgin of Israel is fallen; she shall no more rise: she is forsaken upon her land; there is none to raise her up.

3 For thus saith the Lord GOD; The city that went out by a thousand shall leave a hundred, and that which went forth by a hundred shall leave ten, to the house of Israel.

4 For thus saith the LORD unto the house of Israel, [b] Seek ye me, [c] and ye shall live:

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

5 But seek not [d] Beth-el, nor enter into Gilgal, and pass not to [e] Beer-sheba: for Gilgal shall surely go into captivity, and [f] Beth-el shall come to nought.

6 [g] Seek the LORD, and ye shall live; lest he break out like fire in the house of Joseph and devour it, and there be none to quench it in Beth-el.

[a] Jer. 7. 29. Ezek. 19. 1. & 27. 2.—[b] 2 Chron. 15. 2. Jer. 29. 13. ver. 6.—[c] Isa. 55. 3.—[d] Ch. 4. 4.—[e] Ch. 8. 14.—[f] Hos. 4. 15. & 10. 3.—[g] Ver. 4.

NOTES ON CHAPTER V.

Verse 1. Hear ye this word] Attend to this doleful song which I make for the house of Israel.

Verse 2. The virgin of Israel] The kingdom of Israel, or the ten tribes, which were carried into captivity; and are now totally lost in the nations of the earth.

Verse 3. The city that went out by a thousand] The city that could easily have furnished, on any emergency, a thousand fighting men, can now produce scarcely one hundred, one in ten of the former number; and now of the hundred scarcely ten remains: so reduced was Israel when Shalmaneser besieged and took Samaria, and carried the residue into captivity.

Verse 4. Seek ye me, and ye shall live.] Cease your rebellion against me, return to me with your heart; and though consigned to death, ye shall be rescued and live. Deplorable as your case is, it is not utterly desperate.

Verse 5. But seek not Beth-el] There was one of Jeroboam's golden calves, and at Gilgal were carved images; both were places in which idolatry was triumphant. The prophet shews them that all hope from those quarters is utterly vain; for Gilgal shall go into captivity, and Beth-el be brought to nought. There is a play or paranomasia on the letters and words in this clause. הגלגל גלה יגלה ובית אל יהיה לאון ha-gilgal galeh yigeleh, u-beith el yeheyeh le-aven.—"This Gilgal shall go captive into captivity; and Beth-el (the house of God) shall be for Beth-aven, the house of iniquity."

Verse 6. Seek the LORD, and ye shall live] Repeated from verse 4.

In the house of Joseph] The Israelites of the ten tribes, of whom Ephraim and Manasseh, sons of Joseph, were the chief.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

7 Ye who [a] turn judgment to wormwood, and leave off righteousness in the earth,

8 Seek him that maketh the [b] seven stars and Orion, and turneth the shadow of death into the morning, [c] and maketh the day dark with night: that [d] calleth for the waters of the sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: [e] The LORD is his name:

9 That strengtheneth the [f] spoiled against the strong, so that the spoiled shall come against the fortress.

10 [g] They hate him that rebuketh in the gate, and they [h] abhor him that speaketh uprightly.

11 Forasmuch therefore as your treading is upon the poor, and ye take from him burdens of wheat: [i] ye have built houses of hewn stone, but ye shall not dwell in them; ye have planted [k] pleasant vineyards, but ye shall not drink wine of them.

12 For I know your manifold transgressions, and your mighty sins: [l] they afflict the just, they take [m] a bribe, and they [n] turn aside the poor in the gate from their right.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

13 Therefore [o] the prudent shall keep silence in that time; for it is an evil time.

14 Seek good, and not evil, that ye may live: and so the LORD, the God of hosts, shall be with you, [p] as ye have spoken.

15 [q] Hate the evil, and love the good, and establish judgment in the gate: [r] it may be that the LORD God of hosts will be gracious unto the remnant of Joseph.

16 Therefore the LORD, the God of hosts, the Lord, saith thus; Wailing shall be in all streets; and they shall say in all the highways, Alas! alas! and they shall call the husbandman to mourning, and [s] such as are skilful of lamentation to wailing.

17 And in all vineyards shall be wailing: for [t] I will pass through thee, saith the LORD.

---

[a] Ch. 6. 12.——[b] Job 9. 9. & 38. 31.——[c] Psa. 104. 20.——[d] Job 38. 34. ch. 9. 6.——[e] Ch. 4. 13.——[f] Heb. spoil.——[g] Isa. 29. 21.——[h] 1 Kings 22. 8.——[i] Deut. 28. 30, 38, 39. Mic. 6. 15. Zeph. 1. 13. Hag. 1. 6.——[k] Heb. vineyards of desire.

[l] Ch. 2. 26.——[m] Or. a ransom.——[n] Isa. 29. 21. ch. 2. 7.——[o] Ch. 6. 10.——[p] Mic. 3. 11.——[q] Psa. 34. 14. & 97. 10. Rom. 12. 9.——[r] Exod. 32. 30. 2 Kings 19. 4. Joel 2. 14.——[s] Jer. 9. 17.——[t] Exod. 12. 12. Nah. 1. 12.

Verse 7. Ye who turn judgment to wormwood] Who pervert judgment; causing him who obtains his suit, to mourn sorely over the expenses he has incurred in gaining his right.

Verse 8. That maketh the seven stars and Orion] Or, Hyades and Arcturus, Kimah and Kesil. See my Notes on Job ix, 9, and xxxviii, 32, where the subject of this verse is largely considered.

Turneth the shadow of death into the morning] Who makes day and night, light and darkness.

Calleth for the waters of the sea] Raising them up by evaporation, and collecting them into clouds.

And poureth them out] Causing them to drop down in showers upon the face of the earth. Who has done this? JEHOVAH is his name.

Verse 9. That strengtheneth the spoiled] Who takes the part of the poor and oppressed against the oppressor; and, in the course of His providence, sets up the former, and depresses the latter.

Verse 10. They hate him that rebuketh in the gate] They cannot bear an upright magistrate, and will not have righteous laws executed.

Verse 11. Your treading is upon the poor] You tread them under your feet, they form the road on which ye walk; and yet it was by oppressing and impoverishing them, that ye gained your riches.

Ye take from him burdens of wheat] Ye will have his bread, for doing him justice.

Verse 12. I know your manifold transgressions] I have marked the multitude of your smaller crimes as well as your mighty offences. Among their greater offences was—1. Their afflicting the righteous. 2. Taking bribes to blind their eyes in judgment. And, 3. Refusing to hear the poor, who had no money to give them.

Verse 13. The prudent shall keep silence] A wise man will consider that it is useless to complain. He can have no justice without bribes; and he has no money to give: consequently in such an evil time, it is best to keep silence.

Verse 14. Seek good, and not evil] Is there a greater mystery in the world than that a man, instead of seeking good, will seek evil, knowing that it is evil?

And so the LORD] As God is the Fountain of good, so they who seek the supreme good, seek Him: and they who seek shall find Him; for the Lord, the God of hosts, will be with him.

Verse 15. Hate the evil, and love the good] What ruins you,—avoid; what helps you,—cleave to. And, as a proof that you take this advice, purify the seats of justice; and then expect God to be gracious to the remnant of Joseph,—to the posterity of the ten tribes.

Verse 16. They shall call the husbandman to mourning] Because the crops have failed, and the ground has been tilled in vain.

Such as are skilful of lamentation] See the Note on Jer. ix, 17.

Verse 17. And in all vineyards shall be wailing] The places where festivity especially used to prevail.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

18 [a]Woe unto you that desire the day of the LORD! to what end is it for you? [b]the day of the LORD is darkness, and not light.

19 [c]As if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him; or went into the house, and leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.

20 Shall not the day of the LORD be darkness, and not light? even very dark, and no brightness in it?

21 [d]I hate, I despise your feast days, and [e]I will not [f]smell in your solemn assemblies.

22 [g]Though ye offer me burnt offerings and your meat offerings, I will not accept them: neither will I regard the [h]peace offerings of your fat beasts.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

23 Take thou away from me the noise of thy songs; for I will not hear the melody of thy viols.

24 [i]But let judgment [k]run down as waters, and righteousness as a mighty stream.

25 [l]Have ye offered unto me sacrifices and offerings in the wilderness forty years, O house of Israel?

[a] Isa. 5. 19. Jer. 17. 15. Ezek. 12. 22, 27. 2 Pet. 3. 4.——[b] Jer. 30. 7. Joel 2. 2. Zeph. 1. 15.——[c] Jer. 48. 44.——[d] Prov. 21. 27. Isa. 1. 11—16. Jer. 6. 20. Hos. 8. 13.——[e] Lev. 26. 31.

[f] Or, smell your holy days.——[g] Isa. 66. 3. Mic. 6. 6, 7.——[h] Or, thank offerings.——[i] Hos. 6. 6. Mic. 6. 8.——[k] Heb. roll.——[l] Deut. 32. 17. Josh. 24. 14. Ezek. 20. 8, 16, 24. Acts 7. 42, 43. See Isa. 43. 23.

I will pass through thee] As I passed, by the ministry of the destroying angel, through Egypt; not to spare, but to destroy.

Verse 18. Woe unto you that desire the day of the LORD] The prophet had often denounced the coming of God's day; that is, of a time of judgment: and the unbelievers had said,—Let his day come, that we may see it. Now the prophet tells them that that day would be to them darkness,—calamity; and not light,—not prosperity.

Verse 19. As if a man did flee from a lion, and a bear met him] They shall go from one evil to another. He who escapes from the lion's mouth shall fall into the bear's paws.

Incidit in Scyllam, cupiens vitare Charybdim.

The Israelites, under their king Menahem, wishing to avoid a civil war, called in Pul, king of Assyria, to help them. This led to a series of evils, inflicted by the Syrian and Assyrian kings, till at last Israel was ravaged by Shalmaneser, and carried into captivity. Thus, in avoiding one evil, they fell into another still more grievous.

Leaned his hand on the wall, and a serpent bit him.] Snakes and venomous animals are fond of taking up their lodging in walls of houses, where they can either find, or make holes; and it is dangerous to sit near them, or lean against them. In the East Indies they keep the faithful mongose, a species of ichneumon, in their houses, for the purpose of destroying the snakes that infest them.

Verse 21. I hate, I despise your feast days] I abominate those sacrificial festivals where there is no piety; and I despise them, because they pretend to be what they are not. This may refer to the three annual festivals which were still observed in a certain way among the Israelites.

Verse 22. The peace offerings of your fat beasts.] מריאיכם merieycem probably means buffaloes;—and so Bochart.

Verse 23. The noise of thy songs—the melody of thy viols.] They had both vocal and instrumental music in those sacrificial festivals; and God hated the noise of the one, and shut His ears against the melody of the other. In the first there was nothing but noise, because their hearts were not right with God; and in the latter there could be nothing but (זמרת zimrath) cutting and scraping, because there was no heart—no religious sense in the thing, and nearly as little in them that used in it. See on chap. vi, 5.

Verse 24. Let judgment run down] Let the execution of justice be everywhere like the showers that fall upon the land to render it fertile: and let righteousness in heart and life be like a mighty river, or the Jordan, that shall wind its course through the whole nation, and carry every abomination into the Dead sea. Let justice and righteousness prevail everywhere, and sweep their contraries out of the land.

Verse 25. Have ye offered unto me sacrifices] Some have been led to think that "during the forty years which the Israelites spent in the wilderness, between Egypt and the Promised Land, they did not offer any sacrifices; as, in their circumstances, it was impossible:—they offered none because they had none." But such people must have forgotten that when the covenant was made at Sinai, there were burnt-offerings and peace-offerings of oxen sacrificed to the Lord, Exod. xxiv, 5; and at the setting up of the tabernacle the twelve princes of the twelve tribes offered each a young bullock, a ram, and a lamb, for a burnt-offering; a kid for a sin-offering; two oxen, five rams, five he-goats, and five lambs, for a peace-offering, Numb. vii, 12, &c, which amounted to an immense number of victims offered in the course of the twelve days during which this feast of the dedication lasted. At the consecration of priests, bullocks and rams to a considerable number were offered, see Lev. viii, 1, &c: but they were not offered so regularly, nor in such abundance, as they were after the settlement in the Promised Land. Learned men, therefore, have considered this verse as speaking thus:—Did ye offer to me, during forty years in the wilderness, sacrifices in such a way as was pleasing to me! Ye did not; for your hearts were divided, and ye were generally in a spirit of insurrection or murmuring.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

26 But ye have borne [a] the tabernacle [b] of your Moloch and Chiun your images, the star of your god, which ye made to yourselves.

27 Therefore will I cause you to go into captivity [c] beyond Damascus, saith the LORD, [d] whose name is The God of hosts.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

[a] Or, Siccuth your king.——[b] 1 Kings 11. 33.

[c] 2 Kings 17. 6.——[d] Ch. 4. 13.

Verse 26. But ye have borne] The preceding verse spoke of their fathers; the present verse speaks of the Israelites then existing, who were so grievously addicted to idolatry, that they not only worshipped at stated public places the idols set up by public authority; but they carried their gods about with them every where.

The tabernacle of your Moloch] Probably a small portable shrine, with an image of their god in it,—such as Moloch; and the star, or representative, of their god Chiun. For an ample exposition of this verse see the Note on Acts vii, 42; to which let me add, that from Picart's Religious Ceremonies, Vol. III, p. 199, we find that there was an idol named Choun worshipped among the Peruvians from the remotest antiquity.

Verse 27. Will I cause you to go into captivity beyond Damascus] That is, into Assyria, the way to which, from Judea, was by Damascus.

But St. Stephen says, Acts vii, 43,—Beyond Babylon; because the Holy Spirit that was in him chose to extend the meaning of the original Text to that great and final captivity of the Jews in general, when Zedekiah, their last king, and the people of Judea, were carried into Mesopotamia, Armenia, and Media; see 2 Kings xvii, 7, 24. This captivity happened after the time of Amos.

CHAPTER VI.

The Prophet reproves his people for indulging themselves in luxurious ease, and forming alliances with their powerful idolatrous neighbours, 1. He asks if their lands or their lot be better than their own, 2, that they should choose to worship the gods of the Heathen, and forsake Jehovah. Then follows an amplification of the sin which the Prophet reproves, 3—6; to which he annexes very awful threatenings, confirmed by the oath of Jehovah, 7, 8. He next particularly specifies the punishment of their sins by pestilence, 9—11; by famine, or a drought that should harden the earth so that it could not be tilled, 12; and by the sword of the Assyrians, 14.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

WOE [a] to them that [b] are at ease in Zion, and trust in the mountain of Samaria, which are named [c] chief [d] of the nations, to whom the house of Israel came!

2 [e] Pass ye unto [f] Calneh, and see; and from thence go ye to [g] Hamath the great: then go down to [h] Gath

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

[a] Luke 6. 24.——[b] Or, are secure.——[c] Exod. 19. 5.——[d] Or, first-fruits.——[e] Jer. 2. 10.

[f] Isa. 10. 9. Taken cir. 794.——[g] 2 Kings 18. 34.——[h] Josh. 11. 22. 1 Sam. 5. 8. 2 Chron. 26. 6.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VI.

Verse 1. Woe to them that are at ease in Zion] For השאננים ha-shaananim, who dwell at ease, it has been proposed to read, השענים ha-shaâninim, who confidently lean, —the two words differing only in one letter, an y âin for an א aleph. They leaned confidently on Zion; supposing that, notwithstanding their iniquities, they should be saved for Zion's sake. Thus, the former clause will agree better with the latter,—"leaning upon Zion,"—and "trusting in the mountain of Samaria." Those that are at ease, may mean those who have no concern about the threatened judgments, and they who have no deep concern for the salvation of their own souls. Houbigant would read, Woe to them who despise Zion, and trust in Samaria. So the Septuagint; reading שנאים sanaim, hating, instead of שאננים shaananim, being at rest, tranquil. Calmet first proposed this conjecture;—Houbigant follows him.

Are named chief] Newcome renders, that are named after the chief of the nations. And observes, that the Hebrew word נקבי nekubey, is an allusion to marking a name or character by punctures. See on Isa. xliv, 5. They call themselves not after their religious ancestors, but after the chief of

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

of the Philistines: [a] be they better than these kingdoms? or their border greater than your border?

3 Ye that [b] put far away the [c] evil day, [d] and cause [e] the [f] seat of violence to come near;

4 That lie upon beds of ivory, and [g] stretch themselves upon their couches, and eat the lambs out of the flock, and the calves out of the midst of the stall;

5 [h] That [i] chant to the sound of the viol, and invent to themselves instruments of music, [k] like David;

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

6 That drink [l] wine in bowls, and anoint themselves with the chief ointments: [m] but they are not grieved for the [n] affliction of Joseph.

7 Therefore now shall they go captive with the first that go captive, and the banquet of them that stretched themselves shall be removed.

8 [o] The Lord God hath sworn by himself, saith the Lord the God of hosts, I abhor [p] the

[a] Nah. 3. 8.——[b] Ezek. 12. 27.——[c] Ch. 5. 18. & 9. 10.——[d] Ch. 5. 12. ver. 12.——[e] Psa. 94. 20.——[f] Or, habitation.——[g] Or, abound with superfluities.——[h] Isa. 5. 12.

[i] Or, quaver.——[k] 1 Chron. 23. 5.——[l] Or, in bowls of wine.——[m] Gen. 37. 25.——[n] Heb. breach.——[o] Jer. 51. 14. Heb. 6. 13, 17.——[p] Psa. 47. 4. Ezek. 24. 21. ch. 8. 7.

the idolatrous nations with whom they intermarry contrary to the law.

Perhaps the words here rather refer to the mountains and their temples, than to the people. The mountain of Zion, and the mountain of Samaria, were considered the chief, or most celebrated, among the nations, as the two kingdoms to which they belonged were the most distinguished on the earth.

Verse 2. Pass ye unto Calneh] This is, says Calmet, the Ctesiphon on the river Tigris.

Hamath] The same as Emesa. Hamath was a city on the Orontes, in Syria.

Gath] A well known town, and head of one of the five seigniories of the Philistines.

Be they better] You have no more reason to expect exemption from the consequences of your sins, than they had. They have been punished; so shall you. Why then will you trust in their gods, that could not save their own cities?

Verse 3. Ye that put far away the evil day] Woe to you who will not consider the day of approaching vengeance; but continue in your iniquity, and harden your hearts. Ye bring your iniquities nearer, and still suppose your punishment to be at a greater distance.

Verse 4. That lie upon beds of ivory] The word הוי hoi, woe, is understood at the beginning of each of these verses, first, third, fourth, fifth, and sixth. The beds mentioned here, may be either sofas to recline on at table, or beds to sleep on: and these among the ancients were ornamented with ivory inlaid. They were called lectos eburatos, by Plautus; lectus eburnos, by Horace. Probably those ornamented with shells, or mother of pearl, may be intended. Several works of this kind may be still seen in Palestine and other places. I have before me a cross brought from Jerusalem, all encrusted over with mother of pearl, and various figures chased on it.

There must have been a great deal of luxury and effeminacy among the Israelites at this time; and, consequently, abundance of riches. This was in the time of Jeroboam the second, when the kingdom had enjoyed a long peace. The description in the fourth, fifth, and sixth verses, is that of an Asiatic court even in the present day.

Verse 5. And invent to themselves instruments of music, like David] See the Note on 1 Chron. xxiii, 5; and see especially the Note on 2 Chron. xxix, 25. I believe that David was not authorized by the Lord to introduce that multitude of musical instruments into the Divine worship, of which we read: and I am satisfied that his conduct in this respect is most solemnly reprehended by this prophet; and I farther believe that the use of such instruments of music, in the Christian church, is without the sanction, and against the will, of God;—that they are subversive of the spirit of true devotion; and that they are sinful. If there was a woe to them who invented instruments of music, as did David, under the law, is there no woe, no curse, to them who invent them, and introduce them into the worship of God in the Christian church? I am an old man, and an old minister; and I here declare that I never knew them productive of any good in the worship of God; and have had reason to believe that they were productive of much evil. Music, as a science, I esteem and admire: but instruments of music in the house of God I abominate and abhor. This is the abuse of music.

The word הפרטים ha-poretim, which we render chant, and the Margin quaver, signifies to dance, to skip, &c. In the sight of such a text, fiddlers, drummers, waltzers, &c, may well tremble, who perform to excite detestable passions.

Verse 6. That drink wine in bowls] Perhaps the costliness of the drinking vessels, more than the quantity drank, is that which is here reprehended by the prophet. Drinking vessels of the most costly materials, and of the most exquisite workmanship, are still in use; and as to precious ointments and perfumes among the Jews, we have a proof that the contents of one small box was worth three hundred denarii, at least seven pounds ten shillings, of our money. See the case in the Gospels, John xii, 5, and the Note there.

Verse 7. With the first that go captive] The house of Israel shall be carried into captivity before the house of Judah.

Verse 8. The Lord God hath sworn by himself] בנפשו be-nephesho, by His soul, His being, existence.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

excellency of Jacob, and hate his palaces: therefore will I deliver up the city with all [a] that is therein.

9 And it shall come to pass, if there remain ten men in one house, that they shall die.

10 And a man's uncle shall take him up, and he that burneth him, to bring out the bones out of the house, and shall say unto him that is by the sides of the house, Is there yet any with thee? and he shall say, No. Then shall he say, [b] Hold thy tongue: [c] for [d] we may not make mention of the name of the LORD.

11 For, behold, [e] the LORD commandeth, [f] and he will smite the great house with [g] breaches, and the little house with clefts.

12 Shall horses run upon the rock? will one plow there with oxen? for [h] ye have turned judgment into gall, and the fruit of righteousness into hemlock:

13 Ye which rejoice in a thing of nought, which say, Have we not taken to us horns by our own strength?

14 But, behold, [i] I will raise up against you a nation, O house of Israel, saith the LORD the God of hosts; and they shall afflict you from the [k] entering in of Hamath unto the [l] river of the wilderness.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

[a] Heb. the fulness thereof.——[b] Ch. 5. 13.——[c] Ch. 8. 3.——[d] Or, they will not, or, have not.——[e] Isa. 55. 11.

[f] Ch. 3. 15.——[g] Or, droppings.——[h] Hos. 10. 4. ch. 5. 7.——[i] Jer. 5. 15.——[k] Numb. 34. 8. 1 Kings 8. 65.——[l] Or, valley.

Verse 9. Ten men—they shall die.] ALL shall be cut off by the sword, or captivity, or by famine.

Verse 10. A man's uncle shall take him up] Bp. Newcome says, this obscure verse seems to describe the effects of famine and pestilence during the siege of Samaria. The carcase shall be burnt; and the bones removed with no ceremony of funeral rites, and without the assistance of the nearest kinsman. Solitude shall reign in the house: and if one is left, he must be silent, (see chap. viii, 3,) and retired, lest he be plundered of his scanty provision! Burning the body, and then collecting the ashes, and putting them into an urn, was deemed the most honourable mode of burial.

Verse 11. He will smite the great house with breaches] The great and small shall equally suffer, no distinction shall be made; rich and poor shall fall together: death has got his commission, and he will spare none. Horace has a sentiment precisely like this, Carm. l. i, Od. iv, v. 13.

Pallida mors æquo pulsat pede pauperum TABERNAS, Regumque TURRES.

With equal pace impartial fate
Knocks at the palace as the cottage gate.

Verse 12. Shall horses run upon the rock?] First, they could not do it, because they were unshod; for the shoeing of horses with iron was not then known. Secondly, If they did run on the rock, it would be useless to their owner, and hurtful to themselves. Thirdly, And it would be as useless to plow on the rock with oxen; for there it would be impossible to sow with any advantage. Fourthly, Just as useless and injurious would it be to put gall in the place of judgment, and hemlock in the place of righteousness. You have not only been labouring in vain for yourselves, but you have also been oppressive to others; and for both ye shall suffer.

Verse 13. Ye which rejoice in a thing of nought] In your idols: for an idol is nothing in the world.

Have we not taken to us horns] We have arrived to power and dignity by our strength. Horns were the symbols of power and authority. So Horace,—

Vina parant animos: tum pauper cornua sumet.
"Wine repairs our strength, and furnishes the poor with horns."

At such times they think themselves as great as the greatest.

Verse 14. I will raise up against you a nation] The Assyrians, under Pul, Tiglath-pileser, and Shalmaneser, who subdued the Israelites various times; and at last carried them away captive in the days of Hoshea, the last king of Israel, in Samaria.

From the entering in of Hamath (on the north,) unto the river of the wilderness—Besor, which empties itself into the sea, not far from Gaza, and was in the southern part of the tribe of Simeon.

CHAPTER VII.

In this Chapter God represents to Amos by three several visions the judgments He is about to bring on Israel. The first is a plague of locusts threatening to cut off the hopes of the harvest, by attacking it in time of the second growth; the first luxuriances of the crop being probably mowed for the king's horses, 1—3. The next vision threatens a judgment by fire, which would consume a great part, 4—6; and the third a total overthrow of Israel, levelling it as it were by a line, 7—9. The rest of the Chapter is a denunciation of heavy judgments against Amaziah, priest of Beth-el, who had brought an accusation to the king against the Prophet, 10—17.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

THUS hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me; and, behold, he formed [a] grasshoppers in the beginning of the shooting up of the latter growth; and, lo, it was the latter growth after the king's mowings.

2 And it came to pass, that when they had made an end of eating the grass of the land, then I said, O Lord GOD, forgive, I beseech thee: [b] by [c] whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small.

3 [d] The LORD repented for this: It shall not be, saith the LORD.

4 Thus hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and, behold, the Lord GOD called to contend by fire, and it devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.

5 Then said I, O Lord GOD, cease, I beseech thee: [e] by whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

6 The LORD repented for this: This also shall not be, saith the Lord GOD.

7 Thus he shewed me: and, behold, the Lord stood upon a wall made by a plumbline, with a plumbline in his hand.

8 And the LORD said unto me, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A plumbline. Then said the Lord, Behold, [f] I will set a plumbline in the midst of my people Israel: [g] I will not again pass by them any more:

9 [h] And the high places of Isaac shall be desolate, and the sanctuaries of Israel shall be laid waste; and I will rise against [i] the house of Jeroboam with the sword.

---

[a] Or, green worms.——[b] Isa. 51. 19. ver. 5.——[c] Or, who of (or, for,) Jacob shall stand?——[d] Deut. 32. 36. ver. 6. Jonah 3. 10. Jam. 5. 16.——[e] Ver. 2, 3.

[f] See 2 Kings 21. 13. Isa. 28. 17. & 34. 11. Lam. 2. 8.——[g] Ch. 8. 2. Mic. 7. 18.——[h] Beersheba, Gen. 26. 25. & 46. 1. ch. 5. 5. & 8. 14.——[i] 1 Kings 16. 3.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VII.

Verse 1. Behold, he formed grasshoppers] גבי gobai, is generally understood here to signify locusts. See the Notes on Joel i, and ii.

The shooting up of the latter growth] The early crop of grass had been already mowed and housed. The second crop, or rowing, as it is called in some places, was not yet begun. By the king's mowings, we may understand this first crop; a portion of which the king probably claimed, as being the better hay: but the words may signify simply the prime crop; that which is the best of the whole. Houbigant thinks the shearing of the king's sheep is meant.

Verse 2. By whom shall Jacob arise?] The locusts, the symbols of the many enemies that had impoverished Jerusalem, having devoured much of the produce of the land, were proceeding, till at the intercession of the prophet, they were removed. Then, seeing in the light of prophecy the nation in every sense brought low, he cries, By whom shall Jacob arise? for he is small. Calmet justly remarks,—After the death of Jeroboam the Second the kingdom, so flourishing and powerful before, was reduced to such weakness that it was obliged to have recourse to strangers for support. Menahem applied to Pul, king of Assyria, whence arose the final misery of the state.

Verse 3. The LORD repented] Changed His purpose of destroying them by the locusts. See ver. 6.

Verse 4. The Lord GOD called to contend by fire] Permitted war, both civil and foreign, to harass the land, after the death of Jeroboam the Second. These wars would have totally destroyed it had not the prophet interceded.

It devoured the great deep, and did eat up a part.] We are here to understand the partially destructive wars which afterwards took place; for the Lord causes all these things to pass before the eyes of Amos in the vision of prophecy; and intimates that, at the intercession of his prophets, total ruin should be prevented.

Verse 7. With a plumbline in his hand.] This appears to be intended as an emblem of strict justice; and intimated that God would now visit them according to their iniquities.

Verse 8. I will set a plumbline] I will visit them by justice, without any mixture of mercy.

Verse 9. And the high places of Isaac shall be desolate] Their total destruction is at hand. The high place of Isaac was Beersheba, where Isaac had built an altar to the Lord, Gen. xxvi, 25. This high place, which had been abused to idolatrous uses, was demolished by Josiah, king of Judah, as we read in 2 Kings xxiii, 8, for he defiled all the high places from Geba to Beersheba.

I will rise against the house of Jeroboam] The Lord had promised to Jehu, the ancestor of Jeroboam, that his family should sit on the throne of Israel to the fourth generation. Zechariah, the son of Jeroboam, was the fourth in

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

10 Then Amaziah [a] the priest of Beth-el sent to [b] Jeroboam king of Israel, saying, Amos hath conspired against thee in the midst of the house of Israel: the land is not able to bear all his words.

11 For thus Amos saith, Jeroboam shall die by the sword, and Israel shall surely be led away captive out of their own land.

12 Also Amaziah said unto Amos, O thou seer, go, flee thee away into the land of Judah, and there eat bread, and prophesy there:

13 But [c] prophesy not again any more at Beth-el: [d] for it is the king's [e] chapel, and it is the [f] king's court.

14 Then answered Amos, and said to Amaziah, I was no prophet, neither was I [g] a prophet's son; [h] but I was a herdman, and a gatherer of [i] sycamore fruit:

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

15 And the LORD took me [k] as I followed the flock, and the LORD said unto me, Go, prophesy unto my people Israel.

16 Now therefore hear thou the word of the LORD: Thou sayest, Prophesy not against Israel, and [l] drop not thy word against the house of Isaac.

17 [m] Therefore thus saith the LORD; [n] Thy wife shall be a harlot in the city, and thy sons and thy daughters shall fall by the sword, and thy land shall be divided by line; and thou shalt die in a polluted land: and Israel shall surely go into captivity forth of his land.

[a] 1 Kings 12. 32.——[b] 2 Kings 14. 23.——[c] Ch. 2. 12.——[d] 1 Kings 12. 32. & 13. 1.——[e] Or, sanctuary.——[f] Heb. house of the kingdom.——[g] 1 Kings 20. 35. 2 Kings 2. 5. & 4. 38. & 6. 1.

[h] Ch. 1. 1. Zech. 13. 5.——[i] Or, wild figs.——[k] Heb. from behind.——[l] Ezek. 21. 2. Micah 2. 6.——[m] See Jer. 28. 12. & 29. 21, 25, 31, 32.——[n] Isa. 13. 16. Lam. 5. 11. Hos. 4. 13. Zech. 14. 2.

order after Jehu: and on him the threatening in this verse fell; for he was murdered by Shallum after he had reigned six months, and in him the family became extinct. See 2 Kings x, 30, and xv, 8—10.

Verse 10. Amaziah the priest of Beth-el] The idolatrous priest who had been established by the king to maintain the worship of the golden calves which Jeroboam the elder had set up at this place.

Amos hath conspired against thee] This was truly a lying prophet: there is not one word of truth in this message which he sent to Jeroboam. Amos had not conspired against the king,—had not said that Jeroboam should die by the sword,—and had not said that Israel should be carried away captive; though this last was implied in God's threatenings, and afterwards delivered by this prophet; see ver. 17.

Verse 12. O thou seer] He pretends kindness to the prophet; and counsels him to go into Judea, and prophesy there and be safe; even in the time that he had accused him of high treason against Jeroboam. Hireling priests of this kind have ever been the great enemies of the true prophets of God; and, when they could bring no charge of false doctrine or immorality against them, have accused them of conspiring against the government; and, because they have preached against sin, have held them up as exciting insurrection among the people.

Verse 13. But prophesy not—at Beth-el] He must not speak against idolatry, because that was the king's religion; and he who speaks against the king's religion must be an enemy to the state. This was the doctrine held here by Popish James II, and his insidious Jesuit hireling priests; till God, in His mercy, put this pitiful tyrant down; and with him his false prophets, and the degrading superstition which they endeavoured to establish these lands.

Verse 14. I was no prophet] I am an extraordinary messenger of God. I am not called to the prophetic office but for this occasion. I have no message to Judah; and, therefore, need not go there. I have a message to Israel alone, and I must faithfully deliver it.

For the account which Amos gives here of himself, see the Introduction.

Verse 16. Now therefore hear thou the word of the LORD] While he was speaking in his own vindication, God seems to have inspired him with the awful prediction which he immediately delivers.

Verse 17. Thy wife shall be a harlot] As this was the word of the Lord, so it was fulfilled: but, as we have no farther account of this idolatrous priest, so we cannot tell in what circumstances these threatenings were executed. 1. His wife was to be a public prostitute: she was probably such already privately in the Temple, as the wife of an idolatrous priest. 2. His sons and daughters were to fall by the sword. 3. Their inheritance was to be taken by strangers. 4. And himself was to die a captive in a heathen land.

Israel shall surely go into captivity] He now declares fully what he had not declared before, though Amaziah had made it a subject of accusation. This particular was probably revealed at this instant; as well as those which concerned Amaziah and his family.

CHAPTER VIII.

This Chapter begins with a fourth vision denoting the certainty and nearness of the destruction of Israel, 1—3. The Prophet then proceeds to reprove their oppression and injustice, 4—7. Strong and beautiful figures by which is represented the complete dissolution of the Israelitish polity, 8—10. The people threatened with a most awful judgment: a FAMINE of the word of God, 11—14.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

THUS hath the Lord GOD shewed unto me: and behold a basket of summer fruit.

2 And he said, Amos, what seest thou? And I said, A basket of summer fruit. Then said the LORD unto me, [a] The end is come upon my people of Israel; [b] I will not again pass by them any more.

3 And [c] the songs of the temple [d] shall be howlings in that day, saith the Lord GOD: there shall be many dead bodies in every place; [e] they shall cast them forth [f] with silence.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

4 Hear this, O ye that [g] swallow up the needy, even to make the poor of the land to fail,

5 Saying, When will the [h] new moon be gone, that we may sell corn? and [i] the sabbath, that we may [k] set forth wheat, [l] making the ephah small, and the shekel great, and

[a] Ezek. 7. 2.——[b] Ch. 7. 8.——[c] Ch. 5. 23.——[d] Heb. shall howl.——[e] Ch. 6. 9, 10.——[f] Heb. be silent.

[g] Psa. 14. 4. Prov. 30. 14.——[h] Or, month.——[i] Neh. 13. 15, 16.——[k] Heb. open.——[l] Mic. 6. 10, 11.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VIII.

Verse 1. A basket of summer fruit.] As summer fruit was not proper for preserving, but must be eaten as soon as gathered; so the Lord intimates by this symbol that the kingdom of Israel was now ripe for destruction, and that punishment must descend upon it without delay. Some think the prophet means the fruits at the end of autumn. And, as after the autumn no fruit could be expected; so Israel's summer is gone by, her autumn is ended, and she shall yield no more fruit. Or, the autumn of her iniquity is come; the measure is filled up, and now she shall gather the fruit of her sin in the abundance of her punishment.

Verse 2. A basket of summer fruit] כלוב קיץ kelub kayits: The end is come—בא הקץ ba hakets: here is a paranomasia, or play upon the words;—kayits, fruit; and kets, the end, both coming from the same root. See the Note on Ezek. vii, 2, where there is a similar play on the same word.

I will not again pass by them any more] I will be no longer their Guardian.

Verse 3. The songs of the temple] Instead of שירות shiroth, songs, Houbigant reads, שורות shoroth, the singing women; and Newcome follows him,—"And the singing women of the palace shall howl in that day." Instead of joyous songs they shall have nothing but lamentation.

They shall cast them forth with silence.] Every place shall be filled with the dead, and a dreadful silence shall reign universally; the few that remain being afraid either to speak or complain, or even to chant a funeral dirge for the most respectable among the dead.

Verse 4. Hear this, O ye that swallow up the needy] Ye that bruise the poor,—exact from them, and tread them under foot.

Verse 5. When will the new moon be gone] This was kept as a kind of holy day, not by Divine command, but by custom. The sabbath was strictly holy; and yet so covetous were they that they grudged to give to God, and their own souls, this seventh portion of time. But bad and execrable as they were, they neither set forth their corn, nor their wheat, nor any other kind of merchandise, on the sabbath. They were saints then when compared to multitudes called Christians, who keep their shops either partially or entirely open on the Lord's day, and buy and sell without any scruple of conscience. Conscience! alas! they have none; it is seared as with a hot iron. The strong man armed, in them, is quiet; for all his goods are in peace.

Making the ephah small, and the shekel great] Giving short measure, and taking full price: or, buying with a heavy weight, and selling with one that was light.

Falsifying the balances] Having one scale light, and the other weighty; one end of the beam long, and the other short. A few months ago I detected a knave with such balances;—with a slip of his finger along the beam he altered the centre, which made three ounces short weight in every pound. He did it so dexterously that, though I knew he was cheating, or, as the prophet expresses it, was falsifying the balances by deceit, it was some time before I could detect the fraud; and not till I had been several times cheated by this accomplished knave. So we find that though the knaves of ancient Israel are dead, they have left their successors behind them.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

[a] falsifying the balances by deceit?
6 That we may buy the poor for [b] silver, and the needy for a pair of shoes; yea, and sell the refuse of the wheat?

7 The LORD hath sworn by [c] the excellency of Jacob, Surely [d] I will never forget any of their works.

8 [e] Shall not the land tremble for this, and every one mourn that dwelleth therein? and it shall rise up wholly as a flood; and it shall be cast out and drowned, [f] as by the flood of Egypt.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the Lord GOD, [g] that I will cause the sun to go down at noon, and I will darken the earth in the clear day:

10 [h] And I will turn your feasts into mourning and all your songs into lamentation; [i] and I will bring up sackcloth upon all loins, and baldness upon every head; [k] and I will make it as the mourning of an only son, and the end thereof as a bitter day.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

11 Behold, the days come, saith the Lord GOD, that I will send a famine in the land, not a famine of bread, nor a thirst for water, but [l] of hearing the words of the LORD:

12 And they shall wander from sea to sea, and from the north even to the east, they shall run to and fro to seek the word of the LORD, and shall not find it.

13 In that day shall the fair virgins and young men faint for thirst.

14 They that [m] swear by [n] the sin of Samaria, and say, Thy god, O Dan, liveth; and, The [o] manner [p] of Beersheba liveth; even they shall fall, and never rise up again.

---

[a] Heb. perverting the balances of deceit, Hos. 12. 7.——[b] Ch. 2. 6.——[c] Ch. 6. 8.——[d] Hos. 8. 13. & 9. 9.——[e] Hos. 4. 3.——[f] Ch. 9. 5.——[g] Job 5. 14. Isa. 13. 10. & 59. 9, 10. Jer. 15. 9. Mic. 3. 6.——[h] Isa. 1. 14. Tob. 2. 6.

[i] Isa. 15. 2, 3. Jer. 48. 37. Ezek. 7. 18. & 27. 31.——[k] Jer. 6. 26. Zech. 12. 10.——[l] 1 Sam. 3. 1. Psa. 74. 9. Ezek. 7. 26.——[m] Hos. 4. 15.——[n] Deut. 9. 21.——[o] Heb. way: See Acts 9. 2. & 18. 25. & 19. 9, 23. & 24. 14.——[p] Ch. 5. 5.

Verse 6. That we may buy the poor for silver] Buying their services for such a time, with just money enough to clear them from other creditors.

And the needy for a pair of shoes] See on chap. ii, 6.

And sell the refuse of the wheat] Selling bad wheat and damaged flour to poor people, as good; knowing that such cannot afford to prosecute them.

Verse 7. By the excellency of Jacob] By the state of eminence to which He had raised the descendants of Jacob; or, by the excellent ONE of Jacob, that is, HIMSELF. The meaning is,—"As surely as I have raised you to such a state of eminence, so surely will I punish you in proportion to your advantages and your crimes."

Verse 8. Shall not the land tremble for this] It is supposed that an earthquake is here intended; and that the rising up and subsiding as a flood refers to that heaving motion that takes place in an earthquake, and which the prophet here compares to the overflowing and subsiding of the waters of the Nile.

Verse 9. I will cause the sun to go down at noon] This may either refer to that darkness which often precedes and accompanies earthquakes; or, to an eclipse. Abp. Ussher has shewn that about eleven years after Amos prophesied there were two great eclipses of the sun; one at the feast of tabernacles, and the other some time before the pass-over. The prophet may refer to the darkness occasioned by those eclipses; yet I rather think the whole may refer to the earthquake.

Verse 10. I will turn your feasts into mourning] See on ver. 3.

A bitter day.] A time of grievous calamity.

Verse 11. A famine in the land] The most grievous of all famines,—a famine of the words of Jehovah; a time in which no prophet should appear,—no spiritual counsellor,—no faithful reprover,—none any longer who would point out the way of salvation, or who would assure them of the mercy of God on their repentance and return to Him. This is the severest of God's judgments on this side the worm that never dieth, and the fire that is never quenched.

Verse 12. They shall wander from sea to sea] From the Mediterranean to the Dead sea; or from west to east, and from north to south; to seek the word of the Lord,—to find a prophet, or any person authorized by God to shew them the end of their calamities. In this state they shall continue, because they have rejected Him who is the Bread of life.

Verse 14. By the sin of Samaria] Baal, who was worshipped here.

Thy god, O Dan] The golden calf, or ox, the representative of the Egyptian god Apis, or Osiris.

The manner of Beer-sheba] The worship, or object of worship. Another of the golden calves which Jeroboam had set up there. The word דרך derech, way, is here taken for the object and mode of worship; see Acts xix, 9, where way is taken for the creed and form of Divine worship as practised by the followers of Christ, and by which they were distinguished from the Jews. See also Acts ix, 2.

CHAPTER IX.

The first part of this Chapter contains another vision, in which God is represented as declaring the final ruin of the kingdom of Israel, and the general dispersion of the people, 1—10. The Prophet then passes to the great blessedness of the people of God under the Gospel dispensation, 11—15. See Acts xv, 15, 16.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

I SAW the Lord standing upon the altar: and he said, Smite the [a] lintel of the door, that the posts may shake: and [b] cut [c] them in the head, all of them; and I will slay the last of them with the sword: [d] he that fleeth of them shall not flee away, and he that escapeth of them shall not be delivered.

2 [e] Though they dig into hell, thence shall mine hand take them; [f] though they climb up to heaven, thence will I bring them down:

3 And though they hide themselves in the top of Carmel, I will search and take them out thence; and though they be hid from my sight in the bottom of the sea, thence will I command the serpent, and he shall bite them:

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

4 And though they go into captivity before their enemies, [g] thence will I command the sword, and it shall slay them: and [h] I will set mine eyes upon them for evil, and not for good.

5 And the Lord GOD of hosts is he that toucheth the land, and it shall [i] melt, [k] and all that dwell therein shall mourn: and it shall rise up wholly like a flood; and shall be drowned, as by the flood of Egypt.

6 It is he that buildeth his [l] [m] stories [n] in the heaven, and hath founded his [o] troop in the earth; he that [p] calleth for the waters of the

[a] Or, chapiter, or knop.——[b] Or, wound them.——[c] Psa. 68. 21. Hab. 3. 13.——[d] Ch. 2. 14.——[e] Psa. 139. 8, &c.——[f] Job 20. 6. Jer. 51. 53. Obad. 4.

[g] Lev. 26. 33. Deut. 28. 65. Ezek. 5. 12.——[h] Lev. 17. 10. Jer. 44. 11.——[i] Mic. 1. 4.——[k] Ch. 8. 8.——[l] Or, spheres.——[m] Heb. ascensions.——[n] Psa. 104. 3, 13.——[o] Or, bundle.——[p] Ch. 5. 8.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IX.

Verse 1. I saw the Lord standing upon the altar] As this is a continuation of the preceding prophecy, the altar here may be one of those either at Dan or Beer-sheba.

Smite the lintel] Either the piece of timber that binds the wall above the door; or the upper part of the door frame, in which the cheeks, or side posts, are inserted, and which corresponds to the threshold, or lower part of the door frame.

And cut them in the head] Let all the lintels of all the doors of all those temples be thus cut, as a sign that the whole shall be thrown down and totally demolished. Or, this may refer to their heads,—chief men; who were principals in these transgressions. Mark their temples, their priests, their prophets, and their princes, for destruction.

He that fleeth—shall not flee away] He shall be caught before he can get out of the reach of danger.

And he that escapeth (that makes good his flight)—shall not be delivered.] Captivity, famine, or sword, shall reach him even there.

Verse 2. Though they dig into hell] Though they should get into the deepest caverns; though they climb up to heaven—get to the most inaccessible heights; I will drag them up from the one, and pull them down from the other.

Verse 3. Though they hide themselves] All these are metaphorical expressions, to shew the impossibility of escape.

Verse 4. I will set mine eyes upon them for evil] I will use that very providence against them which before worked for their good. Should they look upward, they shall see nothing but the terrible lightning-like eye of a sin-avenging God.

Verse 5. The Lord GOD of hosts is he] So powerful is he that a touch of His hand shall melt, or dissolve, the land, and cause all its inhabitants to mourn. Here is still a reference to the earthquake. See the Note, chap. viii, 8, where the same images are used.

Verse 6. Buildeth his stories in the heaven] There is here an allusion to large houses, where there are cellars, or places dug in the ground as repositories for corn; middle apartments, or stories, for the families to live in; and the house top for persons to take the air upon. There may be here a reference to the various systems which God has made in illimitable space, transcending each other as the planets do in our solar system: and thus we find Solomon speaking when addressing the Most High,—The heavens and the heaven of heavens cannot contain thee, השמים ושמי השמים ha-shemayim u-shemey ha-shemayim. 1 Kings viii, 27. SIX heavens are necessarily implied in these three words. According to the points, the first and third are in the dual number: and the second is the contracted form of the plural. But how many more spheres may be intended who can tell? There may be millions of millions of stellar systems in unlimited space;—and then what are all these to the VAST IMMENSITY of GOD!

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

sea, and poureth them out upon the face of the earth: [a] The LORD is his name.

7 Are ye not as children of the Ethiopians unto me, O children of Israel? saith the LORD. Have not I brought up Israel out of the land of Egypt? and the [b] Philistines from [c] Caphtor, and the Syrians from [d] Kir?

8 Behold, [e] the eyes of the Lord GOD are upon the sinful kingdom, and I [f] will destroy it from off the face of the earth; saving that I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob, saith the LORD.

9 For, lo, I will command, and I will [g] sift the house of Israel among all nations, like as corn is sifted in a sieve, yet shall not the least [h] grain fall upon the earth.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

10 All the sinners of my people shall die by the sword, [i] which say, The evil shall not overtake nor prevent us.

11 [k] In that day will I raise up the tabernacle of David that is fallen, and [l] close up the breaches thereof; and I will raise up his ruins, and I will build it as in the days of old:

[a] Ch. 4. 13.——[b] Jer. 47. 4.——[c] Deut. 2. 23. Jer. 47. 4.——[d] Ch. 1. 5.——[e] Ver. 4.——[f] Jer. 30. 11. & 31. 35, 36. Obad. 16, 17.

[g] Heb. cause to move.——[h] Heb. stone.——[i] Ch. 6. 3.——[k] Acts 15. 16, 17.——[l] Heb. hedge, or, wall.

Hath founded his troop in the earth] אגדתו agudato, from אגד agad, to bind, or gather together, possibly meaning the seas and other collections of waters which He has gathered together and bound by His perpetual decree, that they cannot pass; yet, when he calleth for these very waters, as in the general deluge, He poureth them out upon the face of the earth.

The LORD is his name.] This points out His infinite essence. But, what is that essence? and what is His nature?—and what His immensity, and eternity? What archangel can tell?

Verse 7. The children of the Ethiopians] Or Chushites. Chus was the son of Ham, Gen. x, 6; and his descendants inhabited a part of Arabia Petræa and Arabia Felix. All this stock was universally despised. See Bochart.

The Philistines from Caphtor] The island of Crete, the people of which were the Cherethim. See 1 Sam. xxx, 14; Ezek. xxv, 16; Zeph. ii, 5.

The Syrians from Kir?] Perhaps a city of the Medes, Isa. xxii, 6. Aram, from whom Syria had its name, was the son of Shem, Gen. x, 22. Part of his descendants settled in this city, and part in Aram Naharaim, "Syria of the two rivers," viz. Mesopotamia, included between the Tigris and the Euphrates.

The meaning of the verse is this:—Do not presume on my having brought you out of the land of Egypt and house of bondage, into a land flowing with milk and honey! I have brought other nations, and some of your neighbours, who are your enemies, from comparatively barren countries, into fruitful territories; such, for instance, as the Philistines from Caphtor, and the Syrians from Kir.

Verse 8. The eyes of the Lord GOD are upon the sinful kingdom] The kingdom of Israel, peculiarly sinful; and, therefore, to be signally destroyed by the Assyrians.

I will not utterly destroy the house of Jacob] The race shall not become extinct: I will reserve them as monuments of my justice; and, finally, of my mercy.

Verse 9. I will sift the house of Israel among all nations] I will disperse them over the face of the earth; and yet I will so order it, that the good shall not be lost; for though they shall be mixed among distant nations, yet there shall be a general restoration of them to their own land.

The least grain] צרור tseror; little stone, pebble, or gravel. Not one of them howsoever little or contemptible, when the time comes, shall be left behind. All shall be collected in Christ, and brought into their own land.

Verse 10. All the sinners of my people] Those who are the boldest and most incredulous; especially they who despise my warnings, and say the evil day shall not overtake nor prevent us; they shall die by the sword. It is no evidence of a man's safety, that he is presumptuously fearless. There is a blessing to him, who trembles at God's word.

Verse 11. Will I raise up the tabernacle of David] It is well known that the kingdom of Israel, the most profane and idolatrous, fell first; and that the kingdom of Judah continued long after, and enjoyed considerable prosperity under Hezekiah and Josiah. The remnant of the Israelites that were left by the Assyrians became united to the kingdom of Judah; and of the others, many afterwards joined them: but this comparatively short prosperity and respite, previously to the Babylonish captivity, could not be that, as Calmet justly observes, which is mentioned here. This could not be called closing up the breaches, raising up the ruins, and building it as in the days of old: nor has any state of this kind taken place since; and, consequently, the prophecy remains to be fulfilled. It must therefore refer to their restoration under the gospel, when they shall receive the Lord Jesus as their Messiah, and be by him restored to their own land. See these words quoted by James, Acts xv, 17. Then indeed it is likely that they shall possess the remnant of Edom, and have the whole length and breadth of Immanuel's land, ver. 12. Nor can it be supposed that the victories gained by the Asmoneans could be that intended by the prophet, and which he describes in such lofty terms. These victories procured only a short respite, and a very imperfect re-establishment of the tabernacle of David; and could not warrant the terms of the prediction in these verses.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

12 [a] That they may possess the remnant of [b] Edom, and of all the heathen, [c] which are called by my name, saith the LORD that doeth this.

13 Behold, the [d] days come, saith the LORD, that the plowman shall overtake the reaper, and the treader of grapes him that [e] soweth seed; [f] and the mountain shall drop [g] sweet wine, and all the hills shall melt.

14 [h] And I will bring again the captivity of my people of Israel, and [i] they shall build the waste cities, and inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine thereof; they shall also make gardens, and eat the fruit of them.

A. M. cir. 3217. B. C. cir. 787. Ante U. C. 34. Amulii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 10.

15 And I will plant them upon their land, and [k] they shall no more be pulled up out of their land which I have given them, saith the LORD thy God.

---

[a] Obad. 19.——[b] Numb. 24. 18.——[c] Heb. upon whom my name is called.——[d] Lev. 26. 5.——[e] Heb. draweth forth.——[f] Joel 3. 18.

[g] Or, new wine.——[h] Jer. 30. 3.——[i] Isa. 61. 4. & 65. 21. Ezek. 36. 33—36.——[k] Isa. 60. 21. Jer. 32. 41. Ezek. 34. 28. Joel 3. 20.

Verse 12. That they may possess the remnant of Edom] Bp. Newcome translates this clause as follows:—That the residue of MEN may seek Jehovah, and all the heathen who are called by my name. Here, instead of אדום Edom, he reads אדם Adam, men or mankind, which is the reading of the Arabic, and some MSS. of the Syriac, and of Acts xv, 17.

The Pachomiam MS. of the Septuagint adds here οπως εκζητωσι με, that they may seek me. And the Arabic has الرب the Lord; and instead of יירשו yireshu, "they shall possess," the learned Bishop seems to have read ידרשו yidroshu, "they may seek;" and thus the Text resembles the quotation by St. James, Acts xv, 17, "That the residue of men might seek after the Lord. It is strange that not one of the MSS. collated by Kennicott and De Rossi, nor any of my own, favours or countenances any of these alterations. I am of opinion, therefore, that we must dismiss all these conjectural emendations, and take the Hebrew Text as we find it. That it speaks of the conversion of the Jews, in gospel times, we have the authority of the New Testament as above to prove; and if we cannot make the words, as they stand there, entirely to agree with the words here, the subject is not affected by it. The Jews shall be converted and restored, and this text in both Covenants is a proof of it.

Verse 13. The plowman shall overtake the reaper] All the seasons shall succeed in due and natural order: but the crops shall be so copious in the fields and in the vineyards, that a long time shall be employed in gathering and disposing of them, so that the season of plowing, sowing, gathering the grapes, treading the wine-press, &c, shall press on the heels of each other; so vast will be the abundance, and so long the time necessary to gather and cure the grain and fruits. We are informed by travellers in the Holy Land, Barbary, &c, that the vintage at Aleppo lasts from the fifteenth of September to the middle of November; and that the sowing season begins at the close of October, and lasts through all November. Here, then, the plowman, sower, grape-gatherer, and operator at the wine-press, not only succeed each other, but have parts of these operations going on at the same time. But great fertility in the land, abundance in the crops, and regularity of the seasons, seem to be the things which the prophet especially predicts. These are all poetical and prophetical images, by which happy times are pointed out.

Verse 14. They shall plant vineyards, and drink the wine] When threatened with great evils, chap. v, 11, it is said, They shall plant pleasant vineyards, but shall not drink the wine of them. Previously to their restoration, they shall labour for others; after their restoration, they shall labour for themselves.

Verse 15. I will plant them upon their land] They shall receive a permanent establishment there.

And they shall no more be pulled up] Most certainly this prophecy has never yet been fulfilled. They were pulled out by the Assyrian captivity, and by that of Babylon. Many were planted in again, and again pulled out by the Roman conquest and captivity; and were never since planted in, but are now scattered among all the nations of the earth. I conclude, as the word of God cannot fail, and this has not yet been fulfilled, it therefore follows, that it will and must be fulfilled to the fulness of its spirit and intention. And this is established by the conclusion:—Saith the LORD thy God. He is JEHOVAH, and cannot fail; He is THY GOD, and will do it. He will do it, because He is JEHOVAH; and He will do it, because He is THY GOD. Amen.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET AMOS.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET OBADIAH.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book, upon the supposition that it was written about five hundred and eighty-seven years before the commencement of the Christian æra.

Year from the Creation, according to Archbishop Ussher, 3417.—Year of the Jewish æra of the world, 3174.—Year since the Flood, 1761.—Year from the vocation of Abram, 1335.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's temple, 425.—Year since the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 389.—Year of the æra of Iphitus, 298.—Second year of the Forty-eighth Olympiad.—Year from the building of Rome, according to the Varronian or generally received computation, 167.—Year from the building of Rome, according to the Fasti Consulares, 166.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Polybius the historian, 165.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Fabius Pictor, 161.—Year since the overthrow of the kingdom of Israel by Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, 135.—Year since the destruction of the kingdom of Judah by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, 2.—Year of the Julian Period, 4127.—Year of the æra of Nabonassar, 161.—Year before the birth of Christ, 583.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 587.—Cycle of the Sun, 11.—Cycle of the Moon, 4.—Thirtieth year of Tarquinius Priscus, the fifth king of the Romans.—Thirty-ninth year of Cyaxares, or Cyaraxes, the fourth king of Media.—Nineteenth year of Agasicles, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—Twenty-first year of Leon, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Thirty-third year of Alyattes II, king of Lydia.—Sixteenth year of Æropas, the seventh king of Macedon.—Eighth year of Apries, king of Egypt; the same with the celebrated Pharaoh-hophra.—Ninth year of Baal, king of the Tyrians.—Twentieth year of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon.

CHAPTER I.

God is here represented as summoning the nations against Edom, and declaring that his strong holds should not save him, 1—4; that not a remnant, not a gleaning, should be left of him, 5; that the enemy would search out his people, and totally subdue them; and that none of their allies should stand by them, 6—9. He then enlarges on their particular offence, and threatens them with a speedy recompence, 10—16. The Babylonians accordingly subdued the Edomites; and expelled them from Arabia Petræa, of which they never afterwards recovered possession. The remaining verses contain a prophecy of the restoration of the Jews from the Babylonish captivity, and of their victory over all their enemies, 17—21. Some commentators think that these last verses were fulfilled by the conquests of the Maccabees over the Edomites. See 1 Macc. v, 3—5, 65, &c.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

THE vision of Obadiah. Thus saith the Lord GOD [a] concerning Edom; [b] We have heard a rumour from the LORD, and an ambassador is sent among the heathen, Arise ye, and let us rise up against her in battle.

2 Behold, I have made thee small among the heathen: thou art greatly despised.

3 The pride of thine heart hath deceived thee, thou that dwellest in the clefts [c] of the rock, whose habitation is high; [d] that saith in his heart, Who shall bring me down to the ground?

4 [e] Though thou exalt thyself as the eagle, and though thou [f] set thy nest among the stars, thence will I bring thee down, saith the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

5 If [g] thieves came to thee, if robbers by night, (how art thou cut off!) would they not have stolen till they had enough? if the grape-gatherers came to thee, [h] would they not leave [i] some grapes?

6 How are the things of Esau searched out! how are his hidden things sought up!

7 All the men of thy confederacy have brought thee even to the border: [k] the [l] men that were at peace with thee have deceived thee, and pre-

[a] Isa. 21. 11. & 34. 5. Ezek. 25. 12, 13, 14. Joel 3. 19. Mal. 1. 3.——[b] Jer. 49. 14, &c.——[c] 2 Kings 14. 7.——[d] Isa. 14. 13, 14, 15. Rev. 18. 7.——[e] Job 20. 6. Jer. 49. 16. & 51. 53. Amos 9. 2.

[f] Isa. 14. 13. Nah. 3. 16. Hab. 2. 9.——[g] Jer. 49. 9.——[h] Deut. 24. 21. Isa. 17. 6. & 24. 13.——[i] Or, gleanings.——[k] Heb. the men of thy peace.——[l] Jer. 38. 22.

Who was this prophet?—where born?—of what country?—at what time did he prophesy?—who were his parents?—when, and where did he die?—are questions which have been asked from the remotest antiquity; and which, to this day, have received no answer worthy of recording. There is a multitude of opinions concerning these points;—and their multitude and discrepancy are the strongest proofs of their uncertainty. All that seems probable is, that as he prophesied concerning the destruction of Edom, that he flourished a little before, or a little after, the taking of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, which happened about five hundred and eighty-eight years before Christ; and the destruction of Idumea by the same monarch, which took place a short time after: probably between 588 B. C. and 575 B. C., in the interval of the thirteen years which Nebuchadnezzar employed in the siege of Tyre, which he undertook immediately after the capture of Jerusalem.

Obadiah foretels the subduction of the Idumeans by the Chaldeans; and finally by the Jews, whom they had used most cruelly when brought low by other enemies. These prophecies have been literally fulfilled; for the Idumeans, as a nation, are totally extinct.

Whoever will be at the trouble to collate this short prophecy with the forty-ninth chapter of Jeremiah, will find a remarkable similarity, not only in the sentiments and words, but also in whole verses. In the above Chapter Jeremiah predicts the destruction of the Idumeans. Whether he copied Obadiah, or Obadiah him, cannot be determined; but it would be very strange if two prophets, unacquainted with each other, should speak of the same event precisely in the same terms. See the parallel texts in the Margin, and the Notes on Jer. xlix, 1, &c.

NOTES ON THE BOOK OF OBADIAH.

Verse 1. We have heard a rumour] See Jer. xlix, 14, where the same expressions are found. The prophet shews that the enemies of Idumea had confederated against it, and that Jehovah is now summoning them to march directly against it.

Verse 2. I have made thee small among the heathen] God ever attributes to Himself the rise and fall of nations. If they be great and prosperous, it is by God's providence; if they be low and depressed, it is by His justice. Compared with the Assyrians, Chaldeans, Egyptians, Syrians, Arabs, and other neighbouring nations, the Idumeans were a small people.

Verse 3. The pride of thine heart] St. Jerom observes that all the southern part of Palestine, from Eleutheropolis to Petra and Aialath, was full of caverns hewn out of the rocks, and that the people had subterranean dwellings similar to ovens. Here they are said to dwell in the clefts of the rock, in reference to the caverns above mentioned. In these they conceived themselves to be safe, and thought that no power brought against them could dislodge them from those fastnesses. Some think that by סלע selâ, rock, Petra, the capital of Idumea, is intended.

Verse 4. Though thou exalt thyself as the eagle] Though like this bird thou get into the highest cliff of the highest rock, it will not avail thee. To defend thee when Jehovah has determined thy destruction, thy deepest caves and highest rocks will be equally useless. See Jer. xlix, 16.

Verse 5. If thieves came to thee] That is, if thieves entered thy dwellings, they would not have taken every thing; they would have laid hold on thy wealth, and carried off as much as they could escape with conveniently:—if grape-gatherers entered thy vineyards, they would not have taken every bunch; some gleanings would have been left. But the Chaldeans have stripped thee bare;—they have searched out all thy hidden things, (ver. 6,)—they have left thee nothing. How art thou cut off! Thou art totally and irretrievably ruined! The prophet speaks of this desolation as if it had already taken place.

Verse 7. All the men of thy confederacy] The Chaldeans are here intended, to whom the Idumeans were attached, and whose agents they became in exercising cruelties upon the Jews.

Have brought thee even to the border] Have hemmed thee in on every side, and reduced thee to distress. Or, vailed against thee; [a] they that eat thy bread have laid a wound under thee: [b] there is none understanding [c] in him.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

8 [d] Shall I not in that day, saith the LORD, even destroy the wise men out of Edom, and understanding out of the mount of Esau?

9 And thy [e] mighty men, O [f] Teman, shall be dismayed, to the end that every one of the mount of Esau may be cut off by slaughter.

10 For thy [g] violence against thy brother Jacob shame shall cover thee, and [h] thou shalt be cut off for ever.

11 In the day that thou stoodest on the other side, in the day that the strangers [i] carried away captive his forces, and foreigners entered into his gates, and [k] cast lots upon Jerusalem, even thou wast as one of them.

12 But [l] thou shouldest not have [m] looked on [n] the day of thy brother in the day that he became a stranger; neither shouldest thou have [o] rejoiced over the children of Judah in the day of their destruction; neither shouldest thou have [p] spoken proudly in the day of distress.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

13 Thou shouldest not have entered into the gate of my people in the day of their calamity; yea, thou shouldest not have looked on their affliction in the day of their calamity, nor have laid hand on their [q] substance in the day of their calamity.

14 Neither shouldest thou have stood in the crossway, to cut off those of his that did escape; neither shouldest thou have [r] delivered up those of his that did remain in the day of distress.

15 [s] For the day of the LORD is near upon all the heathen: [t] as thou hast done, it shall be done unto thee: thy reward shall return upon thine own head.

16 [u] For as ye have drunk upon my holy moun-

[a] Heb. the men of thy bread.——[b] Isa. 19. 11, 12.——[c] Or, of it.——[d] Job 5. 12, 13. Isa. 29. 14 Jer. 49. 7.——[e] Psa. 76. 5. Amos 2. 16.——[f] Jer. 49. 7.——[g] Gen. 27. 11. Psa. 137. 7. Ezek. 25. 12. & 35. 5. Amos 1. 11. ——[h] Ezek. 35. 9. Mal. 1. 4.——[i] Or, carried away his substance.——[k] Joel 3. 3. Nah. 3. 10.

[l] Or, do not behold, &c.——[m] Psa. 22. 17. & 54. 7. & 59. 10. Mic. 4. 11. & 7. 10.——[n] Psa. 37. 13. & 137. 7.——[o] Job 31. 29. Mic. 7. 8. Prov. 17. 5. & 24. 17, 18.——[p] Heb. magnified thy mouth.——[q] Or, forces.——[r] Or, shut up, Psa. 31. 8.——[s] Ezek. 30. 3. Joel 3. 14.——[t] Ezek. 35. 15. Hab. 2. 8.—— [u] Jer. 25. 28, 29. & 49. 12. Joel 3. 17. 1 Pet. 4. 17.

they have driven thee to thy border,—cast thee out of thy own land into the hands of thine enemies.

The men that were at peace with thee] The men of thy covenant, with whom thou hadst made a league.

That eat thy bread] That professed to be thy firmest friends,—have all joined together to destroy thee.

Have laid a wound] Placed a snare, or trap, under thee. See Newcome.

There is none understanding in him.] Private counsels and public plans are all in operation against thee; and yet thou art so foolish and infatuated as not to discern thy own danger.

Verse 8. Shall I not—destroy the wise men] It appears from Jer. xlix, 7, that the Edomites were remarkable for wisdom, counsel, and prudence. See on the above place.

Verse 9. Thy mighty men, O Teman] This was one of the strongest places in Idumea; and is put here, as in Amos i, 2, and elsewhere, for Idumea itself.

Mount of Esau] Mount Seir.

Verse 10. For thy violence against thy brother Jacob] By this term the Israelites in general are understood; for the two brothers,—Jacob, from whom sprang the Jews,—and Esau, from whom sprang the Idumeans, or Edomites, are here put for the whole people, or descendants of both. We need not look for particular cases of the violence of the Edomites against the Jews. Esau, their founder, was not more inimical to his brother Jacob, who deprived him of his birthright, than the Edomites uniformly were to the Jews. See 2 Chron. xxviii, 17, 18. They had even stimulated the Chaldeans, when they took Jerusalem, to destroy the Temple, and level it with the ground. See Psa. cxxxvii, 7.

Verse 11. Thou stoodest on the other side] Thou not only didst not help thy brother when thou mightest, but thou didst assist his foes against him.

And cast lots] When the Chaldeans cast lots on the spoils of Jerusalem, thou didst come in for a share of the booty: thou wast as one of them.

Verse 12. Thou shouldest not have looked] It shews a malevolent heart to rejoice in the miseries of those who have acted unkindly or wickedly towards us. The Edomites triumphed when they saw the judgments of God fall upon the Jews. This the Lord severely reprehends in verses 12—15. If a man have acted cruelly toward us, and God punish him for this cruelty, and we rejoice in it, we make his crime our own; and then as we have done, so shall it be done unto us; (see ver. 15.) All these verses point out the part the Edomites took against the Jews when the Chaldeans besieged and took Jerusalem, destroyed the Temple, and divided the spoils.

Verse 14. Neither shouldest thou have stood in the crossway] They are represented here as having stood in the passes and defiles to prevent the poor Jews from escaping from the Chaldeans. By stopping these passes, they threw the poor fugitives back into the teeth of their enemies. They had gone so far in this systematic cruelty as to deliver up the few that had taken refuge among them.

Verse 15. The day of the LORD is near] God will not associate thee with Him in the judgments which He inflicts. Thou also art guilty, and shalt have thy punishment in due course with the other sinful nations.

Verse 16. For as ye have drunk] This address is to the Jews. As ye have been visited and punished upon my holy mountain in Jerusalem, so shall other nations be punished in their respective countries. See Jer. xlix, 12.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

tain, so shall all the heathen drink continually, yea, they shall drink, and they shall [a] swallow down, and they shall be as though they had not been.

17 [b] But upon mount Zion [c] shall be [d] deliverance, and [e] there shall be holiness; and the house of Jacob shall possess their possessions.

18 And the house of Jacob [f] shall be a fire, and the house of Joseph a flame, and the house of Esau for stubble, and they shall kindle in them, and devour them; and there shall not be any remaining of the house of Esau; for the LORD hath spoken it.

19 And they of the south [g] shall possess the mount of Esau; [h] and they of the plain the Philistines: and they shall possess the fields of Ephraim, and the fields of Samaria: and Benjamin shall possess Gilead.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

20 And the captivity of this host of the children of Israel shall possess that of the Canaanites, even [i] unto Zarephath; and the captivity of Jerusalem, [k] which is in Sepharad, [l] shall possess the cities of the south.

21 And [m] saviours shall come up on mount Zion to judge the mount of Esau; and the [n] kingdom shall be the LORD's.

[a] Or, sup up.——[b] Joel 2. 32.——[c] Amos 9. 8.——[d] Or, they that escape.——[e] Or, it shall be holy. Joel 3. 17.——[f] Isa. 10. 17. Zech. 12. 6.——[g] Amos 9. 12.——[h] Zeph. 2. 7.

[i] 1 Kings 17. 9, 10.——[k] Or, shall possess that which is in Sepharad.——[l] Jer. 32. 44.——[m] 1 Tim. 4. 16. Jam. 5. 20.——[n] Psa. 22. 28. Dan. 2. 44. & 7. 14, 27. Zech. 14. 9. Luke 1. 33. Rev. 11. 15. & 19. 6.

Verse 17. But upon mount Zion shall be deliverance] Here is a promise of the return from the Babylonish captivity. They shall come to Zion, and there they shall find safety: and it is remarkable that after their return they were greatly befriended by the Persian kings, and by Alexander the Great and his successors; so that, whilst they ravaged the neighbouring nations, the Jews were unmolested. See Calmet.

And there shall be holiness] They shall return to God, separate themselves from their idols, and become a better people than they were when God permitted them to be carried into captivity.

The house of Jacob shall possess] They were restored to their former possessions. But this may refer also to their future restoration under the Gospel, when they shall be truly converted, and become holiness to the Lord; for salvation and holiness shall be the characteristics of Zion, the Christian church, for ever.

Verse 18. The house of Jacob shall be a fire] After their return from captivity the Jews, called here the house of Jacob and the house of Joseph, did break out as a flame upon the Idumeans: they reduced them into slavery; and obliged them to receive circumcision, and practise the rites of the Jewish religion. See 1 Macc. v, 3, &c; 2 Macc. x, 15—23; and Joseph. Antiq. lib. xiii, c. 17.

There shall not be any remaining] As a people, and a nation, they shall be totally destroyed. This is the meaning: it does not signify that every individual shall be destroyed.

Verse 19. They of the south] The Jews, who possessed the southern part of Palestine, should render themselves masters of the mountains of Idumea which were contiguous to them.

They of the plain] From Eleutheropolis to the Mediterranean sea. In this and the following verse the prophet shews the different districts which should be occupied by the Israelites after their return from Babylon.

The fields of Samaria] Alexander the Great gave Samaria to the Jews; and John Hyrcanus subdued the same country after his wars with the Syrians. See Joseph. Contra App. lib. ii, and Antiq. lib. xiii, c. 18.

Benjamin shall possess Gilead] Edom lay to the south; —the Philistines to the west;—Ephraim to the north;—and Gilead to the east. Those who returned from Babylon were to extend themselves every where. See Newcome; and see, for the fulfilment, 1 Macc. v, 9, 35, 45; and ix, 35, 36.

Verse 20. Zarephath] Sarepta, a city of the Sidonians, 1 Kings xvii, 9. That is, they should possess the whole city of Phœnicia, called here that of the Canaanites.

Which is in Sepharad] This is a difficult word. Some think the Bosphorus is meant;—others, Spain;—others, France;—others, the Euphrates;—others, some district in Chaldea; for there was a city called Siphora, in Mesopotamia, above the division of the Euphrates. Dr. Lightfoot says it was a part of Edom. Those who were captives among the Canaanites should possess the country of the Canaanites; and those whom the Edomites had enslaved should possess the cities of their masters. See Newcome and Lowth.

Verse 21. And saviours shall come up] Certain persons whom God may choose to be deliverers of His people; such as Zerubbabel, Ezra, Nehemiah, and the Maccabees.

Some think these saviours, מושיעים moshîim, mean the apostles of our Lord. Several MSS. have מושעים moshâim, the preserved; those that are saved, i. e. they who were delivered from the captivity; and those of Mount Zion shall judge, that is, shall execute judgment on the Edomites. And as the Asmonean princes joined the priesthood to the state, it might be what the prophet means when he says, the kingdom shall be the Lord's,—the high priest having both the civil and ecclesiastical power in his own hands. And these actually were masters of Edom, and judged and governed the mountain of Esau. And thus this prophecy appears to have had a very literal fulfilment.

But if we take the whole as referring to the times of the Gospel, which I believe is not its primary sense, it may signify the conversion and restoration of the Jews,—and that under JESUS CHRIST the original theocracy shall be restored; and thus, once more, in the Promised Land, it may be said,— והיתה ליהוה המלוכה

hammelucah laihovah ve-haiyetah

"And the kingdom shall belong to Jehovah."

INTRODUCTION

TO THE BOOK OF

THE PROPHET JONAH.

JONAH, the son of Amittai, the fifth of the small Prophets, was a Galilean, a native of Gath-hepher, which is believed to be the same as Jotapata, celebrated for the siege which Josephus the historian there maintained against the Roman army, a little before the destruction of Jerusalem. Gath-hepher was situated in the land of Zebulon, where was the canton of Ophir or Hepher. St. Jerom places it two miles from Sepphoris, in the way towards Tiberias. Some Rabbins are of opinion that Jonah was the widow's son of Sarepta, restored to life by Elijah.

What we know with certainty of Jonah is, that God having commanded him to go to Nineveh, and there proclaim, that the cry of the inhabitants' sins was come up to heaven, and they were threatened with approaching ruin; instead of obeying these orders, he resolved to fly away, and go to Tarsus, in Cilicia. To this purpose he embarked at Joppa: but the Lord having sent a violent tempest while he was upon the sea, the mariners, with great fear, cried each of them to his god. In the mean time, Jonah slept in the hold; whereupon the pilot wakened him; and they who were in the ship cast lots to know how this tempest was occasioned. The lot falling upon Jonah, they asked him who he was, and what he had done to bring upon them such a storm? He told them he was a Hebrew; that he worshipped the God of heaven; was one of His prophets; and fled from His presence to avoid going to Nineveh, whither he was sent. They asked him what was to be done to secure them from shipwreck? He replied: Throw me into the sea, and the tempest will cease.

God prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah. This fish, according to some, was a whale; or, as others say, the lamia, canis carcharias, or the sea-dog. The Prophet continued in the fish three days and three nights. He cried unto the Lord, and the Lord heard him; and commanded the fish to cast him upon the shore, as it is believed, at the foot of a mountain which projects a great way into the sea, between Berytus and Tripoli. Others think it was upon the coast of Cilicia, two leagues north from Alexandretta.

After this the word of the Lord came a second time to Jonah, and directed him to go to Nineveh. When he came into the city, which was three days' journey in extent, about twenty-five leagues in circumference, Jonah walked up and down a whole day, crying out, In forty days Nineveh shall be destroyed. The Ninevites believed his word; they appointed a public fast to be observed;—and, from the meanest of the people to the greatest, covered themselves with sackcloth. The king of Nineveh, supposed to have been Sardanapalus, known in profane authors by the name of Anacyndaraxa, or Anabaxarus, descended from his throne, and covered himself with sackcloth, and sat down upon ashes. God suffered Himself to be moved with their repentance, and did not execute the sentence which He had pronounced against them.

Jonah was afflicted at this; and complained to God, saying, that he had always questioned whether, as being a God of clemency and mercy, He would not be flexible to their prayers.

After this, in all probability, Jonah returned from Nineveh into Judea.

The Greeks have for a long time expressed their veneration for Jonah. There was a church dedicated to this prophet in the sixth age.

We do not know when it was that Jonah foretold how Jeroboam II, king of Israel, should restore the kingdom of Samaria to its former extent, from the entrance of Hamath to the Dead sea. Whether this was before, or after, his going to Nineveh, we cannot tell.

Our Saviour makes frequent mention of Jonah in the Gospels. He says that the Ninevites shall one day rise in judgment against the Jews, and condemn them, because they repented at the preaching of Jonah, and the Jews would not hearken to Him who was greater than Jonah. And when the Pharisees required a sign of Him to prove His mission, He said He would give them no other than that of the prophet Jonah, that is to say, of His resurrection, which would complete all His miracles, and render the Jews inexcusable in their hardness of heart. For a discussion of the question concerning the three days and three nights which Jonah lay in the belly of the fish, see Matt. xii, 40, and the Notes there. And for Oriental and Jewish legends, and fabulous relations, relative to the history of this Prophet, see Calmet, in his Preface to this Book.

That there are difficulties in this Book every man must allow: and that learned men have differed greatly in their mode of interpreting the Book, and explaining these difficulties, is well known. Some have considered it an allegory; referring entirely to Manasseh, and what was done before, during, and after, the war with Esarhaddon, king of Assyria. Manasseh being taken prisoner by the Assyrians, and thrust into a dungeon; where, having lain three days and three nights, on his earnest prayer to God in the dungeon, he was delivered, &c. Others have thought, that instead of a fish, a ship is meant, which had the image of a whale on the stern, and might be called Κητος, or the Whale. Others have thought that the whole of the account of Jonah's being swallowed by a great fish,—his praying in its belly,—being cast on dry land,—was a dream which he had while fast asleep in the ship. See chap. i, 5. And others state that the whole Book is a parable, intending to point out God's justice and mercy; and how prevalent repentance is to turn aside the threatened stroke of Divine wrath.

There is a fable, most probably of Phœnician origin, which, bearing some similitude to the history of Jonah, may have been taken from this book. Laomedon, king of Troy, having displeased Neptune, to appease him, was required to expose his daughter Hesione to be devoured by a sea-monster. She was chained to a rock, and was awaiting her fate at the next flux of the tide. In the interim Hercules slew the sea-monster, and delivered the princess. To this Lycophron, in his Cassandra, ver. 33, &c, is supposed to allude:—

Τριεσπερου λεοντος, ὁν ποτε γναθοις
Τριτωνος ημαλαψε καρχαρος κυων.

"Of the lion the offspring of three nights, which the fierce dog of Triton swallowed down greedily."

The Scholiasts explain this in the following manner:—While the princess was standing chained to the rock, expecting the greedy dog, (καρχαρος κυων, the shark,) to come and devour her, Hercules stood by ready armed; and, when the monster came forward with open mouth, he jumped directly down his throat, and spent three days in cutting and hacking his entrails; and afterwards came out of the monster, with the loss of all the hair on his head. Cyril, in his Comment, says this was occasioned by the incredible heat of the monster's stomach.

This fable might have been easily taken from the true history; though some have been ready enough to intimate, that the history of the prophet was taken from the fable.

The appeal made to the main facts of this history, by our Lord, proves that we are to admit of no allegorical exposition of these facts. 1. There was such a person as Jonah. 2. He was swallowed by a sea-monster, in whose belly he was miraculously preserved three days and three nights. 3. This same prophet preached to the Ninevites; and they repented, and turned from their sins, under his ministry. This testimony puts an end to all mythological, allegorical, and hypothetical interpretations of those great facts. And in its literal sense alone, I undertake the interpretation of this Book.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET JONAH.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book, upon the supposition that the repentance of the Ninevites happened in the twenty-third year of the reign of Jehu, king of Israel.

Year from the Creation, according to Archbishop Ussher, 3142.—Year of the Julian Period, 3852.—Year since the Flood, 1486.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's Temple, 150.—Year since the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 114.—Year before the First Olympiad, 86.—Year before the building of Rome according to the Varronian computation, 109.—Year before the birth of Jesus Christ, 858.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 862.—Twelfth year of Charilaus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—Fifty-second year of Archelaus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Second year of Phereclus, perpetual archon of the Athenians.—Fourteenth year of Alladius Sylvius, king of the Albans.—Twenty-third year of Jehu, king of Israel.—Seventeenth year of Joash, king of Judah.

CHAPTER I.

Jonah, sent to Nineveh, flees to Tarshish, 1—3. He is overtaken by a great tempest, 4—14; thrown into the sea, 15, 16; and swallowed by a fish, in the belly of which he is miraculously preserved alive three days and three nights, 17.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

NOW the word of the LORD came unto [a] Jonah [b] the son of Amittai, saying,

2 Arise, go to Nineveh, that [c] great city, and cry against it; for [d] their wickedness is come up before me.

3 But Jonah [e] rose up to flee unto [f] Tarshish from the presence of the

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

[a] 2 Kings 14. 25.——[b] Called, Matt. 12. 39, Jonas.——[c] Gen. 10. 11, 12. ch. 3. 2, 3. & 4. 11.

[d] Gen. 18. 20, 21. Ezra 9. 6. Jam. 5. 4. Rev. 18. 5.——[e] Ch. 4. 2.——[f] 1 Kings 10. 22.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. Now the word of the LORD came unto Jonah] All that is certainly known about this prophet has already been laid before the Reader. He was of Gath-hepher in the tribe of Zabulon, in Lower Galilee, Josh. xix, 13; and he prophesied in the reigns of Jeroboam the Second, and Joash, kings of Israel. Jeroboam came to the throne eight hundred and twenty-three years before the Christian æra, and reigned in Samaria forty-one years, 2 Kings xiv, 23—25. As a prophet, it is likely that he had but this one mission.

Verse 2. Go to Nineveh] This was one of the most ancient cities of the world, Gen. x, 10; and one of the largest, as it was three days' journey in circumference. Ancient

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

LORD, and went down to [a] Joppa; and he found a ship going to Tarshish: so he paid the fare thereof, and went down into it, to go with them unto Tarshish [b] from the presence of the LORD.

4 But [c] the LORD [d] sent out a great wind into the sea, and there was a mighty tempest in the sea, so that the ship [e] was like to be broken.

5 Then the mariners were afraid, and cried every man unto his god, and [f] cast forth the wares that were in the ship into the sea, to lighten it of them. But Jonah was gone down [g] into the sides of the ship; and he lay, and was fast asleep.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

6 So the shipmaster came to him, and said unto him, What meanest thou, O sleeper? arise, [h] call upon thy God, [i] if so be that God will think upon us, that we perish not.

[a] Josh. 19. 46. 2 Chron. 2. 16. Acts 9. 36.—[b] Gen. 4. 16. Job 1. 12. & 2. 7.—[c] Psa. 107. 25.—[d] Heb. cast forth.

[e] Heb. thought to be broken.—[f] So Acts 27. 18, 19, 38.—[g] 1 Sam. 24. 3.
[h] Psa. 107. 28. —[i] Joel 2. 14.

writers represent it as oblong; being in length one hundred and fifty stadia, and ninety in breadth, the compass being four hundred and eighty stadia. Now, as the stadium is allowed to have been equal to our furlong, eight of which make a mile, this amounts to fifty-four English miles: see on chap. iii, 3. But we must not suppose that all this space was covered with compact streets and buildings; it took in a considerable space of country,—probably all the cultivated ground necessary to support all the inhabitants of that district. Calmet computes the measurement of the circumference to be equal to twenty-five French leagues. It is reported to have had walls one hundred feet high, and so broad that three chariots might run abreast upon them. It was situated on the Tigris, or a little to the west, or on the west side of that river. It was well peopled; and had at this time one hundred and twenty thousand persons in it reputed to be in a state of infancy, which on a moderate computation would make the whole number six hundred thousand persons. But some, supposing that persons not being able to distinguish their right hand from their left must mean children under two years of age, and reckoning one such child for every twenty persons from that age upwards, make the population amount to two millions five hundred thousand. Nor can this be considered an exaggerated estimate when we know that London, not one-tenth of the size of ancient Nineveh, contains a population of upwards of one million. But calculations of this kind, relative to matters of such remote antiquity, are generally precarious, and not very useful: and ancient authors, though the only guides, are not always safe conductors.

Verse 2. Their wickedness is come up before me.] This is a personification of evil. It ascends from earth to heaven; and stands before the Supreme Judge to bear witness against its own delinquency, and that of the persons whom it has seduced.

Verse 3. To flee unto Tarshish] Some say Tartessus, in Spain, near the Straits of Gibraltar; others Tarsus, in Cilicia; and others Taprobana, or the island of Ceylon, formerly called Taprobah; and Tuprobqough in Sanscrit, to the present day.

And went down to Joppa] This place is celebrated as that where Andromeda, daughter of Cepheus, was chained to a rock, and exposed to be devoured by a sea-monster, from which she was delivered by the valour of Perseus. It is the nearest port to Jerusalem on that side of the Mediterranean.

And he found a ship] The Phœnicians carried on a considerable trade with Tartessus, Ezek. xxvii, 12; and it was probably in one of their ships that Jonah embarked.

He paid the fare thereof] He paid for his passage. This shews that there was traffic between the two places; and that each passenger paid a stated fare.

From the presence of the LORD.] He considered that God was peculiarly resident in Judea; and, if he got out of that land, the Lord would most probably appoint another prophet to carry the message; for Jonah appears to have considered the enterprise as difficult and dangerous, and therefore wished to avoid it.

Verse 4. A great wind] They were overtaken with a storm, which appears from the sequel to have come by the immediate direction of God.

Like to be broken.] They had nearly suffered shipwreck.

Verse 5. Cried every man unto his god] The ship's crew were all Heathens; and it is probable, Heathens who had each a different object of religious worship.

Cast forth the wares] Threw the lading overboard to lighten the ship, hoping the better to ride out the storm.

Jonah was gone down] Most probably into the hold, or cabin, under the deck; or where they had beds for passengers, in the sides of the ship; something in the manner of our packets.

Was fast asleep.] Probably quite exhausted and overcome with distress, which in many cases terminates in a deep sleep. So the disciples in the garden of Gethsemane.

Verse 6. The shipmaster] Either the captain, or the pilot.

Arise, call upon thy God] He supposed that Jonah had his god, as well as they had their's; and that as the danger was imminent, every man should use the influence he had, as they were all equally involved in it.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

7 And they said every one to his fellow, Come, and let us [a] cast lots, that we may know for whose cause this evil is upon us. So they cast lots, and the lot fell upon Jonah.

8 Then said they unto him, [b] Tell us, we pray thee, for whose cause this evil is upon us; What is thine occupation? and whence comest thou? what is thy country? and of what people art thou?

9 And he said unto them, I am a Hebrew; and I fear [c] the LORD, the God of heaven, [d] which hath made the sea and the dry land.

10 Then were the men [e] exceedingly afraid, and said unto him, Why hast thou done this? For the men knew that he fled from the presence of the LORD, because he had told them.

11 Then said they unto him, What shall we do unto thee, that the sea [f] may be calm unto us? for the sea [g] wrought,[h] and was tempestuous.

12 And he said unto them, [i] Take me up, and cast me forth into the sea; so shall the sea be calm unto you: for I know that for my sake this great tempest is upon you.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

13 Nevertheless the men [k] rowed hard to bring it to the land; [l] but they could not: for the sea wrought, and was tempestuous against them.

14 Wherefore they cried unto the LORD, and said, We beseech thee, O LORD, we beseech thee, let us not perish for this man's life, and [m] lay not upon us innocent blood: for thou, O LORD, [n] hast done as it pleased thee.

15 So they took up Jonah, and cast him forth into the sea: [o] and the sea [p] ceased from her raging.

16 Then the men [q] feared the LORD exceedingly, and [r] offered a sacrifice unto the LORD, and made vows.

17 Now the LORD had prepared a great fish to swallow up Jonah. And [s] Jonah was in the [t] belly of the fish three days and three nights.

---

[a] Josh. 7. 14, 16. 1 Sam. 10. 20, 21. & 14. 41, 42. Prov. 16. 33. Acts 1. 26. —[b] Josh. 7. 19. 1 Sam. 14. 43.—[c] Or, JEHOVAH.—[d] Psa. 146. 6. Acts 17. 24.—[e] Heb. with great fear.—[f] Heb. may be silent from us.—[g] Or, grew more and more tempestuous.—[h] Heb. went.

[i] John 11. 50.—[k] Heb. digged.—[l] Prov. 21. 30.—[m] Deut. 21. 8.—[n] Psa. 115. 3.—[o] Psa. 89. 9. Luke 8. 24.—[p] Heb. stood.—[q] Mark 4. 41. Acts 5. 11.—[r] Heb. sacrificed a sacrifice unto the LORD, and vowed vows.—[s] Matt. 12. 40. & 16. 4. Luke 11. 30.—[t] Heb. bowels.

Verse 7. Come, and let us cast lots] This was a very ancient mode of endeavouring to find out the mind of Divine Providence; and, in this case, it proves that they supposed the storm to have arisen on account of some hidden crime of some person aboard.

A philosopher being at sea in a violent storm, when the crew began to call earnestly on the gods for safety, he said—"Be silent, and cease your prayers; for should the gods know that you are here, we shall all be lost."

The lot fell upon Jonah.] In this case God directed the lot.

Verse 8. Tell us,—for whose cause] A very gentle method of bringing the charge home to himself; and the several questions here asked gave the utmost latitude to make the best of his own case.

Verse 9. I fear the LORD] In this Jonah was faithful. He gave an honest testimony concerning the God he served, which placed Him before the eyes of the sailors as infinitely higher than the objects of their adoration: for the God of Jonah was the God of heaven, who made the sea and the dry land, and governed both. He also honestly told them that he was fleeing from the presence of this God, whose honourable call he had refused to obey. See ver. 10.

Verse 11. What shall we do unto thee] In these poor men there was an uncommon degree of humanity and tender feeling.

Verse 12. I know that for my sake] I am not worthy to live; throw me overboard. God will not quiet the storm till I am cast out of the ship. Here was deep compunction;—an honest avowal of sin;—and a justification of the displeasure which God had now manifested.

Verse 13. The men rowed hard] Were very unwilling to proceed to this extremity; and thought they would risk every thing rather than cast this disobedient prophet into the great deep.

Verse 14. They cried unto the LORD] Under a conviction that He was the self-existent Being, the Maker of the heavens and the earth, and the Author of the present storm, they put up their prayers to Him.

Let us not perish for this man's life] They were now about to cast him overboard: but seemed to call God to witness that it was with the utmost reluctance, and only in obedience to His command. There is a parallel passage in the Argonautics which has been quoted to illustrate this:—

Πολλα δε μερμηριζον ενι φρεσι πευκαλιμῃσι
Η μεν απωφθισωσι, και ιχθυσι κυρμα βαλλωσιν
Αινολεχη Μηδειαν, αποτρεψωσι δ' Ερινυυν. Ver. 1171.

"And much they doubted, in their prudent minds,
Whether to kill and cast a prey to fishes
Wretched Medea; and avert their fate."

See Newcome.

Verse 16. Offered a sacrifice] The first perhaps ever offered aboard a vessel, since the ark floated on the waters of the great deluge; and it is most probable that these heathens, witnessing what was done, became sincere converts to the true God.

Verse 17. Now the LORD had prepared a great fish] דג גדול dag gadol. This could not have been a whale, for the throat of that animal can scarcely admit a man's leg: but it might have been a shark, which abounds in the Mediterranean, and whose mouth and stomach are exceedingly capacious. In several cases, they have been known to swallow a man, when thrown overboard. See the Note on Matt. xii, 40, where the whole subject of this verse is considered at large. That days and nights do not, among the Hebrews, signify complete days and nights of twenty-four hours, see Esth. iv, 16, compared with chap. v, 1, Judg. xiv, 17, 18. Our Lord lay in the grave one natural day, and part of two others; and it is most likely that this was the precise time that Jonah was in the fish's belly.

CHAPTER II.

This Chapter (except the first verse and the last, which make a part of the narrative,) contains a beautiful prayer, or hymn, formed of those devout thoughts which Jonah had in the belly of the great fish, with a thanksgiving for his miraculous deliverance.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

THEN Jonah prayed unto the LORD his God out of the fish's belly,

2 And said, I [a] cried [b] by reason of mine affliction unto the LORD, [c] and he heard me; out of the belly of [d] hell cried I, and thou heardest my voice.

3 [e] For thou hadst cast me into the deep, in the [f] midst of the seas; and the floods compassed me about: [g] all thy billows and thy waves passed over me.

4 [h] Then I said, I am cast out of thy sight; yet I will look again [i] toward thy holy temple.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

5 The [k] waters compassed me about, even to the soul: the depth closed me round about, the weeds were wrapped about my head.

6 I went down to the [l] bottoms of the mountains; the earth with her bars was about me for ever: yet hast thou brought up my life [m] from [n] corruption, O LORD my God.

[a] Psa. 120. 1. & 130. 1. & 142. 1. Lam. 3. 55, 56.——[b] Or, out of mine affliction.——[c] Psa. 65. 2.——[d] Or, the grave, Isa. 14. 9.——[e] Psa. 88. 6.

[f] Heb. heart.——[g] Psa. 42. 7.——[h] Psa. 31. 22.——[i] 1 Kings 8. 38.——[k] Psa. 69. 1. Lam. 3. 54.——[l] Heb. cuttings off.——[m] Psa. 16. 10.——[n] Or, the pit.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. Then Jonah prayed—out of the fish's belly] This verse makes the first of the second Chapter in the Hebrew Text.

It may be asked,—"How could Jonah either pray or breathe in the stomach of the fish?" Very easily, if God so willed it. And let the Reader keep this constantly in view: the whole is a miracle; from Jonah's being swallowed by the fish, till he was cast ashore by the same animal. It was God that had prepared the great fish. It was the Lord that spake to the fish, and caused it to vomit Jonah upon the dry land. ALL is miracle.

Verse 2. Out of the belly of hell] Among the Hebrews שאול sheol, means the grave,—any deep pit,—the place of separate spirits, &c. Here the prophet represents himself as in the bottom of the sea; for so sheol must be understood in this place.

Verse 3. All thy billows and thy waves passed over me.] This may be understood literally: while the fish, in whose belly he was, sought its pleasure or sustenance in the paths of the deep, the waves and billows of the sea were rolling above. This line seems borrowed from Psa. xlii, 7.

Verse 4. I am cast out of thy sight] See Psa. xxxi, 22. Thy holy temple.] Then Jerusalem was not yet destroyed, for the Temple was standing.

Verse 5. The waters compassed me about even to the soul] So as to seem to deprive me of life. I had no hope left.

The weeds were wrapped about my head] This may be understood literally also. He found himself in the fish's stomach, together with sea weeds, and such like marine substances which the fish had taken for its aliment.

Verse 6. I went down to the bottoms of the mountains] This also may be literally understood. The fish followed the slanting base of the mountains, till they terminated in a plain, at the bottom of the great deep.

The earth with her bars] He represents himself as a prisoner in a dungeon, closed in with bars which he could not remove; and which at first appeared to be for ever, i. e. the place where his life must terminate.

Yet hast thou brought up my life] The substance of this poetic prayer was composed while in the fish's belly: but afterwards he appears to have thrown it into its present poetic form, and to have added some circumstances such as

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

7 When my soul fainted within me I remembered the LORD: [a] and my prayer came in unto thee, into thine holy temple.

8 They that observe [b] lying vanities forsake their own mercy.

9 But I will [c] sacrifice unto thee with the voice of thanksgiving; I will pay that that I have vowed. [d] Salvation is of the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

10 And the LORD spake unto the fish, and it vomited out Jonah upon the dry land.

[a] Psa. 18. 6.——[b] 2 Kings 17. 15. Psa. 31. 6. Jer. 10. 8. & 16. 19.

[c] Psa. 50. 14, 23. & 116. 17, 18. Hos. 14. 2. Heb. 13. 15.——[d] Psa. 3. 8.

that before us; for he now speaks of his deliverance from this imminent danger of death. Thou hast brought up my life from corruption.

Verse 7. When my soul fainted] When I had given up all hope of life.

My prayer came in unto thee] Here prayer is personified; and is represented as a messenger going from the distressed, and entering into the Temple of God, and standing before Him! This is a very fine and delicate image. This clause is one of those which I suppose the prophet to have added, when he penned this prayer.

Verse 8. They that observe lying vanities] They that trust in idols, follow vain predictions, permit themselves to be influenced with foolish fears, so as to induce them to leave the path of obvious duty,—Forsake their own mercy. In leaving that God who is the Fountain of mercy, they abandon that measure of mercy which he had treasured up for them.

Verse 9. But I will sacrifice unto thee] I will make a sincere vow, which, as soon as my circumstances will permit, I will faithfully execute; and therefore he adds, I will pay that which I have vowed.

Salvation is of the LORD.] All deliverance from danger, preservation of life, recovery from sickness, and redemption of the soul from the power, guilt, and pollution of sin, are from Jehovah. He alone is the Saviour, He alone is the Deliverer; for all safety is from the Lord.

Verse 10. And the LORD spake unto the fish] That is, by His influence, the fish swam to shore, and cast Jonah on the dry land. So the whole was a miracle from the beginning to the end; and we need not perplex ourselves to find out literal interpretations;—such as—"When Jonah was thrown overboard, he swam for his life, earnestly praying God to preserve him from drowning; and by His providence he was thrown into a place of fish, a fishing cove, where he was for a time entangled among the weeds, and hardly escaped with his life; and, when safe, he composed this poetic prayer in metaphorical language, which some have wrongly interpreted, by supposing that he was swallowed by a fish; when דג dag, should have been understood as a place of fish, or fishing creek," &c. Now, I say, the original has no such meaning in the Bible: and this gloss is plainly contrary to the letter of the Text; to all sober and rational modes of interpretation; and to the express purpose for which God appears to have wrought this miracle, and to which Jesus Christ Himself applies it. For as Jonah was intended for a sign to the Jews of the resurrection of Christ, they were to have the proof of this semiosis, in His lying as long in the heart of the earth, as the prophet was in the belly of the fish; and all interpretations of this kind go to deny both the sign and the thing signified. Some men, because they cannot work a miracle themselves, can hardly be persuaded that GOD can do it.

The Text, and the use made of it by Christ, most plainly teach us, that the prophet was literally swallowed by a fish, by the order of God; and that by the Divine power he was preserved alive, for what is called three days and three nights, in the stomach of the fish; and at the conclusion of the above time that the same fish was led by the unseen power of God to the shore, and there compelled to eject the prey that he could neither kill nor digest. And how easy is all this to the almighty power of the Author and Sustainer of life, who has a sovereign, omnipresent, and energetic sway in the heavens and in the earth. But foolish man will affect to be wise; though, in such cases, he appears as the recent born stupid offspring of the wild ass. It is bad to follow fancy, where there is so much at stake. Both ancients and moderns have grievously trifled with this prophet's narrative; merely because they could not rationally account for the thing, and were unwilling (and why?) to allow any miraculous interference.

CHAPTER III.

Jonah is again sent to Nineveh, a city of three days' journey, (being sixty miles in circumference according to Diodorus Siculus,) 1—4. The inhabitants, in consequence of the Prophet's preaching, repent in dust and ashes, 5—9. God, seeing that they were deeply humbled on account of their sins, and that they turned away from all their iniquities, repents of the evil with which he had threatened them, 10.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862 Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

AND the word of the LORD came unto Jonah the second time, saying,

2 Arise, go unto Nineveh, that great city, and preach unto it the preaching that I bid thee.

3 So Jonah arose, and went unto Nineveh, according to the word of the LORD. Now Nineveh was an [a] exceeding great city of three days' journey.

4 And Jonah began to enter into the city a day's journey, and [b] he cried, and said, Yet forty days, and Nineveh shall be overthrown.

5 So the people of Nineveh [c] believed God, and proclaimed a fast, and put on sackcloth, from the greatest of them even to the least of them.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

6 For word came unto the king of Nineveh, and he arose from his throne, and he laid his robe from him, and covered him with sackcloth, [d] and sat in ashes.

7 [e] And he caused it to be proclaimed and [f] published through Nineveh by the decree of the king and his [g] nobles, saying, Let neither man nor beast, herd nor flock, taste any thing: let them not feed, nor drink water:

8 But let man and beast be covered with sackcloth, and cry mightily unto God: yea, [h] let them

[a] Heb. of God: So Gen. 30. 8. Psa. 36. 6. & 80. 10.——[b] See Deut. 18. 22.——[c] Matt. 12. 41. Luke 11. 32.

[d] Job 2. 8.——[e] 2 Chron. 20. 3. Joel 2. 15.——[f] Heb. said.——[g] Heb. great men.——[h] Isa. 58. 6.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. And the word of the LORD] The same oracle as that before given; and, from what he had felt and seen of the justice and mercy of the Lord, he was now prepared to obey.

Verse 2. And preach unto it the preaching] וקרא את הקריאה ve-kera et ha-keriah, "And cry the cry that I bid thee." Be my herald, and faithfully deliver my message. The word κηρυξ in Greek, answers to the Hebrew קורא koré; both signifying a crier, a herald, a preacher; one that makes proclamation with a loud and earnest cry. Such was John Baptist, Isa. xl, 3; such was Jesus Christ, John vii, 18—37; and such were all His apostles. And such earnestness becomes a ministry that has to do with immortal souls, asleep and dead in sin, hanging on the brink of perdition, and insensible of their state. The soft-speaking, gentle-toned, unmoved preacher is never likely to awaken souls. As we preach, so the people hear; scarcely receiving any counsels that appear to have no importance by the manner in which they are delivered. But this earnestness is widely different from that noisy, blustering, screaming rant, that manifests more of the turbulence of disorderly passions, than of the real inspired influence of the Spirit of God.

Verse 3. Nineveh was an exceeding great city of three days' journey.] See on chap. i, 2. Strabo says, lib. xvi, πολυ μειζων ην της Βαβυλωνος, "it was much larger than Babylon:" and Ninus, the builder, not only proposed to make it the largest city of the world, but the largest that could be built by man. See Diodor. Sic. Bib. l. ii. And as we find, from the lowest computation, that it was at least fifty-four or sixty English miles, in circumference, would take the prophet three days to walk round upon the walls, and announce from them the terrible message,—"Yet forty days, and Nineveh will be destroyed!"

Verse 4. Yet forty days] Both the Septuagint and Arabic read three days. Probably some early copyist of the Septuagint, from whom our modern editions are derived, mistook the Greek numerals μ forty, for γ three; or put the three days' journey, in preaching, instead of the forty days mentioned in the denunciation. One of Kennicott's MSS. instead of ארבעים arbâim, forty, has שלשים sheloshim, thirty: but the Hebrew Text is undoubtedly the true reading; and it is followed by all the ancient Versions, the Septuagint and Vulgate excepted. Thus God gives them time to think, reflect, take counsel, and return to Him. Had they had only three days' space, the denunciation would have so completely confounded them, as to excite nothing but terror, and prevent repentance and conversion.

Verse 5. The people of Nineveh believed God] They had no doubt that the threatening would be fulfilled, unless their speedy conversion prevented it: but, though not expressed, they knew that the threatening was conditional. "The promises and threatenings of God, which are merely personal, either to any particular man or number of men, are always conditional, because the wisdom of God hath thought fit to make these depend on the behaviour of men." Dr. S. Clarke's Sermons, Vol. I.

Proclaimed a fast] And never was there one so general, so deep, and so effectual. Men and women, old and young, high and low, and even the cattle themselves, all kept such a fast as the total abstinence from food implies.

Verse 6. Word came unto the king] This, some think, was PUL, king of Assyria, who flourished in the reign of Jeroboam the Second: but it seems more probable that the monarch here alluded to was a king of Assyria contemporary with Joash, king of Judah. It was by the decree of the king that the fast was instituted, and became general.

Verse 8. Let man and beast be covered] This was done that every object which they beheld might deepen the impression already made; and cause them to mourn after a godly sort. Virgil tells us that the mourning for the death of Julius Cæsar was so general, that the cattle neither ate nor drank:— turn every one from his evil way, and from [a] the violence that is in their hands.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

9 [b] Who can tell if God will turn and repent, and turn away from his fierce anger, that we perish not?

10 [c] And God saw their works, that they turned from their evil way; and God repented of the evil, that he had said that he would do unto them; and he did it not.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

[a] Isa. 59. 6.——[b] 2 Sam. 12. 22. Joel 2. 14.

[c] Jer. 18. 8. Amos 7. 3, 6.

Non ulli pastos illis egêre diebus
Frigida, Daphni, boves ad flumina: nulla neque amnem
Libavet quadrupes, nec graminis attigit herbam.
Ecl. v. 24.

"The swains forgot their sheep, nor near the brink
Of running waters brought their herds to drink.
The thirsty cattle of themselves abstain'd
From water, and their grassy fare disdain'd." DRYDEN.

And that they sometimes changed or reversed the harness and ornaments of cattle, as indicative of mourning, we have a proof in Virgil's description of the funeral procession in honour of Pallas, slain by Turnus, Æn. xi, v. 89.

Post bellator equus, positis insignibus, Æthon
It lacrimans, guttisque humectat grandibus ora.

"Stripp'd of his trappings, and his head declined,
Æthon, his generous warrior-horse, behind
Moves with a solemn, slow, majestic pace;
And the big tears come rolling down his face." TRAPP.

Verse 9. Who can tell if God will turn and repent] There is at least a peradventure for our salvation. God may turn toward us, change His purpose, and save us alive. While there is life, there is hope: God has no pleasure in the death of sinners,—He is gracious and compassionate. Himself has prescribed repentance; if we repent, and turn to Him from our iniquities, who knows then whether God will not turn, &c.

Verse 10. And God saw their works] They repented, and brought forth fruits meet for repentance: works which shewed that they did most earnestly repent. He changed, therefore, His purpose; and the city was saved. The purpose was,—If the Ninevites do not return from their evil ways, and the violence that is in their hands, within forty days, I will destroy the city. The Ninevites did return, &c; and, therefore, escaped the threatened judgment. Thus, we see, that the threatening was conditional.

CHAPTER IV.

Jonah, dreading to be thought a false prophet, repines at God's mercy in sparing the Ninevites; whose destruction he seems to have expected, from his retiring to a place without the city about the close of the forty days. But how does he glorify that mercy which he intends to blame! And what an amiable picture does he give of the compassion of God! 1—5. This attribute of the Deity is still farther illustrated by his tenderness and condescension to the Prophet himself; who, with all his spiritual gifts, had much of human infirmity, 6—11.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

BUT it displeased Jonah exceedingly, and he was very angry.

2 And he prayed unto the LORD, and said, I pray thee, O LORD, was not this my saying, when I was yet in my country? Therefore I [a] fled before unto Tarshish: for I knew that thou art a [b] gracious God, and

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

[a] Ch. 1. 3

[b] Exod. 34. 6. Psa. 86. 5. Joel 2. 13.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IV.

Verse 1. But it displeased Jonah exceedingly] This hasty, and indeed inconsiderate, prophet was vexed because his prediction was not fulfilled. He had more respect to his high sense of his own honour, than he had to the goodness and mercy of God. He appeared to care little whether six hundred and twenty thousand persons were destroyed or not, so he might not pass for a deceiver, or one that denounced a falsity.

And he was very angry.] Because the prediction was merciful, slow to anger, and of great kindness, and repentest thee of the evil.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

3 [a] Therefore now, O LORD, take, I beseech thee, my life from me; for [b] it is better for me to die than to live.

4 Then said the LORD, [c] Doest thou well to be angry?

5 So Jonah went out of the city, and sat on the east side of the city, and there made him a booth, and sat under it in the shadow, till he might see what would become of the city.

6 And the Lord GOD prepared a [d] gourd, [e] and made it to come up over Jonah, that it might be a shadow over his head, to deliver him from his grief. So Jonah [f] was exceedingly glad of the gourd.

7 But God prepared a worm when the morning rose the next day, and it smote the gourd that it withered.

8 And it came to pass, when the sun did arise

[a] 1 Kings 19. 4.——[b] Ver. 8.——[c] Or, Art thou greatly angry?

[d] Or, palmecrist.——[e] Heb. Kikajon.——[f] Heb. rejoiced with great joy.

not literally fulfilled; for he totally lost sight of the condition.

Verse 2. I know that thou art a gracious God] See the Note on Exod. xxxiv, 6.

Verse 3. Take, I beseech thee, my life from me] קח נא את נפשי kach na et naphshi, take, I beseech thee, even my soul. Do not let me survive this disgrace. Thou hast spared this city. I thought Thou wouldest do so, because Thou art merciful and gracious: and it was on this account that I refused to go at first; as I knew that Thou mightest change Thy purpose, though Thou hadst commanded me to make an absolute denunciation of judgment. God has left this example on record, to shew that an inconsiderate man is not fit to be employed in His work: and He chose this one example, that it might serve as an endless warning to His church to employ no man in the work of the ministry that is not scripturally acquainted with God's justice and mercy.

Verse 4. Doest thou well to be angry?] ההיטב הרה לך haheitib harah lac, Is anger good for thee?—No, anger is good for no man: but an angry preacher, minister, bishop, or prophet, is an abominable man. He who, in denouncing the word of God against sinners, joins his own passions with the Divine threatenings, is a cruel and bad man; and should not be an overseer in God's house. A surly bishop, a peevish passionate preacher, will bring neither glory to God, nor good to man. Dr. Taylor renders the clause, Art thou very much grieved? A man may be very much grieved that a sinner is lost: but who but he who is of a fiendish nature will be grieved because God's mercy triumphs over judgment?

Verse 5. So Jonah went out of the city] I believe this refers to what had already passed; and I therefore agree with Bp. Newcome, who translates, Now Jonah HAD gone out of the city, and HAD sat, &c; for there are many instances where verbs in the preter form have this force, the ו vau here turning the future into the preter. And the passage is here to be understood thus:—When he had delivered his message, he left the city, and went and made himself a tent, or got under some shelter on the east side of the city; and there he was determined to remain, till he should see what would become of the city. But when the forty days had expired, and he saw no evidence of the Divine wrath, he got angry, and expostulated with God as above. The fifth verse should be read in a parenthesis, or be considered as beginning the Chapter.

Verse 6. And the Lord GOD prepared a gourd] I believe this should be rendered in the preterperfect tense, The Lord HAD prepared—this plant קיקיון kikaion. It had in the course of God's providence been planted and grown up in that place, though perhaps not yet in full leaf; and Jonah made that his tent. And its thick branches and large leaves made it an ample shelter for him; and because it was such, he rejoiced greatly on the account. But what was the kikaion? The best judges say, the ricinus or palma Christi, from which we get what is vulgarly called castor oil, is meant. It is a tree as large as the olive, has leaves which are like those of the vine, and is also quick of growth. This, in all probability, was the plant in question, which had been already planted; though it had not attained its proper growth, and was not then in full leaf. Celsus, in his Hierobot., says, it grows to the height of an olive tree; the trunk and branches are hollow like a kex, and the leaves sometimes as broad as the brim of a hat. It must be of a soft or spungy substance, for it is said to grow surprisingly fast. See Taylor under קיק Root 1670. But it is evident there was something supernatural in the growth of this plant, for it is stated to have come up in a night; though the Chaldee understands the passage thus,—It was here last night, and is withered this night. In one night it might have blown and expanded its leaves considerably; though the plant had existed before, but not in full bloom till the time that Jonah required it for a shelter.

Verse 7. But God prepared a worm] By being eaten through the root, the plant losing its nourishment, would soon wither; and this was the case in the present instance.

Verse 8. A vehement east wind] Which was of itself of a parching withering nature; and the sun, in addition, made it intolerable. These winds are both searching and suffocating in the East, for deserts of burning sand lay to the east or south-east; and the easterly winds often brought such a multhat God prepared a [a] vehement east wind; and the sun beat upon the head of Jonah, that he fainted, and wished in himself to die, and said, [b] It is better for me to die than to live.

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

9 And God said to Jonah, [c] Doest thou well to be angry for the gourd? And he said, [d] I do well to be angry, even unto death.

10 Then said the LORD, Thou hast [e] had pity on the gourd, for the which thou hast not laboured, neither madest it grow; which [f] came up in a night, and perished in a night:

A. M. cir. 3142. B. C. cir. 862. Ante U. C. 109. Alladii Sylvii, Reg. Alban. cir. annum 14.

11 And should not I spare Nineveh, [g] that great city, wherein are more than sixscore thousand persons [h] that cannot discern between their right hand and their left hand; and also much [i] cattle?

[a] Or, silent.——[b] Ver. 3.——[c] Or, Art thou greatly angry.——[d] Or, I am greatly angry.——[e] Or, spared.

[f] Heb. was the son of the night.——[g] Ch. 1. 2. & 3. 2, 3.——[h] Deut. 1. 39.——[i] Psa. 36. 6. & 145. 9.

titude of minute particles of sand on their wings, as to add greatly to the mischief. I believe these, and the sands they carry, are the cause of the ophthalmia which prevails so much both in Egypt and India.

Verse 9. I do well to be angry, even unto death] Many persons suppose that the gifts of prophecy and working miracles are the highest that can be conferred on man: but they are widely mistaken, for these gifts change not the heart. Jonah had the gift of prophecy; but had not received that grace which destroys the old man, and creates the soul anew in Christ Jesus. This is the love of which St. Paul speaks; which if a man have not, though he had the gift of prophecy, and could miraculously remove mountains, yet in the sight of God, and for any good himself might reap from it, it would be as sounding brass, and a tinkling cymbal. Jonah was a prophet; and yet had all his old bad tempers in him, in a shameful predominacy. Balaam was of the same kind. So we find that God gave the gift of prophecy, even to graceless men. But many of the prophets were sanctified in their nature before their call to the prophetic office, and were the most excellent of men.

Verse 10. Which came up in a night] St. Jerom speaking of this plant, the kekaion, assigns to it an extraordinary rapidity of growth. It delights in a sandy soil; and in a few days, what was a plant, grows into a large shrub. But he does not appear to have meant the ricinus: this, however, is the most likely. The expressions coming up in a night, and perishing in a night, are only metaphorical to express speedy growth, and speedy decay; and so, as we have seen, the Chaldee interprets it, די בליליא הדין הוה ובליליא אוחרנא אבד "which existed this night, but in the next night perished;" and this I am satisfied is the true import of the Hebrew phrase.

Verse 11. And should not I spare Nineveh] In ver. 10, it is said, thou hast had pity on the gourd, אתה חסת attah chasta; and here the Lord uses the same word ואני לא אחוס ve-ani lo ACHUS, "And shall not I have pity upon Nineveh?" How much is the city better than the shrub? But, besides this, there are in it one hundred and twenty thousand persons! And shall I destroy them rather than thy shade should be withered, or thy word apparently fail! And, besides, these persons are young, and have not offended; for they know not the difference between their right hand and their left. And should not I feel more pity for those innocents, than thou dost for the fine flowering plant which is withered in a night, being itself exceedingly short-lived? Add to all this, they have now turned from all those sins, which induced me to denounce judgments against them. And should I destroy them who are now fasting and afflicting their souls; and, covered with sackcloth, are lying in the dust before me, bewailing their offences, and supplicating for mercy! Learn then from this, that it is the incorrigibly wicked on whom my judgments must fall; and against whom they are threatened. And know, that to that man will I look who is of a broken and contrite spirit, and who trembles at my word. Even the dumb beasts are objects of my compassion; I will spare them for the sake of their penitent owners; and remember with the rest, That the Lord careth for oxen.

The great number of cattle to which reference is here made were for the support of the inhabitants; and probably, at this time, the Ninevites gathered in their cattle from the champagne pasture, expecting that some foe coming to besiege them might seize upon them for their forage, while they within might suffer the lack of all things.

No doubt that ancient Nineveh was like ancient Babylon, of which Quintius Curtius says, the buildings were not close to the walls, there being the space of an acre left between them; and in several parts there were within the walls portions of cultivated land, that, if besieged, they might have provision to sustain the inhabitants.

And I suppose this to be true of all large ancient cities. They were more cantons or districts, than cities such as now are; only all the different inhabitants had joined together to wall in the district, for the sake of mutual defence.

This last expostulation of God, it is to be hoped, produced its proper effect on the mind of this irritable prophet; and that he was fully convinced that in this, as in all other cases, God had done all things well.

From this short prophecy many useful lessons may be derived. The Ninevites were on the verge of destruction; but on their repentance were respited. They did not however continue under the influence of good resolutions. They relapsed; and, about one hundred and fifty years afterwards, the prophet Nahum was sent to predict the miraculous discomfiture of the Assyrian army under Sennacherib, an event which took place about 710 B. C.; and also the total destruction of Nineveh by Cyaxares and his allies, which happened about 606 B. C. Several of the ancients, by allegorizing this Book, have made Jonah declare the Divinity, humanity, death, and resurrection, of Christ. These points may be found any where in which fancy may seek them: but he who seeks not for them, will never find them here. Jonah was a type of the resurrection of Christ: nothing farther seems revealed in this prophet relative to the mysteries of Christianity.

In conclusion, while I have done the best I could to illustrate the very difficult prophet through whose work the Reader has just passed, I do not pretend to say I have removed every difficulty. I am satisfied only of one thing, that I have conscientiously endeavoured to do it; and believe that I have generally succeeded: but am still doubtful that several are left behind which, though they may be accounted for from the briefness of the narrative of a great transaction, in which so many surprising particulars are included, yet, for general apprehension, might appear to have required a more distinct and circumstantial statement. I have only to add, that as several of the facts are evidently miraculous, and by the prophet stated as such; others may be probably of the same kind. On this ground all difficulty is removed; for God can do what He pleases. As His power is unlimited, it can meet with no impossibilities. He who gave the commission to Jonah to go and preach to the Ninevites, and prepared the great fish to swallow the disobedient prophet, could maintain his life for three days and three nights in the belly of this marine monster; and cause it to eject him, at the termination of the appointed time, on any seacoast which He might choose; and afterwards the Divine power could carry the deeply contrite and now faithful prophet over the intervening distance between that and Nineveh, be that distance greater or less. Whatever, therefore, cannot be accounted for on mere natural principles in this Book, may be referred to this supernatural agency; and this, on the ostensible principle of the prophecy itself, is at once a mode of interpretation, as easy, as it is rational. God gave the commission; He raised the storm; He prepared the fish which swallowed the prophet; He caused it to cast him forth on the dry land; He gave him a fresh commission, carried him to the place of his destination, and miraculously produced the sheltering gourd, that came to perfection in a night, and withered in a night. This God, therefore, performed the other facts for which we cannot naturally account, as He did those already specified. This concession, for the admission of which both common sense and reason plead, at once solves all the real or seeming difficulties to be found in the Book of the Prophet Jonah.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET JONAH.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE BOOK OF

THE PROPHET MICAH.

MICAH, the Morasthite, or of Moresa, a village near the city Eleutheropolis, in the southern part of Judah, is the sixth in order of the twelve Lesser Prophets. He prophesied under Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, for about fifty years. Some have confounded him with Micaiah, son of Imlah, who lived in the kingdom of the ten tribes, under the reign of Ahab.

The spurious Dorotheus says, that Micah was buried in the burying place of the Anakim, whose habitation had been at Hebron, and round about it. This Prophet appeared almost at the same time with Isaiah; and has even borrowed some expressions from him. Compare Isa. ii, 2, with Micah iv, 1; and Isa. xli, 15, with Micah iv, 13.

The prophecy of Micah contains but seven Chapters. He foretels the calamities of Samaria, which was taken by Shalmaneser, and reduced to a heap of stones. Afterwards he prophesies against Judah, and declares the troubles that Sennacherib should bring upon it under the reign of Hezekiah. Then he exclaims against the iniquities of Samaria. He foretels the captivity of the ten tribes, and their return into their own country. The third Chapter contains a pathetic invective against the princes of the house of Jacob, and the judges of the house of Israel; which seems levelled against the chief of the kingdom of Judah, the judges, the magistrates, the priests, the false prophets, &c. He upbraids them with their avarice, their injustice, and falsehood; and tells them they will be the occasion that Jerusalem shall be reduced to a heap of rubbish, and the mountain of the Temple shall be as a forest. We are informed, Jer. xxvi, 18, 19, that this prophecy was pronounced in the reign of Hezekiah; and that it saved Jeremiah from death.

After these terrible denunciations, Micah speaks of the reign of the Messiah, and of the establishment of the Christian church. And as the peaceable times which succeeded the return from the Babylonish captivity, and which were a figure of the reign of the Messiah, were disturbed by a tempest of a short continuance, Micah foretold it in such a manner as agrees very well with what Ezekiel says of the war of Gog against the Jews. Micah speaks in particular of the birth of the Messiah; that he was to be born at Bethlehem, and that his dominion was to extend to the utmost parts of the earth. He says that God should raise seven shepherds who should reign by the sword over Assyria, and in the land of Nimrod; which Calmet explains of Darius, son of Hystaspes; and of the seven confederates that killed the Magian, and who possessed the empire of the Persians, after the extinction of the family of Cyrus. The fifth Chapter, from ver. 7 to the end, describes the flourishing estate of the Jews in their own country, from the reign of Darius, and after the Maccabees; yet in such a manner, that he mingles several things in it that can apply only to the church of Jesus Christ.

The two last Chapters of Micah contain, first, a long invective against the iniquities of Samaria: then he foretels the fall of Babylon; the re-establishment of the cities of Israel; the greatness of the country possessed by the Israelites; their happiness; the graces wherewith God will favour them; and all this in such lofty terms that they chiefly agree with the Christian church. St. Jerom says, that Micah was buried at Morasthi, ten furlongs from Eleutheropolis; and Sozomenes says that his tomb was revealed to Zebennus, bishop of Eleutheropolis, under the reign of Theodosius the Great. He calls the place of his burial Beretsate, which is probably the same as Morasthi, ten furlongs from Eleutheropolis.

Bishop Newcome observes that Micah was of the kingdom of Judah, as he only makes mention of kings who reigned over that country. It is supposed that he prophesied farther on in the reign of Hezekiah than Hosea did; although chap. v, 5, was written before the captivity of the ten tribes, which happened in the sixth year of Hezekiah. It is plain from chap. i, 1, 5, 9, 12, 13, that he was sent both to Israel and Judah. Like Amos and Hosea he reproves and threatens, with great spirit and energy, a corrupt people. See chap. ii, 1, 2, 3, 8, 9, 10; iii, 2, 3, 4, 6, 10—16; vii, 2, 3, 4. And, like Hosea, he inveighs against the princes and prophets with the highest indignation; see chap. iii, 5—7, 9—12; vii, 3. The Reader will observe that these similar topics are treated of by each prophet with remarkable variety, and copiousness of expression.

Some of his prophecies are distinct and illustrious ones, as chap. ii, 12, 13; iii, 12; iv, 1—4, 10; v, 2, 3, 4; vi, 13; vii, 8, 9, 10.

We may justly admire the beauty and elegance of his manner:—

Chap. ii, 12.—"I will surely gather, O Jacob, all of thee:
I will surely assemble the residue of Israel.
I will put them together as sheep of Bozrah,
As a flock in the midst of their fold:
They shall make a tumult from the multitude of men.
13.—He that forceth a passage is come up before them:
They have forced a passage, and have passed through the gate; and are gone forth by it:
And their King passeth before them, even Jehovah at the head of them."

Chap. iv, 1.—"But it shall come to pass, in the latter days,
That the mountain of the temple of Jehovah shall be Established on the top of the mountains,
And it shall be exalted above the hills;
And the people shall flow into it.
2.—And many nations shall go, and shall say;—
Come, and let us go up unto the mountain of Jehovah,
And unto the temple of the God of Jacob:
That He may teach us of His ways, and that we may walk in His paths.
For from Sion shall go forth a law,
And the word of Jehovah from Jerusalem.
3.—And he shall judge between many people,
And he shall convince strong nations afar off:
And they shall beat their swords into ploughshares,
And their spears into pruninghooks:
Nation shall not lift up sword against nation,
Neither shall they any longer learn war."

His animation,—chap. i, 5, lines 3, 4.

"What is the transgression of Jacob?—is it not that of Samaria?
And what are the high places of Judah?—are they not those of Jerusalem?"

Chap. iv, 9.—"And now why dost thou cry out loudly?
Is there no king in thee?
Hath thy counsellor perished?
For pangs have seized thee, as a woman in travail."

There are few beauties or elegances of composition examples of which may not be found in this prophet. And for sublime and impressive diction in several places, he is unrivalled. The Lord's controversy, chap. vi, 1—8, is equal to any thing, even in the prophet Isaiah. It has a powerful effect on every attentive Reader.

His strength of expression.

Chap. i, 6.—"Therefore will I make Samaria a heap of the field, a place for the plantings of a vineyard:
And I will pour down her stones into the valley, and I will discover her foundations."

iii, 2.—"Ye who hate good and love evil:
Who pluck their skin from off them,
And their flesh from off their bones.

3.—Who also have eaten the flesh of my people,
And have flayed their skin from off them,
And have broken their bones:
And have divided them asunder as flesh in the pot;
And as meat within the caldron."

vii, 1.—"Woe is me; for I am become
As the gatherers of late figs, as the gleaners of the vintage.
There is no cluster to eat:
My soul desireth the first ripe fig.

2.—The good man is perished from the land,
And there is none upright among men.
All of them lie in wait for blood;
They hunt every man his brother for his destruction."

His pathos.

Chap. i, 16.—"Make thee bald, and cut off thine hair, for thy delicate children;
Enlarge thy baldness as the eagle;
For they are gone into captivity from Thee."

ii, 4—"In that day shall a proverb be taken up against you;
And a grievous lamentation shall be made:
Saying, 'We are utterly laid waste:
'He hath changed the portion of my people:
'How hath he departed from me,
'To bring again him that divided our fields!'"

His sublimity.

Chap. i, 26.—"Hear, O ye people, all of you:
Hearken, O land, and all that are therein.
And let the Lord Jehovah be Witness against you;
Even the Lord from His holy temple.

3.—For, behold, Jehovah will go forth from His place;
And He will come down, and will tread upon the high places of the earth.

Chap. i, 4.—And the mountains shall be molten under Him;
And the vallies shall cleave asunder;
As wax before the fire,
As waters poured down a steep place."

Chap. vi, 1.—"Hear ye now what Jehovah saith:
Arise, contend thou before the mountains;
And let the hills hear thy voice."

vii, 16.—"The nations shall see, and shall be confounded because of all their might:
They shall lay their hand upon their mouth; their ears shall be deaf.

17.—They shall lick the dust as the serpent;
As the creeping things of the earth, they shall tremble from their close places:
Because of Jehovah our God, they shall stand in awe; and they shall fear because of Thee."

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET MICAH.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book.

Year from the Creation according to Archbishop Ussher, 3254.—Year of the Julian Period, 3964.—Year since the Flood, 1598.—Year from the vocation of Abram, 1171.—Year since the first celebration of the Olympic games in Elis by the Idæi Dactyli, 704.—Year from the destruction of Troy, according to the general computation of chronologers, 434.—Year since the commencement of the kingdom of Israel, by the Divine appointment of Saul to the regal dignity, 346.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's Temple, 262.—Year since the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 226.—Year since the restoration of the Olympic games at Elis by Lycurgus, Iphitus, and Cleosthenes, 135.—Year from the foundation of the kingdom of Macedon by Caranus, 65.—Year from the foundation of the kingdom of Lydia by Ardysus, 49. All before this reign concerning Lydia is entirely fabulous.——Year since the conquest of Corœbus at Olympia, usually called the First Olympiad, 27.—Third year of the seventh Olympiad.—Year from the building of Rome according to the Varronian computation, 4.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Cato and the Fasti Consulares, 3.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Polybius the historian, 2.—Year before the building of Rome, according to Fabius Pictor, 2.—Year before the commencement of the æra of Nabonassar, 2.—Year before the birth of Christ, 746.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 750.—Cycle of the Sun, 16.—Cycle of the Moon, 12.—Twenty-first year of Theopompus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—Twenty-seventh year of Polydorus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Twelfth year of Alyattes, king of Lydia.—Fifth year of Charops, the first decennial archon of the Athenians.—Fourth year of Romulus, the first king of the Romans.—Tenth year of Pekah, king of Israel.—Ninth year of Jotham, king of Judah.

CHAPTER I.

The Prophet begins with calling the attention of all people to the awful descent of Jehovah, coming to execute His judgments against the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 1—5; first against Samaria, whose fate the Prophet laments in the dress of mourners, and with the doleful cries of the fox or ostrich, 6—8; and then against Jerusalem, which is threatened with the invasion of Sennacherib. Other cities of Judah are likewise threatened; and their danger represented to be so great as to oblige them to have recourse for protection even to their enemies the Philistines, from whom they desired at first to conceal their situation. But all resources are declared to be vain; Israel and Judah must go into captivity, 9—16.

A. M. cir. 3254. B. C. cir. 750. A. U. C. cir. 4. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 4.

THE word of the LORD that came to [a] Micah the Morasthite in the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah, kings of Judah, [b] which he saw concerning Samaria and Jerusalem.

2 [c] Hear, all ye people; [d] hearken, O earth, and [e] all that therein is: and let the Lord GOD [f] be Witness against you, the Lord from [g] his holy temple.

3 For, behold, [h] the LORD cometh forth out of his [i] place, and will come down, and tread upon the [k] high places of the earth.

4 And [l] the mountains shall be molten under him, and the valleys shall be cleft, as wax before the fire, and as the waters that are poured down [m] a steep place.

5 For the transgression of Jacob is all this, and for the sins of the house of Israel. What is the transgression of Jacob? is it not Samaria? and what are the high places of Judah? are they not Jerusalem?

A. M. cir. 3254. B. C. cir. 750. A. U. C. cir. 4. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 4.

6 Therefore I will make Samaria [n] as a heap of the field, and as plantings of a vineyard: and I will pour down the stones thereof into the valley, and I will [o] discover the foundations thereof.

7 And all the graven images thereof shall be beaten to pieces, and all the [p] hires thereof shall be burned with the fire, and all the idols thereof will I lay desolate: for she gathered it of the hire of a harlot, and they shall return to the hire of a harlot.

---

[a] Jer. 26. 18.——[b] Amos. 1. 1.——[c] Heb. Hear, ye people, all of them.——[d] Deut. 32. 1. Isa. 1. 2.——[e] Heb. the fulness thereof.——[f] Psa. 50. 7. Mal. 3. 5.——[g] Psa. 11. 4. Jonah 2. 7. Hab. 2. 20.——[h] Isa. 26. 21.

[i] Psa. 115. 3.——[k] Deut. 32. 13. & 33. 29. Amos 4. 13.——[l] Judg. 5. 5. Psa. 97. 5. Isa. 64. 1, 2, 3. Amos 9. 5. Hab. 3. 6, 10.——[m] Heb. a descent.——[n] Kings 19. 25. ch. 3. 12.——[o] Ezek. 13. 14.——[p] Hos. 2. 5, 12.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. The word of the LORD that came to Micah the Morasthite] For all authentic particulars relative to this prophet, see the Preface.

In the days of Jotham, Ahaz, and Hezekiah] These three kings reigned about threescore years; and Micah is supposed to have prophesied about forty or fifty years: but no more of his prophecies have reached posterity than what are contained in this Book; nor is there any evidence that any more was written. His time appears to have been spent chiefly in preaching and exhorting; and he was directed to write those parts only that were calculated to profit succeeding generations.

Verse 2. Hear, all ye people] The very commencement of this prophecy supposes preceding exhortations and predictions.

Hearken, O earth] ארץ arets, here should be translated land, the country of the Hebrews being only intended.

And let the Lord GOD be Witness] Let Him who has sent me with this message be Witness that I have delivered it faithfully; and be a Witness against you, if you take not the warning.

The Lord from his holy temple.] The place where He still remains as your King, and your Judge; and where you profess to pay your devotions. The Temple was yet standing, for Jerusalem was not taken for many years after this; and these prophecies were delivered before the captivity of the ten tribes, as Micah appears to have been sent both to Israel and Judah. See ver. 5—9, 12, 13.

Verse 3. For, behold, the LORD cometh forth] See this clause Amos iv, 13. He represents Jehovah as a mighty Conqueror, issuing from His pavilion, stepping from mountain to mountain, which rush down and fill the valleys before Him; a consuming fire accompanying Him, that melts and confounds every hill and dale, and blends all in universal confusion. God is here represented as doing that Himself, which other conquerors do by the multitude of their hosts. Levelling the mountains; filling some valleys; and digging for waters in others, and pouring them from hills and dales for the use of the conquering armies, by pipes and aqueducts.

And why is all this mighty movement! Verse 5. For the transgression of Jacob is all this, and for the sins of the house of Israel.

What is the transgression of Jacob?] Is it not something extremely grievous? Is it not that of Samaria? Samaria and Jerusalem, the chief cities, are infected with idolatry. Each has its high places, and its idol worship, in opposition to the worship of the true God. That there was idolatry practised by the elders of Israel, even in the temple of Jehovah, see Ezek. viii, 1, &c. As the royal cities in both kingdoms gave the example of gross idolatry, no wonder that it spread through the whole land, both of Israel and Judah.

Verse 6. I will make Samaria] I will bring it to desolation: and, instead of being a royal city, it shall be a place for vineyards. Newcome observes, that Samaria was situated on a hill, the right soil for a vineyard.

I will discover the foundations thereof.] I will cause its walls and fortifications to be razed to the ground.

Verse 7. All the hires thereof shall be burned] Multitudes of women gave the money they gained by their public prostitution at the temples for the support of the priesthood, the ornamenting of the walls, altars, and images. So that these things, and perhaps several of the images themselves, were literally the hire of the harlots: and God threatens here to deliver all into the hands of enemies, who should seize on this wealth, and literally spend it in the same way in which it was acquired;—so, that to the hire of a harlot these things should return.

A. M. cir. 3254. B. C. cir. 750. A. U. C. cir. 4. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 4.

8 Therefore [a] I will wail and howl, [b] I will go stripped and naked: [c] I will make a wailing like the dragons, and mourning as the [d] owls.

9 For [e] her wound is incurable; for [f] it is come unto Judah; he is come unto the gate of my people, even to Jerusalem.

10 [g] Declare ye it not at Gath, weep ye not at all: in the house of [h] Aphrah [i] roll thyself in the dust.

11 Pass ye away, [k] thou [l] inhabitant of Saphir, having thy [m] shame naked: the inhabitant of [n] Zaanan came not forth in the mourning of [o] Beth-ezel; he shall receive of you his standing.

12 For the inhabitant of Maroth [p] waited carefully for good: but [q] evil came down from the LORD unto the gate of Jerusalem.

A. M. cir. 3254. B. C. cir. 750. A. U. C. cir. 4. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 4.

13 O thou inhabitant of [r] Lachish, bind the chariot to the swift beast: she is the beginning of the sin to the daughter of Zion: for the transgressions of Israel were found in thee.

14 Therefore shalt thou [s] give presents [t] to Moresheth-gath: the houses of [u] Achzib [x] shall be a lie to the kings of Israel.

15 Yet will I bring an heir unto thee, O inhabitant of [y] Mareshah: [z] he shall come unto [a] Adullam the glory of Israel.

16 Make thee [b] bald, and poll thee for thy [c] delicate children; enlarge thy baldness as the eagle; for they are gone into captivity from thee.

---

[a] Isa. 21. 3. & 22. 4. Jer. 4. 19.——[b] Isa. 20. 2, 3, 4.——[c] Job 30. 29. Psa. 102. 6.——[d] Heb. daughters of the owl.——[e] Or, she is grievously sick of her wounds.——[f] 2 Kings 18. 13. Isa. 8. 7, 8.——[g] 2 Sam. 1. 20.——[h] That is, dust.——[i] Jer. 6. 26.——[k] Or, thou that dwellest fairly.——[l] Heb. inhabitress.——[m] Isa. 20. 4. & 47. 2, 3. Jer. 13. 22. Nah. 3. 5.

[n] Or, the country of flocks.——[o] Or, a place near.——[p] Or, was grieved.——[q] Amos 3. 6.——[r] 2 Kings 18. 14, 17.——[s] 2 Sam. 8. 2. 2 Kings 18. 14, 15, 16.——[t] Or, for.——[u] That is, a lie.——[x] Josh. 15. 44.——[y] Josh. 15. 44.——[z] Or, the glory of Israel shall come, &c.——[a] 2 Chron. 11. 7.——[b] Job 1. 20. Isa. 15. 2. & 22. 12. Jer. 7. 29. & 16. 6. & 47. 5. & 48. 37.——[c] Lam. 4. 5.

Verse 8. I will make a wailing like the dragons] Newcome translates:—

I will make a wailing like the foxes, (or jackals.)
And mourning like the daughters of the ostrich.

This beast, the jackal, or shiagal, we have often met with in the prophets. Travellers inform us, that its howlings by night are most lamentable: and as to the ostrich, it is remarkable for its fearful shrieking and agonizing groanings after night. Dr. Shaw says he has often heard them groan as if they were in the greatest agonies.

Verse 9. Her wound is incurable] Nothing shall prevent their utter ruin; for they have filled up the measure of their iniquity.

He is come—even to Jerusalem] The desolation and captivity of Israel shall first take place: that of Judah shall come after.

Verse 10. Declare ye it not at Gath] Do not let this prediction be known among the Philistines, else they will glory over you.

House of Aphrah] Or, Beth-aphrah. This place is mentioned Josh. xviii, 23, as in the tribe of Benjamin. There is a paranomasia, or play on words, here: בבית לעפרה be-beith le-âphrah, âphar, roll thyself in the dust, in the house of dust.

Verse 11. Inhabitant of Saphir] Sâpher, Sepphoris, or Sephora, was the strongest place in Galilee.—Calmet. It was a city in the tribe of Judah, between Eleutheropolis and Ascalon.—Houbigant.

Zaanan] Another city in the tribe of Judah, Josh. xv, 13.

Beth-ezel] A place near Jerusalem, Zech. xiv, 5. Some think that Jerusalem itself is intended by this word.

Verse 12. The inhabitant of Maroth] There was a city of a similar name in the tribe of Judah, Josh. xv, 59.

Verse 13. Inhabitant of Lachish] This city was in the tribe of Judah, Josh. xv, 39, and was taken by Sennacherib when he was coming against Jerusalem, 2 Kings xviii, 13, &c; and it is supposed that he wished to reduce this city first, that, possessing it, he might prevent Hezekiah's receiving any help from Egypt.

She is the beginning of the sin] This seems to intimate that Lachish was the first city in Judah which received the idolatrous worship of Israel.

Verse 14. Give presents to Moresheth-gath] Calmet says that Moresa, or Morashti, and Achzib, were cities not far from Gath. It is possible that when Ahaz found himself pressed by Pekah, king of Israel, he might have sent to these places for succour, that by their assistance he might frustrate the hopes of the king of Israel;—and this may be the meaning of The houses of Achzib shall be a lie to the kings of Israel. In these verses there are several instances of the paranomasia. So, ver. 10. עפר âpher, dust, and עפרה âphrah, the name of the city. Ver. 11, צאנן tsaanan, the city, and יצאה yatsah, to go out. Ver. 13, לכיש lacish, the city, and רכש rekesh, the swift beast. Ver. 14, אכזיב aczib, the city, and אכזב aczab, a lie. Such paranomasias were reputed ornaments by all the prophets. They occur in Isaiah with great effect. See Isa. v, 7.

Verse 15. Yet will I bring an heir unto thee, O—Mareshah] Here is another instance,—הירש haiyeresh, to bring an heir, and מרשה mareshah, the city; the name of which signifies heirship. And so of the above proper names.

Adullam the glory of Israel] This was a fenced city in the south of Judah, (see 2 Chron. xi, 7,) towards the Dead sea.

There is much obscurity in the concluding verses of this Chapter. They undoubtedly refer to the captivity of Israel, and to circumstances of distress, &c, which are not mentioned in any of the historical Books; and therefore their reference and meaning can only be conjectured.

Verse 16. Make thee bald] Cutting off the hair was a sign of great distress; and was practised on the death of near relatives, See Amos viii, 10. The desolation should be so great that Israel should feel it to her utmost extent; and the mourning like that of a mother for the death of her most delicate children.

Enlarge thy baldness as the eagle] Referring to the moulting of this bird, when, in casting its feathers and breeding new ones, it is very sickly, and its strength wholly exhausted.

They are gone into captivity] This is a prediction of the captivity by Shalmaneser. Samaria, the chief city, is called on to deplore it, as then fast approaching.

CHAPTER II.

Here the Prophet denounces a woe against the plotters of wickedness, the covetous, and the oppressor, 1, 2. God is represented as devising their ruin, 3. An Israelite is then introduced as a mourner, personating his people, and lamenting their fate, 4. Their total expulsion is now threatened, on account of their very numerous offences, 5—10. Great infatuation of the people in favour of those pretenders to Divine inspiration who prophesied to them peace and plenty, 11. The Chapter concludes with a gracious promise of the restoration of the posterity of Jacob from captivity; possibly alluding to their deliverance from the Chaldean yoke, an event which was about two hundred years in futurity at the delivery of this prophecy, 12, 13.

A. M. cir. 3274. B. C. cir. 730. A. U. C. cir. 24. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 24.

WOE to them [a] that devise iniquity, and [b] work evil upon their beds! when the morning is light, they practise it, because [c] it is in the power of their hand.

2 And they covet [d] fields, and take them by violence; and houses, and take them away: so they [e] oppress a man and his house, even a man and his heritage.

3 Therefore thus saith the LORD; Behold, against [f] this family do I devise an evil, from which ye shall not remove your necks; neither shall ye go haughtily: [g] for this time is evil.

A. M. cir. 3274. B. C. cir. 730. A. U. C. cir. 24. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 24.

4 In that day shall one [h] take up a parable against you, and [i] lament [k] with a doleful lamentation, and say, We be utterly spoiled: [l] he hath changed the portion of my people: how hath he removed it from me! [m] turning away he hath divided our fields.

[a] Hos. 7. 6.——[b] Psa. 36. 4.——[c] Gen. 31. 29.——[d] Isa. 5. 8.——[e] Or, defraud. [f] Jer. 8. 3.——[g] Amos 5. 13. Eph. 5. 16.

[h] Hab. 2. 6.——[i] 2 Sam. 1. 17.——[k] Heb. with a lamentation of lamentations. [l] Ch. 1. 15.——[m] Or, instead of restoring.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Woe to them that devise iniquity] Who lay schemes and plans for transgression: who make it their study to find out new modes of sinning; and make these things their nocturnal meditations, that, having fixed their plan, they may begin to execute it as soon as it is light in the morning.

Because it is in the power of their hand.] They think they may do whatever they have power and opportunity to do.

Verse 2. They covet fields] These are the rich and mighty in the land; and, like Ahab, they will take the vineyard or inheritance of any poor Naboth on which they may fix their covetous eye: so that they take away even the heritage of the poor.

Verse 3. Against this family (the Israelites) do I devise an evil] You have devised the evil of plundering the upright;—I will devise the evil to you of punishment for your conduct: you shall have your necks brought under the yoke of servitude. Tiglath-pileser ruined this kingdom, and transported the people to Assyria, under the reign of Hezekiah, king of Judah; and Micah lived to see this catastrophe. See on ver. 9.

Verse 4. Take up a parable against you] Your wickedness and your punishment shall be subjects of common conversation; and a funeral dirge shall be composed and sung for you as for the dead. The lamentation is that which immediately follows:—We be utterly spoiled; and ends,—Are these his doings? ver. 7.

A. M. cir. 3274. B. C. cir. 730. A. U. C. cir. 24. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 24.

5 Therefore thou shalt have none that shall cast [a] a cord by lot in the congregation of the LORD.

6 [b c] Prophesy [d] ye not, say they to them that prophesy: they shall not prophesy to them, that they shall not take shame.

7 O thou that art named the house of Jacob, is the Spirit of the LORD [e] straitened? are these his doings? do not my words do good to him that walketh [f] uprightly?

8 Even [g] of late my people is risen up as an enemy: ye pull off the robe [h] with the garment from them that pass by securely as men averse from war.

9 The [i] women of my people have ye cast out from their pleasant houses; from their children have ye taken away my glory for ever.

A. M. cir. 3274. B. C. cir. 730. A. U. C. cir. 24. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 24.

10 Arise ye, and depart; for this is not your [k] rest: because it is [l] polluted, it shall destroy you, even with a sore destruction.

11 If a man [m] walking [n] in the spirit and falsehood do lie, saying, I will prophesy unto thee of wine and of strong drink; he shall even be the prophet of this people.

12 [o] I will surely assemble, O Jacob, all of thee; I will surely gather the remnant of Israel; I will put them together [p] as the sheep of Boz-

[a] Deut. 32. 8, 9.——[b] Or, Prophesy not as they prophesy.——[c] Heb. Drop, &c. Ezek. 21. 2.——[d] Isa. 30. 10. Amos 2. 12. & 7. 16.——[e] Or, shortened.——[f] Heb. upright.——[g] Heb yesterday.

[h] Heb. over against a garment.——[i] Or, wives.——[k] Deut. 12. 9.——[l] Lev. 18. 25, 28. Jer. 3. 2.——[m] Or, walk with the wind, and lie falsely.——[n] Ezek. 13. 3.——[o] Ch. 4. 6, 7.——[p] Jer. 31. 10.

Verse 5. None that shall cast a cord] You will no more have your inheritance divided to you by lot, as it was to your fathers:—ye shall neither have fields nor possessions of any kind.

Verse 6. Prophesy ye not] Do not predict any more evils,—we have as many as we can bear. We are utterly ruined,—shame and confusion cover our faces. The original is singular, and expressive of sorrow and sobbing. Literally, Do not cause it to rain;—they will cause it to rain;—they cannot make it rain sooner than this;—confusion shall not depart from us. To rain, often means to preach, to prophesy, Ezek. xx, 46; xxi, 2; Amos vii, 16; Deut. xxxii, 2; Job xxix, 22; Prov. v, 3, &c.

The last line Bp. Newcome translates,—For he shall not remove from himself reproaches;—and paraphrases, "The true prophet will subject himself to public disgrace by exercising his office."

Verse 7. Is the Spirit of the LORD straitened?] This is the complaint of the Israelites, and a part of the lamentation. Doth it not speak by other persons as well as by Micah?—Doth it communicate to us such influences as it did formerly?—Is it true that these evils are threatened by that Spirit?—Are these His doings? To which Jehovah answers, Do not my words do good to him that walketh uprightly? No upright man need fear any word spoken by me: my words to such yield instruction and comfort; never, dismay. Were ye upright, ye would not complain of the words of my prophets. The last clause might be translated, Walking with him that is upright. The upright man walks by the word; and the word walks with him who walks by it.

Verse 8. My people is risen up as an enemy] Ye are not only opposed to me, but ye are enemies to each other. Ye rob and spoil each other. Ye plunder the peaceable passenger; depriving him both of his upper and under garment: ye pull off the robe from those who, far from being spoilers themselves, are averse from war.

Verse 9. The women of my people] Ye are the cause of the women and their children being carried into captivity,—separated from their pleasant habitations, and from my temple and ordinances, and from the blessings of the covenant, which it is my glory to give, and their's to receive. These two verses may probably relate to the war made on Ahaz, by Rezin, king of Syria, and Pekah, king of Israel. They fell suddenly upon the Jews; killed in one day one hundred and twenty thousand, and took two hundred thousand captive; and carried away much spoil. Thus, they rose up against them as enemies, when there was peace between the two kingdoms; spoiled them of their goods, carrying away men, women, and children, till, at the remonstrances of the prophet Oded, they were released. See 2 Chron. xxviii, 6, &c. Micah lived in the days of Ahaz, and might have seen the barbarities which he here describes.

Verse 10. Arise ye, and depart] Prepare for your captivity; ye shall have no resting place here: the very land is polluted by your iniquities, and shall vomit you out, and it shall be destroyed; and the destruction of it shall be great and sore.

Some think this is an exhortation to the godly, to leave a land that was to be destroyed so speedily.

Verse 11. If a man walking in the spirit and falsehood] The meaning is: if a man who professes to be divinely inspired, do lie by prophesying of plenty, &c; then such a person shall be received as a true prophet by this people. It not unfrequently happens, that the Christless worldling, who has got into the priest's office for a maintenance, and who leaves the people undisturbed in their unregenerate state, is better received than the faithful pastor, who proclaims the justice of the Lord, and the necessity of repentance and forsaking sin, in order to their being made partakers of that holiness, without which no man shall see God.

Verse 12. I will surely assemble] This is a promise of the restoration of Israel from captivity. He compares them rah, as the flock in the midst of their fold: [a] they shall make great noise by reason of the multitude of men.

A. M. cir. 3274. B. C. cir. 730. A. U. C. cir. 24. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 24.

13 The breaker is come up before them: they have broken up, and have passed through the gate, and are gone out by it: and [b] their king shall pass before them, [c] and the LORD on the head of them.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 730. A. U. C. cir. 24. Romuli, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 24.

[a] Ezek. 36. 37.——[b] Hos. 3. 5.

[c] Isa. 52. 12.

to a flock of sheep rushing together to their fold, the hoofs of which make a wonderful noise or clatter. So when one hundred sheep run, eight hundred toes or divisions of these bifid animals make a clattering noise. This appears to be the image.

Verse 13. The breaker is come up] He who is to give them deliverance, and lead them out on the way of their return. He who takes down the hurdles, or makes a gap in the wall or hedge, to permit them to pass through. This may apply to those human agents that shall permit and order their return. And Jehovah being at their head, may refer to their final restoration, when the Lord Jesus shall become their Leader, they having returned unto Him as the Shepherd and Bishop of their souls; and they and the Gentiles forming one fold under one Shepherd, and to go no more out into captivity for ever. Lord, hasten the time!

CHAPTER III.

In this Chapter the Prophet inveighs with great boldness and spirit against the princes and prophets of Judah; and foretels the destruction of Jerusalem as the consequence of their iniquity, 1—12. The last verse was fulfilled to a certain extent by Nebuchadnezzar; but most fully and literally by the Romans under Titus. See Josephus.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

AND I said, Hear, I pray you, O heads of Jacob, and ye princes of the house of Israel; [a] Is it not for you to know judgment?

2 Who hate the good, and love the evil; who pluck off their skin from off them, and their flesh from off their bones;

3 Who also [b] eat the flesh of my people, and flay their skin from off them; and they break their bones, and chop them in pieces, as for the pot, and [c] as flesh within the caldron.

A. M. cir. 3204. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

4 Then [d] shall they cry unto the LORD, but he will not hear them: he will even hide his face from them at that time, as they have behaved themselves ill in their doings.

5 Thus saith the LORD [e] concerning the prophets that make my people err, that [f] bite with their teeth, and cry, Peace; and [g] he that putteth

[a] Jer. 5. 4, 5.——[b] Psa. 14. 4.——[c] Ezek. 11. 3, 7.——[d] Psa. 18. 41. Prov. 1. 28. Isa. 1. 15. Ezek. 8. 18. Zech. 7. 13.

[e] Isa. 56. 10, 11. Ezek. 13. 10. & 22. 25.——[f] Ch. 2. 11. Matt. 7. 15.——[g] Ezek. 13. 18, 19.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. Hear—O heads of Jacob] The metaphor of the flock is still carried on. The chiefs of Jacob and the princes of Israel, instead of taking care of the flocks, defending them, and finding them pasture, oppressed them in various ways. They are like wolves who tear the skin of the sheep, and the flesh off their bones. This applies to all unjust and oppressive rulers.

Seutonius tells us, in his life of Tiberius, that when the governors of provinces wrote to the emperor, entreating him to increase the tributes, he wrote back:—"It is the property of a good shepherd to shear his sheep, not to skin them.—Præsidibus onerandas tributo provincias suadentibus rescripsit: BONI PASTORIS esse TONDERE pecus, non DEGLUBERE. This is a maxim which many rulers of the earth do not seem to understand.

Verse 4. Then shall they cry] When calamity comes upon these oppressors, they shall cry for deliverance: but they shall not be heard; because, in their unjust exactions upon the people, they went on ruthlessly, and would not hear the cry of the oppressed.

Verse 5. That bite with their teeth] That eat to the full: that are well provided for, and as long as they are so, prophesy smooth things, and cry peace! i. e. ye shall have not into their mouths, they even prepare war against him:

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

6 [a] Therefore night shall be unto you, [b] that ye shall not have a vision; and it shall be dark unto you, [c] that ye shall not divine; [d] and the sun shall go down over the prophets, and the day shall be dark over them.

7 Then shall the seers be ashamed, and the diviners confounded: yea, they shall all cover their [e] lips; [f] for there is no answer of God.

8 But truly I am full of power by the Spirit of the LORD, and of judgment, and of might, [g] to declare unto Jacob his transgression, and to Israel his sin.

9 Hear this, I pray you, ye heads of the house of Jacob, and princes of the house of Israel, that abhor judgment, and pervert all equity.

A. M. cir. 3274. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

10 [h] They build up Zion with [i] blood, [k] and Jerusalem with iniquity.

11 [l] The heads thereof judge for reward, and [m] the priests thereof teach for hire, and the prophets thereof divine for money: [n] yet will they lean upon the LORD, [o] and say, Is not the LORD among us? none evil can come upon us.

12 Therefore shall Zion for your sake be [p] plowed as a field; [q] and Jerusalem shall become heaps, and [r] the mountain of the house as the high places of the forest.

---

[a] Isa. 8. 20, 22. Ezek. 13. 23, 24. Zech. 13. 4.——[b] Heb. from a vision.——[c] Heb. from divining.——[d] Amos 8. 9.——[e] Heb. upper lip.——[f] Psa. 74. 9. Amos 8. 11.——[g] Isa. 58. 1.——[h] Jer. 22. 13.——[i] Ezek. 22. 27. Hab. 2. 12. Zeph. 3. 3.——[k] Heb. bloods.——[l] Isa. 1. 23. Ezek. 22. 12. Hos. 4. 18. ch. 7. 3.——[m] Jer. 6. 13.——[n] Isa. 48. 2. Jer. 7. 4. Rom. 2. 17.——[o] Heb. saying.——[p] Jer. 26. 18. ch. 1. 6.——[q] Psa. 79. 1.——[r] Ch. 4. 2.

---

nothing but peace and prosperity. Whereas the true prophet, who putteth not into their mouths, who makes no provision for their evil propensities, they prepare war against him. קדשו עליו מלחמה kideshu âlaiv milchamah, "They sanctify a war against him." They call on all to help them to put down a man who is speaking evil of the Lord's people; and predicting the destruction of His Temple, and Israel His inheritance.

Verse 6. Night shall be unto you] Ye shall have no spiritual light; nor will God give you any revelation of His will.

The sun shall go down over the prophets] They prospered for a while, causing the people to err: but they shall also be carried into captivity, and then the sun of their prosperity shall go down for ever; and the very day that gives light and comfort to others, shall be darkness and calamity to them.

Verse 7. Shall the seers be ashamed] For the false visions of comfort and prosperity which they pretended to see.

And the diviners confounded] Who pretended to foretel future prosperity; for they themselves are now thralled in that very captivity which the true prophets foretold, and which the false prophets said should not happen.

Verse 8. But—I am full of power] Here is the character of the true prophet.—He is filled, all his soul is occupied with power, כח coach, with heavenly energy;—by the Spirit of the Lord, the Fountain of all truth and might;—and of judgment, which enables him to make a proper discernment between the precious and the vile;—and of might, גבורה geburah, prevalent power, against which vice shall not be able to prevail, and before which iniquity shall not be able to stand: but all shall fall together, and be confounded.

Verse 9. Hear this] An appeal similar to that ver. 1.

Verse 10. They build up Zion with blood] They might cry out loudly against that butchery practised by Pekah, king of Israel; and Pul, coadjutor of Resin against the Jews. See on chap. ii, 9. But these were by no means clear themselves; for if they strengthened the city, or decorated the Temple, it was by the produce of their exactions and oppressions of the people.

I do not know a Text more applicable to slave-dealers than this. Those who have made their fortunes by such wrongs as affect the life of man; especially the former, who by the gains of this diabolic traffic have built houses, &c; for, following up the prophet's metaphor, the timbers, &c, are the bones of the hapless Africans, and the mortar the blood of the defenceless progeny of Ham. What an account must all those who have any hand in, or profit from this detestable, degrading, and inhuman traffic, give to Him who will shortly judge the quick and dead!

Verse 11. The heads thereof judge for reward] This does not mean the regular law officers, who have their proper salaries for giving up their whole time and attention to the conscientious discharge of the duties of their office: but to those who take a reward, that take BRIBES, for the perversion of justice; who will decide in favour of those from whom they get the greatest reward.

The prophets—divine for money] These are evidently the false prophets; for none, professing to be sent by God, used any kind of divination.

Yet will they lean upon the LORD] They will prescribe fasts and public thanksgivings, while not one sin is repented of or forsaken, and not one public grievance redressed.

Is not the LORD among us?] Here is His Temple, here His ordinances, and here are His people. Will he leave these? That be far from Him? Yes, He will abandon the whole, because all are polluted.

Verse 12. Therefore shall Zion—be plowed as a field] It shall undergo a variety of reverses and sackages, till at last there shall not be left one stone on the top of another, that shall not be pulled down; and then a plough shall be drawn along the site of the walls, to signify an irreparable and endless destruction. Of this ancient custom Horace speaks, Odar. lib. i. Od. 16. ver. 18.

Altis urbibus ultimæ
Stetêre causæ cur perirent
Funditus, imprimeretque muris
Hostile aratrum, exercitus insolens.

"From hence proud cities date their utter falls;
When, insolent in ruin, o'er their walls
The wrathful soldier drags the hostile plough,
That haughty mark of total overthrow." FRANCIS.

Thus did the Romans treat Jerusalem, when it was taken by Titus. Turnus Rufus, or as he is called by St. Jerom, Titus Arinius Rufus, or Terentius Rufus, according to Josephus, caused a plough to be drawn over all the courts of the Temple, to signify that it should never be rebuilt, and the place only serve for agricultural purposes. See the Note on Matt. xxiv, 2. Thus Jerusalem became heaps, an indiscriminate mass of ruins and rubbish; and the mountain of the house, mount Moriah, on which the Temple stood, became so much neglected, after the total destruction of the Temple, that it soon resembled the high places of the forest. What is said here may apply also, as before hinted, to the ruin of the Temple by Nebuchadnezzar, in the last year of the reign of Zedekiah, the last king of the Jews.

As the Masorets, in their division of the Bible, reckon the twelve minor prophets but as one Book; so they mark this verse (twelfth of chap. iii,) the MIDDLE verse of these prophets.

CHAPTER IV.

In the commencement of this Chapter we have a glorious prophecy of the establishment and prosperity of Messiah's kingdom; its peaceful character, increasing spiritual and political influence, ultimate universality, and everlasting duration, 1—4. Then break in a chorus of His people declaring their peculiar happiness in being members of His kingdom, 5. The Prophet resumes the subject; predicts the restoration and future prosperity of Israel, 6—8; and exhorts them not to be discouraged at their approaching captivity, as they should in due time not only be delivered from it, but likewise be victorious over all their enemies, 9—13. These last verses, which evidently contain a prediction of the final triumph of Christianity over every adversary, have been applied to the conquests of the Maccabees: but the character and beneficial results of their military exploits, as far as we have any account of them, correspond but in a very faint degree to the beautiful and highly wrought up terms of the prophecy. The first three verses of this Chapter are very similar to the commencement of the second Chapter of Isaiah; and the fourth, for beauty of imagery and elegance of expression, is not unworthy of him.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

BUT [a] in the last days it shall come to pass, that the mountain of the house of the LORD shall be established in the top of the mountains, and it shall be exalted above the hills; and people shall flow unto it.

2 And many nations shall come, and say, Come, and let us go up to the [b] mountain of the LORD, and to the house of the God of Jacob; and he will teach us of his ways, and we will walk in his paths; for the law shall go forth of-

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

[a] Isa. 2. 2, &c. Ezek. 17. 22, 23.

[b] Isa. 14. 25.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IV.

Verse 1—4. But in the last days it shall come to pass] These four verses contain, says Bp. Newcome, a prophecy which was to be fulfilled by the coming of the Messiah, when the Gentiles were to be admitted into covenant with God; and the apostles were to preach the gospel, beginning at Jerusalem, Luke xxiv, 47; Acts ii, 14, &c; when Christ was to be the spiritual Judge and King of many people,—was to convince many nations of their errors and vices, and was to found a religion which had the strongest tendency to promote peace. Bp. Lowth thinks, that "Micah took this passage from Isaiah;" or the Spirit may have inspired both prophets with this prediction; or both may have copied some common original, the words of a prophet well known at that

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

Zion, and the word of the LORD from Jerusalem.

3 And he shall judge among many people, and rebuke strong nations afar off; and they shall beat their swords into [a] plowshares, and their spears into [b] pruning-hooks: nation shall not lift up a sword against nation, [c] neither shall they learn war any more.

4 [d] But they shall sit every man under his vine and under his fig-tree; and none shall make them afraid: for the mouth of the LORD of hosts hath spoken it.

5 For [e] all people will walk every one in the name of his god, and [f] we will walk in the name of the LORD our God, for ever and ever.

6 In that day, saith the LORD, [g] will I assemble her that halteth, [h] and I will gather her that is driven out, and her that I have afflicted;

7 And I will make her that halted [i] a remnant, and her that was cast far off a strong nation: and the LORD [k] shall reign over them in mount Zion from henceforth, even for ever.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

8 And thou, O tower of [l] the flock, the strong hold of the daughter of Zion, unto thee shall it come, even the first dominion; the kingdom shall come to the daughter of Jerusalem.

9 Now why dost thou cry out aloud? [m] is there no king in thee? is thy counsellor perished? for [n] pangs have taken thee as a woman in travail.

10 Be in pain, and labour to bring forth, O daughter of Zion, like a woman in travail: for now shalt thou go forth out of the city, and thou shalt dwell in the field, and thou shalt go even to Babylon; there shalt thou be delivered; there the LORD shall redeem thee from the hand of thine enemies.

11 [o] Now also many nations are gathered

[a] Isa. 2. 4. Joel 3. 10. —— [b] Or, scythes. —— [c] Psa. 72. 7. —— [d] 1 Kings 4. 25. Zech. 3. 10. —— [e] Jer. 2. 11. —— [f] Zech. 10. 12. —— [g] Ezek. 34. 16. Zeph. 3. 19. —— [h] Psa. 147. 2. Ezek. 34. 13. & 37. 21.

[i] Ch. 2. 12. & 5. 3, 7, 8. & 7. 18. —— [k] Isa. 9. 6. & 24. 23. Dan. 7. 14, 27. Luke 1. 33. Rev. 11. 15. —— [l] Or. Edar: Gen. 35. 21. —— [m] Jer. 8. 19. —— [n] Isa. 13. 8. & 21. 3. Jer. 30. 6. & 50. 43. —— [o] Lam. 2. 16.

time. The variations (few and of little importance) may be seen in the notes on the parallel passage, Isa. ii, 2, &c, to which the Reader is requested to refer.

Verse 4. Under his vine and under his fig-tree] A proverbial expression indicative of perfect peace, security, and rural comfort. See on Isa. ii, 1. This verse is an addition to the prophecy as it stands in Isaiah.

Verse 5. Every one in the name of his god] This shall be the state of the Gentile world; when, after the captivity, the Jews walked in the name of Jehovah alone; and acknowledge no other object of religious worship to the present day.

Verse 6. Will I assemble her that halteth—driven out—afflicted] Under these epithets, the state of the Jews, who were to be gathered into the Christian church, is pointed out. They halted between the true God and idols. They were driven out into captivity, because of this idolatry; and they were variously afflicted, because they would not return unto the Lord that bought them.

Verse 7. Her that halted a remnant] I will preserve them as a distinct people after their return from captivity, for the further purposes of my grace and mercy.

And the LORD shall reign over them in mount Zion] The Chaldee is remarkable here, and positively applies the words to the Messiah. "But thou, O Messiah of Israel, who art hidden because of the sins of the congregation of Zion, the kingdom shall come unto thee."

Verse 8. O tower of the flock] I think the Temple is meant, or Jerusalem; the place where the flock, the whole congregation of the people, assembled to worship God. Newcome retains the Hebrew word עֵדֶר êder, a tower in or near Bethlehem, Gen. xxxv, 21; or, as some think, a tower near the sheep gate in Jerusalem. I believe Jerusalem, or the Temple, or both, are meant; which was the strong hold of the daughter of Zion, the fortress of the Jewish people.

Even the first dominion] What was this? The Divine theocracy under Jesus Christ; this former, this first, dominion was to be restored. Hence the angel called him Immanuel, God with us; ruling among us.

Verse 9. Is there no king in thee?] None. And why? Because thou hast rejected Jehovah thy King.

Is thy counsellor perished? No: but thou hast rejected the words and advices of the prophets.

Pangs have taken thee] He is speaking of the desolations that shall take place, when the Chaldeans should come against the city; and hence he says, Thou shalt go to Babylon;—ye shall be cast out of your own land, and sent slaves to a foreign country. He represents the people under the notion of a woman in travail.

Verse 10. There shalt thou be delivered] There God shall meet thee; and by redeeming thee from thy captivity, bringing thee back to thy own land, and finally converting thee unto Himself, will deliver thee from the burden of grief and woe which thou now bearest, and under which thou dost groan.

Verse 11. Many nations are gathered against thee] The Chaldeans, which were composed of many nations. And, we may add, all the surrounding nations were their enemies;

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

against thee, that say, Let her be defiled, and let our eye [a] look upon Zion.

12 But they know not [b] the thoughts of the LORD, neither understand they his counsel: for he shall gather them [c] as the sheaves into the floor.

13 [d] Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zion: for I will make thine horn iron, and I will make thy hoofs brass: and thou shalt [e] beat in pieces many people: [f] and I will consecrate their gain unto the LORD, and their substance unto [g] the LORD of the whole earth.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

[a] Obad. 12. ch. 7. 10.——[b] Isa. 55. 8. Rom. 11. 33.——[c] Isa. 21. 10. Isa. 41. 15, 16. Jer. 51. 33.

[e] Dan. 2. 44.——[f] Isa. 18. 7. & 23. 18. & 60. 6, 9.——[g] Zech. 4. 14. & 6. 5.

and rejoiced when the Chaldean army had overthrown Jerusalem, destroyed the Temple, and led the people away captive.

Let her be defiled] This was their cry and their wish: let Jerusalem be laid as low as she can be: like a thing defiled and cast away with abhorrence, that their eyes might look upon Zion with scorn, contempt, and exultation.

Verse 12. But they know not the thoughts of the LORD] These think that God has utterly rejected His people, and they shall have a troublesome neighbour no more: but this is not His design; He will afflict them for a time; but these the enemies of His people, He will gather as sheaves into the threshing floor, there to be trodden, and the wheel to go over them. This is the counsel, the purpose, of God, which these do not understand. The persons here referred to are not only the Chaldeans which were threshed by the Persians and Medes; but the Idumeans, Ammonites, Moabites, and Philistines, which the Jews afterwards subdued.

Verse 13. Arise and thresh, O daughter of Zion] This refers to the subject of the preceding verse. When God shall have gathered together all thy enemies, as into the threshing floor, He will give thee commission and power to get a complete victory over them, and reduce them to servitude. And that thou mayest be able to do this, He will be on thy side as a powerful Helper; here signified by the metaphors, iron horns and brazen hoofs. Thou shalt have power, authority, and unconquerable strength; for thy enemies shall be no more against thee than the corn against oxen shod with brass, or a puny animal against the horn of a fierce bull tipped with iron.

I will consecrate their gain unto the LORD] What they have taken from thee in the way of spoil shall be restored; and again consecrated unto the service of Him who will shew Himself to be the Lord, the Supreme Governor, of the whole earth. Was not this prediction fulfilled, when Cyrus gave the Jews permission to return to their own land, and gave them back the sacred vessels of the Temple which Nebuchadnezzar had carried away? The Maccabees and their successors recovered much of the booty of which the neighbouring nations had deprived the Jews; and the treasure taken was devoted to Jehovah. The first verse of the next Chapter should conclude this.

CHAPTER V.

This Chapter begins, according to the opinion of some commentators, with a prophecy concerning the siege of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar, and the great indignities which Zedekiah should suffer from the Babylonians, 1. We have next a most famous prediction concerning the birthplace of the Messiah, "whose goings forth have been from of old, from EVERLASTING," 2. See Matt. ii, 6. The Jews obstinately persisting in their opposition to the Messiah, God will therefore give them up into the hands of their enemies till the times of the Gentiles be fulfilled; and then all the posterity of Jacob, both Israel and Judah, shall be converted to the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ; and, along with the Gentiles, be brought into the large and peaceful pastures of this Great Shepherd of the sheep, 3, 4. After this illustrious prophecy, the Prophet goes on to foretel the downfal of the Assyrians; by whom are meant the enemies of the church in general, the type being probably put for the antitype; the miraculous discomfiture of the great Assyrian army in the reign of Sennacherib strongly shadowing forth the glorious and no less miraculous triumphs of Christianity in the latter times, 5, 6. See Isa. xi, 16. Some understand this prophecy of Antiochus and the seven famous Maccabees, with their eight royal successors, from Aristobulus to Anti- gonus; and it is not impossible that these people may be also intended, for we have often had occasion to remark that a prophecy of the Old Testament Scriptures has frequently more than one aspect. The seventh verse was fulfilled by the Jews spreading the knowledge of the true God during their captivity, and so paving the way for the Gospel; but will be more signally fulfilled after their conversion and restoration. See Rom. xi, 12—15. The remaining verses contain a prophecy of the final overthrow of all the enemies of pure and undefiled religion, and of the thorough purification of the church of God from the corruptions of Antichrist. 9—15.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

NOW gather thyself in troops, O daughter of troops: he hath laid siege against us: they shall [a] smite the judge of Israel, with a rod upon the cheek.

2 But thou, [b] Beth-lehem Ephratah, though thou be little [c] among the [d] thousands of Judah, yet out of thee shall he come forth unto me that is to be [e] Ruler in Israel; [f] whose goings forth have been from of old, from [g] everlasting.

3 Therefore will he give them up, until the time that [h] she which travaileth hath brought forth: then [i] the remnant of his brethren shall return unto the children of Israel.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

4 And he shall stand and [k] feed [l] in the strength of the LORD, in the majesty of the name of the LORD his God; and they shall abide: for now [m] shall he be great unto the ends of the earth.

[a] Lam. 3. 30. Matt. 5. 39. & 27. 30.——[b] Matt. 2. 6. John 7. 42.——[c] 1 Sam. 23. 23.——[d] Exod. 18. 25.——[e] Gen. 49. 10. Isa. 9. 6.——[f] Psa. 90. 2. Prov. 8. 22, 23. John 1. 1.

[g] Heb. the days of eternity.——[h] Ch. 4. 10.——[i] Ch. 4. 7.——[k] Or, rule.——[l] Isa. 40. 11. & 49. 10. Ezek. 34. 23. ch. 7. 14.——[m] Psa. 72. 8. Isa. 52. 13. Zech. 9. 10. Luke 1. 32.

NOTES ON CHAPTER V.

Verse 1. O daughter of troops] The Chaldeans, whose armies were composed of troops from various nations.

He (Nebuchadnezzar) hath laid siege against us (Jerusalem;) they shall smite the judge of Israel (Zedekiah) with a rod upon the cheek.] They shall offer him the greatest indignity. They slew his sons before his face; and then put out his eyes, loaded him with chains, and carried him captive to Babylon.

Verse 2. But thou, Bethlehem Ephratah] I have considered this subject in great detail in the Notes on Matt. ii, 6, to which the Reader will be pleased to refer. This verse should begin this Chapter; the first verse belongs to the preceding Chapter.

Beth-lehem Ephratah, to distinguish it from another Bethlehem which was in the tribe of Zebulon, Josh. xix, 15.

Thousands of Judah] The tribes were divided into small portions called thousands; as in our country certain divisions of counties are called hundreds.

Whose goings forth have been from of old] In every age, from the foundation of the world, there has been some manifestation of the Messiah. He was the hope, as He was the salvation, of the world, from the promise to Adam in Paradise, to His manifestation in the flesh, four thousand years after.

From everlasting.] מימי עולם mi-yemey ôlam, "From the days of all time;" from time as it came out of eternity. That is; there was no time in which He has not been going forth, coming in various ways to save men. And He that came forth the moment that time had its birth, was before that time in which He began to come forth to save the souls that He had created. He was before all things. As He is the Creator of all things, so He is the Eternal, and no part of what was created. All being but God has been created. Whatever has not been created is God. But Jesus is the Creator of all things; therefore, He is God: for He cannot be a part of His own work.

Verse 3. Therefore will he give them up] Jesus Christ shall give up the disobedient and rebellious Jews into the hands of all the nations of the earth. Till she who travaileth hath brought forth; that is, till the Christian church, represented Rev. xii, 1, under the notion of a woman in travail, shall have had the fulness of the Gentiles brought in. Then the remnant of his brethren shall return, the Jews also shall be converted unto the Lord; and thus all Israel shall be saved, according to Rom. xi, 26.

Unto the children of Israel.] Taking in both families, that of Judah and that of Israel. The remnant of the ten tribes, wherever they are, shall be brought in under Christ; and though now lost among the nations of the earth, they will then not only be brought in among the fulness of the Gentiles, but most probably be distinguished as Jews.

On this verse Abp. Newcome says:—The sense is,—God will not fully vindicate and exalt His people, till the Virgin Mother shall have brought forth her son; and till Judah and Israel, and all the true sons of Abraham among their brethren the Gentiles, be converted to Christianity.

Verse 4. He shall stand and feed] The Messiah shall remain with His followers, supporting and governing them in the strength and majesty of the Lord; with all the miraculous interferences of His power, and all the glories of His grace.

And they shall abide] After this the Jews shall no more go astray; but shall remain one people with the Gentiles, under the one Bishop and Shepherd of all souls.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

5 And this man [a] shall be the peace, when the Assyrian shall come into our land: and when he shall tread in our palaces, then shall we raise against him seven shepherds, and eight [b] principal men.

6 And they shall [c] waste the land of Assyria with the sword, and the land of [d] Nimrod [e] in the entrances thereof: thus shall he [f] deliver us from the Assyrian, when he cometh into our land, and when he treadeth within our borders.

7 And [g] the remnant of Jacob shall be in the midst of many people [h] as a dew from the LORD, as the showers upon the grass, that tarrieth not for man, nor waiteth for the sons of men.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

8 And the remnant of Jacob shall be among the Gentiles in the midst of many people as a lion among the beasts of the forest, as a young lion among the flocks of [i] sheep: who, if he go through, both treadeth down, and teareth in pieces, and none can deliver.

9 Thine hand shall be lifted up upon thine adversaries, and all thine enemies shall be cut off.

[a] Psa. 72. 7. Isa. 9. 6. Zech. 9. 10. Luke 2. 14. Ephes. 2. 14.—[b] Heb. princes of men.—[c] Heb. eat up.—[d] Gen. 10. 8, 10, 11.—[e] Or, with her own naked swords.—[f] Luke 1. 71.—[g] Ver. 3.—[h] Deut. 32. 2, Psa. 72. 6. & 110. 3.—[i] Or, goats.

Newcome translates, They shall be converted; for, instead of וישבו veyashabu, he reads וישובו vayeshubu, which gives him the translation above. This is the reading of three MSS. of Kennicott and De Rossi, with the Syriac, Chaldee, and Vulgate.

For now shall he be great] The Messiah shall be great, as bringing salvation to the ends of the earth. All nations shall receive His religion, and He shall be universal King.

Verse 5 And this man shall be the peace] This clause should be joined to the preceding verse, as it finishes the prophecy concerning our Blessed Lord, who is the Author and Prince of Israel; and shall finally give peace to all nations, by bringing them under His yoke.

When the Assyrian shall come] This is a new prophecy, and relates to the subversion of the Assyrian empire.

Then shall we raise against him seven shepherds] Supposed to mean the seven Maccabees—Mattathias, and his five sons, and Hyrcanus, the son of Simon.

Eight principal men.] Eight princes, the Asmonean race; beginning with Aristobulus, and ending with Herod, who was married to Mariamne.—Sharpe. Perhaps seven and eight are a definite for an indefinite number, as Eccl. xi, 2; Job v, 19. The prophet means the chiefs of the Medes and Babylonians, the prefects of different provinces who took Nineveh, whose number may have been what is here specified.—Newcome.

Calmet considers this as referring to the invasion of Judea by Cambyses, when the Lord raised up against him the seven Magi. He of them who passed for king of the Persians, was the Smerdis of Herodotus,—the Oropastes of Trogus,—and the Artaxerxes of Ezra. These Magi were put to death by seven Persian chiefs; who, having delivered the empire from them, set one of themselves, Darius, the son of Hystaspes, upon the throne.

Verse 6. The land of Nimrod] Assyria, and Nineveh its capital; and Babylon, which was also built by Nimrod, who was its first king, Gen. x, 11, 12, in the Margin.

In the entrances thereof] At its posts or water-gates; for it was by rendering themselves masters of the Euphrates, that the Medes and Persians took the city, according to the prediction of Jeremiah, chap. li, 32, 36.

Calmet thinks that this refers to the deliverance of the land from Cambyses by his death, and the insurrection of the eight princes mentioned above; who made themselves masters of the whole Babylonian empire, &c. Perhaps it is best to refer it to the invasion of Judea by Nebuchadnezzar; and the final destruction of the Babylonish empire by Cyrus, who took Babylon, slew Belshazzar, and possessed himself of the kingdom.

Verse 7. The remnant of Jacob] From the reign of Darius Hystaspes, (Ahasuerus, husband of Esther,) the Jews were greatly favoured. Those who continued in Persia and Chaldea were greatly honoured under the protection of Mordecai and Esther.—Calmet. But others consider this as applying to the Maccabees.

As a dew from the LORD] Even during their captivity many of the Jews were the means of spreading the knowledge of the one true God, see Dan. ii, 47; iii, 29; iv, 34: vi, 26. This may be the dew from the Lord mentioned here. When the Messiah appeared, the gospel was preached by them; and it shall again be propagated by their future glorious restoration, Rom. xi, 12, 25.

The grass, that tarrieth not for man] Which grass springs up without the attention and culture of man; לאיש le-ish, even the best and most skilful of men.

Nor waiteth for the sons of men.] לבני אדם libeney adam, for the sons of Adam, the first transgressor. The dew and the showers descend on the earth, and water it, in order to render it fruitful; and the grass springs up independently either of the worth or wickedness of man. All comes through God's bounty, who causes his sun to shine on the just and the unjust, and His rain to descend on the evil and the good.

Verse 8. As a lion] In this and the following verse the victories of the Maccabees are supposed to be foretold.

Verse 9. All thine enemies shall be cut off.] The Assyrians, who had destroyed Israel; and the Babylonians, who had ruined Judah.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

10 [a] And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD, that I will cut off thy horses out of the midst of thee, and I will destroy thy chariots:
11 And I will cut off the cities of thy land, and throw down all thy strong holds:
12 And I will cut off witchcrafts out of thine hand; and thou shalt have no more [b] soothsayers.
13 [c] Thy graven images also will I cut off, and thy [d] standing images out of the midst of thee; and thou shalt [e] no more worship the work of thine hands.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

14 And I will pluck up thy groves out of the midst of thee: so will I destroy thy [f] cities.
15 And I will [g] execute vengeance in anger and fury upon the heathen, such as they have not heard.

[a] Zech. 9. 10.——[b] Isa. 2. 6.——[c] Zech. 13. 2.——[d] Or, statues.

[e] Isa. 2. 8.——[f] Or, enemies.——[g] Psa. 149. 7. ver. 8. 2 Thess. 1. 8.

Verse 10. I will cut off thy horses] Thou shalt have no need of cavalry in thine armies. God will fight for you.

Verse 11. I will—throw down all thy strong holds] Thou shalt have no need of fortified cities, I will be thy defence.

Verse 12. I will cut off witchcrafts] Thou shalt seek help only in Jehovah thy God. They have had neither soothsayers, images, groves, nor high places, from the captivity to the present day.

Verse 13. Thy graven images also will I cut off.] Thou shalt no more be an idolatrous people.

Verse 15. I will execute vengeance—upon the heathen] And He did so; for the empires of the Assyrians, Chaldeans, and others, the sworn enemies of the Jews, have long since been utterly destroyed.

CHAPTER VI.

This Chapter reproves and threatens. The manner of raising the attention by calling on man to urge his plea in the face of all nature, and on the inanimate creation to hear the expostulation of Jehovah with His people, is awakening and sublime. The words of Jehovah follow, 3—5. And God's mercies having been set forth to His people, one of them is introduced, in a beautiful dramatic form, asking what his duty is towards so gracious a God, 6, 7. The answer follows in the words of the Prophet, 8; who goes on to upbraid the people of his charge with their injustice and idolatry, to which he ascribes want of success in their lawful undertakings, and those heavy calamities which were now impending, 9—15.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

HEAR ye now what the LORD saith; Arise, contend thou [a] before the mountains, and let the hills hear thy voice.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

2 [b] Hear ye, O mountains, [c] the LORD's controversy, and ye strong foundations of the earth: for [d] the LORD hath a controversy with his

[a] Or, with.——[b] Deut. 32. 1. Psa. 50. 1, 4. Isa. 1. 2.——[c] Hos. 12. 2.

[d] Isa. 1. 18. & 5. 3, 4. & 43. 26. Hos. 4. 1.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VI.

Verse 1. Arise, contend thou] This Chapter is a sort of dialogue between God and the people. GOD speaks the five first verses; and convicts the people of sin, righteousness, and judgment. The PEOPLE, convinced of their iniquity, deprecate God's judgments, in the sixth and seventh verses. In the eighth verse, God prescribes the way in which they are to be saved: and then the prophet, by the command of God, goes on to remonstrate from the ninth verse to the end of the Chapter.

Verse 2. Hear ye, O mountains] Micah, as God's advocate, summons this people into judgment, and makes an appeal to inanimate creation against them. He had spoken to the priests, to the princes, to the people. He had done every thing that was necessary to make them wise, and holy, and happy; they had uniformly disobeyed, and were ever ungrateful. It was not consistent with either the justice or mercy of God, to permit them to go on without reprehension and punishment. He now calls them into judgment; and such was the nature of their crimes, that, to heighten the effect, and shew what reason He had to punish such a people, he appeals to inanimate creation. Their ingratitude and rebellion are sufficient to make the mountains, the hills, people, and he will plead with Israel.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

3 O my people, [a] what have I done unto thee? and wherein have I wearied thee? testify against me.

4 [b] For I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt, and redeemed thee out of the house of servants; and I sent before thee Moses, Aaron, and Miriam.

5 O my people, remember now what [c] Balak king of Moab consulted, and what Balaam the son of Beor answered him from [d] Shittim unto Gilgal; that ye may know [e] the righteousness of the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

6 Wherewith shall I come before the LORD, and bow myself before the high God? shall I come before him with burnt offerings, with calves [f] of a year old?

7 [g] Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of rams, or with ten thousands of [h] rivers of oil? [i] shall I give my firstborn for my transgression, the fruit of my [k] body for the sin of my soul?

---

[a] Jer. 2. 5, 31.——[b] Exod. 12. 51. & 14. 30. & 20. 2. Deut. 4. 20. Amos 2. 10.——[c] Numb. 22. 5. & 23. 7. & 24. 10, 11. Deut. 23. 4, 5. Josh. 24. 9, 10. Rev. 2. 14.——[d] Numb. 25. 1. & 33. 49. Josh. 4. 19. & 5. 10.

[e] Judg. 5. 11.——[f] Heb. sons of a year?——[g] Psa. 50. 9. & 51. 16. Isa. 1. 11.——[h] Job 29. 6.——[i] 2 Kings 16. 3. & 21. 6. & 23. 10. Jer. 7. 31. & 19. 5. Ezek. 23. 37.——[k] Heb. belly.

---

and the strong foundations of the earth, to hear, tremble, and give judgment against them. This then is the Lord's controversy with His people, and thus He will plead with Israel.

Verse 3. O my people, what have I done unto thee?] They are called to shew why God should not pronounce sentence upon them. This condescension is truly astonishing! God appears to humble Himself to His creatures. You have acted basely, treacherously, and ungratefully, to me; this had already been proved by the prophets. What cause have I given you for such conduct? I have required a religious service from you:—but have I wearied you by a fatiguing round of difficult duties? If I have, now testify against me, and you shall be first heard, and your plea be received, if it be reasonable and good.—They are silent.—And God proceeds; and states what He has done for them.

Verse 4. I brought thee up out of the land of Egypt] Where you were slaves, and grievously oppressed; from all this I redeemed you. Was this a small benefit! I sent before thee MOSES, my chosen servant; and instructed him that he might be your leader and lawgiver. I sent with him AARON, that he might be your priest, and transact all spiritual matters between myself and you, in offerings, sacrifices, and atonements. I sent MIRIAM, to whom I gave the spirit of prophecy, that she might tell you things to come, and be the director of your females. To this sense the Chaldee, "I have sent three prophets before you; Moses, that he might teach you the tradition of judgments; Aaron, that he might make atonement for the people: and Miriam, that she might instruct the females."

Verse 5. Remember now what Balak king of Moab consulted] He sent for Balaam to curse your fathers: but, by my influence, he was obliged to bless them. See Numb. xxii, and xxiii, and the Notes there, where this subject is largely considered.

From Shittim unto Gilgal] From the encampment at Shittim, Numb. xxv, 1, on the way to that of Gilgal, Josh. iv, 19. Balaam gave different answers in the interval between these places. We may suppose that the encampments of Israel advanced slowly to that part of Jordan which was opposite to Gilgal. The Chaldee has, "Were there not wonderful things done in your behalf from the valley of Shittim to the house of Gilgal?" See Josh. iii, 1; iv, 20. Thus there will be a reference to the miraculous passage over Jordan. See Newcome.

That ye may know the righteousness] The just, equitable, and merciful dealing of the Most High. Recollect those things, that ye may have a proper impression of this. There are many interpretations given of this rather obscure clause: what I have proposed seems to me the most simple.

This is the sum of the address; and here the case of the Plaintiff terminates, the prisoners being called to shew why the sentence of the law should not be pronounced. I make no apology for using any forensic terms, as the passages before us refer to a case brought into a court to be judged, and the terms in the original are all such as are proper for a court of justice: and the thing itself is called the Lord's controversy, ריב יהוה rib yehovah, Jehovah's suit at law. And hence it is said, He will plead, litigate, with Israel.

Verse 6. Wherewith shall I come before the LORD] Now the people, as defendants, appear: but instead of vindicating themselves, or attempting to dispute what has been alleged against them, they seem at once to plead guilty; and now anxiously enquire how they shall appease the wrath of the Judge, how they shall make atonement for the sins already committed.

Bow myself before the high God] They wish to pray, and to make supplication to their Judge:—but how shall they come before Him? They have no right to come into His presence. Some offering must be brought:—but of what kind or of what value? Their sin is unprecedented, and usual methods of access will not avail. They are distracted in their minds; and make a variety of proposals to themselves, some rational, some absurd and impossible, and some even sinful.

Shall I come before him with burnt-offerings] This is reasonable, and according to the law: but this will be insufficient.

Verse 7. Will the LORD be pleased with thousands of

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

8 He hath [a] shewed thee, O man, what is good; and what doth the LORD require of thee, but [b] to do justly, and to love mercy, and to [c] walk humbly with thy God?

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

9 The [d] LORD'S voice crieth unto the city, and [e] the man of wisdom shall see thy name: hear ye the

[a] Deut. 10. 12. 1 Sam. 15. 22. Hos. 6. 6. & 12. 6.——[b] Gen. 18. 19. Isa. 1. 17.

[c] Heb. humble thyself to walk.——[d] Deut. 15. 5. & 26. 17. & 28. 1, 2. & 30. 10.

[e] Or, thy name shall see that which is.

rams] These might be procured, though with difficulty: but conscience says, neither will these do.

With ten thousands of rivers of oil] This is absurd and impossible: but, could even these be procured, could they all make atonement for such guilt, and ingratitude, and rebellion?

Shall I give my firstborn for my transgression] This was sinful and wicked: but such offerings had been made by the Phœnicians, and their successors the Carthaginians; and this very custom was copied by the corrupt Israelites. See some cases of such offerings, 2 Kings iii, 27; Lev. xx, 27.

The fruit of my body for the sin of my soul?] This clause is an explanation of the former. Shall I take the firstborn, the best and goodliest of my children, חטאת chattath, a SIN-OFFERING for my soul? And thus the original is used in a multitude of places.

When they had put all these questions to their reason and conscience, they found no satisfaction; their distraction is increased, and despair is about to take place; when Jehovah, the Plaintiff, in His mercy, interposes:—

Verse 8. He hath shewed thee, O man, what is good] All the modes of expiation which ye have proposed are, in the sight of God, unavailable: they cannot do away the evil, nor purify from the guilt, of sin. He Himself has shewn thee what is good; that which is profitable to thee, and pleasing to Himself. And what is that? Answer. Thou art—

I. To do justly: to give to all their due.

1 To God His due: thy heart, thy body, soul, and spirit; thy wisdom, understanding, judgment. "To love Him with all thy heart, soul, mind, and strength, and thy neighbour as thyself." This is God's due and right from every man.

2. Thou art to give thy neighbour his due: to do to him as thou wouldest that he should do to thee, never working ill to him.

3. Thou art to give to thyself thy due: not to deprive thy soul of what God has provided for it; to keep thy body in temperance, sobriety, and chastity; avoiding all excesses, both in action and passion.

II. Thou art to love mercy: not only to do what justice requires; but also what mercy, kindness, benevolence, and charity require.

III. But how art thou to do this? Thou art to walk humbly with thy God; הצנע hatsenea, to humble thyself to walk. This implies to acknowledge thy iniquity, and submit to be saved by His free mercy, as thou hast already found that no kind of offering or sacrifice can avail. Without this humiliation of soul, there never was, there never can be, any walking with God: for without His mercy no soul can be saved; and He must be THY God, before thou canst walk with Him. Many when they hear the nature of sin pointed out, and the way of salvation made plain through the blood of the Lamb, have shut their eyes both against sin, and the proper sacrifice for it; and parried all exhortation, threatening, &c, with this Text:—"God requires nothing of us, but to do justly, love mercy, and walk humbly with Him." Now I ask any man, Art thou willing to stand or fall by this Text?—And it would cost me neither much time nor much pains to shew, that on this ground no soul of man can be saved. Nor does God say that this doing justly, &c, shall merit eternal glory. No. He shews that in this way all men should walk; that this is the duty of EVERY rational being: but He well knows that no fallen soul can act thus, without especial assistance from Him; and that it is only the regenerate man, the man who has found redemption through the blood of the cross, and has got God to be HIS God, that can thus act and walk. Salvation is of the mere mercy of God alone; for by the works of the law shall no flesh be justified.

The manner of raising attention, says Bp. Newcome, in ver. 1, 2, by calling a man to urge his plea in the face of all nature, and on the inanimate creation, to hear the expostulation of Jehovah with His people, is truly awakening and magnificent. The words of Jehovah follow in ver. 3, 4, 5. And God's mercies having been set before the people, one of them is introduced in a beautiful dramatic form, asking what his duty is towards so gracious a God, ver. 6, 7. The answer follows in the words of the prophet, ver. 8. Some think we have a sort of dialogue between Balak and Balaam, represented to us in the prophetical way. The king of Moab speaks, ver. 6. Balaam replies by another question, in the two first hemistichs of ver. 7. The king of Moab rejoins in the remaining part of the verse; and Balaam replies, ver. 8. Bps. Butler and Lowth favour this. I cannot agree.

Verse 9. The LORD'S voice crieth unto the city] No man is found to hear: but the man of wisdom will hear תושיה tushiah; a word frequent in the writings of Solomon and Job, signifying wisdom, wealth, substance, reason, essence, happiness; any thing that is complete. Or that which is substantial, in opposition to vanity, emptiness, mere show, unsubstantiality. When God speaks, the man of common sense, who has any knowledge of God or his own soul, will see Thy name: but instead of יראה yireh, will see, the Septuagint, Syriac, Vulgate, and Arabic, have read with rod, and who hath appointed it.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

10 [a] Are there yet the treasures of wickedness in the house of the wicked, and the [b] scant measure that is abominable?
11 [d] Shall I count them pure with the [e] wicked balances, and with the bag of deceitful weights?
12 For the rich men thereof are full of violence, and the inhabitants thereof have spoken lies, and [f] their tongue is deceitful in their mouth.
13 Therefore also will I [g] make thee sick in smiting thee, in making thee desolate because of thy sins.
14 [h] Thou shalt eat, but not be satisfied; and thy casting down shall be in the midst of thee; and thou shalt take hold, but shalt not deliver; and that which thou deliverest will I give up to the sword.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

15 Thou shalt [i] sow, but thou shalt not reap; thou shalt tread the olives, but thou shalt not anoint thee with oil; and sweet wine, but shalt not drink wine.
16 For [k] the statutes of [l] Omri are [m] kept, and all the works of the house of [n] Ahab, and ye walk in their counsels; that I should make thee [o] a [p] desolation, and the inhabitants thereof a hissing: therefore ye shall bear the [q] reproach of my people.

[a] Or, Is there yet unto every man a house of the wicked, &c.——[b] Heb. measure of leanness, Amos 8. 5.——[c] Deut. 25. 13—16. Prov. 11. 1. & 20. 10, 23.——[d] Or, Shall I be pure with, &c.——[e] Hos. 12. 7.——[f] Jer. 9. 3, 5, 6, 8.——[g] Lev. 26. 16. Psa. 107. 17, 18.——[h] Lev. 26. 26. Hos. 4. 10.

[i] Deut. 38. 38, 39, 40. Amos 5. 11. Zeph. 1. 13. Hag. 1. 6.——[k] Or, he doth much keep thee, &c.——[l] 1 Kings 16. 25, 26.——[m] Hos. 5. 11.——[n] 1 Kings 16. 30, &c. & 21. 25, 26. 2 Kings 21. 3.——[o] 1 Kings 9. 8. Jer. 19. 8.——[p] Or, astonishment.——[q] Isa. 25. 8. Jer. 51. 51. Lam. 5. 1.

twelve of Kennicott's and De Rossi's MSS. יראי yirey, they that FEAR. The Vulgate reads:

Et salus erit timentibus nomen tuum.

"And thou shalt be salvation to them that fear Thy name."

The Septuagint—Και σωσει φοβουμενους το ονομα αυτου.

And he shall save those who fear his name.—This the Arabic copies.

The Targum has—"And the teachers shall fear the name." That is, יהוה yehovah.

The French Bible is very strange:—

Car ton nom voit comme il va de tout.

"For thy name sees how every thing goes."

The word תושיה tushiah, mentioned above, which occasions all the difficulty, has been read with an y ain, by the Vulgate and Septuagint, as coming from the root ישע yashâ, be saved; and it is very likely that this was the original reading. The two last letters in the word יה might have been easily mistaken in a MS. for the letter y, where I may suppose the word stood thus תושע, shall be saved; and as several MSS. read יראי yirey, they who fear, instead of יראה yereh, he shall see, the whole clause might have been just what it appears in the Vulgate and Septuagint. It is also necessary to remark, that the word in dispute has various forms in some MSS., which is a strong presumption against its authenticity. See Kennicott and De Rossi.

Verse 10. Are there yet the treasures of wickedness] Such as false balances, and deceitful weights. See on Hos. xii, 7. This shews that they were not DOING JUSTLY. They did not give to each his due.

Verse 12. For the rich men thereof are full of violence] This shews that they did not love mercy.

The inhabitants thereof have spoken lies] This shews they did not humble themselves to walk with God.

Verse 13. Will I make thee sick in smiting thee] Perhaps better, I also am weary with smiting thee, in making thee desolate for thy sins. They were corrected, but to no purpose; they had stroke upon stroke, but were not amended.

Verse 14. Thou shalt eat, but not be satisfied] All thy possessions are cursed, because of thy sins; and thou hast no real good in all thy enjoyments.

And thy casting down] For וישחך ve-yishchaka, "thy casting down," Newcome, by transposing the ח and ש, reads ויחשך ve-yechashca, "and it shall be dark;" and this is probably the true reading. The Arabic and Septuagint have read the same. There shall be calamity in the midst of thee.—It shall have its seat and throne among you.

Verse 15. Thou shalt sow, but thou shalt not reap] Thou shalt labour to amass property, but thou shalt not have God's blessing; and whatever thou collectest, thy enemies shall carry away. And at last, carry thyself into captivity.

Verse 16. The statutes of Omri are kept] Omri, king of Israel, the father of Ahab, was one of the worst kings the Israelites ever had; and Ahab followed in his wicked father's steps. The statutes of those kings were the very grossest idolatry. Jezebel, wife of the latter, and daughter of Ithobaal, king of Tyre, had no fellow on earth. From her Shakespear seems to have drawn the character of Lady Macbeth. A woman like her prototype, mixed up of tigress and fiend, without addition. Omri, Ahab, and Jezebel, were the models followed by the Israelites in the days of this prophet.

The inhabitants thereof a hissing] לשרקה le-shrekah, for a shriek; because those who should see them, should be both astonished and affrighted at them.

There are few Chapters in the prophets, or in the Bible, superior to this for genuine worth and importance. The structure is as elegant as it is impressive. And it is every way worthy of the Spirit of God.

CHAPTER VII.

The Prophet begins this Chapter with lamenting the decay of piety and the growth of ungodliness; using a beautiful allegory to imply (as explained in verse 2,) that the good man is as seldom to be met with as the early fig of best quality in the advanced season, or the cluster after the vintage, 1, 2. He then reproves and threatens in terms so expressive of great calamities as to be applied in the New Testament to times of the hottest persecution, 3—6. See Matt. x, 35, 36. Notwithstanding which a Jew is immediately introduced declaring, in the name of his captive people, the strongest faith in the mercy of God; the most submissive resignation to His will; and the firmest hope in His favour in future times, when they should triumph over their enemies, 7—10. The Prophet upon this resumes the discourse, and predicts their great prosperity and increase, 11, 12, although the whole land of Israel must first be desolated on account of the great wickedness of its inhabitants, 13. The Prophet intercedes in behalf of his people, 14. After which God is introduced promising, in very ample terms, their future restoration and prosperity, 15—17. And then, to conclude, a chorus of Jews is introduced, singing a beautiful hymn of thanksgiving, suggested by the gracious promises which precede, 18—20.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

WOE is me! for I am as [a] when they have gathered the summer fruits, as [b] the grapegleanings of the vintage: there is no cluster to eat: [c] my soul desired the firstripe fruit.

2 The [d] good [e] man is perished out of the earth: and there is none upright among men: they all lie in wait for blood; [f] they hunt every man his brother with a net.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

3 That they may do evil with both hands earnestly, [g] the prince asketh, [h] and the judge

[a] Heb. the gatherings of summer.——[b] Isa. 17. 6. & 24. 13.——[c] Isa. 28. 4. Hos. 9. 10.

[d] Psa. 12. 1. & 14. 1, 3. Isa. 57. 1.——[e] Or, godly, or, merciful.——[f] Hab. 1. 15.——[g] Hos. 4. 18.——[h] Isa. 23. ch. 3. 11.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VII.

Verse 1. Woe is me!] This is a continuation of the preceding Discourse. And here the Prophet points out the small number of the upright to be found in the land. He himself seemed to be the only person who was on God's side; and he considers himself as a solitary grape, which had escaped the general gathering. The word קץ kits, which is sometimes used for summer, and summer fruits in general, is here translated late figs; and may here, says Bp. Newcome, be opposed to the early ripe fig of superior quality. See on Hos. ix, 10, and Amos viii, 1, 2. He desired to see the first ripe fruit, distinguished and eminent piety: but he found nothing but a very imperfect or spurious kind of godliness.

Verse 2. The good man is perished out of the earth] A similar sentiment may be found, Psa. xii, 1; Isa. lvii, 1. As the early fig of excellent flavour cannot be found in the advanced season of summer, or a choice cluster of grapes after vintage; so neither can the good and upright man be discovered by searching in Israel. This comparison, says Bp. Newcome, is beautifully implied.

They hunt every man his brother with a net.] This appears to be an allusion to that ancient mode of duel between the retiarius and secutor. The former had a casting net, which he endeavoured to throw over the head of his antagonist, that he might then despatch him with his short sword. The other parried the cast; and when the retiarius missed, he was obliged to run about the field to get time to set his net in right order, for another throw. While he ran, the other followed, that he might despatch him before he should be able to recover the proper position of his net: hence the latter was called secutor, the pursuer; as the other was called retiarius, or the net man. I have explained this before on Job, and other places: but because it is rarely noticed by commentators, I explain the allusion here once more. Abp. Newcome, by not attending to this, has translated איש את אחיהו יצודו חרם ish et achihu yatsudu cherem, "They hunt every man his brother for his destruction." Though he puts net, in the Margin.

Verse 3. That they may do evil with both hands] That is, earnestly, greedily, to the uttermost of their power. The Vulgate translates, Malum manuum suarum dicunt bonum—"The evil of their hands they call good."

The prince asketh] A bribe, to forward claims in his court.

The judge asketh for a reward] That he may decide the cause in favour of him who gives most money, whether the cause be good or evil. This was notoriously the case in these countries before the giving of Magna Charta; and asketh for a reward; and the great man, he uttereth [a] his mischievous desire: so they wrap it up.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

4 The best of them [b] is a brier: the most upright is sharper than a thorn hedge: the day of thy watchmen and thy visitation cometh; now shall be their perplexity.

5 [c] Trust ye not in a friend, put ye not confidence in a guide: keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom.

6 For [d] the son dishonoureth the father, the daughter riseth up against her mother, the daughter in law against her mother in law, a man's enemies are the men of his own house.

7 Therefore [e] I will look unto the LORD: I will wait for the God of my salvation: my God will hear me.

8 [f] Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy: [g] when I fall, I shall arise; when I sit in darkness, [h] the LORD shall be a light unto me.

9 [i] I will bear the indignation of the LORD, because I have sinned against him, until he plead my cause, and execute judgment for me: [k] he will bring me forth to the light, and I shall behold his righteousness.

10 [l] Then she that is mine enemy shall see it, and [m] shame shall cover her which said unto me, [n] Where is the LORD thy God? [o] mine eyes shall

[a] Heb. the mischief of his soul.——[b] 2 Sam. 23. 6, 7. Ezek. 2. 6. See Isa. 55. 13.——[c] Jer. 9. 4.——[d] Ezek. 22. 7. Matt. 10. 21, 35, 36. Luke 12. 53. & 21. 16. 2 Tim. 3. 2, 3.——[e] Isa. 8. 17.——[f] Prov. 24. 17. Lam. 4. 21.

[g] Psa. 37. 24. Prov. 24. 16.——[h] Psa. 27. 1.——[i] Lam. 3. 39.——[k] Psa. 37. 6.——[l] Or, And thou wilt see her that is mine enemy, and cover her with shame.——[m] Psa. 35. 26.——[n] Psa. 42. 3, 10. & 79. 10. & 115. 2. Joel 2. 17.——[o] Ch. 4. 11.

hence that provision, Nulli vendemus justiciam aut rectum—"We will not sell justice to any man." And this was not the only country, in which justice and judgment were put to sale.

The great man, he uttereth his mischievous desire] Such consider themselves above law, and they make no secret of their unjust determinations. And so they wrap it up—They all conjoin in doing evil in their several offices, and oppressing the poor: so our translators have interpreted the original ויעבתוה va-yeâbtuah, which the Versions translate variously. Newcome has, And they do abominably.

Verse 4. The best of them is as a brier] They are useless in themselves, and cannot be touched without wounding him that comes in contact with them. He alludes to the thick thorn hedges, still frequent in Palestine.

The day of thy watchmen] The day of vengeance, which the prophets have foreseen and proclaimed, is at hand. Then shall be their perplexity—No more wrapping up, all will be unfolded. In that day every man will wish that he were different from what he is found to be: but he shall be judged for what he is, and for the deeds he has done.

Verse 5. Trust ye not in a friend] These times will be so evil, and the people so wicked, that all bonds will be dissolved; and even the most intimate will betray each other, when they can hope to serve themselves by it.

On this passage, in the year 1798, I find I have written as follows:—

"Trust ye not in a friend—Several of those whom I have delighted to call by that name have deceived me.

"Put ye not confidence in a guide—Had I followed some of these, I should have gone to perdition.

"Keep the doors of thy mouth from her that lieth in thy bosom—My wife alone never deceived me."

It is now twenty-seven years since, and I find no cause to alter what I then wrote.

Verse 6. For the son dishonoureth the father] See the use our Lord has made of these words, where He quotes them, Matt. x, 21, 35, 36, and the Notes there.

Verse 7. Therefore I will look unto the LORD] Because these things are so, I will trust in the Lord more firmly, wait for Him more patiently; and more confidently expect to be supported, defended, and saved.

Verse 8. Rejoice not against me, O mine enemy] The captive Israelites are introduced as speaking here, and in the preceding verse. The enemy, are the Assyrians and Chaldeans; the fall, is their idolatry and consequent captivity; their darkness, the calamities they suffered in that captivity; their rise and light, their restoration and consequent blessedness.

The rejoicing over the fall or miseries of any man betrays a malignant heart. I have known several instances, where people professing to hold a very pure and Christian creed, having become unfaithful and fallen into sin, their opponents, who held a very impure and unchristian creed, have exulted with "Ha! ha! so would we have it?" And have shewn their malignity more fully, by giving all possible publicity and circulation to such accounts. Perhaps, in the sight of God, this was worse than the poor wretch's fall in which they exulted as having taken place in one who held a creed different from their own. But these arose again from their fall, while those jesters at holiness continued in their gall of bitterness, and bonds of inward corruption.

Verse 9. I will bear the indignation of the LORD] The words of the penitent captives, acknowledging their sins, and praying for mercy.

Until he plead my cause] And woe to the slanderers when God undertakes to plead for the fallen who have returned to Him with deep compunction of heart, seeking redemption in the blood of the cross.

Verse 10. Then she that is mine enemy] This may refer particularly to the city of Babylon.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

behold her: now [a] shall she be trodden down [b] as the mire of the streets.

11 In the day that thy [c] walls are to be built, in that day shall the decree be far removed.

12 In that day also [d] he shall come even to thee from Assyria, [e] and from the fortified cities, and from the fortress even to the river, and from sea to sea, and from mountain to mountain.

13 [f] Notwithstanding the land shall be desolate because of them that dwell therein, [g] for the fruit of their doings.

14 [h] Feed thy people with thy rod, the flock of thine heritage which dwell solitarily in [i] the wood, in the midst of Carmel: let them feed in Bashan and Gilead, as in the days of old.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

15 [k] According to the days of thy coming out of the land of Egypt, will I shew unto him marvellous things.

16 The nations [l] shall see and be confounded at all their might: [m] they shall lay their hand upon their mouth, their ears shall be deaf.

17 They shall lick the [n] dust like a serpent, [o] they shall move out of their holes like [p] worms of the earth: [q] they shall be afraid of the LORD our God, and shall fear because of thee.

18 [r] Who is a God like unto thee, that [s] pardoneth iniquity, and passeth by the transgression of [t] the remnant of his heritage? [u] he re-

[a] Heb. she shall be for a treading down.——[b] 2 Sam. 22. 43. Zech. 10. 5.——[c] Amos 9. 11, &c.——[d] Isa. 11. 16. & 19. 23, &c. & 27. 13. Hos. 11. 11.——[e] Or, even to.——[f] Or, After that it hath been.——[g] Jer. 21. 14. ch. 3. 12.——[h] Or, Rule, Psa. 28. 9. ch. 5. 4.

[i] Isa. 37. 24.——[k] Psa. 68. 22. & 78. 12.——[l] Isa. 26. 11.——[m] Job 21. 5. & 29. 9.——[n] Psa. 72. 9. Isa. 49. 23.——[o] Psa. 18. 45.——[p] Or, creeping things.——[q] Jer. 33. 9.——[r] Exod. 15. 11.——[s] Exod. 34. 6, 7. Jer. 50. 20.——[t] Ch. 4. 7. & 5. 3, 7, 8.——[u] Psa. 103. 9. Isa. 57. 10. Jer. 3. 5.

Shall she be trodden down] Literally fulfilled in the sackage of that city by the Persians, and its consequent total ruin. It became as mire: its walls formed of brick kneaded with straw, and baked in the sun, becoming exposed to the wet, dissolved so that a vestige of the city remains not, except in a few bricks digged from under the rubbish, several pieces of which now lie before me, and shew the perishing materials of which the head of this proud empire was composed.

Verse 11. In the day that thy walls are to be built] This, refers to Jerusalem; the decree, to the purpose of God to deliver the people into captivity. This shall be far removed—God having purposed their return, I cannot think, with some commentators, that this verse contains threatenings against Jerusalem, and not promises. See the first Chapter of Haggai, where the subject is similar; and the restoration of Jerusalem is certainly what the prophet describes.

Verse 12. In that day also he shall come] Bp. Newcome translates:—

"And in that day they shall come unto thee
From Assyria and the fenced cities;
And from Egypt even unto the river."

Calmet translates:—

"They shall come to thee from Assyria even unto Egypt;
And from Egypt even to the river (Euphrates);
And from one sea to another, and from one mountain to another."

This, says he, gives an easy sense; whereas we cannot tell where to find those fortified cities spoken of by other translators. The Israelites were to return from their captivity, and re-occupy their ancient country from Assyria to Egypt; that is, from the river Euphrates to the river Nile; and from the Mediterranean sea to the Ocean; and from mount Libanus to the mountains of Arabia Petræa, or mount Seir. See Amos viii, 12. This prediction was literally fulfilled under the Asmoneans. The Jewish nation was greatly extended, and very powerful, under Herod, at the time that our Lord was born. See Calmet.

Verse 13. Notwithstanding the land shall be desolate] This should be translated in the preter tense, Though the land HAD been desolate—That is, the land of Israel had been desolate during the captivity, which captivity was the fruit of the evil doings of them that had dwelt therein.

Verse 14. Feed thy people with thy rod] בשבטך be-shibeteca, "with thy crook." The shepherd's crook is most certainly designed, as the word flock immediately following shews. No rod of correction or affliction is here intended; nor does the word mean such.

Solitarily] They have been long without a shepherd or spiritual governor.

In the midst of Carmel] Very fruitful in vines.

Bashan and Gilead] Proverbially fruitful in pasturages.

Verse 15. According to the days] This is the answer to the prophet's prayer: and God says He will protect, save, defend, and work miracles for them, in their restoration, such as He wrought for their fathers in their return from Egypt to the Promised Land.

Verse 16. The nations shall see and be confounded] Whether the words in these verses (15, 16, and 17,) be applied to the return from the Babylonish captivity, or to the prosperity of the Jews under the Maccabees, they may be understood as ultimately applicable to the final restoration of this people, and their lasting prosperity under the gospel.

Verse 18. Who is a God like unto thee, &c.] Here is a challenge to all idol worshippers, and to all those who take false views of the true God, to shew His like. See His characters:—they are immediately subjoined.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. U. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

taineth not his anger for ever, because he delighteth in mercy.

19 He will turn again, he will have compassion upon us; he will subdue our iniquities; and thou wilt cast all their sins into the depths of the sea.

20 [a] Thou wilt perform the truth to Jacob, and the mercy to Abraham, [b] which thou hast sworn unto our fathers from the days of old.

A. M. cir. 3294. B. C. cir. 710. A. U. C. cir. 44. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 6.

[a] Luke 1. 72, 73.

[b] Psa. 105. 9, 10.

1. He pardoneth iniquity. This is the prerogative of God alone; of that Being who alone has power to save, or to destroy.

2. He passeth by transgression. He can heal backsliding, and restore them that are fallen.

3. He retaineth not his anger for ever. Though justly displeased because of sin, He pours out His judgments upon the wicked; yet, when they return to Him, He shows that he retaineth not his anger for ever, but is indescribably ready to save them.

4. He delighteth in mercy. Judgment is His strange work: He is ever readier to save than He is to destroy. Nothing can please Him better than in having the opportunity, from the return and repentance of the sinner, to shew him that mercy without which he must perish everlastingly.

5. Because He is such a God,—1. He will turn again. His face has been long turned from us, because of our sins. 2. He will have compassion upon us, pity our state, and feel for our sorrows. 3. He will subdue our iniquities. Though they have been mighty, He will bring them down, and bruise them under our feet. 4. He will cast all their sins into the depths of the sea. Will fully pardon them, and never more remember them against us. Instead of חטאתם chattotam THEIR sins, five MSS. of Kennicott and De Rossi, with the Septuagint, Syriac, Vulgate, and Arabic, read חטאתינו chatoteynu, OUR sins. He will plunge them into eternal oblivion, never more to come into sight or remembrance, than a stone dropped into the depths of the sea.

Verse 20. Thou wilt perform the truth to Jacob] The promises which He has made to Jacob and his posterity. Not one of them can ever fall to the ground. And the mercy to Abraham, which thou hast sworn. That, in his Seed, all the families of the earth should be blessed. That the Messiah shall come from ABRAHAM, through his son ISAAC, by JACOB and DAVID; be a light to lighten the Gentiles, and the glory of His people Israel. And this promise, and this oath, God has most signally fulfilled by the incarnation of Christ, who was sent to bless us by turning every one of us away from his iniquities; and for this purpose He was delivered for our offences, is risen again for our justification; and repentance and remission of sins are preached in His name to all nations; and the proclamation was first made at Jerusalem. That the prophet refers to this is evident, from the use made of these words by Zacharias, the father of John the Baptist, when, under the full afflatus of the Spirit of God, he quoted this prophecy of Micah, as fulfilled in the incarnation of Christ, Luke i, 72, 73. The Chaldee paraphrases this last verse with spirit and propriety. "Thou wilt give the truth to Jacob his son, as Thou hast promised by oath to him in Beth-el. And the mercy to Abraham, and to his seed after him, as Thou didst swear to him amidst the divisions. Thou wilt be mindful of us on account of the binding of Isaac, who was bound upon the altar before Thee. And Thou wilt do us that good which, from the most ancient days, Thou hast promised to our fathers by an oath." Between the divisions, refers to the covenant made between God and Abraham, Gen. xv, 9, 10, 11, 17, 18. Well might the prophet exult in his challenge to earth and hell. WHO IS A GOD LIKE UNTO THEE!—Hell is speechless, earth is dumb. Infidels dare not open their mouths!!! Hallelujah! מי אל כמוך mi el camoca?—JESUS is the mighty God and Saviour, pardoning iniquity, transgression, and sin, and saving to the uttermost all that come unto God through Him. Blessed be God! Reader, lay this to heart.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET MICAH.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE BOOK OF

THE PROPHET NAHUM.

NAHUM, the seventh of the Twelve Lesser Prophets, was a native of Elkoshai, a little village of Galilee, whose ruins were still in being in the time of St. Jerom. However, there are some who think that Elkoshai is rather the name of his father; and that the place of his birth was Bethabor, or Bethabara, beyond Jordan. They used to shew the tomb of the Prophet at a village called Beth-gabre, now called Gibbin, near Emmaus. The Chaldee calls him Nahum of Beth-koshi, or of Beth-kitsi: but the situation of this place is as much unknown as that of Elkoshai.

The particular circumstances of the life of Nahum are altogether unknown. His prophecy consists of three Chapters, which make up but one Discourse, wherein he foretels the destruction of Nineveh. He describes it in so lively and pathetic a manner, that he seems to have been upon the spot to declare to the Ninevites the destruction of their city.

Opinions are divided as to the time in which he prophesied. Josephus will have it that he foretold the fall of Nineveh, one hundred and fifteen years before it happened, which will bring the time of Nahum to that of king Ahaz. The Jews say that he prophesied under Manasseh. We are inclined to be of St. Jerom's opinion, that he foretold the destruction of Nineveh in the time of Hezekiah; and after the war of Sennacherib in Egypt, mentioned by Berosus. Nahum speaks plainly of the taking of No-Ammon, a city of Egypt; of the haughtiness of Rabshakeh; of the defeat of Sennacherib; and he speaks of them as of things that were past. He supposes that Judah was still in their own country, and that they there celebrated their festivals. He speaks of the captivity, and of the dispersion of the ten tribes. All these evidences convince us, that Nahum cannot be placed before the fifteenth year of Hezekiah, since the expedition of Sennacherib against this prince was in the fourteenth year of his reign.

This prophet gives us a fine description of the destruction of Nineveh. He says that this city should be ruined by a deluge of waters, which should overflow it and demolish its walls.

Diodorus Siculus and Athenæus relate, that during the time this city was besieged by Belesis and by Arbaces, under Sardanapalus, the river Tigris swelled so as to overthrow twenty furlongs of the walls of Nineveh. But, as the siege mentioned by Nahum was long after the taking of Nineveh under Sardanapalus, it must needs be that the same thing happened to Nineveh at the second and last siege under Nebuchadnezzar and Astyages. Probably the besiegers at this second siege determined the course of the waters, and brought on the same fate to the city by the same means as at the first siege.

The time of the Prophet's death is not known. The Greek meneologies and the Latin martyrologies place his festival on the first of December. Petrus Natalis places it on the twenty-fourth of the same month, which he says was the day of his death; without acquainting us whence he had learned this circumstance.

The conduct and imagery of this prophetical poem are truly admirable.

The exordium sets forth with grandeur the justice and power of God, tempered by lenity and goodness, chap. i, 1—8.

A sudden address to the Assyrians follows: and a prediction of their perplexity and overthrow, as devisers of evil against the true God, ver. 9—11. Jehovah Himself then proclaims freedom to His people from the Assyrian yoke, and the destruction of the Assyrian idols, ver. 12—14. Upon which the prophet, in a most lively manner turns the attention of Judah to the approach of the messenger who brings such glad tidings; and bids her celebrate her festivals and offer her thank-offerings, without fear of so powerful an adversary, ver. 15.

Chap. ii. In the next place, Nineveh is called on to prepare for the approach of her enemies, as instruments in the hand of Jehovah: and the military array and muster of the Medes and Babylonians; their rapid approach to the city; the process of the siege; the capture of the place; the captivity, lamentation, and flight, of the inhabitants; the sacking of the wealthy city; and the consequent desolation and terror; are described in the true spirit of eastern poetry, and with many pathetic, vivid, and sublime images, ver. 1—10.

A grand and animated allegory succeeds this description, ver. 11, 12; which is explained and applied to the city of Nineveh in ver. 13.

Chap. iii. The prophet denounces a woe against Nineveh for her perfidy and violence; and strongly places before our eyes the number of her chariots and cavalry, her burnished arms, and the great and unrelenting slaughter which she spread around her, ver. 1—3.

He assigns her idolatries as one cause of her ignominious and unpitied fall, ver. 4—7.

He foretels that No-Ammon, her rival in populousness, confederacies, and situation, should share a like fate with herself, ver. 8, 9, 10, 11: and beautifully illustrates the ease with which her strong holds should be taken, ver. 12; and her pusillanimity during the siege, ver. 13.

He pronounces that all her preparations, ver. 14, 15, her numbers, her opulence, her multitude of chief men, would be of no avail, ver. 15—17.

He foretels that her tributaries would desert her, ver. 18.

He concludes with a proper epiphonema; the topics of which are, the greatness and incurableness of her wound; and the just triumph of others over her on account of her extensive oppressions, ver. 19.

To sum up all, with the decisive judgment of an eminent critic; "None of the minor prophets equals the sublimity, genius, and spirit, of Nahum. Besides, his prophecy is a perfect poem. The exordium is exceedingly majestic. The apparatus for the destruction of Nineveh, and the description of that catastrophe, are painted in the most glowing colours, and are admirably clear and powerful." Lowth, Prælect. Heb. xxi, p. 282.

It must be farther observed, that this prophecy was highly interesting to the Jews: as the Assyrians had often ravaged their country; and, I suppose, had recently destroyed the kingdom of Israel. See Calmet.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET NAHUM.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book, upon the supposition that it was written about seven hundred and thirteen years before the commencement of the Christian æra.

Year from the Creation according to Archbishop Ussher, 3291.—Year of the Julian Period, 4001.—Year since the Flood, 1635.—Year from the vocation of Abram, 1208.—Year since the first celebration of the Olympic games in Elis by the Idæi Dactyli, 741.—Year from the destruction of Troy, according to the general computation of chronologers, 471.—Year since the commencement of the kingdom of Israel, by the Divine appointment of Saul to the regal dignity, 383.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's Temple, 299.—Year since the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 263.—Year since the restoration of the Olympic games at Elis by Lycurgus, Iphitus, and Cleosthenes, 172.—Year from the foundation of the kingdom of Macedon by Caranus, 102.—Year from the commencement of the reign of Ardysus over Lydia, 84.—Year since the conquest of Corœbus at Olympia, usually called the First Olympiad, 64.—Fourth year of the sixteenth Olympiad.—Year from the building of Rome according to the Varronian computation, 41.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Cato and the Fasti Consulares, 40.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Polybius the historian, 39.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Fabius Pictor, 35.—Year of the æra of Nabonassar, 35.—Year since the destruction of the kingdom of Israel by Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, 9.—Year before the birth of Christ, 709.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 713.—Cycle of the Sun, 25.—Cycle of the Moon, 11.—Eleventh year of Zeuxidamus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—Twelfth year of Eurycrates, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Sixth year of Gyges, king of Lydia.—Tenth year of Hippomenes, decennial archon of the Athenians.—Second year of Cordiccas, governor of the Medes, according to some chronologers.—Seventeenth year of Perdiccas, king of Macedon.—Third year of Numa Pompilius, the second king of Rome.—Fourteenth year of Hezekiah, king of Judah.

CHAPTER I.

This Chapter opens the prophecy against the Assyrians and their metropolis with a very magnificent description of the infinite justice, tender compassion, and uncontrollable power of God, 1—8. To this succeeds an address to the Assyrians; with a lively picture of their sudden overthrow, because of their evil device against Jerusalem, 9—11. Then appears Jehovah Himself proclaiming deliverance to His people from the Assyrian yoke, and the destruction of the Assyrian idols, 12—14; upon which the Prophet, with great emphasis, directs the attention of Judah to the approach of the messenger who brings such glad tidings, and exultingly bids his people to celebrate their solemn feasts, and perform their vows, as a merciful Providence would not suffer these enemies of the Jewish state to prevail against them, 15.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

THE burden [a] of Nineveh. The book of the vision of Nahum the Elkoshite.

2 [b] God is [c] jealous, and [d] the LORD revengeth; the LORD revengeth, and [e] is furious; the LORD will take vengeance on his adversaries, and he reserveth wrath for his enemies.

3 The LORD is [f] slow to anger, and [g] great in power, and will not at all acquit the wicked: [h] the LORD hath his way in the whirlwind and in the storm, and the clouds are the dust of his feet.

4 [i] He rebuketh the sea, and maketh it dry, and drieth up all the rivers: [k] Bashan languisheth, and Carmel, and the flower of Lebanon languisheth.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

5 [l] The mountains quake at him, and [m] the hills melt, and [n] the earth is burned at his presence, yea, the world, and all that dwell therein.

6 Who can stand before his indignation? and [o] who can [p] abide in the fierceness of his anger? [q] his fury is poured out like fire, and the rocks are thrown down by him.

7 [r] The LORD is good, a [s] strong hold in the day of trouble; and [t] he knoweth them that trust in him.

[a] Zeph. 2. 13. —— [b] Or, The LORD is a jealous God, and a Revenger, &c. —— [c] Exod. 20. 5. & 34. 14. Deut. 4. 24. Josh. 24. 19. —— [d] Deut. 32. 35. Psa. 94. 1. Isa. 59. 18. —— [e] Heb. that hath fury. —— [f] Exod. 34. 6, 7. Neh. 9. 17. Psa. 103. 8. Jonah 4. 2. —— [g] Job 9. 4. —— [h] Psa. 18. 7, &c, & 97. 2. Hab. 3. 5, 11, 12.

[i] Psa. 106. 9. Isa. 50. 2. Matt. 8. 26. —— [k] Isa. 33. 9. —— [l] Psa. 68. 8. —— [m] Judg. 5. 5. Psa. 97. 5. Mic. 1. 4. —— [n] 2 Pet. 3. 10. —— [o] Mal. 3. 2. —— [p] Heb. stand up. —— [q] Rev. 16. 1. —— [r] 1 Chron. 16. 34. Psa. 100. 5. Jer. 33. 11. Lam. 3. 25. —— [s] Or, strength. —— [t] Psa. 1. 6. 2 Tim. 2. 19.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. The burden of Nineveh. משא massa not only signifies a burthen, but also a thing lifted up, pronounced, or proclaimed; also, a message. It is used by the prophets to signify the revelation which they have received from God, to deliver to any particular people: the oracle,—the prophecy. Here it signifies the declaration from God relative to the overthrow of Nineveh, and the commission of the prophet to deliver it.

As the Assyrians under Pul, Tiglath-pileser, and Shalmaneser, three of their kings, had been employed by a just God for the chastisement of His disobedient people; the end being now accomplished by them, God is about to burn the rod wherewith he corrected Israel; and Nineveh, the capital of the Assyrian empire, is to be destroyed. This prediction appears to have been accomplished a short time after this by Nebuchadnezzar and Cyaxares, the Ahasuerus of Scripture.

Nahum (נחום Nachum) signifies comforter. The name was very suitable, as he was sent to comfort the people, by shewing them that God was about to destroy their adversaries.

Verse 2. God is jealous] For His own glory.

And—revengeth] His justice,—by the destruction of His enemies.

And is furious] So powerful in the manifestations of His judgments, that nothing can stand before Him.

He reserveth wrath] Though they seem to prosper for a time, and God appears to have passed by their crimes without notice, yet He reserveth, treasureth up, wrath for them; which shall burst forth in due time.

Verse 3. The LORD is slow to anger] He exercises much longsuffering towards His enemies, that this may lead them to repentance. And it is because of this longsuffering that vengeance is not speedily executed on every evil work.

Great in power] Able at all times to save, or to destroy.

The LORD hath his way in the whirlwind and in the storm] These are the effects of His power; and when they appear unusual, they may be considered as the immediate effects of His power: and although He be in them to punish and destroy, He is in them to direct their course, to determine their operations, and to defend His followers from being injured by their violence. The pestilential wind which slew one hundred and eighty-five thousand of the Assyrians did not injure one Israelite. See 2 Kings xix, 35.

The clouds are the dust of his feet.] This is spoken in allusion to a chariot and horses going on with extreme rapidity:—they are all enveloped in a cloud of dust. So Jehovah is represented as coming through the circuit of the heavens as rapidly as lightning; the clouds surrounding Him as the dust does the chariot and horses.

Verse 4. He rebuketh the sea] The Red sea, and the rivers; probably, an allusion to the passage of the Red sea and Jordan.

The description of the coming of Jehovah, from the third to the sixth verse, is dreadfully majestic. He is represented as controlling universal nature. The sea and the rivers are dried up,—the mountains tremble,—the hills melt,—and the earth is burnt at His presence. Bashan, Carmel, and Lebanon, are withered and languish: streams of fire are poured out, and the rocks are cast down to make Him a passage. If, then, the seas, the rivers, the mountains, the hills, the rocks, and the earth itself, fail before Him, or flee from His presence,—how shall Nineveh and the Assyrian empire stand before Him!

Verse 7. The LORD is good] In the midst of judgments He remembers mercy; and among the most dreadful denunciations of wrath He mingles promises of mercy. None that trust in Him need be alarmed at these dreadful threatenings; they shall be discriminated in the day of wrath, for the Lord knoweth them that trust in him.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

8 [a] But with an overrunning flood he will make an utter end of the place thereof, and darkness shall pursue his enemies.

9 [b] What do ye imagine against the LORD? [c] he will make an utter end: affliction shall not rise up the second time.

10 For while they be folden together [d] as thorns, [e] and while they are drunken as drunkards, [f] they shall be devoured as stubble fully dry.

11 There is one come out of thee, [g] that imagineth evil against the LORD, [h] a wicked counsellor.

12 Thus saith the LORD; [i] Though they be quiet, and likewise many, yet thus [k] shall they be [l] cut down, when he shall [m] pass through. Though I have afflicted thee, I will afflict thee no more.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

13 For now will I [n] break his yoke from off thee, and will burst thy bonds in sunder.

14 And the LORD hath given a commandment concerning thee, that no more of thy name be sown: out of the house of thy gods will I cut off the graven image and the molten image: [o] I will make thy grave; for thou art vile.

15 Behold [p] upon the mountains the feet of him that bringeth good tidings, that publisheth peace! O Judah, [q] keep thy solemn feasts, perform thy vows: for [r] the [s] wicked shall no more pass through thee; [t] he is utterly cut off.

---

[a] Dan. 9. 26. & 11. 10, 22, 40.——[b] Psa. 2. 1.——[c] 1 Sam. 3. 12.——[d] 2 Sam. 23. 6, 7.——[e] Ch. 3. 11.——[f] Mal. 4. 1.——[g] 2 Kings 19. 22, 23.——[h] Heb a counsellor of Belial.——[i] Or, If they would have been at peace, so should they have been many, and so should they have been shorn, and he should have passed away.——[k] 2 Kings 19. 35, 37.——[l] Heb. shorn.——[m] Isa. 8. 8. Dan. 11. 10.——[n] Jer. 2. 20. & 30. 8.——[o] 2 Kings 19. 37.——[p] Isa. 52. 7. Rom. 10. 15.——[q] Heb. feast.——[r] Heb. Belial.——[s] Ver. 11, 12.——[t] Ver. 14.

Verse 8. But with an overrunning flood] Bishop Newcome thinks this may refer to the manner in which Nineveh was taken. The Euphrates overflowed its banks, deluged a part of the city, and overturned twenty stadia of the wall, in consequence of which the desponding king burnt himself, his palace, and his treasures.—Diodor. Sic. Edit. Wessel. p. 140, lib. ii, sect. 27.

Darkness shall pursue] Calamity. All kinds of calamity shall pursue them till they are destroyed.

Verse 9. Affliction shall not rise up the second time.] There shall be no need to repeat the judgment;—with one blow will God make a full end of the business.

Verse 10. While they be folden together] However united their counsels may be, they shall be as drunken men,—perplexed and unsteady in all their resolutions; and before God's judgments they shall be as dry thorns before a devouring fire.

Verse 11. Imagineth evil against the LORD] Such were Pul, 2 Kings xv, 19; Tiglath-pileser, 2 Kings xv, 29; Shalmaneser, 2 Kings xvii, 6; and Sennacherib, 2 Kings xviii, 17, and xix, 23.

A wicked counsellor.] Sennacherib and Rabshakeh.

Verse 12. Though they be—many] Sennacherib invaded Judea with an army of nearly two hundred thousand men.

Thus shall they be cut down] The angel of the Lord (a suffocating wind) slew of them in one night one hundred and eighty-five thousand, 2 Kings xix, 35.

Verse 13. Now will I break his yoke from off thee] This refers to the tribute which the Jews were obliged to pay to the Assyrians, 2 Kings xvii, 14.

Verse 14. No more of thy name be sown] No more of you shall be carried away into captivity.

I will make thy grave; for thou art vile.] I think this is an address to the Assyrians, and especially to Sennacherib. The Text is no obscure intimation of the fact. The house of his gods is to be his grave: and we know that while he was worshipping in the house of his god Nisroch, his two sons Adrammelech and Sharezer smote him there that he died, 2 Kings xix, 37.

Verse 15. Behold upon the mountains] Borrowed probably from Isa. lii, 7, but applied here to the messengers who brought the good tidings of the destruction of Nineveh. Judah might then keep her solemn feasts,—for the wicked Assyrian should pass through the land no more; being entirely cut off, and the imperial city razed to its foundations.

CHAPTER II.

Nineveh is now called upon to prepare for the approach of her enemies, the instruments of Jehovah's vengeance, 1: and the military array and muster, the very arms and dress, of the Medes and Babylonians in the reigns of Cyaxares and Nabopolassar; their rapid approach to the city; the process of the siege, and the inundation of the river; the capture of the place; the captivity, lamentation, and flight, of the inhabitants; the sacking of this immense, wealthy, and exceedingly populous city; and the consequent desolation and [a] terror; are all described in the pathetic, vivid, and sublime imagery of Hebrew poetry, 2—10. This description is succeeded by a very beautiful and expressive allegory, 11, 12; which is immediately explained, and applied to the city of Nineveh, 13. It is thought by some commentators that the metropolitan city of the Assyrian empire is also intended by the tender and beautiful simile in the seventh verse, of a great princess led captive, with her maids of honour attending her, bewailing her and their own condition, by beating their breasts, and by other expressions of sorrow.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

HE [a] that [b] dasheth in pieces is come up before thy face: [c] keep the munition, watch the way, make thy loins strong, fortify thy power mightily.

2 [d] For the LORD hath turned away [e] the excellency of Jacob, as the excellency of Israel: for [f] the emptiers have emptied them out, and marred their vine branches.

3 The shield of his mighty men is made [g] red, the valiant men are [h] in scarlet: the chariots shall be with [i] flaming torches in the day of his preparation, and the fir trees shall be terribly shaken.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

4 The chariots shall rage in the streets, they shall jostle one against another in the broad ways: [k] they shall seem like torches, they shall run like the lightnings.

5 He shall recount his [l] worthies: they shall stumble in their walk; they shall make haste to the wall thereof, and the [m] defence shall be prepared.

6 The gates of the rivers shall be opened, and the palace shall be [n] dissolved.

[a] Or, The disperser, or, hammer.——[b] Jer. 50. 23.——[c] Jer. 51. 11, 12. ch. 3. 14.——[d] Isa. 10. 12. Jer. 25. 29.——[e] Or, the pride of Jacob as the pride of Israel.

[f] Psa. 80. 12. Hos. 10. 1.——[g] Isa. 63. 2, 3.——[h] Or, dyed scarlet.——[i] Or, fiery torches.——[k] Heb. their show.——[l] Or, gallants.——[m] Heb. covering, or, coverer.——[n] Or, molten.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. He that dasheth in pieces] Or scattereth.—The Chaldeans and Medes.

Keep the munition] Guard the fenced places. From this to the end of the fifth verse, the preparations made at Nineveh to repel their enemies are described. The description is exceedingly picturesque.

Watch the way] By which the enemy is most likely to approach.

Make thy loins strong] Take courage.

Fortify thy power] Muster thy troops; call in all thy allies.

Verse 2. For the LORD hath turned away] Bishop Newcome reads—for the Lord restoreth, by a slight alteration in the Text. I do not see that we gain much by this. The Lord has been opposed to Jacob, and the enemy has prevailed against him.

Emptied them out] Brought them from their own land into captivity. This was the emptying!

Verse 3. The shield of his mighty men is made red] These things may refer to the warlike preparations made by the Ninevites: they had red shields, and scarlet or purple clothing; their chariots were finely decorated, and proceeded with amazing rapidity.

The fir trees shall be terribly shaken.] This may refer to the darts, arrows, and javelins, flung with destructive power.

Verse 4. The chariots shall rage] Those of the besiegers and the besieged, meeting in the streets, producing universal confusion and carnage.

Verse 5. He shall recount his worthies] Muster up his most renowned warriors and heroes.

Shall make haste to the wall] Where they see the enemies making their most powerful attacks, in order to get possession of the city.

Verse 6. The gates of the rivers shall be opened] I have already referred to this, see the Note on chap. i, ver. 8: but it will be necessary to be more particular. The account given by Diodorus Siculus, lib. ii, is very surprising. He begins thus,—Ην δ' αυτῳ λογιον παραδεδομενον, εκ προγονων, κ. τ. λ.—"There was a prophecy received from their forefathers, that Nineveh should not be taken till the river first became an enemy to the city. It happened in the third year of the siege, that the Euphrates (qy. Tigris) being swollen with continued rains, overflowed part of the city, and threw down twenty stadia of the wall. The king then imagining that the oracle was accomplished, and that the river was now manifestly become an enemy to the city, casting aside all hope of safety, and lest he should fall into the hands of the enemy, built a large funeral pyre in the palace, (εν τοις βασιλειοις) and having collected all his gold and silver and royal vestments, together with his concubines and eunuchs, placed himself with them in a little apartment built in the pyre; burnt them, himself, and the palace together. When the death of the king (Sardanapalus) was announced by certain deserters, the enemy entered in by the breach which the waters had made, and took the city."

Thus the prophecy of Nahum was literally fulfilled: the

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

7 And [a] Huzzab shall be [b] led away captive, she shall be brought up, and her maids shall lead her as with the voice of [c] doves, tabering upon their breasts.

8 But Nineveh is [d] of old like a pool of water: yet they shall flee away. Stand, stand, shall they cry; but none shall [e] look back.

9 Take ye the spoil of silver, take the spoil of gold: [f] for there is none end of the store and glory out of all the [g] pleasant furniture.

10 She is empty, and void, and waste: and the [h] heart melteth, and [i] the knees smite together, [k] and much pain is in all loins, and [l] the faces of them all gather blackness.

11 Where is the dwelling of [m] the lions, and the feeding place of the young lions, where the lion, even the old lion, walked, and the lion's whelp, and none made them afraid?

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

12 The lion did tear in pieces enough for his whelps, and strangled for his lionesses, and filled his holes with prey, and his dens with ravin.

13 [n] Behold, I am against thee, saith the LORD of hosts, and I will burn her chariots in the smoke, and the sword shall devour thy young lions: and I will cut off thy prey from the earth, and the voice of [o] thy messengers shall no more be heard.

---

[a] Or, that which was established, or, there was a stand made.——[b] Or, discovered.——[c] Isa. 38. 14. & 59. 11.——[d] Or, from the days that she hath been.——[e] Or, cause them to turn.——[f] Or, and their infinite store, &c.

[g] Heb. vessels of desire.——[h] Isa 13. 7, 8.——[i] Dan. 5. 6.——[k] Jer. 30. 9.——[l] Joel 2. 6.——[m] Job 4. 10, 11. Ezek. 19. 2—7.——[n] Ezek. 29. 3. & 38. 3. & 39. 1. ch. 3. 5.——[o] 2 Kings 18. 17, 19. & 19. 9, 23.

---

gates of the river were opened, and the palace dissolved, i. e. burnt.

Verse 7. And Huzzab shall be led away captive] Perhaps Huzzab means the queen of Nineveh, who had escaped the burning mentioned above by Diodorus. As there is no account of the queen being burnt, but only of the king, the concubines, and the eunuchs, we may, therefore naturally conclude that the queen escaped; and is represented here as brought up and delivered to the conqueror; her maids at the same time bewailing her lot. Some think Huzzab signifies Nineveh itself.

Verse 8. But Nineveh is of old like a pool of water] מימי mimey, from days. Bp. Newcome translates the line thus: And the waters of Nineveh are a pool of waters. There may be reference here to the fact given in the preceding Note, the overflowing of the river by which the city was primarily destroyed.

Stand, stand] Consternation shall be at its utmost height, the people shall flee in all directions; and though quarter is offered, and they are assured of safety, if they remain, yet not one looketh back.

Verse 9. Take ye the spoil] Though the king burnt his treasures, vestments, &c, he could not totally destroy the silver and the gold. Nor did he burn the riches of the city: these fell a prey to the conquerors; and there was no end of the store of glorious garments, and the most costly vessels and furniture.

Verse 10. She is empty, and void, and waste] The original is strongly emphatic: the words are of the same sound and increase in their length as they point out great, greater, and greatest desolation.

בוקה ומבוקה ומבלקה
Bukah, u-mebukah, u-mebullakah.
She is void, empty, and desolate.

Verse 11. Where is the dwelling of the lions] Nineveh, the habitation of bold, strong, and ferocious men.

The feeding place of the young lions] Whither her victorious and rapacious generals frequently returned to consume the produce of their success. Here they walked at large, and none made them afraid. Wheresoever they turned their arms, they were victors; and all nations were afraid of them.

Verse 12. The lion did tear] This verse gives us a striking picture of the manner in which the Assyrian conquests and depredations were carried on. How many people were spoiled to enrich his whelps;—his sons, princes, and nobles! How many women were stripped and slain, whose spoils went to decorate his lionesses;—his queen, concubines, and mistresses! And they had even more than they could consume: their holes and dens,—treasure houses, palaces, and wardrobes, were filled with ravin, the riches which they got by the plunder of towns, families, and individuals. This is a very fine allegory; and admirably well supported.

Verse 13. Behold, I am against thee] Assyria, and Nineveh, its capital. I will deal with you, as you have dealt with others.

The voice of thy messengers] Announcing thy splendid victories, and the vast spoils taken,—shall no more be heard. Thou and thy riches, and ill-got spoils, shall perish together.

CHAPTER III.

The Prophet denounces a woe against Nineveh for her perfidy and violence. He musters up before our eyes the number of her chariots and cavalry; points to her burnished arms, and to the great and unrelenting slaughter which she spreads around her, 1—3. Because Nineveh is a city wholly given up to the grossest superstition, and is an instructress of other nations in her abominable rites; therefore she shall come to a most ignominious and unpitied end, 3—7. Her final ruin shall be similar to that of No, a famous city of Egypt, 8—11. The Prophet then beautifully describes the great ease with which the strong holds of Nineveh should be taken, 12, and her judicial pusillanimity during the siege, 13; declares that all her preparations, her numbers, opulence, and chieftains, would be of no avail in the day of the Lord's vengeance, 14—17; and that her tributaries would desert her, 18. The whole concludes with stating the incurableness of her malady, and the dreadful destruction consequently awaiting her; and with introducing the nations which she had oppressed as exulting at her fall, 19.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

WOE to the [a]bloody [b]city! it is all full of lies and robbery; the prey departeth not;

2 The noise of a whip, and [c]the noise of the rattling of the wheels, and of the prancing horses, and of the jumping chariots.

3 The horseman lifteth up both [d]the bright sword and the glittering spear: and there is a multitude of slain, and a great number of carcases; and there is none end of their corpses; they stumble upon their corpses:

4 Because of the multitude of the whoredoms of the wellfavoured harlot, [e]the mistress of witchcrafts, that selleth nations through her whoredoms, and families through her witchcrafts.

5 [f]Behold, I am against thee, saith the LORD of hosts; and [g]I will discover thy skirts upon thy face, [h]and I will shew the nations thy nakedness, and the kingdoms thy shame.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

6 And I will cast abominable filth upon thee, and [i]make thee vile, and will set thee as [k]a gazingstock.

7 And it shall come to pass, that all they that look upon thee [l]shall flee from thee, and say, Nineveh is laid waste: [m]who will bemoan her? whence shall I seek comforters for thee?

8 [n]Art thou better than [o]populous [p][q]No, that was situate among the rivers, that had the waters

[a] Heb. city of bloods.——[b] Ezek. 22. 2, 3. & 24. 6, 9. Hab. 2. 12.——[c] Jer. 47. 3.——[d] Heb. the flame of the sword, and the lightning of the spear.——[e] Isa. 47. 9, 12. Rev. 18. 2, 3.——[f] Ch. 2. 13.——[g] Isa. 47. 2, 3. Jer. 13. 22, 26. Ezek. 16. 37. Mic. 1. 11.——[h] Hab. 2. 16.——[i] Mal. 2. 9.——[k] Heb. 10. 33.——[l] Rev. 18. 10.——[m] Jer. 15. 5.——[n] Amos 6. 2.——[o] Or, nourishing——[p] Heb. No Amon.——[q] Jer. 46. 25, 26. Ezek. 30. 14—16.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. Woe to the bloody city] Nineveh: the threatenings against which are continued in a strain of invective, astonishing for its richness, variety, and energy. One may hear and see the whip crack, the horses prancing, the wheels rumbling, the chariots bounding after the galloping steeds; the reflection from the drawn and highly polished swords, and the hurled spears, like flashes of lightning, dazzling the eyes, the slain lying in heaps, and horses and chariots stumbling over them! O, what a picture, and a true representation, of a battle, when one side is broken, and all the cavalry of the conqueror fall in upon them, hewing them down with their swords, and trampling them to pieces under the hoofs of their horses!

Verse 4. Because of the multitude of the whoredoms] Above the Ninevites were represented under the emblem of a lion tearing all to pieces: here they are represented under the emblem of a beautiful harlot or public prostitute, enticing all men to her, inducing the nations to become idolatrous; and, by thus perverting them, render them also objects of the Divine wrath.

Mistress of witchcrafts, that selleth nations through her whoredoms] Using every means to excite to idolatry; and being by menace or wiles successful in all.

Verse 5. I will discover thy skirts upon thy face] It was an ancient, though not a laudable custom, to strip prostitutes naked, or throw their clothes over their heads, and expose them to public view, and public execration. This verse alludes to such a custom.

Verse 6. I will cast abominable filth upon thee] I will set thee as a gazingstock. This was a punishment precisely like our pillory. They put such women in the pillory as a gazingstock; and then, children and others threw mud, dirt, and filth of all kinds, at them.

Verse 7. Who will bemoan her?] In such cases, who pities the delinquent? She has been the occasion of ruin to multitudes, and now she is deservedly exposed and punished. And so it should be thought concerning Nineveh.

Verse 8. Art thou better than populous No] No-Ammon, or Diospolis, in the Delta, on one branch of the Nile. This is supposed to be the city mentioned by Nahum; and which had been lately destroyed, probably by the Chaldeans.

The waters round about it] Being situated in the Delta, it had the fork of two branches of the Nile to defend it by land; and its barrier or wall, was the sea, the Mediterranean, into which these branches emptied themselves: so that this city, and the place it stood on, were wholly surrounded by the waters.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

round about it, whose rampart was the sea, and her wall was from the sea?

9 Ethiopia and Egypt were her strength, and it was infinite; Put and Lubim were [a] thy helpers.

10 Yet was she carried away, she went into captivity: [b] her young children also were dashed in pieces [c] at the top of all the streets: and they [d] cast lots for her honourable men, and all her great men were bound in chains.

11 Thou also shalt be [e] drunken: thou shalt be hid, thou also shalt seek strength because of the enemy.

12 All thy strong holds shall be like [f] fig trees with the firstripe figs: if they be shaken, they shall even fall into the mouth of the eater.

13 Behold, [g] thy people in the midst of thee are women: the gates of thy land shall be set wide open unto thine enemies: the fire shall devour thy [h] bars.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

14 Draw thee waters for the siege, [i] fortify thy strong holds: go into clay, and tread the morter, make strong the brickkiln.

15 There shall the fire devour thee; the sword shall cut thee off, it shall eat thee up like [k] the cankerworm: make thyself many as the cankerworm, make thyself many as the locusts.

16 Thou hast multiplied thy merchants above the stars of heaven: the cankerworm [l] spoileth, and fleeth away.

17 [m] Thy crowned are as the locusts, and thy captains as the great grasshoppers, which camp in the hedges in the cold day, but when the sun ariseth they flee away, and their place is not known where they are.

18 [n] Thy shepherds slumber, O [o] king of As-

---

[a] Heb. in thy help.——[b] Psa. 137. 9. Isa. 13. 16. Hos. 13. 16.——[c] Lam. 2. 19.——[d] Joel 3. 3. Obad. 11.——[e] Jer. 25. 17, 27. ch. 1. 10.——[f] Rev. 6. 13.

[g] Jer. 50. 37. & 51. 30.——[h] Psa. 147. 13. Jer. 51. 30.——[i] Ch. 2. 1.——[k] Joel 1. 4.——[l] Or, spreadeth himself.——[m] Rev. 9. 7.——[n] Exod. 15. 16. Psa. 76. 6.——[o] Jer. 50. 18. Ezek. 31. 3, &c.

Verse 9. Æthiopia and Egypt were her strength] The land of Cush, not far from Diospolis; for it was in Arabia, on the Red sea.

Put and Lubim] A part of Africa, and Libya, which were all within reach of forming alliances with No-Ammon, or Diospolis.

Verse 10. They cast lots for her honourable men] This refers still to the city called populous No. And the custom of casting lots among the commanders, for the prisoners which they had taken, is here referred to.

Great men were bound in chains] These were reserved to grace the triumph of the victor.

Verse 12. Thy strong holds] The effects of the consternation into which the Ninevites were cast by the assault on their city are here pointed out by a very expressive metaphor:—the firstripe figs, when at full maturity, fell from the tree with the least shake; and so, at the first shake or consternation, all the fortresses of Nineveh were abandoned; and the king, in despair, burnt himself and household in his own palace.

Verse 13. Thy people—are women] They lost all courage, and made no resistance. O verè Phrygiæ, neque enim Phryges.—"Verily, ye are Phrygian women, not Phrygian men." So said Numanus to the Trojans. Virg. Æn. ix.

Verse 14. Draw thee waters for the siege] The Tigris ran near to Nineveh; and here they are exhorted to lay in plenty of fresh water, lest the siege should last long; and lest the enemy should cut off this supply.

Go into clay, and tread the morter] This refers to the manner of forming bricks anciently in those countries: they digged up the clay, kneaded it properly by treading, mixed it with straw or coarse grass, moulded the bricks, and dried them in the sun. I have now some of the identical bricks, that were brought from this country, lying before me; and they shew all these appearances. They are compacted very hard: but wholly soluble in water. There were however others without straw, that seem to have been burnt in a kiln as ours are. I have also some fragments or bats of these from Babylon.

Verse 15. Make thyself many as the cankerworm] On the locusts, and their operations in their various states, see the Notes on Joel ii. The multitudes, successive swarms, and devastation occasioned by locusts, is one of the most expressive similes that could be used, to point out the successive armies, and all destroying influences of the enemies of Nineveh. The account of those destroyers, inserted Joel ii, from Dr. Shaw, will fully illustrate these verses which speak of the locusts.

Verse 16. Thou hast multiplied thy merchants] Like Tyre, this city was a famous resort for merchants: but the multitudes which were there previously to the siege, like the locusts, took the alarm, and fled away.

Verse 17. Thy crowned are as the locusts] Thou hast numerous princes, and numerous commanders.

Which camp in the hedges in the cold day] The locusts are said to lie in shelter about the hedges of fertile spots, when the weather is cold, or during the night: but, as soon as the sun shines out and is hot, they come out to their forage, or take to their wings.

Verse 18. Thy shepherds slumber] That is, the rulers and tributary princes; who, as Herodotus informs us, deserted Nineveh in the day of her distress, and came not forward to her succour.

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

syria: thy [a] nobles shall dwell in the dust: thy people is [b] scattered upon the mountains, and no man gathereth them.

19 There is no [c] healing of thy bruise; [d] thy wound is grievous: [e] all that hear the bruit of thee shall clap the hands over thee: for upon whom hath not thy wickedness passed continually?

A. M. cir. 3291. B. C. cir. 713. Ol. cir. XVI. 4. Numæ Pompilii, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 3.

[a] Or, valiant ones.——[b] 1 Kings 22. 17.——[c] Heb. wrinkling.

[d] Mic. 1. 9.——[e] Lam. 2. 15. Zeph. 2. 15. See Isa. 14, 8, &c.

Diodorus Siculus says, lib. ii, when the enemy shut up the king in the city, many nations revolted; each going over to the besiegers, for the sake of their liberty; that the king despatched messengers to all his subjects, requiring power from them to succour him; and that he thought himself able to endure the siege, and remained in expectation of armies which were to be raised throughout his empire, relying on the oracle that the city would not be taken till the river became its enemy. See the Note on chap. ii, 6.

Verse 19. There is no healing of thy bruise] Thou shalt never be rebuilt.

All that hear the bruit of thee] The report or account.

Shall clap the hands] Shall exult in thy downfall.

For upon whom hath not thy wickedness passed] Thou hast been a universal oppressor; and, therefore, all nations rejoice at thy fall and utter desolation.

Bp. Newton makes some good remarks on the fall and total ruin of Nineveh.

"What probability was there, that the capital city of a great kingdom; a city which was sixty miles in compass; a city which contained so many thousand inhabitants; a city which had walls a hundred feet high, and so thick, that three chariots could go abreast upon them, and which had one thousand five hundred towers, of two hundred feet in height;—what probability was there that such a city should ever be totally destroyed? And yet so totally was it destroyed, that the place is hardly known where it was situated. What we may suppose helped to complete its ruin and devastation, was Nebuchadnezzar's enlarging and beautifying Babylon, soon after Nineveh was taken. From that time no mention is made of Nineveh by any of the Sacred writers; and the most ancient of the Heathen authors, who have occasion to say any thing about it, speak of it as a city that was once great and flourishing, but now destroyed and desolate. Great as it was formerly, so little of it is remaining, that authors are not agreed even about its situation. From the general suffrage of ancient historians and geographers, it appears to have been situated upon the Tigris; though others represent it as placed upon the Euphrates. Bochart has shewn that Herodotus, Diodorus Siculus, and Ammianus Marcellinus, all three speak differently of it; sometimes as if situated on the Euphrates, sometimes as if on the Tigris; to reconcile whom he supposes that there were two Ninevehs; and Sir John Marsham, that there were three;—the Syrian upon the Euphrates, the Assyrian on the Tigris, and a third built afterwards upon the Tigris by the Persians, who succeeded the Parthians in the empire of the east, in the third century; and were subdued by the Saracens in the seventh century after Christ. But whether this latter was built in the same place as the old Nineveh, is a question that cannot be decided.

"There is a city at this time called Mosul, situate upon the western side of the Tigris; and on the opposite eastern shore are ruins of great extent, which are said to be those of Nineveh.

"Dr. Prideaux, following Thevenot, observes that Mosul is situated on the west side of Tigris, where was anciently only a suburb of the old Nineveh; for the city itself stood on the east side of the river, where are to be seen some of its ruins of great extent even to this day. Even the ruins of old Nineveh, as we may say, have been long ago ruined and destroyed; such an utter end hath been made of it, and such is the truth of the Divine predictions!

"These extraordinary circumstances may strike the reader more strongly, by supposing only a parallel instance. Let us then suppose, that a person should come in the name of a prophet, preaching repentance to the people of this kingdom, or otherwise denouncing the destruction of the capital city within a few years. With an overflowing flood will God make an utter end of the place thereof; he will make an utter end: its place may be sought, but it shall never be found. I presume we should look upon such prophet as a madman; and shew no farther attention to his message, than to deride and despise it. And yet such an event would not be more strange and incredible than the destruction and devastation of Nineveh; for Nineveh was much the larger, stronger, and older city, of the two. And the Assyrian empire had subsisted and flourished more ages than any form of government in this country; so there is no objecting the instability of eastern monarchies in this case. Let us then, since this event would not be more improbable and extraordinary than the other, suppose again, that things should succeed according to the prediction; that the floods should arise, and the enemy should come; the city should be overthrown and broken down, be taken and pillaged, and destroyed so totally, that even the learned could not agree about the place where it was situated. What would be said or thought in such a case? Whoever of posterity should read and compare the prophecy and event together, must they not by such an illustrious instance be thoroughly convinced of the providence of God, and of the truth of His prophet; and be ready to acknowledge, Verily, this is the word which the Lord hath spoken; verily, there is a God who judgeth the earth?"—See Bp. Newton, Vol. I. Dissert. 9.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET HABAKKUK.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book, upon the supposition that it was written a little before the destruction of Jerusalem, about six hundred years before the commencement of the Christian æra.

Year from the Creation, according to Archbishop Ussher, 3404.—Year of the Julian Period, 4114.—Year since the Flood, 1748.—Year since the vocation of Abram, 1321.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's Temple, 412.—Year since the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 376.—First year of the Forty-fifth Olympiad.—Year since the destruction of the kingdom of Israel by Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, 121.—Year before the birth of Jesus Christ, 596.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 600.—Cycle of the Sun, 26.—Cycle of the Moon, 10.—Third year of Æropas, king of Macedon.—Twentieth year of Alyattes II, king of Lydia.—Twenty-sixth year of Cyaxares, or Cyaraxes, king of Media.—Sixth year of Agasicles, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—Eighth year of Leon, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Seventh year of Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon.—Seventeenth year of Tarquinius Priscus, king of the Romans.—Eleventh year of Jehoiakim, king of Judah.

CHAPTER I.

The Prophet enters very abruptly on his subject, his spirit being greatly indignant at the rapid progress of vice and impiety, 1—4. Upon which God is introduced threatening very awful and sudden judgments to be inflicted by the ministry of the Chaldeans, 5—10. The Babylonians attribute their wonderful successes to their idols, 11. The Prophet then, making a sudden transition, expostulates with God (probably personating the Jews) for permitting a nation much more wicked than themselves, as they supposed, to oppress and devour them as fishers and fowlers do their prey, 12—17.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

THE [a] burden which Habakkuk the prophet did see.

2 O LORD, how long shall I cry, [b] and thou wilt not hear! even cry out unto thee of violence, and thou wilt not save!

3 Why dost thou shew me iniquity, and cause me to behold grievance?

[a] Zech. 9. 1. & 12. 1. Mal. 1. 1.

[b] Lam. 3. 8.

We know little of this prophet; for what we find in the ancients concerning him is evidently fabulous, as well as that which appears in the Apocrypha. He was probably of the tribe of Simeon, and a native of Bethzacar. It is very probable that he lived after the destruction of Nineveh, as he speaks of the Chaldeans, but makes no mention of the Assyrians. And he appears also to have prophesied before the Jewish captivity, see chap. i, 5; ii, 1; iii, 2, 16—19; and for spoiling and violence are before me: and there are that raise up strife and contention.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

4 Therefore the law is slacked, and judgment doth never go forth: for the [a] wicked doth compass about the righteous; therefore [b] wrong judgment proceedeth.

5 [c] Behold ye among the heathen, and regard, and wonder marvellously: for I will work a work in your days, which ye will not believe, though it be told you.

6 For, lo, [d] I [e] raise up the Chaldeans, that bitter and hasty nation, which shall march through the [f] breadth of the land, to possess the dwelling-places that are not their's.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

7 They are terrible and dreadful: [g] their judgment and their dignity shall proceed of themselves.

8 Their horses also are swifter than the leopards, and are more [h] fierce than the [i] evening wolves: and their horsemen shall spread them-

[a] Job 21. 7. Psa. 94. 3, &c. Jer. 12. 1.——[b] Or, wrested.——[c] Isa. 29. 14. Acts 13. 41.——[d] Deut. 28. 49, 50. Jer. 5. 15.——[e] Fulfilled, 2 Chron. 36. 6.

[f] Heb. breadths.——[g] from them shall proceed the judgment of these, and the captivity of these.——[h] Heb. sharp.——[i] Ezek. 22. 27. Jer. 5. 6. Zeph. 3. 3.

therefore, Abp. Newcome thinks he may be placed in the reign of Jehoiakim, between the years 606 B. C. and 598 B. C.

As a poet, Habakkuk holds a high rank among the Hebrew prophets. The beautiful connexion between the parts of his prophecy; its diction, imagery, spirit, and sublimity; cannot be too much admired: and his Hymn, chap. iii, is allowed by the best judges to be a masterpiece of its kind. See Lowth's Prælect. xxi, xxviii.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. The burden] משא ha-massa signifies, not only the burdensome prophecy; but the prophecy or revelation itself which God presented to the mind of Habakkuk, and which he saw, clearly perceived in the light of prophecy, and then faithfully declared, as this Book shews. The word signifies an oracle, or revelation in general; but chiefly, one relative to future calamities.

Verse 2. O LORD, how long shall I cry] The prophet feels himself strongly excited against the vices which he beheld; and which, it appears from this verse, he had often declaimed against, but in vain:—the people continued in their vices, and God in his longsuffering.

Habakkuk begins his prophecy under a similar feeling, and nearly in similar words, as Juvenal did his Satires:—

Semper ego auditor tantùm? Nunquamne reponam?
Vexatus totius rauci Theseide Codri? Sat. i, 1.

"Shall I always be a hearer only?—Shall I never reply? So often vexed."

Of violence] The most unlawful and outrageous acts.

Verse 3. And cause me to behold grievance] עמל âmal, labour, toil, distress, misery, &c, the common fruits of sin.

Verse 4. The law is slacked] They pay no attention to it; it has lost all its vigour,—its restraining and correcting power; it is not executed; right judgment is never pronounced; and the poor righteous man complains in vain that he is grievously oppressed by the wicked, and by those in power and authority. That the utmost depravity prevailed in the land of Judah is evident from these verses;—and can we wonder then that God poured out such signal judgments upon them! When judgment doth not proceed from the seat of judgment upon earth, it will infallibly go forth from the throne of judgment in heaven.

Verse 5. Behold ye among the heathen] Instead of בגוים bagoyim, among the nations, or heathen, some critics think we should read בגודים bogadim, transgressors: and to the same purpose the Septuagint, Syriac, and Arabic, have read; and thus it is quoted by St. Paul, Acts xiii, 41. But neither this, nor any tantamount reading, is found in any of the MSS. yet collated. Newcome translates,—"See, ye transgressors, and behold a wonder, and perish."

I will work a work in your days] As he is speaking of the desolation that should be produced by the Chaldeans, it follows, as Bishop Newcome has justly observed, that the Chaldeans invaded Judah whilst those were living whom the prophet addressed.

Which ye will not believe] Nor did they, after all the declarations of various prophets. They still supposed that God would not give them up into the hands of their enemies, though they continued in their abominations!

It is evident that St. Paul, in the above place, accommodates this prediction to his own purpose. And possibly this sense might have been in the intention of the Divine Spirit when He first spoke the words to the prophet: for, as God works in reference to eternity, so He speaks in reference to the same; and therefore there is an infinity of meaning in His WORD. These appear to be the words of God in answer to the prophet, in which He declares He will entirely ruin this wicked people by means of the Chaldeans.

Verse 6. That bitter and hasty nation] Cruel and oppressive in their disposition; and prompt and speedy in their assaults and conquests.

Verse 7. Their judgment—shall proceed of themselves.] By revolting from the Assyrians, they have become a great nation. Thus, their judgment and excellence were the result of their own valour. Other meanings are given to this passage.

Verse 8. Their horses also are swifter than the leopards] selves, and their horsemen shall come from far; [a] they shall fly as the eagle that hasteth to eat.

9 They shall come all for violence: [b] their [c] faces shall sup up as the east wind, and they shall gather the captivity as the sand.

10 And they shall scoff at the kings, and the princes shall be a scorn unto them: they shall deride every strong hold; for they shall heap dust, and take it.

11 Then shall his mind change, and he shall pass over, and offend, [d] imputing this his power unto his god.

12 [e] Art thou not from everlasting, O LORD my God, mine Holy One? we shall not die. O LORD, [f] thou hast ordained them for judgment; and, O [g] mighty God, thou hast [h] established them for correction.

13 [i] Thou art of purer eyes than to behold evil, and canst not look on [k] iniquity: [l] wherefore lookest thou upon them that deal treacherously, and holdest thy tongue when the wicked devoureth the man that is more righteous than he?

14 And makest men as the fishes of the sea, as the [m] creeping things, that have no ruler over them?

[a] Jer. 4. 13.——[b] Or, the supping up of their faces, &c, or, their faces shall look toward the east.——[c] Heb. the opposition of their faces toward the east.——[d] Dan. 5. 4.——[e] Psa. 90. 2. & 93. 2. Lam. 5. 19.

[f] 2 Kings 19. 25. Psa. 17. 13. Isa. 10. 5, 6, 7. Ezek. 30. 25.——[g] Heb. rock, Deut. 32. 4.——[h] Heb. founded.——[i] Psa. 5. 5.——[k] Or, grievance.——[l] Jer. 12. 1.——[m] Or, moving.

The Chaldean cavalry were proverbial for swiftness, courage, &c. In Jeremiah, chap. iv, 13, it is said, speaking of Nebuchadnezzar, "His chariots are as a whirlwind; his horses are swifter than eagles."

Oppian, speaking of the horses bred about the Euphrates, says, "They are by nature war-horses, and so intrepid that neither the sight nor the roaring of the lion appals them; and, besides, are astonishingly fleet."

The leopard, of all quadrupeds, is allowed to be the swiftest.

The evening wolves] The wolf is remarkable for his quick sight. Ælian says, Οξυωπεςατον εςι ζωον, και μεντοι, και νυκτος και σεληνης ουκ ουσης ὁδε ορᾳ. "The wolf is a very fleet animal; and, besides, it can see by night, even when there is no moonlight." Some think the hyena is meant: it is a swift, cruel, and untameable animal. The other prophets speak of the Chaldeans in the same way. See Deut. xxviii, 49; Jer. xlviii, 40, xlix, 22; Ezek. xvii, 5; Lam. iv, 19.

Verse 9. Their faces shall sup up as the east wind] This may be an allusion to those electrical winds which prevail in that country. Mr. Jackson, in his overland journey from India, mentions his having bathed in the Tigris. On his coming out of the river one of those winds passed over him; and, in a moment, carried off every particle of water that was on his body and in his bathing dress. So, the Chaldeans shall leave no substance behind them;—their faces, their bare appearance, is the proof that nothing good shall be left.

Shall gather the captivity as the sand.] They shall carry off innumerable captives.

Verse 10. They shall scoff at the kings] No power shall be able to stand before them. It will be only as pastime to them to take the strongest places. They will have no need to build formidable ramparts;—by sweeping the dust together, they shall make mounts sufficient to pass over the walls and take the city.

Verse 11. Then shall his mind change] This is thought to relate to the change which took place in Nebuchadnezzar, when a beast's heart was given to him, and he was driven from the dwellings of men. And this was because of his offending,—his pride and arrogance; and his attributing all his success, &c, to his idols.

Verse 12. Art thou not from everlasting] The idols change, and their worshippers change and fail: but thou, Jehovah, art eternal; thou canst not change,—and they who trust in Thee are safe. Thou art infinite in Thy mercy; therefore, we shall not die,—shall not be totally exterminated.

Thou hast ordained them for judgment] Thou hast raised up the Chaldeans to correct and punish us: but Thou hast not given them a commission to destroy us totally.

Instead of לא נמות lo namuth, we shall not die, Houbigant and other critics, with a little transposition of letters, read אל אמת el emeth, God of truth; and then the verse will stand thus: "Art thou not from everlasting, O Jehovah my God, my Holy One? O Jehovah GOD OF TRUTH, thou hast appointed them for judgment." But this emendation, however elegant, is not supported by any MS.; nor, indeed by any of the ancient Versions, though the Chaldee has something like it. The common reading makes a very good sense.

Verse 13. Thou art of purer eyes] Seeing thou art so pure, and canst not look on iniquity it is so abominable,—how canst thou bear with them who deal treacherously, and hold thy tongue when the wicked devour the righteous! All such questions are easily solved by a consideration of God's ineffable mercy, which leads Him to suffer long and be kind. He has no pleasure in the death of a sinner.

Verse 14. Makest men as the fishes of the sea] Easily are we taken and destroyed. We have no leader to guide us, and no power to defend ourselves. Nebuchadnezzar is here represented as a fisherman, who is constantly casting his

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

15 They [a] take up all of them with the angle, they catch them in their net, and gather them in their [b] drag: therefore they rejoice and are glad.

16 Therefore [c] they sacrifice unto their net, and burn incense unto their drag; because by them their portion is fat, and their meat [d] plenteous.[e]

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

17 Shall they therefore empty their net, and not spare continually to slay the nations?

[a] Jer. 16. 16. Amos. 4. 2.——[b] Or, flue net.

[c] Deut. 8. 17. Isa. 10. 13. & 37. 24, 25.——[d] Or, dainty.——[e] Heb. fat.

nets into the sea, and enclosing multitudes of fishes; and, being always successful, he sacrifices to his own net,—attributes all his conquests to his own power and prudence; not considering that he is only like a net that, after having been used for a while, shall at last be thrown by as useless, or burnt in the fire.

Verse 16. They sacrifice unto their net] He had no God; he cared for none; and worshipped only his armour and himself. King Mezentius, one of the worst characters in the Æneid of Virgil, is represented as invoking his own right hand and his spear in battle.—Æn. x, 773.

Dextra mihi Deus, et telum quod missile libro, Nunc adsint.

"My strong right hand and sword, assert my stroke.
Those only gods Mezentius will invoke."

DRYDEN.

And Capaneus, in Statius, gives us a more decisive proof of this self-idolatry. Thebaid, lib. x.

Ades, O mihi dextera tantum
Tu præses belli, et inevitabile Numen,
Te voco, te solum Superûm contemptor adoro.

"Only thou my right hand be my aid, I contemn the gods, and adore thee as the chief in battle, and the irresistible deity."—The poet tells us, that for his impiety, Jupiter slew him with thunder.

This was an ancient idolatry in this country, and has existed till within about a century. There are relics of it in different parts of Europe; for when military men bind themselves to accomplish any particular purpose, it is usual to lay their hand upon their sword: but formerly they kissed it, when swearing by it. With most heroes, the sword is both their Bible and their God.

Verse 17. And not spare continually to slay the nations?] They are running from conquest to conquest; burning, slaying, sacking, and slaughtering. Like the fishermen, who throw cast after cast while any fish are to be caught, so Nebuchadnezzar is destroying one nation after another. This last sentence explains the allegory of the net.

CHAPTER II.

The Prophet, waiting for a return to his expostulation, is answered by God that the time for the destruction of the Jewish polity by the Chaldeans is not only fixed in the Divine counsel, but is awfully near; and he is therefore commanded to write down the vision relative to this appalling subject in the most legible characters, and in the plainest language, that all who read it with attention, those just persons who exercise an unwavering faith in the declaration of God respecting the violent irruption of the merciless Babylonians, may flee from the impending vengeance, 1—4. The fall of the Chaldeans, and of their ambitious monarch, is then predicted, 5—10; and, by a strong and bold personification, the very stone and wood of those magnificent buildings, which the Babylonish king had raised by oppression and bloodshed, pronounce his woe, and in responsive taunts upbraid him, 11, 12. The Prophet then beautifully sets forth the absolute impotence of every effort, however well-conducted, which is not in concert with the Divine counsel: for though the wicked rage, and threaten the utter extermination of the people of God; yet, when the SET time to favour Zion is come, the destroyers of God's heritage shall themselves be destroyed, and "the earth shall be filled with the knowledge of the glory of God as the waters cover the sea," 13, 14. See Psa. cii, 13—16. For the cup of idolatry which Babylon has given to many nations, she will receive of the Lord's hand the cup of fury by the insurrection of mighty enemies (the Medes and Persians) rushing like wild beasts to destroy her, 15. In the midst of this distress the Prophet very opportunely asks in what the Babylonians had profited by their idols, exposes the absurdity of trusting in them, and calls upon the whole world to stand in awe of the everlasting Jehovah, 16—19.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. LXV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

I WILL [a] stand upon my watch, and set me upon the [b] tower, [c] and will watch to see what he will say [d] unto me, and what I shall answer [e] when [f] I am reproved.

2 And the LORD answered me, and said, [g] Write the vision, and make it plain upon tables, that he may run that readeth it.

3 For [h] the vision is yet for an appointed time, but at the end it shall speak, and not lie: though it tarry, wait for it; because it will [i] surely come, it will not tarry.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. LXV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

4 Behold, his soul which is lifted up is not upright in him: but the [k] just shall live by his faith.

5 [l] Yea also, because he transgresseth by wine, he is a proud man, neither keepeth at home, who enlargeth his desire [m] as hell, and is as death, and cannot be satisfied, but gathereth unto him all nations, and heapeth unto him all people:

[a] Isa. 21. 8, 11. — [b] Heb. fenced place. — [c] Psa. 85. 8. — [d] Or, in me. — [e] Or, when I am argued with. — [f] Heb. upon my reproof, or, arguing. — [g] Isa. 8. 1. & 30. 8.

[h] Dan. 10. 14. & 11. 27. 35. — [i] Heb. 10. 37. — [k] John 3. 36. Rom. 1. 17. Gal. 3. 11. Heb. 10. 38. — [l] Or, How much more. — [m] Prov. 27. 20. & 30. 16.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. I will stand upon my watch] The prophets are always represented as watchmen, watching constantly for the comfort, safety, and welfare, of the people: and watching also to receive information from the Lord; for the prophetic influence was not always with them, but was granted only at particular times, according to the will of God. When, in doubtful cases, they wished to know what God was about to do with the country, they retired from society, and gave themselves to meditation and prayer, waiting thus upon God to hear what he would say IN them.

What he will say unto me] בי bi, IN me;—in my understanding and heart.

And what I shall answer when I am reproved.] What I shall say to God in behalf of the people; and what the Lord shall command me to say to the people. Some translate, "And what He will answer for my conviction." Or, what shall be answered to my pleading.

Verse 2. Write the vision] Take all that I shall say carefully down.

Make it plain upon tables] Write in a full, plain, legible hand.

That he may run that readeth it.] That he may make speed to save his life from the irruption of the Chaldeans, by which so many shall be cut off. The prophet does not mean that the words are to be made so plain, that a man running by may easily read and catch their meaning. Though this interpretation has been frequently given: and it has been incautiously applied to the whole of the Bible,—"God's book is so plain, that he that runs may read." This is very foolish: God never intends that His words shall be understood by the careless. He that reads, studies, meditates, and prays, shall understand every portion of this Sacred Book that relates immediately to his own salvation. But no trifler can understand it. Again, if the contents of a play bill were to be read, as many read the Bible; they would know just as much of the one as they do of the other.

Verse 3. The vision is yet for an appointed time] The Chaldeans, who are to ruin Judea, shall afterwards be ruined themselves: but they must do this work before they receive their wages; therefore, the vision is for an appointed time. But at the end it shall speak. When his work of devastation is done, his day of retribution shall take place.

Though it tarry] Though it appear to be long, do not be impatient; it will surely come; it will not tarry longer than the prescribed time, and this time is not far distant. Wait for it.

Verse 4. Behold, his soul which is lifted up] He that presumes on his safety without any special warrant from God, is a proud man; and whatever he may profess, or think of himself, his mind is not upright in him. But he that is just by faith, shall live: he that believes what God hath said relative to the Chaldeans besieging Jerusalem, shall make his escape from the place, and consequently shall save his life. The words in the New Testament are accommodated to the salvation which believers in Christ shall possess. Indeed the just, the true Christians, who believed in Jesus Christ's words relative to the destruction of Jerusalem, when they found the Romans coming against it, left the city, and escaped to Pella, in Cælosyria; and did live, their lives were saved; while the unbelieving Jews, to a man, either perished, or were made slaves. One good sense is,—he that believes the promises of God, and has found life through believing, shall live by his faith.

Verse 5. Because he transgresseth by wine] From the present translation it is not easy to see either reason or meaning in the first clause of this verse. Newcome translates, "Moreover, as a mighty man transgresseth through wine, he is proud, and remaineth not at rest." Houbigant thus:—"For he, though he be a despiser, and powerful, and proud, yet shall he not have rest."

Nebuchadnezzar is here represented in his usual character, proud, haughty, and ambitious; inebriated with his successes, and determined on more extensive conquests; and, like the grave, can never have enough: yet, after the subjugation of many peoples and nations, he shall be brought down, and become so despicable, that he shall be a proverb of reproach, and be taunted and scorned by all those whom he had before enslaved.

And cannot be satisfied] When he has obtained all that

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

6 Shall not all these [a] take up a parable against him, and a taunting proverb against him, and say, [b] Woe to him that increaseth that which is not his! how long? and to him that ladeth himself with thick clay!

7 Shall they not rise up suddenly that shall bite thee, and awake that shall vex thee, and thou shalt be for booties unto them?

8 [c] Because thou hast spoiled many nations, all the remnant of the people shall spoil thee; [d] because of men's [e] blood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

9 Woe to him that [f] coveteth [g] an evil covetousness to his house, that he may [h] set his nest on high, that he may be delivered from the [i] power of evil!

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

10 Thou hast consulted shame to thy house by cutting off many people, and hast sinned against thy soul.

11 For the stone shall cry out of the wall, and the [k] beam out of the timber shall [l] answer it.

12 Woe to him that buildeth a town with [m] blood, [n] and stablisheth a city by iniquity!

13 Behold, is it not of the LORD of hosts [o] that the people shall labour in the very fire, and the people shall weary themselves [p] for very vanity?

14 For the earth shall be filled [q] with the

[a] Mic. 2. 4.——[b] Or, Ho, he.——[c] Isa. 33. 1.——[d] Ver. 17.——[e] Heb. bloods.——[f] Jer. 22. 13.——[g] Or, gaineth an evil gain.——[h] Jer. 49. 16. Obad. 4.——[i] Heb. palm of the hand.

[k] Or, piece, or, fastening.——[l] Or, witness against it.——[m] Jer. 22. 13. Ezek. 24. 9. Mic. 3. 10. Nah. 3. 1.——[n] Heb. bloods.——[o] Jer. 51. 58.——[p] Or, in vain.——[q] Or, by knowing the glory of the LORD.

is within his reach, he wishes for more; and becomes miserable because any limits are opposed to his insatiable ambition. It is said of Alexander,—

Unus Pellæo juveni non sufficit orbis;
Æstuat infelix angusto limite mundi.
Juv. Sat. x, 168.

One world sufficed not Alexander's mind;
Coop'd up, he seem'd on earth and seas confined.

And the poet justly ridicules him, because at last the sarcophagus was found too large for his body!

Verse 6. Shall not all these take up a parable against him] His ambition, derangement, and the final destruction of his mighty empire by the Persians, shall form the foundation of many sententious sayings among the people. "He who towered so high, behold how low he is fallen!" "He made himself a god; behold, he herds with the beasts of the field!" "The disturber of the peace of the world, is now a handful of dust!"

Verse 7. Shall they not rise up suddenly] Does not this refer to the sudden and unexpected taking of Babylon by Cyrus, whose troops entered into the city through the bed of the Euphrates, whose waters they had diverted by another channel: so that the Babylonians knew nothing of the matter till they saw the Persian soldiers rise up as in a moment, in the very heart of their city.

Verse 8. For the violence of the land] Or, for the violence done to the land of Judea, and to the city of Jerusalem.

Verse 9. An evil covetousness to his house] Nebuchadnezzar wished to aggrandize his family, and make his empire permanent: but both family and empire were soon cut off by the death of his son Belshazzar, and the consequent destruction of the Chaldean empire.

Verse 10. Hast sinned against thy soul.] Thy life is forfeited by thy crimes.

Verse 11. The stone shall cry out of the wall, and the beam out of the timber shall answer it.] This appears to refer to the ancient mode of building walls; two or three courses of stone, and then one course of timber. See 1 Kings vi, 36; thus was the palace of Solomon built. The splendid and costly buildings of Babylon have been universally celebrated. But how were these buildings erected? By the spoils of conquered nations, and the expense of the blood of multitudes; therefore, the stones and the timber are represented as calling out for vengeance against this ruthless conqueror.

Verse 12. Woe to him that buildeth a town with blood] At the expense of much slaughter. This is the answer of the beam to the stone. And these things will refer to the vast fortunes gained, and buildings erected, by means of the slave trade; where, to a considerate and humane mind, the walls appear as if composed of the bones of negroes, and cemented by their blood! But the towns or houses established by this iniquity come soon to ruin; and the fortunes made have, in most cases, become as chaff and dust before the whirlwind of God's indignation. But where are the dealers in the souls and bodies of men? Ask him who has them in his keeping. He can tell.

Verse 13. The people shall labour in the very fire] All these superb buildings shall be burnt down. See the parallel passage, Jer. li, 58, and the Note there.

Shall weary themselves for very vanity?] For the gratification of the wishes of ambition, and in buildings which shall be brought to nought.

Verse 14. For the earth shall be filled] This is a singular and important verse. It may be first applied to Babylon. God's power and providence shall be widely displayed in the destruction of this city and empire, in the humiliation of

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

[a] knowledge of the glory of the LORD, as the waters cover the sea.

15 Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink, that puttest thy [b] bottle to him, and makest him drunken also, that thou mayest [c] look on their nakedness!

16 Thou art filled [d] with shame for glory: [e] drink thou also, and let thy foreskin be uncovered: the cup of the LORD's right hand shall be turned unto thee, and shameful spewing shall be on thy glory.

17 For the violence of Lebanon shall cover thee, and the spoil of beasts, which made them afraid, [f] because of men's blood, and for the violence of the land, of the city, and of all that dwell therein.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

18 [g] What profiteth the graven image that the maker thereof hath graven it; the molten image, and a [h] teacher of lies, that [i] the maker of his work trusteth therein, to make [k] dumb idols?

19 Woe unto him that saith to the wood, awake; to the dumb stone, Arise, it shall teach! Behold, it is laid over with gold and silver, [l] and there is no breath at all in the midst of it.

20 But [m] the LORD is in his holy temple: [n] let [o] all the earth keep silence before him.

---

[a] Isa. 11. 9.——[b] Hos. 7. 5.——[c] Gen. 9. 22.——[d] Or, more with shame than with glory.——[e] Jer. 25. 26, 27. & 51. 57.——[f] Ver. 8.——[g] Isa. 44. 9, 10. & 46. 2.

[h] Jer. 10. 8, 14. Zech. 10. 2.——[i] Heb. the fashioner of his fashion.——[k] Psa. 115. 5. 1 Cor. 12. 2.——[l] Psa. 135. 17.——[m] Psa. 11. 4.——[n] Heb. be silent all the earth before him.——[o] Zeph. 1. 7. Zech. 2. 13.

Nebuchadnezzar, Dan. iv, 37, and in the captivity and restoration of his people. See Newcome, and see Isa. xi, 9.

Secondly, it may be applied to the glorious days of the Messiah. The land of Judea should by His preaching, and that of His disciples, be filled with the knowledge of God. God's great design fully discovered; and the scheme of salvation amply explained.

Thirdly, It may be applied to the universal spread of the gospel over the habitable globe; when the fulness of the Gentiles shall be brought in, and the Jews gathered in with that fulness. The earth cannot perish till every continent, island, and inhabitant, is illuminated with the light of the gospel.

Verse 15. Woe unto him that giveth his neighbour drink] This has been considered as applying to Pharaoh-hophra, king of Egypt, who enticed his neighbours Jehoiachin and Zedekiah to rebel against Nebuchadnezzar, whereby the nakedness and imbecility of the poor Jews was soon discovered; for the Chaldeans soon took Jerusalem, and carried its kings, princes, and people, into captivity.

Verse 16. The cup of the LORD's right hand] Among the ancients, all drank out of the same cup; it was passed from hand to hand, and each drank as much as he chose. The Chaldeans gave to the neighbouring nations the cup of idolatry and of deceitful alliance; and in return they received from the Lord the cup of his fury. So Grotius.

Verse 17. For the violence of Lebanon] Or, the violence done to Lebanon, to men, to cattle, to Judea, and to Jerusalem. See the Note on the parallel place, ver. 8. This may be a threatening against Egypt, as the former was against Chaldea.

Verse 18. What profiteth the graven image] This is against idolatry in general, and every species of it; as well as against those princes, priests, and people, who practise it, and encourage others to do the same. See on the parallel passages in the Margin.

Dumb idols?] אלילים אלמים elilim illemim, "dumb nothings." This is exactly agreeable to St. Paul, 1 Cor. viii, 4, who says, An idol is nothing in the world. What signify the idols worshipped by the Chaldeans, Tyrians, and Egyptians? They have not been able to save their worshippers.

Verse 19. Woe unto him] How foolish and contemptible to worship a thing formed by the hand of man, out of wood, stone, gold, or silver. The meanest brute is superior to them all: it breathes and lives, but they have no breath in them. However they are said above, to be teachers of lies. That is, they appeared to give out oracles: but these were lies; and were not given by the statue, but by the priest.

Verse 20. The LORD is in his holy temple] Jehovah has His Temple, the place where He is to be worshipped: but there there is no image. Oracles, however, are given forth; and every word of them is truth, and is fulfilled in its season. And this Temple and its worship are holy, no abomination can be practised there; and every thing in it leads to holiness of heart and life.

Let all the earth keep silence before him.] Let all be dumb. Let none of them dare to open their mouths in the presence of Jehovah. He alone is Sovereign. He alone is the Arbiter of life and death. Let all hear his commands with the deepest respect, obey them with the promptest diligence, and worship Him with the most profound reverence. When an Asiatic sovereign goes to the mosque on any of their great festivals, such as the Bairham, the deepest silence reigns among all his retinue, visirs, foreign ambassadors, &c. They all bow respectfully before him: but no word is spoken, no sound uttered. It is to this species of reverence that the Prophet alludes; and with this he concludes the prophetic part of this Book. What God has threatened or promised, that He will fulfil. Let every soul bow before Him, and submit to His authority.

CHAPTER III.

The Prophet, being apprised of the calamities which were to be brought on his country by the ministry of the Chaldeans, and the punishments which awaited the Chaldeans themselves, partly struck with terror, and partly revived with hope and confidence in the Divine mercy, beseeches God to hasten the redemption of His people, 1, 2. Such a petition would naturally lead his thoughts to the astonishing deliverance which God vouchsafed to the same people of old; and the inference from it was obvious, that He could with the same ease deliver their posterity now. But, hurried on by the fire and impetuosity of his spirit, he disdains to wait the process of connecting these ideas, and bounds at once into the midst of his subject: "God came from Teman, &c." 3. He goes on to describe the majesty and might which God displayed in conducting His people to the Land of Promise; selecting the most remarkable circumstances, and clothing them in the most lofty language. As he goes along, his fancy becomes more glowing, till at length he is transported to the scene of action, and becomes an eyewitness of the wonders he describes. "I beheld the tents of Cushan in affliction," 4—6. After having touched on the principal circumstances of that deliverance which he celebrates, he returns to what passed before them in Egypt; his enthusiasm having led him to begin in the midst of his subject, 7—15. And at last he ends the hymn as he began it, with expressing his awe of the Divine judgments, and his firm trust in the mercy and goodness of God while under them; and that in terms of such singular beauty, elegance, and sublimity, as to form a very proper conclusion to this admirable piece of Divinely inspired composition, 16—19. It would seem from the title, and from the note annexed to the end, that it was set to music, and sung in the service of the Temple.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

A PRAYER of Habakkuk the prophet [a] upon [b] Shigionoth.

2 O LORD, I have heard [c] thy speech, and was afraid: O LORD, [d] revive [e] thy work in the midst of the years, in the midst of the years make known; in wrath remember mercy.

3 God came from [f] Teman, [g] and

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

[a] Psa. 7, title.——[b] Or, according to variable songs, or tunes, called, in Hebrew, Shigionoth.——[c] Heb. thy report, or, thy hearing.

[d] Or, preserve alive.——[e] Psa. 85. 6.——[f] Or, the south.——[g] Deut. 33. 2. Judg. 5. 4. Psa. 68. 7.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. A prayer of Habakkuk—upon Shigionoth.] See the Note on the Title of Psalm the Seventh, where the meaning of Shigaion is given. The Vulgate has pro ignorantiis, for ignorances, or sins committed in ignorance; and so it is understood by the Chaldee. The Syriac has nothing but merely, A Prayer of Habakkuk. And the Septuagint, instead of Shigionoth, have μετα ωδης, with a hymn, which is copied by the Arabic.

I suspect that the Title here given is of a posterior date to the prophecy. It appears to interrupt the connexion between this, and termination of the preceding verse. See them together.

Chap. ii, 20. "But the Lord is in His Holy Temple:
Be silent before Him, all the earth.

iii, 1. O Lord, I have heard Thy speech:
I have feared, O Lord, Thy work.
As the years approach Thou hast shewn;
As the years approach thou makest known.
In wrath Thou rememberest mercy."

The Prophet may here refer to the speech which God had communicated to him, chap. i, 5—11; ii, 4—20; and the terror with which he was struck, because of the judgments denounced against Jerusalem. I have followed the version of Abp. Newcome in this first verse. The critical reader may consult his notes, and the various readings of Kennicott and De Rossi.

Verse 2. In the midst of the years] בקרב שנים be-koreb shanim, "As the years approach." The nearer the time, the clearer and fuller is the prediction; and the signs of the times shew, that the complete fulfilment is at hand. But as the judgments will be heavy, and they are not greater than we deserve; yet, Lord, in the midst of wrath,—infliction of punishment, remember mercy, and spare the souls that return unto thee with humiliation and prayer.

Verse 3. God came from Teman] Bp. Lowth observes:—"This is a sudden burst of poetry, in the true spirit of the Ode; the concealed connexion being, that God, who had formerly displayed such power in delivering the Israelites from Egyptian slavery, might succour their posterity in a like wonderful manner." Hence the Prophet selects the the Holy One from mount Paran. Selah. His glory covered the heavens, and the earth was full of his praise.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

4 And his brightness was as the light; he had [a] horns coming out of his hand: and there was the hiding of his power.

5 [b] Before him went the pestilence, and [c] burning [d] coals went forth at his feet.

6 He stood, and measured the earth: he beheld, and drove asunder the nations; [e] and the [f] everlasting mountains were scattered, the perpetual hills did bow: his ways are [g] everlasting.

[a] Or, bright beams out of his side.——[b] Nah. 1. 3.——[c] Or, burning diseases, Deut. 32. 24.

[d] Psa. 18. 8, 12. Isa. 6. 6. & 47. 14.——[e] Nah. 1. 5.——[f] Gen. 49. 26.——[g] Psa. 139. 24.

most striking facts of that first deliverance; and, to decorate and render them impressive, brings forth all the powers of his genius, in all the strength and elegance of his language. "What crowns the sublimity of this piece," says Bp. Lowth, "is the singular elegance of the close; and were it not that antiquity has here and there thrown its veil of obscurity over it, there could not be conceived a more perfect and masterly poem of its kind." See for more particulars, his twenty-eighth Prælection.

I shall endeavour to shew the facts in the deliverance from Egypt, to which the Prophet refers.

Teman] This was a city, the capital of a province of Idumea, to the south of the land of Canaan. Numb. xx, 21; Jer. xlix, 7.

Paran] Was a city which gave its name to a province in Arabia Petrea. Gen. xxi, 21; Deut. xxxiii, 2.

Selah] Not well known; probably a pause or alteration in the music. See it in the Psalms, and its explanation there.

His glory covered the heavens] His glory when He descended on mount Sinai, and in the pillar of fire by night.

The earth was full of his praise.] All the land was astonished at the magnificence of His works in behalf of His people. Instead of praise, some translate splendour. The whole land was illuminated by His glory.

Verse 4. He had horns coming out of his hand] קרנים kernaim, rays. His hand, His power, was manifested in a particular place, by the sudden issuing out of pencils of rays, which diverged in coruscations of light, so as to illuminate the whole hemisphere. Yet there was the hiding of his power.—His Majesty could not be seen, nor any kind of image, because of the insufferable splendour. This may either refer to the lightnings on mount Sinai; or to the brightness which occasionally proceeded from the shekinah, or glory of God between the cherubim, over the mercy seat. See Capellus and Newcome. If lightnings are intended, the dense cloud from which they proceeded may be meant by the hiding of his power: for when the lightnings burst forth, His power and energy became manifest.

Probably from this, the Jupiter Keraunos, or Jupiter Brontes, of the Heathens was borrowed; who is always represented with forked or zigzag lightnings in his hand.

Verse 5. Before him went the pestilence] This plague was several times inflicted on the disobedient Israelites in the wilderness. See Numb. xi, 33, xiv, 37, xvi, 46. And was always the proof that the just God was then manifesting His power among them.

Burning coals went forth at his feet.] Newcome translates, "And flashes of fire went forth after him." The disobedient Israelites were consumed by a fire that went out from Jehovah, see Lev. x, 2. Numb. xi, 1, xvi, 35. And the burnt-offering was consumed by a fire which came out from before Jehovah, Lev. xi, 24.

Verse 6. He stood, and measured the earth] ארץ arets, the land; He divided the Promised Land among the twelve tribes. This is the allusion; and this the prophet had in his eye. God not only made a general assignment of the land to the Hebrews: but He even divided it into such portions as the different families required. Here were both power and condescension. When a conqueror had subdued a country, he divided it among his soldiers. Among the Romans, those among whom the conquered lands were divided were termed beneficiarii; and the lands beneficia, as being held on the beneficence of the sovereign.

He beheld, and drove asunder the nations] The nations of Canaan, the Hittites, Hivites, Jebusites, &c, and all who opposed His people. Even His look dispersed them. He came, He saw, He conquered.

The everlasting mountains were scattered] Or, broken asunder. This may refer to the convulsions on mount Sinai; and to the earthquake, which announced the descent of the Most High. See Exod. xix, 18. "God occupied the summit of the eternal mount Sinai; and led His people over the eternal mountains of Arabia Petræa: and this sense is preferable to the figurative one, that His ways or doings are predetermined from everlasting."—Newcome. The epithets עד âd, and עולם ôlam, eternal, and everlasting, are applied to mountains and immense rocks, because no other parts of nature were less subject to decay or change, than these immense masses of earth and stone. This is a figurative description of the passage of the Israelites through the deserts of Arabia, over mountains, rocks, and through the trackless wilderness; over and through which God, by His power and providence, gave them a safe passage.

The following beautiful piece from the Fragments of Æschylus will illustrate the preceding description, and please the learned Reader.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

7 I saw the tents of [a] Cushan [b] in affliction: and the curtains of the land of Midian did tremble.

8 Was the LORD displeased against the rivers? was thine anger against the rivers? was thy wrath against the sea, [c] that thou didst ride upon thine horses and [d] thy chariots of salvation?

9 Thy bow was made quite naked, according to the oaths of the tribes, even thy word. Selah. [e] Thou [f] didst cleave the earth with rivers.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

10 [g] The mountains saw thee, and they trembled: the overflowing of the water passed by: the deep uttered his voice, and [h] lifted up his hands on high.

11 [i] The sun and moon stood still in their habitations; [k] at the light of thine [l] arrows they

[a] Or, Æthiopia.——[b] Or, under affliction, or vanity.——[c] Deut. 33. 26, 27. Psa. 68. 4. & 104. 3. ver. 15.——[d] Or, thy chariots were salvation.——[e] Or, Thou didst cleave the rivers of the earth.——[f] Psa. 78. 15, 16. & 105. 41.

[g] Exod. 19. 16, 18. Judg. 5. 4, 5. Psa. 68. 8. & 77. 18. & 114. 4.——[h] Exod. 14. 22. Josh. 3. 16.——[i] Josh. 10. 12, 13.——[k] Or, thine arrows walked in the light, &c.——[l] Josh. 10. 11. Psa. 18. 14. & 77. 17, 18.

Χωριζε θνητων τον Θεον, και μη δοκει
Ὁμοιον αυτῳ σαρκινον καθεξαναι·
Ουκ οισθα δ' αυτον· ποτε μεν ὡς πυρ φαινεται
Απλαστον ὁρμῃ· ποτε δ' ὑδωρ, ποτε δε γνοφος.
Και θηρσιν αυτος γινεται παρεμφερης,
Ανεμῳ, νεφει τε, καστραπῃ, βροντῃ, βροχῃ.
Ὑπηρετει δ' αυτῳ θαλασσα, και πετραι,
Και πασα πηγη, χ' ὑδατος συρηματα·
Τρεμει δ' ορη και γαια και πελωριος
Βυθος θαλασσης, κωρεων ὑψος μεγα,
Ὁταν επιβλεψῃ γοργον ομμα δεσποτης.

ÆSCHYLI Fragm.

Confound not God with man; nor madly deem
His form is mortal, and of flesh like thine.
Thou know'st Him not. Sometimes like fire He glows
In wrath severe; sometimes as water flows;
In brooding darkness now His power conceals;
And then in brutes that mighty power reveals.
In clouds tempestuous we the Godhead find;
He mounts the storm, and rides the winged wind;
In vivid lightnings flashes from on high;
In rattling thunders rends the lowering sky;
Fountains and rivers, seas and floods obey,
And ocean's deep abyss yields to His sway;
The mountains tremble, and the hills sink down,
Crumbled to dust by the Almighty's frown.
When God unfolds the terrors of His eye,
All things with horror quake, and in confusion lie.

J. B. B. CLARKE.

Verse 7. I saw the tents of Cushan in affliction] Cush is Arabia. The Arabians dwelt in tents, hence they were called Scenitæ. When the Lord appeared on mount Sinai, the Arabs of the Red sea abandoned their tents, being terror-struck; and the Midianites also were seized with fear. See the desolation wrought among this people by Phineas, Numb. xxxi, 1, &c, on account of their having enticed the Israelites to idolatry, Numb. xxv, 1, &c. Either Cush and Midian lay contiguous to each other; or, these names are poetically used to express the same place.

Verse 8. Was the LORD displeased against the rivers?] Floods: here is a reference to the passage of the Red sea. The Lord is represented as heading His troops, riding in His chariot, and commanding the sea to divide that a free passage might be left for His army to pass over.

Verse 9. Thy bow was made quite naked] That is, it was drawn out of its case: as the arrows had their quiver, so the bows had their cases. A fine oriental bow and bow-case, with quiver and arrows, are now before me; and shew with what propriety Jehovah is represented as taking His bow out of its case, in order to set His arrow upon the cord, to shoot at His enemies. It is not the drawing out, or making bare the arrow, that is mentioned here; but the taking the bow out of its case, to prepare to shoot.

This verse appears to be an answer to the questions in the preceding: Was the Lord displeased, &c. The answer is, All this was done according to the oaths of the tribes; the covenant of God, frequently repeated and renewed, which He made with the tribes, to give them the land of the Canaanites for their inheritance.

Thou didst cleave the earth with rivers.] Or, "Thou didst cleave the streams of the land." Or, "Thou cleavedest the dry land into rivers." This may be a reference to the passage of Jordan, and transactions at Arnon and the brook Jabbok. See Numb. xxi, 13—15.

In this verse we have Selah again, which, as before, may signify a pause, or some alteration in the music.

Verse 10. The mountains saw thee] This is the continued answer to the questions in verse 8. These are figures highly poetic, to shew with what ease God accomplished the most arduous tasks in behalf of His people. As soon as the mountains saw Him, they trembled, they were in pangs. When He appeared, the sea fled to right and left to give Him a passage. It uttered its voice.—The separation of the waters occasioned a terrible noise. And it lifted up its hands on high.—Its waters being separated, stood in heaps on the right hand and left. These heaps or waves are poetically represented here as the hands of the sea.

Verse 11. The sun and moon stood still] This was at the prayer of Joshua, when He fought against the Amorites. See Josh. x, 11, 12, and the Notes there.

At the light of thine arrows they went] I think we should translate,— went, and at the shining of thy glittering spear.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

12 Thou didst march through the land in indignation, [a] thou didst thresh the heathen in anger.

13 Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people, even for salvation with thine anointed; [b] thou woundedst the head out of the house of the wicked, [c] by discovering the foundation unto the neck. Selah.

14 Thou didst strike through with his staves the head of his villages: they [d] came out as a whirlwind to scatter me: their rejoicing was as to devour the poor secretly.

15 [e] Thou didst walk through the sea with thine horses, through the [f] heap of great waters.

16 When I heard, [g] my belly trembled; my lips quivered at the voice; rottenness entered into my bones, and I trembled in myself, that I

[a] Jer. 51. 33. Amos 1. 3. Mic. 4. 13.——[b] Josh. 10. 24. & 11. 8, 12. Psa. 68. 21.——[c] Heb. making naked.

[d] Heb. were tempestuous.——[e] Ver. 8. Psa. 77. 19.——[f] Or, mud.——[g] Psa. 119. 120. Jer. 23. 9.

By their light, thine arrows went abroad;
By their brightness, the lightening of thy spear.

Calvin very justly remarks, that the arrows and spears of the Israelites are called those of God, under whose auspices the people fought:—the meaning is, that by the continuation of the light of the sun and moon, then stayed in their course, the Israelites saw how to continue the battle, till their enemies were all defeated.

Verse 12. Thou didst march through the land] This refers to the conquest of Canaan. God is represented as going at the head of His people as general-in-chief; and leading them on from conquest to conquest:—which was the fact.

Thou didst thresh the heathen in anger.] Thou didst tread them down, as the oxen do the sheaves on the threshing floor.

Verse 13. Thou wentest forth for the salvation of thy people] Their deliverance would not have been effected, but through Thy interference.

For salvation with thine anointed] That is, with Joshua, whom God had anointed, or solemnly appointed to fill the place of Moses, and lead the people into the Promised Land. If we read, with the common Text, משיחך meshicheca,—"Thy anointed," in the singular number, Joshua is undoubtedly meant, who was God's instrument to put the people in possession of Canaan: but if, with several MSS. and some copies of the Septuagint, we read משיחיך meshicheyca, "Thy anointed ones," the Israelites must be intended." They are frequently called God's anointed, or God's saints. The sense is very far fetched, when applied to Jesus Christ.

Thou woundedst the head out of the house of the wicked] This alludes to the slaying the first-born through all the land of Egypt. These were the heads of the houses or families.

By discovering the foundation unto the neck.] The general meaning of this clause is sufficiently plain: the government of these lands should be utterly subverted; the very foundations of it should be razed. But what means unto the neck, עד צואר âd tsavar? Several critics read עד צור âd tsur, "Unto the ROCK," that on which the house is founded: and this very intelligible reading is obtained by the omission of a single letter א aleph, from the word צואר. This conjecture has been adopted by Newcome, though unsupported either by MS. or Version. But is the conjecture necessary? I think not: read the verse as it ought to be read, and all will be plain. Thou hast wounded the head even unto the neck, in the house of the wicked, by laying bare the foundation. The whole head, neck, and all, are cut off. There was no hope left to the Egyptians, because the first-born of every family was cut off, so that the very foundation was laid bare, no first-born being left to continue the heirship of families.

Verse 14. Thou didst strike through] The Hebrew will bear this sense: "Thou hast pierced amidst their tribes the head of their troops," referring to Pharaoh and his generals, who came like a whirlwind to fall upon the poor Israelites, when they appeared to be hemmed in by sea, and no place for their escape. If we follow the common reading, it seems to intimate that the troops of Pharaoh, in their confusion, (for God shone out upon them from the cloud,) fell foul o each other; and with their staves, or weapons, slew one another: but the head of the villages, or towns, i. e. Pharaoh, was drowned with his army, in the Red sea.

Verse 15. Thou didst walk through the sea] There was no occasion to hurry across; all was safe, for God had divided the waters: and His terrible cloud had removed from before, and stood behind them; so that it was between them and the Egyptians. See Exod. xiv, 19, 20.

Verse 16. When I heard, my belly trembled] The prophet having finished his account of the wonders done by Jehovah, in bringing their fathers from Egypt, into the Promised Land, now returns to the desolate state of his countrymen, who are shortly to be led into captivity, and suffer the most grievous afflictions: and although he had a sure word of prophecy that they should be ultimately delivered, yet the thoughts of the evils they must previously endure filled his soul with terror and dismay; so that he wishes to be removed from earth before this tribulation should come, that his eyes might not behold the desolations of his country.

When he (Nebuchadnezzar) cometh up unto the people, (the Jews) he will invade them (overpower, and carry them away captive,) with his troops.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

might rest in the day of trouble: when he cometh up unto the people, he will [a] invade them with his troops.

17 Although the fig-tree shall not blossom, neither shall fruit be in the vines; the labour of the olive shall [b] fail, and the fields shall yield no meat; the flock shall be cut off from the fold, and there shall be no herd in the stalls:

18 [c] Yet I will [d] rejoice in the LORD, I will joy in the God of my salvation.

A. M. cir. 3404. B. C. cir. 600. Ol. cir. XLV. 1. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 17.

19 The LORD God is [e] my strength, and he will make my feet like [f] hinds' feet, and he will make me to [g] walk upon mine high places. To the chief singer on my [h] stringed instruments.

[a] Or, cut them in pieces.——[b] Heb. lie.——[c] Job 13. 15.——[d] Isa. 41. 16. & 61. 10

[e] Psa. 27. 1.——[f] 2 Sam. 22. 34. Psa. 18. 33.——[g] Deut. 32. 13. & 33. 29.——[h] Heb. neginoth. Psa. 4, title.

Verse 17. Although the fig-tree shall not blossom] תפרח tiphrach, shall not flourish; shall not put forth its young figs, for the fig-tree does not blossom. The young figs appear as soon as the old ones are ripe, as I have had often occasion to observe.

This verse most nervously paints the desolate state of the land of Judea during the captivity. In its hemistich form, it may be translated thus:—

For the fig-tree shall not flourish,
And there shall be no fruit on the vines;
The fruit of the olive shall fail,
And the fields shall supply no food:
The flocks shall be cut off from the fold,
And no herds shall be found in the stalls:
Yet in Jehovah will I exult;
I will joy in the God of my salvation.

The Vulgate has,—

Yet I in the Lord will rejoice,
And will exult in Jesus my God.

The Targum countenances this version:—ואנא במימרא דייי אבוע ve-ana be-meimra dayai ebuâ, "But in the WORD of the Lord will I rejoice," i. e. the personal, substantial WORD of Jehovah.

These two verses give the finest display of resignation and confidence that I have ever met with. He saw that evil was at hand, and unavoidable; he submitted to the dispensation of God, whose Spirit enabled him to paint it in all its calamitous circumstances. He knew that God was merciful and gracious. He trusted to His promise, though all appearances were against its fulfilment; for he knew that the word of Jehovah could not fail, and therefore his confidence is unshaken.

No paraphrase can add any thing to this hymn, which is full of inexpressible dignity and elegance, leaving even its unparalleled piety out of the question.

Verse 19. The LORD God is my strength] This is an imitation, if not a quotation, from Psa. xviii, 32, 33, where see the Notes.

Will make me to walk upon mine high places] This last verse is spoken in the person of the people, who seem to anticipate their restoration; and that they shall once more rejoice in the hills and mountains of Judea.

To the chief singer on my stringed instruments.] This line, which is evidently a superscription, leads me to suppose that when the prophet had completed this short ode, he folded it up, with the above direction to the master singer, or leader of the choir, to be sung in the temple service. Many of the Psalms are directed in the same way. "To the master singer;" or, "chief musician:" to be sung according to their nature, on different kinds of instruments, or with particular airs or tunes.

Neginoth, נגינות which we translate stringed instruments, means such as were struck with a plectrum, or excited by some kind of friction or pulsation; as violins and cymbals, or tambourines, are. I do not think that the line makes any part of the prophecy; but merely the subscription or direction of the work when it was finished. The ending will appear much more dignified, this line being separated from it.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET HABAKKUK.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET ZEPHANIAH.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book, upon the supposition that it was written in the twelfth year of the reign of Josiah, king of Judah.

Year from the Creation according to Archbishop Ussher, 3374.—Year of the Julian Period, 4084.—Year since the Flood, 1718.—Year from the vocation of Abram, 1291.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's Temple, 382.—Year from the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 346.—Year since the conquest of Corœbus at Olympia, usually called the First Olympiad, 147.—Third year of the Thirty-seventh Olympiad.—Year from the building of Rome according to the Varronian computation, 124.—Year of the æra of Nabonassar, 118.—Year since the destruction of the kingdom of Israel by Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, 92.—Year before the birth of Christ, 626.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 630.—Cycle of the Sun, 24.—Cycle of the Moon, 18.—Eighteenth year of Phraortes, king of Media. This monarch is supposed by some to have been the same with the Arphaxad of the Apocrypha.—Eleventh year of Philip I, king of Macedon.—Twenty-second year of Archidamus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Procli dæ.—Fifteenth year of Eurycrates II, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Twenty-ninth year of Cypselus, who had seized upon the government of Corinth.—Forty-second year of Psammitichus, king of Egypt, according to Helvicus.—Tenth year of Kiniladachus, king of Babylon, according to the same chronologer. This monarch was the immediate predecessor of Nabopolassar, the father of Nebuchadnezzar.—Second year of Sadyattes, king of Lydia.—Eleventh year of Ancus Martius, the fifth king of the Romans.—Twelfth year of Josiah, king of Judah.

CHAPTER I.

This Chapter begins with denouncing God's judgments against Judah and Jerusalem, 1—3. Idolaters and sinners of several other denominations, are then particularly threatened; and their approaching visitation enlarged on, by the enumeration of several circumstances which tend greatly to heighten its terrors, 4—18.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

THE word of the LORD which came unto Zephaniah the son of Cushi, the son of Gedaliah, the son of Amariah, the son of Hizkiah, in the days of Josiah the son of Amon, king of Judah.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

2 [a] I will utterly consume all things from off [b] the land, saith the LORD.

[a] Heb. By taking away I will make an end.

[b] Heb. the face of the land.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. The word of the LORD which came unto Zephaniah] Though this prophet has given us so large a list of his ancestors, yet little concerning him is known, because we know nothing certain relative to the persons of his family whose names are here introduced. We have one chrono-

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

3 [a]I will consume man and beast, I will consume the fowls of the heaven, and the fishes of the sea, and [b]the [c]stumblingblocks with the wicked; and I will cut off man from off the land, saith the LORD.

4 I will also stretch out mine hand upon Judah, and upon all the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and [d]I will cut off the remnant of Baal from this place, and the name of [e]the Chemarims with the priests;

5 And them [f]that worship the host of heaven upon the housetops; [g]and them that worship and [h]that swear [i]by the LORD, and that swear [k]by Malcham;

6 And [l]them that are turned back from the LORD; and those that [m]have not sought the LORD, nor enquired for him.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

7 [n]Hold thy peace at the presence of the Lord GOD: [o]for the day of the LORD is at hand: for [p]the LORD hath prepared a sacrifice, he hath [q]bid his guests.

8 And it shall come to pass in the day of the LORD's sacrifice, that I will [r]punish [s]the princes, and the king's children, and all such as are clothed with strange apparel.

9 In the same day also will I punish all those that leap on the threshold, which fill their masters' houses with violence and deceit.

---

[a] Hos. 4. 3.——[b] Ezek. 7. 19. & 14. 3, 4, 7. Matt. 13. 41.——[c] Or, idols.——[d] Fulfilled, cir. 624. 2 Kings 23. 4, 5.——[e] Hos. 10. 5.——[f] 2 Kings 23. 12. Jer. 19. 13.——[g] 1 Kings 18. 21. 2 Kings 17. 33, 41.——[h] Isa. 48. 1. Hos. 4. 15.——[i] Or, to the LORD.

[k] Josh. 23. 7. 1 Kings 11. 33.——[l] Isa. 1. 4. Jer. 2. 13. 17. & 15. 6.——[m] Hos. 7. 7.——[n] Hab. 2. 20. Zech. 2 13.——[o] Isa. 13. 6.——[p] Isa. 34. 6. Jer. 56. 10. Ezek. 39. 17. Rev. 19. 17.——[q] Heb. sanctified, or, prepared.——[r] Heb. visit upon.——[s] Jer. 39. 6.

---

logical note which is of more value for the correct understanding of his prophecy than the other could have been, how circumstantially soever it had been delivered, viz. that he prophesied in the days of Josiah, son of Amon, king of Judah; and, from the description which he gives of the disorders which prevailed in Judea in his time, it is evident that he must have prophesied before the reformation made by Josiah, which was in the eighteenth year of his reign. And as he predicts the destruction of Nineveh, chap. ii, 13, which, as Calmet remarks, could not have taken place before the sixteenth of Josiah, allowing with Berosus twenty-one years for the reign of Nabopolassar over the Chaldeans; we must therefore place this prophecy about the beginning of the reign of Josiah, or from B. C. 640 to B. C. 609.

Verse 2. I will utterly consume all things] All being now ripe for destruction, I will shortly bring a universal scourge upon the land. He speaks particularly of the idolaters.

Verse 3. I will consume man and beast] By war, and by pestilence. Even the waters shall be infected, and the fish destroyed; the air become contaminated, and the fowls die.

Verse 4. I will cut off the remnant of Baal] I think he refers here, partly at least, to the reformation which Josiah was to bring about. See the account, 2 Kings xxiii, 5.

The Chemarims] The black-robed priests of different idols. See the Note on 2 Kings xxiii, 5. These were put down by Josiah.

Verse 5. The host of heaven] Sun, moon, planets, and stars. This worship was one of the most ancient, and the most common, of all species of idolatry; and it had a greater semblance of reason to recommend it. See 2 Kings xxiii, 5, 12; Jer. xix, 13; xxxii, 29.

That swear by the LORD, and that swear by Malcham] Associating the name of an idol with that of the Most High. For Malcham, see on Hos. iv, 15, and Amos v, 26.

Verse 6. Them that are turned back] Who have forsaken the true God, and become idolaters.

Nor enquired for him.] Have not desired to know His will.

Verse 7. Hold thy peace at the presence of the Lord GOD] הס has, the same as hush, hist, among us. Remonstrances are now useless. You had time to acquaint yourselves with God;—you would not: you cry now in vain,—destruction is at the door.

The LORD hath prepared a sacrifice] A slaughter of the people.

He hath bid his guests] The Babylonians, to whom He has given a commission to destroy you. In all festival sacrifices,—1. The victims were offered to God, and their blood poured out before the altar. 2. The people who were invited feasted upon the sacrifice. See on Isa. xxxiv, 6.

Verse 8. I will punish the princes, and the king's children] After the death of Josiah the kingdom of Judah saw no prosperity, and every reign terminated miserably; until, at last, king Zedekiah and the king's children were cruelly massacred at Riblah, when he had taken Jerusalem.

Strange apparel.] I really think this refers more to their embracing idolatrous customs and heathen usages, than to their changing their dress. They acquired new habits, as we would say; customs, that they used as they did their clothing;—at all times,—and in every thing.

Verse 9. That leap on the threshold] Or, that leap over the threshold. It is most probable that the Philistines are here meant. After the time that Dagon fell before the ark, and his hands were broken off in the threshold of his temple, his worshippers would no more set a foot upon the threshold, but stepped or leaped over it, when they entered into his

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

10 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD, that there shall be the noise of a cry from [a] the fish gate, and a howling from the second, and the great crashing from the hills.

11 [b] Howl, ye inhabitants of Maktesh, for all the merchant people are cut down; all they that bear silver are cut off.

12 And it shall come to pass at that time, that I will search Jerusalem with candles, and punish the men that are [c] settled [d] on their lees: [e] that say in their heart, The LORD will not do good, neither will he do evil.

13 Therefore their goods shall become a booty, and their houses a desolation: they shall also build houses, but [f] not inhabit them; and they shall plant vineyards, but [g] not drink the wine thereof.

14 [h] The great day of the LORD is near, it is near, and hasteth greatly, even the voice of the day of the LORD: the mighty man shall cry there bitterly.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

15 [i] That day is a day of wrath, a day of trouble and distress, a day of wasteness and desolation, a day of darkness and gloominess, a day of clouds and thick darkness,

16 A day of [k] the trumpet and alarm against the fenced cities, and against the high towers.

17 And I will bring distress upon men, that they shall [l] walk like blind men, because they have sinned against the LORD: and [m] their blood shall be poured out as dust, and their flesh [n] as the dung.

18 [o] Neither their silver nor their gold shall be able to deliver them in the day of the LORD's wrath; but the whole land shall be [p] devoured by the fire of his jealousy: for [q] he shall make even a speedy riddance of all them that dwell in the land.

---

[a] 2 Chron. 33. 14.——[b] Jam. 5. 1.——[c] Heb. curded, or, thickened.——[d] Jer. 48. 11. Amos 6. 1.——[e] Psa. 94. 7.——[f] Deut. 28. 30, 39. Amos 5. 11.——[g] Mic. 6. 15.——[h] Joel 2. 1, 11.

[i] Isa. 22. 5. Jer. 30. 7. Joel 2. 2, 11. Amos 5. 18. ver. 18.——[k] Jer. 4. 19.——[l] Deut. 28. 29. Isa. 59. 10.——[m] Psa. 79. 3.——[n] Psa. 83. 10. Jer. 9. 22. & 16. 4.——[o] Prov. 11. 4. Ezek. 7. 19.——[p] Ch. 3. 8.——[q] Ver. 2, 3.

---

temple. The Chaldee understands this of the Philistines, without giving this reason for it. Some understand it of haughtiness and pride: others think that leaping on the threshold refers to the customs of the Arabs, who used to ride into people's houses, and take away whatever they could carry; and that this is the reason why, in several parts of the East, they have their doors made very low, to prevent those depredators from entering. In this manner, we learn, the Persians have frequently oppressed the poor Armenians, —going on horseback into their houses, and taking whatever they thought proper. Mr. Harmer understands it in this way.

Verse 10. A cry from the fish gate] This gate, which is mentioned Neh. iii, 3, was opposite to Joppa; and perhaps the way in which the news came of the irruption of the Chaldean army, the great crashing from the hills.

The second] Or second city, may here mean a part of Jerusalem, mentioned 2 Kings xxii, 14; 2 Chron. xxxiv, 22.

Verse 11. Maktesh] Calmet says this signifies a mortar, or a rock in form of a mortar; and was the name of a quarter of Jerusalem where they hulled rice, corn, &c, according to St. Jerom. Some think the city of Jerusalem is meant, where the inhabitants should be beat and pounded to death as grain is pounded in a mortar.

Newcome translates it,—the lower city; and considers it the valley in Jerusalem, which divided the upper from the lower city.

They that bear silver] The merchants, money-changers, usurers, rich men.

Verse 12. I will search Jerusalem with candles] I will make a universal and thorough search.

That are settled on their lees] Those who are careless; satisfied with the goods of this life:—who trust in their riches, and are completely irreligious;—who, while they acknowledged that there was a God, thought, like the Aristotelians, that he was so supremely happy in the contemplation of His own excellencies, that He felt it beneath His dignity to concern Himself with the affairs of mortals.

Verse 13. Their goods (in which they trust) shall become a booty]—to the Chaldeans. They shall have no profit of all their labours. The houses they have built they shall not inhabit; of the wine of the vineyards they have planted they shall not drink. See Amos v, 11, where we find the same evils threatened.

Verse 14. The great day of the LORD is near] It commenced with the death of the good king Josiah, who was slain by Pharaoh-necho at Megiddo; and continued to the destruction of Jerusalem by Nebuchadnezzar.

Verse 15. That day is a day of wrath] See the parallel passages in the Margin, and the Notes there. From the fourteenth to the sixteenth verse inclusive there is a most beautiful amplification of the disasters that were coming on Jerusalem;—the invasion, incursion, attack, confusion, carnage, horrible din occasioned by the sound of the trumpet, the cries of the people, and the shrieks and groans of the dying, are pointed out with great force and mighty effect.

Verse 17. They shall walk like blind men] Be in the most perplexing doubt and uncertainty; and, while in this state, have their blood poured out by the sword of their enemies; and their flesh trodden under foot.

Verse 18. Their silver and their gold] In which they trusted, and from which they expected happiness,—shall not profit them in this awful day. And God will bring this about speedily; and a speedy riddance, a universal desolation, shall in a short time take place in every part of the land.

CHAPTER II.

The Prophet, having declared the judgments which were ready to fall on his people, earnestly exhorts them to repentance that these judgments may be averted, 1—3. He then foretels the fate of other neighbouring and hostile nations:—the Philistines, 4—7; Moabites and Ammonites, 8—11; Æthiopians, 12; and Assyrians, 13. In the close of the Chapter we have a prophecy against Nineveh. These predictions were accomplished chiefly by the conquests of Nebuchadnezzar.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

GATHER [a] yourselves together, yea, gather together, O nation [b] not desired;

2 Before the decree bring forth, before the day pass [c] as the chaff, before [d] the fierce anger of the LORD come upon you, before the day of the LORD's anger come upon you.

3 [e] Seek ye the LORD, [f] all ye meek of the earth, which have wrought his judgment, seek righteousness, seek meekness: [g] it may be ye shall be hid in the day of the LORD's anger.

4 For [h] Gaza shall be forsaken, and Ashkelon a desolation: they shall drive out Ashdod [i] at the noon day, and Ekron shall be rooted up.

5 Woe unto the inhabitants of [k] the sea coasts, the nation of the Cherethites; the word of the LORD is against you; O [l] Canaan, the land of the Philistines, I will even destroy thee, that there shall be no inhabitant.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

6 And the sea coast shall be dwellings and cottages for shepherds, [m] and folds for flocks.

7 And the coast shall be for [n] the remnant of the house of Judah; they shall feed thereupon: in the houses of Ashkelon shall they lie down in the evening: [o] for the LORD their God shall [p] visit them, and [q] turn away their captivity.

8 [r] I have heard the reproach of Moab, and

[a] Joel 2. 16.——[b] Or, not desirous.——[c] Job 21. 18. Psa. 1. 4. Isa. 17. 13. Hos. 13. 3.——[d] 2 Kings 23. 26.——[e] Psa. 105. 4. Amos 5. 6.——[f] Psa. 76. 9.——[g] Joel 2. 14. Amos 5. 15. Jonah 3. 9.——[h] Jer. 47. 4, 5. Ezek. 25. 15. Amos 1. 6, 7, 8. Zech. 9. 5, 6.——[i] Jer. 6. 4. & 15. 8.

[k] Ezek. 25. 16.——[l] Josh. 13. 3.——[m] See Isa. 17. 2. ver. 14.——[n] Isa. 11. 11. Mic. 4. 7. & 5. 7, 8. Hag. 1. 12. & 2. 2. ver. 9.——[o] Or, when, &c.——[p] Exod. 4. 31. Luke 1. 68.——[q] Psa. 126. 1. Jer. 29. 14. ch. 3. 20.——[r] Jer. 48. 27. Ezek. 25. 8.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. Gather yourselves] Others, sift yourselves. Separate the chaff from the wheat, before the judgments of God fall upon you. O nation not desired—Unlovely, not delighted in; hated, because of your sin. The Israelites are addressed.

Verse 3. Ye meek of the earth] ענוי ânavey, ye oppressed and humbled of the land.

It may be ye shall be hid] The sword has not a commission against you. Ask God, and He will be a refuge to you from the storm and from the tempest.

Verse 4. Gaza shall be forsaken] This prophecy is against the Philistines. They had been greatly harassed by the kings of Egypt: but were completely ruined by Nebuchadnezzar, who took all Phœnicia from the Egyptians; and, about the time of his taking Tyre, devastated all the seignories of the Philistines. This ruin we have seen foretold by the other prophets, and have already remarked its exact fulfilment.

Verse 5. The sea coasts, the nation of the Cherethites!] The sea coasts mean all the country lying on the Mediterranean coast from Egypt to Joppa and Gaza. The Cherethites—The Cretans, who were probably a colony of the Phœnicians. See on 1 Sam. xxx, 14, and Amos ix, 7.

Verse 6. And the sea coast shall be dwellings] Newcome considers כרת keroth, as a proper name, not cottages or folds. The Septuagint have Κρητη, Crete, and so has the Syriac. Abp. Secker notes, Alibi non extat כרת et fortè notat patriam των כרתιμ. "The word כרת kereth, is not found elsewhere; and probably it is the name of the country of the Cherethim."

Verse 7. The coast shall be for the remnant] Several devastations fell on the Philistines. Gaza was ruined by the army of Alexander the Great, and the Maccabees finally accomplished all that was predicted by the prophets against this invariably wicked people. They lost their polity, and were at last obliged to receive circumcision.

Verse 8. I have heard the reproach of Moab] God pu-

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

[a] the revilings of the children of Ammon, whereby they have reproached my people, and [b] magnified themselves against their border.

9 Therefore as I live, saith the LORD of hosts, the God of Israel, Surely [c] Moab shall be as Sodom, and [d] the children of Ammon as Gomorrah, [e] even the breeding of nettles, and saltpits, and a perpetual desolation: [f] the residue of my people shall spoil them, and the remnant of my people shall possess them.

10 This shall they have [g] for their pride, because they have reproached and magnified themselves against the people of the LORD of hosts.

11 The LORD will be terrible unto them: for he will [h] famish all the gods of the earth; [i] and men shall worship him, every one from his place, even all [k] the isles of the heathen.

12 [l] Ye Ethiopians also, ye shall be slain by [m] my sword.

A. M. cir. 3375. B. C. cir. 690. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

13 And he will stretch out his hand against the north, and [n] destroy Assyria; and will make Nineveh a desolation, and dry like a wilderness.

14 And [o] flocks shall lie down in the midst of her, all [p] the beasts of the nations: both the [q] cormorant [r] and the bittern shall lodge in the [s] upper lintels of it; their voice shall sing in the windows; desolation shall be in the thresholds: [t] for he shall uncover the [u] cedar work.

15 This is the rejoicing city [x] that dwelt carelessly, [y] that said in her heart, I am, and there is none beside me: how is she become a desolation, a place for beasts to lie down in! every one that passeth by her [z] shall hiss, and [a] wag his hand.

---

[a] Ezek. 25. 3, 6.——[b] Jer. 49. 1.——[c] Isa. 15. Jer. 48. Ezek. 25. 9. Amos 2. 1.——[d] Amos 1. 13.——[e] Gen. 19. 25. Deut. 29. 23. Isa. 13. 19. & 34. 13. Jer. 49. 18. & 50. 40.——[f] Ver. 7.——[g] Isa. 16. 6. Jer. 48. 29.——[h] Heb. make lean.——[i] Mal. 1. 11. John 4. 21.——[k] Gen. 10. 5.——[l] Isa. 18. 1. & 20. 4. Jer. 46. 9. Ezek. 30. 9.——[m] Psa. 17. 13.

[n] Isa. 10. 12. Ezek. 31. 3. Nah. 1. 1. & 2. 10. & 3. 15, 18.——[o] Ver. 6.——[p] Isa. 13. 21, 22.——[q] Or, pelican.——[r] Isa. 34. 11, 14.——[s] Or, knops, or, chapiters.——[t] Or, when he hath uncovered.——[u] Jer. 22. 14.——[x] Isa. 47. 8.——[y] Rev. 18. 7.——[z] Job 27. 23. Lam. 2. 15. Ezek. 27. 36.——[a] Nah. 3. 19.

---

nished them for the cruel part they had taken in the persecutions of the Jews; for when they lay under the displeasure of God, these nations insulted them in the most provoking manner. See on Amos i, 13, and the parallel texts in the Margin.

Verse 9. The breeding of nettles] That is; their land shall become desolate, and be a place for nettles, thorns, &c, to flourish in, for want of cultivation.

Verse 10. Because they have reproached] See on ver. 8.

Verse 11. He will famish all the gods of the earth] They shall have no more sacrifices, their worship shall be entirely destroyed. Idolaters supposed that their gods actually fed on the fumes and spirituous exhalations that arose from the burnt-offerings which they made unto their idols. It is in reference to this opinion that the Lord says, He will famish all the gods of the land.

Verse 12. Ye Ethiopians also] Nebuchadnezzar subdued these. See Jer. xlvi, 2, 9, Ezek. xxx, 4, 10. See also on Amos ix, 7.

Verse 13. He will—destroy Assyria] He will overthrow the empire; and Nineveh, their metropolitan city. See on Jonah and Nahum.

Verse 14. And flocks shall lie down in the midst of her] Nineveh was so completely destroyed, that its situation is not at present even known. The present city of Mossoul is supposed to be in the vicinity of the place where this ancient city stood.

The cormorant, קאת kaath, and the bittern, קפד kippod—These Newcome translates, The pelican and the porcupine.

Their voice shall sing in the windows] The windows shall be all demolished: wild fowls shall build their nests in them, and shall be seen coming from their sills; and the fine cedar ceilings shall be exposed to the weather, and by and by crumble to dust. See the note on Isa. xxxiv, 11, 14, where nearly the same terms are used.

I have in another place introduced a remarkable couplet quoted by Sir W. Jones, from a Persian poet, which speaks of desolation in nearly the same terms.

پرده داري ميكند در قصر قيصر عنكبوت
بومي نوبت ميزند بر كنبد افراسياب

"The spider holds the veil in the palace of Cæsar:
The owl stands centinel in the watchtower of Afrasiab."

Verse 15. This is the rejoicing city] The city in which mirth, jocularity, and pleasure, reigned without interruption.

And wag his hand.] Will point her out as a mark and monument of the Divine displeasure.

CHAPTER III.

The Prophet reproves Jerusalem, and all her guides and rulers, for their obstinate perseverance in impiety, notwithstanding all the warnings and corrections which they had received from God, 1—7. They are encouraged, however, after they shall have been chastised for their idolatry, and cured of it, to look for mercy and restoration, 8—13; and excited to hymns of joy at the glorious prospect, 14—17. After which the Prophet concludes with large promises of favour and prosperity in the days of the Messiah, 18—20. We take this extensive view of the concluding verses of this Chapter; because an apostle has expressly assured us that in EVERY prophetical book of the Old Testament Scriptures, are contained predictions relative to the Gospel dispensation. See Acts iii, 24.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

WOE to [a] her [b] that is filthy and polluted, to the oppressing city!

2 She [c] obeyed not the voice; she [d] received not [e] correction; she trusted not in the LORD; she drew not near to her God.

3 [f] Her princes within her are roaring lions; her judges are [g] evening wolves; they gnaw not the bones till the morrow.

4 Her [h] prophets are light and treacherous persons: her priests have polluted the sanctuary, they have done [i] violence to the law.

5 [k] The just LORD [l] is in the midst thereof; he will not do iniquity: [m] every morning doth he bring his judgment to light, he faileth not: but [n] the unjust knoweth no shame.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

6 I have cut off the nations: their [o] towers are desolate; I made their streets waste, that none passeth by: their cities are destroyed, so that there is no man, that there is none inhabitant.

7 [p] I said, Surely thou wilt fear me, thou wilt receive instruction; so their dwelling should not be cut off, howsoever I punished them; but they

[a] Or, gluttonous.—[b] Heb. craw.—[c] Jer. 22. 21.—[d] Jer. 5. 3.—[e] Or, instruction.—[f] Ezek. 22. 27. Mic. 3. 9, 10, 11.—[g] Hab. 1. 8.—[h] Jer. 23. 11, 32. Lam. 2. 14. Hos. 9. 7.—[i] Ezek. 22. 26.

[k] Deut. 32. 4.—[l] Ver. 15, 17. See Mic. 3. 11.—[m] Heb. morning by morning.—[n] Jer. 3. 3. & 6. 15. & 8. 12.—[o] Or, corners.—[p] So Jer. 8. 6.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. Woe to her that is filthy] This is a denunciation of Divine judgment against Jerusalem.

Verse 2. She obeyed not the voice] Of conscience, of God, and of His prophets.

She received not correction] Did not profit by his chastisements; was uneasy and ill-tempered under her afflictions, and derived no manner of good from these chastisements.

She trusted not in the LORD] Did not consider Him as the Fountain whence all help and salvation should come; and rather sought for support from man and herself, than from God.

She drew not near to her God] Did not worship Him; did not walk in his ways; did not make prayer and supplication to Him.

Verse 3. Her princes—are roaring lions] Tearing all to pieces without shadow of law, but merely their own despotic power.

Her judges are evening wolves] Being a little afraid of the lionlike princes, they practise their unjust dealings from evening to morning, and take the day to find their rest.

They gnaw not the bones till the morrow.] They devour the flesh in the night; and gnaw the bones, and extract the marrow afterwards. They use all violence and predatory oppression, like wild beasts; they shun the light, and turn day into night by their revellings.

Verse 4. Her prophets are light and treacherous persons] They have no seriousness, no deep conviction of the awful nature of their office, no concern for the immortal souls of the people. Treacherous persons—They betray the souls of the people for the sake of worldly honour, pleasure, and profit. Even in our own enlightened country, we find prophets who prefer hunting the hare or the fox, and pursuing the partridge and pheasant, to visiting the sick, and going after the strayed lost sheep of the house of Israel. Poor souls! they know neither God nor themselves; and if they did visit the sick, they could not speak to them to exhortation, edification, or comfort. God never called them to His work; therefore, they know nothing of it. But O, what an account have these pleasure-taking false prophets to render to the Shepherd of souls!

They have done violence to the law.] They have forced wrong constructions on it, in order to excuse themselves, and lull the people into spiritual slumber. So we find that it was an ancient practice to wrest the Scriptures to men's own destruction.

Verse 5. The just LORD is in the midst thereof] He sees, marks down, and will punish, all these wickednesses.

Every morning doth he bring his judgment to light] The sense is, says Bp. Newcome,—"Not a day passes, but we see instances of His goodness to righteous men; and of His vengeance on the wicked."

Verse 6. I have cut off the nations] Syria, Israel, and those referred to, Isa. xxxvi, 18, 20.—Newcome.

Verse 7. Surely thou wilt fear me] After so many displays of my sovereign power and judgments.

But they rose early] And instead of returning to God, they practised every abomination. They were diligent to find out times and places for their iniquity. This is the worst state of man.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

rose early, and [a] corrupted all their doings.

8 Therefore [b] wait ye upon me, saith the LORD, until the day that I rise up to the prey: for my determination is to [c] gather the nations, that I may assemble the kingdoms, to pour upon them mine indignation, even all my fierce anger: for all the earth [d] shall be devoured with the fire of my jealousy.

9 For then will I turn to the people [e] a pure [f] language, that they may all call upon the name of the LORD, to serve him with one [g] consent.

10 [h] From beyond the rivers of Ethiopia my suppliants, even the daughter of my dispersed, shall bring mine offering.

11 In that day shalt thou not be ashamed for all thy doings, wherein thou hast transgressed against me: for then I will take away out of the midst of thee them that [i] rejoice in thy pride, and thou shalt no more be haughty [k] because of my holy mountain.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

12 I will also leave in the midst of thee [l] an afflicted and poor people, and they shall trust in the name of the LORD.

13 [m] The remnant of Israel [n] shall not do iniquity, [o] nor speak lies; neither shall a deceitful tongue be found in their mouth: for [p] they shall feed and lie down, and none shall make them afraid.

14 [q] Sing, O daughter of Zion; shout, O Israel, be glad and rejoice with all the heart, O daughter of Jerusalem.

15 The LORD hath taken away thy judgments, he hath cast out thine enemy: [r] the King of Israel, even the LORD, [s] is in the midst of thee:

[a] Gen. 6. 12.——[b] Psa. 27. 14. & 37. 34. Prov. 20. 22.——[c] Joel 3. 2.——[d] Ch. 1. 18.——[e] Isa. 19. 18.——[f] Heb. lip.——[g] Heb. shoulder.——[h] Psa. 68. 31. Isa. 18. 1, 7. & 60. 4, &c. Mal. 1. 11. Acts 8. 27.——[i] Jer. 7. 4. Mic. 3. 11. Matt. 3. 9.——[k] Heb. in my holy.

[l] Isa. 14. 32. Zech. 11. 11. Matt. 5. 3. 1 Cor. 1. 27, 28. Jam. 2. 5.——[m] Mic. 4. 7. ch. 2. 7.——[n] Isa. 60. 21.——[o] Isa. 63. 8. Rev. 14. 5.——[p] Ezek. 34. 28. Mic. 4. 4. & 7. 14.——[q] Isa. 12. 6. & 54. 1. Zech. 2. 10. & 9. 9.——[r] John 1. 49.——[s] Ver. 5. 17. Ezek. 48. 35. Rev. 7. 15. & 21. 3, 4.

Verse 8. Wait ye upon me] Expect the fulfilment of all my promises and threatenings: I am God, and change not.

For all the earth] All the land of Judah.

Verse 9. Will I turn to the people] This promise must refer to the conversion of the Jews under the gospel.

That they may all call] That the whole nation may invoke God by Christ, and serve Him with one consent: not one unbeliever being found among them.

The pure language, שפה ברורה shaphah barurah, may here mean the form of religious worship. They had been before idolaters; now God promises to restore His pure worship among them. The word has certainly this meaning in Psa. lxxxi, 6; where, as God is the Speaker, the words should not be rendered, I heard a language which I understood not: but, I heard a religious confession, which I approved not. See Isa. xix, 18; Hos. xiv, 3; and see Joel ii, 28, where a similar promise is found.

Verse 10. From beyond the rivers of Æthiopia] This may denote both Africa and the southern Arabia. Bochart thinks that Arabia Chusæa is meant; and that the rivers are Besor, which flows into the Mediterranean; Rhinocorura, which flows into the lake Sirbonis; Trajanus Amnis, which flows into the Red sea; and the river Corys. Calmet thinks that these rivers mean the Nile, which by seven mouths falls into the Mediterranean. The Nile comes from Æthiopia, properly so called; and runs through all Egypt, and falls into the sea at that part of Arabia, which the Scripture calls Cush, or Æthiopia.

My dispersed] The Jews scattered through different parts of the world. Shall bring mine offering. Shall acknowledge my mercy in sending them the Messiah, to bless them, by turning every one of them away from their iniquities.

Verse 11. Shalt thou not be ashamed] Thy punishment shall cease, for God shall pardon thy sin.

For then I will take away out of the midst of thee] The wicked Jewish priests and scribes, who blasphemed Christ, and would not come under His yoke.

Because of my holy mountain.] Thou wilt no more boast in my temple, but become meek and lowly in following Him who is meek and lowly by heart, that ye may obtain rest to your souls.

Verse 12. An afflicted and poor people] In such a state will the Jews be found when they shall hear the universal call, and believe in Christ Jesus. Indeed, this is the general state of the Jews in the present day; except a few that are called Jews, who are very rich; and who believe just as much in the God of Jacob, as they do in Jesus Christ.

Verse 13. The remnant of Israel shall not do iniquity] O what a change! And then, how different shall they be from their present selves! Iniquity, lying, and deceit, shall not be found among them! A Jew once said to me, "Tere are shome of you Christians who are making wonderful efforts to convert the Tshews, (Jews.) Ah, dere ish none but Gott Almighty dat can convert a Tshew." Truly I believe him. Only God can convert any man: and if there be a peculiar difficulty to convert any soul, that difficulty must lie in the conversion of the Jew.

Verse 14. Sing, O daughter of Zion] Here is not only a gracious prophetic promise of their restoration from captivity, but of their conversion to God through Christ.

Verse 15. The King of Israel, even the LORD, is in the midst of thee] They have never had a king since the death thou shalt not see evil any more.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

16 In that day [a] it shall be said to Jerusalem, Fear thou not: and to Zion, [b] Let not thine hands be [c] slack.

17 The LORD thy God [d] in the midst of thee is mighty; he will save, [e] he will rejoice over thee with joy; [f] he will rest in his love, he will joy over thee with singing.

18 I will gather them that [g] are sorrowful for the solemn assembly, who are of thee, to whom [h] the reproach of it was a burden.

19 Behold, at that time I will undo all that afflict thee: and I will save her that [i] halteth, and gather her that was driven out; and [k] I will get them praise and fame in every land [l] where they have been put to shame.

A. M. cir. 3374. B. C. cir. 630. Olymp. cir. XXXVII. 3. A. U. C. cir. 124.

20 At that time [m] will I bring you again, even in the time that I gather you: for I will make you a name and a praise among all people of the earth, when I turn back your captivity before your eyes, saith the LORD.

---

[a] Isa. 35. 3, 4.——[b] Heb. 12. 12.——[c] Or, faint.——[d] Ver. 15.——[e] Deut. 30. 9. Isa. 62. 5. & 65. 19. Jer. 32. 41.——[f] Heb. he will be silent.——[g] Lam. 2. 6.——[h] Heb. the burden upon it was reproach.

[i] Ezek. 34. 16. Mic. 4. 6, 7.——[k] Heb. I will set them for a praise.——[l] Heb. of their shame.——[m] Isa. 11. 12. & 27. 12. & 56. 8. Ezek. 28. 25. & 34. 13. & 37. 21. Amos 9. 14.

---

of Zedekiah, and never shall have one till they have the King Messiah to reign among them; and this promise refers to that event.

Verse 16. Fear thou not] Thou shalt have no more captivities, nor national afflictions.

Let not thine hands be slack.] This may refer, first, to the rebuilding of the Temple of God, after the return from Babylon; and, secondly, to their diligence and zeal in the Christian church.

Verse 17. The LORD thy God] יהוה אלהיך yehovah elo-heyca, "The self-existent and eternal Being, who is in covenant with you:"—the character of God in reference to the Jews when standing in the nearest relation to them.

Is mighty] גבור gibbor, is the prevailing One, the all conquering Hero. The character which is given to Christ, Isa. ix, 6. His name shall be called אל גבור el gibbor, the prevailing Almighty God.

He will save] Deliver thee from all the power, from all the guilt, and from all the pollution, of all sins; and when thus saved, he will rejoice over thee with joy, with peculiar gladness. He will rest in his love—he will renew his love. He will shew the same love to you that He did of old to Abraham, Isaac, and Jacob.

He will joy over thee with singing.] The conversion of the Jews will be a subject of peculiar delight and exultation to God Himself! There will be a more than ordinary joy in heaven, when the Jews return to God through Christ. This event cannot be at a great distance: they are as wretched and as ungodly as they can well be. The arms of Christians are open to receive them; and all things are now ready!

Verse 18. I will gather—sorrowful] This may refer to those who, during the captivity, mourned for their former religious assemblies; and who were reproached by their enemies, because they could not enjoy their religious solemnities. See Psa. cxxxvii. By the rivers of Babylon, there we sat down; yea, we wept, when we remembered Zion. For there they that carried us away captive required of us a song, &c. This very circumstance may be the reference here.

Verse 19. I will undo all that afflict thee] They who have persecuted you shall be punished for it. It shews much malignity and baseness of mind, to afflict or reproach those who are lying under the chastising hand of God. This was the conduct of the Edomites, Moabites, and Ammonites, when the Jews were in adversity: and how severely did the Lord punish them for it! And He gave this as the reason for the severity of the punishment.

The first clause here is translated thus by Abp. Newcome: Behold I will work with thee for thy sake at that time. The original is obscure: and it may bear the above sense.

I will save her that halteth] See Micah iv, 6, where there is a parallel place.

And gather her that was driven out] By captivity. The reference may be to renewing the covenant with the Jews, who were considered as an unfaithful spouse, divorced by her husband. I will bring her back to my house.

I will get them praise and fame in every land] They shall become a great, a good, and a useful people. And as they are now a proverb of reproach, full of base wiles, and degrading selfishness; they shall lose this character, and be totally changed; and they shall be as eminent for excellence, as they were before for baseness, in those countries where they had sojourned.

Verse 20. At that time] First, when the seventy years of the Babylonish captivity shall terminate. I will bring you again to your own land: and this restoration shall be a type of their redemption from sin and iniquity; and at this time, and at this only, will they have a name and praise among all the people of the earth, not only among the Jews, but the Gentiles.

Before your eyes] Some read before THEIR eyes; that is, the eyes of all people. On their conversion to Christianity, they shall become as eminent as they ever were in the most illustrious days of their history. Lord, hasten the conversion of Israel! Amen.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET HAGGAI.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book.

Year from the Creation, according to Archbishop Ussher, 3484.—Year of the Julian Period, 4194.—Year from the Flood, 1828.—Year from the vocation of Abram, 1401.—Year since the first celebration of the Olympic games in Elis, by the Idæi Dactyli, 934.—Year since the foundation of the monarchy of the Israelites by the Divine appointment of Saul to the regal dignity, 576.—Year from the foundation of the temple, 492.—Year from the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 456.—Year since the re-establishment of the Olympic games in Elis by Lycurgus, Iphitus, and Cleosthenes, 365.—Year since the conquest of Corœbus at Olympia, usually called the First Olympiad, 257.—First year of the sixty-fifth Olympiad.—Year from the building of Rome, according to the Varronian or generally received computation, 234.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Cato and the Fasti Consulares, 233.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Polybius the historian, 232.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Fabius Pictor, 228.—Year of the æra of Nabonassar, 228.—Year since the destruction of the kingdom of Israel by Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, 202.—Year since the destruction of the kingdom of Judah by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, 68.—Year since the destruction of the Chaldean empire by the Persians, 18.—Year before the birth of Christ, 516.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 520.—Cycle of the Sun, 22.—Cycle of the Moon, 14.—Second year of Darius I, king of Persia.—Twenty-eighth year of Amyntas, king of Macedon.—Seventh year of Demaratus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—Eleventh year of Cleomenes, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Fifteenth year of Tarquinius Superbus, the last king of the Romans. This was about twelve years before the abolition of the regal government of the Romans by the expulsion of the Tarquins.—Confucius, the celebrated Chinese philosopher, is supposed to have flourished about this time.

CHAPTER I.

The prophet reproves the people, and particularly their ruler and high-priest, for negligence and delay in rebuilding the Temple; and tells them that this their neglect was the cause of their having been visited with unfruitful seasons, and other marks of the Divine displeasure, 1—11. He encourages them to set about the work; and, on their doing so, promises that God will be with them, 12—15.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

IN [a] the second year of Darius the king, in the sixth month, in the first day of the month, came the word of the LORD [b] by Haggai the prophet unto [c] Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, [d] governor of Judah, and to [e] Joshua the son of [f] Josedech, the high priest, saying,

2 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, This people say, The time is not come, the time that the LORD's house should be built.

3 Then came the word of the LORD [g] by Haggai the prophet, saying,

4 [h] Is it time for you, O ye, to dwell in your ceiled houses, and this house lie waste?

5 Now therefore thus saith the LORD of hosts; [i] Consider [k] your ways.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

6 Ye have [l] sown much, and bring in little; ye eat, but ye have not enough; ye drink, but ye are not filled with drink; ye clothe you, but there is none warm; and [m] he that earneth wages earneth wages to put it into a bag [n] with holes.

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Consider your ways

8 Go up to the mountain, and bring wood, and build the house; and I will take pleasure in it, and I will be glorified, saith the LORD.

[a] Ezra 4. 24. & 5. 1. Zech. 1. 1.——[b] Heb. by the hand of Haggai.——[c] 1 Chron. 3. 17, 19. Ezra 3. 2. Matt. 1. 12. Luke 3. 27.——[d] Or, captain.——[e] Ezra 3. 2. & 5 2.——[f] 1 Chron. 6. 15.——[g] Ezra 5. 1.

[h] 2 Sam. 7. 2. Psa. 132. 3, &c.——[i] Heb. Set your heart on your ways.——[k] Lam. 3. 40. ver. 7.——[l] Deut. 28. 38. Hos. 4. 10. Mic. 6. 14, 15. ch. 2. 16.——[m] Zech. 8. 10.——[n] Heb. pierced through.

We know nothing of the parentage of Haggai. He was probably born in Babylon, during the captivity; and appears to have been the first prophet sent to the Jews after their return to their own land. He was sent particularly to encourage the Jews to proceed with the building of the Temple, which had been interrupted for about fourteen years. Cyrus, who had published an edict empowering the Jews to return to Jerusalem, and rebuild their city and Temple, revoked this edict in the second year of his reign, through the evil advice of his courtiers, and other enemies of the Jews. After his death Cambyses renewed the prohibition: but after the death of Cambyses, Darius, the son of Hystaspes, renewed the permission; and Haggai was sent to encourage his countrymen to proceed with the work. Darius came to the throne about the year B. C. 521; and published his edict of permission for the Jews to rebuild the city and Temple in the second year of his reign, which was the sixteenth of their return from Babylon.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. In the sixth month] Called Elul by the Hebrews. It was the sixth month of the ecclesiastical year, and the last of the civil year; and answered to a part of our September.

Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel] Who was son of Jeconiah, king of Judah, and of the family of David; and exercised the post of a governor among the people, but not over them; for both he and they were under the Persian government: but they were permitted to have Zerubbabel for their own governor, and Joshua for their high priest; and these regulated all matters relative to their peculiar political and ecclesiastical government. But it appears from Ezra v, 3, that Tatnai, the governor on this side the river, had them under his cognizance. None of their own governors was absolute. The Persians permitted them to live under their own laws and civil regulations: but they always considered them as a colony over which they had a continual superintendance.

Joshua the son of Josedech] And son of Seraiah, who was high-priest in the time of Zedekiah, and was carried into captivity by Nebuchadnezzar, 1 Chron. vi, 15. But Seraiah was slain at Riblah, by order of Nebuchadnezzar, 2 Kings xxv, 18—21.

Verse 2. The time is not come] They thought that the seventy years spoken of by Jeremiah was not yet completed, and it would be useless to attempt to rebuild until that period had arrived. But Abp. Ussher has shewn that, from the commencement of the last siege of Jerusalem unto this time, precisely sixty-nine years had been completed.

Verse 4. Is it time for you] If the time be not come to rebuild the Temple, it cannot be come for you to build yourselves comfortable houses:—but ye are rebuilding your houses; why then do ye not rebuild the house of the Lord? The foundation of the Temple had been laid fourteen years before, and some considerable progress made in the building; and it had been lying waste, in that unfinished state, to the present time.

Verse 5. Consider your ways.] Is it fit that you should be building yourselves elegant houses, and neglect a place for the worship of that God who has restored you from captivity?

Verse 6. Ye have sown much] God will not bless you in any labour of your hands, unless you rebuild His Temple and restore His worship. This verse contains a series of proverbs; no less than five in the compass of a few lines.

Verse 8. Go up to the mountain and bring wood] Go to Lebanon and get timber. In the second year of the return from the captivity, they had procured cedar trees from Lebanon, and brought them to Joppa; and had hired masons and carpenters from the Tyrians and Sidonians: but that labour had been nearly lost by the long suspension of the building. Ezra iii, 7.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

9 [a] Ye looked for much, and, lo, it came to little; and when ye brought it home, [b] I did [c] blow upon it. Why? saith the LORD of hosts. Because of mine house that is waste, and ye run every man unto his own house.

10 Therefore [d] the heaven over you is stayed from dew, and the earth is stayed from her fruit.

11 And I [e] called for a drought upon the land, and upon the mountains, and upon the corn, and upon the new wine, and upon the oil, and upon that which the ground bringeth forth, and upon men, and upon cattle, and [f] upon all the labour of the hands.

12 [g] Then Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, and Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, with all the remnant of the people, obeyed the voice of the LORD their God, and the words of Haggai the prophet, as the LORD their God had sent him, and the people did fear before the LORD.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

13 Then spake Haggai the LORD's messenger in the LORD's message unto the people, saying, [h] I am with you, saith the LORD.

14 And [i] the LORD stirred up the spirit of Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, [k] governor of Judah, and the spirit of Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, and the spirit of all the remnant of the people; [l] and they came and did work in the house of the LORD of hosts, their God, 15 In the four and twentieth day of the sixth month, in the second year of Darius the king.

---

[a] Ch. 2. 16.——[b] Ch. 2. 17.——[c] Or, blow it away.——[d] Lev. 26. 19. Deut. 28. 23. 1 Kings 8. 35.——[e] 1 Kings 17. 1. 2 Kings 8. 1.

[f] Ch. 2. 17.——[g] Ezra 5. 2.——[h] Matt. 28. 20. Rom. 8. 31.——[i] 2 Chron. 36. 22. Ezra 1. 1.——[k] Ch. 2. 21.——[l] Ezra 5. 2, 8.

Verse 9. Ye looked for much] Ye made great pretensions at first: but they are come to nothing. Ye did a little in the beginning:—but so scantily and unwillingly that I could not but reject it.

Ye run every man unto his own house.] To rebuild and adorn it: and God's house is neglected!

Verse 10. Therefore the heaven over you is stayed from dew] It appears from the following verse that God had sent a drought upon the land, which threatened them with scarcity and famine.

Verse 12. Then Zerubbabel] The threatening of Haggai had its proper effect. The civil governor, the high priest, and the whole of the people, united together to do the work. When the authority of God is acknowledged, His words will be carefully obeyed.

Verse 13. Then spake Haggai] He was the Lord's messenger, and he came with the Lord's message; and, consequently, he came with authority. He is called מלאך יהוה malak yehovah, the angel of Jehovah, just as the pastors of the seven Asiatic churches are called ANGELS of the churches, Rev. i, 2.

I am with you, saith the LORD.] Here was high encouragement. What may not a man do when God is his Helper!

Verse 14. And the LORD stirred up the spirit] It is not only necessary that the judgment should be enlightened, but the soul must be invigorated by the Spirit of God, before any good work can be effectually done.

Verse 15. In the four and twentieth day] Haggai received his commission on the first day of this month; and by the twenty-fourth day he had so completely succeeded that he had the satisfaction to see the whole people engaged heartily in the Lord's work: they left their own houses to build that of the Lord. Here was a faithful reprover, and he found obedient ears; and the Lord's work was done, for the people had a mind to work.

CHAPTER II.

When this prophecy was uttered (about four years before the Temple was finished, and sixty-eight after the former one was destroyed,) it appears that some old men among the Jews were greatly dispirited on account of its being so much inferior in magnificence to that of Solomon. Compare Ezra iii, 12. To raise the spirits of the people, and encourage them to proceed with the work, the Prophet assures them that the glory of the second Temple should be greater than that of the first, alluding perhaps to the glorious doctrines which should be preached in it by Jesus Christ and His apostles, 1—9. He then shews the people that the oblations brought by their priests could not sanctify them while they were unclean by their neglect of the Temple; and, to convince them that the difficult times they had experienced during that neglect, proceeded from this cause, he promises fruitful seasons from that day forward, 10—19. The concluding verses contain a prediction of the mighty revolutions that should take place by the setting up of the kingdom of Christ, under the type of Zerubbabel, 20—23. As the time which elapsed between the date of the prophecy and the dreadful concussion of the nations is termed in verse 6, A LITTLE WHILE, the words may likewise have reference to some temporal revolutions then near, such as the commotions of Babylon in the reign of Darius, the Macedonian conquests in Persia, and the wars between the successors of Alexander: but the aspect of the prophecy is more directly to the amazing victories of the Romans, who, in the time of Haggai and Zechariah, were on the VERY EVE of their successful career, and in the lapse of a few centuries subjugated the whole habitable globe; and therefore, in a very good sense, God may be said by these people to have shaken "the heavens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land;" and thus to have prepared the way for the opening of the Gospel dispensation. See Heb. xii, 25—29. Others have referred this prophecy to the period of our Lord's second advent, to which there is no doubt it is also applicable; and when it will be in the most signal manner fulfilled. That the convulsion of the nations introducing this most stupendous event will be very great and terrible is sufficiently plain from Isaiah, chap. xxxiv, xxxv, as well as from many other passages of Holy Writ.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

IN the seventh month, in the one and twentieth day of the month, came the word of the LORD [a] by the prophet Haggai, saying,

2 Speak now to Zerubbabel the son of Shealtiel, governor of Judah, and to Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest, and to the residue of the people, saying,

3 [b] Who is left among you that saw this house in her first glory? and how do ye see it now? [c] is it not in your eyes in comparison of it as nothing?

4 Yet now, [d] be strong, O Zerubbabel, saith the LORD; and be strong, O Joshua, son of Josedech, the high priest; and be strong, all ye people of the land, saith the LORD, and work: for I am with you, saith the LORD of hosts:

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

5 [e] According to the word that I covenanted with you when ye came out of Egypt, so [f] my Spirit remaineth among you: [g] fear ye not.

6 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; [h] Yet once, it is a little while, and [i] I will shake the

[a] Heb. by the hand of.—[b] Ezra 3. 12.—[c] Zech. 4. 10.—[d] Zech. 8. 9.—[e] Exod. 29. 45, 46.—[f] Neh. 9. 20. Isa. 63. 11.—[g] Isa. 7. 4.—[h] Ver. 21. Heb. 12. 26.—[i] Joel 3. 16.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. In the seventh month] This was a new message; and intended to prevent discouragement, and excite them to greater diligence in their work.

Verse 3. Who is left among you that saw this house in her first glory?] Who of you has seen the Temple built by Solomon? The foundation of the present house had been laid about fifty-three years after the destruction of the Temple built by Solomon; and though this prophecy was uttered fifteen years after the foundation of this second Temple, yet there might still survive some of those who had seen the Temple of Solomon.

Is it not in your eyes] Most certainly the Jews at this time had neither men nor means to make any such splendid building as that erected by Solomon. The present was as nothing when compared with the former.

Verse 4. Yet now be strong] Do not let this discourage you. The chief glory of the Temple is not its splendid building, but my presence; and as I covenanted to be with you when ye came out of Egypt, so I will fulfil my covenant, for my Spirit remaineth among you, fear not: ver. 5. What is the most splendid cathedral, if God be not in it, influencing all by His presence and Spirit! But He will not be in it unless there be a messenger of the Lord there,—and, unless he deliver the Lord's message.

Verse 6. Yet once, it is a little while, and I will shake the heavens] When the Law was given on Mount Sinai, there was an earthquake that shook the whole mountain, Exod. xix, 18. "The political or religious revolutions which were to be effected in the world, or both, are here," says Abp. Newcome, "referred to; compare ver. 21, 22; Matt. xxiv, 29; Heb. xii, 26—28. The political ones began in the overthrow of the Persian monarchy by Alexander, within two centuries after this prediction: and, if the Messiah's kingdom be meant, which is my opinion, this was erected in somewhat more than five centuries after the second year of Darius; a short period of time, when compared with that which elapsed from the creation to the giving of the Law; or, from the giving of the Law to the coming of the Messiah's kingdom. It must be understood that the word אחת achath, once, has a clear sense, if understood of the evangelical age; for many political revolutions succeeded, as the conquest of heavens, and the earth, and the sea, and the dry land;

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

7 And I will shake all nations, [a] and the desire of all nations shall come; and I will fill this house with glory, saith the LORD of hosts.

8 The silver is mine, and the gold is mine, saith the LORD of hosts.

9 [b] The glory of this latter house shall be greater than of the former, saith the LORD of hosts: and in this place will I give [c] peace, saith the LORD of hosts.

10 In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD by Haggai the prophet, saying,

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

11 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [d] Ask now the priests concerning the law, saying, 12 If one bear holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and with his skirt do touch bread, or pottage, or wine, or oil, or any meat, shall it be holy? And the priests answered and said, No.

[a] Gen. 49. 10. Mal. 3. 1.——[b] John 1. 14.——[c] Psa. 85. 8, 9. Luke 2. 14. Eph. 2. 14.——[d] Lev. 10. 10, 11. Deut. 33. 10. Mal. 2. 7.

Darius Codomanus, and the various fortunes of Alexander's successors: but only one great and final religious revolution." —Newcome.

Verse 7. And the desire of all nations shall come] The present Hebrew Text is as follows, ובאו חמדת כל הגוים. This is a difficult place if understood of a person: but חמדת chemdath, desire, cannot well agree with באו bau, they shall come. It is true that some learned men suppose that חמדות chemdoth, desirable things, may have been the original reading: but this is supported by no MS. nor is באו found in the singular number in any. It is generally understood of the desirable or valuable things which the different nations should bring into the Temple; and it is certain that many rich presents were brought to this Temple. All are puzzled with it. But the principal difficulty lies in the verb ובאו u-bau, they shall come. If we found ובאה חמדת u-baah chemdath, in the singular, then it would read as in our Text, And the desire of all nations shall come: but no such reading appears in any MS.; nor is it fairly acknowledged except by the Vulgate, which reads, Et veniet desideratus cunctis gentibus, "And that which is desired;" or, "the desired Person shall come to all nations." In ver. 7, God says He will shake or stir up all nations, that these nations shall bring their desirable things; that the house shall be filled with God's glory; that the silver and gold which these nations are represented as bringing by way of gifts are the Lord's; and that the glory of this latter house shall exceed the former. Bp. Chandler labours to vindicate the present translation: but he makes rash assertions, and is abandoned by the Hebrew Text. That בא ba, to come, is often used in the sense of bring, and that חמדת chemdath, desire, may be considered as the plural for חמדות, or the point holem, instead of the ו vau, and thus mean desirable things, will not be denied by those who are acquainted with the genius and construction of the Hebrew language. Bp. Chandler thinks that בא he came, cannot be used of things, but of persons only. Here he is widely mistaken, for it is used of days perpetually; and of the ark, 2 Sam. vi, 9; and of mounts coming against Jerusalem, Jer. xxxii, 24; and of trees coming to adorn the Temple, Isa. lx, 13; and of silver and gold coming into the Temple, Josh. vi, 19; and Jer. vi, 20, Why doth incense come to me? See Abp. Secker's Notes. I cannot see how the words can apply to Jesus Christ, even if the construction were less embarrassed than it is; because I cannot see how He could be called THE DESIRE OF ALL NATIONS. The whole seems to be a metaphorical description of the church of Christ; and of His filling it with all the excellencies of the Gentile world, when the fulness of the Gentiles shall be brought in.

Verse 9. And in this place will I give peace] שלום shalom, a peace-offering, as well as peace itself; or Jesus Christ, who is called the Prince of peace, through whom peace is proclaimed between God and man, between man and his fellows; and through whom peace is established in the disconsolate soul. And at this Temple, this peace was first promulgated and proclaimed.

But it is said that the glory of this latter house shall be greater than of the former. Now this cannot be said, because Jesus Christ made His personal appearance in that Temple, or rather in that built by Herod: for though we allow that Jesus Christ is equal with God, we do not grant that he is greater. Now the first Temple was the dwelling place of God: here He manifested His glory between the cherubim, and it was His constant residence for more than four hundred years. But the glory of this latter house was greater, because that, under it, the grand scheme of human salvation was exhibited, and the redemption price paid down for a lost world. As all probably applies to the Christian church, the real house of God, its glory was most certainly greater than any glory which was ever possessed by that of the Jews. See on ver. 22, 23.

Verse 10. In the four and twentieth day of the ninth month] Three months after they had begun to rebuild the Temple, Haggai is ordered to go and put two questions to the priests. 1. If one bear holy flesh in the skirt of his garment, and he touch any thing with his skirt,—is that thing made holy? The priests answered, No! ver. 12. 2. If one has touched a dead body, and thereby became unclean,—does he communicate his uncleanness to whatever he may touch? And the priests answered, YES! ver. 13.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

13 Then said Haggai, If one that is [a] unclean by a dead body touch any of these, shall it be unclean? And the priests answered and said, It shall be unclean.

14 Then answered Haggai, and said, [b] So is this people, and so is this nation before me, saith the LORD; and so is every work of their hands; and that which they offer there is unclean.

15 And now, I pray you, [c] consider from this day and upward, from before a stone was laid upon a stone in the temple of the LORD:

16 Since those days were, [d] when one came to a heap of twenty measures, there were but ten: when one came to the press-fat for to draw out fifty vessels out of the press, there were but twenty.

17 [e] I smote you with blasting and with mildew and with hail [f] in all the labours of your hands; [g] yet ye turned not to me, saith the LORD.

18 Consider now from this day and upward, from the four and twentieth day of the ninth month, even from [h] the day that the foundation of the LORD's temple was laid, consider it.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

19 [i] Is the seed yet in the barn? yea, as yet the vine, and the fig tree, and the pomegranate, and the olive tree, hath not brought forth: from this day will I bless you.

20 And again the word of the LORD came unto Haggai in the four and twentieth day of the month, saying,

21 Speak to Zerubbabel, [k] governor of Judah, saying, [l] I will shake the heavens and the earth;

22 And [m] I will overthrow the throne of kingdoms, and I will destroy the strength of the kingdoms of the heathen; and [n] I will overthrow the chariots, and those that ride in them; and the horses and their riders shall come down, every one by the sword of his brother.

23 In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, will I take thee, O Zerubbabel, my servant, the son of Shealtiel, saith the LORD, [o] and will make thee as a signet: for [p] I have chosen thee, saith the LORD of hosts.

---

[a] Numb. 19 11.——[b] Titus 1. 15.——[c] Ch. 1. 5.——[d] Ch. 1. 6, 9. Zech. 8. 10.——[e] Deut. 28. 22. 1 Kings 8. 37. ch. 1. 9. Amos 4. 9.——[f] Ch. 1. 11.——[g] Jer. 5. 3. Amos 4. 6, 8, 9, 10, 11.

[h] Zech. 8. 9.——[i] Zech. 8. 12.——[k] Ch. 1. 14.——[l] Ver. 6, 7. Heb. 12. 26.——[m] Dan. 2. 44. Matt. 24. 7.——[n] Mic. 5. 10. Zech. 4. 6. & 9. 10.——[o] Cant. 8. 6. Jer. 22. 24. Ecclus. 49. 11.——[p] Isa. 42. 1. & 43. 10.

Verse 14. Then answered Haggai—so is this people] As an unclean man communicates his uncleanness to every thing he touches, so are ye unclean; and whatever ye have hitherto done is polluted in the sight of God. For your neglect of my Temple has made you unclean, as if you had contracted legal pollution by touching a dead body.

Verse 16. Since those days were] I have shewn my displeasure against you, by sending blasting and mildew; and so poor have been your crops, that a heap of corn which should have produced twenty measures, produced only ten; and that quantity of grapes which in other years would have produced fifty measures, through their poverty, smallness, &c, produced only twenty. And this has been the case ever since the first stone was laid in this Temple: for your hearts were not right with me, and therefore I blasted you in all the labours of your hands; and yet ye have not turned to me, ver. 17.

Verse 18. Consider now from this day] I will now change my conduct towards you: from this day that ye have begun heartily to rebuild my Temple, and restore my worship, I will bless you. Whatever you sow, whatever you plant, shall be blessed; your land shall be fruitful, and ye shall have abundant crops of all sorts.

Verse 20. Again the word of the LORD came] This was a second communication in the same day.

Verse 21. I will shake the heavens and the earth] Calmet supposes that the invasion of Cambyses, and his death, are what the prophet has in view, by this shaking of the heavens and the earth: but this invasion and defeat happened three years before they had begun to work at the Temple;—and how could it be made a matter of interest to Zerubbabel? Calmet answers this, by translating the words in the past tense; and shews that the fact was recalled to Zerubbabel's attention, to fix his confidence in God, &c. Bp. Newcome says, we may well understand this and the twenty-second verse of the calamity undergone by Babylon in the reign of Darius; of the Macedonian conquests in Persia; and of the wars which the successors of Alexander waged against each other: and others understand it of the Romans.

Verse 23. In that day, saith the LORD] Some think, says this same learned writer, that Zerubbabel is put here for his people and posterity: but it may well be said that the commotions foretold began in the rebellion of Babylon, which Darius besieged and took; and exercised great cruelties upon its inhabitants. Herod. lib. iii, sect. 220. Justin. i, 10. Prideaux places this event in the fifth year of Darius; others, with more probability, in the eighth year. Compare Zech. ii, 9.

And will make thee as a signet] I will exalt thee to high dignity, power, and trust, of which the seal was the instrument or sign in those days. Thou shalt be under my peculiar care, and shalt be to me very precious. See Jer. xxii, 24; Cant. viii, 6; and see the Notes on these two places.

For I have chosen thee] He had an important and difficult work to do, and it was necessary that he should be assured of God's especial care and protection during the whole.

On the three last verses of this prophecy a sensible and pious correspondent sends me the following illustration, which I cheerfully insert. Though in many respects different from that given above, yet I believe that the kingdom of Christ is particularly designed in this prophecy.

"I think there is an apparent difficulty in this passage, because the wars of the Persians and Babylonians were not so interesting to the rising commonwealth of the Jews, as many subsequent events of less note in the world, but which were more directly levelled at their own national prosperity; and yet neither the one nor the other could be termed 'a shaking of the heavens and the earth, and an overthrow of the throne of kingdoms.'

"I know not if the following view may be admitted as an explanation of this difficult passage. I take 'the shaking of the heavens and earth' here, (as in ver. 6,) to have a more distant and comprehensive meaning than can belong to Zerubbabel's time, or to his immediate posterity; and that it extends not only to the overthrow of kingdoms then existing, but of the future great monarchies of the world; and not excepting even the civil and ecclesiastical establishment of the Jews themselves. For I take 'the heavens' in the prophetic language uniformly to design the true church, and never the superstitions and idols of the nations.

"What then are we to understand by the promise made to Zerubbabel, 'I will make thee as a signet.' In the first place, the restitution of the religious and civil polity of the people of Israel, conformably to the promises afterwards given in the four first chapters of Zechariah. And, secondly, as the royal signet is the instrument by which kings give validity to laws, and thereby unity and consistence to their empire; so Jehovah, the God and King of Israel, condescends to promise He will employ Zerubbabel as His instrument of gathering and uniting the people again as a distinguished nation; and that such should be the permanency of their political existence, that whilst other nations and mighty empires should be overthrown, and their very name blotted out under heaven, the Jews should ever remain a distinct people, even in the wreck of their own government, and the loss of all which rendered their religion splendid and attractive.

"In confirmation of this interpretation, I would refer to the threatening denounced against Jeconiah (called Coniah, Jer. xxii,) the last reigning king of Judah, and the progenitor of Zerubbabel. I apprehend I may be authorized to read Jer. xxii, 24, thus:—'As I live, saith the Lord, though Coniah the son of Jehoiakim, king of Judah, be the signet upon my right hand, yet will I pluck thee thence, and I will give thee into the hand of them that seek thy life,' &c.

"If it be considered that the kings of Judah were in an especial and peculiar manner the delegates of Jehovah, governing in His name and by His authority; a peculiar propriety will appear in their being resembled to signets, (or royal seals contained in rings.) Compare Gen. xli, 42; Esther iii, 10, 12; chap. viii, 2, 8; Daniel vi, 7. And the promise to Zerubbabel will be equivalent to those which clearly predict the preservation of the Jewish people by the Divine command, see Zech. chap. ii; and the faithfulness of God to His covenant concerning the Messiah, who should be born of the seed of Abraham, and in the family of David, of whose throne He was the rightful Proprietor.

"According to this view, by the promise 'In that day,—I will make thee as a signet,' &c, must be understood that the preservation of the Jews as a distinct people, when all the great empires of the heathen were overthrown, would manifest the honour now conferred on Zerubbabel as the instrument of their restoration after the Babylonish captivity. Thus the promise to Abraham, Gen. xii,—'I will make of thee a great nation,—and in thee shall all families of the earth be blessed,' evidently referred to a very distant future period; and the honour connected with it could not be enjoyed by Abraham during his mortal life."

M. A. B.

I think, however, that we have lived to see the spirit of this prophecy fulfilled. The earth has been shaken; another shaking, and time shall be swallowed up in eternity.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET HAGGAI.

INTRODUCTION

TO THE BOOK OF

THE PROPHET ZECHARIAH.

ZECHARIAH, the eleventh of the Twelve Lesser Prophets, was son of Berechiah, and grandson of Iddo. He returned from Babylon with Zerubbabel; and began to prophesy in the second year of the reign of Darius, son of Hystaspes, in the year of the world 3484; before Christ, 516; before the vulgar æra, 520; in the eighth month of the holy year; and two months after Haggai had begun to prophesy.

These two prophets, with united zeal, encouraged at the same time the people to go on with the work of the Temple, which had been discontinued for some years.

The time and place of the birth of Zechariah are unknown. Some will have him to have been born at Babylon, during the captivity; others think he was born at Jerusalem, before the tribes of Judah and Benjamin were carried away. Some maintain that he was a priest: but others affirm that he was no priest. Many say he was the immediate son of Iddo; others believe, with much more reason, that he was son of Berechiah, and grandson of Iddo.

He has been confounded with one Zechariah, the son of Barachiah, who lived in the time of Isaiah; and with Zechariah, the father of John the Baptist; which opinion is plainly incongruous. Lastly, he has been thought to be Zechariah the son of Barachiah, whom our Saviour mentions, and says he was killed between the temple and the altar; though no such thing is any where said of our prophet. A tomb is shewn to this day at the foot of the Mount of Olives which, it is pretended, belongs to the prophet Zechariah. Dorotheus maintains that he was buried in a place called Bethariah, one hundred and fifty furlongs from Jerusalem.

Zechariah is the longest and the most obscure of all the Twelve Lesser Prophets. His style is interrupted, and without connexion. His prophecies concerning the Messiah are more particular and express than those of the other prophets. Some modern critics, as Mede and Hammond, have been of opinion that the ninth, tenth, and eleventh Chapters of this prophet were written by Jeremiah; because in Matthew, chap. xxvii, 9, 10, under the name of Jeremiah, we find quoted Zechariah (chap. xi, 12;) and as the aforesaid Chapters make but one continued Discourse, they concluded from thence that all three belonged to Jeremiah. But it is much more natural to suppose that by some unlucky mistake the name of Jeremiah has slipt into the Text of St. Matthew instead of that of Zechariah.

The Prophet Zechariah exactly foretold the siege of Babylon by Darius, son of Hystaspes. This prince laid siege to this rebellious city at the beginning of the fifth year of his reign, and reduced it at the end of twenty months. The prophets Isaiah and Jeremiah had foretold this calamity, and had admonished the Jews that inhabited there to make their escape when they perceived the time draw nigh. Isaiah says to them, Go ye forth of Babylon, flee from the Chaldeans; with a voice of singing declare ye, tell this, utter it even to the end of the earth; say ye, the Lord hath redeemed his servant Jacob. And Jeremiah says, Remove out of the midst of Babylon, and go forth out of the land of the Chaldeans, and be as the he-goats before the flocks. And elsewhere, Flee out of the midst of Babylon, and deliver every man his soul; be not cut off in her iniquity: for this is the time of the Lord's vengeance, He will render unto her a recompence. Lastly, Zechariah, a little before the time of her fall, writes thus to the Jews, that were still in this city: Ho! ho! come forth and flee from the land of the north, saith the Lord; for I have spread you abroad as the four winds of heaven, saith the Lord. Deliver thyself, O Sion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon. For thus saith the Lord of hosts, after the glory hath he sent me unto the nations which spoiled you, for he that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of His eye. For, behold, I will shake mine hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to their servants; and ye shall know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me.

It is probable that the Jews took advantage of these admonitions, and returned from Babylon into their own country; or, at least, withdrew into a place of more security till the city was taken. We do not hear, either from the history or the prophecies, that they suffered any thing by this siege, or that Darius, son of Hystaspes, bore them any grudge for the revolt of Babylon; which seems to indicate that they had no part in it.

The Mohammedans do not distinguish between the prophet Zechariah, and Zachariah, the father of John the Baptist. Some of them make him to be descended from David, and others from Levi. By an anachronism that is still more insupportable, these confound Mary, the mother of Jesus Christ, with Mary, or Miriam, the sister of Moses, which they derive even from the Koran itself.

The Author of Tarik Montekhib relates, that when Jesus Christ was born of the Virgin, the prophet Zechariah could not believe that a child could be born without a father; and that, declaring his sentiments upon this point, the Jews entertained a suspicion of him, and obliged him to betake himself to flight. He withdrew; and hid himself in a hollow oak, which the Jews sawed in two.

Such is the ignorance of the Mussulmans in the history both of the Old and New Testaments.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET ZECHARIAH.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book.

Year from the Creation, according to Archbishop Ussher, 3484.—Year of the Julian period, 4194.—Year of the Jewish æra of the world, 3241.—Year from the Flood, 1828.—Year from the vocation of Abram, 1401.—Year since the first celebration of the Olympic games in Elis, by the Idæi Dactyli, 934.—Year since the destruction of Troy, according to the general account, 664.—Year since the foundation of the monarchy of the Israelites by the Divine appointment of Saul to the regal dignity, 576.—Year from the foundation of Solomon's Temple, 492.—Year from the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 456.—Year since the re-establishment of the Olympic games in Elis by Lycurgus, Iphitus, and Cleosthenes, 365.—Year since the conquest of Corœbus at Olympia, usually called the First Olympiad, 257.—First year of the sixty-fifth Olympiad.—Year from the building of Rome, according to the Varronian or generally received computation, 234.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Cato and the Fasti Consulares, 233.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Polybius the historian, 232.—Year from the building of Rome, according to Fabius Pictor, 228.—Year of the æra of Nabonassar, 228.—Year since the destruction of the kingdom of Israel by Shalmaneser, king of Assyria, 202.—Year since the destruction of the kingdom of Judah by Nebuchadnezzar, king of Babylon, 68.—Year since the destruction of the Chaldean empire by the Persians, 18.—Year before the birth of Christ, 516.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 520.—Cycle of the Sun, 22.—Cycle of the Moon, 14.——Second year of Darius I, king of Persia.—Twenty-eighth year of Amyntas, king of Macedon.—Seventh year of Demaratus, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Proclidæ.—Eleventh year of Cleomenes, king of Lacedæmon, of the family of the Eurysthenidæ.—Fifteenth year of Tarquinius Superbus, the last king of the Romans. This was about twelve years before the commencement of the consular government. According to some chronologers this was the age of Confucius.

CHAPTER I.

The Prophet earnestly exhorts the people to repentance, that they may escape such punishments as had been inflicted on their fathers, 1—6. The vision of the horses, with the signification, 7—11. The angel of the Lord successfully intercedes in behalf of Jerusalem, 12—17. The vision of the four horns, and of the four carpenters, 18—21.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

IN the eighth month, [a] in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD [b] unto Zechariah, the son of Berechiah, the son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

2 The LORD hath been [c] sore displeased with your fathers.

3 Therefore say thou unto them, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Turn [d] ye unto me, saith the LORD of hosts, and I will turn unto you, saith the LORD of hosts.

4 Be ye not as your fathers, [e] unto whom the former prophets have cried, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [f] Turn ye now from your evil ways, and from your evil doings: but they did not hear, nor hearken unto me, saith the LORD.

5 Your fathers, where are they? and the prophets, do they live for ever?

6 But [g] my words and my statutes, which I commanded my servants the prophets, did they not [h] take hold of your fathers? and they returned and said, [i] Like as the LORD of hosts thought to do unto us, according to our ways, and according to our doings, so hath he dealt with us.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

7 Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month, which is the month Sebat, in the second year of Darius, came the word of the LORD unto Zechariah, the Son of Berechiah, the Son of Iddo the prophet, saying,

8 I saw by night, and behold [k] a man riding upon a red horse, and he stood among the myrtle trees that were in the bottom; and behind him were there [l] red horses, [m] speckled, and white.

9 Then said I, O my lord, what are these? And the angel that talked with me, said unto me, I will shew thee what these be.

10 And the man that stood among the myrtle

[a] Ezra 4. 24. Hag. 1. 1.——[b] Ezra 5. 1. Matt. 23. 35.——[c] Heb. with displeasure.——[d] Jer. 25. 5. & 35. 15. Mic. 7. 19. Mal. 3. 7. Luke 15. 20. Jam. 4. 8.——[e] 2 Chron. 36. 15, 16.

[f] Isa. 31. 6. Jer. 3. 12. & 18. 11. Ezek. 18. 30. Hos. 14. 1.——[g] Isa. 55. 1.——[h] Or, overtake.——[i] Lam. 1. 18. & 2. 17.——[k] Josh. 5. 13. Rev. 6. 4.——[l] Ch. 6. 2—7.——[m] Or, bay.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. In the eighth month, in the second year of Darius] This was Darius Hystaspes; and from this date we find that Zechariah began to prophesy, just two months after Haggai, son of Iddo. There are a number of various readings on this name, עדו Iddo, and עדוא Iddoa, both in MSS. and in Editions: but they are only different ways of writing the same name.

Verse 2. The LORD hath been sore displeased with your fathers.] For their ingratitude, idolatry, iniquity, and general rebellion.

Verse 3. Turn ye unto me] This shews that they had power to return, if they would but use it.

And I will turn unto you] I will shew you mercy, and grant you salvation, if you will use the grace I have already given you. Men are lost, because they turn not unto God: but no man is lost because he had not power to return. God gives this, and He will require it. See ver. 1.

Verse 5. Your fathers, where are they?] Israel has been destroyed and ruined in the bloody wars with the Assyrians; and Judah in those with the Chaldeans.

The prophets, do they live for ever?] They also, who spoke unto your fathers, are dead: but their predictions remain; and the events, which have taken place according to those predictions, prove that God sent them.

Verse 6. Did they not take hold of your fathers] Every thing happened according to the predictions, and they were obliged to acknowledge this; and yet they would not turn from their evil way.

Verse 7. Upon the four and twentieth day of the eleventh month] This revelation was given about three months after the former, and two months after they had recommenced the building of the Temple.

Sebat] Answers to a part of our February. See Hag. ii, 18.

Verse 8. I saw by night] The time was emblematical of the affliction under which the Jews groaned.

A man] An angel in the form of a man;—supposed to have been the Lord Jesus; who seems to have appeared often in this way as a prelude to his incarnation; see Jer. v, 13, Ezek. i, 26, Dan. vii, 13, and x, 5. The same probably that appeared to Joshua with a drawn sword, as the Captain of the Lord's host. Josh. v, 13—15.

A red horse] An emblem of war and bloodshed.

Among the myrtle trees] This tree was an emblem of peace; intimating that all war was shortly to end. But some think these trees are here the emblem of the true followers of Christ.

And behind him were there red horses] Probably pointing out the different orders of angels in the heavenly host, which are employed by Christ in the defence of his church. The different colours may point out the gradations in power, authority, and excellence, of the angelic natures which are employed between Christ and men.

Verse 9. O my lord, what are these?] The angel here mentioned was distinct from those mentioned in the eighth verse;—he who talked with the prophet, ver. 13.

Verse 10. The man that stood among the myrtle trees] The Angel of the covenant, as above, ver. 11.

Whom the LORD hath sent] Who are constituted guardians of the land.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

trees answered and said, [a] These are they whom the LORD hath sent to walk to and fro through the earth.

11 [b] And they answered the angel of the LORD that stood among the myrtle trees, and said, We have walked to and fro through the earth, and, behold, all the earth sitteth still, and is at rest.

12 Then the angel of the LORD answered and said, [c] O LORD of hosts, how long wilt thou not have mercy on Jerusalem and on the cities of Judah, against which thou hast had indignation [d] these threescore and ten years?

13 And the LORD answered the angel that talked with me with [e] good words and comfortable words.

14 So the angel that communed with me said unto me, Cry thou, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; I am [f] jealous for Jerusalem and for Zion with a great jealousy.

15 And I am very sore displeased with the heathen that are at ease: for [g] I was but a little displeased, and they helped forward the affliction.

16 Therefore thus saith the LORD; [h] I am returned to Jerusalem with mercies: my house shall be built in it, saith the LORD of hosts, and [i] a line shall be stretched forth upon Jerusalem.

A. M. 3484. B. C. 520. Ol. LXV. 1. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 15.

17 Cry yet, saying, Thus saith the LORD of hosts; My cities through [k] prosperity shall yet be spread abroad; [l] and the LORD shall yet comfort Zion, and [m] shall yet choose Jerusalem.

18 Then lifted I up mine eyes, and saw, and behold four horns.

19 And I said unto the angel that talked with me, What be these? And he answered me, [n] These are the horns which have scattered Judah, Israel, and Jerusalem.

20 And the LORD shewed me four carpenters.

21 Then said I, What come these to do? And he spake, saying, These are the horns which have scattered Judah, so that no man did lift up his head: but these are come to fray them, to cast out the horns of the Gentiles, which [o] lifted up their horn over the land of Judah to scatter it.

---

[a] Heb. 1. 14.——[b] Psa. 103. 20, 21.——[c] Psa. 102. 13. Rev. 6. 10.——[d] Jer. 25. 11, 12. Dan. 9. 2. ch. 7. 5.——[e] Jer. 29. 10.——[f] Joel 3. 18. ch. 8. 2.——[g] Isa. 47. 6.

[h] Isa. 12. 1. & 54. 8. ch. 2. 10. & 8. 3.——[i] Ch. 2. 1, 2.——[k] Heb. good.——[l] Isa. 51. 3.——[m] Isa. 14. 1. ch. 2. 12. & 3. 2.——[n] Ezra 4. 1, 4, 7. & 5. 3.——[o] Psa. 75. 4, 5.

Verse 11. All the earth sitteth still, and is at rest.] There is general peace through the Persian empire, and other states connected with Judea: but the Jews are still in affliction; their city is not yet restored, nor their temple built.

Verse 12. Then the angel of the LORD] He who was among the myrtles,—the Lord Jesus.

O LORD of hosts, how long] Jesus Christ was not only the Lamb slain from the foundation of the world, but was always the sole Mediator and Intercessor between God and man.

These threescore and ten years?] This cannot mean the duration of the captivity, for that was nearly twenty years past. It must mean simply the time that had elapsed from the destruction of the Temple to the time in which the angel spoke. As the Temple was destroyed in the nineteenth year of Nebuchadnezzar, and this vision took place in the second year of Darius, the term of seventy years was completed, or nearly so, between these two periods.

Verse 13. The LORD answered the angel] And the angel told the prophet that the answer was gracious and comfortable. This answer is given in the next verse.

Verse 14. I am jealous for Jerusalem] I have for them a strong affection; and indignation against their enemies.

Verse 15. I was but a little displeased] I was justly displeased with my people, and I gave their enemies a commission against them: but they carried this far beyond my design by oppression and cruelty; and now they shall suffer in their turn.

Verse 16. I am returned to Jerusalem with mercies] Before, He came to them in judgments; and the principal mercy is,—the house of the Lord shall be rebuilt, and the ordinances of the Lord re-established.

And a line shall be stretched forth] The circuit shall be determined, and the city built according to the line marked out.

Verse 17. My cities—shall yet be spread abroad] The whole land of Judea shall be inhabited, and the ruined cities restored.

Verse 18. And behold four horns.] Denoting four powers, by which the Jews had been oppressed: the Assyrians, Persians, Chaldeans, and Egyptians. Or, these enemies may be termed four, in reference to the four cardinal points of the heavens, whence they came:—

1. NORTH. The Assyrians and Babylonians.
2. EAST. The Moabites and Ammonites.
3. SOUTH. The Egyptians.
4. WEST. The Philistines. See Marlin.

Verse 20. Four carpenters.] Four other powers who should defeat the powers intended by the horns. These are the same as the four chariots mentioned chap. vi, 1, 2, 3, 6, 7. The first was NABOPOLASSAR, father of Nebuchadnezzar, who overturned the empire of the Assyrians. The second was CYRUS, who destroyed the empire of the Chaldeans. The third was ALEXANDER the Great, who destroyed the empire of the Persians. And the fourth was PTOLEMY, who rendered himself master of Egypt. Some of these had already been cast down;—the rest were to follow. Calmet gives this interpretation, and vindicates it at length.

Verse 21. These are come to fray them] To break, pound, and reduce them to powder. Fray, from the French, frayer, to rub. חרשים charashim signifies either carpenters or smiths; probably the latter are here intended, who came with hammers, files, and such like, to destroy these horns, which no doubt seemed to be of iron.

From a sensible correspondent I have received the following note:—

"The word we translate carpenters, (חרשים charashim,) is a root which, according to Mr. Parkhurst, denotes silent thought, or attention; and in kal and hiphil, to contrive, devise secretly, or in silence: hence applied as a noun to an artificer of any kind, and to any work which disposes to silent attention. Thus, to potters'-ware, Lev. vi, 28, Job ii, 8, and in many other places. So also to ploughing, Deut. xxii, 10, Prov. xx, 4, which requires constant attention to make 'the right-lined furrow.' Let it be remembered that in ancient times such works were more esteemed than the useless ones we have learned to admire. So again in Gen. xxiv, 21, and elsewhere, it implies to be silent, as in deep thought, or great attention.

Now, it is evident that the purport of this vision is the same with the gracious declarations which precede it, viz. to express the return of the protecting mercies of God to His people,—delivering them from their enemies. I should therefore be inclined to render חרשים charashim here, watchers, or inspectors, in the sense which our translators have rendered the Chaldee, עיר Ir, a watcher, in the fourth chapter of Daniel, ver. 13; understanding thereby spirits of the heavens, which go forth from standing before the Lord of all the earth.—Zech. vi, 5, and are described in the first vision as sent to walk to and fro through the earth. This gives to the whole narrative a sublime and important sense, affording us some glimpse of the Divine government by the ministration of angels, such as Jacob was favoured with in his vision at Bethel, and which our Saviour Himself informed Nathanael constituted part of the glory of His mediatorial kingdom.

M. A. B."

CHAPTER II.

The vision with which this Chapter opens portended great increase and prosperity to Jerusalem. Accordingly Josephus tells us (Wars V. iv, 2,) that "the city, overflowing with inhabitants, extended beyond its walls," (as predicted in the fourth verse,) and acquired much glory during the time of the Maccabees; although these promises, and particularly the sublime image in the fifth verse, has certainly a still more pointed reference to the glory and prosperity of the Christian church in the latter days, 1—5. See Rev. xxi, xxii. In consequence of these promises the Jews, still inhabiting Babylon and the regions round about, are called upon to hasten home, that they might not be involved in the fate of their enemies, who were destined to fall a prey to the nations which they had formerly subdued; God's great love and zeal for His people moving Him to glorify them by humbling all their adversaries, 6—9. The most gracious promises of God's presence with His Church, and her consequent increase and prosperity set forth in the remaining verses, 10—13, were to a certain extent fulfilled in the great number of proselytes made to Judaism after the return from the captivity; but shall be more fully accomplished after the restoration of the Jews to the favour of God under the Gospel. "For if the casting away of the natural Israel be the reconciling of the world, what shall the receiving of them be but life from the dead?"

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

I LIFTED up mine eyes again, and looked, and behold [a] a man with a measuring line in his hand.

2 Then said I, Whither goest thou? And he said unto me, [b] To measure Jerusalem, to see what is the breadth thereof, and what is the length thereof.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

[a] Ezek. 40. 3.

[b] Rev. 11. 1. & 21. 15, 16.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 1. A man with a measuring line in his hand.] Probably a representation of Nehemiah, who got a commission from Artaxerxes Longimanus to build up the walls of Jerusalem; for hitherto it had remained without being enclosed.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

3 And, behold, the angel that talked with me went forth, and another angel went out to meet him,

4 And said unto him, Run, speak to this young man, saying, [a] Jerusalem shall be inhabited as towns without walls for the multitude of men and cattle therein:

5 For I, saith the LORD, will be unto her [b] a wall of fire round about, [c] and will be the glory in the midst of her.

6 Ho, ho, come forth, and flee [d] from the land of the north, saith the LORD: for I have [e] spread you abroad as the four winds of the heaven, saith the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

7 [f] Deliver thyself, O Zion, that dwellest with the daughter of Babylon.

8 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; After the glory hath he sent me unto the nations which spoiled you: for he that [g] toucheth you toucheth the apple of his eye.

9 For, behold, I will [h] shake mine hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to their servants: and [i] ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me.

[a] Jer. 31. 27. Ezek. 36. 10, 11. — [b] Isa. 26. 1. ch. 9. 8. — [c] Isa. 60. 19. Rev. 21. 23. — [d] Isa. 48. 20. & 52. 11. Jer. 1. 14. & 50. 8. & 51. 6, 45.

[e] Deut. 28. 64. Ezek. 17. 21. — [f] Rev. 18. 4. — [g] Deut. 32. 10. Psa. 17. 8. 2 Thess. 1. 6. — [h] Isa. 11. 15. & 19. 16. — [i] Ch. 4. 9.

Verse 4. Run, speak to this young man] Nehemiah must have been a young man when he was ساقي sakee, or cupbearer, to Artaxerxes.

As towns without walls] It shall be so numerously inhabited as not to be contained within its ancient limits. Josephus, speaking of this time, says, WAR, V. 4. 2, "The city, overflowing with inhabitants, by degrees extended itself beyond its walls."

Verse 5. I—will be unto her a wall of fire] Her safety shall consist in my defence. I shall be as fire round about her: no adversary shall be permitted to touch her. Much of this must refer to the New Jerusalem.

Verse 6. Flee from the land of the north] From Chaldea, Persia, and Babylon, where several of the Jews still remained. See ver. 7.

Verse 8. After the glory] After your glorious deliverance from the different places of your dispersion; He hath sent me unto the nations which spoiled you, that they may fall under grievous calamities, and be punished in their turn. On Babylon a great calamity fell, when besieged and taken by the Persians.

The following Note I received from a sensible pious correspondent:—

5. "For I, saith the Lord, will be unto her a wall of fire round about, and will be the glory in the midst of her.

8. "For thus saith the Lord of hosts, who hath sent me, the future glory, (or the glory which is to come,) unto the nations which spoiled you; for he that toucheth you, toucheth the apple of His eye. Behold I will shake mine hand upon them, and they shall be a spoil to their servants; and ye shall know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me. Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion; for, lo, I come, and I will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the Lord. And many nations shall be joined to the Lord in that day, and shall be my people; and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and thou shalt know that the Lord of hosts hath sent me unto thee. And the Lord shall inherit Judah His portion in the Holy Land, and shall choose Jerusalem again.

"If in the eighth verse, אחר כבוד may be rendered the future, or the glory that is to come, it will harmonize with the context as a prophecy of the Messiah; whereas in our English translation the words after the glory are unintelligible. And so the Seventy.

"It is evident the Person speaking is distinguished from the Lord of hosts, as being sent by Him; yet this Person sent is also called Jehovah; and the nations who shall be joined to Jehovah in that day are called His people; and He (the Person sent) will dwell in the midst of thee, (i. e. Zion) and shall inherit Judah his portion, &c.

"In confirmation of my view of the eighth verse, I think Exod. xxxiii may be compared with it. Moses besought God that He would shew him His glory. Upon which it was said to him, 'Whilst my glory passeth by,' I will put thee in a cleft of the rock, and will cover thee with my hand whilst I pass by; and I will take away my hand, and thou shalt see my אחר achar. Now as this was a fulfilment of Moses's request, who intreated to behold the glory, it follows that this אחר was the Divine glory which alone he was capable of seeing.

"'No man hath seen God at any time, the only begotten Son, (the Lord Jesus Christ) which is in the bosom of the Father, he hath declared Him.'

M. A. B."

Toucheth the apple of his eye.] בבבת עינו be-babath êynō, the babet of his eye. This is a remarkable expression. Any person, by looking into the eye of another, will see his own image perfectly expressed, though in extreme miniature, in the pupil. Does our English word babbet or baby come from this? And does not the expression mean that the eye of God is ever on His follower; and that His Person is ever impressed on the eye, the notice, attention, providence, and mercy, of God?

Verse 9. I will shake mine hand upon them] I will threaten first, and then stretch out my hand of judgment against them.

A spoil to their servants] To those whom they had formerly subjected to their sway. As the Babylonians to the

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir annum 16.

10 [a] Sing and rejoice, O daughter of Zion: for, lo, I come, and I [b] will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the LORD.

11 [c] And many nations shall be joined to the LORD [d] in that day, and shall be [e] my people: and I will dwell in the midst of thee, and [f] thou shalt know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto thee.

12 And the LORD shall [g] inherit Judah his portion in the holy land, and [h] shall choose Jerusalem again.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

13 [i] Be silent, O all flesh, before the LORD: for he is raised up [k] out of [l] his holy habitation.

[a] Isa. 12. 6. & 54. 1. Zeph. 3. 14.——[b] Lev. 26. 12. Ezek. 37. 27. ch. 8. 3. John 1. 14. 2 Cor. 6. 16.——[c] Isa. 2. 2, 3. & 49. 22. & 60. 3, &c. ch. 8. 22, 23.——[d] Ch. 3. 10.

[e] Exod. 12. 49.——[f] Ezek. 33. 33. Ver. 9.——[g] Deut. 32. 9.——[h] Ch. 1. 17.——[i] Hab. 2. 20. Zeph. i. 7.——[k] Psa. 68. 5. Isa. 57. 15.——[l] Heb. the habitation of his holiness, Deut. 26. 15. Isa. 63. 15.

Medes and Persians; and so of the rest in the subversion of empires.

Verse 10. I will dwell in the midst of thee, saith the LORD] This must chiefly refer to the Christian church, in which God ever dwells by the power of His Spirit, as He had done by the symbol of His presence in the first Jewish Temple.

Verse 11. Many nations shall be joined to the LORD] This most certainly belongs to the Christian church. No nation or people ever became converts to the Jewish religion: but whole nations have embraced the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ.

Verse 12. The LORD shall inherit Judah his portion in the holy land] This is a promise of the final restoration of the Jews; and that they should be God's portion in their own land.

Verse 13. Be silent, O all flesh] Let all the nations of the world be astonished at this. God will arise and deliver this ancient people, and bring them into the glorious liberty of the sons of God.

CHAPTER III.

While the Jews were rebuilding their Temple, their adversaries endeavoured to stop the work, Ezra v. This vision is therefore calculated to give them the strongest encouragement that God, after plucking them as brands out of the fire (or captivity of Babylon,) would not now give them up, but would continue to prosper and favour them; and that, notwithstanding the interruptions they should meet with, the work should be finished under the gracious superintendence of Providence; and their highpriest, clothed in his pontifical robes, would soon officiate in the holy of holies, 1—7. The subject is then, by an easy transition, applied to a much greater future deliverance and restoration, of which Joshua and his companions, delivered now, are declared to be figures or types; for that the Messiah or Branch, the great Highpriest typified by Joshua, would be manifested; and, like the principal stone represented in the vision, become the chief cornerstone of His church; that the all-seeing eye of God would constantly guard it; and that by His atonement He would procure for it peace and pardon, 8—10.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

AND he shewed me [a] Joshua the highpriest standing before the angel of the LORD, and [b] Satan [c] standing at his right hand [d] to resist him.

2 And the LORD said unto Satan, [e] the LORD rebuke thee, O Satan; even the LORD that [f] hath chosen Jerusalem rebuke thee: [g] is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

[a] Hag. 1. 1.——[b] Psa. 109. 6. Rev. 12. 10.——[c] That is, an adversary.——[d] Heb. to be his adversary.

[e] Jude 9.——[f] Ch. 1. 17. Rom. 8. 33.——[g] Amos 4. 11. Rom. 11. 5. Jude 23.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. And he shewed me Joshua the highpriest] The Angel of the Lord is the Messiah, as we have seen before: Joshua, the highpriest may here represent the whole Jewish people; and Satan, the grand accuser of the brethren. What the subject of dispute was we perhaps learn from Jude 9. Michael and Satan disputed about the body of Moses. This could not refer to the natural body of the Jewish lawgiver,

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

3 Now Joshua was clothed with [a] filthy garments, and stood before the angel.

4 And he answered and spake unto those that stood before him, saying, Take away the filthy garments from him. And unto him he said, Behold, I have caused thine iniquity to pass from thee, [b] and I will clothe thee with change of raiment.

5 And I said, Let them set a fair [c] mitre upon his head. So they set a fair mitre upon his head, and clothed him with garments. And the angel of the LORD stood by.

6 And the angel of the LORD protested unto Joshua, saying,

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If thou wilt walk in my ways, and if thou wilt [d] keep my [e] charge, then thou shalt also [f] judge my house, and shalt also keep my courts, and I will give thee [g] places to walk among these that [h] stand by.

8 Hear now, O Joshua the highpriest, thou and thy fellows that sit before thee: for they are [i] men [k] wondered at: for, behold, I will bring forth [l] my servant the [m] BRANCH.

9 For behold the stone that I have laid before

[a] Isa. 64. 6.——[b] Isa. 61. 10. Rev. 19. 8. Luke 15. 22.——[c] Exod. 29. 6. ch. 6. 11.——[d] Lev. 8. 35. 1 Kings 2. 3. Ezek. 44. 16.——[e] Or, ordinance.——[f] Deut. 17. 9. Mal. 2. 7.——[g] Heb. walks.——[h] Ch. 4. 14. & 6. 5.

[i] Psa. 71. 7. Isa. 8. 18. & 20. 3.——[k] Heb. men of wonder, or, sign, as Ezek. 12. 11. & 24. 24.——[l] Isa. 42. 1. & 49. 3, 5. & 52. 13. & 53. 11. Ezek. 34. 23, 24.——[m] Isa. 4. 2. & 11. 1. Jer. 23. 5. & 33. 15. ch. 6. 12. Luke 1. 78.

which had been dead about one thousand years; it must therefore refer to that body of laws given to the Jews by Moses, for the breach of which Satan, who was their tempter to disobedience, now comes forward as their accuser; that, exciting the justice of God against them, they may be all brought to perdition. There is a paranomasia here.

Satan standing at his right hand to resist him.] שטן Satan, signifies an adversary. לשטנו le-siteno, to be his adversary, or accuser.

Verse 2. Is not this a brand plucked out of the fire?] The Jews were nearly destroyed because of their sins; a remnant of them is yet left, and God is determined to preserve them. He has had mercy upon them, and forgiven them their sins. Wouldest thou have them destroyed? It is God that hath justified them,—who art thou that condemnest them? The Lord rebuke thee! God confound thee for what thou hast done, and for what thou desirest farther to do. It is evident that Jude 9 relates to this circumstance, the very same phraseology as found here. See the Notes on Jude 9, where the subject is largely considered. With difficulty has this remnant escaped; and God will not permit fresh evils to fall upon them, by which they might be totally consumed. This was Satan's design, who accuses the followers of God day and night. See Rev. xii, 10.

Verse 3. Joshua was clothed with filthy garments] The Jewish people were in a most forlorn, destitute, and to all human appearance, despicable condition; and, besides all, they were sinful, and the priesthood defiled by idolatry; and nothing but the mercy of God could save them.

Verse 4. Take away the filthy garments] The Jews wore sackcloth in times of public calamity; probably, the filthy garments refer to this. Let their clothing be changed. I have turned again their captivity; I will fully restore them, and blot out all their iniquities.

Verse 5. A fair mitre upon his head] To signify that he had renewed to him the office of the high priesthood, which had been defiled and profaned before. The mitre was the bonnet which the highpriest put on his head, when he entered into the sanctuary, Exod. xxviii, 4, &c.

Clothed him with garments] Referring to the vestments of the highpriest. The true Highpriest, which is over the house of God, will establish His office among them, when they shall acknowledge Him as their Messiah, and seek redemption in the blood of the sacrifice which He has offered for their sins; and not for theirs only, but for the sins of the whole world.

Verse 7. If thou wilt walk in my ways] If ye, Israelites, priests and people, now restored to your own land, will walk in my ways, &c, ye shall be a part of my family; and have places, mansions in an eternal glory, with all them that are sanctified.

Verse 8. O Joshua—thou, and thy fellows] Thy countrymen who have now returned from your captivity, in a very wonderful manner. אנשי מופת anshey mopheth, figurative men, men whose office and ministration prefigured the Lord Jesus Christ; and therefore it is immediately added:—I will bring forth my servant the BRANCH. Abp. Newcome thinks this means Zerubbabel, so called because he was the grandson of Jehoiakim, or Jeconiah, king of Judah, Matt. i, 12, and heir to the throne of Judah. The Chaldee has, My Servant the Messiah. See the Note on Isa. iv, 2. I think the word cannot apply to Zerubbabel, except as a type of Christ; in that sense it may be understood of Him. See chap. vi, 11, 12.

Verse 9. For, behold, the stone that I have laid] Alluding no doubt to the foundation stone of the Temple: but this represented Christ Jesus. "Behold I lay in Zion for a foundation a STONE, a tried stone, a precious CORNER STONE, a SURE FOUNDATION." Isa. xxviii, 16. This means Christ, and none other; on Him His whole church rests, as a building does on its foundation.

Upon one stone shall be seven eyes] This is supposed to

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

Joshua; [a] upon one stone shall be [b] seven eyes: behold, I will engrave the graving thereof, saith the LORD of hosts, and [c] I will remove the iniquity of that land in one day.

10 [d] In that day, saith the LORD of hosts, shall ye call every man his neighbour [e] under the vine and under the fig tree.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

[a] Psa. 118. 22. Isa. 28. 16.——[b] Ch. 4. 10. Rev. 5. 6.——[c] Jer. 31. 34. & 50. 20. Mic. 7. 18, 19. ch. 13. 1.

[d] Ch. 2. 11. Isa. 2. 11. & 26. 1. & 29. 28. & 52. 6.——[e] 1 Kings 4. 25. Isa. 36. 16. Mic. 4. 4.

mean the providence of God, as under it all the work should be completed.

There may be an allusion to the seven counsellors, which stood always about the persons of the Asiatic sovereigns; and those who were the governors of provinces were termed the eyes of the king. To this there is an allusion in Rev. i, 4. In Christ there is a plenitude of wisdom, power, goodness, mercy, truth, love, and compassion, to direct, protect, save, uphold, purify, govern, and preserve, all the souls that trust in Him.

I will engrave the graving thereof] This is an allusion to engraving precious stones; in which the ancients greatly excelled. Heads, animals, and various devices, were the subjects of those engravings. But what was this engraving? Was it not the following words? "I will remove the iniquity of that land in one day;"—and was not this done when Jesus Christ expired upon the cross? This was the grand, the only atonement, satisfaction, and sacrifice, for the sins of the whole world. Does not our Lord refer to this place, John vi, 27. Him hath God the Father sealed; and the inscription there was, This is my beloved Son, in whom I am well pleased. See the Note on the above passage.

Verse 10. Shall ye call every man his neighbour] See on Isa. xxxv, 16. Every one shall be inviting and encouraging another to believe on the Lord Jesus Christ; and thus taste and see that God is good. See on Isa. ii, 2, 3. And there shall be the utmost liberty to preach, believe on, and profess the faith of our Lord Jesus Christ.

CHAPTER IV.

The Prophet, overpowered by his last vision, is roused by the angel to behold another, 1; intended also to assure the Jews of the success of Joshua and Zerubbabel in building the Temple, and surmounting every obstacle in the way; till at length by the good providence of God, it should be finished, amidst the joyful acclamations of the spectators, 2—10. The angel's explanation of the golden candlestick, and of the two olive trees, 11—14.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

AND [a] the angel that talked with me came again, and waked me, [b] as a man that is wakened out of his sleep,

2 And said unto me, What seest thou? And I said, I have looked, and behold [c] a candlestick all of gold, [d] with a bowl upon the top of it,

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

[a] Ch. 2. 3.——[b] Dan. 8. 18.

[c] Exod. 25. 31. Rev. 1. 12.——[d] Heb. with her bowl.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IV.

Verse 1. The angel—came again, and waked me] Abp. Newcome considers this vision as represented on the same night, chap. i, 8, with the preceding ones. See the latter part of ver. 10, compared with chap. iii, 9. After some interval the Prophet, overpowered by the vision which had been presented to him, was awakened from his prophetic trance as from a sleep.

Verse 2. A candlestick all of gold] This candlestick is formed in some measure after that of the sanctuary, Exod. xxvi, 31, 32: but in that of the sanctuary there was no bowl, nor seven pipes, nor seven lamps, nor the two olive trees. The two olive trees were to supply the bowl with oil; the bowl was to communicate the oil to the seven pipes; and the seven pipes were to supply the seven lamps. In general; the candlestick, its bowl, pipes, lamps, and olive trees, are emblems of the pure service of God, and the grace and salvation to be enjoyed by his true worshippers. The candlestick may however represent the whole Jewish state, ecclesiastical and civil; the oil, producing the light, the grace and mercy of God; and the two olive trees, the Source of infinite love, whence that grace proceeds. The pipes, may signify all means of grace; and the seven lamps, the perfection and abundance of the light and salvation provided.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

[a] and his seven lamps thereon, and [b] seven pipes to the seven lamps, which are upon the top thereof:

3 [c] And two olive trees by it, one upon the right side of the bowl, and the other upon the left side thereof.

4 So I answered and spake to the angel that talked with me, saying, What are these, my lord?

5 Then the angel that talked with me answered and said unto me, Knowest thou not what these be? and I said, No, my lord.

6 Then he answered and spake unto me, saying, This is the word of the LORD unto Zerubbabel, saying, [d] Not by [e] might, nor by power, but by my Spirit, saith the LORD of hosts.

7 Who art thou, [f] O great mountain? before Zerubbabel thou shalt become a plain: and he shall bring forth [g] the headstone thereof [h] with shoutings, crying, Grace, Grace unto it.

8 Moreover the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

9 The hands of Zerubbabel [i] have laid the foundation of this house; his hands [k] shall also finish it; and [l] thou shalt know [m] that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

10 For who hath despised the day of [n] small things? [o] for they shall rejoice, and shall see the [p] plummet in the hand of Zerubbabel with those seven; [q] they are the eyes of the LORD, which run to and fro through the whole earth.

11 Then answered I, and said unto him, What are these [r] two olive trees upon the right side of the candlestick and upon the left side thereof?

12 And I answered again, and said unto him, What be these two olive branches which [s] through the two golden pipes [t] empty [u] the golden oil out of themselves?

13 And he answered me and said, Knowest thou not what these be? And I said, No, my lord.

14 Then said he, [x] These are the two [y] anointed ones, [z] that stand by [a] the LORD of the whole earth.

---

[a] Exod. 25. 37. Rev. 4. 5.——[b] Or, seven several pipes to the lamps, &c.——[c] Ver. 11, 12. Rev. 11. 4.——[d] Hos. 1. 7.——[e] Or, army.——[f] Jer. 51. 25. Matt. 21. 21.——[g] Psa. 118. 22.——[h] Ezra 3. 11, 13.——[i] Ezra 3. 10.——[k] Ezra 6. 15.——[l] Ch. 2. 9, 11. & 6. 15.——[m] Isa. 48. 16. ch. 2. 8.——[n] Hag. 2. 3

[o] Or, since the seven eyes of the LORD shall rejoice.——[p] Heb. stone of tin.——[q] 2 Chron. 16. 9. Prov. 15. 3. ch. 3. 9.——[r] Ver. 3.——[s] Heb. by the hand.——[t] Or, empty out of themselves oil into the gold.——[u] Heb. the gold.——[x] Rev. 11. 4.——[y] Heb. sons of oil.——[z] Ch. 3. 7. Luke 1. 19.——[a] See Josh. 3. 11, 13. ch. 6. 5.

Some may take them in the following way:—1. The olive trees,—the Divine goodness, yield the oil from the olive berry, which is its fruit. 2. From each comes a pipe to convey the oil to the bowl. 3. This oil is collected in the bowl, which is supposed to represent Jesus, the great Mediator, through whom alone all grace and mercy descend to man. 4. The seven pipes,—the various means of grace,—reading, hearing, prayer, sacraments, &c, through which Christ dispenses His grace and blessing to His followers. 5. The seven lamps,—the Spirit of God in its plenitude of graces, gifts, and light, dispensed to the Christian church.

Verse 6. This is the word of the LORD unto Zerubbabel] This prince was in a trying situation, and he needed especial encouragement from God; and here it is:—

Not by might (of thy own) nor by power, (authority from others) but by my Spirit] The providence, authority, power, and energy, of the Most High. In this way shall my Temple be built; in this way shall my church be raised and preserved. No secular arm, no human prudence, no earthly policy, no suits at law, shall ever be used for the founding, extension, and preservation, of my church. But the spirit of the world says,—"These are all means, to which we must have recourse; otherwise the cause of God may be ruined." Satan, thou liest!

Verse 7. O great mountain?] The hinderances which were thrown in the way; the regal prohibition to discontinue the building of the Temple.

Before Zerubbabel—a plain] The sovereign power of God shall remove them. March on, Zerubbabel; all shall be made plain and smooth before thee. I have given thee the work to do, and I will remove all hinderances out of the way.

He shall bring forth the headstone] As he has laid the foundation stone, so shall he put on the headstone; as he has begun the building, so shall He finish it.

With shoutings] The universal acclamation of the people.

Grace, grace unto it.] How beautiful is this structure! May the favour of God ever rest upon it; and be manifested in it.

Verse 10. Who hath despised the day of small things?] The poverty, weakness, and unbefriended state, of the Jews. It was said, What do these feeble Jews? Will they build, &c? No. But God will build by them, and perfect his building too.

And shall see the plummet in the hand of Zerubbabel] He is master builder under God, the Grand Architect.

Those seven—are the eyes of the LORD] Either referring to his particular and especial providence; or to those ministering spirits, whom He had employed in behalf of the Jews, to dispense the blessings of that Providence.

Verse 11. What are these two olive-trees] See on ver. 2.

Verse 12. What be these two olive-branches] That is, two boughs laden with branches of olive-berries.

Verse 14. These are the two anointed ones] Joshua, the high priest; and Zerubbabel, the governor. These are anointed,—appointed by the Lord; and stand by him—the one to minister in the ecclesiastical, the other in the civil state.

Probably we may not be able to comprehend the whole of this hieroglyphical vision; for even the interpreting angel does not choose to answer the questions relative to this, which were put to him by the Prophet. See ver. 4 and 11. But though the particulars are hard to be understood; yet the general meaning has, I hope, been given.

CHAPTER V.

The vision of the large flying roll, with the angel's explanation, 1—4. The vision of the ephah and of the woman sitting on it, with the signification, 5—11.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

THEN I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and behold a flying [a] roll.

2 And he said unto me, What seest thou? And I answered, I see a flying roll; the length thereof is twenty cubits, and the breadth thereof ten cubits.

3 Then said he unto me, This is the [b] curse that goeth forth over the face of the whole earth: for [c] every one that stealeth shall be cut off as on this side according to it; and every one that sweareth shall be cut off as on that side according to it.

4 I will bring it forth, saith the LORD of hosts, and it shall enter into the house of the thief, and into the house of [d] him that sweareth falsely by my name: and it shall remain in the midst of his house, and [e] shall consume it with the timber thereof and the stones thereof.

5 Then the angel that talked with me went forth, and said unto me, Lift up now thine eyes, and see what is this that goeth forth.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

6 And I said, What is it? And he said, This is an ephah that goeth forth. He said moreover, This is their resemblance through all the earth.

7 And, behold, there was lifted up a [f] talent of lead: and this is a woman that sitteth in the midst of the ephah.

8 And he said, This is wickedness. And he cast it into the midst of the ephah; and he cast the weight of lead upon the mouth thereof.

9 Then lifted I up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came out two women, and the wind was in their wings; for they had wings like the wings of a stork: and they lifted up the ephah between the earth and the heaven.

[a] Ezek. 2. 9.—[b] Mal. 4. 6.—[c] Or, every one of this people that stealeth holdeth himself guiltless, as it doth.

[d] Lev. 19. 12. ch. 8. 17. Mal. 3. 5.—[e] See Lev. 14. 45.—[f] Or, weighty piece.

NOTES ON CHAPTER V.

Verse 1. Behold, a flying roll.] This was twenty cubits long, and ten cubits broad; the Prophet saw it expanded, and flying. Itself was the catalogue of the crimes of the people; and the punishment threatened by the Lord. Some think the crimes were those of the Jews; others, those of the Chaldeans.

Verse 3. Every one that stealeth—and every one that sweareth] It seems that the roll was written both on the front and back: stealing and swearing are supposed to be two general heads of crimes; the former, comprising sins against men; the latter, sins against God. It is supposed that the roll contained the sins and punishments of the Chaldeans.

Verse 4. Into the house of him] Babylon, the house or city of Nebuchadnezzar, who was a public plunderer, and a most glaring idolater.

Verse 6. This is an ephah that goeth forth] This, among the Jews, was the ordinary measure of grain. The woman in the ephah is supposed to represent Judea, which shall be visited for its sins; the talent of lead on the ephah, within which the woman was inclosed,—the wrath of God, bending down this culprit nation, in the measure of its sins; for the angel said, This is wickedness; that is, the woman represents the mass of iniquity of this nation.

Verse 9. There came out two women] As the one woman represented the impiety of the Jewish nation; so these two women who were to carry the ephah, in which the woman INIQUITY was shut up, under the weight of a talent of lead, may mean the desperate UNBELIEF of the Jews in rejecting the Messiah; and that IMPIETY, or universal corruption of manners, which was the consequence of their unbelief, and brought down the wrath of God upon them. The strong wings, like those of a stork, may point out the power and swiftness with which Judea was carried on to fill up the measure of her iniquity, and to meet the punishment which she deserved.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

10 Then said I to the angel that talked with me, Whither do these bear the ephah?

11 And he said unto me, [a] To build it a house in [b] the land of Shinar: and it shall be established, and set there upon her own base.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

[a] Jer. 29. 5, 28.

[b] Gen. 10. 10.

Between the earth and the heaven.] Sins against GOD and MAN; sins which heaven and earth contemplated with horror.

Or the Babylonians and Romans may be intended by the two women, who carried the Jewish ephah to its final punishment. The Chaldeans ruined Judea before the advent of our Lord; the Romans, shortly after.

Verse 11. To build it a house in the land of Shinar] The land of Shinar means Babylon; and Babylon means Rome, in the Apocalypse. The building the house for the woman imprisoned in the ephah may signify, that there should be a long captivity under the Romans, as there was under that of Shinar or Babylon, by which Rome may here be represented. That house remains to the present day: the Jewish woman is still in the ephah; it is set on its own base, continues still as a distinct nation; and the talent of lead, God's displeasure, is still on the top. O Lord, save thy people, the remnant of Israel!

CHAPTER VI.

The vision of the four chariots drawn by several sorts of horses, 1—8. The other vision in this Chapter may refer in its primary sense to the establishment of the civil and religious polity of the Jews under Joshua and Zerubbabel: but relates, in a fuller sense, to the Messiah, and to that spiritual kingdom of which He was to be both King and High Priest. In Him all these types and figures were verified; in Him all the promises are yea and amen, 9—15.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

AND I turned, and lifted up mine eyes, and looked, and, behold, there came four chariots out from between two mountains; and the mountains were mountains of brass.

2 In the first chariot were [a] red horses; and in the second chariot [b] black horses;

3 And in the third chariot [c] white horses; and in the fourth chariot grisled and [d] bay horses.

4 Then I answered [e] and said unto the angel that talked with me, What are these, my lord?

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

5 And the angel answered and said unto me, [f] These are the four [g] spirits of the heavens, which go forth from [h] standing before the LORD of all the earth.

6 The black horses which are therein go forth into [i] the north country; and the white go forth

[a] Ch. 1. 8. Rev. 6. 4.——[b] Rev. 6. 5.——[c] Rev. 6. 2.——[d] Or, strong.——[e] Ch. 5. 10.

[f] Psa. 104. 4. Heb. 1. 7, 14.——[g] Or, winds.——[h] 1 Kings 22. 19. Dan. 7. 10. ch. 4. 14. Luke 1. 19.——[i] Jer. 1. 14.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VI.

Verse 1. There came four chariots] Four monarchies or empires. This is supposed to mean the same with the vision of the four horns, in chap. i.

Mountains of brass.] The strong barriers of God's purposes, which restrained those powers within the times and limits appointed by Jehovah.

Verse 2. In the first chariot were red horses] The empire of the Chaldeans, which overthrew the empire of the Assyrians.

The second chariot, black horses] The empire of the Persians, founded by Cyrus, which destroyed the empire of the Chaldeans.

Verse 3. The third chariot, white horses] The empire of the Greeks, founded by Alexander the Great, which destroyed the empire of the Persians.

The fourth chariot, grisled and bay horses.] That is, party-coloured horses; or with horses, some grisled and some bay. The empire of the Romans, or of the Greeks. Greeks divided after the death of Alexander: one part pointing out the Lagidæ, who attacked and subdued Egypt; and the other, the Seleucidæ, who subdued Syria under Seleucus.

Verse 5. The four spirits of the heavens] Ministers of God's wrath against the sinful nations of the world.

Verse 6. The black horses] This refers to the second

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

after them; and the grisled go forth toward the south country.

7 And the bay went forth, and sought to go that they might [a] walk to and fro through the earth: and he said, Get you hence, walk to and fro through the earth. So they walked to and fro through the earth.

8 Then cried he upon me, and spake unto me, saying, Behold, these that go toward the north country have quieted my [b] spirit in the north country.

9 And the word of the LORD came unto me, saying,

10 Take of them of the captivity, even of Heldai, of Tobijah, and of Jedaiah, which are come from Babylon, and come thou the same day, and go into the house of Josiah the son of Zephaniah;

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

11 Then take silver and gold, and make [c] crowns, and set them upon the head of Joshua the son of Josedech, the high priest;

12 And speak unto him, saying, Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, Behold [d] the man whose name is The [e] BRANCH; and he shall [f] grow up out of his place, [g] and he shall build the temple of the LORD.

13 Even he shall build the temple of the LORD;

[a] Gen. 13. 17. ch. 1. 10.——[b] Judg. 8. 3. Eccles. 10. 4.——[c] Exod. 23. 36. & 29. 6. Lev. 8. 9 ch. 3. 5.——[d] See Luke 1. 78. John 1. 45.

[e] Ch. 3. 8.——[f] Or, branch up from under him.——[g] Ch. 4. 9. Matt. 16. 18. Eph. 2. 20, 21, 22. Heb. 3. 3.

chariot; of the first the angel makes no mention, because the empire designed by it had ceased to exist. This had red horses—to shew the cruelty of the Chaldeans towards the Jews, and the carnage they committed in the land of Judea.

The black] Cyrus, at the head of the Persians and Medes, bringing devastation and death among the Chaldeans, called the north in many parts of Scripture.

The white] Alexander, who was splendid in his victories, and mild towards all that he conquered.

The grisled] The Lagidæ, or Ptolemies, who founded an empire in Egypt; of these some were good, some bad, some despotic, some moderate, some cruel, and some mild; represented by the party-coloured horses.

Verse 7. And the bay went forth] The Seleucidæ, who conquered Syria and the upper provinces, and who wished to extend their conquests, and sought to go that they might walk to and fro throughout the earth—were of unbounded ambition, and sought universal empire; such as Antiochus the Great. So they walked to and fro—did extend their conquests; and harassed many countries by their vexatious, and almost continual wars. Some think the Romans are meant, who carried their conquests hither and thither, just as the Divine Providence permitted them.

Verse 8. Have quieted my spirit in the north country.] They have fulfilled my judgments on Assyria and Chaldea. Nabopolassar and Cyrus first, against the Assyrians and Chaldeans; and Alexander next, against the Persians. On this vision Abp. Newcome remarks:—

The black horses seem to denote the Persian empire; which by subduing the Chaldeans, and being about to inflict a second heavy chastisement on Babylon, quieted God's Spirit with respect to Chaldea; a country always spoken of as lying to the north of the Jews.

The white horses seem to be the Macedonian empire; which, like the Persian, overcame Chaldea.

The spotted bay horses seem to be the Roman empire. This description suits it, because it was governed by kings, consuls, dictators, and emperors. It penetrated southward to Egypt and Africa. The Roman empire is mentioned twice, ver. 6, 7, under each epithet given it, ver. 3.

Verse 10. Take of them of the captivity] The names that follow were probably those to whom the silver and golden vessels of the Temple were entrusted; and who might have had bullion of silver and gold, for particular purposes, about the ornaments of the Temple.

The house of Josiah] Probably, an artificer in silver, gold, &c.

Verse 11. Make crowns] עטרות âtaroth: but seven MSS. of Kennicott and De Rossi, and one ancient of my own, with the Syriac and Chaldee, have עטרת âterath, a crown, or tiara. And as Joshua the high priest is alone concerned here, I think one crown only is intended.

Verse 12. Behold, the man whose name is The BRANCH! I cannot think that Zerubbabel is here intended; indeed, he is not so much as mentioned in chap. iii, 8. Joshua and his companions are called אנשי מופת anshey mopheth, figurative, or typical men: the crowning therefore, of Joshua in this place, and calling him the BRANCH, was most probably, in reference to that glorious Person, the Messiah, of whom he was the type or figure. The Chaldee has "whose name is my MESSIAH," or CHRIST.

And he shall grow up out of his place] That is; out of David's root, tribe, and family.

And he shall build the temple of the LORD] This cannot refer to the building of the Temple then in hand, for Zerubbabel was its builder; but to that Temple, the Christian church, that was typified by it: for Zerubbabel is not named here; and only Joshua, or Jesus, (the name is the same,) is the Person who is to be crowned, and to build the spiritual Temple.

Verse 13. Even he shall build the temple] Joshua, not Zerubbabel.

He shall bear the glory] Have all the honour of it; for none can do this but Himself. The Messiah is still intended.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

and he [a] shall bear the glory, and shall sit and rule upon his throne; and [b] he shall be a priest upon his throne: and the counsel of peace shall be between them both.

14 And the crowns shall be to Helem, and to Tobijah, and to Jedaiah, and to Hen the son of Zephaniah, [c] for a memorial in the temple of the LORD.

15 And [d] they that are far off shall come and build in the temple of the LORD, and [e] ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me unto you. And this shall come to pass, if ye will diligently obey the voice of the LORD your God.

A. M. cir. 3485. B. C. cir. 519. Ol. cir. LXV. 2. Tarquinii Superbi, R. Rom. cir. annum 16.

[a] Isa. 22. 24.——[b] Psa. 110. 4. Heb. 3. 1.——[c] Exod. 12. 14. Mark 14. 9.

[d] Isa. 57. 19. & 60. 10. Eph. 2. 13, 19.——[e] Ch. 2. 9. & 4. 9.

And shall sit and rule upon his throne] For the government of the church shall be upon His shoulder.

And he shall be a priest upon his throne] He shall, as the great high priest, offer the only available offering and atonement; and so He shall be both King and Priest, a royal King, and a royal Priest; for even the priest is here stated to sit upon his throne.

And the counsel of peace shall be between them both.] Who? Zerubbabel and Joshua! Certainly not Zerubbabel, for he is not mentioned in all this prediction: but, as the Messiah is intended, the counsel of peace, the purpose to establish peace between heaven and earth, must be between the Father and the Son.

Verse 14. And the crowns shall be] One of my MSS. has עטרות âtaroth, crowns, corrected into עטרת âterath, crown; and so the Septuagint, Syriac, and Arabic. The Chaldee has, And praise shall be, &c. The meaning appears to be this, that the crown made for Joshua should be delivered to the persons mentioned here, and in ver. 10, to be laid up in the Temple of the Lord, as a memorial of this typical transaction.

Verse 15. And they that are far off shall come] The Gentiles shall come to the Saviour of the world; and build,—become a part of this new Temple; for they, as living stones, shall become a Holy Temple, a habitation of God through the Spirit.

Ye shall know that the LORD of hosts hath sent me] These predictions, relative to the regal and sacerdotal offices of the Messiah, shall be so circumstantially fulfilled, that ye, Jews, shall be obliged to acknowledge that the Lord of hosts hath sent me with this message.

And this shall come to pass] Your own Temple shall be rebuilt, and God shall dwell among you now, if ye will diligently obey the voice of Jehovah your God.

CHAPTER VII.

Some Jews being sent from those who remained at Babylon to enquire of the priests and prophets at Jerusalem whether they were still bound to observe those fasts which had been appointed on occasion of the destruction of Jerusalem, and kept during the captivity, the Prophet is commanded to take this opportunity of enforcing upon them the weightier matters of the law, judgment and mercy, that they might not incur such calamities as befel their fathers. He also intimates that in their former fasts they had regarded themselves more than God; and that they had rested too much on the performance of external rites, although the former prophets had largely insisted on the superior excellence of moral duties, 1—14.

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol. LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

AND it came to pass in the fourth year of king Darius, that the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah in the fourth day of the ninth month, even in Chisleu;

2 When they had sent unto the house of God Sherezer and Regem-melech, and their men, [a] to pray before the LORD,

3 And to [b] speak unto the priests which were

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

[a] Heb. to intreat the face of the LORD: 1 Sam. 13. 12. ch. 8. 21.

[b] Deut. 17. 9. 10, 11. & 33. 10. Mal. 2. 7.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VII.

Verse 1. The fourth year of king Darius] Two years after they began to rebuild the Temple, see chap. i, 1. A. M. 3486.

The ninth month, even in Chisleu] This answers to a part of our November and December.

Verse 2. When they had sent—Sherezer and Regem-melech] To enquire whether the fasts should be continued, in the house of the LORD of hosts, and to the prophets, saying, Should I weep in [a] the fifth month, separating myself, as I have done these so many years?

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol. LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

4 Then came the word of the LORD of hosts unto me, saying,

5 Speak unto all the people of the land, and to the priests, saying, When ye [b] fasted and mourned in the fifth [c] and seventh month, [d] even those seventy years, did ye at all fast [e] unto me, even to me?

6 And when ye did eat, and when ye did drink, [f] did not ye eat for yourselves, and drink for yourselves?

7 [g] Should ye not hear the words which the LORD hath cried [h] by the former prophets, when Jerusalem was inhabited and in prosperity, and the cities thereof round about her, when men inhabited [i] the south and the plain?

8 And the word of the LORD came unto Zechariah, saying,

9 Thus speaketh the LORD of hosts, saying, [k] Execute [l] true judgment, and shew mercy and compassions every man to his brother:

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol. LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

10 And [m] oppress not the widow, nor the fatherless, the stranger, nor the poor; [n] and let none of you imagine evil against his brother in your heart.

11 But they refused to hearken, and [o] pulled [p] away the shoulder, and [q] stopped [r] their ears, that they should not hear.

12 Yea, they made their [s] hearts as an adamant stone, [t] lest they should hear the law, and the words which the LORD of hosts hath sent in his Spirit [u] by the former prophets; [x] therefore came a great wrath from the LORD of hosts.

13 Therefore it is come to pass, that as he cried, and they would not hear; so [y] they cried, and I would not hear, saith the LORD of hosts:

14 But [z] I scattered them with a whirlwind among all the nations [a] whom they knew not. Thus [b] the land was desolate after them, that no man passed through nor returned: for they laid [c] the [d] pleasant land desolate.

---

[a] Jer. 52. 12. ch. 8. 19.——[b] Isa. 58. 5.——[c] Jer. 4. 1. ch. 8. 19.——[d] Ch. 1. 12.——[e] See Rom. 14. 6.——[f] Or, be not ye they that, &c.——[g] Or, Are not these the words.——[h] Heb. by the hand of, &c.——[i] Jer. 17. 26.——[k] Isa. 58. 6, 7. Jer. 7. 23. Mic. 6. 8. ch. 8. 16. Matt. 23. 23.——[l] Heb. Judge judgment of truth.——[m] Exod. 22. 21, 22. Deut. 24. 17. Isa. 1. 17. Jer. 5. 28.——[n] Psa. 36. 4. Mic. 2. 1. ch. 8. 17.

[o] Neh. 9. 29. Jer. 7. 24. Hos. 4. 16.——[p] Heb. they gave a backsliding shoulder.——[q] Heb. made heavy.——[r] Acts 7. 57.——[s] Ezek. 11. 19. & 36. 26.——[t] Neh. 9. 29, 30.——[u] Heb. by the hand of.——[x] 2 Chron. 36. 16. Dan. 9. 11.——[y] Prov. 1. 24—28. Isa. 1. 15. Jer. 11. 11. & 14. 12. Mic. 3. 4.——[z] Deut. 4. 27. & 28. 64. Ezek. 36. 19. ch. 2. 6.——[a] Deut. 28. 33.——[b] Lev. 26. 22.——[c] Dan. 8. 9.——[d] Heb. land of desire.

---

which they had hitherto observed on account of their ruined Temple; and the reason why they enquired, was that they were rebuilding that Temple; and were likely to bring it to a joyful issue.

Verse 5. When ye fasted and mourned in the fifth—month] This they did in remembrance of the burning of the Temple, on the tenth day of that month: and on the seventh month, on the third of which month they observed a fast for the murder of Gedaliah, and the dispersion of the remnant of the people which were with him. See Jer. xli, 1, and 2 Kings xxv, 25.

Verse 6. And when ye did eat] They had not observed those fasts as they should have done. They deplored the loss of their Temple, and its riches, &c, but they did not humble themselves because of those iniquities which had brought the displeasure of God upon them, their Temple, and their city.

Verse 7. The words which the LORD hath cried by the former prophets] נביאים הראשנים Nebiim ha-rishonim is the title which the Jews give to Joshua, Judges, the two Books of Samuel, and the two Books of Kings.

The latter prophets, נביאים אחרונים Nebiim acheronim, are Isaiah, Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and the Twelve Minor Prophets.

The Hagiographa, כתובים kethubim, Holy Writings, are the Psalms, Proverbs, Job, Canticles, Ruth, Lamentations, Ecclesiastes, Esther, Daniel, Ezra, Nehemiah, and the two Books of Chronicles. But the above words, the former prophets, seem to apply to Isaiah, Jeremiah, and Ezekiel.

The south and the plain?] From Eleutheropolis to the sea, Obad. 19. The south was the wilderness and mountainous parts of Judea; and the plain, the Plains of Jericho.

Verse 9. Execute true judgment] See the parallel texts in the margin.

Verse 10. Evil against his brother in your heart.] Do not indulge an unfavourable opinion of another;—do not envy him;—do not harbour an unbrotherly feeling towards him.

Verse 11. Pulled away the shoulder] From under the yoke of the Law;—like an unbroken or restive bullock in the plough.

Verse 12. Made their hearts as an adamant stone] שמיר shamir may mean the granite. This is the hardest stone with which the common people could be acquainted. Perhaps the corundum, of which emery is a species, may be intended. Bochart thinks it means a stone used in polishing others. The same name, in Hebrew, applies to different stones.

Verse 14. I scattered them with a whirlwind] This refers to the swift victories and cruel conduct of the Chaldeans towards the Jews: they came upon them like a whirlwind; they were tossed to and fro, and up and down; every where scattered and confounded.

CHAPTER VIII.

In this Chapter God promises the continuance of His favour to those who are returned from the captivity; so that, upon the removal of His judgments, the fasts they had observed during the captivity may be now converted to so many occasions of rejoicing. He likewise promises in due time a general restoration of His people, and the enlargement of the church by the accession of the Gentiles, 1—20. The conclusion of the Chapter intimates farther that the Jews, after their restoration, will be instrumental in converting many other nations, 21—23. Compare Rom. xi, 15, 16.

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol. LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

AGAIN the word of the LORD of hosts came to me, saying,

2 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [a] I was jealous for Zion with great jealousy, and I was jealous for her with great fury.

3 Thus saith the LORD: [b] I am returned unto Zion, and [c] will dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: and Jerusalem [d] shall be called a city of truth: and [e] the mountain of the LORD of hosts, [f] the holy mountain.

4 Thus saith the LORD of hosts: [g] There shall yet old men and old women dwell in the streets of Jerusalem, and every man with his staff in his hand [h] for very age.

5 And the streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls playing in the streets thereof.

6 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; If it be [i] marvellous in the eyes of the remnant of this people in these days, [k] should it also be marvellous in mine eyes? saith the LORD of hosts.

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol. LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

7 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; Behold, [l] I will save my people from the east country, and from [m] the west country;

8 And I will bring them, and they shall dwell in the midst of Jerusalem: [n] and they shall be my people, and I will be their God, [o] in truth and in righteousness.

9 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [p] Let your hands be strong, ye that hear in these days these words by the mouth of [q] the prophets, which were in [r] the day that the foundation of the house of the LORD of hosts was laid, that the temple might be built.

10 For before these days [s] there was no [t] hire

[a] Nah. 1. 2. ch. 1. 14.——[b] Ch. 1. 16.——[c] Ch. 2. 10.——[d] Isa. 1. 21, 26.——[e] Isa. 2. 2, 3.——[f] Jer. 31. 23.——[g] See 1 Sam. 2. 31. Isa. 65. 20, 22. Lam. 2. 20, &c. & 5. 11—14.——[h] Heb. for multitude of days.——[i] Or, hard, or difficult.——[k] Gen. 18. 14. Luke 1. 37. & 18. 27. Rom. 4. 21.——[l] Isa. 11. 11, 12. & 43. 5, 6. Ezek. 37. 21. Amos 9. 14, 15.

[m] Heb. the country of the going down of the sun. See Psa. 50. 1. & 113. 3. Mal. 1. 11.——[n] Jer. 30. 22. & 31. 1, 33. ch. 13. 9.——[o] Jer. 4. 2.——[p] Hag. 2. 4. ver. 18.——[q] Ezra 5. 1, 2.——[r] Hag. 2. 18.——[s] Or, the hire of man became nothing, &c.——[t] Hag. 1. 6. 9. 10. & 2. 16.

NOTES ON CHAPTER VIII.

Verse 2. I was jealous] Some refer this to the Jews themselves. They were as the spouse of Jehovah: but they were unfaithful, and God punished them as an injured husband might be expected to punish an unfaithful wife. Others apply it to the enemies of the Jews. Though I gave them a commission to afflict you, yet they exceeded their commission; I will therefore deal with them in fury—in vindictive justice.

Verse 3. I am returned unto Zion] I have restored her from her captivity. I will dwell among them. The Temple shall be rebuilt, and so shall Jerusalem; and, instead of being false, unholy, and profligate, it shall be the city of truth, and my holy mountain. TRUTH shall dwell in it.

Verse 4. There shall yet old men and old women] In those happy times the followers of God shall live out all their days, and the hoary head be always found in the way of righteousness.

Verse 5. The streets of the city shall be full of boys and girls] The progeny shall be numerous, healthy and happy. Their innocent gambols and useful exercises shall be a means of health, and a proof of happiness. To be healthy, children must have exercise. But they cannot take exercise except in the way of play and diversion:—ergo, such playfulness cannot be sinful. Let them be kept from evil words, lying, swearing, and scurrility; and all the rest may be innocent.

Verse 6. If it be marvellous] You may think that this is impossible, considering your present low condition: but suppose it be impossible in your eyes, should it be so in mine, saith the Lord of hosts.

Verse 7. I will save my people from the east country, and from the west] From every land in which any of them may be found. But these promises principally regard the Christian church; or, the bringing in the Jews with the fulness of the Gentiles.

Verse 9. By the mouth of the prophets] The day or time of the foundation was about two years before; as this discourse of the prophet was in the fourth year of Darius. After this God raised up prophets among them.

Verse 10. For before these days there was no hire for

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol. LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

for man, nor any hire for beast; [a]neither was there any peace to him that went out or came in because of the affliction: for I set all men every one against his neighbour.

11 But now I will not be unto the residue of this people as in the former days, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 [b]For the seed shall be [c]prosperous; the vine shall give her fruit, and [d]the ground shall give her increase, and [e]the heavens shall give their dew; and I will cause the remnant of this people to possess all these things.

13 And it shall come to pass, that as ye were [f]a curse among the heathen, O house of Judah, and house of Israel; so will I save you, and [g]ye shall be a blessing: fear not, but [h]let your hands be strong.

14 For thus saith the LORD of hosts; [i]As I thought to punish you, when your fathers provoked me to wrath, saith the LORD of hosts, [k]and I repented not:

15 So again have I thought in these days to do well unto Jerusalem and to the house of Judah: fear ye not.

16 These are the things that ye shall do; [l]Speak ye every man the truth to his neighbour; [m]execute the judgment of truth and peace in your gates:

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol. LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

17 [n]And let none of you imagine evil in your hearts against his neighbour; and [o]love no false oath: for all these are things that I hate, saith the LORD.

18 And the word of the LORD of hosts came unto me, saying,

19 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; [p]The fast of the fourth month, [p]and the fast of the fifth, [k]and the fast of the seventh, [s]and the fast of the tenth, shall be to the house of Judah [t]joy and gladness, and cheerful [u]feasts; [x]therefore love the truth and peace.

20 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; It shall yet come to pass, that there shall come people, and the inhabitants of many cities:

21 And the inhabitants of one city shall go to another, saying, [y]Let us go [z][a]speedily [b]to pray before the LORD, and to seek the LORD of hosts: I will go also.

22 Yea, [c]many people and strong nations shall come to seek the LORD of hosts in Jerusalem, and to pray before the LORD.

---

[a] 2 Chron. 15. 5.——[b] Hos. 2. 21, 22. Joel 2. 22. Hag. 2. 19.——[c] Heb. of peace.——[d] Psa. 67. 6.——[e] See Hag. 1. 10.——[f] Jer. 42. 18.——[g] Gen. 12. 2. Ruth 4. 11, 12. Isa. 19. 24, 25. Zeph. 3. 20. Hag. 2. 19.——[h] Ver. 9.——[i] Jer. 31. 28.——[k] 2 Chron. 36. 16. ch. 1. 6.——[l] Ch. 7. 9. ver. 19. Eph. 4. 25.——[m] Heb. judge truth, and the judgment of peace.

[n] Prov. 3. 29. ch. 7. 10.——[o] Ch. 5. 3. 4.——[p] Jer. 52. 6. 7.——[q] Jer. 52. 12, 13. ch. 7. 3, 5.——[r] 2 Kings 25. 25. Jer. 41. 1, 2.——[s] Jer. 52. 4.——[t] Esth. 8. 17. Isa. 35. 10.——[u] Or, solemn, or, set times.——[x] Ver. 16.——[y] Isa. 2. 3. Mic. 4. 1, 2.——[z] Or, continually.——[a] Heb. going.——[b] Heb. to intreat the face of the LORD, ch. 7. 2.——[c] Isa. 60. 3, &c. & 66. 23.

---

man] Previously to this, ye had no prosperity; ye had nothing but civil divisions and domestic broils. I abandoned you to your own spirits, and to your own ways.

Verse 12. For the seed shall be prosperous] Ye shall be a holy and peaceable people; and God will pour down His blessing on yourselves, your fields, and your vineyards.

Verse 13. As ye were a curse] Instead of being execrated among the people, ye shall be blessed; instead of being reproached, ye shall be commended. Ye shall be a blessing to all the nations round about. All these promises we may expect to be completely fulfilled when the Jews acknowledge their Messiah.

O house of Judah, and house of Israel] The restoration shall be complete, when both Israel and Judah are brought back.

Verse 16. Speak ye every man the truth] See chap. vii, 9, 10.

Verse 19. The fast of the fourth month] To commemorate the taking of Jerusalem; 2 Kings xxv, 3; Jer. xxxix, 2, and lii, 6, 7.

The fast of the fifth] In memory o the ruin of the temple, 2 Kings xxv, 8; Jer. lii, 12, 13.

The fast of the seventh] For the murder of Gedaliah, Jer. xli, 1—17.

The fast of the tenth] In commemoration of the siege of Jerusalem, which began on the tenth day of the tenth month, 2 Kings xxv, 1; Jer. lii, 4; Ezek. xxiv, 1, 2; and see on chap. vii, 3, 5.

Cheerful feasts] Ye shall find all your evils so completely redressed, that these mournful fasts shall be turned into joyful feasts.

Verse 20. There shall come people] Similar promises to those in Isa. ii, 3, and in Mic. iv, 1, 2. Many Gentiles, as well as Jews, will then be found devoting themselves to the Lord.

Verse 21. I will go also.] This is the answer of the person invited. It is a good work. We must have God for our Friend. We cannot expect this unless we seek Him: and, as we know not what an hour may bring forth, let us go speedily.

Verse 22. And strong nations] This may refer to the conversion of the Mohammedan tribes; especially to those in the vicinity of Palestine. Perhaps, even the Egyptians, inhabitants of Arabia Petræa, of Syria, &c.

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol. LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

23 Thus saith the LORD of hosts; In those days it shall come to pass, that ten men shall [a] take hold out of all languages of the nations, even shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew, saying, We will go with you: for we have heard [b] that God is with you.

A. M. 3486. B. C. 518. Ol. LXV. 3. Anno Tarquinii Superbi, Reg. Rom. 17.

[a] Isa. 9. 6. & 4. 1.

[b] 1 Cor. 14. 25.

Verse 23. Ten men—shall take hold of the skirt of him that is a Jew] The converts from among the Gentiles shall be to the Jews as ten to one. But ten may here signify a great number, without comparison. And from this Scripture it appears as if the Jews, converted to God, should be the instruments of converting many Gentiles. See on Isa. iii, 6. Catching hold of the skirt is a gesture naturally used to entreat assistance and protection. This and the three foregoing verses, says Abp. Newcome, refer to the great accession of converts which the Jewish church received between the captivity and the coming of Christ; to the number of Christian disciples which the Jewish preachers made; and to the future conversions of which the restoration of the Jews will be an eminent cause.

CHAPTER IX.

Syria, Phœnicia, and Palestine, were conquered by Nebuchadnezzar, and afterwards by Alexander. Some apply the beginning of this Chapter (1—7,) to the one event, and some to the other. The close of the seventh verse relates to the number of Philistines that should become proselytes to Judaism; see Joseph. Antiq. xiv, 15, 4; and the eighth to the watchful providence of God over His Temple in those troublesome times. From this the Prophet passes on to that most eminent instance of God's goodness to His church and people, the sending of the Messiah, with an account of the peaceable tendency and great extent of His kingdom, 9, 10. God then declares that He has ratified His covenant with His people, delivered them from their captivity, and restored them to favour, 11, 12. In consequence of this, victory over their enemies is promised them in large and lofty terms, with every other kind of prosperity, 13—17. Judas Maccabeus gained several advantages over the troops of Antiochus, who was of Grecian or Macedonian descent. But, without excluding these events, it must be allowed that the terms of this prophecy are much too strong to be confined to them; their ultimate fulfilment must therefore be referred to Gospel times.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

THE [a] burden of the word of the LORD in the land of Hadrach, and [b] Damascus shall be the rest thereof: when [c] the eyes of man, as of all the tribes of Israel, shall be toward the LORD.

2 And [d] Hamath also shall border thereby; [e] Tyrus, and [f] Zidon, though it be very [g] wise.

3 And Tyrus did build herself a strong hold, and [h] heaped up silver as the dust, and fine gold as the mire of the streets.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

[a] Jer. 23. 33.—[b] Amos 1. 3.—[c] 2 Chron. 20. 12. Psa. 145. 15.—[d] Jer. 49. 23.—[e] Isa. 23. Ezek. 26. & 27. & 28. Amos 1. 9.

[f] 1 Kings 17. 9. Ezek. 28. 21. Obad. 20.—[g] Ezek. 28. 3, &c.—[h] Job 27. 16. Ezek. 28. 4, 5.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IX.

Verse 1. The burden of the word of the LORD] The oracle contained in the word which Jehovah now speaks.

This is a prophecy against Syria, the Philistines, Tyre, and Sidon, which were to be subdued by Alexander the Great. After this the prophet speaks gloriously concerning the coming of Christ, and redemption by Him.

Most learned men are of opinion that this and the succeeding Chapters are not the work of Zechariah; but rather of Jeremiah, Hosea, or some one before the captivity. It is certain that chap. xi, 12, 13, are quoted Matt. xxvii, 9, 10, as the words of Jeremiah the prophet. The first eight chapters appear by the introductory parts to be the prophecies of Zechariah: they stand in connexion with each other, —are pertinent to the time when they were delivered,—are uniform in style and manner, and constitute a regular whole.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

4 Behold, [a] the LORD will cast her out, and he will smite [b] her power in the sea; and she shall be devoured with fire.

5 [c] Ashkelon shall see it, and fear; Gaza also shall see it, and be very sorrowful, and Ekron; for her expectation shall be ashamed; and the king shall perish from Gaza, and Ashkelon shall not be inhabited.

6 And a bastard shall dwell [d] in Ashdod, and I will cut off the pride of the Philistines.

7 And I will take away his [e] blood out of his mouth, and his abominations from between his teeth: but he that remaineth, even he, shall be for our God, and he shall be as a governor in Judah, and Ekron as a Jebusite.

8 And [f] I will encamp about mine house because of the army, because of him that passeth

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

[a] Isa. 23. 1.——[b] Ezek. 26. 17.——[c] Jer. 47. 1, 5. Zeph. 2. 4.

[d] Amos 1. 8.——[e] Heb. bloods.——[f] Psa. 34. 7. ch. 2. 5.

But the six last chapters are not expressly assigned to Zechariah, and are unconnected with those that precede:—the three first of them are unsuitable in many parts to the time when Zechariah lived; all of them have a more adorned and poetical turn of composition than the eight first chapters, and they manifestly break the unity of the prophetical Book.

I conclude, from internal marks, that these three chapters (ix, x, xi,) were written much earlier than the time of Jeremiah, and before the captivity of the ten tribes. They seem to suit Hosea's age and manner: but whoever wrote them, their Divine authority is established by the two quotations from them, chap. ix, 9, and xi, 12, 13. See below.

The twelfth, thirteenth, and fourteenth Chapters form a distinct prophecy, and were written after the death of Josiah, chap. xii, 11; but whether before, or after the captivity, and by what prophet, is uncertain; although I incline to think that the author lived before the destruction of Jerusalem by the Babylonians. See on chap. xiii, 2—6. They are twice quoted in the New Testament, chap. xii, 10, and xiii, 7.—Newcome.

My own opinion is, that these chapters form not only a distinct work, but belong to a different author. If they do not belong to Jeremiah, they form a thirteenth Book in the Minor Prophets: but the inspired writer is unknown.

The land of Hadrach] The valley of Damascus, or a place near to Damascus. Alexander the Great gained possession of Damascus, and took all its treasures: but it was without blood; the city was betrayed to him.

Damascus shall be the rest thereof] The principal part of this calamity shall fall on this city. God's anger rests on those whom He punishes, Ezek. v, 13; xvi, 42; xxiv, 13. And His rod, or His arm, rests on his enemies, Psa. cxxv, 3; Isa. xxx, 23. See Newcome.

When the eyes of man] Newcome translates thus:—

> "For the eye of Jehovah is over man,
> And over all the tribes of Israel."

This is an easy sense, and is followed by the Versions.

Verse 2. And Hamath also shall border thereby] Hamath, on the river Orontes; and Tyre and Sidon, notwithstanding their political wisdom, address, and cunning, shall have a part in the punishment.

These prophecies are more suitable to the days of Jeremiah than to those of Zechariah; for there is no evidence (although Alexander did take Damascus, but without bloodshed,) that it was destroyed from the times of Zechariah to the advent of our Lord. And as Tyre and Sidon were lately destroyed by Nebuchadnezzar, it is not likely that they could soon undergo another devastation.

Verse 3. And Tyrus did build herself] The rock on which Tyre was built was strongly fortified; and that she had abundance of riches has been already seen, Ezek. xxviii, 1, &c.

Verse 4. Will smite her power in the sea] See Ezek. xxvi, 17. Though Alexander did take Tyre, Sidon, Gaza, &c, yet it seems that the prediction relative to their destruction was fulfilled by Nebuchadnezzar. See Amos i, 6—8; Zeph. ii, 4, 7.

Verse 5. Ashkelon shall see it, and fear] All these prophecies seem to have been fulfilled before the days of Zechariah; another evidence that these last chapters were not written by him.

Her expectation shall be ashamed] The expectation of being succoured by Tyre.

Verse 6. A bastard shall dwell in Ashdod] This character would suit Alexander very well, who most certainly was a bastard; for his mother, Olympia, said that Jupiter Ammon entered her apartment in the shape of a dragon, and begat Alexander! Could her husband Philip believe this? The word signifies a stranger.

Verse 7. I will take away his blood out of his mouth] The Philistines, when incorporated with the Israelites, shall abstain from blood, and every thing that is abominable.

And Ekron as a Jebusite.] As an inhabitant of Jerusalem. Many of the Philistines became proselytes to Judaism; and particularly the cities of Gaza and Ashdod. See Joseph. Antiq. lib. xiii, c. 15, s. 4.

Verse 8. I will encamp about mine house] This may apply to the conquests in Palestine by Alexander, who, coming with great wrath against Jerusalem, was met by Jaddua the high priest and his fellows in their sacred robes, who made by, and because of him that returneth: and [a] no oppressor shall pass through them any more: for now [b] have I seen with mine eyes.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

9 [c] Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion; shout, O daughter of Jerusalem: behold, [d] thy King cometh unto thee: he is just, and [e] having salvation; lowly, and riding upon an ass, and upon a colt the foal of an ass.

10 And I [f] will cut off the chariot from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem, and the battle bow shall be cut off: and he shall speak [g] peace unto the heathen: and his dominion shall be [h] from sea even to sea, and from the river even to the ends of the earth.

11 As for thee also, [i] by the blood of thy covenant I have sent forth thy [k] prisoners out of the pit wherein is no water.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

12 Turn you to the strong hold, [l] ye prisoners of hope: even to-day do I declare that [m] I will render double unto thee;

13 When I have bent Judah for me, filled the bow with Ephraim, and raised up thy sons, O Zion, against thy sons, O Greece, and made thee as the sword of a mighty man.

14 And the LORD shall be seen over them, and [n] his arrow shall go forth as the lightning: and the Lord GOD shall blow the trumpet, and shall go [o] with whirlwinds of the south.

---

[a] Isa. 60. 18. Ezek. 28. 24.——[b] Exod. 3. 7.——[c] Isa. 62. 11. ch. 2. 10. Matt. 21. 5. John 12. 15.——[d] Jer. 23. 5. & 30. 9. John 1. 49. Luke 19. 38.——[e] Or, saving himself.——[f] Hos. 1. 7. & 2. 18. Mic. 5. 10. Hag. 2. 22.

[g] Eph. 2. 14, 17.——[h] Psa. 72. 8.——[i] Or, whose covenant is by blood. Exod. 24. 8. Heb. 10. 29. & 13. 20.——[k] Isa. 42. 7. & 51. 14. & 61. 1.——[l] Isa. 49. 9.——[m] Isa. 61. 7.——[n] Psa. 18. 14. & 77. 17. & 144. 6.——[o] Isa. 21. 1.

---

intercession for the city and the temple; and, in consequence, Alexander spared both, which he had previously purposed to destroy. He shewed the Jews also much favour; and remitted the tax every seventh year, because the Law on that year forbad them to cultivate their ground. See this extraordinary account in Joseph. Antiq. lib. xi, c. 8, s. 5. Bishop Newcome translates,—"I will encamp about my house with an army, so that none shall pass through or return."

Verse 9. Rejoice greatly, O daughter of Zion] See this prophecy explained on Matt. xxi, 5.

Behold, thy King cometh] Not Zerubbabel, for he was never king; nor have they had a king, except Jesus the Christ, from the days of Zedekiah to the present time.

He is just] The righteous One, and the Fountain of righteousness.

Having salvation] He alone can save from sin, Satan, death, and hell.

Lowly] Without worldly pomp, or splendour; for neither His kingdom, nor that of His followers, is of this world.

Riding upon an ass] God had commanded the kings of Israel not to multiply horses. The kings who broke this command were miserable themselves, and scourgers to their people. Jesus came to fulfil the Law. Had He in His title of King rode upon a horse, it would have been a breach of a positive command of God; therefore, He rode upon an ass, and thus fulfilled the prophecy, and kept the precept unbroken. Hence it is immediately added,—

Verse 10. I will cut off the chariot from Ephraim, and the horse from Jerusalem] No wars shall be employed to spread the kingdom of the Messiah; for it shall be founded and established, not by might nor by power, but by the Spirit of the Lord of hosts, chap. iv, 6.

Verse 11. As for thee also (Jerusalem) by the blood of thy covenant] The covenant made with Abraham, Isaac, Jacob, and the Israelites in general, and ratified by the blood of many victims; until the time should come in which the Messiah should shed His blood, as typified by the ancient sacrifices.

I have sent forth thy prisoners] Those who were under the arrest of God's judgments; the human race, fast bound in sin and misery; and who, by the pitifulness of His tender mercy, were loosed,—He dying in their stead.

Verse 12. Turn you to the strong hold] Ye who feel your sins, and are shut up under a sense of your guilt, look to Him who was delivered for your offences, and rose again for your justification. Ye have hope: let that hope lead you to faith, and that faith to the blood of the covenant; and, through that blood, to GOD, the Father of all.

I will render double unto thee.] Give thee an abundance of peace and salvation.

Verse 13. When I have bent Judah] Judah is the bow, and Ephraim is the arrows: and these are to be shot against the Greeks. I am inclined, with Bishop Newcome, to consider that the language of this prophecy is too strong to point out only the trifling advantage which the Maccabees gained over Antiochus, who was of Macedonian descent: and it is probable that these prophecies remain to be fulfilled against the present possessors of Javan or Greece, Macedonia, and a part of Asia Minor.

Verse 14. The LORD shall be seen over them] Shadowing and refreshing them, as the cloud did the camp in the wilderness.

His arrow shall go forth as the lightning] They shall be conquered in a way that will shew that God fights for His followers.

The description here is very sublime; we have a good imitation of it in Nonnus:—

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

15 The LORD of hosts shall defend them; and they shall devour, and [a] subdue with sling stones; and they shall drink, and make a noise as through wine; and they [b] shall be filled like bowls, and as [c] the corners of the altar.

16 And the LORD their God shall save them in that day as the flock of his people: for [d] they shall be as the stones of a crown, [e] lifted up as an ensign upon his land.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

17 For [f] how great is his goodness, and how great is his beauty! [g] corn shall make the young men [h] cheerful, and new wine the maids.

[a] Or, subdued the stones of the sling.——[b] Or, shall fill both the bowls, &c. [c] Lev. 4. 18, 25. Deut. 12. 27.

[d] Isa. 62. 3. Mal. 3. 17.——[e] Isa. 11. 12. [f] Psa. 31. 19.——[g] Joel 3. 18. Amos 9. 14.——[h] Or, grow, or, speak.

Και τοτε γαιαν απασαν επεκλυσεν ὑετιος Ζευς,
Πυκνωσας νεφεεσσιν ὁλον πολον· κρανιη γαρ
Βρονταιοις παταγοισι Διος μυκησατο σαλπιγξ.
NONN. DIONYS. lib. 6, ver. 229.

"When heaven's dread trumpet, sounding from on high,
Breaks forth in thunders through the darken'd sky;
The pregnant clouds to floods of rain give birth,
And stormy Jove o'erwhelms the solid earth." J. B. B. C.

In these two verses there is a fine image, and an allusion to a particular fact, which have escaped the notice of every commentator. I must repeat the verses.—13. When I have bent Judah for me, filled the bow with Ephraim, and raised up thy sons, O Zion, against thy sons, O Greece, and made thee as the sword of a mighty man. 14. And the LORD shall be seen over them, and his arrow shall go forth like lightning. The Reader will consult what is said on Hos. vii, 16, relative to the oriental bow, which resembles a ☽ in its quiescent state, and must be recurved in order to be strung. Here, Judah is represented as the recurved bow; Ephraim, as an arrow placed on the string; and then discharged against the Javanites or Greeks, with the momentum of lightning; the arrow kindling in its course through the air, and thus becoming the bolt of death to them against whom it was directed.

Volat illud, et incandescit eundo,
Et quos non habuit, sub nubibus invenit ignes.
"It flies apace; and heating mounts on high, Glows in its course, and burns along the sky."

Verse 15. The LORD of hosts shall defend them] He alone is the sure trust of His church.

Subdue with sling-stones] This was an ancient and powerful instrument in the hands of the Hebrews. See the Note on Judg. xx, 16.

They shall drink] After the victory gained as above, thy people shall hold a feast, and drink and be filled with wine. There is no intimation here that they shall drink the blood of their enemies, as some barbarous nations were accustomed to do. When they have gained the victory, they shall banquet abundantly on the spoils taken from the enemy.

As the corners of the altar.] They shall pour out libations of wine at the foot of the altar, as the priests were accustomed to pour out the blood of the victims.

Verse 16. Shall save them in that day] They are His flock, and He is their Shepherd; and, as His own, He shall save and defend them.

As the stones of a crown] אבני נזר מתנוססות abeney nezer mithnosesoth, crowned stones erecting themselves; i. e. being set up by themselves, as monuments of some deliverance, they seem to be lifting themselves up; offering themselves to the attention of every passenger. It may however refer to stones anointed with oil; a sort of temporary altars set up to the Lord for a victory gained. The same word is used, Lev. xxi, 12. "Because the crown (נזר nezer,) of the anointing oil of His God, is upon him." Perhaps most of those upright stones, standing in circles, which pass for druidical monuments, were erected to commemorate victories, or to grace the tomb of an illustrious chief. These verses may refer to some final victory over the enemies of God's people.

Verse 17. How great is his goodness] In Himself, and towards them.

And how great is his beauty!] His comeliness, holiness, and purity, put in and upon them.

Corn shall make the young men cheerful] They shall be gladdened and strengthened by plenty of food; and they shall speak aloud of God's mercies in their harvest home.

And new wine the maids.] Who shall prepare the wine from an abundant vintage.

CHAPTER X.

The promise of prosperity and plenty in the close of the preceding Chapter leads the Prophet to suggest next the means of obtaining them; supplication to Jehovah, and not to idols, whose worship had already proved a fertile source of calamities, 1—3. The rest of the Chapter (like the preceding) promises to the Jews a restoration to their own land under rulers and governors, victory over their enemies, and much increase and prosperity; and this in a manner so miraculous, that it is described, 4—12, by allusions to the deliverance from Egypt.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

ASK ye [a] of the LORD [b] rain [c] in the time of the latter rain; so the LORD shall make [d] bright clouds, and give them showers of rain, to every one grass in the field.

2 For the [e] idols [f] have spoken vanity, and the diviners have seen a lie, and have told false dreams; they [g] comfort in vain: therefore they went their way as a flock, they [h] were troubled, [i] because there was no shepherd.

3 Mine anger was kindled against the shepherds, [k] and I [l] punished the goats: for the LORD of hosts [m] hath visited his flock the house of Judah, and [n] hath made them as his goodly horse in the battle.

4 Out of him came forth [o] the corner, out of him [p] the nail, out of him the battle bow, out of him every oppressor together.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

5 And they shall be as mighty men, which [q] tread down their enemies in the mire of the streets in the battle: and they shall fight, because the LORD is with them, and [r] the riders on horses shall be confounded.

6 And I will strengthen the house of Judah, and I will save the house of Joseph, and [s] I will bring them again to place them; for I [t] have mercy upon them: and they shall be as though I had not cast them off: for I am the LORD their God, and [u] will hear them.

7 And they of Ephraim shall be like a mighty man, and their [x] heart shall rejoice as through

[a] Jer. 14. 22.——[b] Deut. 11. 14.——[c] Job 29. 23. Joel 2. 23.——[d] Or, lightnings, Jer. 10. 13.——[e] Jer. 10. 8. Hab. 2. 18.——[f] Heb. teraphim, Judg. 17. 5.——[g] Job 13. 4.——[h] Or, answered that, &c.——[i] Ezek. 34. 5.——[k] Ezek. 34. 17.——[l] Heb. visited upon.——[m] Luke 1. 68.

[n] Cant. 1. 9.——[o] Numb. 24. 17. 1 Sam. 14. 38. Isa. 19. 13.——[p] Isa. 22. 23.——[q] Psa. 18. 42.——[r] Or, they shall make the riders on horses ashamed.——[s] Jer. 3. 18. Ezek. 37. 21.——[t] Hos. 1. 7.——[u] Ch. 13. 9.——[x] Psa. 104. 15. ch. 9. 15.

NOTES ON CHAPTER X.

Verse 1. Ask ye of the LORD rain] Rain, in the due seasons,—1, to impregnate the seed when sown; and, 2, to fill the ear near the time of harvest;—was so essential to the fertility of the land, and the well-being of the people, that it stands well among the chief of God's mercies; and the promise of it here, shews that God designs to insure the prosperity promised, by using those means by which it is promoted.

Verse 2. The idols have spoken vanity] This is spoken of the Jews; and must refer to the idolatry practised before the captivity, for there were no idols after.

Therefore they went their way] They were like a flock that had no shepherd, shifting from place to place, and wandering about in the wilderness, seeking for pasture, wherever they might find it. Some think that the idols and diviners were those of the Seleucidæ Greeks, who excited their masters with promises of success against the Maccabees. Others think, that the Babylonish captivity is foretold; for a determined future event is frequently spoken of by the prophets as past.

Verse 3. Mine anger was kindled against the shepherds] Bad kings and bad priests. I will punish the goats—These were the wicked priests, who were shepherds by their office, and goats by the impurity of their lives.

As his goodly horse in the battle] The honourable war horse, or the horse that carried the general's equipage. In the unaccountable variation of interpreters on these Chapters this, among other things, is thought to be spoken of Matthias and Judas Maccabeus, who assembled the people from all quarters, as a shepherd gathers his sheep together; and led them against the sons of Greece, the Seleucidæ Greeks. Others refer every thing here to times before the captivity.

Verse 4. Out of him came forth the corner] This is spoken of the tribe of Judah; all strength, counsel, and excellence, came from that tribe. The corner stone—the ornament and completion of the building; the nail—by which the tents were fastened, and on which they hung their clothes, armour, &c: the battle bow—the choicest archers.

Every oppressor together.] Those heroes and generals by whom, under God, their foes should be totally routed. Newcome translates, every ruler together. Perhaps all this is spoken of the Messiah.

Verse 5. They shall be as mighty men] The Maccabees and their successors.

Riders on horses] The Macedonians, who opposed the Maccabees, and had much cavalry; whereas the Jews had none, and even few weapons of war, yet they overcame these horsemen.

Verse 6. I will strengthen the house of Judah] I doubt whether the sixth, seventh, eighth, and ninth verses are not to be understood of the future in-gathering of the Jews in the times of the gospel. See Jer. iii, 14, xxiii, 6; Hosea i, 2; vi, 11.

Verse 7. Ephraim shall be like a mighty man] This tribe was always distinguished for its valour.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

wine: yea, their children shall see it, and be glad; their heart shall rejoice in the LORD.

8 I will [a] hiss for them, and gather them; for I have redeemed them: [b] and they shall increase as they have increased.

9 And [c] I will sow them among the people: and they shall [d] remember me in far countries; and they shall live with their children, and turn again.

10 [e] I will bring them again also out of the land of Egypt, and gather them out of Assyria; and I will bring them into the land of Gilead and Lebanon; and [f] place shall not be found for them.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

11 [g] And he shall pass through the sea with affliction, and shall smite the waves in the sea, and all the deeps of the river shall dry up: and [h] the pride of Assyria shall be brought down, and [i] the sceptre of Egypt shall depart away.

12 And I will strengthen them in the LORD: and [k] they shall walk up and down in his name, saith the LORD.

[a] Isa. 5. 26.——[b] Isa. 49. 19. Ezek. 36. 37.——[c] Hos. 2. 23.——[d] Deut. 30. 1.——[e] Isa. 11. 11, 16. Hos. 11. 11.

[f] Isa. 49. 20.——[g] Isa. 11. 15, 16.——[h] Isa. 14. 25.——[i] Ezek. 30. 13.——[k] Mic. 4. 5.

Verse 8. I will hiss for them] אשרקה esherekah, will shriek for them; call them with such a shrill strong voice, that they shall hear me, and find that it is the voice of their redemption.

Verse 9. I will sow them among the people] Wherever they have been dispersed, my voice in the preaching of the gospel shall reach them. And they shall remember me, and they and their children shall turn again to the LORD, through Messiah their King.

Verse 10. Out of the land of Egypt] I will bring them out of all the countries where they have been dispersed, and bring them back to their own land; and they shall be so numerous, that they shall scarcely find there, in all its length and breadth, a sufficiency of room. If all the Jews that are now scattered over the face of the earth were gathered together, they would make a mighty nation. And God will gather them together. As a wonderful Providence has preserved them in every place, so a wondrous Providence will collect them from every place of their dispersion. When the great call comes, not one soul of them shall be left behind.

Verse 11. And he shall pass through the sea] Here is an allusion to the passage of the Red sea, on their coming out of Egypt; and to their crossing Jordan, when they went into the Promised Land: the waves or waters of both were dried up; thrown from side to side, till all the people passed safely through. When they shall return from the various countries in which they now sojourn, God will work, if necessary, similar miracles to those which he formerly worked for their forefathers; and the people shall be glad to let them go, however much they may be profited by their operations in the state. Those that oppose, as Assyria and Egypt formerly did, shall be brought down, and their sceptre broken.

Verse 12. I will strengthen them in the LORD] I, the God of Israel, will strengthen them in their Lord Jesus, the Messiah; and thus indeed the Chaldee—I will strengthen them במימרא דיי be-meymra dayai, in or by the WORD of Jehovah, the same personal Word which we so often meet with in the Chaldee paraphrases or Targums.

They shall walk up and down in his name] In the name of the Messiah. Saith the LORD—GOD speaks here not of Himself, but concerning His Christ. The Jews shall have complete liberty; they shall appear every where as a part of the flock of Christ, and no difference be made between them and the converted Gentiles. They shall be all one fold, under one Shepherd and Bishop of all souls.

CHAPTER XI.

The commencement of this Chapter relates to the destruction of Jerusalem and the Jewish polity, probably by the Babylonians; at least in the first instance, as the fourth verse speaks of the people thus threatened as the Prophet's charge, 1—6. The Prophet then gives an account of the manner in which he discharged his office, and the little value that was put on his labours. And this he does by symbolical actions, a common mode of instruction with the ancient Prophets, 7—14. After the Prophet, on account of the unsuccessfulness of his labours, had broken the two crooks which were the true badges of his pastoral office, (to denote the annulling of God's covenant with them, and their consequent divisions and dispersions,) he is directed to take instruments calculated to hurt and destroy, perhaps an iron crook, scrip, and stones, to express by these symbols the judgments which God was about to inflict on them by wicked rulers and guides, who should first destroy the flock, and in the end be destroyed themselves, 15—17. Let us now view this prophecy in another light, as we are authorized to do by Scripture, (Matt. xxvii, 7.) In this view the Prophet, in the Person of the Messiah, sets forth the ungrateful returns made to him by the Jews, when he undertook the office of a Shepherd in guiding and governing them;—how they rejected Him, and valued Him and His labours at the mean and contemptible price of thirty pieces of silver, the paltry sum for which Judas betrayed Him. Upon which He threatens to destroy their city and Temple; and to give them up to the hands of such guides and governors as should have no regard to their welfare.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

OPEN [a] thy doors, O Lebanon, that the fire may devour thy cedars.

2 Howl, fir tree, for the cedar is fallen; because the [b] mighty is spoiled: howl, O ye oaks of Bashan; [c] for [d] the forest of the vintage is come down.

3 There is a voice of the howling of the shepherds; for their glory is spoiled: a voice of the roaring of young lions; for the pride of Jordan is spoiled.

4 Thus saith the LORD my God; [e] Feed the flock of the slaughter;

5 Whose possessors slay them, and [f] hold themselves not guilty: and they that sell them [g] say, Blessed be the LORD; for I am rich: and their own shepherds pity them not.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

6 For I will no more pity the inhabitants of the land, saith the LORD: but, lo, I will [h] deliver the men every one into his neighbour's hand, and into the hand of his king: and they shall smite the land, and out of their hand I will not deliver them.

7 And I will [i] feed the flock of slaughter [k] even you, [l] O poor of the flock. And I took unto me two staves; the one I called Beauty, and the other I called [m] Bands; and I fed the flock.

[a] Ch. 10. 10.——[b] Or, gallants.——[c] Isa. 32. 19.——[d] Or, the defenced forest.
[e] Ver. 7.——[f] Jer. 2. 3. & 50. 7.——[g] Deut. 29. 19. Hos. 12. 8.

[h] Heb. make to be found.——[i] Ver. 4.——[k] Or, verily the poor.——[l] Zeph. 3. 12. Matt. 11. 5.——[m] Or, Binders.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XI.

Verse 1. Open thy doors, O Lebanon] I will give Mr. Joseph Mede's Note upon this verse:—

"That which moveth me more than the rest, is in chap. xi, which contains a prophecy of the destruction of Jerusalem, and a description of the wickedness of the inhabitants; for which God would give them to the sword, and have no more pity upon them. It is expounded of the destruction by Titus: but methinks such a prophecy was nothing seasonable for Zachary's time, (when the city yet for a great part lay in her ruins, and the Temple had not yet recovered her's) nor agreeable to the scope of Zachary's commission; who, together with his colleague Haggai, was sent to encourage the people, lately returned from captivity, to build their Temple, and instaurate their commonwealth. Was this a fit time to foretel the destruction of both, while they were yet but a-building? And by Zachary too, who was to encourage them? Would not this better befit the desolation by Nebuchadnezzar?" I really think so. See Mr. J. Mede's LXI Epistle.

Lebanon signifies the Temple, because built of materials principally brought from that place.

Verse 2. Howl, fir-tree] This seems to point out the fall and destruction of all the mighty men.

Verse 3. Young lions] Princes and rulers. By shepherds, kings or priests may be intended.

Verse 4. Feed the flock of the slaughter] This people resemble a flock of sheep fattened for the shambles; feed,—instruct this people who are about to be slaughtered.

Verse 5. Whose possessors] Governors and false prophets—slay them, by leading them in to those things that will bring them to destruction.

And they that sell them] Give them up to idolatry; and bless God, strange to tell, that they get secular advantage by the establishment of this false religion.

Verse 6. For I will no more pity] I have determined to deliver them into the hands of the Chaldeans.

Verse 7. And I will feed the flock of slaughter] I shewed them what God had revealed to me relative to the evils coming upon the land; and I did this the more especially, for the sake of the poor of the flock.

Two staves] Two shepherd's crooks. One I called Beauty,—that probably by which they marked the sheep; dipping the end into vermillion, or some red liquor. And this was done when they were to mark every tenth sheep, as it came out of the fold, when the tithe was to be set off for the Lord.

The other I called Bands] Probably that with the hook or crook at the head of it; by which the shepherd was wont to catch the sheep by the horns, when he wished to bring any to hand.

And I fed the flock.] These two rods shew the beauty

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

8 Three shepherds also I cut off [a] in one month; and my soul [b] lothed them, and their soul also abhorred me.

9 Then said I, I will not feed you: [c] that that dieth, let it die: and that that is to be cut off, let it be cut off; and let the rest eat every one the flesh [d] of another.

10 And I took my staff, even Beauty, and cut it asunder, that I might break my covenant which I had made with all the people.

11 And it was broken in that day: and [e] so [f] the poor of the flock that waited upon me knew that it was the word of the LORD.

12 And I said unto them, [g] If ye think good, give me my price; and if not, forbear. So they [h] weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

13 And the LORD said unto me, Cast it unto the [i] potter: a goodly price that I was prised at of them. And I took the thirty pieces of silver, and cast them to the potter in the house of the LORD.

14 Then I cut asunder mine other staff, even [k] Bands, that I might break the brotherhood between Judah and Israel.

15 And the LORD said unto me, [l] Take unto thee yet the instruments of a foolish shepherd.

16 For, lo, I will raise up a shepherd in the land, which shall not visit those that be [m] cut off, neither shall seek the young one, nor heal that that is broken, nor [n] feed that that standeth still:

---

[a] Hos. 5. 7.——[b] Heb. was straitened for them.——[c] Jer. 15. 2. & 43. 11.——[d] Heb. of his fellow, or, neighbour.——[e] Or, the poor of the flock, &c, certainly knew.——[f] Zeph. 3. 12. ver. 7.

[g] If it be good in your eyes.——[h] Matt. 26. 15. See Exod. 21. 32.——[i] Matt. 27. 9, 12.——[k] Or, Binders.——[l] Ezek. 34. 2, 3, 4.——[m] Or, hidden.——[n] Or, bear.

---

and union of the people, while under God as their Shepherd. It was the delight of God to see them in a state of peace and harmony.

Verse 8. Three shepherds also I cut off in one month] Taking this literally, some think the three shepherds mean the three Maccabees; Judas, Jonathan, and Simon.

Others, the three wicked high-priests, Jason, Alcimus, and Menelaus; others, the three last princes of the Asmonean race, Alexander, Hyrcanus, and Antigonus.

Perhaps three orders may be intended:—1. The priesthood. 2. The dictatorship, including the Scribes, Pharisees, &c. 3. The magistracy, the great Sanhedrin, and the smaller councils. These were all annihilated by the Roman conquest.

Verse 9. I will not feed you] I shall instruct you no longer: some of you are appointed to death by famine; others to be cut off by the sword; and others of you to such desperation, that ye shall destroy one another.

Verse 10. I took my staff—Beauty, and cut it asunder] And thus I shewed that I determined no longer to preserve them in their free and glorious state. And thus I brake my covenant with them, which they had broken on their part already.

Verse 11. So the poor of the flock] The pious, who attended to my teaching, saw that this was the word, the design, of God.

Verse 12. If ye think good, give me my price] "Give me my hire." And they rated it contemptuously; thirty pieces of silver being the price of a slave, Exod. xxi, 32.

Verse 13. And the LORD said unto me, Cast it unto the potter] Jehovah calls the price of His prophet His own price; and commands that it should not be accepted, but given to a potter, to foreshadow the transaction related Matt. xxvii, 7.

"Earthen vessels were useful in the Temple; and we may suppose that some Levites were employed within the sacred precincts to furnish them. To these, the humblest of His ministers in the Temple, God commands that the degrading price should be cast." This is the substance of the notes on these two verses, given by Abp. Newcome.

We may look at it in another light, Give me my price? הבו שכרי habu sicri, bring my price, or give him my price; that is, give the money to Judas which you have agreed to give him: for he can neither betray me, nor you crucify me, but by my own permission. But if not, forbear:—take time to consider this bloody business, and in time forbear. For though I permit you to do it, yet remember that the permission does not necessitate you to do it; and the salvation of the world may be effected without this treachery and murder.

See my Notes on this place, Matt. xxvii, 9, where I have examined the evidence for the reading of "Zechariah the prophet," instead of "Jeremiah."

Verse 14. That I might break the brotherhood] I cannot, says Newcome, explain this passage, without supposing that the kingdom of Israel subsisted when the Prophet wrote it; and that either the wars between Judah and Israel are referred to, see 2 Kings xvi, 5, or the captivity of the ten tribes, when the brotherly connexion between these kingdoms ceased.

Verse 15. The instruments of a foolish shepherd.] Such as a bag without bread, a scrip without measure, and a staff without a hook, &c; things that were needless or of no use; to point out the Jewish pastors who took no care of the flock, but devoured them, or ruled them with force and with cruelty.

Verse 16. I will raise up a shepherd in the land] Some wicked king; and Newcome supposes Hoshea may be meant.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

but he shall eat the flesh of the fat, and tear their claws in pieces.

17 [a] Woe to the idol shepherd that leaveth the flock: the sword shall be upon his arm, and upon his right eye: his [b] arm shall be clean dried up, and his right eye shall be utterly darkened.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

[a] Jer. 23. 1. Ezek. 34. 2. John 10. 12, 13.

[b] Psa. 10. 5.

See 2 Kings xvii, 1, 2; and to such an abominable sovereign the prophecy may well apply.

Verse 17. Woe to the idol shepherd] רעי האליל rôi hacelil, the worthless, or good for nothing shepherd. The shepherd in name and office, but not performing the work of one. See John x, 11.

The sword shall be upon his arm] Punishment shall be executed upon the wicked Jews, and especially their wicked kings and priests. See ver. 16.

Arm—the secular power; right eye—the ecclesiastical state.

His arm shall be clean dried up] The secular power shall be broken, and become utterly inefficient.

His right eye shall be utterly darkened.] Prophecy shall be restrained; and the whole state, ecclesiastical and civil, shall be so completely eclipsed, that none of their functions shall be performed. This may refer to the worthless and wicked governor mentioned in the preceding verse.

There are several things in this Chapter that are very obscure, and we can hardly say what opinion is right. Nor is at all clear whether they refer to a very early or late period of the Jewish history.

CHAPTER XII.

The first part of this Chapter (with several passages in chap. xiv,) relate to an invasion that shall be made on the inhabitants of Judea and Jerusalem in the latter ages of the world, some time after the restoration and settlement of the Jews in their own land. It also describes in very magnificent terms, the signal interposition of God in their favour. From this the Prophet proceeds in the latter part of the Chapter, 10—14, to describe the spiritual mercies of God in converting His people; and gives a very pathetic and affecting account of the deep sorrow of that people, when brought to a sense of their great sin in crucifying the Messiah, comparing it to the sorrow of a parent for his first-born and only son, or to the lamentations made for Josiah in the valley of Megiddon (2 Chron. xxxv, 24, 25.) A deep retired sorrow, which will render the mourners for a season insensible to all the comforts and enjoyments of the most endearing society.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

THE burden of the word of the LORD for Israel, saith the LORD, [a] which stretcheth forth the heavens, and layeth the foundation of the earth, and [b] formeth the spirit of man within him.

2 Behold, I will make Jerusalem [c] a cup of [d] trembling unto all the people round about, [e] when they shall be in the siege both against Judah and against Jerusalem.

3 [f] And in that day will I make Jerusalem [g] a

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

[a] Isa. 42. 5. & 44. 24. & 45. 12, 18. & 48. 13.——[b] Numb. 16. 22. Eccles. 12. 7. Isa. 57. 16. Heb. 12. 9.——[c] Isa. 51. 17, 22, 23.——[d] Or, slumber, or, voison.

[e] Or, and also against Judah shall he be which shall be in siege against Jerusalem.——[f] Ver. 4, 6, 8, 9, 11. & ch. 13. 1. & 14. 4, 6, 8, 9, 13.——[g] Matt. 21. 44.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XII.

Verse 1. The burden of the word of the LORD] This is a new prophecy. It is directed both to Israel and Judah, though Israel alone is mentioned in this verse.

Which stretcheth forth the heavens] See on Isa. xlii, 5.

Formeth the spirit of man within him] Then it is not the same substance with his body. It is a SPIRIT within HIM.

Verse 2. Jerusalem a cup of trembling] The Babylonians, who captivated and ruined the Jews, shall in their turn be ruined.

I incline to think that what is spoken in this Chapter about the Jews and Jerusalem, belongs to the glory of the latter times.

Shall be in the siege] This may refer to some war against the church of Christ, such as that mentioned, Rev. xx, 9.

Verse 3. A burdensome stone] Probably referring to that stone which was thrown on the breast of a culprit, (who was adjudged to lose his life by stoning,) by which the whole region of the thorax, heart, lungs, liver, &c, were broken to pieces.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

burdensome stone for all people: all that burden themselves with it shall be cut in pieces, though all the people of the earth be gathered together against it.

4 In that day, saith the LORD, [a] I will smite every horse with astonishment, and his rider with madness: and I will open mine eyes upon the house of Judah, and will smite every horse of the people with blindness.

5 And the governors of Judah shall say in their heart, [b] The inhabitants of Jerusalem shall be my strength in the LORD of hosts their God.

6 In that day will I make the governors of Judah [c] like a hearth of fire among the wood, and like a torch of fire in a sheaf; and they shall devour all the people round about, on the right hand and on the left: and Jerusalem shall be inhabited again in her own place, even in Jerusalem.

7 The LORD also shall save the tents of Judah first, that the glory of the house of David and the glory of the inhabitants of Jerusalem do not magnify themselves against Judah.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

8 In that day shall the LORD defend the inhabitants of Jerusalem; and [d] he that is [e] feeble [f] among them at that day shall be as David; and the house of David shall be as God, as the angel of the LORD before them.

9 And it shall come to pass in that day, that I will seek to [g] destroy all the nations that come against Jerusalem.

10 [h] And I will pour upon the house of David, and upon the inhabitants of Jerusalem, the spirit of grace and of supplications: and they shall [i] look upon me whom they have pierced, and they shall mourn for him, [k] as one mourneth for his only son, and shall be in bitterness for him, as one that is in bitterness for his firstborn.

11 In that day shall there be a great [l] mourning in Jerusalem, [m] as the mourning of Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddon.

---

[a] Psa. 76. 6. Ezek. 38. 4. —— [b] Or, There is, strength to me and to the inhabitants, &c. Joel 3. 16. —— [c] Obad. 18. —— [d] Joel 3. 10. —— [e] Or, abject. —— [f] Heb. fallen.

[g] Hag. 2. 22. ver. 3. —— [h] Jer. 31. 9. & 50. 4. Ezek. 39. 29. Joel 2. 28. —— [i] John 19. 34, 37. Rev. 1. 7. —— [k] Jer. 6. 26. Amos 8. 10. —— [l] Acts 2. 37. —— [m] 2 Kings 23. 29. 2 Chron. 35. 24.

Verse 4. I will smite every horse] Some apply this to the wars of the Maccabees with the Syrians: but it is more likely to be a prophecy not yet accomplished. The terms are too strong for such petty and evanescent victories as those of the Maccabees.

Verse 5. The governors of Judah] This supposes a union between the two kingdoms of Israel and Judah.

Verse 6. Jerusalem shall be inhabited again] This seems to refer to the future conversion of the Jews, and their return to their own land.

Verse 7. The LORD also shall save the tents of Judah first] This, I suppose, refers to the same thing. The gospel of Christ shall go from the least to the greatest. Eminent men are not the first that are called; the poor have the gospel preached to them. And this is done in the wise providence of God, that the glory of the house of David, &c, —that secular influence may appear to have no hand in the matter; and that God does not send His gospel to a great man, because he is such.

Verse 8. He that is feeble among them—shall be as David] Here is a marked difference between Judaism and Christianity. So clear, full, and efficient, shall be the salvation of believers under the gospel, that the feeblest among them shall be as strong, as full of courage, and as successful, as David, when he went against Goliah. The least in the kingdom of heaven was greater than John the Baptist.

And the house of David—as the angel of the LORD] The family, the church of the true David, the Lord Jesus, shall be as the angel of the Lord; shall stand in the Divine presence like Gabriel; for Christ hath said, Blessed is the pure in heart, for they shall see God. So "we all with open face, beholding as in a glass the glory of the Lord, are changed from glory into glory by the Spirit of the Lord." Thus the house of David, the true Christians, shall here walk with, after, and before God.

Verse 9. I will seek to destroy all the nations] When this time shall arrive, all nations that will not receive the faith of our Lord Jesus shall be destroyed, when the long-suffering of God shall no longer wait upon them. This seems to belong to a period yet very remote.

Verse 10. I will pour upon the house of David] This is the way in which the Jews themselves shall be brought into the Christian church. 1. They shall have the spirit of grace;—God will shew them, that He yet bears favour to them. 2. They shall be excited to fervent and continual prayer for the restoration of the Divine favour. 3. Christ shall be preached unto them; and they shall look upon and believe in Him whom they pierced, whom they crucified at Jerusalem. 4. This shall produce deep and sincere repentance: they shall mourn, and be in bitterness of soul, to think that they had crucified the Lord of life and glory, and so long continued to contradict and blaspheme, since that time.

Verse 11. A great mourning] A universal repentance.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

12 [a] And the land shall mourn [b] every family apart; the family of the house of David apart, and their wives apart; the family of the house of [c] Nathan apart, and their wives apart;

13 The family of the house of Levi apart, and their wives apart; the family [d] of Shimei apart, and their wives apart;

14 All the families that remain, every family apart, and their wives apart.

[a] Matt. 24. 30. Rev. 1. 7.——[b] Heb. families, families.

[c] 2 Sam. 5. 14. Luke 3. 31.——[d] Or, of Simeon, as LXX.

As the mourning of Hadadrimmon] They shall mourn as deeply for the crucified Christ, as their forefathers did for the death of Josiah, who was slain at Hadadrimmon in the valley of Megiddo. See 2 Chron. xxxv, 24, 25.

Verse 12. Every family apart] The meaning of the word apart, which recurs here so often, may be this: their sorrow shall be so deep and distressing, that every one will endeavour to avoid another, and vent his grief and distress of soul in private. And even husbands and wives shall separate from each other, in this general mourning, as they were obliged to do by the law in certain circumstances. See 1 Cor. vii, 5, and the note there.

CHAPTER XIII.

After the conversion and humiliation of the Jews, foretold in the preceding Chapter, they are here promised the full pardon of their sins, and a deliverance from idolatry and false prophets, 1—6. Prophecy concerning the death of the Messiah, and the persecution of His disciples, 7. The remaining verses may refer to those Jewish converts to Christianity who survived the calamities which their country suffered from the Romans, 8, 9.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

IN [a] that day there shall be [b] a fountain opened to the house of David and to the inhabitants of Jerusalem for sin and for [c] uncleanness.

2 And it shall come to pass in that day, saith the LORD of hosts, that I will [d] cut off the names of the idols out of the land, and they shall no more be remembered: and also I will cause [e] the prophets and the unclean spirit to pass out of the land.

[a] Ch. 12. 3.——[b] Heb. 9. 14. 1 Pet. 1. 19. Rev. 1. 5.——[c] Heb. separation for uncleanness.

[d] Exod. 23. 13. Josh. 23. 7. Psa. 16. 4. Ezek. 30. 13. Hos. 2. 17. Mic. 5. 12, 13.——[e] 2 Pet. 2. 1.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XIII.

Verse 1. In that day there shall be a fountain opened] This Chapter is a continuation of the preceding, and should not have been separated from it.

A fountain] The source of mercy in Christ Jesus; perhaps referring to the death He should die; and the piercing of his side, when blood and water issued out.

To the house of David] To David's family, and such like persons as it included. See the history of David and his sons; and then learn for whom Christ shed His blood.

Inhabitants of Jerusalem] Such like persons as the Jews were, in every part of their history, and in their last times, when they clamoured for the blood of Christ, and pursued Him unto death! Learn from this also, for whom Christ died! These were the worst of the human race; and if He died for them, none need despair. They rejected, betrayed, crucified, slew, and blasphemed Christ; and afterwards persecuted His followers. For these He died! Yes: and He tasted death for EVERY MAN.

For sin and for uncleanness] For the removal of the guilt of sin, and for the purification of the soul from the uncleanness or pollution of sin.

Verse 2. I will cut off the names of the idols] There shall not only be no idolatry, but the very names of the idols shall be forgotten; or be held in such abhorrence, that no person shall mention them. This prophecy seems to be ancient, and to have been delivered while idolatry had prevalence in Israel and Judah.

I will cause the prophets] All false teachers.

And the unclean spirit] That which leads to impurity,

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

3 And it shall come to pass, that when any shall yet prophesy, then his father and his mother that begat him shall say unto him, Thou shalt not live; for thou speakest lies in the name of the LORD: and his father and his mother that begat him [a] shall thrust him through when he prophesieth.

4 And it shall come to pass in that day, that [b] the prophets shall be ashamed every one of his vision, when he hath prophesied; neither shall they wear [c] a [d] rough garment [e] to deceive:

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

5 [f] But he shall say, I am no prophet, I am a husbandman; for man taught me to keep cattle from my youth.

6 And one shall say unto him, What are these wounds in thine hands? Then he shall answer, Those with which I was wounded in the house of my friends.

7 Awake, O sword, against [g] my Shepherd, and against the man [h] that is my Fellow, saith

[a] Deut. 13. 6, 8. & 18. 20.——[b] Mic. 3. 6, 7.——[c] 2 Kings 1. 8. Isa. 20. 2. Matt. 3. 4.——[d] Heb. a garment of hair.

[e] Heb. to lie.——[f] Amos 7. 14.——[g] Isa. 40. 11. Ezek. 34. 23.——[h] John 10. 30. & 14. 10, 11. Phil. 2. 6.

the spirit of divination; the lust of the flesh, and of the eye, and the pride of life. Satan shall have neither a being in, nor power over, the hearts of sincere believers in Christ.

Verse 3. When any shall yet prophesy] Falsely; such shall be the horror of such an evil, that there shall be no toleration for it. Itself, and they who practise it, shall be every where destroyed.

Verse 4. Neither shall they wear a rough garment] A rough garment, made of goats' hair, coarse wool, or the coarse pile of the camel, was the ordinary garb of God's prophets. And the false prophets wore the same: for they pretended to the same gifts, and the same spirit; and therefore they wore the same kind of garments. John Baptist had a garment of this kind.

Verse 5. But he shall say, I am no prophet] This must be the case of a false prophet or diviner, who had been obliged to give up his infamous practice, and became even a labourer in the land. But having been known to be such, he is questioned by the people, to see if he still were addicted in heart to the same practices. He declares he is no prophet, neither true nor false; that he is now a husbandman, and was brought up a herdsman.

Verse 6. What are these wounds in thine hands?] Marks which he had received in honour of his idols. But he shall excuse himself by stating that he had received these marks in his own family; when, most probably, they had been dedicated to some of those idols. See the Note on Isa. xliv, 5. I do not think that these words are spoken at all concerning Jesus Christ. I have heard them quoted in this way: but I cannot hear such application of them without horror. In quoting from the Old Testament in reference to the New, we cannot be too cautious. We may wound the truth, instead of honouring it.

Verse 7. Awake, O sword, against my Shepherd] This is generally understood of Jesus Christ. The sword is that of Divine justice, which seemed to have been long asleep; and should long ago have struck either MAN, or his SUBSTITUTE, the Messiah. Jesus is here called God's Shepherd, because He had appointed Him to feed and govern, as well as to save, the whole lost world. This is a prosopopœia, and the address to the sword is very poetic. There is a fine passage in Æschylus to the same effect:—

Ξενος δε κληροις επινωμα,
Χαλυβος Σκυθων αποικος,
Κτεανων χρηματοδαιτας
Πικρος, ωμοφρων σιδαρος,
Χθονα ναιειν διαπηλας
Ὁσσον αν και φθιμενοισι κατεχειν,
Των μεγαλων ποδιων αμοιρος.

ÆSCHYL. Sept. cont. Theb. 733.

"The rude barbarian, from the mines
Of Scythia, o'er the lots presides;
Ruthless to each his share assigns,
And the contested realm divides:
To each allots no wider a domain
Than, on the cold earth as they lie,
Their breathless bodies occupy,
Regardless of an ampler reign:
Such narrow compass does the sword,
A cruel umpire,—their high claims afford."

POTTER.

The man that is my Fellow] גבר עמיתי ve-âl geber âmiti, upon the strong man, or, "the hero that is with ME;" my neighbour. The WORD was God, and the WORD was WITH God,—John i, 1. I and my Father are ONE,—John x, 30.

Smite the Shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered] This is quoted by our Lord, Matt. xxvi, 31, in relation to His disciples, who should be scattered on His crucifixion:—and they were so; for every one, giving up all for lost, went to his own home.

And I will turn mine hand upon the little ones.] I will take care of the little flock, and preserve them from Jewish malice and Gentile persecution. And so this little flock was most wondrously preserved, and has been increasing from year to year from that time to the present day.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

the LORD of hosts: [a] smite the shepherd, and the sheep shall be scattered: and I will turn mine hand upon [b] the little ones.

8 And it shall come to pass, that in all the land saith the LORD, two parts therein shall be cut off and die; [c] but the third shall be left therein.

9 And I will bring the third part [d] through the fire, and will [e] refine them as silver is refined, and will try them as gold is tried: [f] they shall call on my name, and I will hear them: [g] I will say, It is my people; and they shall say, The LORD is my God.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

[a] Matt. 26. 31. Mark 14. 27.——[b] Matt. 18. 10, 14. Luke 12. 32.——[c] Rom. 11. 5.——[d] Isa. 48. 10.

[e] 1 Pet. 1. 6, 7.——[f] Psa. 50. 15. & 91. 15. ch. 10. 6.——[g] Psa. 144. 15. Jer. 30. 22. Ezek. 11. 20. Hos. 2. 23. ch. 8. 8.

Verse 8. Two parts therein shall be cut off] In the war with the Romans,—

But the third shall be left] Those who believe on the Lord Jesus Christ shall be preserved alive; and not one of these perished in the siege, or afterwards, by those wars.

Verse 9. I will bring the third part through the fire] The Christian church shall endure a great fight of afflictions, by which they shall be refined,—not consumed.

They shall call on my name] In this way shall they offer all their prayers and supplications to God.

I will say, It is my people] The church that I have chosen in the place of the Jews who have filled up the measure of their iniquity.

And they shall say, The LORD is my God] And thus communion shall be established between me and them for ever. Thus, there shall be a general restoration.

CHAPTER XIV.

The commencement of this Chapter relates to the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, and to the calamities consequent on that event. From this great Jewish tragedy the Prophet immediately passes to the utter extermination of the enemies of Christianity in the latter days. God will display His power in behalf of His people in a manner so astonishing and miraculous that even they themselves, and much more their enemies, shall be struck with terror, 4, 5. The national prosperity of the Jews shall then be permanent and unmixed, 6, 7; and these people shall be made the instruments of converting many to the faith of the Messiah, 8, 9. The great increase and prosperity of the Christian church, the New Jerusalem, is then described in terms accommodated to Jewish ideas; and the most signal vengeance denounced against all her enemies, 10—19. From that happy period God's name will be honoured in every thing, and His worship every where most reverently observed, 20, 21.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

BEHOLD, [a] the day of the LORD cometh, and thy spoil shall be divided in the midst of thee.

2 For [b] I will gather all nations against Jerusalem to battle; and the city shall be taken, and [c] the houses rifled, and the women ravished; and half of the city shall go forth into captivity, and the residue of the people shall not be cut off from the city.

3 Then shall the LORD go forth, and fight

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLIIIV. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

[a] Isa. 13. 9. Joel 2. 31. Acts 2. 20.

[b] Joel 3. 2.——[c] Isa. 13. 16.

NOTES ON CHAPTER XIV.

Verse 1. Behold, the day of the LORD cometh] This appears to be a prediction of that war in which Jerusalem was finally destroyed, and the Jews scattered all over the face of the earth; and of the effects produced by it.

Verse 2. I will gather all nations] The Romans, whose armies were composed of all the nations of the world. In this verse there is a pitiful account given of the horrible outrages which should be committed during the siege of Jerusalem, and at its capture.

The residue of the people shall not be cut off] Many were preserved for slaves, and for exhibition on the provincial theatres.

Verse 3. Then shall the LORD go forth, and fight against against those nations, as when he fought in the day of battle.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

4 And his feet shall stand in that day [a] upon the mount of Olives, which is before Jerusalem on the east, and the mount of Olives shall cleave in the midst thereof toward the east and toward the west, [b] and there shall be a very great valley; and half of the mountain shall remove toward the north, and half of it toward the south.

5 And ye shall flee to the valley of [c] the mountains; [d] for the valley of the mountains shall reach unto Azal: yea, ye shall flee like as ye fled from before the [e] earthquake in the days of Uzziah king of Judah: [f] and the LORD my God shall come, and [g] all the saints with thee.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

6 And it shall come to pass in that day, [h] that the light shall not be [i] clear, nor [k] dark:

7 But [l] it shall be [m] one day [n] which shall be known to the LORD, not day, nor night: but it shall come to pass, that at [o] evening time it shall be light.

8 And it shall be in that day, that living [p] waters shall go out from Jerusalem; half of them toward the [q] former sea, and half of them toward the hinder sea: in summer and in winter shall it be.

9 And the LORD shall be [r] King over all the earth: in that day shall there be [s] one LORD, and his name one.

10 All the land shall be [t] turned [u] as a plain

[a] See Ezek. 11. 23.——[b] Joel 3. 12, 14.——[c] Or, my mountains.——[d] Or, when he shall touch the valley of the mountains to the place he separated.——[e] Amos 1. 1.——[f] Matt. 16. 27. & 24. 30, 31. & 25. 31. Jude 14.——[g] Joel 3. 11.——[h] i. e. it shall not be clear in some places, and dark in other places of the world.

[i] Heb. precious.——[k] Heb. thickness.——[l] Or. the day shall be one.——[m] Rev. 22. 5.——[n] Matt. 24. 36.——[o] Isa. 30. 26. & 60. 19, 20. Rev. 21. 23.——[p] Ezek. 47. 1. Joel 3. 18. Rev. 22. 1.——[q] Or, eastern. Joel 2. 20.——[r] Dan. 2. 44. Rev. 11. 15.——[s] Eph. 4. 5, 6.——[t] Or, compassed.——[u] Isa. 40. 4.

those nations] Against the Romans,—by means of the northern nations; who shall destroy the whole empire of this once mistress of the world. But this is an obscure place.

Verse 4. And his feet shall stand] He shall appear in full possession of the place, as a mighty Conqueror.

And the mount of Olives shall cleave] God shall display His miraculous power as fully in the final restoration of the Jews, as He did when He divided the Red sea that their forefathers might pass through dry-shod. Some refer this to the destruction of the city by the Romans. It was on the mount of Olives that Titus posted his army to batter Jerusalem. Here the tenth legion, that came to him from Jericho, was placed. JOSEPH. De Bello, lib. vi, c. 3. It was from this mountain that our Lord beheld Jerusalem, and predicted its future destruction, Luke xix, 41, with Matt. xxiv, 23; and it was from this mountain that He ascended to heaven, (Acts i, 12,) utterly leaving an ungrateful and condemned city.

And half of the mountain shall remove] I really think that these words refer to the lines of circumvallation, to intrenchments, redoubts, &c, which the Romans made while carrying on the siege of this city; and particularly the lines or trenches which the army made on Mount Olivet itself.

Verse 5. Ye shall flee to the valley] Some think this refers to the valley through which Zedekiah and others endeavoured to escape when Nebuchadnezzar pressed the siege of Jerusalem: but it appears to speak only of the Jewish wars of the Romans.

Azal] This, as a place, is not known. If a place, it was most probably near to Jerusalem; and had its name from that circumstance.

Verse 6. The light shall not be clear, nor dark] Metaphorically. There will be a mixture of justice and mercy in all this; or, a bright light and darkness. Mercy shall triumph over judgment. There shall be darkness,—distress, &c: but there shall be more light,—joy and prosperity,—than darkness.

Verse 7. At evening time it shall be light.] At the close of this awful visitation, there shall be light. The light of the glorious Gospel shall go forth from Jerusalem; and, next from the Roman empire to every part of the earth.

Verse 8. Living waters shall go out] There shall be a wide diffusion of Divine knowledge, and of the plan of human salvation; which shall go out by apostles and preachers first from Jerusalem, then to Syria, Asia Minor, Greece, Italy, &c.

The former sea, and—the hinder sea] The Dead sea and the Mediterranean; see on Joel ii, 20. These are metaphors.

In summer] In time of drought,—or, in the countries where there was no knowledge of God,—there shall these waters flow. The stream shall never cease;—it shall run in summer as well as winter. These are living waters,—perennial, incessant; and waters that shall preserve life. See John vii, 37.

Verse 9. And the LORD shall be King] When this universal diffusion of Divine knowledge shall take place. Wherever it goes, the laws of God shall be acknowledged; and, consequently, He be King over the whole earth.

One LORD, and his name one] There shall be in those blessed days only one religion, and one form of religion. There shall not be gods many, and lords many. All mankind shall be of one religion, the essence of which is,—"Thou shalt love the LORD thy GOD with all thy heart, soul, mind, and strength; and thy NEIGHBOUR as thyself."

Verse 10. All the land shall be turned as a plain] Or,

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

from Geba to Rimmon, south of Jerusalem: and it shall be lifted up, and [a] inhabited [b] in her place, from Benjamin's gate unto the place of the first gate, unto the corner gate, [c] and from the tower of Hananeel unto the king's winepresses.

11 And men shall dwell in it, and there shall be [d] no more utter destruction; [e] but Jerusalem [f] shall be safely inhabited.

12 And this shall be the plague wherewith the LORD will smite all the people that have fought against Jerusalem; Their flesh shall consume away while they stand upon their feet, and their eyes shall consume away in their holes, and their tongue shall consume away in their mouth.

13 And it shall come to pass in that day, that [g] a great tumult from the LORD shall be among them; and they shall lay hold every one on the hand of his neighbour, and [h] his hand shall rise up against the hand of his neighbour.

14 And [i] Judah also shall fight [k] at Jerusalem; [l] and the wealth of all the heathen round about shall be gathered together, gold, and silver, and apparel, in great abundance.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

15 And [m] so shall be the plague of the horse, of the mule, of the camel, and of the ass, and of all the beasts that shall be in these tents, as this plague.

16 And it shall come to pass, that every one that is left of all the nations which came against Jerusalem shall even [n] go up from year to year to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, and to keep [o] the feast of tabernacles.

17 [p] And it shall be, that whoso will not come up of all the families of the earth unto Jerusalem to worship the King, the LORD of hosts, even upon them shall be no rain.

18 And if the family of Egypt go not up, and come not, [q] that [r] have no rain; there shall be the plague, wherewith the LORD will smite the

[a] Ch. 12. 6.——[b] Or, shall abide.——[c] Neh. 3. 1. & 12. 39. Jer 31. 38——[d] Jer. 31. 40.——[e] Jer. 23. 6.——[f] Or, shall abide.——[g] 1 Sam. 14. 15, 20.——[h] Judg. 7. 22. 2 Chron. 20. 23. Ezek. 38. 21.——[i] Or, thou, also, O Judah, shalt.

[k] Or, against.——[l] Ezek. 39. 10, 17, &c.——[m] Ver. 12.——[n] Isa. 60. 6, 7, 9. & 66. 23.——[o] Lev. 23. 34, 43. Deut. 16. 13, 16. Neh. 8. 14. Hos. 12. 9. John 7. 2.——[p] Isa. 60. 12.——[q] Heb. upon whom there is not.——[r] Deut. 11. 10.

rather, He shall encompass the whole land as a plain. He shall cast his defence all around it; from Geba, in Benjamin, north of Jerusalem, (Josh. xxi, 17,) to Rimmon in Judah, to the south of Jerusalem, Josh. xv, 32.

It shall be lifted up] The city shall be exalted.

And inhabited in her place] Jerusalem shall be rebuilt in the very place in which it originally stood. From Benjamin's gate, which was probably on the north side of Jerusalem; unto the place of the first gate, supposed to be that called the old gate, Neh. iii, 6; xii, 39; placed by Lightfoot towards the south-west.

Unto the corner gate] See 2 Kings xiv, 13.

The tower of Hananeel] This tower and the corner gate seem to be placed as two extremities of the city.

Unto the king's winepresses] Near to the king's gardens, southward.—See Newcome.

Verse 11. There shall be no more utter destruction] After this final restoration of Jerusalem it shall never more be destroyed: but as it was the first city of the living God upon earth, so shall it be the last; it shall be safely inhabited. It shall see war no more.

Verse 12. And this shall be the plague] All her enemies shall be destroyed.

Their flesh shall consume away] These are the effects of famine which are described in this verse.

Verse 13. A great tumult from the LORD] Among those enemies of His church;—who shall engage and destroy each other.

Verse 14. And Judah also shall fight] They shall have little else to do than take the spoil,—the wealth of all the heathen round about; gold, silver, and apparel.

Verse 15. So shall be the plague of the horse, and the mule] There shall be plagues on the substance of the enemies of the church, as there were on the cattle and goods of the Egyptians.

Verse 16. Shall even go up from year to year] The Jews had three grand original festivals, which characterized different epochs in their history, viz.

1. The feast of the Passover, in commemoration of their departure from Egypt.

2. The feast of Pentecost, in commemoration of the giving of the Law upon mount Sinai.

3. The feast of Tabernacles, in commemoration of their wandering forty years in the wilderness.

This last feast is very properly brought in here to point out the final restoration of the Jews, and their establishment in the light and liberty of the Gospel of Christ, after their long wandering in vice and error.

Verse 17. Upon them shall be no rain.] Those who do not worship God shall not have His blessing; and those who do not attend Divine ordinances cannot have the graces and blessings which God usually dispenses by them. On such slothful idle Christians there shall be no rain!

Verse 18. If the family of Egypt] This may allude to those Jews who, flying from the persecution of Antiochus Epiphanes, settled in Egypt, and built a temple at Helio- heathen that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

19 This shall be the [a] punishment of Egypt, and the punishment of all nations that come not up to keep the feast of tabernacles.

20 In that day shall there be upon the [b] bells of the horses, [c] HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD; and the pots in the LORD's house shall be like the bowls before the altar.

A. M. cir. 3417. B. C. cir. 587. Ol. XLVIII. 2. Tarquinii Prisci, Reg. Roman. cir. annum 30.

21 Yea, every pot in Jerusalem and in Judah shall be holiness unto the LORD of hosts: and all they that sacrifice shall come and take of them, and seethe therein: and in that day there shall be no more the [d] Canaanite in [e] the house of the LORD of hosts.

[a] Or, sin.——[b] Or, bridles.——[c] Isa. 23. 18.——[d] Isa. 35. 8. Joel 3. 17. Rev. 21. 27. & 22. 15.——[e] Eph. 2. 19, 20, 21, 22.

polis, under the direction of Onias, son of the high priest. Joseph. Antiq. lib. xiii, c. 6, and War, lib. vii, c. 36. If these do not rejoin their brethren, they shall have no rain—no interest in the favour of God.

Verse 19. This shall be the punishment—of all nations that come not up] God will have his public worship established every where; and those who do not worship Him, shall lie under His curse.

Verse 20. Upon the bells of the horses] They appear to have had bells formerly on horses, camels, &c, as we have now, to amuse the animals, and encourage them in their work. In some very fine Asiatic paintings now before me, I see bells both on horses, mules, and camels; little bells tied to their legs, and larger about their necks. The margin reads bridles.

HOLINESS UNTO THE LORD] As the Gospel is a holy system, preaching holiness, and producing holiness in those who believe; so all without, as well as within, shall bear this impress; and even a man's labour shall be begun and continued, and ended, in the Lord; yea, and the animals he uses, and the instruments he works with, shall be all consecrated to God, through Christ.

The pots] "The meanest utensil in the house of God, Neh. x, 29, shall be as the vessels of silver and gold used in solemn sacrifice; they shall be like the bowls before the altar."—See Newcome.

Verse 21. Yea, every pot in Jerusalem] "The utensils of the Jews shall be treated as holy; and the worshippers shall use them reverently. The idea of preparing food in them, (they that—seethe therein) is taken from the custom of feasting after sacrifice. And no trafficker, see Ezek. xvii, 4, shall pollute the house of God; as was the custom when our blessed Lord cleansed the Temple."—See Newcome. This is what is called the Canaanite in the house of God. The Canaanite is the merchant; and where such are tolerated in a place dedicated to Divine worship, that is not the house of the Lord of hosts. In churches and chapels no collections should be made but for the simple purpose of supporting or extending the worship of Jehovah. Amen.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET ZECHARIAH.

THE BOOK

OF THE

PROPHET MALACHI.

Chronological Notes relative to this Book.

Year from the Creation according to Archbishop Ussher, 3607.—Year from the vocation of Abram, 1524.—Year since the destruction of Troy, 787.—Year since the commencement of the kingdom of Israel, by the Divine appointment of Saul to the regal dignity, 698.—Year from the division of Solomon's monarchy into the kingdoms of Israel and Judah, 578.—Fourth year of the ninety-fifth Olympiad.—Year from the building of Rome according to the Varronian computation, 356.—Year before the vulgar æra of Christ's nativity, 397.—Cycle of the Sun, 5.—Cycle of the Moon, 4.

CHAPTER I.

This Chapter begins with shewing the great and free favour which God had manifested to the Israelites, above what he had done to the Edomites, who are threatened with farther marks of the Divine displeasure; alluding perhaps to the calamities which they suffered from Judas Maccabeus and John Hyrcanus. See 1 Macc. v, 65, and Joseph. Antiq. xiii, 9, 1—5. God then reproaches His people, and especially their priests, for their ungrateful returns to His distinguished goodness, 6. They are particularly charged with sacrificing the refuse of beasts, 7—9, for which God threatens to reject them, 10, and choose other nations who will shew more reverence to His name and worship, 11—14.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

THE burden of the word of the LORD to Israel [a] by Malachi.
2 [b] I have loved you, saith the LORD. Yet ye say, Wherein hast thou loved us? Was not Esau Jacob's brother? saith the LORD: yet [c] I loved Jacob,
3 And I hated Esau, and [d] laid his

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

[a] Heb. by the hand of Malachi.——[b] Deut. 7. 8. & 10. 15.——[c] Rom. 9. 13.

[d] Jer. 49. 18. Ezek. 35. 3, 4, 7, 9, 14, 15. Obad. 10, &c.

NOTES ON CHAPTER I.

Verse 1. The burden of the word of the LORD to Israel by Malachi.] This Prophet is undoubtedly the last of the Jewish prophets. He lived after Zechariah and Haggai; for we find that the Temple, which was begun in their time, was standing complete in his. See chap. iii, 10. Some have thought that he was contemporary with Nehemiah; indeed, several have supposed that Malachi is no other than Ezra under the feigned name of angel of the Lord, or, my angel. John the Baptist was the link that connected Malachi with Christ. According to Abp. Ussher he flourished B. C. 416; but the Authorized Version, which we have followed in the Margin, states this event to have happened nineteen years later. Both the Hebrew language and poetry had declined in his days.

Israel]—Here means the Jewish people in general.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

mountains and his heritage waste for the dragons of the wilderness.

4 Whereas Edom saith, We are impoverished, but we will return and build the desolate places; thus saith the LORD of hosts, They shall build, but I will throw down; and they shall call them, The border of wickedness, and The people against whom the LORD hath indignation for ever.

5 And your eyes shall see, and ye shall say, [a] The LORD will be magnified [b] from [c] the border of Israel.

6 A son [d] honoureth his father, and a servant his master: [e] if then I be a father, where is mine honour? and if I be a master, where is my fear? saith the LORD of hosts unto you, O priests that despise my name. [f] And ye say, Wherein have we despised thy name?

7 [g] Ye offer [h] polluted bread upon mine altar; and ye say, Wherein have we polluted thee? In that ye say, [i] The table of the LORD is contemptible.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

8 And [k] if ye offer the blind [l] for sacrifice, is it not evil? and if ye offer the lame and sick, is it not evil? offer it now unto thy governor; will he be pleased with thee, or [m] accept thy person? saith the LORD of hosts.

9 And now, I pray you, beseech [n] God that he will be gracious unto us: [o] this hath been [p] by your means: will he regard your persons? saith the LORD of hosts.

10 Who is there even among you that would shut the doors for nought? [q] neither do ye kindle fire on mine altar for nought. I have no pleasure in you, saith the LORD of hosts, [r] neither will I accept an offering at your hand.

11 For [s] from the rising of the sun even unto the going down of the same my name shall be great [t] among the Gentiles; [u] and in every place

---

[a] Psa. 35. 27.——[b] Or, upon.——[c] Heb. from upon.——[d] Exod. 20. 12.——[e] Luke 6. 46.——[f] Ch. 2. 14, 17. & 3, 7, 8, 13.——[g] Or, Bring unto, &c.——[h] Deut. 15. 21.——[i] Ezek. 14. 22. ver. 12.——[k] Lev. 22. 22. Deut. 15. 21. ver. 14.——[l] Heb. to sacrifice.

[m] Job 42. 8.——[n] Heb. the face of God.——[o] Hos. 13. 9.——[p] Heb. from your hand.——[q] 1 Cor. 9. 13.——[r] Isa. 1. 11. Jer. 6. 20. Amos 5. 21.——[s] Psa. 113. 3. Isa. 59. 19.——[t] Isa. 60. 3, 5.——[u] John 4. 21, 23. 1 Tim. 2. 8.

Verse 2. Was not Esau Jacob's brother?] Have I not shewn a greater partiality to the Israelites than I have to the Edomites?

I loved Jacob] My love to Jacob has been proved by giving him greater privileges and a better inheritance than what I have given to Esau.

Verse 3. And I hated Esau] I have shewn him less love, Gen. xxix, 30, 31. I comparatively hated him by giving him an inferior lot. And now, I have not only laid waste the dwelling-place of the Edomites, by the incursions of their enemies; but (ver. 4,) they shall remain the perpetual monuments of my vengeance. On the subject of loving Jacob and hating Esau, see the Notes on Gen. xxvii, and Rom. ix, 13. Let it be remembered,—1. That there is not a word spoken here concerning the eternal state of either Jacob or Esau. 2. That what is spoken concerns merely their earthly possessions. And, 3. That it does not concern the two brothers at all, but the posterity of each.

Verse 4. They shall build, but I will throw down] We have already seen enough of the wickedness of the Edomites to justify the utmost severity of Divine justice against them. The pulling down predicted here was by Judas Maccabeus; see 1 Macc. v, 65; and by John Hyrcanus; see Joseph. Antiq. lib. xiii, c. 9. s. 1.

They shall call them, The border of wickedness] A wicked land. Among this people scarcely any trace of good could ever be noted.

Verse 5. Your eyes] Ye Israelites shall see in your succeeding generations that—

The LORD will be magnified] By His kindness in Israel, and His judgments beyond it.

Verse 6. A son honoureth his father] I am your Father,—where then is my honour? Where your filial obedience?

If I be a Master, where is my fear?] The respect due to me.

Verse 7. Ye offer polluted bread] The priests, probably to ingratiate themselves with the people, took the refuse beasts, &c, and offered them to God; and thus the sacrificial ordinances were rendered contemptible.

Verse 8. Offer it now unto thy governor] פחה pechath, a word signifying a lieutenant, or viceroy, among the Chaldeans, Syrians, and Persians; for neither at this time, nor ever after, was there a king in Israel.

Verse 9. Beseech God] There were evident marks of God's displeasure in the land, and it was occasioned by these pollutions through the priests. And now He exhorts them to pray to God that they may be pardoned: for, if this practice be persisted in, God will not accept any offering made by them.

Verse 10. Who is—among you] From this we learn that there was not one sincere or honest priest among them. They were selfish and worldly; and so basely so that not one of them would even kindle a fire on the hearth of the altar unless he were paid for it.

Verse 11. From the rising of the sun] The total abolition of the Mosaic sacrifices, and the establishment of a spiritual worship over the whole earth, is here foretold. The incense of praise, and the pure offering of the Lamb without

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

[a] incense shall be offered unto my name, and a pure offering: [b] for my name shall be great among the heathen, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 But ye have profaned it, in that ye say, [c] The table of the LORD is polluted; and the fruit thereof, even his meat, is contemptible.

13 Ye said also, Behold, what a weariness is it! [d] and ye have snuffed at it, saith the LORD of hosts; and ye brought that which was torn, and the lame, and the sick; thus ye brought an offering: [e] should I accept this of your hand? saith the LORD.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

14 But cursed be [f] the deceiver, [g] which hath in his flock a male, and voweth, and sacrificeth unto the LORD a corrupt thing: for [h] I am a great King, saith the LORD of hosts, and my name is dreadful among the heathen.

[a] Rev. 8. 3.——[b] Isa. 66. 19, 20.——[c] Ver. 7.——[d] Or, whereas ye might have blown it away.

[e] Lev. 22. 20, &c.——[f] Ver. 8.——[g] Or, in whose flock is.——[h] Psa. 47. 2. 1 Tim. 6. 15.

spot,—and, through Him, a holy loving heart,—shall be presented every where among the Gentiles; and the Jews and their mock offerings be rejected.

Verse 12. Ye have profaned it] Ye have desecrated God's worship:—is it any wonder that God should cast you off, and follow you with His judgments?

Verse 13. Ye have snuffed at it] A metaphor taken from cattle which do not like their fodder. They blow strongly through their nose upon it; and after this neither they nor any other cattle will eat it.

Ye brought that which was torn, and the lame, and the sick] There had never been such abominations in the Divine worship before. What was of no worth in itself, and what could not be used by its owner, was brought to God's altar, and offered for sacrifice! Was not the punishment of these wretches less than their crimes?

Verse 14. Cursed be the deceiver] Those who act thus, as they cannot escape God's notice, so neither shall they His curse.

And voweth, and sacrificeth—a corrupt thing] The history of Ananias and Sapphira, Acts v, 1, &c, is a complete comment on this. It was high time to break up this corrupt service; and after this time God does not appear to have paid any regard to it, for He sent them no other prophet.

CHAPTER II.

The priests reproved for their unfaithfulness in their office, for which they are threatened to be deprived of their share of the sacrifice (the shoulder) and rewarded only with ignominy and ordure, 1—3. The degeneracy of the order is then complained of, and they are again threatened, 4—9. The rest of the Chapter reproves the people for marrying strange and idolatrous women; and multiplying divorces with all their consequent distress, in order to make way for such illicit alliances, 10—17. See Neh. x, 30, and xiii, 33, &c.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

AND now, O ye priests, this commandment is for you.

2 [a] If ye will not hear, and if ye will not lay it to heart, to give glory unto my name, saith the LORD of hosts, I will even send a curse upon you, and I will curse your blessings: yea, I have [b] cursed them already,

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

[a] Lev. 26. 14, &c. Deut. 28. 15, &c.

[b] 2 Pet. 2. 14.

NOTES ON CHAPTER II.

Verse 2. If ye will not hear]—What I have spoken, lay to heart, and let it sink down into your souls.

Give glory unto my name] That honour that is due to me as a Father, and that fear that belongs to me as a Master. Chap. i, 6.

I will even send a curse upon you] I will dispense no more good.

I will curse your blessings] Even that which ye have already shall not profit you. When temporal blessings are not the means of leading us to God and heaven, they will infallibly lead us to hell.

Yea, I have cursed them already] This may refer, generally, to unfruitful seasons; or, particularly, to a dearth that appears to have happened about this time. See Haggai i, 6—11.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

because ye do not lay it to heart.
3 Behold, I will [a] corrupt your seed, and [b] spread dung upon your faces, even the dung of your solemn feasts; and [c] one shall [d] take you away with it.
4 And ye shall know that I have sent this commandment unto you, that my covenant might be with Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.
5 [e] My covenant was with him of life and peace; and I gave them to him [f] for the fear wherewith he feared me, and was afraid before my name.
6 [g] The law of truth was in his mouth, and iniquity was not found in his lips: he walked with me in peace and equity, and did [h] turn many away from iniquity.

7 [i] For the priest's lips should keep knowledge, and they should seek the law at his mouth: [k] for he is the messenger of the LORD of hosts.
8 But ye are departed out of the way; ye [l] have caused many to [m] stumble at the law; [n] ye have corrupted the covenant of Levi, saith the LORD of hosts.
9 Therefore [o] have I also made you contemptible and base before all the people, according as ye have not kept my ways, but [p] have [q] been partial in the law.
10 [r] Have we not all one Father? [s] hath not one God created us? why do we deal treacherously every man against his brother, by profaning the covenant of our fathers?

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

[a] Or, reprove.——[b] Heb. scatter.——[c] Or, it shall take you away to it.——[d] 1 Kings 14. 10.——[e] Numb. 25. 12. Ezek. 34. 25. & 37. 26.——[f] Deut. 33. 8, 9.——[g] Deut. 33. 10.——[h] Jer. 23. 22. Jam. 5. 20.——[i] Deut. 17. 9, 10. & 24. 8. Lev. 10. 11. Ezra 7. 10. Jer. 18. 18. Hag. 2. 11, 12.

[k] Gal. 4. 14.——[l] 1 Sam. 2. 17. Jer. 18. 15.——[m] Or, fall in the law.——[n] Neh. 13. 29.——[o] 1 Sam. 2. 30.——[p] Or, lifted up the face against.——[q] Heb. accepted faces.——[r] 1 Cor. 8. 6. Eph. 4. 6.——[s] Gen. 1. 27. Deut. 4. 32. Job 31. 15.

Verse 3. Behold, I will corrupt your seed] So as to render it unfruitful. Newcome translates,—"I will take away from you the shoulder." This was the part that belonged to the priest, Lev. vii, 32; Deut. xviii, 3.

Spread dung upon your faces] Instead of receiving a sacrifice at your hands, I will throw your offerings back into your faces. Here God shews His contempt for them, and their offerings.

Verse 4. This commandment] That in the first verse;—to drive such priests from His presence and His service.

That my covenant might be with Levi] I gave the priesthood and the service of my altar to that tribe.

Verse 5. My covenant was with him of life and peace] These are the two grand blessings given to men by the NEW Covenant, which was shadowed by the OLD. To man, out of the peace of God, and sentenced to death because of sin, God gave ברית berith, a covenant sacrifice, and this secured life, exemption from the death deserved by transgressors;—communication of that inward spiritual life given by Christ, and issuing in that eternal life promised to all His faithful disciples. And, as it secured life, so it give peace, prosperity, and happiness: peace between God and man, between man and man, and between man and his own conscience.

Verse 6. The law of truth was in his mouth] See the qualifications of Levi: 1. He feared me;—he was my sincere worshipper. 2. He was afraid;—he acted as in the presence of a just and holy God, and acted conscientiously in all that he did. 3. My law of truth was ever in his mouth;—by this he directed his own conduct and that of others. 4. No iniquity;—nothing contrary to justice and equity ever proceeded from his lips. 5. He walked with me in peace;—he lived in such a way as to keep up union with me. 6. He did turn many away from iniquity;—by his upright administration, faithful exhortations, and pious walk, he became the instrument of converting many sinners. This character suits every genuine minister of God. And as the priest's lips should preserve knowledge, so the people should seek the law at his mouth; for he is the messenger of the Lord of hosts, ver. 7.

Verse 8. But ye are departed out of the way] Ye are become impure yourselves, and ye have led others into iniquity.

Verse 9. Therefore have I also made you contemptible] The people despised you because they saw that you acted contrary to your functions. This has happened repeatedly since, to several classes of priests. Not maintaining, by purity of life and soundness of doctrine, the dignity of the ministerial function, they became contemptible before the people: their maigre preaching was disregarded, and their persons at last cast out as a general loathing to the universe! See what happened to the truly abominable priesthood of France and Rome, 1796–8. They were the sole cause of that infidelity, that brought about the Revolution. They are now partially restored; and are endeavouring to supply by grimace, paltry superstition, and jesuitical cunning, what they want in purity of morals, soundness of doctrine, and unction from God. They must mend, or look for another revolution. Mankind will no longer put up with the chaff of puerile and fanatical ceremonies, in place of the wheat of God's word and worship.

Verse 10. Have we not all one Father?] From this to ver. 16, the prophet censures the marriages of Israelites with strange women, which the Law had forbidden, Deut. vii, 3. And also divorces, which seem to have been multiplied, for the purpose of contracting these prohibited marriages.—Newcome.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

11 Judah hath dealt treacherously, and an abomination is committed in Israel and in Jerusalem; for Judah hath profaned the holiness of the LORD which he [a] loved, [b] and hath married the daughter of a strange god.

12 The LORD will cut off the man that doeth this, [c] the master and the scholar, out of the tabernacles of Jacob, [d] and him that offereth an offering unto the LORD of hosts.

13 And this have ye done again, covering the altar of the LORD with tears, with weeping, and with crying out, insomuch that he regardeth not the offering any more, or receiveth it with good will at your hand.

14 Yet ye say, Wherefore? Because the LORD hath been Witness between thee and [e] the wife of thy youth, against whom thou hast dealt treacherously: [f] yet is she thy companion, and the wife of thy covenant.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

15 And [g] did not he make one? Yet had he the [h] residue of the Spirit. And wherefore one? That he might seek [i] a [k] godly seed. Therefore take heed to your spirit, and let none deal [l] treacherously against the wife of his youth.

16 For [m] the LORD, the God of Israel, saith [n] that he hateth [o] putting away: for one covereth violence with his garment, saith the LORD of hosts: therefore take heed to your spirit, that ye deal not treacherously.

17 [p] Ye have wearied the LORD with your words. Yet ye say, Wherein have we wearied him? When ye say, Every one that doeth evil is good in the sight of the LORD, and he delighteth in them; or, Where is the God of judgment.

[a] Or, ought to love.——[b] Ezra 9. 1. & 10. 2. Neh. 13. 23.——[c] Or, him that waketh and him that answereth.——[d] Neh. 13. 28, 29.——[e] Prov. 5. 18.——[f] Prov. 2. 17.——[g] Matt. 19. 4, 5.——[h] Or, excellency.

[i] Heb. a seed of God.——[k] Ezra 9. 2. 1 Cor. 7. 14.——[l] Or, unfaithfully.——[m] Deut. 24. 1. Matt. 5. 32. & 19. 8.——[n] Or, if he hate her, put her away.——[o] Heb. to put away.——[p] Isa. 43. 24. Amos 2. 13. ch. 3. 13, 14, 15.

Why do we deal treacherously] Gain the affections of the daughter of a brother Jew; and then profane the covenant of marriage, held sacred among our fathers, by putting away this same wife and daughter! How wicked, cruel, and inhuman!

Verse 11. Daughter of a strange god.] Of a man who worships an idol.

Verse 12. The master and the scholar] He who teaches such doctrine, and he who follows this teaching, the Lord will cut off both the one and the other.

Verse 13. Covering the altar of the LORD with tears] —Of the poor women who, being divorced by cruel husbands, come to the priests, and make an appeal to God at the altar: and ye do not speak against this glaring injustice.

Verse 14. Ye say, Wherefore?] Is the Lord angry with us? Because ye have been witness of the contract made between the parties; and when the lawless husband divorced his wife, the wife of his youth, his companion, and the wife of his covenant; ye did not execute on him the discipline of the law. They kept their wives till they had passed their youth; and then they put them away, that they might get young ones in their place.

Verse 15. And did not he make one?] ONE of each kind, Adam and Eve. Yet had he the residue of the Spirit—He could have made millions of pairs, and inspired them all with living souls. Then wherefore one?—He made one pair from whom all the rest might proceed, that He might have a holy offspring; that children being a marked property of one man and one woman, proper care might be taken that they should be brought up in the discipline of the Lord. Perhaps the holy or godly seed, זרע אלהים zerâ elohim, a seed of God, may refer to the MESSIAH. God would have the whole human race to spring from one pair, that Christ, springing from the same family, might in His sufferings taste death for every man; because He had that nature that was common to the whole human race. And had there been several heads of families in the beginning, Jesus must have been incarnated from each of those heads, else His death could have availed for those only who belonged to the family of which He was incarnated.

Take heed to your spirit] Scrutinize the motives before God which induce you to put away your wives.

Verse 16. For the LORD—hateth putting away] He abominates all such divorces; and him that makes them.

Covereth violence with his garment] And he also notes those who frame idle excuses to cover the violence they have done to the wives of their youth, by putting them away, and taking others in their place, whom they now happen to like better, when their own wives have been worn down in domestic services.

Verse 17. Ye have wearied the LORD] He has borne with you so long, and has been provoked so often, that He will bear it no longer. It is not fit that He should.

Every one that doeth evil] Ye say that it is right in the sight of the Lord to put away a wife, because she has no longer found favour in the sight of her husband. And because it has not been signally punished hitherto, ye blaspheme and cry out, Where is the God of judgment? Were He such as He is represented, would He not speak out? All these things shew that this people were horribly corrupt. The priests were bad; the prophets were bad; the Levites were bad: and no wonder that the people were irreligious, profane, profligate, and cruel.

CHAPTER III.

In allusion to the custom of sending pioneers to prepare the way for the march of an Eastern Monarch, the coming of Christ's forerunner is described, and then the coming of Christ Himself, 1 ; with the terrible judgments which were to accompany that event, in order to refine and purify His people and His priests, 2—6. The following verses reprehend them for withholding the legal tithes and offerings, with large promises in case of their repentance and amendment, 7—12. The prophet expostulates with the people for their hard and profane speeches against the conduct of Providence ; and declares God will one day make a fearful and final distinction between the righteous and the wicked, whose different characters are in the mean time carefully recorded, 13—18.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

BEHOLD, [a] I will send my messenger, and he shall [b] prepare the way before me: and the LORD, whom ye seek, shall suddenly come to his temple, [c] even the Messenger of the covenant, whom ye delight in: behold, [d] he shall come, saith the LORD of hosts.

2 But who may abide [e] the day of his coming? and [f] who shall stand when he appeareth? for [g] he is like a refiner's fire, and like fuller's soap.

3 And [h] he shall sit as a refiner and purifier of silver; and he shall purify the sons of Levi, and purge them as gold and silver, that they may [i] offer unto the LORD an offering in righteousness.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

4 Then [k] shall the offering of Judah and Jerusalem be pleasant unto the LORD, as in the days of old, and as in [l] former years.

5 And I will come near to you to judgment; and I will be a swift Witness against the sorcerers, and against the adulterers, [m] and against false swearers, and against those that [n] oppress the hireling in his wages, the widow, and the fatherless, and that turn aside the stranger from

[a] Matt. 11. 10. Mark 1. 2. Luke 1. 76. & 7. 27.—[b] Isa. 40. 3.—[c] Isa. 63. 9.—[d] Hag. 2. 7.—[e] Ch. 4. 1.—[f] Rev. 6. 17.—[g] See Isa. 4. 4. Matt. 3. 10, 11, 12.—[h] Isa. 1. 25. Zech. 13. 9.—[i] 1 Pet. 2. 5.—[k] Ch. 1. 11.—[l] Or, ancient.—[m] Zech. 5. 4. James 5. 4, 12.—[n] Or, defraud.

NOTES ON CHAPTER III.

Verse 1. Behold, I will send my messenger] מלאכי Malachi, the very name of the Prophet. But this speaks of John the Baptist. I, the Messiah, the Seed of God, mentioned above, will send my messenger, John the Baptist.

He shall prepare the way] Be as a pioneer before me; a corrector of civil abuses, and a preacher of righteousness.

And the Lord, whom ye seek] The Messiah, whom ye expect from the account given by the Prophet Daniel, in his seventy weeks, chap. ix, 24.

Shall suddenly come to his temple] Shall soon be presented before the Lord in this Temple; cleanse it from its defilement, and fill it with His teaching and His glory.

The Messenger of the covenant] He that comes to fulfil the great design, in reference to the covenant made with Abram, that in his seed all the families of the earth should be blessed. See the parallel Texts in the Margin, and the Notes on them.

Verse 2. But who may abide the day of his coming?] Only they who shall believe on His name: for they that will not, shall be blinded; and the unbelieving nation shall be destroyed by the Romans.

Like fuller's soap] כבורית ke-borith, from ברה barah, to cleanse, any thing that deterges. Kali, or fern ashes, or such things. I doubt whether the composition which we call soap, was known in ancient times.

Verse 3. He shall sit as a refiner] Alluding to the case of a refiner of metals, sitting at his fire; increasing it when he sees necessary, and watching the process of his work.

The sons of Levi] Those who minister in their stead under the NEW Covenant, for the OLD Levitical institutions shall be abolished; yet, under the preaching of our Lord, a great number of the priests became obedient to the faith, Acts vi, 7. And the others that did not believe, this Great Refiner threw them as dross into the Roman fire, that consumed both Jerusalem and the Temple.

Verse 5. I will come near to you to judgment] And what fearful cases does he get to judge! Sorcerers, adulterers, false swearers, defrauders of the wages of the hireling, oppressors of widows and orphans, and perverters of the stranger and such as do not fear the Lord. A horrible crew, and the land at that time was full of them. Several were converted under the preaching of Christ and His apostles; and the rest the Romans destroyed, or carried into captivity.

A. M. cir. 3607. B.C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

his right, and fear not me, saith the LORD of hosts.

6 For I am the LORD, [a] I change not; [b] therefore ye sons of Jacob are not consumed.

7 Even from the days of [c] your fathers ye are gone away from mine ordinances and have not kept them. [d] Return unto me, and I will return unto you, saith the LORD of hosts. [e] But ye said, Wherein shall we return?

8 Will a man rob God? Yet ye have robbed me. But ye say, Wherein have we robbed thee? [f] in tithes and offerings.

9 Ye are cursed with a curse: for ye have robbed me, even this whole nation.

10 [g] Bring ye all the tithes into [h] the storehouse, that there may be meat in mine house, and prove me now herewith, saith the LORD of hosts, if I will not open you the [i] windows of heaven, and [k] pour[l] you out a blessing, that there shall not be room enough to receive it.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

11 And I will rebuke [m] the devourer for your sakes, and he shall not [n] destroy the fruits of your ground; neither shall your vine cast her fruit before the time in the field, saith the LORD of hosts.

12 And all nations shall call you blessed: for ye shall be [o] a delightsome land, saith the LORD of hosts.

13 [p] Your words have been stout against me, saith the LORD. Yet ye say, What have we spoken so much against thee?

14 [q] Ye have said, It is vain to serve God: and what profit is it that we have kept his [r] ordinance, and that we have walked [s] mournfully before the LORD of hosts?

15 And now [t] we call the proud happy; yea, they that work wickedness [u] are set up; yea, they that [x] tempt God are even delivered.

---

[a] Numb. 23. 19. Rom. 11. 29. Jam 1. 17. — [b] Lam. 3. 22. — [c] Acts 7. 51. — [d] Zech. 1. 3. — [e] Ch. 1. 6. — [f] Neh. 13. 10, 12. — [g] Prov. 3. 9, 10. — [h] 1 Chron. 26. 20. 2 Chron. 31. 11. Neh. 10. 38. & 16. 12. — [i] Gen. 7. 11. 2 Kings 7. 2. — [k] Heb. empty out.

[l] 2 Chron. 31. 10. — [m] Amos 4. 9. — [n] Heb. corrupt. — [o] Dan. 8. 9. — [p] Ch. 2. 17. — [q] Job 21. 14, 15. & 22. 17. Psa. 73. 13. Zeph 1. 12. — [r] Heb. his observation. — [s] Heb. in black. — [t] Psa. 73. 12. ch. 2. 17. — [u] Heb. are built. — [x] Psa. 95. 9.

Verse 6. I am the LORD, I change not] The new dispensation of grace and goodness, which is now about to be introduced, is not the effect of any change in my counsels: it is, on the contrary, the fulfilment of my everlasting purposes; as is also the throwing aside of the Mosaic ritual, which was only intended to introduce the great and glorious gospel of my Son.

And because of this ancient covenant ye Jews are not totally consumed; but ye are now, and shall be still, preserved as a distinct people; monuments both of my justice and mercy.

Verse 7. Gone away from mine ordinances] Never acting according to their spirit and design.

Return unto me] There is still space to repent.

Wherein shall we return?] Their consciences were seared, and they knew not that they were sinners.

Verse 8. Will a man rob God] Here is one point on which ye are guilty;—ye withhold the tithes and offerings from the temple of God, so that the Divine worship is neglected.

Verse 9. Ye are cursed with a curse] The whole nation is under my displeasure. The curse of God is upon you.

Verse 10. Bring ye all the tithes] They had so withheld these that the priests had not food enough to support life; and the sacred service was interrupted. See Neh. xiii, 10.

And prove me now herewith] What ye give to God shall never lessen your store. Give as ye should; and see whether I will not so increase your store by opening the windows of heaven,—giving you rain and fruitful seasons, that your barns and granaries shall not be able to contain the abundance of your harvests and vintage.

Verse 11. I will rebuke the devourer] The locusts, &c, shall not come on your crops; and those that are in the country I will disperse and destroy.

Neither shall your vine cast her fruit] Every blossom shall bear fruit, and every bunch of grapes come to maturity.

Verse 12. All nations shall call you blessed] They shall see that a peculiar blessing of God rests upon you; and your land shall be delightsome,—like Paradise, the garden of the Lord.

Verse 13. Your words have been stout against me] He speaks here to open infidels and revilers.

What have we spoken] They are ready either to deny the whole, or impudently to maintain and defend what they had spoken!

Verse 14. Ye have said, It is vain to serve God] They strove to destroy the Divine worship:—they asserted that it was vanity;—that, if they performed acts of worship, they should be nothing the better; and, if they abstained, they should be nothing the worse. This was their teaching to the people.

Walked mournfully] Even repentance they have declared to be useless. This was a high pitch of ungodliness: but see what follows; behold the general conclusions of these reprobates,—

Verse 15. And now we call the proud happy] Proud and insolent men are the only happy people,—for they domineer every where, and none dares to resist them.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

16 Then they [a] that feared the LORD [b] spake often one to another: and the LORD hearkened, and heard it, and [c] a book of remembrance was written before him for them that feared the LORD, and that thought upon his name.

17 And [d] they shall be mine, saith the LORD of hosts, in that day when I make up my [e] jewels [f]; and [g] I will spare them, as a man spareth his own son that serveth him.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

18 [h] Then shall ye return, and discern between the righteous and the wicked, between him that serveth God and him that serveth him not.

[a] Psa. 66. 16. ch. 4. 2.——[b] Heb. 3. 13.——[c] Psa. 56. 8. Isa. 65. 6. Rev. 20. 12.

[d] Exod. 19. 5. Deut. 7. 6. Psa. 135. 4. Tit. 2. 14. 1 Pet. 2. 9.——[e] Or, special treasure.——[f] Isa. 62. 3.——[g] Psa. 103. 13.——[h] Psa. 58. 11.

They that work wickedness are set up] The humble and holy are depressed and miserable; the proud and wicked are in places of trust and profit. Too often it is so.

They that tempt God are even delivered.] Even those who despise God, and insult His justice and providence, are preserved in and from dangers; while the righteous fall by them.

Verse 16. Them that feared the LORD] There were a few godly in the land, who, hearing the language, and seeing the profligacy, of the rebels above, concluded that some signal mark of God's vengeance must fall upon them; they, therefore, as the corruption increased, cleaved the closer to their Maker. There are three characteristics given of this people, viz.:—

1. They feared the Lord. They had that reverence for Jehovah that caused them to depart from evil, and to keep His ordinances.

2. They spake often one to another. They kept up the communion of saints. By mutual exhortation they strengthened each other's hands in the Lord.

3. They thought on his name. His name was sacred to them: it was a fruitful source of profound and edifying meditation. The name of God is God Himself in the plenitude of His power, omniscience, justice, goodness, mercy, and truth. What a source for thinking and contemplation! See how God treats such persons:—The Lord hearkened to their conversation,—heard the meditations of their hearts; and so approved of the whole that a book of remembrance was written before the Lord;—all their names were carefully registered in heaven. Here is an allusion to records kept by kings, Esth. vi, 1, of such as had performed signal services, and who should be the first to be rewarded.

Verse 17. They shall be mine] I shall acknowledge them as my subjects and followers; in the day, especially, when I come to punish the wicked, and reward the righteous.

When I make up my jewels] סגלה segullah, my peculium, my proper treasure; that which is a man's own, and most prized by him. Not jewels; for in no part of the Bible does the word mean a gem or precious stone of any kind. The interpretations frequently given of the word in this verse comparing saints to jewels, are forced and false.

I will spare them] When I come to visit the wicked, I will take care of them. I will act toward them as a tender father would act towards his most loving and obedient son.

Verse 18. Then shall ye return] To your senses, when perhaps too late; and discern,—see the difference which God makes between the righteous and the wicked,—which will be most marked and awful.

Between him that serveth God] Your obedience to whom, ye said would be unprofitable to you.

And him that serveth him not.] Of whom ye said, his disobedience would be no prejudice to him. You will find the former received into the kingdom of glory; and the latter, with yourselves, thrust down into the bitter pains of an eternal death. Reader, ponder these things.

In the great day of the Lord, at least, if not long before, it will be fully discovered who have been the truly wise people; those who took up their cross and followed Christ,—or, those who satisfied the flesh, with its affections and desires, following a multitude to do evil.

CHAPTER IV.

God's awful judgments on the wicked, 1. Great blessedness of the righteous, 2, 3. The Prophet then, with a solemnity becoming the last of the prophets, closes the Sacred Canon with enjoining the strict observance of the Law, till the forerunner already promised should appear, in the spirit of Elijah, to introduce the Messiah, and begin a new and everlasting dispensation, 4—6.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

FOR, behold, [a] the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven; and all [b] the proud, yea, and all that do wickedly, shall be [c] stubble: and the day that cometh shall burn them up, saith the LORD of hosts, that it shall [d] leave them neither root nor branch.

2 But unto you that [e] fear my name shall the [f] Sun of righteousness arise with healing in his wings; and ye shall go forth, and grow up as calves of the stall.

3 [g] And ye shall tread down the wicked; for they shall be ashes under the soles of your feet in the day that I shall do this, saith the LORD of hosts.

A. M. cir. 3607. B. C. cir. 397. Ol. cir. XCV. 4. Urbis Conditæ circiter annum 356.

4 Remember ye the [h] law of Moses my servant, which I commanded unto him [i] in Horeb for all Israel, with [k] the statutes and judgments.

5 Behold, I will send you [l] Elijah the prophet [m] before the coming of the great and dreadful day of the LORD:

6 And [n] he shall turn the heart of the fathers to the children, and the heart of the children to their fathers, lest I come and [o] smite the earth with [p] a curse.

[a] Joel 2. 31. ch. 3. 2. 2 Pet. 3. 7.——[b] Ch. 3. 18.——[c] Obad. 18.——[d] Amos 2. 9.——[e] Ch. 3. 16.——[f] Luke 1. 78. Eph. 5. 14. 2 Pet. 1. 19. Rev. 2. 28.——[g] 2 Sam. 28. 43. Mic. 7. 10. Zech. 10. 5.

[h] Exod. 20. 3, &c.——[i] Deut. 4. 10.——[k] Psa. 147. 19.——[l] Matt. 11. 14. & 17. 11. Mark 9. 11. Luke 1. 17.——[m] Joel 2. 31.——[n] Ecclus. 48. 10.——[o] Zech. 14. 12.——[p] Zech. 5. 3.

NOTES ON CHAPTER IV.

Verse 1. Behold, the day cometh, that shall burn as an oven] The destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans.

And all the proud] This is in reference to ver. 15 of the preceding Chapter.

The day that cometh shall burn them up] Either by famine, by sword, or by captivity; all those rebels shall be destroyed.

It shall leave them neither root nor branch.] A proverbial expression for total destruction. Neither man nor child shall escape.

Verse 2. You that fear my name] The persons mentioned in the sixteenth verse of the preceding Chapter: ye that look for redemption through the Messiah.

The Sun of righteousness] The Lord Jesus,—the promised Messiah; the Hope of Israel.

With healing in his wings] As the sun, by the rays of light and heat, revives, cheers, and fructifies the whole creation, giving, through God, light and life every where; so Jesus Christ, by the influences of His grace and Spirit, shall quicken, awaken, enlighten, warm, invigorate, heal, purify, and refine, every soul that believes in Him: and, by His wings, or rays, diffuse these blessings from one end of heaven to another; every where invigorating the seeds of righteousness, and withering and drying up the seeds of sin. The rays of this Sun are the truths of His Gospel, and the influences of His Spirit. And at present these are universally diffused.

And ye shall go forth] Ye who believe on His name shall go forth out of Jerusalem when the Romans shall come up against it. After Cestius Gallus had blockaded the city for some days, he suddenly raised the siege. The Christians who were then in it knowing, by seeing Jerusalem encompassed with armies, that the day of its destruction was come,—when their Lord commanded them to flee unto the mountains,—took this opportunity to escape from Jerusalem and go to Pella in Cœlosyria; so that no Christian life fell in the siege and destruction of this city.

But these words are of more general application and meaning:—ye shall go forth in all the occupations of life, but particularly in the means of grace; and—

Grow up as calves of the stall] Full of health, of life, and spirits; satisfied and happy.

Verse 3. Ye shall tread down] This may be the commission given to the Romans:—Tread down the wicked people, tread down the wicked place; set it on fire, and let the ashes be trodden down under your feet.

Verse 4. Remember ye the law of Moses] Where all these things are predicted. The Septuagint, Arabic, and Coptic, place this verse the last.

Verse 5. Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet] This is meant alone of John the Baptist, as we learn from Luke i, 17, (where see the Note) in whose spirit and power he came.

Verse 6. And he shall turn (convert) the heart of the fathers (על âl, WITH) the children] Or, together with the children;—both old and young. Lest I come, and finding them unconverted, smite the land with a curse, חרם cherem, utter extinction. So we find that, had the Jews turned to God, and received the Messiah at the preaching of John the Baptist, and that of Christ and His apostles, the awful חרם cherem of final excision and execration would not have been executed upon them. However, they filled up the cup of their iniquity, and were reprobated, and the Gentiles elected in their stead. Thus, the last was first, and the first was last. Glory to God for His unspeakable gift!

There are three remarkable predictions in this Chapter:—1. The advent of John Baptist, in the spirit and authority of Elijah. 2. The manifestation of Christ in the flesh, under the emblem of the Sun of Righteousness. 3. The final destruction of Jerusalem; represented under the emblem of a burning oven, consuming every thing cast into it. These three prophecies, relating to the most important facts that have ever taken place in the history of the world, announced here nearly four hundred years before their occurrence, have been most circumstantially fulfilled.

In most of the Masoretic Bibles the fifth verse is repeated after the sixth,—Behold, I send unto you Elijah the prophet, before the great and terrible day of Jehovah come; for the Jews do not like to let their sacred book end with a curse: and hence, in reading, they immediately subjoin the above verse, or else the fourth,—Remember ye the law of Moses my servant.

In some of my oldest MSS. the fifth verse is repeated, and written at full length; in another, only these words are added,—Behold, I will send you Elijah. It is on this ground that the Jews expect the re-appearance of Elijah the prophet; and at their marriage feasts always set a chair and knife and fork for this prophet, whom they suppose to be invisibly present. But we have already seen that John the Baptist, the forerunner of our Lord, was the person designed; for he came in the spirit and power of Elijah, (see on chap. iii, 1,) and has fulfilled this prophetic promise. John is come; and the Lord Jesus is come also,—has shed His blood for the salvation of a lost world,—has ascended on high,—has sent forth His Holy Spirit,—commissioned His ministers to proclaim to all mankind redemption in His blood,—is ever present with them, and is filling the earth with righteousness and true holiness. Hallelujah! The kingdoms of this world are about to become the kingdoms of God and our Lord Jesus: and now, having just arrived at the end of my race in this work, and seeing the wonderful extension of the work of God in the earth, my heart prays,—

O Jesus, ride on, till all are subdued,
Thy mercy make known, and sprinkle Thy blood;
Display Thy salvation, and teach the new song,
To every nation, and people, and tongue!

In most MSS. and printed masoretic Bibles there are only three Chapters in this prophet, the fourth being joined to the third, making it twenty-four verses.

In the Jewish reckonings the Twelve Minor Prophets make but one Book; hence there is no Masoretic Note found at the end of any of the preceding prophets, with accounts of its verses, sections, &c: but, at the end of Malachi we find the following Table, which, though it gives the number of verses in each Prophet, yet gives the total sum, middle verse, and sections at the end of Malachi, thereby shewing that they consider the whole twelve as constituting but one Book.

MASORETIC NOTES
On the Twelve Minor Prophets.

Hosea has	197 verses.
Joel	73
Amos	146
Obadiah	21
Jonah	48
Micah	105
Nahum	57
Zephaniah	53
Habakkuk	56
Haggai	38
Zechariah	211
Malachi	55
	1060

The sum of all the Verses of the Twelve Minor Prophets is 1060.
The Middle Verse is Micah, Chap. iii, ver. 12.
Number of Sections, 21.

TO GOD THE FATHER, SON, AND HOLY GHOST, BE ETERNAL PRAISES. AMEN.

I have this day completed this Commentary, on which I have laboured above thirty years; and which when I began, I never expected to live long enough to finish. May it be a means of promoting glory to God in the highest; and peace and goodwill among men upon earth. Amen, Amen.

ADAM CLARKE.

Haydon Hall, Middlesex,
Monday, March 28, A. D. 1825.

END OF THE NOTES ON THE BOOK OF THE PROPHET MALACHI.

A TABLE

Of the several places of the OLD TESTAMENT cited in the NEW, which are taken from the Hebrew or Septuagint, from both, or neither.

In this Table, V stands for the Old Testament; H for Hebrew; G for the Greek Version or Septuagint; and N for neither, or doubtful.

MATTHEW.

Chap.	Ver.
i,	23, from Isa. vii, 14	V
ii,	6, from Mic. v, 2	N
	15, from Hos. xi, 1	H
	18, from Jer. xxxi, 15	H
	33, from Judg. xiii, 5	N
iii,	3, from Isa. xl, 3	G
iv,	4, from Deut. viii, 3	G
	6, from Psa. xci, 11, 12	N
	7, from Deut. vi, 16	G
	10, from Deut. vi, 13	N
	15, 16, from Isa. ix, 1, 2	N
v,	21, from Exod. xx, 13; Lev. xxiv, 21	N
	31, from Deut. xxiv, 1	V
	33, from Numb. xxx, 2	N
	38, from Exod. xxi, 24	V
	43, from Lev. xix, 18	N
viii,	17, from Isa. liii, 4	H
ix,	13, from Hos. vi, 6	H
xi,	10, from Mal. iii, 1	H and N
	14, from Mal. xiv, 5	H
xii,	4, from 1 Sam. xxi, 6	V
	5, from Numb. xxviii, 9	V
	18, &c, from Isa. xlii, 1	G and N
xiii,	15, from Isa. i, 6, 9, 20	G
	35, from Psa. lxxviii, 2	G and N
xv,	4, from Exod. xx, 12; xxi, 17	V
	8, 9, from Isa. xxix, 13	G
xix,	4, from Gen. i, 27	V
	5, from Gen. ii, 24	V
	7, from Deut. xxiv, 1	V
xxi,	5, from Zech. ix, 9	N
	9, from Psa. cxviii, 25, 26	V
	13, from Isa. lvi, 7, partim; from Jer. vii, 11, partim	N
	16, from Psa. viii, 2	V
	42, from Psa. cxviii, 22, 23	V
xxii,	24, from Deut. xxv, 5	V
	32, from Exod. iii, 6	V
	37, from Deut. vi, 5	N
	39, from Lev. xix, 18	V
	44, from Psa. cx, 1	V
xxiv,	15, from Dan. xii, 11	G
	29, from Isa. xiii, 10	N
xxvii,	9, 10, from Zech. xi, 13	V and N
	35, from Psa. xxii, 18	V
	46, from Psa. xxii, 1	V

MARK.

i,	2, from Mal. iii, 1	V
	3, from Isa. xl, 3	V
ii,	26, from 1 Sam. xxii, 6	N
iv,	12, from Isa. vi, 9	V
vii,	6, from Isa. xxix, 13	V
x,	8, from Gen. ii, 24	V
xi,	9, 10, from Psa. cxviii, 22, 23	V
	17, from Isa. lvi, 7, and Jer. vii, 11	V
xii,	10, 11, from Psa. cxviii, 22, 23	V
	19, from Deut. xxv, 5	V
	26, from Exod. iii, 6	V
	29, 30, from Deut. vi, 4, 5	V
	31, from Lev. xix, 18	V
	36, from Psa. cx, 1	V
xiii,	14, from Dan. xii, 11	V
xiv,	27, from Zech. xiii, 7	H and N
xv,	28, from Isa. liii, 12	V
	34, from Psa. xxii, 1	V

LUKE.

ii,	23, from Exod. xiii, 2; Numb. viii, 17	N
	24, from Lev. xii, 8	V
	34, from Isa. viii, 14	N
iv,	4, from Deut. viii, 3	V
	8, from Deut. vi, 13	V
	10, 11, from Psa. xci, 11, 12	V
	12, from Deut. vi, 6	V
	18, 19, from Isa. lxi, 1, 2	G and N
vi,	4, from 1 Sam. xxii, 6	V
vii,	27, from Mal. iii, 1	V
x,	27, from Deut. vi, 5, and Lev. xix, 18	V
xix,	46, from Isa. lvi, 7, and Jer. vii, 11	V
xx,	17, from Psa. cxviii, 22	V
	37, from Exod. iii, 6	V
	42, 43, from Psa. cx, 1	V
xxiii,	37, from Isa. liii, 12	V

JOHN.

i,	23, from Isa. xl, 3	V
ii,	17, from Psa. lxix, 10	V
vii,	42, partim from Mic. v, 2, partim from 1 Sam. xvi, 1, partim	V
viii,	5, from Lev. xx, 10	V
	17, from Deut. xvii, 6	V
x,	34, from Psa. lxxxii, 6	V
xii,	15, from Zech. ix, 9	V
	38, from Psa. liii, 1	V
	40, from Psa. vi, 10	N
xiii,	18, from Psa. xli, 10	N
xix,	24, from Psa. xxii, 18	V
	28, 29, from Psa. lx, 22	V
	36, from Exod. xii, 46	N
	37, from Zech. xii, 10	H

ACTS.

i,	20, partim from Psa. lxix, 26, partim from Psa. cix, 8, partim	N
ii,	17, &c, from Joel ii, 28, &c	G
	25, &c, from Psa. xvi, 8, &c	G
	34, 35, from Psa. cx, 1	V
iii,	23, from Deut. xviii, 15, 18, 19	N
	25, from Gen. xxii, 18	N
iv,	25, 26, from Psa. ii, 1, 2	V
vii,	42, 43, from Amos v. 25, 26, 27	N
	49, 50, from Isa. lxvi, 1, 2	V
viii,	32, 33, from Isa. liii, 7, 8	G
xiii,	33, from Psa. ii, 7	V
	34, from Isa. lv, 3	V
	35, from Psa. xvi, 10	V
	41, from Hab. i, 5	G
	47, from Isa. xlix, 6	V
xv,	16, 17, from Amos ix, 11, 12	G
xxiii,	5, from Exod. ii, 28	V
xxviii,	26, 27, from Isa. vi, 9, 10.	V

ROMANS.

i,	17, from Hab. ii, 4	V
iii,	from Psa. li, 4	G
	10, 11, 12, from Psa. xiv, 1, 2, 3	N
iii,	13, from Ps. v, 10; Ps. cxl, 4	from Psa. xiv, 1, 2, 3, juxta lxx: G
	14, from Psa. x, 7
	15, from Prov. i, 16
	16, 17, from Isa. lix, 7, 8
	18, from Psa. xxxvi, 12
iv,	3, from Gen. xv, 6	V
	17, from Gen. xvii, 5	V
	18, from Gen. xv, 5	V
viii,	36, from Psa. xliv, 23	V
ix,	9, from Gen. xviii, 10	V
	12, from Gen. xxv, 23	V
	13, from Mal. i, 2	V
	15, from Exod. xxxiii, 9	V
	17, from Exod. ix, 16	H
	25, from Hos. ii, 23	V
	26, from Hos. i, 10	V
	27, 28, from Isa. x, 22, 23	V
	29, from Isa. i, 9	V
	33, from Isa. viii, 14, and xxviii, 16	H
x,	5, from Lev. xviii, 5	V
	6, from Deut. xxx, 12	V
	8, from Deut. xxx, 14	V
	11, from Isa. xxviii, 16	G
	13, from Joel ii, 32	V
	15, from Isa. lii, 7	H
	16, from Isa. liii, 1	V
	18, from Psa. xix, 5	V
	19, from Deut. xxxii, 21	V
	20, 21, from Isa. lxv, 1, 2	N
xi,	3, from 1 Kings xix, 10	V
	4, from 1 Kings xix, 18	H
	8, from Isa. xxix, 9, and vi, 9	N
	9, 10, from Psa. lxix, 23, 24	G
	26, from Isa. lix, 20	N
	27, from Isa. xxvii, 9	N
	34, from Isa. xl, 13	V
	35, from Job xli, 2, or 10	H
xii,	19, from Deut. xxxii, 35	H
	20, from Prov. xxv, 21, 22	V
xiv,	11, from Isa. xlv, 23	N
xv,	3, from Psa. lxix, 10	V
	9, from Psa. xviii, 50	V
	10, from Deut. xxxii, 43	V
	11, from Psa. cxvii, 1	V
	12, from Isa. xi, 10	V
	21, from Isa. lii, 15	V

1 CORINTHIANS.

i,	19, from Isa. xxix, 14	G and N
	31, from Jer. ix, 24	V
ii,	9, from Isa. lxiv, 4	N
	16, from Isa. xl, 13	V
iii,	19, from Job v, 13	H
	20, from Psa. xciv, 11	N
vi,	16, from Gen. ii, 24	V
ix,	9, from Deut. xxv, 4	V
x,	7, from Exod. xxxii, 6	V
	26, from Psa. xxiv, 1	V
xiv,	24, from Isa. xxviii, 11, 12	N
xv,	45, from Gen. ii, 7	V
	54, from Isa. xxv, 8	H

2 CORINTHIANS.

iv,	13, from Psa. cxvi, 10	V

Table of passages of the Old Testament cited in the New.

Chap.	Ver.
vi,	2, from Isa. xlix, 8	V
	16, from Lev. xxvi, 11, 12, and Ezek. xxxvii, 27	V
	17, from Isa. lii, 11	V
	18, from Jer. xxxi, 1, 9	V
viii,	15, from Exod. xvi, 18	V
ix,	9, from Psa. cxii, 9	V
xiii,	1, from Deut. xvii, 6	V

GALATIANS.

iii,	8, from Gen. xii, 3, and xviii, 18	V
	10, from Deut. xxvii, 26	V
	11, from Hab. ii, 4	V
	12, from Lev. xviii, 5	V
	13, from Deut. xxi, 23	V
	16, from Gen. xvii, 7	V
iv,	22, from Gen. xvi, 15 and 1	V
	27, from Isa. liv, 1	V
	30, from Gen. xxi, 10	V

EPHESIANS.

iv,	8, from Psa. lxviii, 19	N
v,	31, from Gen. ii, 24	V
vi,	2, 3, from Exod. xx, 12; Deut. v, 16	G

1 TIMOTHY.

v,	18, from Deut. xxv, 4	V

HEBREWS.

i,	5, from Psa. ii, 7; 2 Sam. vii, 14	V
	6, from Psa. xcvii, 7	G
	7, from Psa. civ, 4	V
	8, 9, from Psa. xiv, 6, 7	V
	10, 11, 12, from Psa. cii, 25, 26, 27	V
	13, from Psa. cx, 1	V
ii,	6, 7, 8, from Psa. viii, 4, 5, 6	V
	12, from Psa. xxii, 22	V
	13, from 2 Sam. xxii, 3, and Isa. viii, 18	V
iii,	7, 8, 9, 10, 11, from Psa. xcv, 7, 8, 9, 10, 11	V
iv,	4, from Gen. ii, 2	V
v,	5, from Psa. ii, 7	V
	6, from Psa. cx, 4	V
vi,	14, from Gen. xxii, 17	V
vii,	1, from Gen. xiv, 18	V
	17, from Psa. cx, 4	V
viii,	5, from Exod. xxv, 40	V
	8, 9, 10, 11, 12, from Jer. xxxi, 31, 32, 33, 34	N
ix,	20, from Exod. xxiv, 8	V
x,	5, 6, 7, from Psa. xl, 6, 7 8,	G
	16, 17, from Jer. xxxi, 32, 34	V
	30, from Deut. xxxii, 35, 36	V
	37, 38, from Hab. ii, 3, 4	G and N
xi,	5, from Gen. v, 24	G
	18, from Gen. xxi, 12	V
	22, from Gen. xlvii, 31	G
xii,	5, 6, from Prov. iii, 11, 12	V
	16, from Gen. xxv, 33	V
	18, from Exod. xix, 16	V
	20, from Exod. xix, 19	V
	26, from Hag. ii, 6	V
	29, from Deut. iv, 24	V
xiii,	5, from Deut. xxxi, 6, 8, and Josh. i, 5	V
	6, from Psa. cxviii, 6	V

JAMES.

i,	12, from Job v, 17	N
ii,	8, from Lev. xix, 18	V
	23, partim from Gen. xv, 16, partim from 2 Chron. xx, 7, partim	V
iv,	5, from Gen. vi, 3, 5	N
	6, from Prov. iii, 34	G

1 PETER.

i,	16, from Lev. xi, 44	V
	25, from Isa. xl, 6, 7	G
ii,	6, from Isa. xxviii, 16	V
	7, from Psa. cxviii, 22, and Isa. viii, 14	V
	22, from Isa. liii, 9	V
	24,25, from Isa. liii, 5, 6	V
iii,	6, from Gen. xviii, 12	V
	10, 11, 12, from Psa. xxxiv, 1 13, 14, 15, 16	V
iv,	18, from Prov. xi, 31	N
v,	5, from Prov. iii, 34	V

2 PETER.

ii,	22, from Prov. xxvi, 11	V
iii,	8, from Psa. xc, 4	V
	9, from Ezek. xxxiii, 11

JUDE.

	9, from Zech. iii, 2	H

APOCALYPSE.

i,	7, from Zech. xii, 10	H
ii,	23, from Psa. vii, 10	V
	27, from Psa. ii, 10	V
iii,	7, from Isa. xxii, 22	V
	19, from Prov. iii, 12	V
iv,	8, from Isa. vi, 3	V
v,	5, from Gen. xlix, 9	V
	11, from Dan. vii, 10	V
vi,	14, from Isa. xxxiv, 4	V
	16, from Isa. ii, 19, and Hos. x, 8	V
vii,	3, from Ezek. ix, 4	V
	17, from Isa. xxv, 8	V
x,	5, from Dan. xii, 7	V
	9, from Ezek. iii, 3	V
xi,	4, from Zech. iv, 3	V
xii,	5, from Psa. ii, 9	V
xiii,	10, from Gen. ix, 6	V
xiv,	5, from Psa. xxxii, 2	V
	8, from Isa. xxi, 9	V
	10, from Psa. lxxv, 8	V
xv,	4, from Jer. x, 7	V
	8, from Exod. xl, 34	V
xviii,	2, from Isa. xiii, 21, 22	V
	4, from Isa. xlviii, 20, and Jer. l, 8	V
	6, from Psa. cxxxvii, 8	V
	7, from Isa. xlvii, 7, 8	V
	11, from Ezek. xxvii, 35, 36	V
	17, &c, from Ezek. xxix, 29, &c	V
	21, from Jer. li, 64	V
	23, from Jer. xxv, 10	V
xix,	15, from Isa. lxiii, 2, 3	V
xx,	8, from Ezek. xxxviii, 2; xxxix, 1	V
xxi,	1, from Isa. lxv, 17	V
	4, from Isa. xxv, 8	V
	15, from Ezek. xl, 3	V
	23, from Isa. lx, 19	V
	25, from Isa. lx, 20	V
	27, from Isa. xxxv, 8	V
xxii,	5, from Isa. lx, 19, 20	V

18 H. 27 G. 47 N. Plerumque V. i. e. 200, aut eo circiter.

 The above Table was printed by Mr. E. Leigh, for his Critica Sacra. I have made a few corrections and additions. A. C.

TABLE I.

Of passages collected from the Old Testament, as a testimony to the New; not indeed in the same words, but having the same meaning.

GENESIS.

Chap.	Ver.
i,	1.	By faith we know that the worlds were made, Heb. xi, 3.
		The heavens were of old, 2 Pet. iii, 5.
	27.	Adam was first formed, 1 Tim. ii, 13.
ii,	22.	But the man is not of the woman, 1 Cor. xi, 8.
iii,	4.	But the serpent deceived Eve by his subtilty, 2 Cor. xi, 3.
	6.	Adam was not deceived, 1 Tim. ii, 14.
iv,	4.	By faith Abel offered unto God a more excellent sacrifice than Cain, Heb. xi, 4.
	8.	From the blood of righteous Abel, Matt. xxiii, 35.
		Not as Cain, who was of that wicked one, 1 John iii, 12.
iv,	8.	Woe to them, for they have gone in the way of Cain, Jude 12.
v,	24.	By faith Enoch was translated, Heb. xi, 5.
vi,	12.	When once the long-suffering of God waited, 1 Pet. iii, 20.
	13.	By faith Noah was warned, Heb. xi, 7.
	22.	Noah, the eighth person, a preacher of righteousness, 2 Pet. ii, 5.
vii,	4.	For as the days that were before the flood, Matt. xxiv, 32.
ix,	6.	All they that take the sword, shall perish by the sword, Matt. xxvi, 52; Rev. xiii, 10.
xii,	4.	By faith Abraham when he was called, Heb. xi, 8.
xiv,	18.	For this Melchisedek, Heb. vii, 1.
xvi,	15.	Abraham had two sons, the one by a bond maid, Gal. iv, 22.
xvii,	11.	And gave him the covenant of circumcision, Acts vii, 8; Rom. iv, 8.
xviii,	10.	By faith Sarah herself received strength, Heb. xi, 11.
	12.	As Sarah obeyed Abraham, 1 Pet. iii, 6.
xix,	25.	And the cities of Sodom and Gomorrah, 2 Pet. ii, 6.
		As Sodom and Gomorrah, Jude 7.
	26.	Remember Lot's wife, Luke xvii, 32.
		For as it was in the days of Lot, they eat, they drank, they bought, Luke xvii, 27.
xxi,	1.	Abraham had a son by the free-woman. Gal. iv, 23.

Table of passages of the Old Testament cited in the New.

Chap. Ver.

xxii, 1. By faith, Abraham, when he was tried, Heb. xi, 17.
9. Abraham offered his son upon the altar, James ii, 21.
16. As he spake unto our fathers, Luke i, 55.
xxv, 22. Rebecca also conceived by one, our father Isaac, Rom. ix, 10.
31. Lest there be a fornicator or profane person, as was Esau, who, for one mess of pottage, sold his birthright, Heb. xii, 16.
xxvii, 28. By faith he blessed them concerning things to come, Heb. xi, 20.
xlviii, 15. By faith, Jacob, when he was dying, Heb. xi, 21.
xlix, 10. Of whom Moses wrote in the law, John i, 45.
l, 24. By faith, Joseph, when he died, Heb. xi, 22.

EXODUS.

ii, 2. By faith, Moses, when he was born, Heb. xi, 23.
11. By faith, Moses, when he was come to years, Heb. xi, 24.
Moses, seeing one of them suffering wrong, Acts vii, 24.
iii, 2. And when forty years were expired, Acts vii, 30.
xii, 11. Through faith he kept the passover, Heb. xi, 28.
xiv, 22. They were baptized unto Moses in the cloud, 1 Cor. x, 2.
By faith they passed through the Red sea, Heb. xi, 29.
xvi, 15. Our fathers ate manna in the wilderness, John vi, 49.
He gave them bread from heaven, John vi, 31.
They did all eat that spiritual meat, 1 Cor. x, 3.
xvii, 6. For they drank of that spiritual rock which followed them, 1 Cor. x, 4.
xix, 6. A holy nation, a peculiar people, 1 Pet. ii, 9.
12. And if a beast touch the mountain, Heb. xii, 20.
16. Ye are not come unto the mountain, Heb. xii, 18.
xxiv, 8. When Moses had spoken every precept, Heb. ix, 19.
xxvi, 1. For there was a tabernacle made, the first, Heb. ix, 2.
xxxii, 6. Be not ye idolaters, as were some of them, 1 Cor. x, 7. xl, 4. Wherein was the candlestick, Heb. ix, 2.

LEVITICUS.

xii, 3. Ye on the sabbath circumcise a man, John vii, 22.
When eight days were fulfilled, Luke ii, 21.
4. When the days of their purification, Luke ii, 22.
6. And to offer a sacrifice according to the law, Luke ii, 24.
xiv, 4. Bring the gift which Moses hath commanded, Matt. viii, 4; Mark i, 44.
xvi, 14. If the blood of bulls and goats, Heb. ix, 13.
17. The whole multitude of the people were without worshipping, Luke i, 10.

Chap. Ver.

xix, 15. Not with respect to persons, James ii, 1.
17. If thy brother sin against thee, Matt. xviii, 15; Luke xvii, 3. xx, 10. Moses in the law commanded such to be stoned, John viii, 5.

NUMBERS.

viii, 16. Every male that openeth the womb, Luke ii, 23.
ix, 18. All our fathers were under the cloud, 1 Cor. x, 1.
xi, 7. He gave them bread from heaven to eat, John vi, 31.
xii, 7. Moses was faithful in all his house, Heb. iii, 2.
xiv, 37. Whose carcases fell in the wilderness, Heb. iii, 17.
xvi, 1. They have perished in the gainsaying of Korah, Jude 11.
xix, 3. For the bodies of the beasts whose blood is brought, Heb. xiii, 12.
xx, 10. They drank of that spiritual rock that followed them, 1 Cor. x, 4.
xxi, 5. Neither let us tempt Christ, 1 Cor. x, 9.
9. As Moses lifted up the serpent in the wilderness, John iii, 14.
xxii, 23. The dumb ass speaking with a man's voice, 2 Pet. ii, 16.
39. Following the way of Balaam, 2 Pet. ii, 15; Jude 11.
xxiv, 14. They hold the doctrine of Balaam, who taught Balak, Rev. ii, 14.
xxv, 6. Let us not commit adultery as some of them, 1 Cor. x, 8.
xxvi, 64. Whose bodies fell in the wilderness, 1 Cor. x, 5.
xxviii, 8. The priests profane the sabbath in the Temple, Matt. xii, 5.

DEUTERONOMY.

i, 16, 17. Have not respect of persons, James ii, 1, 9.
x, 17. For there is no respect of persons with God, Rom. ii, 11; Acts x, 34; Col. iii, 5; Eph. vi, 9. xvii, 6. He that despised Moses' law, Heb. x, 28.
xviii, 1. Do ye not know that they who minister in holy things, 1 Cor. ix, 13.
xxiv, 1. Whosoever shall put away his wife, Matt. v, 31; xix, 7; Mark x, 4.

JOSHUA.

ii, 1. Likewise Rahab the harlot, James ii, 25.
vi, 20. By faith the walls of Jericho fell down, Heb. xi, 30.
By faith Rahab the harlot, Heb. xi, 31.

1 SAMUEL.

xxi, 6. Do ye not know what David did when he was hungry, Matt. xii, 3; Mark ii, 25; Luke vi, 4.

1 KINGS.

ii, 10. Let me speak freely concerning the patriarch David, Acts ii, 29; xiii, 36.
x, 1. The queen of the south, Matt. xii, 42; Luke xi, 31.
xvii, 1. The heavens were shut for the space of three years, Luke iv, 25.
Elijah was a man of like passions with us, James v, 17.

2 KINGS.

iv, 29. Salute no man by the way, Luke x, 4.

Chap. Ver.

v, 13. Many lepers were in Israel, Luke iv, 27.

1 CHRONICLES.

xxiii, 13. But no man receiveth this honour to himself, but he that was called, as was Aaron, Heb. v, 4.

JOB.

i, 21. For we brought nothing into this world, 1 Tim. vi, 7.
v, 17. Blessed is the man that endureth temptation, James i, 12.
xxxiv, 19. For God is no respecter of persons, Acts x, 34.

PSALMS.

xli, 10. But the son of man goeth, Matt. xxvi, 24; Mark xiv, 21; Luke xxii, 22. cxxxii, 5. David desired to find a tabernacle for the God of Jacob, Acts vii, 46.

PROVERBS.

xi, 31. If the righteous scarcely be saved, 1 Pet. iv, 18.
xvii, 27. Let every one be swift to hear, James i, 19.
xx, 9. If we say we have no sin, 1 John i, 8.
xxiv, 13. Have not the faith, with respect of persons, James ii, 1. xxv, 6. Sit not down in the chief seat, Luke xiv, 8.

ISAIAH.

vii, 14. Behold this is set for the fall and rising again, Luke ii, 34.
xiii, 10. After the tribulation of those days, the sun shall be darkened, Matt. xxiv, 29; Mark viii, 24.
xli, 8. He hath holpen his servant Israel, Luke i, 54.
liv, 1. Blessed are the barren, Luke xxiii, 29.
lviii, 7. I was hungry and ye gave me meat, Matt. xxv, 35.
lxiii, 2. Clothed with a garment dipped in blood, Rev. xix, 13.

JEREMIAH.

ii, 21. A man that was a householder, Matt. xxi, 33; Mark xii, 1; Luke xx, 9. xviii, 6. Shall the thing formed say to him who formeth it, Rom. ix, 20.

EZEKIEL.

xii, 21. Where is the promise of his coming, 2 Pet. iii, 4. xviii, 7. I was hungry and ye gave me meat, Matt. xxv, 35.
xxxix, 2. And when the thousand years shall be finished, Rev. xx, 7.

DANIEL.

vii, 10. And thousands of thousands, Rev. v, 11.
xii, 7. And the angel which I saw standing on the sea, Rev. x, 5.

JOEL.

iii, 15. The sun shall be darkened, Matt. xxiv, 29; Mark xiii, 24.

MICAH.

ii, 10. Here we have no continuing city, Heb. xiii, 14.
iv, 7. He shall reign over the house of Jacob, Luke i, 33.

TABLE II.

Of passages collected from the OLD TESTAMENT, as a testimony to the NEW; not indeed in the same words, but having the same meaning.

GENESIS.

Chap.	Ver.
i,	27.	He made them male and female, Matt. xix, 4.
ii,	2.	And God rested the seventh day, Heb. iv, 4.
	7.	And the first man Adam was, 1 Cor. xv, 47.
	24.	Therefore shall a man leave father and mother, Matt. xix, 5; Mark x, 7; 1 Cor. vi, 16; Eph. v, 31.
		And they two shall be one flesh, Matt. xix, 5; Mark x, 7; 1 Cor. vi, 16; Eph. v, 31.
xii,	1, 5, 6.	Go out of thy country, Acts vii, 3.
		In thy seed shall all the kindreds of the earth be blessed, Acts iii, 25.
xv,	5.	So shall be thy seed, Rom. iv, 18.
	6.	And Abraham believed, Rom. iv, 18; James ii, 23; Gal. iii, 6.
	13, 16.	Thy seed shall sojourn, Acts vii, 6.
xvii,	4.	Thou shalt be a father of many nations, Rom. iv, 17.
xviii,	10.	I will return, according to the time of life, Rom. ix, 9.
xxi,	10.	Cast out the bondwoman and her son, Gal. iv, 30.
		In Isaac shall thy seed be called, Rom. ix, 7.
xxii,	17.	In blessing will I bless thee, Heb. vi, 14.
	18.	In thy seed shall all the nations of the earth be blessed, Gal. iii, 8; Acts iii, 25.
xxv,	23.	The elder shall serve the younger, Rom. ix, 12.

EXODUS.

iii,	6.	I am the God of Abraham, Matt. xxii, 32; Mark xii, 26; Luke xx, 37; Acts vii, 32.
ix,	16.	For this cause have I raised thee up, Rom. ix, 17.
xii,	46.	A bone of him shall not be broken, John xix, 36.
xiii,	2.	Every male that openeth the womb, Luke ii, 23.
xvi,	18.	He that gathered much had nothing over, 2 Cor. viii, 15.
xx,	12.	Honour thy father and mother, Matt. xv, 4; Eph. vi, 2.
	13.	Thou shalt not kill, Matt. v, 21.
	14.	Thou shalt not commit adultery, Matt. v, 27.
	15.	Thou shalt not steal, &c, Rom. xiii, 9.
	17.	Thou shalt not covet, Rom. vii, 7.
xxii,	17.	He that curseth his father or mother, Matt. xv, 4; Mark vii, 10.
	24.	Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, Matt. v, 38.
	28.	Thou shalt not speak evil of the ruler of thy people, Acts xxiii, 5.
xxiv,	8.	Behold the blood of the covenant, Heb. ix, 20; xiii, 20; 1 Pet. i, 2.
xxv,	40.	Look that thou make all after the pattern, Heb. viii, 5; Acts vii, 44.
xxxii,	1.	Make us gods that may go before us, Acts vii, 40.
xxxiii,	19.	I will be gracious to whom I will be gracious, Rom. ix, 15.
xxxiv,	33.	Moses put a veil on his face, 2 Cor. iii, 13.

LEVITICUS.

Chap.	Ver.
xi,	44.	Ye shall be holy, for I am holy, 1 Thess. iv, 7; 1 Pet. i, 15, 16.
xviii,	5.	Which if a man do, he shall live in them, Luke x, 28; Rom. x, 5.
xix,	12.	Ye shall not swear by my name falsely, Matt. v, 33; James v, 12.
	18.	Thou shalt love thy neighbour as thyself, Matt. v, 43; xxii, 39; Gal. v, 14; Jam. ii, 8.
xx,	9.	Every one that curseth father or mother, Matt. xv, 4.
xxiv,	20.	Eye for eye, tooth for tooth, Matt. v, 38.
xxvi,	11.	I will dwell among you, 2 Cor. vi, 16.

NUMBERS.

ix,	12.	Nor break any bone of it, John xix, 36.

DEUTERONOMY.

iv,	24.	The Lord thy God is a consuming fire, Heb. xii, 29.
v,	16.	Honour thy father and thy mother, Matt. xv, 4; Mark vii, 10; Eph. vi, 2.
	17.	Thou shalt not kill, Matt. v, 21.
	18.	Thou shalt not commit adultery, Luke xviii, 20.
	19.	Thou shalt not steal, Luke xviii, 20; Rom. xiii, 9.
	20.	Thou shalt not bear false witness, Luke xviii, 2; Rom. xiii, 9.
	21.	Thou shalt not covet, Rom. vii, 7.
vi,	4.	Hear, O Israel, the Lord our God is one Lord, Mark xii, 29.
	5.	Thou shalt love the Lord, Matt. xxii, 37; Mark xii, 30; Luke x, 27.
	13.	Thou shalt fear the Lord thy God, and serve him, Matt. iv, 10; Luke iv, 8.
	16.	Ye shall not tempt the Lord your God, Matt. iv, 7; Luke iv, 12.
viii,	3.	Man doth not live by bread only, Matt. iv, 4; Luke iv, 4.
x,	17.	God accepteth not persons, Acts x, 34; Rom. ii, 11; Gal. ii, 6; Eph. vi, 9; 1 Pet. i, 17.
xviii,	15.	A prophet shall the Lord raise up unto thee, John i, 45; Acts iii, 22; vii, 37.
xix,	15.	At the mouth of two witnesses, Matt. xviii, 10; John viii, 17; 2 Cor. xiii, 1; 1 Tim. v, 19; Heb. x, 28.
	21.	An eye for an eye, tooth for tooth, hand for hand, Matt. v, 38.
xxi,	23.	He that is hanged is accursed, Gal. iii, 13.
xxv,	4.	Thou shalt not muzzle the ox, 1 Cor. ix, 9; 1 Tim. v, 18.
	5.	If a man's brother die, Matt. xxii, 24; Mark xii, 19; Luke xx, 28.
xxvii,	26.	Cursed is he who confirmeth not all the words of this law, Gal. iii, 10.
xxx,	12.	Who shall go up for us to heaven, Rom. x, 6, &c.
	14.	But the word is very nigh unto thee, Rom. x, 6, &c.
xxxii,	21.	I will move them to jealousy, Rom. x, 19.
	35.	To me belong vengeance and recompense, Rom. xii, 19; Heb. x, 30.

JOSHUA.

Chap.	Ver.
i,	5.	I will not fail thee, Heb. xiii, 5.

2 SAMUEL.

vii,	14.	I will be his father, Heb. i, 5.

1 KINGS.

xix,	10.	They have slain thy prophets, Rom. xi, 3.
	18.	I have left me seven thousand in Israel, Rom. xi, 4.

JOB.

v,	13.	He taketh the wise in their own craftiness, 1 Cor. iii, 19.

PSALMS.

ii,	1.	Why do the heathen rage, Acts iv, 25.
	7.	Thou art my Son, this day have I begotten thee, Acts xiii, 33; Heb. i, 5; v, 3.
	9.	Thou shalt break them with a rod of iron, Rev. ii, 27; xii, 5; xix, 15.
iv,	4.	Stand in awe, and sin not, Eph. iv, 26.
v,	9.	Their throat is an open sepulchre, Luke xi, 44; Rom. iii, 13.
vi,	8.	Depart from me, ye workers of iniquity, Matthew vii, 23; xxv, 45; Luke xiii, 27.
viii,	2.	Out of the mouths of babes and sucklings, Matt. xi, 25; xxi, 16; 1 Cor. i, 27.
	4.	What is man that thou art mindful of him, Heb. ii, 6.
	6.	Thou hast put all things under his feet, 1 Cor. xv, 27; Heb. ii, 8.
x,	7.	His mouth is full of cursing, Rom. iii, 14.
xiv,	3.	There is none that doeth good, Rom. iii, 10.
xvi,	8.	I have set the Lord always before me, Acts ii, 25.
	10.	Thou wilt not suffer thy Holy One to see corruption, Acts ii, 31; xiii, 35.
xviii,	2.	My God, in whom I will trust, Heb. ii, 13.
	49.	I will give thanks unto thee among the heathen, Rom. xv, 9.
xix,	4.	Their line is gone out through all the earth, Rom. x, 18.
xxii,	1.	My God, my God, why hast thou forsaken me, Matt. xxvii, 46; Mark xv, 34.
	18.	They part my garments among them, Luke xxiii, 34; John xix, 23, 24.
	22.	I will declare thy name to my brethren, Heb. ii, 12.
xxiv,	1.	The earth is the Lord's, 1 Cor. x, 26, 28.
xxxi,	5.	Into thy hand I commit my spirit, Luke xxiii, 46; Acts vii, 59.
xxxiv,	12.	What man is he that desireth life, 1 Pet. iii, 10.
xxxv,	19.	They hated me without a cause, John xv, 25.
xl,	6.	Sacrifice and offering thou didst not desire, Mat. xii, 7; Heb. x, 5.
xli,	9.	He who did eat of my bread, John xiii, 18.

Table of passages of the Old Testament cited in the New.

Chap. Ver.
xliv, 22. For thy sake are we killed all the day, Rom. viii, 36.
xlv, 6. Thy throne, O God, is for ever and ever, Heb. i, 8.
li, 4. That thou mightest be justified when thou speakest, Rom. iii, 4.
lv, 22. Cast thy burden upon the Lord, 1 Pet. v, 7. lxii, 12. Thou renderest to every man according, Matt. xvi, 27; Rom. ii, 6; 1 Cor. iii, 8. lxviii, 18. Thou hast ascended on high and led captivity captive, Eph. iv, 8.
lxix, 9. The zeal of thy house hath eaten me up, John ii, 39.
The reproaches of them that reproached thee, Rom. xv, 3.
22. Let their table become a snare, Rom. xi, 9, 10.
25. Let their habitation be desolate, Acts i, 20.
lxxviii, 2. I will open my mouth in parables, Matt. xiii, 35.
24. He gave them bread from heaven, John vi, 31; 1 Cor. x, 3. lxxxii, 6. I have said, Ye are gods, John x, 34.
lxxxix, 20. I have found David my servant, Acts xiii, 22.
xci, 11. He will give his angels charge concerning thee, Matt. iv, 6; Luke iv, 10.
xciv, 11. The Lord knoweth the thoughts of man, 1 Cor. iii, 20.
xcv, 7. To-day, if ye will hear his voice, Heb. iii, 7; iv, 7.
11. Unto whom I sware in my wrath, Heb. iv, 3. cii, 25. Thou, Lord, in the beginning hast laid, Heb. i, 10.
civ, 4. Who maketh his angels spirits, Heb. i, 7.
cix, 20. His bishopric let another take, Acts i, 20.
cx, 1. The Lord said unto my Lord, Matt. xxii, 44; Mark xii, 42; Acts i, 34; 1 Cor. xv, 25.
Until I make thine enemies thy footstool, 1 Cor. xv, 25.
4. Thou art a priest for ever, Heb. v, 6; vii, 17, 21.
The Lord hath sworn, and will not repent, Heb. vii, 17.
cxii, 9. He hath dispersed abroad, 2 Cor. ix, 9.
cxvi, 10. I believed; therefore have I spoken, 2 Cor. iv, 13.
11. I said in my haste, All men are liars, Rom. iii, 4. cxvii, 1. Praise the Lord, all ye nations, Rom. xv, 11.
cxviii, 6. The Lord is on my side, Heb. xiii, 6.
22. The stone which the builders rejected, Matt. xxi, 42; Mark xii, 10; Luke xx, 17; Acts iv, 11; 1 Pet. ii, 4, 7.
25, 26. Save now, I beseech thee,—Blessed is he that cometh, Matt. xxi, 9. cxxxii, 11. Of the fruit of thy body, Luke i, 69; Acts ii, 30.
cxl, 3. Adder's poison is under their lips, Rom. iii, 13.

PROVERBS.

iii, 7. Be not wise in thy own eyes, Rom. xii, 16.
11. My son, despise not the chastening of the Lord, Heb. xii, 5.
12. For whom the Lord loveth he chasteneth, Rev. iii, 19.
x, 12. Love covereth all sins, 1 Pet. iv, 8.
xvii, 15. Whoso rewarded evil for good, 1 Thess. v, 15; 1 Pet. iii, 9.
xx, 20. Whoso curseth his father, Matt. xv, 4.
xxv, 21. If thine enemy be hungry, give him bread, Matt. v, 44; Rom. xii, 20.
xxvi, 11. As a dog returneth to his vomit, 2 Pet. ii, 22.

ISAIAH.

i, 9. Except the Lord had left us a very small remnant, Rom. ix, 29.
v, 1, &c. My well-beloved hath a vineyard, Matt. xxi, 33; Mark xii, 1; Luke xx, 9.
vi, 3. Holy, holy, holy, Rev. iv, 8.
9. Hear ye indeed, but understand not, Matt. xiii, 14; Mark iv, 12; Luke viii, 10; John xii, 40; Acts xxviii, 26; Rom. xi, 8.
vii, 14. Behold, a virgin shall conceive, Matt. i, 23; Luke i, 31.
viii, 18. Behold, I and the children, Heb. ii, 13.
ix, 1. The land of Zebulun and the land of Napthali, Matt. iv, 16.
x, 22. Yet a remnant of them shall return, Rom. ix, 27.
xi, 4. With the breath of his lips shall he slay the wicked, 2 Thess. ii, 8; Rev. i, 16.
xxi, 9. Babylon is fallen, is fallen, Rev. xiv, 8; xviii, 2.
xxii, 13. Let us eat and drink, for to-morrow we die, 1 Cor. xv, 32.
22. He shall open, and none shall shut, Rev. iii, 7.
xxv, 8. The Lord will wipe away tears from all faces, Rev. vii, 17.
xxviii, 11. For with stammering lips and another tongue, 1 Cor. xiv, 21.
16. Behold I lay in Zion for a foundation, Matt. xxi, 42; Acts iv, 11; Rom. ix, 33; Eph. ii, 20; 1 Pet. ii, 6—8.
xxix, 13. This people draw near me with their mouth, Matt. xv, 8, 9; Mark vii, 6.
14. The wisdom of their wise shall perish, 1 Cor. i, 19. xxxiii, 18. Where is the wise, where is the receiver, 1 Cor. i, 20.
xl, 3. The voice of him that crieth in the wilderness, Matt. iii, 3; Mark i, 3; Luke iii, 4; John i, 23.
6. All flesh is grass, Jam. i, 10; 1 Pet. i, 24.
13. Who hath directed the Spirit of the Lord, Rom. xi, 34; 1 Cor. ii, 16.
xli, 4. I the Lord the first, and with the last, Rev. i, 17.
xlii, 1. Behold my servant whom I uphold, Matt. xii, 18.
xliii, 19. Behold, I will do a new thing, 2 Cor. v, 17; Rev. xxi, 5. xliv, 6. I am the first, and I am the last, Rev. xxii, 13.
xlv, 9. Shall the clay say to him that fashioneth it, Rom. ix, 20.
23. Unto me every knee shall bow, Rom. xiv, 11; Phil. ii, 10.
xlix, 6. I will give thee for a light to the Gentiles, Luke ii, 32; Acts xiii, 47; xxvi, 8.
8. In an acceptable time have I heard thee, 2 Cor. vi, 2.
10. They shall not hunger nor thirst, Rev. vii, 16.
l, 6. I hid not my face from shame and spitting, Matt. xxvi, 67; xxvii, 26.
lii, 7. How beautiful upon the mountains, Rom. x, 15.
5. My name continually every day is blasphemed, Rom. ii, 24.
lii, 11. Depart ye, depart ye, touch no unclean thing, 2 Cor. vi, 17; Rev. xviii, 4.
15. For that which had not been told them, Rom. xv, 21.
liii, 1. Who hath believed our report, John xii, 38; Rom. x, 16.
4. Surely he hath borne our griefs, Matt. viii, 17.
5. He was bruised for our iniquities, Rom. iv, 25; 1 Cor. xv, 3; 1 Pet. ii, 24.
7. He is brought as a lamb to the slaughter, Acts viii, 32.
9. He did no violence, neither was deceit found in his mouth, 1 Pet. ii, 22.
12. He was numbered with the transgressors, Mark xv, 28; Luke xxii, 37.
liv, 1. Sing, O barren, thou that didst not bear, Gal. iv, 27.
13. All thy children shall be taught of the Lord, John vi, 45; 1 Cor. ii, 10.
lv, 1. Ho, every one that thirsteth, John iv, 14; vii, 37; Rev. xxi, 6; xxii, 17.
3. I will give you the sure mercies of David, Acts xiii, 34.
lvi, 7. For my house shall be called a house of prayer, Matt. xxi, 13; Mark xi, 17; Luke xix, 46.
lix, 7. Wasting and destruction are in their paths, Rom. iii, 15.
17. He put on righteousness as a breastplate, Eph. vi, 14, 17; 1 Thess. v, 8.
20. The Redeemer shall come to Zion, Rom. xi, 26.
lx, 11. Thy gates shall be open continually, Rev. xxi, 25.
19. The sun shall be no more thy light, Rev. xxi, 23; xxii, 5. lxi, 1. The Spirit of the Lord is upon me, Luke iv, 18.
lxii, 11. Say ye to the daughter of Zion, Matt. xxi, 5; John xii, 15.
lxiv, 4. Men have not seen nor perceived by the ear, 1 Cor. ii, 9.
lxv, 1. I am sought of them that asked not for me, Rom. ix, 24—26; x, 20; Eph. ii, 13.
2. I have spread out my hands all the day, Rom. x, 21.
17. I create new heavens and a new earth, 2 Pet. iii, 13; Rev. xxi, 1. lxvi, 1. Heaven is my throne, Acts vii, 48, 49; xvii, 24.
24. Their worm shall not die, neither shall their fire, Mark ix, 44—48.

JEREMIAH.

vii, 11. Is this house become a den of robbers, Matt. xxi, 17; Luke xix, 46.
ix, 24. But let him that glorieth glory in this, 1 Cor. i, 31; 2 Cor. x, 17.
x, 7. Who would not fear thee, O king of nations, Rev. xv, 4.
xvii, 10. I the Lord search the heart and try the reins, Rom. viii, 27; Rev. ii, 23.
xxxi, 9. I will be a father to Israel, 2 Cor. vi, 18; Rev. xxi, 7.
15. A voice was heard in Ramah, Matt. ii, 17, 18.
31. Behold, the days come—that I will make a new covenant, Heb. viii, 8; x, 10.
li, 8. Babylon is suddenly fallen, Rev. xiv, 8; xviii, 2.

EZEKIEL.

iii, 1—3. Eat this roll, Rev. x, 9.
xx, 11, 13, 21. Which if a man do he shall even live in them, Rom. x, 5; Gal. iii, 12.

Chap. Ver.
xxxii, 8. All the bright lights of heaven will I make dark, Matt. xxiv, 29.
xxxvi, 23. I will sanctify my great name which was profaned, Rom. ii, 24.

DANIEL.

ix, 27. The overspreading of abominations, Matt. xxiv, 15; Mark xiii, 14; Luke xxi, 20.

HOSEA.

i, 10. In the place where it was said unto them, Rom. ix, 25.
ii, 23. I will say unto them that were not my people, Rom. ix, 26; 1 Pet. ii, 10.
vi, 6. For I desired mercy, and not sacrifice, Matt. ix, 13; xii, 7.
x, 8. They shall say unto the mountains, cover us, Luke xxiii, 30; Rev. vi, 16; ix, 6.
xi, 1. I called my son out of Egypt, Matt. ii, 15.
xiii, 14. O death, I will be thy plagues, 1 Cor. xv, 54, 55.

JOEL.

ii, 28. It shall come to pass in the last days, Acts ii, 17.
32. Whosoever shall call on the name of the Lord, Rom. x, 13.

AMOS.

Chap. Ver.
v, 25. Have ye offered to me sacrifices, Acts vii, 42.
vi, 1. Woe to them that are at ease in Zion, Luke vi, 24.
ix, 11. I will raise up the tabernacle of David, Acts xv, 16, 17.

JONAH.

ii, 17. Jonah was in the belly of the fish three days and three nights, Matt. xii, 40; xvi, 4; Luke xi, 30.
iii, 4—9. The people of Nineveh repented, Matt. xii, 41; Luke xi, 32.

MICAH.

v, 2. Thou, Beth-lehem Ephratah, Matt. ii, 6; John vii, 42.
vii, 6. The son dishonoureth his father, Matt. x, 21, 35, 36; Luke xii, 53; xxi, 16.

NAHUM.

i, 15. Behold upon the mountains the feet, Rom. x, 15.

HABAKKUK.

i, 5. Behold ye among the heathen,—and wonder, Acts xiii, 41.

Chap. Ver.
ii, 4. But the just shall live by his faith, John xiii, 36; Rom. i, 17; Gal. iii, 11; Heb. x, 38.

HAGGAI.

ii, 6. I will shake the heavens and the earth, Heb. xii, 26.

ZECHARIAH.

viii, 16. Speak every man truth to his neighbour, Eph. iv, 25.
ix, 9. Behold thy King cometh, Matt. xxi, 5; John xii, 15.
xi, 11, 12. So they weighed for my price thirty pieces of silver, Matt. xxvi, 15; xxvii, 9, 10.
xii, 10. They shall look upon me whom they have pierced, John xix, 34, 37; Rev. i, 7.
xiii, 7. I will smite the Shepherd, Matt. xxvi, 31; Mark xiv, 27.

MALACHI.

i, 2, 3. I loved Jacob, and hated Esau, Rom. ix, 13.
iii, 1. Behold, I send my messenger, Matt. xi, 10; Mark i, 2; Luke i, 76; vii, 27.
iv, 5. Behold, I will send you Elijah the prophet, Matt. xi, 14; xvii, 11; Mark ix, 11; Luke i, 17.
6. He shall turn the hearts of the fathers to the children, Luke i, 17.

THE END OF THE OLD TESTAMENT.

AN EPITOME

OF THE JEWISH HISTORY

FROM

THE TIME OF NEHEMIAH AND MALACHI TO THE BIRTH OF CHRIST.

FILLING UP THE CHASM BETWEEN

THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS.

AS many have wished to see an Epitome of the Jewish history from the days of the prophet Malachi to the advent of Christ, in order to connect the History of the Old and New Testaments, the following in such a work as this is as much as should be expected.

On all hands Malachi is allowed to have been the last prophet under the Old Testament; and he flourished about four hundred and nine years before the coming of Christ, according to the commonly received account; and Nehemiah, who was contemporary with him, was the last of those civil governors appointed by God Himself. His last act of reformation is fixed by Prideaux B. C. 409; soon after which it is supposed that he died, as at this time he could not be less than seventy years of age. For the administration of affairs in his times and those of Ezra, whom he succeeded in the government of Judea, the Reader is referred to the Notes on Ezra, Nehemiah, and Daniel.

We have seen, in the book of Nehemiah, that on the return of the Jews from the Chaldean captivity, many of them brought strange wives and a spurious offspring with them, who refusing to put them away, and being banished by Nehemiah, went and settled in Samaria. Among those exiles there was a son of Jehoiada, the highpriest, named Manasseh, who had married the daughter of Sanballat the Horonite, and put himself under the protection of his father-in-law, who was governor of the place. After the death of Nehemiah, Sanballat obtained a grant from Darius to build a temple on Mount Gerizim near Samaria, of which he made Manasseh his son-in-law highpriest. This Temple was begun to be built B. C. 408.

From the building of this temple, Samaria became the refuge of all refractory Jews, and though by this means the old superstition of the land was reformed to the worship of the God of Israel; they of Jerusalem would never consider the Samaritan Jews otherwise than apostates. On the other hand, the Samaritans maintained that mount Gerizim was the only proper place for the worship of God. This people rejected all traditions, and adhered only to the written word contained in the five books of Moses.

Nehemiah's death was also attended with a change of the Jewish government at Jerusalem. Judea had no longer a governor of its own. It was united to the prefecture of Syria; the rulers of which committed the administration of both civil and ecclesiastical affairs to the highpriest for the time being.

By this means the highpriesthood became an office under the heathen; and towards the latter end of Artaxerxes Mnemon's reign, B. C. 405, who succeeded his father Darius Nothus, B. C. 423, the office was conferred by the governor of Syria and Phœnicia. For Bagoses, the governor, took upon himself to displace Johanan the highpriest, in favour of the said priest's brother Joshua. Which nomination, (though it did not take place, for Johanan slew his brother Joshua in the inner court of the temple, as he endeavoured by force to usurp the high-priest's office by virtue of the governor's commission, B. C. 366,) was attended with this bad consequence, that Bagoses, hearing of this murder, came in great wrath to Jerusalem, and laid a heavy fine upon the nation, which lasted seven years, or during the whole of his government.

Artaxerxes Mnemon died B. C. 359, with grief at the brutality of his son Ochus, who had so terrified his eldest brother Ariaspes that he poisoned himself, and had his younger brother Harpates assassinated. So that Ochus succeeded to the dignity and empire of his father.

In the third year of Ochus, about 356 before Christ, Alexander the Great was born at Pella in Macedonia. Ochus having reigned twenty-one years was poisoned by his favourite Bagoas, in hopes of getting the whole government into his own hands; and to put the crown on the head of Arses his youngest son; whom also he poisoned soon after; and raised Codomannus, a distant relation of the late king, to the throne. This new king took the name of Darius, and when Bagoas had also prepared a poisonous draught for him, he obliged Bagoas to drink it himself; by which means he saved his own life, and punished the traitor.

It was about the year B. C. 336, that Alexander the Great succeeded to the kingdom of Macedon, on the death of his father Philip, who was slain by the noble Macedonian Pausanias, as he celebrated the marriage of his daughter with Alexander, king of Epirus, before he set out upon the Grecian expedition against Persia, being chosen captain-general of the united forces of Greece.

Alexander also succeeded to that command by a new election. In one campaign he overran all Asia Minor; vanquished Darius in two battles; took his mother, wife, and children prisoners; and subdued all Syria as far as Tyre, B. C. 332.

During the siege of Tyre, he demanded the submission of the neighbouring provinces of Galilee, Samaria, and Judea. The two former submitted to him: but Judea would not renounce their allegiance to Darius, so long as he lived. This brought upon them the wrath of the conqueror, who having taken Tyre by carrying a bank from the continent through the sea to the island on which the city stood, and burned it down to the ground, destroyed and slew all the inhabitants in a barbarous manner, both in the sackage of the town, and afterwards in cold blood, and then marched to Jerusalem to wreak his vengeance upon the Jews. Upon his approach, and the report of his having crucified two thousand of the Tyrian prisoners, the high-priest Jaddua and all the city were under dreadful apprehensions. They had nothing but God's protection to depend upon. They fasted and prayed: and God in a vision directed the high-priest to go in his pontifical robes, attended with the priests in their proper habits, and all the people in white garments, and meet Alexander out of the city.

As soon as Alexander saw this procession moving towards him, and the high-priest in the front, he was overawed, drew near, bowed down, and saluted him in a religious manner; alleging, that he did so in regard to that God, whose priest he was: adding moreover, that the high-priest so habited, had appeared to him in a dream at Dio in Macedonia, assuring him of success against the Persians.

Jaddua conducted him into the city; and, having offered sacrifices in the temple, shewed him the prophecies of Daniel, concerning the overthrow of the Persian empire by a Grecian king.

Alexander was well satisfied with his reception at Jerusalem; and, at his departure, granted the Jews a toleration of their religion, and an exemption from tribute every seventh year. And the Jews were so well pleased with the conqueror's behaviour, that upon his signifying that he would receive as many of them as would enlist into his service, great multitudes entered under his banner, and followed him in his other expeditions.

The Samaritans met him with great pomp and parade, as he left Jerusalem, and invited him to their city. But Alexander deferred both their invitation, and petition for certain privileges, till his return from Egypt; and left his favourite Andromachus governor of Syria and Palestine.

Andromachus, coming some time after to Samaria, upon business, was burned to death in his house, as it was thought on purpose by the Samaritans, in revenge of the slight which they apprehended Alexander had shewn them. But as soon as Alexander heard it, he caused those to be put to death who had acted any part in the murder, banished all the other inhabitants from Samaria, planted therein a colony of Macedonians, and gave the residue to the Jews.

Upon the ruin of the Persians, Alexander had erected the Grecian or Macedonian monarchy. But coming to Babylon, after the conquest of the most part of the then known world, he gave himself up so much to drunkenness and gluttony, that he soon put an end to his life, B. C. 323.

Here it cannot be amiss to observe that Alexander was of a bold and enterprising spirit; but more full of fire than discretion. His actions, though successful, were furious and extravagantly rash. His few virtues were obscured with more and greater vices. Vain glory was his predominant passion; and the fables of the ancient Greek heroes were the only charts by which he steered his conduct. His dragging Balis round Gaza, his expedition into India, his drunken procession through Caramania, and taking to himself the name of the son of Jupiter, are so many vouchers of this assertion. And, were all his actions duly considered and estimated, he would be properly characterized the great cut-throat of the age in which he lived; as all they are who delight in bloodshed, and will forfeit ALL to obtain universal monarchy; whereas they only are the true heroes, who most benefit the world, by promoting the peace and welfare of mankind.—In a righteous cause, or a just defence of a man's country, all actions of valour are worthy of praise: but in all other cases victory and conquest are no more than murder and robbery. Therefore Alexander's heroism is to be avoided, and not to be followed, as the truest way to honour and glory.

Alexander was no sooner dead, than Ptolemy Soter seized upon Egypt; and having in vain endeavoured to gain Syria, Phœnicia, and Judea, from Laomedon, whom Alexander had appointed governor instead of Andromachus, that was burnt, invaded them by sea and land, took Laomedon prisoner, and got possession of those provinces also, except Judea; which, upon the account of their allegiance to the surviving governor, refusing to yield, felt the severity of the conqueror; who, understanding that the Jews would not so much as defend themselves on the Sabbath-day, stormed Jerusalem, took it without resistance on that day, and carried above one hundred thousand of them captives into Egypt.

From this time we may date the Jews' subjection to the kings of Egypt. And it was in the fifth year of this Ptolemy's reign, that Onias the Jewish highpriest died; and was succeeded by his son Simon the Just, whose praise is in Ecclus. l, 1, &c. B. C. 292.

Simon the Just was highpriest nine years; and is supposed to have completed the canon of the Old Testament, by adding the books of Ezra, Nehemiah, Esther, Malachi, and the two books of Chronicles, with the aid and assistance of the great synagogue. He was succeeded by his brother Eleazar, his son Onias being a minor, B. C. 291.

Ptolemy Soter was succeeded by his son Ptolemy Philadelphus, B. C. 285, who completed the college or museum of learned men, and the famous library at Alexandria in Egypt, which was begun by his father, and contained seven hundred thousand volumes; and placed in that library an authentic translation of the book of the law. This translation was finished under the inspection of Eleazar the highpriest; and is called the Septuagint, on account of the joint labour of seventy-two translators employed in it. B. C. 254.

Ptolemy Philadelphus died in the thirty-ninth year of his reign, and in the sixty-third of his age, B. C. 247. He was a learned prince, and a great patron of learning; so that the men of learning flocked to his court from all parts, and partook of his favour and bounty. Amongst these were the poets Theocritus, Callimachus, Lycophron, and Aratus; and Manetho, the Egyptian historian.

B. C. 247, Ptolemy Euergetes succeeded his father Ptolemy in Egypt. He found Onias, the son of Simon the Just, in the pontificate at Jerusalem, who was very old, weak, inconsiderate, and covetous. And Euergetes, perceiving that the highpriest had for many years kept back the annual tribute, sent one Athenion, an officer at court, to Jerusalem to demand it, being a very large sum, with threats of sending an army to dispossess them of the country, upon refusal.

This demand and threatening threw the whole nation into great confusion. And one Joseph, the highpriest's nephew by his sister's side, rebuked his uncle sharply for his injustice and ill-management of the public interest; proposed Onias's journey to Alexandria as the best expedient; and, upon his uncle's refusal, offered to go in person to pacify the king's wrath, which was accepted by the highpriest, and approved by the people, B. C. 226.

Joseph all this time had entertained Athenion in a most elegant manner at his own house; and, at his departure, loaded him with such valuable gifts, that, when he arrived at Alexandria, he found the king prepared much in his favour to receive him; and made himself more acceptable, by informing him concerning the revenues of Cœlosyria and Phœnicia, whose value he had enquired more perfectly from their farmers, with whom he had travelled to court part of the way; and was thereupon admitted the king's receiver-general of Cœlosyria, Phœnicia, Judea, and Samaria. He immediately satisfied the king for his uncle's arrears with five hundred talents he borrowed at Alexandria on the credit of his new office, which he enjoyed twenty-two years; though he met with great opposition at his first collecting, till he had brought some of the ringleaders to exemplary punishment.

B. C. 221. All things were again composed at Jerusalem: and Philopator having succeeded his father Ptolemy Euergetes in Egypt, and defeated the army of Antiochus the Great, he in the fifth year of his reign took the tour of Jerusalem, while he visited his conquests. But this was very unfortunate for the Jews. For Philopater, being led by a vain curiosity to enter into the Sanctuary and the Holy of Holies, (on the great day of expiation) B. C. 217, where no one but the highpriest was allowed to enter, he was opposed by the deprecations and lamentations of the people. And, when he would still advance beyond the inner court, he was seized with such a terror and consternation, that he was obliged to be carried back in a manner half dead. He recovered: but when he left the city he vowed revenge. And accordingly, he was no sooner returned to Alexandria than he degraded the Jews from all their rights and privileges; ordered them to be stigmatized with a burn, representing an ivy-leaf, under pain of death, in honour of his god Bacchus; and excluded all persons from his presence that would not sacrifice to the god he worshipped. Then he commanded as many Jews as he could seize in Egypt to be brought and shut up in the Hippodrome, or place for horse-races, at Alexandria, to be destroyed by elephants. But God turned the wild beasts upon those that came to see the dreadful massacre; by which numbers of the spectators were slain; and so terrified the king and his subjects with other tokens of his displeasure and power, that Philopator immediately not only released the Jews from the Hippodrome, but restored the whole nation to their privileges, reversed every decree against them, and put those Jews to death who for fear of persecution had apostatized from their religion.

Ptolemy Philopator was succeeded B. C. 204, by his son Ptolemy Epiphanes, then only five years old. This minority gave Antiochus the Great an opportunity to regain Cœlosyria and Palestine. In which expedition the Jews had shewn so much favour to Antiochus, that he granted them many favours, a liberty to live according to their own laws and religion, a prohibition to strangers to enter within the sept of the temple, &c. But as soon as Ptolemy was marriageable, he made peace with him, and gave him his daughter, with Cœlosyria and Palestine for her portion. On this occasion, Joseph, who had been Ptolemy's receiver-general in those provinces, and displaced by Antiochus, was restored.

Ptolemy in a short time had a son; and it being customary on such occasions for all the great officers of state to congratulate the king and queen and to carry them presents, Joseph, whose age would not permit him to take so long a journey, sent his son Hyrcanus, B. C. 187, who upon an unlimited credit given him by his father, when he was arrived at Alexandria, borrowed a thousand talents, or two hundred thousand pounds sterling, with which, buying a hundred beautiful boys for the king, and as many beautiful young maids for the queen, at the price of a talent per head, and presenting them with each a talent in their hands, and disposing of the remaining sum among the courtiers and great officers, he so obliged the king and queen and all the court, that he found it easy to supplant his father, and obtained the king's commission for collecting of the royal revenues in all the country beyond Jordan.

Hyrcanus, having thus abused his trust, went with a strong guard to execute his office; and, being met by his brothers, killed two of them. He came to Jerusalem; but his father would not admit him to his presence; and he was shunned by every body. Upon the death of his father, which happened soon after, he endeavoured by force of arms to oust his brethren from the paternal estate. This disturbed the peace of Jerusalem for a while; till at last his brothers, being assisted by the highpriest and the generality of the people, drove him over Jordan, where he lived in a strong castle, till he fell upon his own sword and killed himself, to avoid the punishment with which Antiochus Epiphanes, upon his succeeding to the throne of Syria, threatened him. B. C. 175.

Antiochus the Great, being slain by the inhabitants of Elymais, as he attempted by night to plunder the temple of Jupiter Belus, thereby to pay the Romans, according to his agreement; his son Seleucus Philopator succeeded him in the provinces of Syria, Judea, &c, and resided at Antioch.

Seleucus, at his first advancement to the dominion of these provinces, continued his father's favours to the Jews: but being afterwards informed by one Simon a Benjamite, that there was great treasure in the temple, he sent one Heliodorus to seize it, and to bring all the riches he could find therein to Antioch. Heliodorus attempted to execute this commission: but he was so terrified at the sight of an armed host of angels, that appeared to defend the entrance of the sacred treasury, that he fell speechless to the ground; nor did he recover till the highpriest interceded to God for him.

This same Heliodorus poisoned his sovereign Seleucus, hoping to obtain the kingdom: but his design was frustrated by Eumenes, king of Pergamus, and his brother Attalus, who set Antiochus Epiphanes, another son of Antiochus the Great, on the throne of Syria.

Epiphanes, at his accession to the throne, finding himself hard pressed by the Romans, endeavoured to raise their heavy tribute by all manner of exactions. Amongst other means he deposed the good and pious highpriest Onias, and sold the pontificate to his brother Jason for the yearly sum of three hundred and sixty talents; and afterwards he deposed Jason, and sold it to his brother Menelaus for three hundred talents more, B. C. 174.

Menelaus having invaded the pontificate by these unjust means, and finding himself straitened to raise the annual payment according to contract, by the means of Lysimachus, another of his brothers, he robbed the temple of many gold vessels, which being turned into money, he paid the king; and bribed Andronicus, the governor of Antioch, to murder his brother Onias, lest at any time he should stand in his way. It is true, that at the instance of the people, Andronicus was seized and executed for his villany and murder; and Lysimachus was put to death by the mob at Jerusalem. Yet Menelaus found means by bribery, not only to acquit himself, but to obtain sentence against, and even the execution of the three delegates that went from Jerusalem to prosecute him in the name of the Sanhedrim.

But while Antiochus was engaged in the Egyptian war, Jason, on a false report that the king was dead, marched with a thousand men, surprised the city of Jerusalem, drove Menelaus into the castle, and cruelly put to the sword, and to other kinds of death, all those that he thought were his adversaries.

The news of this revolution and massacre no sooner reached Antiochus, but he hastened to reduce the Jews to their obedience. And in his way, being informed that the inhabitants of Jerusalem had made great rejoicings at the report of his death, he was so provoked, that, having taken it by storm, B. C. 170, he slew forty thousand persons, and sold as many more for slaves to the neighbouring nations. He entered the Holy of Holies, sacrificed a sow upon the altar of burnt-offerings, and caused the broth or liquor thereof to be sprinkled all over the temple. He plundered the temple of as much gold and furniture as amounted to eight hundred talents of gold. Then returning to Antioch, he made one Philip, a most barbarous and cruel man, governor of Judea; Andronicus, as bad a man, governor of Samaria; and continued Menelaus, the worst of all, in the pontificate. And, as if this was not sufficient to satisfy his rage, he not long after sent an army of two and twenty thousand men, under Apollonius his general, with commission to put all the men of Jerusalem to the sword, and to make slaves of the women and children: which was rigorously executed on a sabbath-day, so that none escaped, but such as could hide themselves in caves, or reach the mountains by flight.

This cruelty soon after pursued the Jews, wherever dispersed. For by a general decree to oblige all people in his dominions to conform to the religion of the king, one Athæneus, a Grecian idolater, was pitched upon to receive and instruct all the Jews that would turn idolaters, and to punish with the most cruel deaths those who refused. It was at this time that the temple was dedicated to Jupiter Olympius; the books of the law were burned; and women accused of having their children circumcised, were led about the streets with these children tied about their necks, and then both together cast headlong over the steepest part of the wall, B. C. 167. For many of them chose rather to die, than to renounce their God; as the holy zeal and religious fortitude of the very aged and pious Eleazar, a chief doctor of the law, and of the heroine Salomona and her seven sons, do testify; whom neither the instruments of death could terrify, nor the allurements of the tyrant could persuade, to forfeit their interest with the Almighty, either by idolatry or dissimulation.

Matthias, great grandson of Asmonæus, and a priest of the first course, retired with his five sons, John, Simon, Judas, Eleasar, and Jonathan from the persecution at Jerusalem, to a little place called Modin, in the tribe of Dan. But as soon as they were discovered, Antiochus sent one Apelles to that place, to oblige all the inhabitants, on pain of death to turn idolaters.—This officer delivered his commission in such a manner to persuade Matthias to embrace idolatry, by tendering to him the king's favour, and promising him great riches: which the good priest not only scornfully rejected, but slew the first Jew that dared to approach the idolatrous altar; and then, turning upon the king's commissioner, he dispatched him and all his attendants, with the assistance of his sons, and those that were with them. After this he put himself at the head of as many Jews as he could collect; and having broken down the idols and the altars of the heathens, retired with them into the mountains. Here, as he took measures for their defence, he was joined by a great party of Assidæans, a valiant people, who practised greater hardships and mortifications, and were resolved to lay down their lives for the recovery of the temple. By these, and the accession of great numbers of other Jews, Matthias found himself in a capacity to take the field; but as their mistaken notion, about resting on the sabbath-day had been one great cause of their being surprised by their enemies, and brought many great misfortunes upon them, because they would not defend themselves on that day from their enemies; he caused it to be unanimously agreed and decreed, that it was lawful, and that they should defend themselves, and repel force by force on the sabbath-day, should they be attacked.

After this decree had passed with the approbation of the priests and elders, Matthias left his lurking-places, marched round the cities of Judah, pulled down the heathen altars, restored the true worship and circumcision; and cut off both the apostates and persecutors, that fell in his way, till death summoned him to immortality, in the hundred and forty-seventh year of his age.

When he found death approaching, he exhorted his five sons to persevere in the cause of God, as he had begun: and he appointed his son Judas his successor in the command of the army; and Simeon to be their counsellor, B. C. 166. He was buried at Modin with great lamentation of all Israel.

Judas, who had signalized himself on former occasions for his great valour, was distinguished by the title Maccabeus; and having taken the command of his people upon him, he prosecuted the good work of reformation begun by his father; and took all the measures he was able, by fortifying towns, building castles, and placing strong garrisons, to maintain the liberty and religion of his country against all opposition.

Apollonius was sent by Antiochus to march an army of Samaritans against him: but he was killed, and his troops defeated and entirely routed, after a great slaughter, by our young general, who, finding Apollonius's sword among the spoils, took it for his own use, and generally fought with it ever after.

This news having reached Cœlosyria, Seron, deputy-governor of that province, marched with all the forces he could collect to revenge the death of Apollonius: but he met with the same fate.

Antiochus was so enraged at these defeats, that he immediately ordered forty thousand foot, seven thousand horse, and a great number of auxiliaries, made up of the neighbouring nations and apostate Jews, to march against Judea, under the command of Ptolemy Macron, Nicanor, and Gorgias, three eminent commanders, B. C. 162.

Upon their advancing as far as Emmaus, about seven miles from Jerusalem; Judas, who may be supposed at that time besieging or at least blocking up Jerusalem, then in the hands of the heathen, retired to Mispeh. Here the whole army addressed themselves to God. Judas exhorted them most pathetically to fight for their religion, laws, and liberties: but at last giving those leave to withdraw from his army that had built houses, or betrothed wives within the year, or that were in any degree fearful, he presently found himself at the head of no more than three thousand men.

However, he was resolved to give the enemy battle. In the mean time God ordained him an easy victory: for while Gorgias was detached with five thousand foot and one thousand horse to surprise his little army by night, Judas, being informed of the design, marched by another way, fell upon the camp in the absence of Gorgias, killed three thousand men, put the rest to flight, and seized the camp. Gorgias, not finding the Jews in their camp, proceeded to the mountains, supposing they were fled thither for safety. But, not meeting with them there, he was much surprised in his return at what had happened in his absence. And his army, hearing that Judas waited to give them a warm reception in the plains, flung down their arms and fled. Judas in the pursuit killed six thousand more, and wounded and maimed most of the rest. This victory opened to him the gates of Jerusalem, where he and his army celebrated the next day, which was a sabbath, with great devotion and thanksgiving.

Timotheus and Bacchides, governors or lieutenants under Antiochus, marched immediately to the assistance of Gorgias: but they fell a sacrifice to the valour and conduct of Judas, who, by the spoils taken from the enemy, was enabled the better to carry on the war.

This defeat was succeeded by another of Lysias, the governor of all the country beyond Euphrates. He had penetrated as far as Bethzura, a strong fortress about twenty miles from Jerusalem threatening to destroy the country with an army of sixty thousand foot and five thousand horse. But he was defeated also by Judas with ten thousand men only.

This victory gave him some respite; and accordingly he restored the temple to the true worship of God, removed all the profanations, built an altar of unhewn stones, and replaced the furniture that Antiochus had carried away, out of the gold and other rich spoils taken in this war. Thus he dedicated the temple again; and ordained that a feast of dedication should be kept annually, in commemoration thereof for ever, about the 20th of November.

His next care was to subdue the fortress on mount Acra, which Apollonius had erected to command the temple; and being yet in the power of the Heathens, gave them great opportunities to annoy the Jews that went to worship in the temple. But not having men enough to spare to form a blockade, he silenced it by another fortification, which he erected on the mountain of the temple.

When this revolt and success of the Jews reached Antiochus, in his expedition into Persia, he threatened utterly to destroy the whole nation, and to make Jerusalem the common place of burial to all the Jews. But God visited him with a sudden and sore disease. He at first was afflicted with grievous torments in his bowels: his privy parts were ulcerated, and filled with an innumerable quantity of vermin; and the smell was so offensive that he became nauseous to himself and all about him. Then his mind was so tormented with such direful spectres and apparitions of evil spirits; the remorse of his wicked life and profanations, gnawed him so grievously, that he at last acknowledged the justice of God in his punishment, and offered up many vows and promises of a full reparation in case he recovered. But God would not hear him. therefore, when his body was almost half consumed with abominable ulcers, he died under the most horrid torments of body and mind, in the twelfth year of his reign.

Judas Maccabeus began now to consider how the government should be fixed; and, therefore, in a general assembly held at Maspha, he revived the ancient order, and appointed rulers over thousands, hundreds, fifties and tens. And it is also probable, that he constituted the high court of Sanhedrim, in which was a settled Nasi, president or prince, who was the highpriest for the time being; an Abbeth-din, or father of the house of judgment, who was the president's deputy; and a Chacam, or the wise man, who was sub-deputy. The other members were called elders or senators, men of untainted birth, good learning, and profound knowledge in the law, both priests and laymen. And they in particular were empowered to decide all private difficult controversies, all religious affairs, and all important matters of state.

This was properly the senate or great council of the nation, which grew into great power under the administration of the Asmonean princes; and was in great authority in the days of our Saviour's ministry.

Lysias, who had been so shamefully routed by Judas, having the care of Antiochus's son, who was called Antiochus Eupator, and only nine years old, set him on the throne, and seized the government and tuition of the young king into his own hands; and immediately combined with the neighbouring Idumeans and other nations, enemies to Judah, to unite in an attempt utterly to destroy and extirpate the whole race of Israel.

When Judas was informed of this confederacy, he resolved to prevent their intentions, and to carry the war into Idumea. Thus he entered their country by Acrabatene, a canton of Judea, near the southern extremity of the Dead sea, and slew there twenty thousand of them. Then falling upon the children of Bean, another tribe of the Idumeans, he killed twenty thousand more, routed their army, and took their strong holds. Hence passing over Jordan into the land of the Ammonites, he defeated them in several engagements; slew great numbers of them; and took the city Jahazah, at the foot of mount Gilead, near the brook Jazah. And so returned home.

After his return into Judea, one Timotheus, a governor in those parts, pretended to follow him with a numerous army. But Judas fell upon him; and, having overthrown him with a very great slaughter, pursued him to the city Gazara, in the tribe of Ephraim, which he took; and he slew both Timotheus and his brother Chereas, governor of that city, and Apollophanes, another great captain of the Syrian forces.

This success stirred up the jealousy of the Heathen nations about Gilead, who fell upon the Jews in the land of Tob; and, having slain one thousand, took their goods and carried their wives and children captives, and drove the residue to seek for refuge and security in the strong fortress Dathema, in Gilead. But Timotheus, the son of him slain at Gazara, shut them up with a great army, and besieged them, while the inhabitants of Tyre, Sidon, and Ptolemais, were contriving to cut off all the Jews that lived in Galilee.

Judas, in this critical juncture, by and with the advice of the Sanhedrim, dividing his army into three parts, he and his brother Jonathan marched with eight thousand men to the relief of the Gileadites: his brother Simon marched with three thousand into Galilee; and his brother Joseph was left with the command of the remainder to protect Jerusalem and the country round, and to remain wholly on the defensive, till Judas and Simon should return.

In their march to Gilead, Judas and Jonathan attacked Bossora, a town of the Edomites, slew all the males, plundered it, released a great number of Jews reserved to be put to death as soon as Dathema should be taken, and burned the city. When they arrived before Dathema, which was by a forced march in the night, the brothers gave Timotheus so sudden and violent an assault, that they put his army to flight, and slew eight thousand in the pursuit. And wherever he came and found any Jews oppressed or imprisoned, he released them in the same manner as he did at Bossora.

At the same time Simon defeated the enemy several times in Galilee, drove them out of the country, and pursued them with very great slaughter to the gates of Ptolemais. But Joseph contrary to his orders leaving Jerusalem, was put to flight by Gorgias, governor of Syria, and lost two thousand men in that ill-projected expedition against Jamnia, a seaport on the Mediterranean.

Lysias by this time having assembled an army of eight hundred thousand men, eighty elephants, and all the horse of the kingdom, marched in person against the Hebrew conqueror. Judas met him at the siege of Bethzura, gave him battle, slew eleven thousand foot, one thousand six hundred horse, and put the rest to flight.

This victory was happily attended with a peace between Judas and Lysias, in the name of the young king; by which the Heathen decree of uniformity made by Epiphanes was rescinded, and the Jews permitted to live according to their own laws.

However this peace was soon broke by the people of Joppa and Jamnia: but Judas no sooner was informed that they had cruelly treated and murdered the Jews, that lived amongst them, but he fell upon Joppa by night, burned their shipping, and put all to the sword that had escaped the fire; and he set fire to the haven of Jamnia, and burned all the ships in it.

Timotheus also, that had fled before this conqueror, was discontented with the peace, and gathered an army of one hundred and twenty thousand foot, and two thousand five hundred horse, in order to oppress the Jews in Gilead. But when the news of this armament reached Judas, he marched against him; and, after he had defeated a strong party of wandering Arabs, and made peace with them; taken the city Caspis, which was Hesbon in the tribe of Reuben; slain the inhabitants; destroyed the place; taken Caraca also, and put its garrison of ten thousand men to the sword, he came up with Timotheus near Raphon on the river Jabboc, gave him battle, slew thirty thousand of his men, took him prisoner, pursued the remains of his army to Carnion, in Arabia, took that city also, and slew twenty-five thousand more of Timotheus's forces: but gave him his life and liberty, on promise that he would release all the Jews captives throughout his dominions.

As he returned to Jerusalem he stormed the strong city of Ephron, well garrisoned by Lysias, put twenty-five thousand people to the sword, plundered it, and razed it to the ground; because the people refused to grant him a passage through it. This campaign was concluded with a day of thanksgiving in the temple at Jerusalem.

Thus Judas, finding himself disengaged from the treaty of peace by these hostilities, carried the war into the south of Idumea; dismantled Hebron, the metropolis thereof; passed into the land of the Philistines, took Azotus or Ashdod, destroyed their idols, plundered their country, and returned to Judea, to reduce the fortress of Acra, still in the hands of the king of Syria, and become very troublesome in time of war to those that resorted to the temple.

Judas prepared for a regular siege: but Antiochus, being informed of its distress, marched to its relief with an army of one hundred and ten thousand foot, twenty thousand horse, thirty-two elephants with castles on their backs full of archers, and three hundred armed chariots of war. In his way through Idumea, he laid siege to Bethzura, which at last was forced to surrender, after Judas, who had marched to its relief, had killed four thousand of the enemy by surprize in the night, lost his brother Eleazar in battle, crushed to death by an elephant that he had stabbed, and was forced to retreat and shut himself and his friends up in the temple.

The king and Lysias were both present in this army of the Syrians: and would have compelled Judas to surrender, had not Philip, whom Epiphanes had upon his death bed appointed guardian of his son, taken this opportunity of their absence to seize upon Antioch, and to take upon him the government of the Syrian empire.

Upon this news Lysias struck up a peace immediately with Judas, upon honourable and advantageous terms to the Jewish nation. But, though it was ratified by oath, Eupator ordered the fortifications of the temple to be demolished.

It was in this war that Menelaus, the wicked highpriest, fell into disgrace with Lysias, while he was prompting the Heathen barbarity to destroy his own people. For, being accused and convicted of being the author and fomentor of this Jewish expedition, Lysias ordered him to be carried to Bœrhea, a town in Syria; and there to be cast into a high tower of ashes in which there was a wheel, which continually stirred up and raised the ashes about the criminal, till he was suffocated, and died. This was a punishment among the Persians for criminals in high life.—This wicked highpriest was succeeded at the promotion of Antiochus Eupator, by one Alcimus, a man altogether as wicked as his immediate predecessor.

Eupator returned home; and, by an easy battle, killed the usurper Philip, and quelled the insurrection in his favour. But it was not so with Demetrius, the son of Seleucus Philopator, who, being now come to maturity, claimed the kingdom in right of his father, elder brother to Epiphanes.

Demetrius had been sent to Rome as an hostage, in exchange for his uncle Antiochus Epiphanes, in the very year that his father died. Antiochus, returning in the very nick of time, was declared king, in prejudice to the right of the minor Demetrius. And though Demetrius had often solicited the assistance of the Roman senate, under whom he was educated, to restore him to his kingdom, reasons of state swayed with them rather to confirm Eupator, a minor, in the government, than to assert the right of one of a mature understanding. Yet, though he failed in this application, Demetrius resolved to throw himself upon Providence. To which end, leaving Rome incog. Demetrius got safe to Tripolis, in Syria; where he gave out that he was sent, and would be supported by the Romans, to take possession of his father's kingdom. This stratagem had its desired effect: every one deserted from Eupator to Demetrius; and the very soldiers seized on Eupator and Lysias, and would have delivered them into his hands. But Demetrius thought it more politic not to see them; and, having ordered them to be put to death, was presently settled in the possession of the whole kingdom.

During this interval the Jews enjoyed a profound peace: but having refused to acknowledge Alcimus their highpriest, because he had apostatized in the time of the persecution, Alcimus addressed the new king Demetrius, implored his protection against Judas Maccabeus, and so exasperated him against the whole body of his party by false representations, that Demetrius ordered Bacchides to march an army into Judea, and to confirm Alcimus in the pontificate.

Alcimus was also commissioned with Bacchides to carry on the war in Judea; who, upon the promise of a safe conduct, having got the scribes and doctors of the law into their power, put sixty of them to death in one day. Bacchides left him in possession with some forces for his support; with which he committed many murders, and did much mischief; and at last obtained another army from Demetrius, under the command of Nicanor, to destroy Judas, to disperse his followers, and the more effectually to support the said Alcimus in his post of highpriest.

Nicanor, who had experienced the valour of Judas, proposed a compromise: but Alcimus expecting more advantage to himself by a war, beat the king off it; so that Nicanor was obliged to execute the first order.—The war was carried on with various success, till Nicanor was slain in a pitched battle near a village called Bethoron; and his whole army of thirty-five thousand men casting down their arms were, to a man, cut off in the flight.

This victory was followed with a day of thanksgiving, which was established to be continued every year under the name of the anniversary day of solemn thanksgiving.

Judas, observing that the Syrians paid no regard to any treaties, thought that by making a league with the Romans, his nation would be much better secured against such a perfidious people.—Therefore he sent Jason and Eupolemus to Rome, who soon obtained the ratification of a league of mutual defence between them, and a letter to Demetrius, requiring him, upon the peril of having war denounced against him, to desist from giving the Jews any more uneasiness and trouble.

This however proved of no service. For, while this league was negotiating, Demetrius sent Bacchides and Alcimus a second time into Judea with a numerous army to revenge the defeat and death of Nicanor.—At this time Judas had no more than three thousand men to oppose them; and of these all but eight hundred deserted their general, at the report of the number and strength of their enemies. Yet Judas refused to yield up the cause of God; and, being followed by that handful of brave men, he charged and broke the right wing, where Bacchides commanded in person, and pursued them as far as the mountains of Azotus; and must have gained a complete victory, had not his little army been followed and encompassed by the left wing. But being surrounded with an exceeding great force, the Jews sold their lives at a dear rate; Judas was killed, and then such as survived him were forced to flee away.

His body was carried off by his brothers, Simon and Jonathan; and buried in the sepulchres of his ancestors, at Modin, with great funeral honour, as he deserved.

Bacchides, after this success, seized on the whole country, and used the adherents of the Maccabees so inhumanly, that Jonathan was necessitated to retire at the head of his distressed countrymen to the wilderness of Tekoa. This little army encamped with a morass on one side, and the river Jordan on the other. Bacchides pursued them; secured the pass of their encampment; and, though he attacked them on the sabbath-day, he lost a thousand men in the assault, before the Maccabees broke; and then, being overpowered by numbers, they threw themselves into the river, and escaped by swimming to the other side, without being pursued.

About this time, (B. C. 160,) Alcimus, the wicked pontiff, died suddenly of a palsy; and Demetrius having received the Senatorian letter from Rome, commanding him to desist from vexing the Jews, recalled Bacchides: so that Jonathan found himself in a condition to bring his affairs into better order. But this state of rest lasted only for two years; for the malcontents invited Bacchides to return with his army, under a promise to support his enterprise, and to seize Jonathan. But before this association could take place Jonathan had information of it, seized fifty of the principal conspirators, and put them to death. And when Bacchides arrived with his great army, Jonathan and his brother Simeon gave him such uneasiness, and so artfully distressed and harassed his army, without giving him any pitched battle, that Bacchides grew weary of his undertaking, put several of those that invited him to that expedition to death, and at last made peace with the Maccabees, restored all his prisoners, and swore never more to molest the Jews, B. C. 158.

When Jonathan found himself in quiet possession of Judea, and that there was no more to fear from Bacchides, he punished the apostate Jews with death, reformed the church and state, and rebuilt the walls about the temple and city of Jerusalem. And soon after, (the highpriesthood having been vacant seven years) he put on the pontifical robe, at the nomination of Alexander, who by the assistance of the Roman senate, and the management of one Heraclides, claimed the crown of Syria in right of his pretended father, Antiochus Epiphanes.

Jonathan, though Demetrius made him more advantageous offers, suspecting that these promises were not real, but only to serve the present purpose, accepted Alexander's proposals. Which was so acceptable to the new king, that when he had beat and slain Demetrius, and was become master of the whole Syrian monarchy, he invited Jonathan to his marriage with Cleopatra, daughter of Ptolemy, king of Egypt; and, besides great personal honours, conferred on him the post of general of all his forces in Judea, and chief sewer of his household, B. C. 153.

However, this prosperity was soon disturbed by Apollonius, governor of Cœlosyria, who, taking part with Demetrius, the son of Demetrius, the late king, who had concealed himself with his brother Antiochus in Crete, during the late troubles, was now landed in Cilicia with an army of mercenaries, marched with an army as far as Jamnia, and challenged Jonathan to give him battle. Jonathan marched out with a body of ten thousand men; took Joppa in sight of the enemy; gave Apollonius battle; beat him and pursued his broken forces to Azotus, where he destroyed eight thousand men, the temple of Dagon, and the city with fire and sword, which engaged Alexander's affections so much, that he gave him the golden buckle, (a distinguished mark of the royal family of Persia,) and the city and territories of Ecron.

After this succeeded a surprising revolution in Syria. Alexander had called to his assistance his father-in-law Ptolemy Philometor, who, upon a jealousy that his son Alexander had conspired his death, carried off his daughter Cleopatra; gave her to Demetrius, Alexander's competitor; and, turning his arms upon Alexander, settled Demetrius upon the throne of his ancestors; and, after gaining a complete victory, forced him to flee into Arabia; where Zabdiel, the king of the country, cut off his head, and sent it to Ptolemy, B. C. 146.

This Demetrius took the style of Nicanor or Conqueror; and, though he summoned Jonathan to appear before him to answer certain accusations, the highpriest found means to gain his favour; and not only a confirmation of former, but a grant of more privileges. Which, and the promise to withdraw the Heathen garrison from Acra, so recommended him to Jonathan, that when Demetrius was in danger of being murdered by the inhabitants of Antioch, he marched three thousand men to the king's assistance, burned a great part of the city, slew one hundred thousand of the inhabitants with fire and sword, and obliged the rest to throw themselves upon the king's mercy. Yet this service, and his promise also, was presently forgot by Demetrius, when he thought the storm was blown over; and he would, on the contrary, have certainly obliged him, under pain of military execution, to pay the usual taxes and tribute paid by his predecessors, had he not been prevented by the treason of a discontented courtier, whose name was Tryphon.

Tryphon, (B. C. 144,) at first declared for, and set Antiochus Theos, the son of the late Alexander, on the throne of Syria, after he had vanquished Demetrius, and forced him to retire into Seleucia.—Jonathan for his own interest declared for the new king: by which he obtained a confirmation of the pontificate, &c, and his brother Simon was made commander of all his forces from Tyre to Egypt.

As soon as Demetrius heard of Jonathan's revolt, he marched to chastise him for it: but it turned to his loss. For he was repulsed twice, and lost Gaza, with all the country as far as Damascus, and Joppa in the land of the Philistines.

Tryphon intended now to pull off the mask: but not daring to attempt so foul a crime, till Jonathan could be removed, prevailed with him to disband his army, and to accompany him with one thousand men only to Ptolemais; where he was no sooner entered, but his men were put to the sword, and Jonathan put under an arrest. Then, marching his army into Judea, he proposed to restore him, on condition of one hundred talents; and that his two sons should be given for hostages of their father's fidelity. Jonathan was persuaded to comply with this demand: but the villain not only caused them and their father to be put to death; but having also murdered Antiochus privately, he assumed the title of king of Syria.

Simon (B. C. 143,) hearing that his brother was murdered, and buried at Bascama in Gilead, sent and brought him from thence, and buried him under a curious monument of white, wrought, and polished marble, at Modin. And after he was admitted governor in his stead, he offered his service to Demetrius, then at Laodicea; who, on condition that the Jews would assist him in the recovery of his crown, conceded to him the highpriesthood and principality, and granted the people many privileges.

But Demetrius being about this time persuaded to head the Elymæan, Parthian, and Bactrian revolters against Mithridates, king of Parthia, Simon applied himself to fortifying his cities; and reduced the fortress of Acra; which he not only took, but even levelled the mount on which it was built.

Mithridates, B. C. 141, vanquished Demetrius; and, after he had taken him prisoner, gave him his daughter Rhodaguna in marriage. Which so exasperated his wife Cleopatra, then shut up in Seleucia, that she offered herself and the kingdom to Antiochus, his brother, B. C. 139, then in Crete. Antiochus accepted the proposal; and upon his landing in Syria with an army of mercenaries, he was so strengthened with deserters from Trypon's forces, that he drove him into Apamea, near the mouth of the Orontes, and took him and put him to death.

Thus Antiochus became possessed of his father's throne; though not without the assistance of Simon, whom he had promised to reward with many new privileges. But he no sooner found himself delivered from all opposition, but he forgot his promises; and on the contrary demanded the restoring of Joppa and Gazara, &c, or a thousand talents in lieu of them.

Simon refused to comply; and Antiochus sent Cendebeus with an army to force him. Simon, now very old, attended by his sons Judas and John Hyrcanus, put him to flight at the first onset, and killed a great number of the enemy in the pursuit. After this, Simon, and his sons Judas and Mattathias, B. C. 135, being perfidiously murdered by Ptolemy, Simon's son-in-law, whom he had made governor of the plains of Jericho, at an entertainment prepared for them in the castle of Jericho, with a design to usurp the government of Judea to himself, sent a party to Gazara to seize John Hyrcanus also. But he was informed, and so prepared to receive them, that he dispatched the intended murderers; and hastening to Jerusalem, secured both the city and the temple, where he was declared his father's successor in the pontificate and principality of the Jews.

Antiochus thought to serve himself of these distractions; and accordingly marched a large army into Judea; and, after he had driven Hyrcanus into Jerusalem, obliged him to accept of a peace upon the hard terms of delivering up their arms, dismantling Jerusalem, paying a tribute for Joppa, &c, held by the Jews out of Judea, and five hundred talents to buy off the rebuilding of Acra.

Hyrcanus accompanied Antiochus to the Parthian war, in which he signalized himself with great renown. He returned home at the end of the year. But Antiochus, who chose to winter in the east, was with his whole army destroyed in one night by the natives, who, taking the advantage of their separate quarters all over the country, rose on them, and cut their throats in cold blood: so that Antiochus himself was slain, and out of four hundred thousand persons, of which his army consisted, scarce a man escaped to carry home the news of this massacre.

Phraortes, the king of Parthia, having suffered much by this invasion of Antiochus, endeavoured to get quit of him by sending his prisoner Demetrius Nicanor into Syria, to recover his own kingdom; so that when the news came of Antiochus's death, he was without more delay reinstated on the throne. But his tyrannical proceedings presently raised him up a new pretender to the crown, B. C. 127, one Alexander Zabina, the pretended son of Alexander Balas, who, by the assistance of Ptolemy Physcon, king of Egypt, defeated him in the field; and, taking him prisoner in Tyre, put him to death.

Zabina being raised to the throne of Syria by the king of Egypt, Ptolemy expected that he should hold it in homage from him; and, upon his refusal, gave his daughter Tryphæna to Antiochus Gryphus, the son of Nicanor, whom he made king of Syria, and pursued Zabina till he got him into his hands, and put him to death.

Hyrcanus, in the midst of these revolutions, shook off the Syrian yoke. He built the famous tower of Baris upon a steep rock. He took several cities on the borders of Judea, amongst which was Shechem, the chief seat of the Samaritans, B. C. 130, and destroyed the temple on mount Gerizim. He extended his conquests over the Idumeans, B. C. 129, who were prevailed on to embrace the Jewish religion; so that from this time they exchanged the name of Idumeans or Edomites for that of Jews. He renewed the alliance with the senate of Rome, and obtained greater privileges and advantages than his nation ever had before; and concluded his military operations with the siege and utter destruction of Samaria, under the conduct of his sons Aristobulus and Antigonus.

After these great actions, Hyrcanus enjoyed full quiet from all foreign wars; and had nothing to trouble him at home, but the false insinuation of the Pharisee Eleazar, who declared that his mother was a captive taken in the wars; and that, therefore, he was incapable of holding the high-priesthood. Hyrcanus had been educated in this sect: but one Jonathan, an intimate friend of his, and a Sadducee, took this opportunity to draw him over to his own sect; which he effected so sincerely, that Hyrcanus renounced the Pharisees for ever, abrogated their traditional constitutions, and made it penal for any one to observe them. Yet he was an excellent governor; and, dying in the thirtieth year of his administration, left five sons: but the highpriesthood and sovereignty he left to Judas Aristobulus, his eldest son, B. C. 107.

Aristobulus (B. C. 107,) was the first since the captivity that put on the diadem, and assumed the title of king. But he was of that suspicious and cruel disposition, that he cast his own mother into prison, and starved her to death, imprisoned all his brethren except Antigonus, whom at last he ordered to be murdered in a fit of jealousy, B. C. 106. Of which however he repented; and gave up the ghost in great anxiety of mind, after a reign of no more than one year; though in that time Antigonus had reduced the Itureans to his obedience, and forced them to conform to the religion of the Jews. At this time Pompey and Cicero were born.

Alexander Jannæus, his third brother, was released from his confinement by Salome, Aristobulus's widow. The like favour was also extended to his two other brothers. But as soon as Jannæus was settled on the throne, he put one of them to death under a suspicion of treason, and he took Absalom the younger into his favour.

This Alexander (B. C. 105,) attempted to extend his dominions by new conquests. But in his attempts against Ptolemais and Ptolemy Lathyrus, who came to the assistance of Zoilus and the Gazæans, he lost a fine army, and was reduced to sue for protection from Cleopatra, who had seized upon Egypt, and obliged her son Lathyrus to be contented with the island of Crete.

Cleopatra, at first, was inclined to take advantage of Alexander's misfortunes, and to seize upon him and his dominions: but Ananias, one of her generals, by birth a Jew, and relation to Alexander, dissuaded her from so unjust a design, and obtained her protection for him.

Nevertheless Alexander's martial spirit sought out new employments. His country being clear of foreign forces, he attacked and took Gadara and Amathus in Syria. But being followed by Theodorus, prince of Philadelphia, who had laid up his treasure at Amathus, he lost his plunder, ten thousand men, and all his baggage, B. C. 101.

This did not deter him from attempting the reduction of Gaza; which however he could not have taken, had it not been treacherously surrendered to him by Lysimachus, the governor's brother. Here Alexander, ordering his soldiers to kill, plunder, and destroy, was the author of a sad scene of barbarity; and reduced that ancient and famous city to ruin and desolation.

After his return from this carnage he was grossly insulted by a mob at home, while he was offering the usual sacrifices on the Feast of Tabernacles. But he made the people pay dearly for it, for he fell upon them with his soldiers, and slew six thousand. And from this time he took into his pay six thousand mercenaries from Pisidia and Cilicia, who always attended his person, and kept off the people while he officiated.

B. C. 101. All being again quieted at home, Alexander marched against the Moabites and Ammonites, and made them tributaries. In his return he took possession of Amathus, which Theodorus had evacuated: but he lost most of his army; and had like to have lost his own life in an ambuscade which Thedus, an Arabian king, had laid for him near Gadara. This raised fresh discontents among his subjects, and new troubles at home; which were attended with the most unheard-of barbarities. They were not able to overpower him: but his wickedness had so provoked them that nothing but his blood could satisfy them; and at length, being assisted by Demetrius Euchærus, king of Damascus, they entirely routed him, so that he was forced to consult his own safety by fleeing to the mountains.

His misfortune was the cause of six thousand of his rebel subjects deserting him; which, when Demetrius perceived, he withdrew and left the revolters to fight their own battle. After this separation Alexander gained several advantages; and at last, having cut the major part off in a decisive battle, he took eight hundred of the rebels in Bethome, whom he carried to Jerusalem, and having first killed their wives and children before their faces, he ordered them all to be crucified on one day, before him and his wives and concubines, whom he had invited to a feast at the place of execution. Then, resolving to revenge himself on the king of Damascus, he made war on him for three years successively, and took several places: when returning home, he was received with great respect by his subjects.

His next expedition was against the castle of Ragaba in the country of the Gerasens, where he was seized with a quartan ague, which proved his death, B. C. 79. His queen Alexandra, by his own advice, concealed it till the castle was taken; and then, carrying him to Jerusalem, she gave his body to the leaders of the Pharisees, to be disposed of as they should think proper; and told them, as her husband had appointed her regent during the minority of her children, she would do nothing in the administration without their advice and help.

This address to the Pharisees so much gained their esteem, that they not only settled the queen dowager in the government, but were very lavish in their encomiums on her deceased husband, whom they honoured with more than ordinary pomp and solemnity at his funeral.

The Pharisees having now the management of the queen regent, and of Hyrcanus and Aristobulus, her sons by Alexander, had all the laws against Pharisaism repealed and abolished, recalled all the exiles, and demanded justice against those that had advised the crucifixion of the eight hundred rebels.

The queen made her eldest son Hyrcanus highpriest. But Aristobulus was not contented to live a private life; and therefore, as soon as his mother seemed to decline, he meditated in what manner he might usurp the sovereignty from his brother, at her decease: and he had taken such measures beforehand, that upon the death of his mother he found himself strong enough to attempt the crown, though Alexander had declared Hyrcanus her successor. The two armies met in the plains of Jericho; but Hyrcanus being deserted by most of his forces, was obliged to resign his crown and pontificate to Aristobulus, and promise to live peaceably upon his private fortune.

This resignation was a subject of great discontent to some of Hyrcanus's courtiers, among whom was Antipater, father to Herod the Great; who persuaded Hyrcanus to fly to Aretas king of Arabia, who, on certain conditions, supplied him with fifty thousand men, with which Hyrcanus entered Judea, and gained a complete victory over Aristobulus. But while he besieged him in the Temple, Aristobulus, with the promise of a large sum of money, engaged Pompey, the general of the Roman army then before Damascus, to oblige Aretas to withdraw his forces: but Aristobulus, though he was for the present delivered from his brother's rage, prevaricated so with Pompey, that he at last confined Aristobulus in chains, took Jerusalem sword in hand, retrenched the dignity and power of the principality, destroyed the fortifications, ordered an annual tribute to be paid to the Romans, and restored Hyrcanus to the pontificate, and made him prince of the country, but would not permit him to wear the diadem.

Pompey, having thus settled the government of Judea, returned in his way to Rome with Aristobulus, his sons Alexander and Antigonus, and two of his daughters, to adorn his triumph.

Alexander found means to escape by the way, and about three years after arrived in Judea, and raised some disturbances: but he was defeated in all his attempts by Gabinius, the Roman governor in Syria; who, after this, coming to Jerusalem, confirmed Hyrcanus in the highpriesthood, but removed the civil administration from the Sanhedrim into five courts of justice of his own erecting, according to the number of five provinces, into which he had divided the whole land.

When Aristobulus had lain five years prisoner at Rome, he, with his son, escaped into Judea, and endeavoured to raise fresh trouble: but Gabinius soon took them again; and, being remanded to Rome, the father was kept close confined, but the children were released.

It was about this time (B. C. 48,) that the civil war between Pompey and Cæsar broke out; and when Aristobulus was on the point of setting out by Cæsar's interest, to take the command of an army in order to secure Judea from Pompey's attempts, he was poisoned by some of Pompey's party.

When Cæsar was returned from the Alexandrian war, he was much solicited to depose Hyrcanus in favour of Antigonus, the surviving son of Aristobulus: but Cæsar not only confirmed to Hyrcanus the highpriesthood and principality of Judea, and to his family in a perpetual succession; but he abolished the form of government lately set up by Gabinius, restored it to its ancient form, and appointed Antipater procurator of Judea under him.

Antipater, who was a man of great penetration, made his son Phasael governor of the country about Jerusalem; and his son Herod governor of Galilee.

Soon after this appointment, Herod, who was of a boisterous temper, having seized upon one Hezekiah, a ring-leader of a gang of thieves, and some of his men that infested his territories, he put them to death. This was presently looked upon as a breach of duty to the Sanhedrim, before whom he was summoned to appear. But, lest the sentence of that court should pass upon him, he fled to Sextus Cæsar, the Roman prefect of Syria at Damascus; and, having with a sum of money obtained of him the government of Cœlosyria, where having raised an army, he marched into Judea, and would have revenged the indignity which he said the Sanhedrim and highpriest had cast upon him, had not his father and brother prevailed with him to retire for the present.

While Julius Cæsar lived, the Jews enjoyed great privileges: but his untimely death, (B. C. 44,) by the villanous and ungrateful hands of Brutus, Cassius, &c, in the senate-house, as he was preparing for an expedition against the Parthians to revenge his country's wrong, delivered them up as a prey to every hungry general of Rome. Cassius immediately seized upon Syria, and exacted above seven hundred talents of silver from the Jews. And the envy and villany of Malicus, who was a natural Jew, and the next in office under Antipater, an Idumean, rent the state into horrid faction. Malicus bribed the highpriest's butler to poison his friend Antipater, to make way for himself to be the next in person to Hyrcanus. Herod, making sure of Cassius, by obtaining his leave and assistance to revenge his father's death, took the first opportunity to have him murdered by the Roman garrison at Tyre.

The friends of Malicus, having engaged the highpriest and Felix the Roman general at Jerusalem on their side, resolved to revenge his death on the sons of Antipater. All Jerusalem was in uproar; Herod was sick at Damascus; so that the whole power and fury of the assailants fell upon Phasael, who defended himself very strenuously, and drove the tumultuous party out of the city. As soon as Herod was able, the two brothers presently quelled the faction; and had not Hyrcanus made his peace by giving Herod his grand-daughter Mariamne in marriage, they certainly would have shewn their resentment of the highpriest's behaviour with more severity.

Again, this faction was not so totally extinguished, but that several principal persons of the Jewish nation, upon the defeat of Brutus and Cassius, accused Phasael and Herod to the conqueror, Mark Anthony, of usurping the government from Hyrcanus. But the brothers had so much interest with the conqueror that he rejected the complaints of the deputies, made them both tetrarchs, and committed all the affairs of Judea to their administration: and, to oblige the Jews to obey his decision in this affair, he retained fifteen of the deputies as hostages for the people's fidelity, and would have put them to death had not Herod begged their lives.

The Jews, however, when Anthony arrived at Tyre, sent one thousand deputies with the like accusations; which he, looking upon as a daring tumult, ordered his soldiers to fall upon them, so that some were killed and many wounded. But upon Herod's going to Jerusalem the citizens revenged this affront in the same manner upon his retinue; the news whereof so enraged Anthony, that he ordered the fifteen hostages to be immediately put to death, and threatened severe revenge against the whole faction. But after that Mark Anthony was returned to Rome, the Parthians, at the solicitation of Antigonus the son of Aristobulus, who had promised them a reward of a thousand talents and eight hundred of the most beautiful women in the country, to set him on the throne of Judea, entered that country, and being joined by the factions and discontented Jews, (B. C. 37,) took Jerusalem without resistance, took Phasael and Hyrcanus, and put them in chains: but Herod escaped under the cover of night, and deposited his mother, sister, wife, and his wife's mother, with several other relations and friends in the impregnable fortress Massada, near the lake Asphaltites, under the care of his brother Joseph, who was obliged to go to Rome to seek protection and relief.

In the mean time Antigonus remained in possession of all the country and was declared king of Judea. The Parthians delivered Hyrcanus and Phasael to Antigonus; upon which Phasael, being so closely hand-cuffed and ironed that he foresaw his ignominious death approaching, dashed his own brains out against the wall of the prison. Antigonus cut off the ears of Hyrcanus, to incapacitate him from the highpriesthood, and returned him again to the Parthians, who left him at Seleucia, in their return to the East.

Herod on this occasion served himself so well on the friendship which had been between his father and himself with the Roman general Mark Anthony, and the promise of a round sum of money, that he in seven days' time obtained a senatorial decree, constituting him king of Judea, and declaring Antigonus an enemy to the Roman state. He immediately left Rome, landed at Ptolemais, raised forces, and being aided with Roman auxiliaries, by order of the senate, he reduced greater part of the country, took Joppa, relieved Massada, stormed the castle of Ressa, and must have taken Jerusalem also had not the Roman commanders who were directed to assist him been bribed by Antigonus, and treacherously obstructed his success. But when Herod perceived their collusion, he, for the present, satisfied himself with the reduction of Galilee; and hearing of Anthony's besieging Samosata on the Euphrates, went in person to him to represent the ill-treatment he had met with from the generals Ventidius and Silo, whom he had commanded to serve him.

Upon his departure, Herod left the command of his forces to his brother Joseph, with charge to remain upon the defensive. But Joseph, contrary to orders, attempting to reduce Jericho, was slain, and most of his men were cut to pieces. And thus Herod again lost Galilee and Idumea.

M. Anthony granted all he requested; and though at first the army which Anthony had spared him, was roughly handled, and he himself wounded as he approached Jerusalem to revenge his brother's death, he afterwards slew Pappus, Antigonus's general, and entirely defeated his army; and in the next campaign, after a siege of several months, Herod, assisted by Socius, the Roman general, took it by storm. The soldiers expecting the spoils of the city as their due, and being exasperated by the long resistance of the citizens, spared neither men, women, nor children, and would certainly have utterly destroyed every thing and person with rapine and devastation, death and slaughter, had not Herod redeemed them with a large sum of money.

Antigonus surrendered himself to Socius, who carried him in chains to Anthony; and he, for a good sum of money, was bribed to put him to death, that in him the Asmonæan family, which had lasted one hundred and twenty-nine years, might be extinct.

By this event Herod found himself once more in full power, and at liberty to revenge himself upon his enemies. He began his reign with the execution of all the members of the great Sanhedrim, except Pollio and Sameas, who are also called Hillel and Shammai. Then he raised one Ananel, born of the pontifical family at Babylon, to the place of highpriest; but Mark Anthony, at the intercession of Cleopatra, queen of Egypt, who was solicited thereto by Alexandra, Mariamne's mother, and the entreaties of his own beloved Mariamne, in behalf of her young brother, prevailed with him to annul this nomination, and to prefer Aristobulus to the pontificate. But as Hyrcanus was yet alive, and the Jews, in the place of his exile, paid him all the honours and reverence due to their king and highpriest, Herod, under a pretence of gratitude and friendship to that author of all his fortunes, prevailed with the old prince to desire it, and with Phraortes, king of Parthia, to permit his return to Jerusalem, with an intention to cut him off at a proper opportunity; which he soon after did on a pretence of his holding treasonable correspondence with Malchus, king of Arabia. But in the mean time Alexandra, valuing herself upon the interest she had with Cleopatra, laid a scheme to obtain the regal dignity for her son Aristobulus, by the same means that she had got him the pontificate. But this intrigue ended in the death of Aristobulus, and her own close confinement at first, and afterwards in her own and her daughter Mariamne's death; though this tragic scene was at several times acted under disguise. Aristobulus was drowned at Jericho, as it were accidentally, B. C. 29, in a fit of jealousy; Mariamne was adjudged to die; and Alexandra was ordered for execution, B. C. 28, on a supposition that she wished his death; which unjust sentence pursued his very innocent children, Alexander and Aristobulus, for expressing their dislike of their father's cruelty to their mother Mariamne. But it is very probable that he himself had fallen a sacrifice to Octavius after the battle, and the total loss of Mark Anthony at Actium, (fought B. C. 31,) had he not hastened to the conqueror at Rhodes, and in an artful speech appeased him, and with a promise to support his faction in those parts, obtained from him a confirmation of his royal dignity.

The cruelties however which he exercised to his own flesh and blood filled his mind with agonies of remorse, which brought him into a languishing condition; and what helped to increase his disorder was the conspiracy of Antipater, his eldest son by Doris, born to him whilst he was a private man. But Herod, having discovered the plot, accused him thereof before Quintilius Varus, the Roman governor of Syria, and put him to death also; which occasioned that remarkable exclamation of the emperor Octavianus, that "it was better to be Herod's hog than his son."

The great pleasure that Herod took (B. C. 25,) in obliging his protector Octavianus, and the dread he had of being dethroned for his cruelties, prompted him to compliment him with the names of two new cities, the one to be built on the spot where Samaria stood before Hyrcanus destroyed it, (B. C. 22,) which he called Sebaste, the Greek word for Augustus: the other was Cæsarea, once called the Tower of Straton, on the sea-coast of Phœnicia. After this he built a theatre and amphitheatre in the very city of Jerusalem, to celebrate games and exhibit shews in honour of Augustus; set up an image of an eagle, the Roman ensign, over one of the gates of the temple, and at last carried his flattery so far as idolatrously to build a temple of white marble in memory of the favours he had received from Octavianus Augustus.

These advances to idolatry were the foundation of a conspiracy of ten men, who bound themselves with an oath to assassinate him in the very theatre. But being informed thereof in time, Herod seized the conspirators, and put them to death with the most exquisite torments; and, to ingratiate himself with the Jews, he formed a design to rebuild the Temple, (B. C. 17,) which now, after it had stood five hundred years, and suffered much from its enemies, was fallen much into decay. He was two years in providing materials; and it was so far advanced that Divine service was performed in it in nine years and a half more, though a great number of labourers and artificers were continued to finish the outworks till several years after our Saviour's ascension: for when Gessius Florus was appointed governor of Judea, he discharged eighteen thousand workmen from the Temple at one time. And here it should be observed that these, for want of employment, began those mutinies and seditions which at last drew on the destruction both of the Temple and Jerusalem, in A. D. 70.

Thus I have finished that brief connection of the affairs of the Jews from the death of Nehemiah, and conclusion of the Old Testament, to the coming of Christ, where the New Testament begins; which from the creation of the world, according to the most exact computation, is the year 4000.

The general state of the Heathen world was in profound peace under the Roman emperor Augustus, to whom all the known parts of the earth were in subjection when Christ was born. This glorious event took place in the year of the Julian Period 4709, and the fifth year before the vulgar æra of Christ commonly noted A. D., Anno Domini, or the Year of our Lord. See the learned Dr. Prideaux's connected History of the Old and New Testaments.

I need not add here the years from the birth of Christ to the end of the New Testament history, as these are regularly brought down in a Table of remarkable Æras, immediately succeeding the Acts of the Apostles, and terminating at A. D. 100.

For the desolation that took place when the Temple was taken and destroyed, see the Notes on Matt. xxiv, 31.

The general history of the Jews, especially from the destruction of their Temple, A. D. 70, to the end of the sixteenth century, has been written by Mr. Basnage, intituled Histoire des Juifs, depuis Jesus Christ, jusqu' à present; pour servir de continuation à l'Histoire de Joseph; the best edition of which was printed at the Hague, 1716, 12mo. in fifteen vols. The first edition was translated into English by T. Taylor, A. M. Lond. 1708, fol.: but the Author has greatly enlarged and corrected his work in the Hague edition above mentioned. The learning and research manifested in this work are amazing; and on the subject nothing better, nothing more accurate and satisfactory, can well be expected. This work I heartily recommend to all my readers.

For the state of the Jews in different nations of the earth, the Itinerary of Rabbi Benjamin, a native of Tudela, in the kingdom of Navarre, has been referred to; first translated from Hebrew into Latin by B. A. Montanus, and printed at Antwerp in 1575; and much better by Constantine L'Empereur, and printed at Leyden, 12mo. with the Hebrew text and notes, 1633. This work has gone through many editions among the Jews, in Hebrew and in German. It has also been translated into French by Baratier, with many learned notes, Amsterdam, 1734.

But all the preceding translations have been totally eclipsed by that of the Rev. B. Gerrans, Lecturer of St. Catharine Coleman, and second master of Queen Elizabeth's Free Grammar School, St. Olave, Southwark, with a Dissertation and Notes, 12mo. Lond. 1784. If we can believe Rab. Benjamin, (who, it appears, flourished in A. D. 1160,) he travelled over the whole world, and found the Jews in general in a most flourishing state, and living under their own laws in many places. But the work is a wretched imposition, too hastily credited by some learned men; written with a view of keeping up the credit of the Jewish people, and with the tacit design to shew that the Messiah is not yet come; and that the sceptre has not departed from Judah, nor a lawgiver from between his feet: but he is at such variance with himself, and with the whole geography of the globe, that, as Mr. Gerrans properly observes, no map could possibly be made of his travels. "Reduce," says he, "the universe to its primeval chaos; confound Asia with Africa; north with south, and heat with cold; make cities provinces, and provinces cities; people uncultivated deserts with free and independent Jews, and depopulate the most flourishing kingdoms; make rivers run when and where you please, and call them by any names but the right ones; take Arabia upon your back, and carry it to the north of Babylon;—turn the north pole south, or any other way you please;—make a new ecliptic line, and place it in the most whimsical and eccentric position which the most hobby-horsical imagination can possibly conceive or describe; and such a map will best suit such an author." What, therefore, this author says of his travels and discoveries is worthy of no regard; and it is a doubt with me, (if this person ever existed,) whether he ever travelled beyond the limits of the kingdom of Navarre, or passed the boundaries of the city of Tudela. I mention these works, the first in the way of strong recommendation; the second, to put the reader on his guard against imposition: at the same time recommending these outcasts of Israel to his most earnest commiseration and prayers, that the God of all grace may speedily call them to eternal glory by Christ Jesus, that all Israel may be saved; and that through all their dispersions they may be soon found singing the song of Moses and the Lamb! Amen, Amen.

CONCLUSION.

In my General Preface prefixed to Genesis, p. xvii, &c, I gave a succinct account of the Plan I pursued in preparing this Work for the press: but as this plan became necessarily extended, and led to much farther reading, examination, and discussion, I judge it necessary, now that the Work is concluded, to give my Readers a general Summary of the whole, that they may be in possession of my mode of proceeding, and be enabled more fully to comprehend the reasons why the Work has been so long in passing through the press.

My education and habits from early youth led me to read and study the Bible, not as a text-book to confirm the articles of a preconceived creed, but as a revelation from God to man, (of His will and purposes, in reference to the origin and designation of His human offspring,) which it was the duty and interest of all the inhabitants of the earth, deeply to study, and earnestly to endeavour to understand; as it concerned their peace and happiness, and the perfection of their being in reference to both worlds.

Conscious that Translators in general must have had a particular creed, in reference to which they would naturally consider every text; and this reference, however honestly intended, might lead them to glosses not always fairly deducible from the original words, I sat down with a heart as free from bias and sectarian feeling as possible, and carefully read over, cautiously weighed, and literally translated, every word, Hebrew and Chaldee, in the Old Testament. And as I saw that it was possible, even while assisted by the best translations, and best lexicographers, to mistake the import of a Hebrew term, and considering that the cognate Asiatic languages would be helps of great importance in such an enquiry, I collated every verse, where I was apprehensive of any difficulty, with the Chaldee, Syriac, Arabic, and Persian, and the Æthiopic in the Polyglott Translation, as far as the Sacred Writings are extant in these languages: and I did this with a constant reference to the Various Readings collected by Houbigant, H. Michaelis, Kennicott, and De Rossi, and to the best editions of the Septuagint and Vulgate, which are the earliest translations of the Hebrew Text which have reached our times.

Nor have I been satisfied with these collections of Various Readings; I have examined and collated several ancient Hebrew MSS. which preceding scholars had never seen, with many ancient MSS. of the Vulgate equally unknown to biblical critics. This work required much time and great pains, and necessarily occasioned much delay: and no wonder, when I have often, on my plan, been obliged to employ as much time in visiting many sources and sailing down their streams, in order to ascertain a genuine reading or fix the sense of a disputed verse as would have been sufficient for some of my contemporaries to pass whole sheets of their work through the press. Had I not followed this method, which to me appeared absolutely necessary, I should have completed my Work, such as it would have been, in less than one half of the time.

These previous Readings, Collations, and Translations, produced an immense number of Notes and Observations on all parts of the Old Testament; which, by the advice and entreaty of several learned and judicious friends, I was induced to extend in the form of a perpetual comment on every Book in the Bible. This being ultimately revised and completed as far as the Book of Judges, which formed, in my purpose, the boundary of my proceedings on the Hebrew Scriptures, I was induced to commit it to press.

Though my friends in general wished me to go forward with the Old Testament; yet, as several of them were apprehensive, from the then infirm state of my health, that I might not live long enough to finish the whole, they advised me strongly to omit for the present the Old Testament, and begin with the New. This was in conformity with my own feelings on the subject; having wished simply to add the four Gospels and Acts of the Apostles to the five Books of Moses and the Books of Joshua and Judges; as these two parcels of Divine revelation, carefully illustrated, would give a full view of the origin and final settlement of the church of the Old Covenant, and the commencement and completion of that of the New. And thus I proceeded.

After having literally translated every word of the New Testament, that last best gift of God to man; comparing the whole with all the ancient Versions, and the most important of the modern; collating all with the Various Readings collected by Stephens, Courcel, Fell, Gherard of Maestricht, Bengel, Mill, Wetstein and Griesbach; actually examining many MSS., either cursorily or not at all examined by them; illustrating the whole by quotations from from ancient authors, Rabbinical, Grecian, Roman, and Asiatic; I exceeded my previous design, and brought down the Work to the end of the Apocalypse; and passed the whole through the press.

I should mention here a previous work, (without which any man must be ill qualified to undertake the illustration of the New Testament,) viz. a careful examination of the Septuagint. In this the phraseology of the New Testament is contained, and from this the import of that phraseology is alone to be derived. This I read carefully over to the end of the Book of Psalms, in the edition of Dr. Grabe, from the Codex Alexandrinus; collating it occasionally with editions taken from the Vatican MS., and particularly that printed by Field, at Cambridge, 1665, 18mo. with the Parœnetic Preface of the learned Bishop Pearson. Without this previous work, who did ever yet properly comprehend the idiom and phraseology of the Greek Testament? Now, all these are parts of my labour which common readers cannot conceive; and which none can properly appreciate, as to the pains, difficulty, and time which must be expended, who have not themselves trodden this almost unfrequented path.

When the New Testament was thus prepared and finished at press, I was induced, though with great reluctance, to recommence the Old. I was already nearly worn down by my previous work, connected with other works and duties which I could not omit; and though I had gone through the most important parts of the Sacred Records, yet I could easily foresee that I had an ocean of difficulties to wade through in those parts that remained. The Historical Books alone, in their chronology, arrangement of facts, concise and often obscure phraseology, presented not a few:—the books of Solomon, and those of the Major and Minor Prophets, a multitude. Notwithstanding all these, I hope I may say, that having obtained help of God, I am come with some success, to the conclusion; having aimed at nothing throughout the whole but the glory of God, and the good of men.

But still something remains to be said concerning the modus operandi, or particular plan of proceeding. In prosecuting this work I was led to attend, in the first instance, more to words than to things, in order to find their true ideal meaning; together with those different shades of acceptation to which they became subject, either in the circumstances of the speakers and those who were addressed, or in their application to matters which use, peculiarity of place and situation, and the lapse of time, had produced. It was my invariable plan to ascertain first, the literal meaning of every word and phrase; and where there was a spiritual meaning, or reference, to see how it was founded on the literal sense. He who assumes his spiritual meanings first, is never likely to interpret the words of God either to his own credit or to the profit of his readers: but in this track commentator has followed commentator, so that, in many cases, instead of a careful display of God's words and the objects of His providence and mercy, we have tissues of strange doc- trines, human creeds, and confessions of faith. As I have said in another place, I speak not against compilations of this kind; but let them be founded on the words of God, first properly understood.

As I proceeded in my work I met with other difficulties. I soon perceived an almost continual reference to the Literature, Arts, and Sciences, of the Ancient World, and of the Asiatic nations in particular; and was therefore obliged to make these my particular study, having found a thousand passages which I could neither illustrate nor explain, without some general knowledge at least of their jurisprudence, astronomy, architecture, chemistry, chirurgery, medicine, metallurgy, pneumatics, &c, with their military tactics, and the arts and trades (as well ornamental as necessary) which are carried on in common life.

In the course of all this labour I have also paid particular attention to those facts mentioned in the Sacred Writings which have been the subjects of animadversion or ridicule by free-thinkers and infidels of all classes and in all times; and I hope I may say that no such passage is either designedly passed by or superficially considered; that the strongest objections are fairly produced and met;—that all such parts of these Divine writings are, in consequence, exhibited in their own lustre;—and, that the truth of the doctrine of our salvation has had as many triumphs as it has had attacks from the rudest and most formidable of its antagonists: and on all such disputed points I humbly hope that the Reader will never consult these volumes in vain. And if those grand doctrines which constitute what by some is called orthodoxy; that prove that God is loving to every man; that from His innate, infinite, and eternal goodness, He wills and has made provision for the salvation of every human soul, be found to be those which alone have stood the rigid test of all the above sifting and examination; it was not because these were sought for beyond all others, and the Scriptures bent in that way in order to favour them: but because these doctrines are essentially contained in, and established by, the Oracles of God.

I may add, that these doctrines and all those connected with them, (such as the defection and sinfulness of man,—the incarnation and sacrificial death of Christ,—His infinite, unoriginated, and eternal Deity; justification by faith in His blood; and the complete sanctification of the soul by the inspiration of the Holy Spirit,) have not only been shewn to be the doctrines of the Sacred Records, but have also been subjected to the strongest test of logical examination; and, in the Notes, are supported by arguments, many of them new, applied in such a way as has not been done before in any similar or theological work.

In this arduous labour I have had no assistants; not even a single week's help from amanuensis: no person to look for common places, or refer to an ancient author; to find out the place and transcribe a passage of Greek, Latin, or any other language, which my memory had generally recalled, or to verify a quotation;—the help excepted which I received in the chronological department from my own nephew. I have laboured alone for nearly twenty-five years previously to the Work being sent to press; and fifteen years have been employed in bringing it through the press to the public; and thus about forty years of my life have been consumed: and from this the Reader will at once perceive, that the Work, well or ill executed, has not been done in a careless or precipitate manner: nor have any means within my reach been neglected to make it in every respect, as far as possible, what the title-page promises,—A Help to a better understanding of the Sacred Writings.

Several judicious friends have expressed their hearty desires that I should add at least, "A Sketch of the Jewish History from Malachi to the present times; [this I have done;] and also to furnish the Work with a much more ample Prolegomena." That this latter would be a real improvement, and if well executed, very useful, there is no room to doubt: but the Work has been already too long delayed, principally in preparing the Index, which has been earnestly called for by many, and without which I plainly see my labours would have been much less complete, and less useful. This is now executed on such an amplitude of scale, and minute detail of circumstances, as I hope will leave little on this head to be farther desired: and as to the Prolegomena, it cannot be undertaken at present, though much has been prepared, as well on this, as on the preceding subjects.

Thus through the merciful help of God, my labour in this field terminates; a labour which were it yet to commence, with the knowledge I now have of its difficulty, and my (in many respects) inadequate means, millions, even of the gold of Ophir, and all the honours that can come from man, could not induce me to undertake. Now that it is finished I regret not the labour; I have had the testimony of many learned, pious, and judicious friends relative to the execution and the usefulness of the Work. It has been admitted into the very highest ranks of society, and has lodged in the cottages of the poor. It has been the means of doing good to the simple of heart; and the wise man and the scribe, the learned and the philosopher, according to their own generous acknowledgments, have not consulted its pages in vain.

For these and all His other mercies to the Writer and Reader, may God, the Fountain of all good, be eternally praised!

Adam Clarke.

Eastcott, April 17, 1826.

A COLLECTION

OF

VARIOUS READINGS

FOR THE

NEW TESTAMENT;

MADE FROM ANCIENT GREEK MANUSCRIPTS.

SOME years ago a well written MS. fell into my hands containing a collection of various readings, made from several ancient MSS. of the Greek Testament. It appears to have been made with great care and accuracy; and judging it worthy to be appended to the Notes on the New Testament, I have caused it to be printed so as to be easily bound up with the last volume of this work.

Of this Collection I know not the author, (it was once in the possession of Dr. Thomas Mangey, but is not in his hand-writing) nor do I know what manuscripts they are that are thus collated, as no description of them appears in any part of these sheets. The collector was greatly attached to the Latin Version, as in almost every case he prefers those readings which agree with the VULGATE.

When it was made, or where, is as difficult to be determined. The water-mark of some of the sheets is the arms of the Seven United Provinces :—a large shield, surmounted with a crown; in the centre a lion rampant, holding in his left paw a sceptre and in the right a bundle of arrows :—on the side of the throne or bench on which he stands, is the word VRYHEYT, and round the shield, PRO PATRIA EJUSQUE LIBERTATE. In other sheets, a female figure with a helmet on her head and a sceptre in her hand, before her a lion rampant, with a drawn sword in one paw and the bundle of arrows in the other. Both figures seem enclosed in a palisado, and just before the sceptre are the words PRO PATRIA. On other sheets, probably the right folio, there is a small circle or shield including a crown, and the letters G. R.

The Book of the Acts and the Epistle to the Romans are expressly declared to be from the Collation of EIGHT ancient manuscripts, and the Apocalypse from FOUR ancient manuscripts: but there are two other MSS. quoted in several of the Books; so that it appears on the whole that eight Greek MSS. were collated in every verse, and two others occasionally.

A copy of the printed Text, (probably that of 1624, by the Elzevirs,) appears to have been used by this unknown collector, with which the MSS. mentioned above were collated. Many of the readings preferred in this are preferred by Griesbach, and received into the Text. On the whole, I thought this Collection too valuable to be confined to a private MS., and thus to be in danger of being lost to the world.

The collection might have been made either in England or Holland, about one hundred years ago, in the reign of George I.

Some part of the beginning appears to have been lost, as these Collations commence with Matt. xxiv, 2.

MATTHÆI.

☞ The figure or figures under the head MSS. denote the number of Manuscripts in which the approved reading was found by the unknown Collator.

CAP. XXIV.

Ver.	MSS.
2.	3.	βλεπετε ταυτα παντα, cum Vulg.
6.	1.	αλλ' ουκ ευθεως το τελος.
14.	2.	και κηρυχθησεται το ευαγγελιον.
18.	1.	μη επισρεψατω αραι, cum Vulg.
25.	1.	προειρηκα υμιν παντα.
32.	8.	εκφυη.
36.	4.	ει μη ὁ Πατηρ μονος, cum Vulg.
45.	1.	επι της οικετειας αυτων.
49.		legatur in Tex. cum MSS. 7. (εσθιη δε και πινη) cum Vulg.

CAP. XXV.

13.	3.	non habent verba illa (εν ᾗ ὁ υιος τε ανθρωπε ερχεται) cum Vulg.
16.	1.	και εκερδησεν αλλα, cum Vulg.
29.	8.	και ὁ εχει, αρθησεται.
31.	1.	και παντες οἱ αγγελοι, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXVI.

3.	2.	non legunt, και οἱ γραμματεις, cum Vulg.
26.	5.	και ευχαριστησας εκλασε.
26.	2.	τοις μαθηταις αυτε, cum Vulg.
28.	1.	τουτο εστι το αιμα μου.
39.	6.	και προσελθων μικρον.
48.		ponatur in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (ὁ δε παραδιδους.)
50.	4.	εφ ὁ παρει, cum Vulg.
52.	1.	εν μαχαιρᾳ απολουνται, cum Vulg.
59.	1.	non legit, και οἱ πρεσβυτεροι, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXVII.

6.	4.	κορβωναν, ut Vulg.
29.	1.	περιεθηκαν επι της κεφαλης αυτε.
35.		in Textu apponatur obelus ad verba illa, ινα πληρωθη το ῥηθεν, &c. usque ad finem versûs; cùm in MSS. 10. non legantur.
59.	2.	εν σινδονι, cum Vulg.
64.	3.	non addunt, νυκτος, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXVIII.

2.	3.	απο της θυρας τε μνημειε.
8.	3.	non legunt verba illa (ὡς δε επορευοντο απαγγειλαι τοις μαθηταις αυτε) cum Vulg.

MARCI.

CAP. I.

Ver.	MSS.
1.	1.	καθως γεγραπται εν τῳ προφητῃ, cum Vulg.
5.	1.	και οἱ Ἱεροσολυμιται παντες, και εβαπτιζοντο ὑπ' αυτε εν τῳ, cum Vulg.
13.	1.	και ην εν τῃ ερημῳ, cum Vulg.
16.	1.	και παραγων παρα την θαλασσαν, cum Vulg.
24.	1.	λεγων, τι ἡμιν και σοι, cum Vulg.
27.	8.	συζητειν προς ἑαυτους, cum Vulg.; et scribendum in Tex. (προς αὐτες.)
36.	3.	και κατεδιωξεν, cum Vulg.
38.	4.	εληλυθα, cum Vulg.
45.		ponatur in Textu; ut legunt MSS. 10. (αλλ' εξω εν ερημοις) cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

2.	2.	και συνηχθησαν πολλοι, cum Vulg.
8.	1.	ὁτι ουτως διαλογιζονται, cum Vulg.
18.	1.	και οἱ Φαρισαιοι νηστευοντες, cum Vulg.
21.	1.	ουδεις επιβλημα, cum Vulg.
21.	3.	το πληρωμα απ' αυτου, cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

Ver.	MSS.
4.	1.	σωσαι η απολεσαι, cum Vulg.
5.	1.	non legit (ὑγιης ὡς ἡ αλλη,) cum Vulg.
6.	1.	πως αυτον απολεσωσι, cum Vulg.
18.	1.	τον Καναναιον.
29.	1.	αιωνιε αμαρτηματος, cum Vulg.
31.	1.	και ερχονται οἱ αδελφοι, cum Vulg.
32.	1.	και λεγεσιν αυτῳ, ιδου, cum Vulg.
32.	2.	non habent (και αἱ αδελφαι σε) cum Vulg.
33.	4.	ἡ μητηρ μου και οἱ αδελφοι μου, cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

4.		expungatur è Textu vox illa (ουρανε) quæ deest in MSS. 10. impressi cum Vulg. legunt (τα πετεινα τε ερανε.)
8.		ponatur in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (ἐν τριακοντα, και ἐν ξ. και ἐν ρ.)
8.		impressi cum Vulg. legunt (ἐν λ. και ἐν ξ. και ἐν ρ.)
18.	1.	και αλλοι εισιν οἱ εις τας ακανθας, cum Vulg.
19.	1.	non legit (τουτε) cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

24. 2. αντιμεστρηθησεται, cum Vulg.
24. 1. non habet (τοις ακουσιν) cum Vulg.
31. legatur in Tex. (ὡς κοκκον) ut MSS. 7. cum Vulg.
32. 2. παντα τα ϖετεινα.
36. 2. ϖλοια ην, cum Vulg.
40. 1. τι δειλοι εσε ; ϰπω εχετε ϖιϛιν, cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

1. 1. των Γερασηνων.
3. 1. αλυσεσιν ϰκ ετι ϰδεις.
13. 1. εις την θαλασσαν ὡς δισχιλιοι, cum Vulg.
13. ponatur in Tex. ut MSS. 6. legunt ησαν δε ὡς δισχιλιοι.
14. 1. οἱ δε βοσκοντες αυτς, cum Vulg.
15. 1. καθημενον, ἱματισμενον, cum Vulg.
18. 1. αυτον ὁ ιαθεις.
22. 1. non habet ιδε, cum Vulg.
25. 3. και λυνη ϰσα, cum Vulg.
28. 1. τε ἱματιε, cum Vulg.
36. 1. ὁ δε Ιησς ϖαρακουσας.
38. 1. και ερχονται, cum Vulg.

CAP. VI.

2. 1. Και οἱ ϖολλοι.
2. 2. ὁτι και Δυναμεις τοιαυται.
11. 1. desunt verba illa (αμην λεγω ὑμιν, ανεκτοτερον εσαι Σοδομοις η Γομορροις εν ἡμερᾳ κρισεως, η τῃ πολει εκεινῃ) Vulgata etiam hoc loco ea non legit. sed videntur irrepsisse in Tex. Gr. ex 10. Matth.
14. 1. Ιωαννης ὁ Βαπτισης.
15. ponatur in Tex. ut 7. MSS. legunt (αλλοι δε ελεγον, ὁτι Ηλιας.) cum Vulg.
16. 1. Ιωαννην, αυτος ηγερθῃ, cum Vulg.
18. 1. τῳ Ηρωδῃ, ϰκ εξεσι σοι, cum Vulg.
20. 2. και ακουων αυτ.
23. 8. ὁ εαν με αιτησης.
29. ponatur in Tex. ut MSS. 10. legunt (εν μνημειῳ.)
30. 1. παντα ὁσα εϖοιησαν, cum Vulg.
33. 2. και ἐϖεγνωσαν ϖολλοι, cum Vulg.
33. 1. non legit (και ηλθον ϖρος αυτον) cum Vulg.
36. 1. αγορασωσιν ἑαυτοις, τι φαγωσιν,
37. 1. και δωσομεν αυτοις, cum Vulg.
48. 1. και ιδων αυτους, cum Vulg.
51. 1. non legit (και ἐθαυμαζον) cum Vulg.

CAP. VII.

5. 1. και ἐϖερωτωσιν αυτον, cum Vulg.
5. 1. αλλα κοιναις χερσιν, cum Vulg.
14. 1. και ϖροσκαλεσαμενος παλιν τον οχλον, cum Vulg.
17. 1. οἱ μαθηται αυτ την ϖαραβολην, cum Vulg.
24. ponatur in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 10. (και ελθων εις οικιαν.)
25. 1. αλλ' ευθυς ακσασα γυνη, cum Vulg.
25. ponatur in Textu, sicut MSS. 10. legunt (τὸ ϖνευμα τριον αυτης ϖνευμα.)

Ver. MSS.

26. 3. Συροφοινικισσα.
31. 1. εκ των ὁριων Τυρ ηλθε δια Σιδωνος ϖρος, ut Vulg.
32. 1. κωφον και μογιλαλον, cum Vulg.
33. 6. και α ϖολαβομενος.

CAP. VIII.

1. 1. παλιν ϖολλου οχλ οντος, cum Vulg. (MS. 1. οχλ ελθοντος.)
3. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (μακροθεν ἡκουσι.)
7. 2. και ταυτα ευλογησας ειϖε, cum Vulg.
12. 1. και αναξεναξας τῳ ϖνευματι λεγει, cum Vulg.
13. 4. εις το ϖλοιον.
17. 2. ϖως ϰπω συνιετε ;
22. 1. και ερχονται εις Βηθ. cum Vulg.
23. 2. τας χειρας αυτ, cum Vulg.
25. 1. αυτου, και διεβλεψεν.
25. 1. και ενεβλεϖε τηλαυγως ἁϖαντα, cum Vulg.
34. 1. ει τις θελει οϖισω μου, cum Vulg.
35. 2. τ ευαγγελι, σωσει αυτην, cum Vulg.
36. legatur in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (ωφελησει ανθρωϖον.)

CAP. IX.

6. ponendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (εκφοβοι.)
12. 4. καθως γεγραϖται.
22. ponatur in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (και εις ὑδατα, ἱνα) cum Vulg.
23. 2. αυτω, ει δυκασαι.
28. 3. Δια τι ἡμεις, cum Vulg.
38. 2. ϵϖι τῳ ονοματι σ, cum Vulg.
38. 1. non legit (ὁτι ακολουθει ἡμιν.)
40. 4. καθ' ἡμων ὑϖερ ἡμων.
42. 3. ἑνα των μικρων τετων των, cum Vulg.

CAP. X.

1. 1. της Ιδαιας ϖεραν τ Ιορδανε (MS. 1. και ϖεραν.)
6. ponatur in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (ὁ Θεος ενεκεν τουτου) cum. Vulg.
17. 7. ϖροσδραμων εις.
21. 1. non legit (αρας τον σαυρον) cum Vulg.
25. 2. της ραφιδος δειλθειν, cum Vulg.
32. 8. ϖροαγων αυτς.
38. 1. η το Βαπτισμα, cum Vulg.
43. 1. ϵχ ουτως δε εϵι, cum Vulg.
44. 1. εν ὑμιν ειναι ϖρωτος, cum Vulg.
46. 2. ὁ ὑιος Τιμαι. MSS. 6. legunt Βαρτιμαιος.
50. 1. αναϖηδησας ηλθε, cum Vulg.
52. ponatur in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 8. (και ηκολουθει τῳ Ιησου) cum Vulg.

CAP. XI.

2. 3. εφ ὁν ουϖω ουδεις, cum Vulg.
2. 1. λυσατε αυτον και φερετε.
6. 1. ενετειλατο αυτοις ὁ Ιησς.

Ver. MSS.

10. 1. ευλογημενη ἡ βασιλεια του πατρος ἡμων Δαβιδ.
11. 8. και εις το ἱερον.
11. 1. και περιβλεψαμενος παντας.
23. 1. non legit ὁ εαν ειπῃ, cum Vulg.

CAP. XII.

4. 2. καχεινον εκεφαλαιωσαν, cum Vulg.
12. 1. την ταραβολην ταυτην ειπεν, cum Vulg.
27. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 10. habent (ουκ εσιν ὁ Θεος νεκρων, cum Vulg.
29. 1. Κυριος ὁ Θεος ὑμων,
31. 2. ἡ δευτερα ὁμοια αυτῃ, cum Vulg.

CAP. XIII.

2. 3. ε μη αφεθῃ ωδε.
8. 1. και εσονται λιμοι· αρχαι ωδινων ταυτα, cum Vulg.
11. 2. τι λαλησητε· αλλ' ὁ εαν, cum Vulg.
14. 1. non legit (το ῥηθεν ὑπο Δανιηλ του προφητε (et videntur huc irrepsisse ex cap. Matth. 24.
32. ponendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 7. (εκεινης, η ὡρας') cum Vulg.
37. 2. ὁ δε ὑμιν, cum Vulg.

CAP. XIV.

2. 1. ελεγον γαρ.
2. 1. ϑορυϐος γενηται, cum Vulg.
5. 3. τετο το μυρον πραθηναι, cum Vulg.
12. 2. ἑτοιμασωμεν σοι φαγειν το, cum Vulg.
19. 2. non legunt (και αλλος, μητι εγω, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

22. 1. λεϐετε· τετο εξι, cum Vulg.
27. 7. non habent (εν εμοι εν τῃ νυκτι ταυτῃ.)
29. scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 9. (προαξω ὑμας.)
29. 9. non legunt, εν σοι.
31. 1. ὁ δε εκ περισσου ελαλει, εαν με.
34. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 10. (και Γρηγορειτε. Και προελθων.) cum Vulg.
45. 8. χαιρε ῥαϐϐι ῥαϐϐι.
51. 1. non legit (οἱ νεανισκοι) cum Vulg.
61. 1. του Θεου του ευλογητου, cum Vulg.
64. 1. τας ϐλασφημιας.
70. 1. non habetur και ἡ λαλια σε ὁμοιαζει, cum Vulg.
72. 2. και ευθυς εκ δευτερου, cum Vulg.

CAP. XV.

3. tollendum è Text. quod deest in MSS. 9. (αυτος δε ουδεν απεκρινατο,) cum Vulg.
8. 1. και αναϐας ὁ οχλος, cum Vulg.
11. 1. ανεπεισαν τον οχλον.
18. expungendum è Tex. quod 8 MSS. non habent (και λεγειν,) cum Vulg.

CAP. XVI.

5. 2. και ελθουσαι.
8. 2. ειχε γαρ αυτας, cum Vulg.
16. scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 10. (ὁ πιστευσας και ϐαπτισθεις,) cum Vulg.

LUCÆ.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

17. scribatur in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 10. (Ηλιοι.)
18. 4. αγγελον· πως εσαι τουτο.
35. scribatur in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 10. (και το γεννωμενον ἁγιον.)
35. impressi cum Vulg. legunt, και το γεννωμεννον εκ σου ἁγιον.
36. 1. και αυτη συνειληφ. cum Vulg.
39. 1. εις την πολιν.
49. 1. μεγαλα ὁ Δυνατος, cum Vulg.
50. 3. εις γενεαν και γενεαν. MS. 1. εις γενεας και γενεας.
51. 3. Διανοιας.
64. tollenda è Textu vox illa, quam MSS. 10. non habent, (διηρθρωϑη) cum Vulg.
66. 1. και γαρ χειρ Κυριε, cum Vulg.
75. 2. πασαις ταις ἡμεραις ἡμων, cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

8. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 10. legunt (και φυλασσοντες φυλακας.

Ver. MSS.

12. 2. και κειμενον εν φατνῃ, cum Vulg.
15. 1. και οἱ ποιμενες ελαλουν προς, cum Vulg.
20. ponatur in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 10. (και ὑπεστρεψαν.)
21. 3. του περιτεμειν το παιδιον, cum Vulg.
22. scribatur in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (του καθαρισμου των.)
22. impressi cum Vulg. legent (του καθαρισμε αυτης.)
40. 1. non addit (πνευματι) cum Vulg.
43. 1. και ουκ εγνωσαν οἱ γονεις αυτε, cum Vulg.
45. 1. και μη ευροντες ὑπεστρεψαν εις Ἱερουσαλημ, αναζητουντες αυτον, cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

2. scribatur in Textu, ut est in MSS. 10. επ' αρχιερεως.
2. impressi cum Vulg. επι αρχιερεων.
4. 1. deest vox (λεγοντος) cum Vulg.
18. 1. τῳ λαῳ.
22. 1. non addit (λεγουσαν) cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

Ver. MSS.

1. 1. εν τη ερημω.
4. 1. non est (λεγων) cum Vulg.
7. 1. εαν πεσων προσκυνησης.
8. 1. non addit (υ παγε οπισω μς, Σατανα) cum Vulg.
9 ponatur in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (ει υιος ει τς Θεου.)
34. 1. οιδα, ὁτι συ ει ὁ υἱος του Θεου.
42. legendum in Textu, ut est in MSS. 7. (επεζητουν αυτον) cum Vulg.
43. 1. και ἑτεραις πολεσιν.

CAP. V.

2. 1. επλυνον τα δικτυα, cum Vulg.
6. 1. addit το δικτυον αυτων (ὡςε μη δυνασθαι αναγαγειν αυτο.)
15. 3. non legunt (ὑπ' αυτου,) cum Vulg.
19, 6. πως εισενεγκωσιν αυτον.
19. 6. εμπροσθεν παντων.
33. 2. και των Φαρισαιων, cum Vulg.
36. 1. απο ἱματιου καινου σχισας επιβαλλει.

CAP. VI.

1. 1. non addit δευτεροπρωτῳ.
1. 1. αυτου σαχυας.
2. 1. ὁ ουκ εξεσιν εν τοις σαββασιν, cum Vulg.
4. 1. και εδωκε τοις μετ' αυτου, cum Vulg.
6. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (και εν ἑτερῳ σαββατῳ) cum Vulg.
7 ponendum in Tex. ut est in MSS. 10. (θεραπευσει, ἱνα) cum Vulg.
9. 1. σωσαι, η απολεσαι, cum Vulg.
10. 1. πανταις αυτους εν οργη ειπεν αυτῳ.
10. 6. ὁ δε εποιησεν, και αποκατεσταθη ἡ.
10. 1. non addit (ὑγιης ὡς ἡ αλλη) cum Vulg.
16. 1. ὁς εγενετο προδοτης, cum Vulg.
18. 1. ακαθαρτων εθεραπευοντο, cum Vulg.
23. 1. οἱ πατερες ὑμων.
26. 2. ὑμας παντες οἱ ανθρωποι.
35. legendum in Textu, ut est in MSS. 10. (και εσεσθε υἱοι ὑψισου.)
39. 1. ειπε δε και παραβολην, cum Vulg.

CAP. VII.

4. 3. ῳ παρεξη τουτο, cum Vulg.
11. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 6. (και εγενετο εν τῳ εξης) cum Vulg.
11. 1. non est ἱκανοι, cum Vulg.
12. 2. και αυτη ην χηρα, cum Vulg.
28. 2. non legunt vocem (προφητης.)
31. expungenda sunt è Tex. verba illa (ειπε δε ὁ Κυριος) desunt enim in MSS. 10.
31. 1. impressi, et Vulgata Lat. legunt (ειπε δε ὁ Κυριος, τινι ουν.)

Ver. MSS.

35. 1. και επιμηθη ἡ σοφια.
37. 2. και ιδου γυνη ἡτις ην εν τη πολει ἁμαρτωλος, cum Vulg.
42. 2. τις ουν ουτων πλειον αγαπησει αυτον;

CAP. VIII.

3. 4. και Σωσαννα.
3. 8. διηκονουν αυτοις.
4. 1. οχλου παμπολλου, cum Vulg.
9. 1. non est (λεγοντες) cum Vulg.
20. 1. non habet vocem (λεγοντων) cum Vulg.
24. 9. επισατα επισατα απολλυμεθα.
26. 1. των Γερασηνων, cum Vulg.
31. 2. και παρεκαλουν αυτον, cum Vulg.
34. ponatur in Textu, ut est in MSS. 9. (οἱ βοσκοντες το γεγενημενον, εφυγον, και απηγγειλαν,) cum. Vulg.
37. 1. το πληθος της πολεως και περιχωρου.
48. 1. ὁ δε ειπεν αυτη· Θυγατηρ, &c. cum Vulg.
51. legatur in Textu, ut habent MSS. 9. cum Vulg. (ελθων δε εις την.)
51. 1. εισελθειν συν αυτῳ ουδενα, cum Vulg.
54. 1. αυτος δε κρατησας της χειρος αυτης, cum Vulg.

CAP. IX.

3. 1. μητε ῥαβδον, cum Vulg.
12. 1. απολυσον τους οχλους, cum Vulg.
17. 1. και ηραν το περισσευσαν αυτοις.
23. 9. και αρατω τον ῥαυρον αυτου, και ακολ.
31. 9. ελεγον την δοξαν αυτου.
47. 2. ειδως τον διαλογισμον της καρδ.
48. 1. ουτος εϛι μεγας, cum Vulg.
49. ponatur in Textu, ut habent MSS. 10. (εκβαλλοντα δαιμονια.)
50. 3. καθ' ὑμων, ὑπερ ὑμων εϛιν, cum Vulg.
52. 1. εις πολιν Σαμαρειτων, cum Vulg.
54. 1. non legit (ὡς και Ηλιας εποιησεν) cum Vulg.
55. 1. non addit (ὑμεις) cum Vulg.
59. 3. και επετιμησεν αυτοις, και επορευθησαν,
57. 1. deest (Κυριε) cum Vulg.
61. 1. αποταξασθε πασι τοις εις τον.

CAP. X.

1. 1. ἑβδομηκοντα δυο, cum Vulg.
11. 1. addit (εκ της πολεως ὑμων εις τους ποδας.)
12. 5. λεγω ὑμιν, cum Vulg.
15. 1. ἑως αδου καταβυσῃ, cum Vulg.
17. 1. οἱ ἑβδομηκοντα δυο, cum Vulg.
19. 1. ιδου δεδωκα ὑμιν, cum Vulg.
21. 1. τῳ Πνευματι τῳ Ἁγιῳ ὁ Ιησς, cum Vulg.
22. 8. addunt (και γραφεις προς τς μαθητας ειπε· Παντα μοι.)
23. 1. non legit (κατ' ιδιαν, cum Vulg.
25. 1. πειραζων αυτον, cum Vulg.
28. 1. τουτο ποιει, και σωζῃ. MS. 1. και σωσῃ.

Ver. MSS.

30. 3. οἱ και εξεδυσαν αυτον, cum Vulg.
35. 1. και επι την αυριον εκβαλων εδωκε δυο δηναρια τῳ πανδοχει, και ειπεν, επιμελ. cum Vulg.
39. 1. ῶαρα τους ῶοδας τε Κυριου, cum Vulg.
41. 1. ειπεν αυτῃ ὁ Κυριος, cum Vulg.

CAP. XI.

2. 1. Πατερ, αγιασθητω το ονομα σου, ελθετω ἡ βασιλεια σου. τον αρτον ἡμων τον επιουσιον, cum Vulg.
4. 1. και γαρ και αυτοι αφιεμεν, cum Vulg.
4. 1. non addit (αλλα ῥυσαι ἡμας ἀῶο του ῶονηρου) cum Vulg.
5. 2. και ερει αυτῳ, Φιλε, cum Vulg.
6. 8. φιγος ῶαρεγενετο.
11. ponendum in Tex. ut est in MSS. 10. (μη λιθον επιδωσει αυτῳ.)
11. corrigendum in Tex. Regiæ, ut legatur (η και ιχθυν) ut MSS. 10. et Vulg.
15. 2. τῳ αρχοντι.
25. 1. ἑυρισκει σχολαζοντα, σεσαρωμενον.
29. 1. ἡ γενεα αυτη γενεα ῶονηρα εστι, cum Vulg.
32. corrigendum in Tex. Regiæ, et legendum (οτι μετενοησαν) ut Vulg. et MSS. 10.
34. 2. εστιν ὁ οφθαλμος σε, cum Vulg.
34. 6. και ὁλον το σωμα σου.
34. 3. και το σωμα σου σκοτεινον εσαι, cum Vulg.
42. 2. ταυτα δε εδει, cum Vulg.
44. legatur in Tex. ut est in MSS. 9. (και οἱ ανθρωῶοι ῶεριῶατουντες.)
50. 1. το εκχεχυμενον ἀῶο καταβ. cum Vulg.
51. 1. του θυσιαστηριου και του ναου, cum Vulg.
53. 2. δεινως εχειν. MSS. 7. δεινως ενεχειν, cum Vulg.
53. 2. και ἀῶοστομιζειν αυτον, cum Vulg.

CAP. XII.

8. ponendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (ὁμολογησει εν αυτῳ.)
11. 1. εισφερωσιν ὑμας.
14. 1. κατεξησε χριτην.
21. και μη εις Θεον ῶλουτων (MSS. 3. addunt ταυτα λεγων εφωνει. ὁ εχων ωτα ακουειν ακουετω.)
30. 1. χρηζετε τουτων ἁῶαντων.
46. 2. μετα των ὑῶοκριτων θησει.
48. 2. ῶεριστοτερον ἀῶαιτησουσον αυτον.

CAP. XIII.

4. 2. δοκειτε, ὁτι αυτοι οφειλεται, cum Vulg.
15. 4. ὑῶοκριτα, ἑκαστος ὑμων.
24. 1. ξενης θυρας.
25. 1. Κυριε, ανοιξον ἡμιν, cum Vulg.
32. 1. και τῃ τριτῃ ἡμερᾳ. cum Vulg.
34. ponatur in Tex. ut habent MSS. 6. (ὁν τροῶον ορνις την ἑαυτης) cum Vulg.
34. 1. και ουκ ηθελησας, cum Vulg.
35. 5. non legunt ερημος.

CAP. XIV.

Ver. MSS.

5. 8. ὑιος ἡ βους.
9. 1. ερει, συ δος τοτῳ τοῶον.
15. 1. φαγεται αρτον, cum Vulg.
21. 1. ὁ δουλος ἀῶηγγειλε, cum Vulg.
24. 4. addunt (τε δειῶνε. ῶολλοι γαρ εισι κλητοι, ολιγοι δε εκλεκτοι.)
28. 4. εξ ὑμων θελων, cum Vulg.
30. 1. αλλ' εξω βαλλεσιν, cum Vulg.

CAP. XV.

17. 1. λιμῳ ωδε ἀῶολλυμαι, cum Vulg.
19. 3. ουκετι ειμι αξιος, cum Vulg.
22. 1. ταχυ εξενεγκαθε, cum Vulg.
29. 3. τῳ ῶατρι αυτε, cum Vulg.

CAP. XVI.

4. 9. ὁταν μεταξαθω. MS. 1. ὁταν μετατεθω, cum Vulg.
6. 1. ἑκατον καδους, cum Vulg.
15. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (ενωῶιον τε Θεου.)
15. 3. του Θεου εστιν, cum Vulg.
18. 1. και ὁ ἀῶολελυμενην, cum Vulg.
25. ὁτι ἀῶελαβες τα αγαθα σε, cum Vulg.
26. 1. μηδε εκειθεν ῶρος ἡμας, cum Vulg.

CAP. XVII.

4. 9. επιστρεψῃ λεγων.
7. 1. ὁς ελθοντι εκ του αγρου, cum Vulg.
7. 2. ερει αυτῳ ευθεως, cum Vulg.
12. 1. οἱ ανεξησαν ῶορρωθεν.
16. 1. ευχαριστων τῳ Θεῳ,
22. scribendum in Textu ut legunt MSS. 10. (ειῶε δε ῶρος τους μαθητας) cum Vulg. (Sic et impressi.)
28. 1. ὁμοιως καθως εγενετο εν ταις, cum Vulg.
33. 2. ζωοῶοιησει αυτον.
36. 9. desunt verba illa δυο εσονται εν τῳ αγρῳ, ὁ εἰς ῶαραληφθησεται, και ὁ ετερος αφεθησεται.
37. 2. ὁῶου το ῶτωμα.

CAP. XVIII.

1. 6. ῶροσευχεσθαι αυτους.
4. 3. και ουκ ηθελον επι χρονον, cum Vulg.
7. 1. την εκδικησιν των βοωντων.
7. 1. και μακροθυμει επ' αυτοις.
8. ponendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 10. (λεγω ὑμιν ὁτι) cum Vulg.
9. 1. και εξουθενουντας τους ῶολλους.
14. corrigendus error in Tex. Regiæ, et legend. (η εκεινος.)
14. 1. ἀυτου ῥαρ' εκεινον, cum Vulg.
15. 1. επετιμων αυτοις, cum Vulg.
22. 1. και δος ῶτωχοις, cum Vulg.
25. 1. ῥαφιδος διελθειν, cum Vulg.

CAP. XIX.

Ver. MSS.

2. 1. ονοματι Ζακχαιος, cum Vulg.
4. ponendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 9. και προδραμων, cum Vulg.
4. corrigendus error in Tex. Regiæ, et legendum ὁτι δι' εκεινης.
15. ponendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 9. και ειπε φωνηθηναι, cum Vulg.
23. ponendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 9. το αργυριον μου επι τραπεζαν, cum Vulg.
34. 3. οἱ δε ειπον, ὁτι ὁ Κυριος, cum Vulg.
46. 2. γεγραπται, ὁτι οικος μου, cum Vulg.

CAP. XX.

19. 4. και εφοβηθησαν τον λαον· εγνωσαν γαρ, cum Vulg.
20. 4. αυτου λογον.
24. 3. δηναριον. οἱ δε εδειξαν. και ειπεν, τινος εχει, &c.
28. 1. ατεκνος η, cum Vulg.
33. 3. τινος αυτων εσαι γυνη, cum Vulg.
35. 8. ουτε εκγαμιζονται.
46. 1. και των θελοντων.

CAP. XXI.

4. 3. post εβαλον, addunt ταυτα λεγων εφωνει, ὁ εχων ωτα ακουειν, ακουετω. Και τινων.
19. 1. κτησεσθε τας ψυχας, cum Vulg.
26. 1. απο-ψυχουντων.
26. legendum in Tex. ut habent MSS. 10. (ὡν επερχομενων τη οικουμενη, cum Vulg.
30. 1. ὁτι εγγυς το θερος, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXII.

6. 1. αυτον απ' οχλου, cum Vulg.
16. 1. ου μη φαγω αυτο, cum Vulg.
18. 2. ου μη πιω απο τε νυν απο τε.
30. 6. επι της τραπεζης με, και καθισεσθε.

Ver. MSS.

36. 2. πολεσατω το ἱματιον αὐτου και αγορασατω, cum Vulg.
42. 5. παρενεγκε το ποτηριον, cum Vulg.
47. 3. των δωδεκα προηγεν αυτους.
52. 7. επ' αυτον αρχιερεις.
55. 1. και περικαθισαντων, cum Vulg.
57. 4. ὁ δε ηρνησατο λεγων.
61. 2. φωνησαι σημερον, απαρν.
66. 6. και ανηγαγον αυτον.
68. 1. εαν δε επερωθησω.
69. 1. απο του νυν δε εσαι, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXIII.

2. 5. το εθνος ἡμων, cum Vulg.
2. 1. και λεγοντα, cum Vulg.
8. 1. εξ ἱκανε χρονε, cum Vulg.
8. corrigendum mendum in Reg. et legendum ut MSS. 10 (και ηλπιζε τι σημειον.)
14. 3. ὡς διαστρεφοντα τον λαον.
20. 1. προσεφωνησεν αυτοις, cum Vulg.
23. 1. deest vox (και των αρχιερεων) cum Vulg.
27. 1. εκοπτοντο, cum Vulg.
35. 2. εξεμυκθηριζον δε αυτον και, cum Vulg.
44. 1. και ην ηδη ὡσει ὡρα ἑκτη.
46. 2. παρατιθεμαι το πν. cum Vulg.

CAP. XXIV.

1. 1. non est (και τινες συν αυταις) cum Vulg.
4. 1. εν εσθητι αστραπτουση, cum Vulg.
11. 1. ληρος τα ῥηματα ταυτα, cum Vulg.
28. 1. προσεποιησατο, cum Vulg.
29. 1. και κεκλικεν ηδη ἡ ἡμ.
36. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 9. (λαλουντων, αυτος ὁ Ιησους) cum Vulg.
49. 1. εν τη πολει, ἑως τού, cum Vulg.

JOANNIS.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

16. 1. ὁτι εκ του πληρωματος.
28. 1. ταυτα εν Βεθαβαρα.
41. scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 10. (μεθερμηνευομενος Χριστος.)
41. 1. ουτος πρωτον τον, cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

12. 1. μετα ταυτα κατεβη.
17. 1. κατεφαγε με, cum Vulg.
22. ponendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 10. (τουτο ελεγεν· και επιστευσαν,) cum Vulg.
24. 3. γινωσκειν παντα.

CAP. III.

Ver. MSS.

25. 9. μετα Ιουδαιε.

CAP. IV.

1. 9. εγνω ὁ Κυριος, ὁτι.
3. 9. και απηλθεν εις την Γαλιλαιαν.
27. 1. και εθαυμαζον, ὁτι, cum Vulg.
35 scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 8. (ὁτι εστι τετραμηνος,) cum Vulg.
41. ponendum in Tex. ut MSS. 10. legunt (επιστευσαν δια τον λογον αυτου.)
41. impressi et Vulgata Lat. legunt (επιστευσαν εις αυτον δια.)

Ver. MSS.

42. 1. non addit, ὁ Χριστος, cum Vulg.
47. corrigendus error in Regia, ut legatur (και ιασηται αυτου τον υἱον) MSS. 10. cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

2. 1. Ἑβραϊστι Βηθσαιδα, cum Vulg.
4. 1. αγγελος γαρ Κυριου, cum Vulg.
5. 1. εν τῃ ασθενειᾳ αυτου, cum Vulg.
30. 1. non addit, πατρος, cum Vulg.

CAP. VI.

10. 2. ανεπεσον ουν οἱ ανθρωποι. ανδρες.
11. 1. ελαβεν ουν τους αρτους ὁ Ιησους, και ευχαριστησας διεδωκε τοις ανακειμενοις, cum Vulg.
14. 1. ἁ εποιησε σημεια.
15. 4. βασιλεα, ανεχωρησεν.
22. 1. ειδον ὁτι πλοιαριον, cum Vulg.
22. 1. non legit verba illa (εκεινο, εις ὁ ενεβησαν οἱ μαθηται αυτου) cum Vulg.
28. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 9. (τι ποιωμεν) cum Vulg.
45. 4. πας ὁ ακουσας παρα του Πατρος, cum Vulg.
51. 1. σαρξ μου εστιν ὑπερ της του κοσμου ζωης, cum Vulg.
52. 1. την σαρκα αυτου φαγειν, cum Vulg.
55. 1. αληθης εστι βρωσις, και το αιμα μὲ αληθης εστι ποσις.
58. 2. ὁ τρωγων μου τουτον τον αρτον.
63. 1. ἁ εγω λελαληκα ὑμιν, cum Vulg.
69. 1. ὁτι συ ει ὁ αγιος του Θεου.

CAP. VII.

22. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (εκ του Μωσεως εστιν.)
26. 6. ὁτι ουτος εστιν αληθως ὁ Χριστος.
31. 7. σημεια τουτων ποιησει.
39. 1. ην Πνευμα Ἁγιον δεδομενον, cum Vulg.
40. 2. ακουσαντες τον λογον τουτον, cum Vulg.

CAP. VIII.

Duo Codd. pretermittunt undecim integros versus viii capitis, videlicet ab illis verbis, Ιησους δε επορευθη, usque ad illa, απο του νυν μηκετι ἁμαρτανε.

2. 1. ορθρου δε παλιν βαθεος ηλθεν ὁ Ιησους εις το ἱερον, και πας ὁ οχλος ηρχ.
3. 3. αγουσι δε οἱ Φαρισαιοι γυναικα.
4. 3. λεγουσιν αυτου πειραζοντες, διδασκαλε.
αὐτη ἡ γυνη ειληπται επ' αυτοφωρῳ μοιχευομενη.
5. 4. εν δε τῳ νομῳ Μωσης ενετειλατο ἡμιν τας τοιαυτας λιθαζειν, cum Vulg.
6. 3. ἱνα σχωσι κατηγ. cum Vulg.
6. 2. κατεγραφεν εις την γην.
6. 5. desunt verba illa (μη προσποιουμενος) cum Vulg.
7. 2. επεροτωντες.
7. 1. αναβλεψας ειπεν αυτοις.

Ver. MSS.

9. 4. non legunt verba illa (και ὑπο της συνειδησεως ελεγχομενοι,) cum Vulg.
9. 2. non legunt (ἑως των εσχατων, cum Vulg.
10. 4. non addunt και μηδενα θεασαμενος πλην της γυναικος, cum Vulg.
10. 5. ειπεν αυτῃ γυναι, που εισιν οἱ κατηγοροι σου, cum Vulg.
11. 2. ειπε δε ὁ Ιησους, ουδε εγω σε κρινω. πορευου, και μηκετι ἁμαρτανε.
14. 4. η που ὑπαγω.
21. 1. και ζητησετε με, και ουχ ευρησετε με, και εν τῃ ἁμ.
23. 1. και ελεγεν αυτοις· ὑμεις, cum Vulg.
26. 3. ταυτα λαλω εις τον κοσμον, cum Vulg.
42. scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 7. (ειπεν ουν αυτοις ὁ Ιησους) cum Vulg.
53 scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (τινα σεαυτον ποιεις) cum Vulg.
57. 1. τεσσερακοντα ετη.
59. 1. omittit illa postrema verba (διελθων δια μεσου αυτων, και παρηγεν ουτως) cum Vulg.

CAP. IX.

9. 1. αλλοι δε ουχι, αλλ' ομοιος αυτῳ εστιν, cum Vulg.
11. 1. ὁ ανθρωπος λεγομενος, cum Vulg.
16. 1. και σχισματα ην εν αυτοις.
26. 1. ειπον ουν αυτῳ, τι εποιησε σοι, cum Vulg.
28. ponendum in Textu ut legunt MSS. 10. (ελοιδορησαν αυτον)
28. in impressis et Vulg. Lat. legitur, ελοιδορησαν ουν αυτον.

CAP. X.

8. 4. παντες ὁσοι ηλθον προ εμου, κλεπται.
14. 1. και γινωσκω τα εμα, και γινωσκουσι με τα εμ. cum Vulg.
34. 1. ὁτι εγω ειπα, θεοι εστε, cum Vulg.
38. 1. καγω εν τῳ Πατρι, cum Vulg.
39. 1. εκ των χειρων αυτων, cum Vulg.

CAP. XI.

19. ponendum in Textu ut legunt MSS. 10. (προς τας περι Μαρθαν και.)
31. 2. δοξαντες, ὁτι ὑπαγει.
41. 1. non legit (οὐ ην τεθνηκως κειμενος) cum Vulg.
45. scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 9. (και θεασαμενοι ἁ εποιησαν) cum Vulg.

CAP. XII.

5. 1. διακοσιων.
6. 1. εχων τα βαλλομενα εβας. cum Vulg.
7. 1. ἱνα εις την ἡμεραν του ενταφιασμου μου τηρηση αυτο, cum Vulg.
19. 1. ὁτι ουκ ωφελει ουδεν, cum Vulg.
31. ponendum in Textu, ut legitur in MSS. 10. (νυν κρισις εστι του κοσμου τουτου.)

Ver. MSS.

31. impressi, et Vulg. Lat. legit, τε κοσμε, nec addit τετε.
35. 1. το φως εν υμιν εϛι, cum Vulg.
47. 1. των ῥηματων, και μη φυλαξη, cum Vulg.

CAP. XIII.

2. 1. εις την καρδιαν, ινα παραδω αυτον Ιεδας Σιμωνος Ισκαριωτε, cum Vulg.
24. 1. Σιμων Πετρος, και λεγει αυτω. ειπε, τις εϛιν, περι ϛ λεγει.
25. 5. εκεινος ὁυτως επι το ϛηθος.
31. 1. ὁτε ουν εξηλθε, cum Vulg.

CAP. XIV.

2. 1. ὁτι πορευομαι, cum Vulg.
12. 3. προς τον Πατερα πορευομαι, cum Vulg.
17. 2. ὁτι εν υμιν μενει, και εν υμιν εϛι.
22. 1. Κυριε, τι γεγονεν, cum Vulg.
28. 1. εχαρητε αν, ὁτι πορευομαι προς τον Πατερα· ὁτι ὁ Πατηρ μου, &c. cum Vulg.

CAP. XV.

6. 2. και συναγεϛιν αυτο, cum Vulg.
8. 3. και γενησθε εμοι μαθηται, cum Vulg.
11. 1. ἡ εμη εν υμιν χ, cum Vulg.
13. 1. η ινα τις την ψυχην.
14. 1. ὁ εγω εντελλομαι υμιν.
15. 1. ὁϛα ηκουϛα παρα, cum Vulg.
20. 1. τε λογε με, ε εγω, cum Vulg.

CAP. XVI.

3. legendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 10. (και ταυτα ποιησουϛιν, ὁτι ουκ,) cum Vulg.
3. impressi cum Vulg. Lat. legunt, ποιηουϛιν υμιν, ὁτι.
9. 1. ὁτι ουκ επιϛευϛαν εις εμε, cum Vulg.
10. 1. προς τον Πατερα ὑπαγω, cum Vulg.
23. 1. αν τι αιτηϛητε τον Πατερα, δωϛει υμιν.
25. 1. υμιν. ερχεται ὡρα, cum Vulg.

CAP. XVII.

1. 1. ινα ὁ υἱος ϛου δοξαϛη ϛε, cum Vulg.
11. 2. εν τω ονοματι ϛου, ᾧ δεδωκας μοι.

Ver. MSS.

11. 3. καθως και ἡμεις, cum Vulg.
17. 1. εν τη αληθεια· ὁ λογος, cum Vulg.

CAP. XVIII.

2. 4. ϛυνηχθη και ὁ Ιηϛους.
6. 2. αυτοις, εγω ειμι, cum Vulg.
11. 8. την μαχαιραν εις την θ.
14. 1. ανθρωπον αποθανειν ὑπερ του λαου, cum Vulg.
15. 1. και αλλος μαθητης.
18. 1. ην δε και ὁ Πετρος μετ' αυτων εως και, cum Vulg.
20. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 10. (εν συναγωγη και εν τω Ιερω.)
25. 2. ηρνησατο εκεινος, και ειπεν, cum Vulg.
29. 2. ὁ Πιλατος προς αυτους εξω, και, cum Vulg.
40. 1. εκραυγασαν ουν παντες.

CAP. XIX.

3. 2. και ηρχοντο προς αυτον, και ελεγον, χαιρε ὁ, cum Vulg.
11. 1. εξϵϛιαν κατ' εμου, ει.
11. 1. ὁ παραδους με ϛοι, cum Vulg.
13. 2. τετων των λογων.
15. 1. οἱ δε εκραυγαζον λεγοντες, αρον.
27. legendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 8. (ελαβεν ὁ μαθητης αυτην εις τα ιδια,) cum Vulg.
28. 4. ιδων ὁ Ιηϛους.
29. 1. μεϛον. ϛπογγον ουν μεϛον του οξους ὑϛϛωπῳ περιθεντες, cum Vulg.
31. 4. εκεινου του ϛαββατου.
35. 1. ινα και υμεις πιϛευητε, cum Vulg.
36. 5. ου ϛηντριβηϛεται αυτου.
38. 2. μετα δε ταυτα ηρωτ', cum Vulg.
39. 1. ἑλιγμα ϛμυρνης.

CAP. XX.

14. 2. ταυτα ειπουϛα εϛραφη, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXI.

1. 1. τοις μαθηταις αυτου επι της.
3. 1. εις το πλοιον, και εν εκεινῃ, cum Vulg.
6. 1. ἑλκυϛαι ιϛχυον, cum Vulg.
13. 1. και ερχεται ὁ Ιηϛους, cum Vulg.
15. 1. Σιμον Ιωαννου, cum Vulg.
25. 1. ἁ εποιηϛεν ὁ Ιηϛους, cum Vulg.

ACTA APOSTOLORUM

Ex Collectione Codicum Manuscriptorum viii, antiquorum.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

10. 1. εν εϛθηϛεϛι λευκαις, cum Vulg.
12. 1. ὑπεϛρεψαν οἱ αποϛολοι εις ἱερους.
14. 1. τῃ προϛευχῃ ϛυν γυναιξι και Μαριαμ, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

15. 2. εν μεϛῳ των αδελφων ειπεν, cum Vulg.
16. 1. την γραφην, ην προειπε, cum Vulg.
17. 1. ην εν ἡμιν, cum Vulg.
20. 2. ἡ επαυλις αυτων, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

23. 1. Ιωσην τον καλουμενον.
25. 1. τον τοπον της Διακονι. cum Vulg.
26. 1. κληρους αυτοις, cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

7. 1. εξισαντο δε παντες και εθ. cum Vulg.
10. 8. της Λιβυης.
17. 5. ενυπνια ενυπιασθησονται, cum Vulg.
23. 1. εκδοτον δια χειρων, cum Vulg.
30. 1. non addit (το κατα σαρκα αναξησειν τον Χριζον) cum Vulg.
31. 1. ὁτι ουτε εγκατελειφθη εις Ἀδην, cum Vulg.
33. 1. ὁ ὑμεις και βλεπετε και ακουετε.
38. 2. Πετρος δε προς αυτους, cum Vulg.
40. 1. οἱ μεν ουν αποδεξαμενοι, cum Vulg.
42. 1. και τη κοινωνια τη κλασει.
44. 1. παντες δε οἱ πιζευσαντες επι το αυτο ειχον.
47. 1. καθ' ἡμεραν επι το αυτο, cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

1. 1. Πετρος δε και Ιωαννης ανεβαινον, cum Vulg.
2. 1. προς την πυλην του ἱερου, cum Vulg.
3. 2. ελεημοσυνην λαβειν, cum Vulg.
7. 1. χειρος ηγειρεν αυτον, cum Vulg.
11. 1. κρατουντος δε αυτου τον Πετρον και τον Ιωαννην, cum Vulg.
13. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (ὁν ὑμεις μεν παρεδωκατε) cum Vulg.
13. 1. και ηρνησασθε κατα προσωπον, cum Vulg.
18. 1. των προφητων παθειν τον Χριζον αυτου, cum Vulg.
21. 1. δια ζοματος των ἁγιων, πων απ' αιωνος αυτου προφητων, Μωσης μεν ειπεν, ὁτι προφ. cum Vulg.
26. 1. ευλογουντα ὑμας και ἁγιαζοντα.

CAP. IV.

2. 3. την αναξασιν την εκ νεκρων, cum Vulg.
3. 1. και εθεντο αυτους εις τηρησιν, cum Vulg.
5. 7. εν Ιερουσαλημ.
11. 2. ὁ εξουθενωθεις.
12. ponendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (εν αλλῳ ὀδενι) cum Vulg. mox scribendum pariter in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (ουδε γαρ ονομα) cum Vulg.
17. 3. μηδενι ανθρωπων, cum Vulg.
25. 2. τε παιδος σε εν Πνευματι Ἁγιῳ ειπων.
27. 3. επ' αληθειας εν τη πολει ταυτη επι τον, cum Vulg.
30. 8. εκτεινειν σε εις ιασιν.

CAP. V.

1. 5. συν Σαπφειρᾳ.
15. 2. ὡζε και εις τας πλατειας.
15. 1. επι κλιναριων και, cum Vulg.
16. 1. πολεων Ἱερουσαλημ, cum Vulg.
23. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (εν πασῃ ασφαλειᾳ.)
24. 1. τους λογους τουτες ὁ, τε ζρατηγος του ἱερου, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

25. legatur in Tex. ut habent MSS. 7. (αυτοις ὁτι ἰδου) cum Vulg.
28. 1. λεγων· παραγγελια παρηγγ. cum Vulg.
34. 1. βραχυ τι τους ανθρωπους πσιησαι, cum Vulg.
36. 4. ἑαυτον ῳ, cum Vulg.
36. 1. ῳ τροσεκολληθη.
37. 1. λαον οπισω, cum Vulg.
39. 5. ου δυνησεσθε καταλυσαι αυτους. MS. 1. αυτο, cum Vulg.
42. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. legunt (ουκ επαυοντο διδασκοντες, και ευαγγελιζομενοι τον Χριζον Ιησουν,) cum Vulg.

CAP. VI.

1. 1. εν δε ταις ἡμεραις εκειναις, cum Vulg.
7. 1. πολυς τε οχλος των Ιουδαιων.
8. 2. πληρης χαριτος και δυναμεως, cum Vulg.
8. 1. addit εν τῳ λαῳ δια τε ονοματος τε Κυριου Ιησου Χριζου.
13. 1. ου παυεται ζηματα λαλων κατα του τοπου, cum Vulg.

CAP. VII.

11. 1. εφ' ὁλην την Αιγυπτον και Χανααν, cum Vulg.
12. 1. οντα σιτια εν αιγ.
17. 1. ἡς ὡμολογησεν ὁ Θεος, cum Vulg.
18. 2. ἑτερος επ' Αιγυπτον ὁς, cum Vulg.
21. 1. εκτεθεντος δε αυτου ανειλετο αυτον, cum. Vulg.
26. 1. αδελφοι εζε. ἱνα τι, cum Vulg.
30. 1. αγγελος εν φλογι πυρος ϐ. cum Vulg.
34. 1. και τους ξεναγμους.
35. 1. συν χειρι αγγελου, cum Vulg.
37. 2. ὑμων ὡς εμε. αυτε ακεσεσθε. κτος, cum Vulg.
44. 7. του μαρτυριου ην τοις πατρασιν ἡμων.
49. 1. της καταπαυσεως με εζιν, cum Vulg.
51. 1. και απεριτμητοι καρδιαις και, cum Vulg.
58. 1. και εκβαλοντες αυτον εξω, cum Vulg.

CAP. VIII.

1. 6. παντες δε διεζπαρ. MSS. 2. και παντες, cum Vulg.
10. 1. του Θεου ἡ καλεμενη μεγαλη, cum Vulg.
13. 1. θεωρων τα σημεια, και δυναμεις μεγαλας γιγνομενας.
25. 1. ὑπεζρεφον εις Ιερουσαλημ, πολλας τε κω. των Σαμ. ευηγγελιζοντο, cum Vulg.
28. legendum in Textu ut habent MSS. 8. (και ανεγινωσκε τον προφητην Ησ.) cum Vulg.
37. scribatur in Tex. cum appositione obeli, ut est in Regio Codice. Versum hunc integrum MSS. 8. non legunt, id circo obelus in Tex. appositus est.

CAP. IX.

5. 1. ὁ δε, εγω ειμι Ιησες, cum Vulg.
5,6. verba, quibus in Regio Codice obelus affixus est, cum obelo pariter notentur.

Ver.	MSS.
5,6.		in MSS. 8. desunt verba illa, quibus in Regio Codice præfixus est obelus; propterea in hoc etiam Textu obelum apponi monuimus.
11.	1.	αναξα, πορευθητι επι την ξ. cum Vulg.
12.	2.	αυτῳ χειρας, cum Vulg.
18.	1.	ανεβλεψε τε, και αναξας εθ. cum Vulg.
19.	1.	εγενετο δε μετα των εν Δαμασ. cum Vulg.
20.	2.	εκηρυσσε τον Ιησουν, cum Vulg.
22.		ponendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 8. (και συεχυνε τους Ιουδαιους.)
26.	1.	παραγενομενος δε εις Ιερουσαλημ, επειραζε κολλασθαι, cum Vulg.
28.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (εισπορευομενος και εκπορευομενος εν Ιερουσαλημ) cum Vulg.
31.	1.	ἡ μεν ουν εκκλησια, et deinceps omnia singulari numero, ut Vulg.
35.	6.	τον Ασσαρωνα. MS. 1. τον Σαρωνα.
38.	1.	μη οκνησῃς διελθειν ἑως ἡμων, cum Vulg.

CAP. X.

2.	1.	πασιων ελεημοσυνας, cum Vulg.
3.	2.	ὡσει περι ὡραν ενατην.
5.	5.	Σιμωνα, ὃς επικ.
6.	7.	παρα θαλασσαν. ὡς δε απηλθεν. MS. 1. παρα θαλασσαν ὃς λαλησει ῥηματα προς σε, εν οις σωθησῃ συ και πας ὁ οικος σου.
7.	2.	ὁ λαλων αυτω, cum Vulg.
11.	1.	και καταβαινον σκευος, ὡς οθ· μεγ. τεσσαρσιν αρχαις καθιεμενον επι της γης.
12.	1.	παντα τα τετραποδα και ἑρπετα της γης, και πετεινα, &c. cum Vulg.
16.	1.	και ευθυς ανεληφθη το σκευος, cum Vulg.
17.	1.	ιδου οἱ ανδρες οἱ, cum Vulg.
17.		scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 8. (διερωτησαντες την οικιαν) cum Vulg.
19.	7.	ιδου ανδρες ζητουσι σε.
21.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (προς τους ανδρας ειπεν· ιδου εγω ειμι) cum Vulg.
22.		corrigendum in Textu mendum Regiæ (ὑπο ὁλου του εθνους των) ut MSS. 8. et Vulg.
23.	1.	τῃ δε επαυριον αναξας ἐξηλθε, cum Vulg.
23.	3.	τῃ δε επαυριον εισηλθεν.
25.	4.	εγενετο του εισελθειν τον πετ. cum Vulg.
30.	1.	ημην την ενατην ὡραν προσευχομενος, cum Vulg.
32.	1.	desunt verba illa (ὃς παραγενομενος λαλησει σοι) cum Vulg.
45.	1.	πιστοι, οἱ συνηλθον, cum Vulg.
48.	2.	εν τω ονοματι Ιησου Χρι. MSS. 2. εν τῳ ονοματι τε Κυριε.

CAP. XI.

7.	1.	δε και φωνης, cum Vulg.
13.	4.	απηγγειλε δε, cum Vulg.
13.		legendum in Textu ut MSS. 5. (εις Ἰοππην, και μεταπεμψαι) cum Vulg.
17.		legend. in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (εγω τις ημην) cum Vulg.
21.		legendum ut MSS. 8. in Tex. (μετ' αυτων. πολυς τε αριθμος) cum Vulg.
22.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (διελθειν ἑως Αντιοχειας) cum Vulg.
23.	1.	προσμενειν εν τῳ Κυριῳ, cum Vulg.
26.	3.	ηγαγεν εις Αντιοχειαν, cum Vulg.

CAP. XII.

5.	1.	εκτενως γινομενη, cum Vulg.
12.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (συνηθροισμενοι και προσευχομενοι) cum Vulg.
25.	2.	ὑπεστρεψαν εις Ἰλημ πληρωσαντες.
25.	2.	ὑπεστρεψεν εις Αντιοχειαν.
25.	1.	ὑπεστρ. απο Ἱερσαλημ, πληρ. cum Vulg.

CAP. XIII.

1.	1.	ησαν δε εν Αντιοχεια, cum Vulg.
6.	2.	δε ὁλην την νησον, cum Vulg.
6.	3.	ευρον ανδρα τινα μεγαν ψευδοπροφ.
10.	2.	ου παυῃ διαστρεφων, cum Vulg.
15.	1.	ει τις εστι λογος εν ὑμιν, cum Vulg.
17.	7.	ὁ Θεος τε λαε τουτε εξελεξατο.
17.	1.	ὁ Θεος τε λαε τε Ισραηλ εξ. cum Vulg.
17.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ὑψωσεν εν τῃ παροικια εν γῃ Αἰγυπτῳ) cum Vulg.
19.	7.	κατεκληρονομησεν αυτοις.
23.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (ηγαγε τῳ Ισραηλ) cum Vulg.
23.	5.	σωτηριαν, Ιησεν.
26.	6.	εξαποστελη.
33.	1.	τοις τεκνοις ἡμων, αναστησας, cum Vulg.
34.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ὑποστρεφειν εις διαφθοραν) cum Vulg.
41.		ponendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (και θαυμασατε, και αφανισθητε.)
41.	3.	και θαυμασατε, και επιβλεψατε, και αφανισθητε.
42.	2.	εξιοντων δε αυτων εις το μεταξυ σαββατον, ηξιουν τα εθνη.
42.	1.	παρεκαλουν λαληθηναι αυτοις τα ῥηματα ταυτα.
45.	2.	λεγομενοις βλασφημουντες, cum Vulg.
51.	2.	των ποδων επ' αυτους, cum Vulg.
52.	2.	οἱ τε μαθηται επληρουντο, cum Vulg.

CAP. XIV.

2.	3.	οἱ δε απειθησαντες, cum Vulg.
8.	1.	μητρος αυτε, ὃς ουδεποτε, cum Vulg.
10.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (τῃ φωνῃ· αναστηθι επι τους ποδας σου,) cum Vulg.
10.	2.	τῃ φωνῃ, σοι λεγω εν τῳ ονοματι του Κυριου Ιησου Χριστε αναστ.
13.	1.	ὁ, τε ἱερευς του Διος, cum Vulg.
17.	3.	addunt (αυτοις, αλλα πορευεσθαι ἑκαστον εις τα ιδια.)
18.	4.	non legunt, διατριβοντων δε αυτων, και διδασκοντων, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

24. 1. τον λογον του Κυριε, κατεβ, cum Vulg.
28. 1. διετριβον δε χρονον, cum Vulg.

CAP. XV.

2. 7. και ζητησεως ουκ ολιγης.
6. 2. συνηχθησαν τε οἱ αποστολοι, cum Vulg.
14. 2. λαον τῳ ονοματι αυτου, cum Vulg.
16. 1. και τα κατεσραμμενα, cum Vulg.
17. 2. ὁ ποιων ταυτα, cum Vulg.
17. 1. ὁ ποιων ταυτα γνωστα απ' αιωνος. διο εγω, &c.
18. ponendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (γνωστα απ' αιωνος εστι τῳ Θεῳ παντα τα εργα αυτου,) cum Vulg.
18. 1. ἁ εστι γνωστα απ' αιωνος αυτῳ.
23. 1. δια χειρος αυτων· οἱ αποστολοι, cum Vulg.
23. 1. και οἱ πρεσβυτεροι αδελφοι τοις, cum Vulg.
24. legendum in Textu, ut habent MSS. 7. (ὁτι τινες εξ ἡμων εξελθοντες) cum Vulg.
24. 1. ὁτι τινες εξελθοντες.
24. 1. non legit (λεγοντες περιτεμνεσθε, και τηρειν τον νομον) cum Vulg.
29. expungenda e Tex. verba hæc, quæ in nullo MS. leguntur (και ὁσα μη θελετε ἑαυτοις γινεσθαι, ἑτεροις μη ποιειτε) cum Vulg.
29. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (ευ πραξετε) cum Vulg.
30. 2. καθηλθον εις Αντιοχ, cum Vulg.
33. 1. τρος τους αποστειλαντας αυτους, cum Vulg.
36. 3. τους αδελφους κατα πασαν, cum Vulg.
37. 2. τον επικαλουμενον Μαρκον, cum Vulg.

CAP. XVI.

1. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (και ιδου μαθητης τις ην εκει) cum Vulg.
7. 3. ελθοντες δε κατα την μυσι. cum Vulg.
7. 3. εις την Βιθυνιαν πορευεσθαι, cum Vulg.
9. 4. και παρακαλων αυτον και, cum Vulg.
10. 1. ἡμας ὁ Θεος, cum Vulg. MS. 1. ευαγγελισασθαι αυτοις, cum Vulg.
14. 2. τον Θεον, ηκουσεν, cum Vulg.
17. 3. τῳ Παυλῳ και τῳ Σιλᾳ. MS. 1. addit, και ἡμιν.
17. 2. καταγγελλουσιν ὑμιν, cum Vulg.
32. 1. τε Κυριε συν πασι, cum Vulg.
33. ponendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 8. (και οἱ αυτε παντες παραχρημα) cum Vulg.

CAP. XVII.

5. 2. ζηλωσαντες δε οἱ απειθουντες Ιουδαιοι, και προσλαβομενοι των αγοραιων τινας.
5. 1. ζηλωσαντες δε οἱ Ιουδαιοι, και προσλαβομενοι των αγοραιων τινας, cum Vulg.
5. 3. προαγαγειν εις τον δημον, cum Vulg.
7. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ἑτερον ειναι Ιησεν,) cum Vulg.
10. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (τον τε Παυλον και.)
11. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ευγενεστεροι των εν Θεσσαλονικῃ.)

Ver. MSS.

13. 2. σαλευοντες και ταρασσοντες τους οχλους, cum Vulg.
14. 1. ἑως επι την θαλασσαν, cum Vulg.
18. 2. ευηγγελιζετο αυτοις, cum Vulg.
25. 2. χειρων ανθρωπινων, cum Vulg.
25,26. 1. και πνοην και τα παντα· εποιησε τε ἑξ ἑνος παν εθνος αν, cum Vulg.
27. 2. ζητειν τον Θεον, ει ἁραγε, cum Vulg.
27. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (και γε ε μακραν.)
30. 1. τανυν απαγγελλει τοις ανθρωποις παντας πανταχου μετανοειν· καθοτι εσησεν, cum Vulg.
34. 1. και ἑτεροι πολλοι συν αυτῳ.

CAP. XVIII.

5. 2. συνειχετο τῳ λογῳ ὁ Παυλος, cum Vulg.
5. 4. τοις Ιουδαιος ειναι τον Χριτον Ιησεν, cum Vulg.
6. 3. τα ἱματια ἁυτε, cum Vulg.
7. 1. Τιτε Ιυτε, cum Vulg.
11. 1. εκαθισε δε ενιαυτον, cum Vulg.
15. 2. ζητηματα εστι, cum Vulg.
15. 1. κριτης εγω τετων, cum Vulg.
17. 1. παντες Σωσθενην, cum Vulg.
19. 1. διελεγετο τοις Ιουδ. cum Vulg.
21. 1. αλλ' αποταξαμενος, και ειπων, παλιν ανακαμψω προς ὑμας τε Θεου θελοντος ανηχθη απο. cum Vulg.
24. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (Απολλως ονοματι cum Vulg.
25. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (τα περι τε Ιησε) cum Vulg.
25. 3. τα περι τε Κυριου.

CAP. XIX.

1. 1. και ευρειν, &c, et ver. 2. ειπε δε προς, cum Vulg.
3. 1. ὁ δε ειπεν εις τι εν, cum Vulg.
4. 1. τετεξιν εις τον Ιησεν, cum Vulg.
8. 1. και πειθων περι της βασιλειας, cum Vulg.
9. 1. την ὁδον τε Θεε ενωπιον.
9. 1. τυραννε, nec addit τινος.
13. 2. ὁρκιζω ὑμας, cum Vulg.
14. 1. ησαν δε τινος υἱοι.
16. 2. και κατακυριευσας αμφοτερων ισχυσεν, cum Vulg.
18. 1. τας ἁμαρτιας ἁυτων.
25. 3. ἡ ευπορια ἡμιν εστι, cum Vulg.
27. 1. λογισθησεται, cum Vulg.
29. legendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 8. (ὁλη της συγχυσεως.)
33. 1. κατασεισας τῃ χειρι, cum Vulg.
35. 3. ανθρωπων, ὁς, cum Vulg.
35. 3. της μεγαλης Αρτεμιδος, cum Vulg.
40. scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 7. (αποδουναι λογον,) cum Vulg.
40. 5. περι της συστροφης ταυτης.

CAP. XX.

1. 2. και παρακαλεσας ασπασαμενος τε εξηλθε πορευεσθαι εις Μακεδ. cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

4. 1. συνειωσετο δε αυτω Σωσατρος.
4. 3. συν δε αυ)ω Σωπατρος πυρρ βερροιαιος, cum Vulg.
5. ponendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 5. (ουτοι προελθοντες) cum Vulg.
5. 3. ουτοι προσελθοντες.
7. 2. συνηγμενων ημων κλασαι, cum Vulg.
13. 2. εις την Θασον.
15. 1. τη τε ετερα επεβαλλομεν, cum Vulg.
15. 2. ει Σαμον· και τη εχομενη ηλθομεν εις Μιλητον, cum Vulg.
15. 1. εν τρογγυλεω.
16. 2. κεκρικι γαρ ὁ Παυλος, cum Vulg.
18. 1. ὡς δε παρεγενοντο ὁμοθυμαδον προς αυτον, cum Vulg.
18. 3. ἡμερας, ης επεβην, cum Vulg.
19. 1. ταπεινοφροσυνης και δακρυων, cum Vulg.
21. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (και πιστιν την εις τον Κυρ. &c.)
24. 1. αλλ' αυδενος τουτων λογον, cum Vulg.
24. 2. την ψυχην τιμιαν.
24. 2. non addunt μετα χαρας, cum Vulg.
26. 2. καθαρος ειμι απο του, cum Vulg.
28. 1. προσεχετε ἑαυτοις, cum Vulg.
29. 1. εγω οιδα, ὁτι εισελ. cum Vulg.
31. 2. νουθετων ἑνα ἑκαστον ὑμων, cum Vulg.
33. 1. deest vox (αδελφοι) cum Vulg.
33. 1. τῳ δυναμενῳ ὑμας εποικοδομησαι.
35. 4. μνημονευειν τε του λογου, &c, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXI.

3. 2. αναφαναντες δε την. MS. 1. εφεντες.
3. 1. και καθηλθομεν εις Τυρον.
4. 2. ανευροντες δε τους μαθητας.
8. 2. εξελθοντες οἱ περι τον Παυλον ηλθομεν εις.
11. 3. δησας ἑαυτου τους ποδας.
13. 2. τοτε απεκριθη ὁ Παυλος τι.
13. 1. τοτε απεκριθη ὁ Παυλος, και ειπε· τι. cum Vulg.
15. 1. παρασκευασαμενοι ανεβαινομεν, cum Vulg.
17. 3. ασμενως απεδεξαντο.
20. 1. μυριαδες εισιν εν τοις Ιουδαιοις, cum Vulg.
25. 1. desunt hæc verba (μηδεν τοιουτον τηρειν αυτους ει μη) cum Vulg.
33. 2. τοτε εγγισας ὁ χιλιαρχος, cum Vulg.
37. 4. εξεστι μοι ειπειν τι προς σε;
40. 2. τη χειρι τον λαον.
40. 4. προσεφωνει τη Ἑβραϊδι.

CAP. XXII.

5. ponendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 8. (ὡς και ὁ αρχιερευς μοι.)
5. impressi cum Vulg. ὡς ὁ αρχιερευς μοι.
9. 1. non legit, (και εμφοβοι εγενοντο) cum Vulg.
12. 4. ανηρ ευσεβης κατα τον.
15. 1. μαρτυρ αυτου, cum Vulg.
16. 2. το ονομα αυτου, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

20. 4. Στεφανε του μαρτυρος σε, cum Vulg.
20. 1. non legit (τη αναιρεσει αυτε) cum Vulg.
23. scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 6. (κραυγαζοντων δε αυτων.)
24. 3. εισαγεσθαι εις την παρεμβ. cum Vulg.
26. 2. λεγων, τι μελλεις ποιειν, cum Vulg.
27. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (ει συ Ῥωμαιος ει) cum Vulg.
30. 1. deest vox (απο των δεσμων) cum Vulg.
30. 3. και εκελευσε συνελθειν τας αρχιερεις, και παν το συνεδριον, και καταγαγ. cum Vulg.

CAP. XXIII.

6. 1. υἱος Φαρισαιων, cum Vulg.
9. 2. και ανασταντες τινες του γραμματεων τε μερες των Φαρισαιων.
9. 1. non legit (μη θεομαχωμεν) cum Vulg.
11. 1. θαρσει, nec addit, Παυλε, cum Vulg.
15. 2. ὁπως καταγαγη αυτον; cum Vulg.
17. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (τον νεανιαν τουτον) cum Vulg.
22. corrigendum in Regia mendum, et legendum (χιλιαρχος απελυσε τον νεανιαν) cum Vulg.
23. 1. στρατιωτας ενοπλες διακοσιας, cum Vulg.
27. 2. εξειλομην μαθων, cum Vulg.
28. 2. βουλομενος τε επιγνωναι, cum Vulg.
30. 2. εις τον ανδρα εσεσθαι εξ αυτων, εξ,
34. 2. αναγνες δε και επερωτησας, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXIV.

1. 3. μετα πρεσβυτερων τινων και ῥητορος. cum Vulg.
3. 2. και διορθωματων γινομενων, cum Vulg.
5. 2. ξασεις πασι, cum Vulg.
7. 3. μετα πολλης βιας εκ των χειρων ἡμων απηγαγε, κελευσας τας κατηγορες αυτου ερχεσθαι επι σε· παρ' ου.
10. 6. κριτην δικαιον τῳ εθνει.
13. 2. δυνανται σοι περι ὡν. cum Vulg.
15. 3. εσεσθαι δικαιων τε και αδικων, cum Vulg.
16. 4. εν τουτῳ και αυτος ασκω, cum Vulg.
16. 2. συνειδησιν εχειν, cum Vulg.
16. ponendum in Textu, ut legitur in MSS. 8. (και τας ανθρωπες δια παντος) cum Vulg.
19. 3. τινες δε απο της Ασι. cum Vulg.
19. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (ους εδει επι τε,) cum Vulg.
22. 2. ανεβαλετο δε αυτοις ὁ Φηλιξ, ακριβ. cum Vulg.
23. 2. τηρεισθαι αυτον, cum Vulg.
23. 2. ὑπηρετειν αυτῳ, η προς.
26. 2. non legunt (ὁπως λυση αυτον) cum Vulg.

CAP. XXV.

2. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (οἱ αρχιερεις και οἱ πρωτοι των) cum Vulg.
2. 2. ὁ, τε αρχιερευς και οἱ πρωτοι.

Ver. MSS.

5. 2. εν τω ανδρι ατοπον, cum Vulg.
5. 5. εν τω ανδρι τουτω, κατηγορειτωσαν.
6. 2. ἡμερας ὡ πλειους οκτω η δεκα, cum Vulg.
6. 5. ἡμερας πλειους η δεκα.
7. 2. περιεσησαν αυτον οἱ απο. cum Vulg.
7. legendum in Tex. Gr. ut MSS. 6. (αιτιαματα.)
7. 1. αιτιαματα καταφεροντες, α ουκ. cum Vulg.
8. 1. του Παυλου απολογουμενου, τὸι, cum Vulg.
8. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (ουτε εις Καισαρα ἡμαρτον,) cum Vulg.
8. 1. ουτε εις Καισαρα ἡμαρτον.
15. 2. κατ' αυτου καταδικην, cum Vulg.
16. 1. ανθρωπον, πριν η ὁ.
17. 2. συνελθοντων ουν ενθαδε. cum Vulg.
18. 2. ὑπενοουν εγω πονηρων. MS. 1. πονηραν, cum Vulg.
20. 1. εις την περι τουτων ζητησιν.
20. 1. ακουσαι· αυριον, φησιν ακουσῃ, &c. cum Vulg.
25. 2. εγω δε κατελαβομην, cum Vulg.
25. 2. αυτε δε τουτε, cum Vulg.
25. 2. πεμψειν. περι οὗ, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXVI.

3. 1. και ζητηματων επισαμενος.
3. 5. δεομαι, μακροθυμως, cum Vulg.
7. 2. εγκαλουμαι ὑπο Ιεδαιων, Βασιλευ, cum Vulg.
9. 4. πατερας ἡμων επαγγελιας, cum Vulg.
12. 1. εν οἱς πορευομενον, cum Vulg.
14. 3. παντων τε καταπ. cum Vulg.
14. 1. λαλουσαν μοι τῃ Ἑβραϊδι διαλ. cum Vulg.
15. 3. ὁ δε Κυριος ειπεν· Εγω ειμι, cum Vulg.
20. 5. απαγγελλω μετανοειν.
21. 1. συλλαβομενοι με οντα εν τω ἱερῳ.
22. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (μαρτυρομενος μικρω τε, &c.) cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

25. 2. ὁ δε Παυλος, Ου μαινομαι, φησι, cum Vulg.
29. 1. ὁ δε Παυλος, Ευξαιμην αν, cum Vulg.
29. 1. και εν ολιγῳ και εν μεγαλῳ, cum Vulg.
30. 1. και ανεσῃ ὁ βασιλευς και ὁ, cum Vulg.

CAP. XXVII.

2. 5. Ατραμυτηνῳ.
2. 3. μελλουτι πλειν.
3. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (τῃ τε ἑτερᾳ) cum Vulg.
5. 5. κατηλθομεν εις Μυρα,
12. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (βουλην αναχθηναι εκειθεν,) cum Vulg.
21. 2. πολλης τε ασιτιας, cum Vulg.
27. 1. οἱ ναυται προσανεχειν τινα.
34. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (μεταλαβειν τροφης)
34. 1. απο της κεφαλης απολειται, cum Vulg.
39. 2. εις ὁν εβουλευοντο, ει δυναιντο, cum Vulg.
43. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (αυτους του βουληματος.)

CAP. XXVIII.

1. 1. τοτε επεγνωμεν, ὁτι, cum Vulg.
3. 1. φρυγανων τι πληθος, cum Vulg.
3. 4. καθηψατο της χειρος αυτου.
8. 1. και επιθεις τας χειρας, cum Vulg.
16. 1. ὁτε δε ηλθομεν εις Ῥωμην, επετραπη τῳ Παυλῳ μενειν καθ' ἑαυτον, &c. cum Vulg.
17. 2. συγκαλεσασθαι αυτον τους οντας.
23. 2. πειθοντε αυτους περι του Ιησου, cum Vulg.
28. 1. τουτο το σωτηριον του Θεου, cum Vulg.
29. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (εν ἑαυτοις συζητησιν.)

EPIST. AD ROMANOS,

Ex Collatione Codicum Manuscriptorum viii, antiquorum.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

4. 1. του προορισθεντος, cum Vulg.
13. scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 8. (σχω και εν ὑμιν) cum Vulg.
16. 1. το ευαγγελιον· δυναμις γαρ, cum Vulg.
16. 1. Ιουδαιῳ τε και Ἑλληνι.
24. 1. διο παρεδωκεν αυτους, cum Vulg.
32. 2. του Θεου επιγινωσκοντες.
32. 1. ου μονον αυτα ποιουντες, αλλα και συνευδοκουντες τοις.

CAP. II.

2. 1. οιδαμεν γαρ, ιστι το, cum Vulg.
5. 1. και αποκαλυψεως δικαιοκρισιας του Θεου, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

7 scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και αφθαρσιαν ζητουσι.)
17. 2. ει δε συ Ιουδαιος, cum Vulg.
17. corrigendum in Regiamendum, et scribendum ut MSS. 8. και καυχασαι εν Θεῳ.

CAP. III.

2. 2. πρωτον μεν ὁτι επιστ. cum Vulg.
10. 3. ὁτι ουκ εστι δικαιος, cum Vulg.
28. 1. λογιζομεθα γαρ, cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

16. 1. το ἑαυτου σωμα νενεκρωμενον, cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

Ver.	MSS.
2.	1.	εσχηκαμεν εις την χαριν ταυτην.
6.	1.	ειγε Χριστος οντων ἡμων.
11.	4.	αλλα και καυχωμεθα εν τῳ, cum Vulg.

CAP. VI.

12.	2.	εις το ὑπακουειν ταις επιθυμιαις αυτου, cum Vulg.
17.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (ὑπηκουσατε δε εκ καρδιας) cum Vulg.

CAP. VII.

4.	1.	εις το γενεσθαι ὑμας ἑτερῳ τῳ εκ, cum Vulg.
7.	6.	ερουμεν; ὁ νομος ἁμαρτια, cum Vulg.
9.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ἡ ἁμαρτια ανεζησεν,) cum Vulg.
20.	4.	ει δε ὁ ϰ θελω, τουτο ποιω, cum Vulg.
22.	1.	τῳ νομῳ τϰ νοος κατα,
25.	1.	χαρις τῳ Θεῳ δια Ιησϰ Χριϛϰ.
25.	1.	χαρις δε τῳ Θεῳ.

CAP. VIII.

6.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (το γαρ φρονημα της.)
11.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (δια το ενοικουν αυτϰ Πνευμα εν ὑμιν) cum Vulg.
11.	1.	δια του ενοικουντος αυτου Πνευματος εν ὑμιν.
23.	1.	και αυτοι εν ἑαυτοις στεναζομεν.
23.	1.	ϛεναζομεν, cum Vulg.
26.	1.	τῃ ασθενειᾳ ἡμων, cum Vulg.
28.	1.	συνεργει ὁ Θεος εις αγαθον.
34.	1.	Χριστος Ιησ ὁ αποθανων, cum Vulg.
34.	1.	μαλλον δε εγερθεις.
34.	1.	ὁς εϛιν εν δεξιᾳ τϰ Θεου, cum Vulg.

CAP. IX.

4.	1.	και ἡ διαθηκη, cum Vulg.
23.	1.	ἱνα γνωριζῃ τον πλουτον, cum Vulg.
23.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (και καθως προειρηκεν Ησαϊας) cum Vulg.
32.	1.	αλλ' ὡς εξ εργων· προσεκοψαν γαρ, cum Vulg.

CAP. X.

1.	1.	ὑπερ αυτων εις σωτηριαν, cum Vulg.
3.	1.	και την ιδιαν ζητουντες ϛησαι, cum Vulg.
5.	1.	ζησεται εν αυτῃ, cum Vulg.
8.	1.	αλλα τι λεγει ἡ Γραφη; Εγγυς σου, cum Vulg.
11.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ἡ Γραφη. Πας ὁ πιϛευων) cum Vulg.
17.	1.	δια ῥηματος Χριϛου, cum Vulg.

CAP. XI.

Ver.	MSS.
2.	1.	κατα του Ισραηλ. Κυριε, τους, cum Vulg.
3.	1.	τα θυσιαϛηρια σου κατεσκ. cum Vulg.
6.	1.	ει δε εξ εργων ουκετι χαρις· επει το εργον ουκετι εϛι χαρις.

CAP. XII.

20.	1.	αλλ' εαν πεινᾳ ὁ εχθρ. cum Vulg.

CAP. XIII.

1.	1.	αἱ δε ϛσαι ὑπο του Θεου τεταγ. cum Vulg.
3.	1.	φοβος τῳ αγαθῳ εργῳ, αλλα τῳ κακῳ.
9.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (το γαρ, Ου μοιχευσεις, ου φονευσεις, ου κλεψεις, ου ψευδομαρτυρησεις, ουκ επιθυμησεις,) cum Vulg.
10.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (κακον ουκ εργαζεται.)
10.	1.	κακον ου κατεργαζεται.
11.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (νυν γαρ εγγυτερον) cum Vulg.

CAP. XIV.

6.	1.	non legit (και ὁ μη φρονων την ἡμεραν Κυριῳ ου φρονει) cum Vulg.
11.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (παν γονυ, και πασα γλωσσα, &c.) cum Vulg.
13.	1.	τῳ αδελφῳ εις σκανδαλον.
14.	5.	εν Κυριῳ Ιησου, cum Vulg.
15.	1.	ει γαρ δια βρωμα, cum Vulg.
18.	1.	ὁ γαρ εν τουτῳ δουλευων, cum Vulg.

CAP. XV.

4.	1.	ὁσα γαρ εγραφη, παντα εις την ἡμετεραν διδασκαλιαν εγραφη.
8.	1.	λεγω γαρ, cum Vulg.
14.	2.	και αλληλους νεθετειν, cum Vulg.
17.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (τα προς τον Θεον.)
18.	1.	ϛ γαρ τολμω τι λαλειν, cum Vulg.
18.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (εθνων λογῳ, και εργῳ) cum Vulg.
19.	1.	πνευματος. ὡϛε μϛ.
20.	1.	οὑτω δε φιλοτιμεμαι.
24.	1.	non legit (ελευσομαι προς ὑμας) cum Vulg.
29.	1.	ευλογιας Χριϛϰ ελευσομαι.
31.	1.	και ἡ δωροφορια μϛ ἡ εν Ιερουσαλημ, cum Vulg.

CAP. XVI.

3.	4.	Πρισκαν και, cum Vulg.
15.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (Νηρεα και την.)
16.	2.	αἱ εκκλησιαι πασαι τϰ Χριϛου, cum Vulg.

EPIST. I. AD CORINTHIOS.

CAP. I.

Ver.	MSS.
9.		ponendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 8. (του Υιου αυτου Ιησου Χριϛ τ̃ Κυριϛ ἡμων) cum Vulg.
18.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ὁ λογος γαρ ὁ τ̃ σαυρου.)
22.	2.	σημεια αιτουσι, cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

2.	2.	ὑμιν το μυϛηριον του Θεου.
4.	4.	ουκ εν πειθοι.
9.	1.	ὁσα ἡτοιμασεν ὁ Θεος.
11.	2.	και τα του Θεου οιδεις εγνωκ.
13.	1.	ουκ εν διδακτικοις. et mox, αλλ' εν διδακτικοις.
13.	2.	αλλ' εν διδακτοις πνευματος, πνευματικοις, cum Vulg.
13.	1.	πνευματικως πνευματικα.

CAP. III.

3.	1.	και εριϛ, ουχι σαρκικοι εϛε; cum Vulg.
4.	1.	ουχι ανθρωποι εϛε; cum Vulg.
5.	1.	τι ουν εϛιν Απολλως; τι δε εϛι Παυλος; Διακονοι, δι ὡν.
13.	2.	το πυρ αυτο δοκιμασει.

CAP. IV.

6.	1.	ὑπερ ἁ γεγραπται.
17.	2.	τας εν Χριϛῳ Ιησου, cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

1.	1.	ουδε εν τοις εθνεσιν, ὡϛε, cum Vulg.
2.	2.	ἱνα αρθῃ εκ.
3.	1.	εγω μεν ὡς απων.
7.	1.	εκκαθαρατε την παλαιαν ζυμ. cum Vulg.
10.	1.	ου παντως τοις πορνοις, cum Vulg.
11.		ponendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (η πορνος, η πλεονεκτης, η ειδωλολατρης, η λοιδορος, η μεθυσος, η αρπαξ) cum Vulg.
12.	1.	τι γαρ μοι τ̃ϛ εξω κρι. cum Vulg.
13.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ὁ Θεος κρινει) cum Vulg.
13.	2.	εξαρατε τον πονηρον, cum Vulg.

CAP. VI.

2.	2.	η ουκ οιδατε, ὁτι, cum Vulg. iidem MSS. κρινουσι.
5.	1.	ὑμων λεγω.
8.	2.	και τουτο αδελφους, cum Vulg.
14.	1.	και ἡμας εξηγειρε δια.
20.	1.	non legit (και εν τῳ πνευματι ὑμων ἁϛινα εϛι του Θεου) cum Vulg.

CAP. VII.

3.	1.	την οφειλην αποδιδοτω, cum Vulg.
5.	1.	επι το αυτο ητε, ἱνα.
14.	1.	ἡ γυνη ἡ απιϛος εν τῳ αδελφῳ.
17.	1.	ἑκαϛῳ ὡς εμεριϛεν ὁ Θεος.
33.	1.	τῃ γυναικι, και μεμεριϛαι, cum Vulg.
35.	5.	προς το ευσχημον και ευπροσεδρον,
37.	2.	εν τῃ καρδια ἁυτου, μη. cum Vulg.
38.	1.	ὡϛε και ὁ γαμιζων την παρθενον ἑαυτου, καλως ποιησει· και ὁ μη λαμιζων, κρειϛσον ποιησει.
39.	1.	δεδεται εφ' ὁσον.
40.	2.	δοκω γαρ κἀγω.

CAP. VIII.

4.	1.	και ὁτι ουδεις Θεος ει μη εις, cum Vulg.
7.	1.	τῃ συνηθειᾳ του ειδωλου. MSS. 1. τινες γαρ τῃ συνηθειᾳ.

CAP. IX.

8.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ταυτα λαλω;)
10.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (οφειλει ὁ αροτριων.) cum Vulg.
10.	1.	και ὁ αλοων επ' ελπιδι του μετεχειν, cum Vulg.
13.	1.	τα εκ του ἱερου εσθιουσιν, cum Vulg.
18.	1.	το ευαγγελιον, εις το μη καταχ. cum Vulg.
21.	2.	τοις ὑπο νομον ὡς ὑπο μη ων αυτος ὑπο νομον, ἱνα τους, cum Vulg.
23.	2.	παντα δε ποιω δια το, cum Vulg.

CAP. X.

7.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ὁ λαος φαγειν και πιειν.)
9.	2.	παντα τυπικως συνεβαινον, cum Vulg.
13.	3.	δυνατος δε ὁ Θεος, ὁς ουκ.
14.		scribendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 5. (διοπερ αγαπητοι μ̃ε) cum Vulg.
16.	1.	το ποτηριον της ευχαριϛιας.
16.	1.	εχι κοινωνια του Χριϛ̃ εϛιν; et mox, εχι κοινωνια τ̃ Χριϛ̃ εϛιν,
19.	1.	ὁτι ειδωλοθυτον τι εϛιν, η ὁτι ειδωλον τι εϛιν; cum Vulg.
28.	1.	τ̃το ἱεροθυτον εϛι.
28.	1.	non addit (τ̃ε γαρ Κυριου ἡ γη, και το πληρωμα αυτης) cum Vulg.
30.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ει εγω χαριτι) cum Vulg.

CAP. XI.

4.	1.	καλυμμα κατα κεφαλης εχων.
14.	1.	ουδε ἡ φυϛις αυτη διδασκει, cum Vulg.
22.	1.	επαινω ὑμας εν τ̃τῳ, cum Vulg.
26.	1.	και το ποτηριον πινητε, cum Vulg.
31.	1.	ει δε ἑαυτους, cum Vulg.

CAP. XII.

Ver.	MSS.
2.	1.	ὡς ανηγεσθε απαγ. cum Vulg.
3.	1.	αναθεμα Ιησες, et mox, Κυριος Ιησους, cum Vulg.
9.	1.	ἑτερῳ πιεις εν τῳ, cum Vulg. mox, ιαματων εν τῳ ἑνι πνε. cum Vulg.
13.	1.	και παντες ἐν πνευμα εϖοτισθ.
24.	1.	τῳ ὑϛερουμενῳ τι ϖερισσοτερον δους.
31.	1.	τα χαρισματα τα μειζονα.

CAP. XIII.

4.	1.	ἡ αγαϖη ϛ ζηλοι, ϛ περϖερευεται, cum Vulg.
5.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (ϛ ζητει το ἑαυτης)
5.	1.	ϛ ζητει τα ἑαυτης, cum Vulg.
5.	1.	ϛ ζητει το μη ἑαυτης.
9.	1.	εκ μερους γαρ γιν. cum Vulg.
10.	1.	το τελειον, το εκ μερους, cum Vulg.
12.	1.	αρτι ὡς δι' εσοπτρου.

CAP. XIV.

7.	1.	διαϛολην φθογγου μη.
10.	1.	και εδεν αφωνον, cum Vulg.
19.	2.	λογες τῳ νοϊ μου λαλησαι, cum Vulg.
21.	1.	χειλεσίν ἑτερων.
25.	2.	ϖαντων. τα κρυϖτα της καρδ. cum Vulg.
29.		ponendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ϖροφηται δε δυο ἡ τρεις) cum Vulg.
31.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (καθ' ἑνα ϖαντες ϖροφητευειν) cum Vulg.
32.	1.	και πνευμα προφητων.
34.	2.	αἱ γυναικες εν ταις, cum Vulg.

Ver.	MSS.
39.		scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 5. (ὡϛε αδελφοι ζηλουτε) cum Vulg.
40.	1.	παντα δε ευχημονως, cum Vulg.

CAP. XV.

6.	1.	τινες δε εκοιμηθησαν, cum Vulg.
8.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (ὡ σϖερει τῳ εκτρωματι.)
8.	3.	ὡ σϖερει τῳ εκτρ.
10.	1.	αλλ' ἡ χαρις του Θεου συν εμοι, cum Vulg.
15.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (δε και ψευδομαρτυρες του Θεου) cum Vulg.
20.	1.	non legit (εγενετο) cum Vulg.
29.	2.	καυχησιν αδελφοι ἡν, cum Vulg.
34.	2.	ὑμων λαλω.
44.	1.	ει εϛι σωμα ψυχικον, εϛι και πνευματικον, cum Vulg.
47.	1.	ὁ δευτερος ανθρωϖος εξ ερανου.
49.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (φορεσωμεν και) cum Vulg.
55.	1.	ϖου σε, Θανατε, το νικος; ϖου σου, Θανατε, το κεντρον; cum Vulg.

CAP. XVI.

2.	1.	κατα μιαν σαββατου, cum Vulg.
2.	1.	ὁ, τι αν ευοδωθῃ.
3.	1.	ϖαραγενωμαι ϖρος ὑμας, ους.
7.	1.	ελϖιζω γαρ χρονον, cum Vulg.
22.	3.	τον Κυριον ἡμων Ιησουν Χριϛον, et mox, του Κυριου ὑμων, cum Vulg.

EPIST. II. AD CORINTHIOS.

CAP. I.

Ver.	MSS.
5.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (δια του Χριϛου.)
8.	1.	της γενομενης εν τῃ Ασια, cum Vulg.
12.	1.	και ουκ εν σοφια, cum Vulg.
15.	2.	ἱνα δευτεραν χαραν εχητε. MS. 1. ἱνα και δευτεραν χαριν εχητε.
16.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (διελθειν εις Μακεδονιαν) cum Vulg.
17.	2.	τϛτο ουν βουλομενος, cum Vulg.
18.	1.	ὁ ϖρος ὑμας ουκ εϛι ναι και ου.
20.	1.	εν αυτῳ το ναι· δια και δι' αυτου το αμην τῳ Θεῳ, cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

3.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ἱνα μη ελθων λυϖην εχω αφ'.)
3.		impressi et Vulg. legunt (ἱνα μη ελθων λυϖην εϖι λυϖῃ σχω.)
16.	2.	εκ θανατου εις θανατον, mox, εκ ζωης εις ζωην.

Ver.	MSS.
17.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (ου γαρ εσμεν, ὡϛ οἱ ϖολλοι,) cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

1.	2.	ϖρος ὑμας η εξ ὑμων; ἡ εϖιϛολη, cum Vulg.
4.	1.	και εγγεγραμμενη ου μελανι, cum Vulg.
9.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 6. (ϖεριϛσευει ἡ διακονια) cum Vulg.
14.	1.	αχρι γαρ της σημερον ἡμερας το αυτο, cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

6.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 6. (εικων του Θεου. ου γαρ ἑαυτους) cum Vulg.
10.	2.	την νεκρωσιν του Ιησου, cum Vulg.
14.	1.	ὁ εγειρας τον Ιησουν, cum Vulg.
14.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (δια Ιησε εγερει) cum Vulg.
16.	5.	αλλ' ὁ εσωθεν ανακαινουται.

CAP. V.

Ver.	MSS.
5.	2.	ὁ δους ἡμιν τον, cum Vulg.
10.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ἑκαστος τα δια του σωματος.)
10.		impressi et Vulg. Lat. legunt τα ιδια του σωματος.
12.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (καυχηματος ὑπερ ἡμων.)
15.	2.	τῳ ὑπερ παντων αποθανοντι. MS. 1. τῳ ὑπερ αυτων παντων.
16.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (αλλα νυν ουκετι γινωσκομεν) cum Vulg.
19.	2.	ὡς ὁτι ὁ Θεος ην.

CAP. VI.

1.	2.	συνεργουντες δε παρακαλουμεν, cum Vulg.
11.	1.	ἡ γαρ καρδια ἡμων.
41.	1.	η τις κοινωνια φωτι, cum Vulg.

CAP. VII.

8.	1.	ει δε και μετεμελομην, Βλεπω, ὁτι, &c.
11.		scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (κατειργασατο ὑμιν.)
11.	1.	κατειργασατο εν ὑμιν, cum Vulg.
11.	2.	ἁγνες ειναι τῳ πραγματι, cum Vulg.
12.		scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 7. (την σπουδην ὑμων την ὑπερ ἡμων ενωπιον του Θεου,) cum Vulg.
12.	1.	την ὑπερ ἡμων προς ἡμας.
12.	1.	την σπουδην ἡμων την ὑπερ ὑμων προς ὑμας.
14.	2.	εν αληθεια εγενηθη.

CAP. VIII.

4.	3.	non legunt (δεξασθαι ἡμας) cum Vulg.
12.	1.	καθο εαν εχῃ, ευπροσδεκτος, cum Vulg.
18.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ου ὁ επαινος εν τῳ ευαγγ.)
19.	1.	εν τῃ χαριτι ταυτῃ τῃ.
21.	1.	προνοεμεν γαρ καλα, cum Vulg.

Ver.	MSS.
22.	1.	πεποιθησει δε πολλῃ τῃ.
24.	1.	ὑπερ ὑμων, ενδειξασθε εις.

CAP. IX.

4.	1.	non addit (της καυχησεως) cum Vulg.
5.	1.	την προεπηγγελμενην, cum Vulg.
10.	1.	χορηγησει, και πληθυνει τον σπορον ὑμων, και αυξησει, cum Vulg.
15.	1.	χαρις τῳ Θεῳ, cum Vulg.

CAP. X.

7.	1.	ει τις δοκει πεποιθεναι.
7.	1.	παλιν εφ' ἑαυτου, cum Vulg.
9.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (ινα μη δοξω.)
9.	1.	ἱνα δε μη δοξω, cum Vulg.

CAP. XI.

6.	1.	φανερωσαντες.
13.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ψευδαποστολοι.)
31.	3.	του Κυριου ἡμων Ιησου, cum Vulg.
32.	1.	non addit, θελων, cum Vulg.

CAP. XII.

1.	1.	ου συμφερον μεν, ελευσομαι δε καισις.
11.	1.	non addit, καυχωμενος, cum Vulg.
12.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (κατειργασθῃ εν.)
14.	5.	ιδου τριτον ἑτοιμως.
14.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και ου καταναρκησω ὑμων) cum Vulg.

CAP. XIII.

1.	4.	τριτον ερχομαι προς ὑμας.
2.	1.	και απων νυν τοις προημαρτηκοσι, cum Vulg.
4.	1.	και γαρ και ἡμεις ασθενουμεν, cum Vulg.
4.	1.	non addit, εις ὑμας.
5.	6.	ει μη τι αδοκιμοι.
9.	1.	χαιρομεν γαρ, ὁτι, cum Vulg.
11.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (και ὁ Θεος της αγαπης και ειρηνης.)

EPIST. AD GALAT.

CAP. I.

Ver.	MSS.
4.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (ὑπερ των ἁμαρτιων ἡμων) cum Vulg.
9.	6.	ειτις ὑμας ευαγγελιζεται.
10.	1.	ει ετι ανθρωποις ηρεσκον, cum Vulg.
11.	1.	γνωριζω γαρ ὑμιν, cum Vulg.
15.	1.	ευδοκησεν ὁ αφορισας με, cum Vulg.
17.	1.	εδε απηλθον εις Ιερ.
18.	1.	ἱστορησαι Κηφαν.
21.	1.	ὁτι ηλθαν εις τα κλιματα.

CAP. II.

Ver.	MSS.
6.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ανθρωπου ου λαμβανει) cum Vulg.
7.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (Πετρος της περιτομης.)
10.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (μονον των πτωχων.)
11.	2.	ὁτε δε ηλθε Κηφας.
13.	1.	αυτῳ οἱ λοιποι Ιουδαιοι, cum Vulg.
13.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ὡστε και Βαρναβας) cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

14. 1. ειπον τῳ Κηφᾳ εμπροσθεν, cum Vulg.
16. 1. ειδοτες δε, ὁτι ου δικαιουται, cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

1. 3. εβασκηνε τῃ αληθειᾳ μη.
11. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ὁτι δε εν νομῳ ουδεις.)
12. 1. αυτα ζησεται, cum Vulg.
15. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (αδελφοι κατα ανθρωπον λεγω) cum Vulg.
16. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (ου λεγει, και τοις σπερμασιν) cum Vulg.
16. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και τῳ σπερματι σου, ὁς) cum Vulg.
17. 2. non addunt εις Χριστον, cum Vulg.
19. 1. χαριν εστεθη, cum Vulg.
21. 1. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (οντως εν εκ νομου ην) cum Vulg.
22. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ἡ γραφη τα παντα.)
23. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (προ του δε ελθειν την) cum Vulg.
26. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (παντες γαρ υἱοι)
29. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ει δε ὑμεις Χριστε) cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

4. corrigendum in Tex. mendum Regiæ, et scribendum ut MSS. 8. (γενομενος ὑπο νομον) cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

6. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (ὁτι δε εστε υἱοι) cum Vulg.
7. 1. και κληρονομος δια Θεου, cum Vulg.
14. 1. και τον πειρασμον ὑμων εν τῃ σαρκι μου, cum Vulg.
15. 1. που ουν ην, cum Vulg.
17. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ἱνα αυτους ζηλωτε.)
23. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (αλλ' ὁ μεν εκ) cum Vulg.
24. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (αὑται γαρ εισι δυο διαθηκαι.)
25. 3. το δε Αγαρ Σινα.
26. 1. μητηρ ἡμων, cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

3. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (τον νομον ποιησαι) cum Vulg.
3. 1. τον νομον πληρωσαι.
14. scribend. in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (ὡς σεαυτον) cum Vulg.
18. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ουκ εστε ὑπο νομον) cum Vulg.
21. legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ἁ προλεγω ὑμιν) cum Vulg.
26. 3. προκαλεμενοι, cum Vulg.

CAP. VI.

1. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (εαν και προληφθῃ) cum Vulg.
2. 1. αναπληρωσετε, cum Vulg.

EPIST. AD EPHES.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

1. 1. τοις ἁγιοις πασι τοις, cum Vulg.
6. 1. ἡς εχαριτωσεν.
20. 2. και καθισας εν δεξιᾳ ἁυτου εν τοις ουρανοις.
20. 1. και καθισας αυτον εν δεξιᾳ εαυτου εν τοις επουρ.

CAP. II.

1. 2. τοις παραπτωμασι και ταις επιθυμιαις.
12. 1. και ξενοι των επαγγελιων της διαθηκης, ελπιδα.
17. 1. και ειρηνην τοις εγγυς, cum Vulg.
19. 1. αλλ' εστε συμπολιται των, cum Vulg.
21. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (εν ῳ πασα οικδομη.)

CAP. III.

1. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ὑπερ ὑμων των πιστων.)
6. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (ἐν πνευματι. ειναι τα) cum Vulg.
7. 1. ου εγενομην εγω διακ.

Ver. MSS.

8. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (παντων ἁγιων εδοθῃ) cum Vulg.
15. 2. εν ουρανῳ και επι.
19. 1. ἱνα πληρωθῃ παν το πληρωμα.
21. 2. και εν Χριστῳ Ιησου, cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

4. 2. καθως εκληθητε, cum Vulg.
6. 1. και δια παντων εν πασιν. ἑνι δε.
7. 3. εδοθῃ χαρις.
27. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (μηδε διδοτε.)
28. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (το αγαθον ταις χερσιν.)
28. 1. το αγαθον ταις ιδιαις χερσιν.
32. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (καθως και ὁ Θεος εν Χριστῳ εχαρισατο ἡμιν) cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

5. corrigendum in Tex. ex MSS. 3. cum Vulg. (τουτο γαρ ιστε γινωσκοντες.)

Ver. MSS.

5. 3. ὁ εϛιν ειδωλολατρης, cum Vulg.
9. 1. ὁ γαρ καρπος του φωτος, cum Vulg.
15. 2. ϐλεπετε ουν ακριϐως πως περιπατειτε.
23. 1. της εκκλησιας, αυτος, Σωτηρ του σωματος, cum Vulg.
28. 1. ουτως οφειλεσι και οἱ ανδρες, cum Vulg.
29. 2. καθως και ὁ Χριϛος την, cum Vulg.

CAP. VI.

Ver. MSS.

2. 1. και την μητερα σου, cum Vulg.
9. legatur in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (ὁτι και ὑμων αυτων ὁ Κυριος.)
9. 1. ὁτι και ὑμων και αυτων ὁ Κυριος, cum Vulg.
16. 2. εν ϖασιν αναλαϐοντες, cum Vulg.

EPIST. AD PHILIPP.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

8. 2. μαρτυς γαρ μοι εϛιν ὁ, cum Vulg.
11. 1. δικαιοσυνης δια Ιησου Χριϛου, cum Vulg.
14. 4. αφοϐως τον λογον λαλειν.
23. 1. πολλῳ γαρ κρειϲϲον. MS. 1. ϖολλῳ γαρ μαλλον κρειϲϲον.
26. 2. ὑμων ϖερισϲευσῃ εν.

CAP. II.

4. 1. ἑκαϛος ϲκοπουντος, αλλα και τα ἑτερων.
5. 1. φρονειτε εν ὑμιν, cum Vulg.
12. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ὑπηκουϲατε, μη ὡς εν τῃ παρϱϲια μϵ μονον, αλλα νυν πολλῳ μαλλον) cum Vulg.
14. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (χωρις γογυϲμων και διαλογιϲμων) cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

19. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ἱνα κἀγω ευψυχω) cum Vulg.
26. 3. ϖαντας ὑμας ιδειν.

CAP. III.

3. 1. οἱ ϖνευματι Θεῳ λατρευοντες, cum Vulg.
11. 2. ει την ἐξαναϛασιν την εκ νεκρων, cum Vulg.
12. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (ὑπερ τϵ Χριϛϵ Ιησϵ) cum Vulg.
13. 5. ϖπω λογιζομαι κατειλ.

CAP. IV.

3. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ναι ερωτω και ϭε) cum Vulg.
13. 1. εν τῳ ενδυναμουντι μϵ. ϖλην, cum Vulg.
23. 1. Χριϛϵ μετα του ϖνευματος ὑμων. αμην, cum Vulg.

EPIST. AD COLOSS.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

2. 4. τοις εν Κολαϲϲαις.
7. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (καθως και εμαθετε.)
7. 1. καθως εμαθετε.
10. 5. τῃ επιγνωϭει του Θεου.
12. 1. ϖῳ καλεϲαντι ἡμας. MS. 1. τῳ καλεϲαντι και ἱκανωϭαντι.
14. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (την απολυτρωϭιν δια του αιματος αυτου, την αφεϭιν) cum Vulg.
15. 1. ϖρωτοτοκος της κτιϭεως.
18. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (και αυτος εϛιν ἡ κεφαλη.)
20. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (αποκαταλλαξαι τα ϖαντα.)
26. 2. γενεων, ὁ νυν εφανερωθη.
27. corrigendum in Tex. Regia mendum, et legendum (τϵ μυϛηριϵ τϵτϵ,) ut MSS. 8.

Ver. MSS.

28. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (και διδαϭκοντες ϖαντα ανθρωϖον εν ϖαϭῃ ϭοφια, ἱνα παραϭηϭωμεν ϖαντα ανθρωϖον τελειον εν Χριϛῳ Ιηϭου) cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

2. 1. ϭυμβιϐαϭθεντες, cum Vulg.
2. 1. τϵ Θϵ και Πατρος τϵ Χριϛϵ.
11. 1. εν τῃ απεκδυϭει τϵ ϭωματος της ϭαρκος, cum Vulg.
13. 1. ϭυνεζωϖοιηϭεν ϭυν αυτῳ, cum Vulg.
15. 1. ϑριαμϐευϭας αυτας εν.
21. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (μη ἁψῃ, μηδε γευϭῃ, μηδε ϑιγῃς) cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

13. 1. και ὁ Κυριος εχαριϭατο, cum Vulg.
15. 1. και ἡ ειρηνη τϵ Χριϛου, cum Vulg.
16. 1. εν ταις καρδιαις ὑμων τῳ Θεῳ, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

18. 6. τοις ιδιοις ανδρασιν.
21. 1. οἱ πατερες μη παροργιζετε τα.
24. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ειδοτες ὁτι απο Κυριε) cum Vulg.
24. 5. ληψεσθε την ανταποδοσιν.

CAP. IV.

Ver. MSS.

1. 1. Κυριον εν ερανῳ, cum Vulg.
3. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ανοιξῃ ἡμιν θυραν) cum Vulg.
12. 1. τελειοι και πεπληροφορημενοι.

EPIST. I. AD THESSALON.

Ver. MSS.

CAP. I.

7. 1. τυπον πασι, cum Vulg.
7. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (και εν τῃ Αχαϊᾳ) cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

8. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (αγαπητοι ἡμιν) cum Vulg.
12. 3. εις το περιπατειν ὑμας.
15. 1. ανθρωποις εναντιεμενων, cum Vulg.
20. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ἡ δοξα ἡμων και ἡ χαρα.)

CAP. III.

3. 1. τε μηδενα σαινεσθαι, cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

Ver. MSS.

1. 2. ἱνα καθως παρελαβετε, &c. περισσευητε μαλλον.
9. 1. ε χρειαν εχομεν γραφειν, cum Vulg.
11. 2. ταις χερσιν ὑμων, cum Vulg.
13. 2. περι των κοιμωμενων.
18. 1. εν τοις λογοις τετοις του Πνευματος.

CAP. V.

1. 2. παντες γαρ ὑμεις υἱοι φωτος, cum Vulg.
15. 1. διωκετε εις αλληλς και εις, cum Vulg.
21. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (παντα δε δοκιμαζετε) cum Vulg.
24. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (ὁς και ποιησει. αδελφοι προσευχεσθε) cum Vulg.

EPIST. II. AD THESSALON.

Ver. MSS.

CAP. I.

8. 1. εν φλογι πυρος, cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

2. 2. ἡ ἡμερα του Κυριου, cum Vulg.
4. 3. τε Θεε καθισαι.

Ver. MSS.

16. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και δους παρακλησιν αιωνιαν) cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

4. 1. και επωιησατε και εποιησετε.

EPIST. I. AD TIM.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

1. 3. κατ' επιταγην Θεου Σωτηρος ἡμων, και Κυριε Ιησε Χριςε.
1. 2. κατ' επιταγην του Σωτηρος ἡμων Θεε και.
2. 2. απο Θεε Πατρος, και Χριςε Ιησε τε, cum Vulg.
9. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (πατρολοιαις και μητραλοιαις.)
12. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (τῳ ενδυναμωσαντι με Χριςῳ Ιησε) cum Vulg.
16. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (πρωτῳ ενδειξηται) cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

Ver. MSS.

5. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (ανθρωπος Χριςς Ιησες) cum Vulg.
9. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (μη εν πλεγμασιν, η χρυσῳ) cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

12. 1. τεκνων καλων.

CAP. IV.

6. 1. και τῃ καλῃ διδασκαλια, ῃ, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.
16. 1. προσεχε σεαυτω και τη, cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

4. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (τουτο γαρ εστιν αποδεκτον) cum Vulg.
14. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (βελομαι δε νεωτερας γαμειν.)

Ver. MSS.
14. 2. βελομαι ουν νεωτερας, cum Vulg.

CAP. VI.

12. 3. εις ην και εκληθης, και.
16. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (ω τιμη και κρατος) cum Vulg.

EPIST. II. AD TIM.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.
4. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (ινα χαρας πληρωθω.)

CAP. II.

14. 1. ενωπιον τυ Θευ.

CAP. III.

9. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 6. (αλλ' ου προκοψουσιν επι πλειον) cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.
14. 2. εν οις εμαθες και οις επιστευθης) cum Vulg.
16. 1. θεοπνευστος εστιν ωφελιμος, cum Vulg.
17. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (εξηρτυσμενος) cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

13. 2. μαλιστα δε τας μεμβρανας, cum Vulg.
19. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (Πρισκαν και Ακυλαν) cum Vulg.

EPIST. AD TIT.

Ver. MSS.
10. 2. εισι γαρ πολλοι ανυποτακτοι.

EPIST. AD PHILEM.

Ver. MSS.
6. 5. εν επιγνωσει παντος αγαθου.
7. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (χαριν γαρ εχομεν.)
7. 1. χαραν γαρ εχομεν, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.
11. 1. νυνι δε και σοι και εμοι ευχρ. cum Vulg.
23. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 6. (ο συναιχμαλωτος μου εν Χριστω Ιησου) cum Vulg.

EPIST. AD HEBR.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.
2. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (επ' εσχατου των ημερων) cum Vulg.
3. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (εν δεξια της μεγαλοσυνης) cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

7. 7. desunt hæc verba (και κατεστησας αυτον επι τα εργα των χειρων σου.)

CAP. III.

Ver. MSS.
10. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (και ειπον, αει.)

CAP. IV.

2. scribend. in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (καθαπερ κακεινοι) cum Vulg.
7. 2. καθως προειρηκεν, σημερον, εαν.
8. corrigendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 8. (μετα ταυτα ημερας) cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

Ver. MSS.

4. 4. αλλ' ὁ καλουμενος ὑπο τ̃ Θε̃, cum Vulg.
12. 1. γαλακτος, ᾳ σερας τροφης, cum Vulg.

CAP. VI.

7. 2. τον επ' αυτην πολλακις.

CAP. VII.

1. apponendus articulus in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (τ̃ Θε̃ τ̃ ὑψισ̃.)
17. 2. μαρτυρειται καρ.
25. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (εις το εντυγχανειν ὑπερ αυτων.)
27. 1. ἑαυτον προσενεγκας.

CAP. VIII.

6. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (τετευχε λειτ̃ργιας, ὁσῳ και χρειττονος) cum Vulg.
11. scribendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 5. (ἑκαστος τον πλησιον αὐτ̃, και ἑκαστος) cum Vulg.
12. 1. και των ἁμαρτιων αυτων ᾳ μη μνησθω ετι, cum Vulg.

CAP. IX.

1. 2. ειχε μεν ουν ἡ πρωτη σκηνη.
1. 2. ειχε μεν ουν ἡ πρωτη δικαιωματα.
1. 1. ειχε μεν ουν ἡ πρωτη διαθηκη.
8. emendandum in Tex. et legendum (μηπω πεφανερωσθαι) ut MSS. 8.
9. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (εις τον καιρον τον ενεστηκοτα) cum Vulg.
11. 1. των γενομενων αγαθων.
14. 4. ὁς δια Πνευματος Ἁγιᾳ, cum Vulg.
19. corrigendum in Textu, cum artic. (παντι τῳ λαῳ) ut MSS. 8.
25. 2. εις τα ἁγια των ἁγιων καθ' ενιαυτον.
28. 2. απεκδεχομενοις δια πιστεως εις Σωτηριαν.

CAP. X.

2. 1. επει κα'ν επαυσατο.
9. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (τ̃ ποιησαι ὁ Θεος το θελημα σου. αναιρει το) cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

10. 1. εσμεν δια της προσφορας, cum Vulg.
17. 3. ὑστερον λεγει. και των ἁμαρτιων, και των.
18. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (ὁπ̃ δε αφεσις τ̃των) cum Vulg.
23. 1. της πιστεως ακλινη.
25. 1. την συναγωγην ἑαυτων, cum Vulg.
34. 3. εν ἑαυτοις κρειττονα.
39. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (εις περιποιησιν ψυχης) cum Vulg.

CAP. XI.

4. 1. ετι λαλει, cum Vulg.
5. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (διοτι μετεθηκεν.)
8. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (εξελθειν εις τον τοπον) cum Vulg.
9. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (πιστει παρωκησεν εις γην της) cum Vulg.
11. 6. και αυτη Σαρρα δυναμιν εις.
29. 1. οἱ Αιγυπτιοι κατεποντισθησαν.
39. 1. τας επαγγελιας.

CAP. XII.

1. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και την ευπερισατον ἁμαρτιαν·)
2. 1. εν δεξια τ̃ τ̃ Θε̃.
3. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (αναλογισασθε γαρ τον) cum Vulg.
7. 2. εις παιδειαν ὑπομενετε.
13. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (και τροχιας ὀρθας) cum Vulg.
18. 1. και γνοφῳ, και ζοφῳ, και θυελλῃ.
25. 3. οἱ τον απ' ουρανων αποτρεφομενοι, cum Vulg.

CAP. XIII.

9. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (μη παραφερεσθε) cum Vulg.
12. 1. ἐξω της πολεως επαθε.
14. corrigendum in Textu, juxta MSS. 8. (αλλα την μελλουσαν επιζητουμεν) cum Vulg.
21. addendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 7. (εις τ̃ς αιωνας των αιωνων. αμην.) cum Vulg.

JACOBI EPIST. CATHOL.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

3. 1. το δοκιμιον ὑμων κατεργαζεται.
18. 1. απαρχην των αυτου κτισματων.
19. 2. ισ̃ αδελφοι μ̃ αγαπ̃. cum Vulg.
19. 1. εσω δε πας ανθρωπος, cum Vulg.
21. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (εν πραϋτητι.)
23. 4. ακροατης νομ̃ ἐστι.

Ver. MSS.

25. 1. και παραμεινας, ουκ ακροατης.
26. 2. θρησκος ειναι, μη χαλιναγ. cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

4. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 6. (ου διεκριθητε εν ἑαυτοις) cum Vulg.
10. 1. ὁλον τον νομον τελεσ̃ι.

Ver. MSS.

13. 4. ελεον χρισεως.
13. 1. κατακαυχαται δε ελεος, cum Vulg.
18. 1. δειξον μοι την πιστιν σου χωρις των εργων, καγω δειξω σοι εκ των εργων μς την πιστιν, cum Vulg.
24. 2. ὁρατε, ὁτι εξ, cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

2. 3. δυναμενος χαλιναγ.
5. 1. ιδου ἡλικον πυρ, cum Vulg.
6. 2. της αδικιας. ἡ γλωσσα καθιεται, cum Vulg.
10. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (ε χρη αδελφοι μου ταυτα) cum Vulg.
12. 3. οὑτως ουδε μια πηγη.
13. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (τις σοφος και επιστημων εν ὑμιν;) cum Vulg.
17. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 6. (ελεες και καρπων αγαθων) cum Vulg.
18. scribend. in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (καρπος δε δικαιοσυνης.)

CAP. IV.

6. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ὁ Θεος ὑπερηφανοις αντιγασσεται, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

11. 2. αδελφου, η κρινων, cum Vulg.
12. 4. ὁ νομοθετης και κριτης ὁ δυναμ. cum Vulg.
12. 2. τις ει ὁ κρινων τον πλησιον; cum Vulg.
13. 2. σημερον η αυριον, cum Vulg.
14. 4. ατμις γαρ εστιν ἡ προς ολιγον φαινομενη.
14. 1. επειτα δε αφανιζομενη. MS. 1. υστερα και εφανιζ.

CAP. V.

4. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (τας χωρας ὑμων, απεστερημενος.
5. 1. εθρεψατε τας σαρκας ὑμων.
5. 1. ὑμων εν ἡμερα σφαγης, cum Vulg.
10. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (αδελφοι της κακοπαθειας)
10. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (εν τω ονοματι Κυριου) cum Vulg.
14. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (προσκαλεσασθω τους.)
15. 1. αρεθησονται αυτω, cum Vulg.
19. 2. αδελφοι μς, εαν τις, cum Vulg.
20. 2. σωσει την ψυχην αὑτου εκ θανατου.

PETRI EPIST. CATHOL. I.

CAP. I.

Ver. MSS.

11. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (προμαρτυρομενον.)
12. 2. ὑμας Πνευματι Ἁγιῳ, cum Vulg.
16. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (ἁγιοι γινεσθε.)
16. 1. ἁγιοι εσεσθε, ὁτι, cum Vulg.
22. 2. της αληθειας εις φιλαδελφιαν.
24. 2. δοξα αυτης ὡς ανθος, cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

2. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (αυξηθητε εις σωτηριαν) cum Vulg.
5. 5. εις ἱερατευμα ἁγιον.
6. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (διοτι περιεχει ἡ γραφη,) cum Vulg.
8. 1. απιστουντες, εις ὁ και, cum Vulg.
9. 2. τας αρετας εξαγγελλητε, cum Vulg.
12. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (εν ᾧ καταλαλεσιν) cum Vulg.
16. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (αλλ' ὡς δουλοι Θεου)
17. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (την αδελφοτητα αγαπησατε.)
19. 1. τουτο γαρ χαρις παρα Θεῳ.
19. 1. ει δια συνειδησιν αγαθην ὑποφ.
21. 5. εις τουτο γαρ και εκληθητε.
24. 2. οὐ τῳ μωλωπι ιαθητε, cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

Ver. MSS.

6. 1. ὑπηκεε τῳ Αβρααμ, cum Vulg.
7. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (χαριτος ζωης) cum Vulg.
7. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (εις το μη εγκοπτεσθαι) cum Vulg.
9. 1. ινα ευλογιας κληρονομ.
16. 1. αλλα μετα πραϋτητος και φοβου, cum Vulg.
16. 2. τη αγαθη εν Χριστῳ αναστροφη.
21. 1. scribendum in Tex. ut MS. 1. (ὁ αντιτυπον νυν) cum Vulg.
21. δι' ὑδατος και ὑμας αντιτυπον νυν σωζει βαπτισμα.

CAP. IV.

1. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 6. ὁτι ὁ παθων σαρκι.)
1. 2. ὁτι ὁ παθων εν σαρκι.
1. 1. πεπαυται ἁμαρτιαις.
3. 3. αρκετος γαρ ὁ παρεληλυθως, cum Vulg.
8. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (καλυπτει πληθος) cum Vulg.
9. 1. κατα ανθρωπον σαρκι.
11. legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (ης χορηγει ὁ Θεος cum Vulg.
14. 2. ὁτι το της δοξης και δυναμεως. και το τε Θεε Πνευμα εφ ὑμας αναπαυεται, cum Vulg.

Ver.	MSS.
16.	2.	τον Θεον εν τω ονοματι τϛτω, cum Vulg.
19.	1.	εν αγαθοποϊαις, cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

Ver.	MSS.
5.	1.	αλληλοις την ταπεινοφροσυνην, cum Vulg.
5.		legendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (εγκομβωσασθε)
8.		scribendum ut MSS. 5. in Textu, (ὁτι ὁ αντιδικος ὑμων) cum Vulg.
8.	4.	περιερχεται ζητων, cum Vulg.
8.	4.	τινα καταπιειν.
12.	2.	εις ἡν ϛητε.
14.	1.	εν φιληματι ἁγιῳ, cum Vulg.

PETRI EPIST. CATHOL. II.

CAP. I.

Ver.	MSS.
1.	5.	Συμεων Πετρος.
5.	4.	και αυτο δε τϛτο.
10.	1.	σπουδασατε, ἱνα δια των καλων εργων βεβαιαν ὑμων την, cum Vulg.
11.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (τϛ Κυριου ἡμων και Σωτηρος Ιησϛ Χρ.) cum Vulg.
16.	1.	αλλ' αυτοπται γενηθεντες.
21.	1.	ελαλησαν απο Θεου ανθρωποι.

CAP. II.

Ver.	MSS.
2.	4.	δι' ἁς ἡ ὁδος της αληθειας.
3.	5.	ϛ νυξαξει.
4.	1.	εις κρισιν κολαζομενους τηρειν, cum Vulg.
9.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (εκ πειρασμου ῥυεσθαι) cum Vulg.
10.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και Κυριοτητος καταφρονουντας) cum Vulg.
13.	1.	(εντρυφωντες εν ταις αγαπαις αυτων) cum Vulg.
14.	1.	και ακαταπαυϛτ ἁμαρτιας, cum Vulg.
15.	2.	Βαλααμ του Βεωρ.
17.	2.	και ὁμιχλαι ὑπο λαιλαπος ελαυνομ.
17.	3.	εις αιωνας τετηρηται.
17.	1.	τϛ σκοτϛς τετηρηται, cum Vulg.
18.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 5. (σαρκος ασελγειαε) cum Vulg.
18.	5.	τους οντως αποφυγοντας. MS. 1. αποφευγοντας, cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

Ver.	MSS.
3.	2.	εν ενπαιγμονῃ εμπαικται, cum Vulg.
5.	4.	και δι' ὑδατος συνεϛωτα.
10.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και ϛοιχεια καυσϛμενα τηκεται.)
10.		impressi cum Vulg. ϛοιχεια δε καυσϛμενα λυθησονται.
16.	2.	εν ἁις εϛι δυσνοητα.
18.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και νυν, και εις ἡμεραν αιωνος) cum Vulg.

JOHANNIS EPIST. CATHOL. I.

CAP. I.

Ver.	MSS.
3.		corrigendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 8. (απαγγελλομεν ὑμιν) cum Vulg.
3.	1.	και ἡ κοινωνια ἡ ἡμετερα, cum Vulg.
5.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 7. (και εϛιν ἁυτη ἡ ἀγγελια) cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

Ver.	MSS.
6.	2.	και αυτος περιπατειν, cum Vulg.
7.	2.	αγαπητοι, ουκ εντολην καινην, cum Vulg.
7.	2.	ὁν ηκουσατε· παλιν εντολην, cum Vulg.
12.	3.	εγραφα ὑμιν παιδια.
13.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (ὁτι εγνωκατε τον Πατερα.)
13.		impressi cum Vulg. (ὁτι εγνωκατε τον απ' αρχης.)
13.		vocem γραφω, mutandum in εγραφα, juxta MSS. 8.
23.	2.	ϛδε τον Πατερα εχει. ὁ ὁμολογων τον Υἱον, και τον Πατερα εχει. ὑμεις ὁ ηκουσατε, cum Vulg.
27.	1.	απ' αυτϛ, μενετω εν ὑμιν, cum Vulg.
27.	1.	αλλ' ὡς το αυτο Πνευμα.
27.	1.	αλλ' ὡς το αυτϛ χρισμα, cum Vulg.
27.	2.	εδιδαξεν ὑμας μενετε εν αυτῳ, cum Vulg.
29.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (εξ αυτϛ γεγενηται) cum Vulg.

CAP. III.

Ver.	MSS.
1.	2.	κληθωμεν, και εσμεν.
5.	2.	ἱνα τας ἁμαρτιας αρῃ.
14.	1.	ὁ μη αγαπων μενει εν τῳ θανατῳ, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

16. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (εν τουτω εγνωκαμεν την αγαπην, ὁτι εκεινος.)
16. impressi cum Vulg. την αγαπην του Θεου, ὁτι.
17. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 5. (τα σπλαγχνα αὐτου απ' αυτου) cum Vulg.
23. 1. ἱνα πιστευωμεν τω Υἱω αυτου Ιησου Χριστω.
23. 2. εντολην ἡμιν, cum Vulg.
24. corrigendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και αυτος εν αυτω. και εν) cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

3. scribendum in Textu ut MSS. 8. (και τουτο εστι το του Αντιχριστου.)
6. 1. εκ τουτου γινωσκομεν το πνευμα, cum Vulg.
9. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (απεσταλκεν ὁ Θεος εις τον.)
16. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 6. (και ὁ Θεος εν αυτω. εν τουτω) cum Vulg.
19. 1. ἡμεις αγαπωμεν τον Θεον, ὁτι ὁ Θεος πρωτος, &c. cum Vulg.

CAP. V.

2. 1. και τας εντολας αυτου ποιωμεν, cum Vulg.
5. 1. τις εστι δε ὁ νικων.
6. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (αλλ' εν τω ὑδατι και τω αἱματι.)
7. 8. ὁτι τρεις εισιν οἱ μαρτυρουντες, το πνευμα, και το ὑδωρ και το ἁιμα· και οἱ τρεις εις το ἑν εισιν. Ει.

Ver. MSS.

7. 8. Porro totus septimus versus hujus Capitis desideratur in 8 MSS. Codd. Græcis, scilicet, ὁτι τρεις εισιν οἱ μαρτυρουντες εν τω ουρανω, ὁ Πατηρ, και ὁ Λογος, και το Ἁγιον Πνευμα· και οἱ τρεις εις το ἑν εισι. Sed quia citatur a sanctis Patribus, tum ante Arianorum tempora a S. Cypriano, quem etiam citat Fulgentius, lib. Contra Arianos ad 10 objectiones eorumdem, libro De Unitate Ecclesiæ Catholicæ, his verbis, Et iterum de Patre, et Filio, et Spiritu Sancto, scriptum est, et hi tres unum sunt; tum furente passim, et devastante omnia Arianorum hæresi, a Sancto Athanasio in opusculo, cui prænotatus est titulus, Disputatio cum Ario Nicææ habita; his verbis: προς δε τουτοις φασιν Ιωαννης φασκει, Και οἱ τρεις το ἑν εισιν, hoc est, Præter hæc omnia Johannes inquit; Et hi tres unum sunt; et sumit Athanasius hæc verba ex 7. non 8. versu, cum expressè agat de Consubstantialitate Trium Divinarum Personarum: id circo versus integer in Textu Græco relictus est, juxta veritatem Lat. Vulg. editionis, et impressos etiam Cod. Græcos.
13. 2. ταυτα εγραψα ὑμιν, ἱνα ειδητε.
20. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 7. (ἱνα γινωσκωμεν τον Αληθινον· και εσμεν.
20. 1. τον αληθινον Θεον· και εσμεν.
20. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (και ἡ ζωη ἡ αιωνιος.)

JOHANNIS EPIST. II.

Ver. MSS.

7. 3. εξηλθον εις τον κοσμον, cum Vulg.
8. 2. ἱνα μη απολεσητε ἁ ειργασασθε, αλλα μισθον πληρη απολαβητε, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

12. 1. ελπιζω γαρ ελθειν προς ὑμας, cum Vulg.
12. 1. ἱνα ἡ χαρα ὑμων, cum Vulg.

JOHANNIS EPIST. III.

Ver. MSS.

4. μειζοτεραν ταυτης ουκ.
5. 1. μισθον ποιεις, ὁ εαν.
5. 2. και τουτο ξενες, cum Vulg.
7. 1. απο των εθνικων.

Ver. MSS.

10. corrigendum in Tex. ut legunt MSS. 8. (ὑπομνησω αυτου τα) cum Vulg.
12. 3. και οιδας ὁτι, cum Vulg. MS. 1. και οιδαμεν ὁτι,
15. 1. ασπαζε τους αδελφους κατ'.

JUDÆ EPIST. CATHOL.

Ver. MSS.

1. 2. Πατρι ηγαπημενοις, cum Vulg.
3. 2. περι της κοινης ἡμων σωτηριας.
3. scribend. in Tex. ut MSS. 8. (τη ἁπαξ παραδεθεισῃ.)

Ver. MSS.

4. 3. και τον μονον Δεσποτην, και Κυριον ὑμων Ιησουν Χρ. cum Vulg.
4. 5. και τον μονον Δεσποτην, Θεον, και Κυριον ἡμ. &c.

Ver.	MSS.
5.	1.	ειδοτας ἁπαξ τστο, ὁτι. MS. 1. ειδοτας ἁπαξ παντα ὁτι Ιησους λαον, cum Vulg.
9.	1.	ὁτε Μιχαηλ ὁ αρχαγγελος τῳ διαβολῳ, cum Vulg.
12.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 8. (συνευωχουμενοι αφοβως) cum Vulg.
15.	1.	και εξελεγξαι.
15.	3.	τϐ ασεβεις περι παντων, cum Vulg.
18.	2.	επ' εσχατου του χρονου ελευσονται εμπαικται, cum Vulg.
22, 23.	1.	και ους μεν ελεγκετε διακρινομενους, ους δε σωζετε, εκ πυρος αρπ'. cum Vulg.
23.	2.	addunt, ους δε ελεειτε εν φοβῳ, μισουντες και, cum Vulg.
25.	2.	μονῳ Θεῳ Σωτηρι ἡμων δια Ιησ Χρ. Κυριου ἡμων δοξα και, cum Vulg.
25.	1.	δοξα και μεγαλοπρεπεια, cum Vulg.

APOCALYPSIS,

Ex Collatione Manuscriptorum iv. antiquorum.

CAP. I.

Ver.	MSS.
1.	1.	non legit verba hæc (και ἁτινα εισι, και ἁ χρη γενεσθαι μετα ταυτα) cum Vulg.
3.	1.	ὁ αναγινωσκων και ακουων τους, cum Vulg.

CAP. II.

1.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (τῳ αγγελῳ της εν Εφεσῳ εκκλησιας γραψον,) cum Vulg.
7.	1.	ὁ εχιν εν τῳ παραδεισῳ τϐ Θεϐ μϐ, cum Vulg.
9.	2.	εκ των λεγοντων Ιϐδαιϐς ειναι, cum Vulg.
15.	2.	των Νικολαϊτων ὁμοιως· μετανοησον, εν, cum Vulg.
17.	1.	δωσω αὐτῳ τϐ μαννα τϐ κεκρυμμενου, cum Vulg.
1.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (ὁ ϐδεις οιδεν, ει μη ὁ) cum Vulg.
20.	1.	αλλ' εχω κατα σου ὁλιγα, ὁτι.
22.	1.	εκ των εργων αυτων, cum Vulg.
25.	1.	αχρις οὐ ανοιξω.

CAP. III.

4.	1.	ὁι ουκ εμολυναν, cum Vulg.
7.	1.	και ουδεις κλειϐι· και ὁ κλειων, και ϐδεις ανοιξει.
7.	1.	ὁ ανοιγων, και ουδεις κλειϐι αυτην, ει μη ὁ ανοιγων· και κλειων, και ουδεις ανοιξει.
12.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (και γραψω επ' αυτον το ονομα.
18.	2.	και μη φανερωθῃ ἡ αισχυνη, cum Vulg.
18.	2.	και κολλουριον, ἱνα εγχρισῃ τους οφθαλ.
20.	1.	την θυραν ειϐελευσομαι προς, cum Vulg.

CAP. IV.

3.	1.	ὁρασις σμαραγδινων.
4.	2.	και επι τους θρονους εικοϐι τεσσαρας πρεσϐυτερους, cum Vulg.
6.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 3. (ὑαλινη.)
7.	2.	εχον προσωπον ανθρωπου.
8.	3.	λεγοντες, ἁγιος, &c. MSS. 2. ἁγιος, ἁγιος, ἁγιος, Κυριος, cum Vulg.
10.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 4. (και βαλουϐι τους ϐεφανους.)
11.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 4. (ησαν, και εκτισθησαν.)

CAP. V.

Ver.	MSS.
2.	2.	εν φωνῃ μεγαλῃ.
5.	2.	ὁ ανοιγων το βιϐλιον, και τας ἑπτα.
6.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (και ειδον εν μεσῳ του θρονου.)
6.		impressi cum Vulg. και ειδον, και ιδου εν μεσῳ του θρονου.
6.		corrigendum in Tex. mendum, et legendum cum MSS. 4. (ὡς εσφαγμενον.)
7, 8.		legendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (επι του θρονου. και ὁτε ελαϐε το βιϐλιον.)
10.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 3. (και βασιλευσουσιν επι της γης.
13.	1.	και παντα τα εν αυτοις, παντας ηκουσα.

CAP. VI.

1, 2.	2.	ερχου, και ιδε. Και ιδου ἱππος λευκος.
3, 4.	1.	ερχου και ιδε. Και εξηλθεν αλλος ἱππος, cum Vulg.
5.	2.	ερχου και ιδε. Και ιδου ἱππος μελας, cum Vulg.
7, 8.	2.	ηκουσα του τεταρτου ζωου λεγοντος, Ερχου και ιδε. και ιδου ἱππος.
8.	2.	και ὁ ᾅδης ηκολουθει αυτῳ, cum Vulg.
9.	2.	τας ψυχας των εσφαγμενων, cum Vulg.
11.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (και ϐδοθῃ αυτοις εκαστῳ στολη λευκη, και ερρεθῃ αυτοις, ἱνα αναπαυσωνται ϐτι χρονον, ἑως ϐ πληρωσωσι και οἱ) cum Vulg.
12.	1.	και ειδον, ὁτε ηνοιξε την, cum Vulg.

CAP. VII.

1.		scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 4. (και μετα τουτο ειδον.)
1.	2.	μητε επι τι δενδρον, cum Vulg.
3.		corrigendum in Textu, ut legunt MSS. 5. (μη αδικησητε.)
9.	2.	ἑστωτας ενωπιον τϐ θρονου. mox, περιϐεϐλημενους.
9.		scribend. in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (και φοινικας εν ταις.)
17.		scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (ποιμαινει αυτους, και οδηγει αυτους.)
17.		impressi cum Vulg. ποιμανει αυτους, και ὁδηγησει αυτους.

Ver. MSS.

CAP. VIII.

7. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (κατεκαη, και το τριτον των δενδρων κατεκαη, και πας χορτος, cum Vulg.
12. 2. το τριτον αυτων, και το τριτον αυτων μη φανη, ἡ ἡμερα, και ἡ νυξ ὁμοιως.
13. 1. και ειδον, και ηκεσα ἑνος αγγελε πετομενε, λεγοντος.
13. 2. φωνη μεγαλη, Ουαι, &c. cum Vulg.

CAP. IX.

4. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (και ερρεθη αυταις.)
5. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (αλλ' ινα βασανισθωσι.)
5. impressi et Vulgata, αλλ' ινα βασανισωσι.
5. 3. ὁταν παισῃ ανθρωπον.
6. corrigendum in Tex. ut MSS. 2. (ζητησεσιν οἱ ανθρωποι τον θανατον) cum Vulg.
7. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (ἡτοιμασμενοις εις) cum Vulg.
9. 2. αρματων πολλων.
10. 1. και κεντρα εν ταις ὡραις αυτων· ἐξουσιαν εχεσι, cum Vulg.
12. 1. εστι δυο ϰαι. Και μετα ταυτα και ὁ ἑκτος αγγελος.
14. 1. εν τῳ ποταμῳ, cum Vulg.
15. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 4. (εις την ὡραν, και εις την ἡμεραν, και μηνα) cum Vulg.

CAP. X.

1. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (και ἡ ιρις εστι.)
4. 2. βρονται· και μη αυτα γραψῃς, cum Vulg.
7. 2. και ετελεσθη το μυστηριον τε Θεε, ὡς ευηγγελισεν τες.
9. 2. λεγων αυτῳ, δουναι μοι το βιβλιον, cum Vulg.
10. 2. και ελαβον το βιβλιον.

CAP. XI.

1. 2. non legunt illas voces (και εἰςηκει ὁ αγγελος) cum Vulg.
2. 2. εκβαλε ἐξω, και μη αυτην μετρησῃς.
5. 1. και ειτις αυτους θελει αποκτειναι, οὑτως δει αυτον.
8. 1. εασει επι της πλατειας της πολ.

CAP. XII.

10. 2. ὁτι εβληθη ὁ κατηγορος.
11. 1. της μαρτυριας αυτου, cum Vulg.

CAP. XIII.

7. 2. επι πασαν φυλην, και λαον, και γλωσσαν, και, cum Vulg.
15. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (και ποιησῃ, ὁσοι αν μη προσκυνησωσι τῃ εικονι) cum Vulg.
17. 3. το χαραγμα, το ονομα του θηριου.
17. 1. το χαραγμα του θηριου, η τον αριθμον.

CAP. XIV.

1. 2. και ειδον, και ιδου το αρνιον.
1. 2. και μετ' αυτου αριθμος ἑκατον.
4. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 4. (ὁπου αν ὑπαγῃ) cum Vulg.
6. 3. και ειδον αγγελον πετομενον.
7. 2. φοβηθητη τον Κυριον, και δοτε, cum Vulg.

Ver. MSS.

7. 2. και προσκυνησατε αυτον τον ποιησαντα τον ουραν, cum Vulg.
8. 2. ἡς πεποτικε παντα τα εθνη.
9. 1. και λαμβανει το χαραγμα.
12. 2. των ἁγιων εστιν, οἱ τηρουντες τας εντολας, cum Vulg.
19. 2. εις την ληνον την μεγαλην του θυμου του.

CAP. XV.

6. 2. τας ἑπτα πληγας εκ του ναου, οἱ ησαν, cum Vulg.
6. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 4. (λινον, καθαρον, λαμπρον, και.)
8. 2. αἱ ἑπτα πληγαι των ἑπτα αγγελων, cum Vulg.

CAP. XVI.

1. 2. ὑπαγετε, και εκχεατε, cum Vulg.
3. 2. και πασα ψυχη απεθανεν.
4. 2. και ὁ τριτος ἐξεχεε, cum Vulg.
4. 3. και εις τας πηγας των ὑδατων, cum Vulg.
7. scribendum in Textu, ut MSS. 4. (και ηκουσα του θυσιαςηριου λεγοντος.)
7. impressi, και ηκουσα εκ του θυσιαςηριου, λεγοντος.
14. 2. εισι γαρ πνευματα δαιμονιων, cum Vulg.
16. 1. μαγεδων.
21. 1. μεγαλη ταλαντιαια.

CAP. XVII.

5. 2. των πορνων και των βδελυγματων της
8. 1. οἱ κατοικουντες την γην, cum Vulg.
8. 1. και ουκ εσι, και παρεσιν.
11. 1. και τουτο ογδοος εστι.
17. 2. αχρι τελεσθωσιν οἱ, cum Vulg.

CAP. XVIII.

3. 2. πεπωκασι παντα τα εθνη, cum Vulg.
6. 2. και διπλωσατε τα διπλα, ὡς και αυτη, και κατα τα εργα αυτης.
7. 2. βασανισμον και πενθος. ὁτι, cum Vulg.
9. 2. και κλαυσουσι, και πενθησεσιν επ' αυτη οἱ βασ.
17. 2. και πας ὁ επι τοπων πλεων, και.

CAP. XIX.

13. 2. και κεκληται το ονομα αυτου.

CAP. XX.

2. 2. ὁς εστι διαβολος και Σατανας.
4. 2. μετα του Χριστου τα χιλια ετη.

CAP. XXI.

12. 2. ἁ εστιν ονοματα των δωδεκα φυλων των, cum Vulg.
20. scribendum in Tex. ut MSS. 3. (ὁ ενδεκατος ὑακινθος) cum Vulg.

CAP. XXII.

1. 1. ποταμον ὑδατος ζωης, cum Vulg.
3. 1. και παν καταθεμα ουκ εσαι ετι, cum Vulg.
7. 1. και ιδου ερχομαι ταχυ· μακαριος, cum Vulg.

GENERAL INDEX

TO THE

NOTES ON THE OLD AND NEW TESTAMENTS.

N. B.—In principio refers to the Observations at the beginning, and in fine to those at the end, of the Chapters.

A

AARON, why called "God's holy one," Deut. xxxiii, 8.

Ab, one of the supreme officers in the Jewish sanhedrim, Matt. xx, 21; xxiii, 9.

Abana, a river of Damascus; reason for believing that the river known in the time of Elisha by this name is a branch of the Barrady, 2 Kings v, 12.

Abarim, mountains of, Dr. Shaw's description of the, Numb. xxvii, 12. The fortieth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 47.

Abba, import of this Syriac word, Mark xiv, 36. In what it differs from Abbi, ibid. Slaves were not permitted to use the term Abba in accosting their masters, Romans viii, 15.

Abed-nego, derivation of the name, Dan. i, 7. How it should be pronounced, ibid.

Aben Ezra, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. iii.

Abenim, אבנים, why weights were originally so named by the Hebrews, Lev. xx, 36.

Abib, constituted the first month of the Jewish ecclesiastical year, Exod. xii, 2.

Abijah, battle of, with Jeroboam, great discordances in the Versions respecting the number of the combatants and of the slain, 2 Chron. xiii, 3. The number of men engaged and slain, probably only a tenth part of that stated in the present copies of the Hebrew, ibid.

Abilene, a province of Syria, Luke iii, 1.

Ablutions, before offering sacrifice to the gods, evidently borrowed by the Heathens from the Jewish purifications, Exod. xix, 10.

Abner, observations on David's lamentation over, 2 Sam. iii, 33.

Aboras, where this river is situated, Ezek. i, 1.

Abrabanel, or Abarbanel, (Rabbi Isaac) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. iii.

Abraham, import of the name, Gen. xii, 2; xiv, 13; xvii, 5. In what it differs from Abram, Gen. xii, 2. Extreme trifling of some Rabbins and others upon this name, Gen. xvii. 5. Reasons for believing that the righteous man spoken of in the forty-first chapter of Isaiah refers to Abraham rather than to Cyrus, Isa. xli, 2. Character of Abraham, Gen. xxv, in fine.

Abraham's bosom, lying in, and to recline next to Abraham in the kingdom of heaven, images by which the state of the blessed is represented, Isa. lxvi, 24. A similar imagery employed by Heathen writers, ibid.

Abrec, אברך, rendered bow the knee, of doubtful signification, Gen. xli, 43. Probable conjecture relative to its import, Matt. iii, in fine.

Absalom, David's very pathetic lamentation on the death of, 2 Sam. xviii, 33. In what order the words were probably pronounced, ibid.

Absalom's hair, substance of Bochart's dissertation on the weight of, 2 Sam. xiv, in fine. The reasoning of this great Hebrew critic not conclusive, and another mode proposed of removing the difficulties which exist in the present Hebrew Text upon this subject, ibid.

Abu Thaher, a chief of the Carmathians, singular anecdote respecting, Gen. xxxiv, 24.

Abyssinia, list of the monarchs of, from Maqueda, queen of Saba, to the nativity, 1 Kings x, in fine.

Acacia Nilotica, some account of the, Exod. xxv, 5. Supposed by some to be the Shittim wood of Scripture, ibid.

Academics, a sect of Greek philosophers founded by the celebrated Plato, Acts xvii, 18.

Acanthum vulgare, a species of thistle extremely prolific, Gen. iii, 18. Calculation of the number of individuals that could proceed from a single plant in four years, ibid.

Acanthus, or Bear's-foot, Pliny's account of the, Matt. xxvii, 29. Mark xv, 17. The acanthine crown, which the Jews in derision put on the head of our Lord, supposed by Michaelis and Bishop Pearce to have been formed of this herb, ibid.

Acanthus hicifolius, some account of this plant, Mark xv, 17.

Acarus sanguisugus, description of this animal, Exod. viii, 16.

Accusation of the criminal who was crucified affixed to the cross, Matt. xxvii, 37. Exhibition of our Lord's accusation in the Hebrew, Greek, and Latin, as it was probably written by the command of Pilate, ibid; John xix, 19.

Accuser of the Israelites, an appellation of Satan exceedingly frequent in Rabbinical writings, Rev. xii, 10.

Aceldama, a word not of Hebrew but of Chaldaio-Syriac origin, Acts i, 19. Its import, ibid.

Achad, אחר, probable reason why the Jews, assembled in synagogue, so frequently repeat, and loudly vociferate, this word, whenever that very celebrated passage in the Pentateuch relative to the unity of the Divine Being occurs in the Sabbath readings, Deut. vi, 4.

Achan, inquiry whether the sons and daughters of this man were stoned to death and burnt as well as their father, Josh. vii, 25.

Achashdarpeney, אחשדרפני, import of this word, Ezra viii, 36. Esth. iii, 12. Dan. iii, 2.

Achlus, αχλυς, a species of ophthalmia, Acts xiii, 11.

Achmetha, the same with Ecbatana, Ezra vi, 2.

Acropolis, some account of the, Acts xvii, 15.

Acts of the Apostles, the first history of the Christian church on record, Preface to the Acts, p. ii. By whom written, ibid, pp. i, ii. General observations on this book of the Sacred Canon, Acts xxviii, in fine.

Adad, a Syrian idol, supposed to have been the same with Jupiter and the sun, Isa. lxvi, 17. Meaning of the name, according to Macrobius, ibid. The appellation of this idol formed a part of the name of some Syrian kings, ibid.

Adam, meaning of this word, Gen. i, 26. The names given by Adam to the animals a strong proof of the original perfection and excellence of man, Gen. ii, 20. Difference of import between אדם, Adam, and אנוש, Enosh, Heb. ii, 6.

Additions in the Versions to the commonly received Hebrew Text, Gen. iv, 8; xlvi, 20. Numb. x, 6. Judg. iv, 9. Neh. vii, 69. Esth. ii, 20. Psa xiv, 3, et in fine; xxxviii, 20; cxlvii, 8. Prov. iv, in fine; xii, 11; xix, 22; xxii, 1. Remarkable additions to the commonly received Greek Text, Luke vi, 4. John vi, 56. Acts v, 17; x, 25; xi, 3; xvi, 35, 38. Heb. xi, 23, 31. Rev. viii, 7.

Adieu, its derivation and import, Acts xv, 29.

Adjuration, most solemn form of, in use among all nations, Deut. iv, 26. Form of adjuration, according to Homer used in the ratification of a covenant made between the Greeks and the Trojans, when the throats of the lambs were cut, and their blood poured out, Matt. xxvi, 28.

Admael, the angel of the earth, according to the Rabbins, Rev. xvi, 5.

Adonai, אדני, its derivation and import, Gen. xv, 8. Psa. xcvii, 1. The Jews always substitute this word for Jehovah, יהוה, whenever they meet with it in their reading of the law and the prophets, 2 Cor. xii, 4. Rev. xix, 12.

Adonis, situation of this river, 1 Kings v, 9. Probable origin of the fable concerning, Ezek. viii, 14.

Adoption, nature of the act of, so frequent among the ancient Hebrews, Greeks, and Romans, Rom. viii, 15.

Adoration, origin of the word, 1 Kings xix, 18. Job xxxi, 26. Hos. xiii, 2. The kings of Persia never admitted any to their presence without first requiring the act of prostration, called adoration, Isa. xlix, 23. Very remarkable example of adoration as related by Harmer, ibid.

Adrammelech, an object of idolatrous worship among the Sepharvites, 2 Kings xvii, 31, et in fine. Meaning of the name, ibid. Represented, according to Jarchi, under the form of a mule, 2 Kings xvii, 31.

Adria, an ancient appellation for the Sicilian sea, Acts xxvii, 17, 27.

Adullam, where situated, Mic. i, 15.

Adultery, anciently punished by burning, Gen. xxxviii, 24. Derivation of the word, according to Minshieu, ibid. How the crime of adultery was punished among the Chaldeans, Persians, and Romans, Prov. vi, 33. Ezek. xxiii, 25.

Adultresses, punishment of, among the ancient Germans, Hos. ii, 3. 1 Cor. xi, 5.

Adversary, the Greek word so rendered a forensic term, Matt. v, 25.

Adytum, Αδυτον, definition of this word by Hesychius, Isa. xlv, 19.

Ægæ, or Ægea, the usual burying-place of the ancient Macedonian kings, Dan. viii, 5.

Ægeadæ, the people that inhabited Ægæ, or Ægea, Dan. viii, 5.

Ælian, remark of, how common angelic appearances are to be distinguished from those of the gods, Ezek. i, 7.

Æneas, Homer's description of the last office performed by this Trojan for his friend Pallas, Rom. ix, in fine.

Ænigma, see Enigma.

Ænon, where situated, John iii, 23.

Æons of the Gnostics, some account of the, Preface to John, pp. v, vi.

Αερα δερειν, to beat the air. Kypke's observations on the three different ways in which the combatants in the ancient games were said to beat the air, 1 Cor. ix, 26.

Aeroliths, Izarn's Table respecting, shewing the places and times in which these substances fell, and the testimonies by which these facts are supported, Josh. x, 11. Chemical analyses, of two aeroliths by Fourcroy and Vauquelin, ibid. Hypotheses by which the falling of stones from the atmosphere have been accounted for, ibid.

Æschylus, citation of a very beautiful passage from this poet respecting the omnipotence of the Divinity, Heb. iii, 6. Another passage of great sublimity relative to the Supreme Being, 1 Tim. vi, 15.

Æthiopians, conjecture concerning their origin, Gen. x, 6.

Æthiopic Version, account of the, General Preface, p. xxx. Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xiv.

Æthon, one of the horses of the sun, according to the Pagan mythology, meaning of the name, 2 Kings ii, 11.

Affirmation of a Quaker in a court of judicature, thoughts concerning the, 2 Cor. i, in fine. Form of the affirmation as required by stat. 7 and 8 W. 3. c. 34. § 1, ibid. Form of it as finally settled by 8 Geo. 2. c. 24. s. 6, ibid.

Afghans, singular and very interesting remark of Sir William Jones respecting the probable origin of these people, 2 Kings xvii, 6.

Afrasiab, an ancient king, when and where he flourished, Job xviii, 15.

Agabus, account of the famine foretold by this prophet, Matt. xxiv, 7. Acts xi, 28.

Αγαπαι, Love-feasts, in use in the primitive church till the middle of the fourth century, Jude 12. Lately revived among the Moravians and Methodists, ibid. At what times originally celebrated, ibid.

Αγαπαω, import of this word, John xxi, 15. In what it differs from φιλεω, ibid.

Αγαπη, definition of this word by the author of a MS. lexicon in the late French king's library, Matt. xxii, 37. 1 Cor. xiii, 1. Of what words supposed to be compounded, ibid.

Agate, some account of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17.

Agdistis, an object of idolatrous worship among the ancient Galatæ, Preface to Galatians, p. ii.

Αγενεαλογητος, without descent, in what sense this term is applied to Melchisedek, Heb. vii, 3.

Αγιαζω, an important meaning of this word pointed out, John xvii, 19.

ΑΓΝΩΣΤΩ ΘΕΩ, To the Unknown God, remarks upon this ancient inscription which St. Paul made the basis of his celebrated sermon at Athens, Acts xvii, 23. Citations from Lucian, Philostratus, Pausanias, Minutius Felix, and Tertullian, in which there is an allusion to the ancient Heathen custom of dedicating altars to the unknown divinity, ibid.

Agony of our Lord in Gethsemane, thoughts concerning the cause of the, Luke xxii, in fine.

Αγοραιοι, definition of this word by Hesychius, Acts xvii, 5. Import of it among the Rabbins when written in Chaldee characters, ibid.

Agree to ask, the original so translated a beautiful metaphor from a number of musical instruments set to the same key, and playing the same tune, Matt. xviii, 19.

Agriculture, in ancient times the principal employment, trade and commerce being little known, 1 Sam. xi, 4. General agreement among all nations in attributing the science of agriculture to the inspirations of their deities, Isa. xxviii, 26.

Ahashteranim, אחשתרנים, its derivation according to Bochart, Esth. viii, 10.

Ahasuerus of Ezra thought to be the same with the Cambyses of the Greeks, Ezra iv, 6. The Ahasuerus of Esther the same with Artaxerxes Longimanus, according to Prideaux, Esth. i, 1.

Ahava, a river supposed to be the same with that which is called Diava, or Adiava, Ezra viii, 15.

Ahaz, observations on the nature and structure of the sun-dial of, with a diagram of its supposed form, 2 Kings xx, in fine.

Ahijah, the Shilonite, author of a history of the reign of Solomon long since lost, 1 Kings xi, 29. Explanation of his symbolical prophecy respecting the division of the monarchy of Solomon into two very unequal parts, to form two distinct and independent kingdoms, 1 Kings xi, 31—39.

Αιμα, a frequent acceptation of this word in classic writers pointed out, Acts xvii, 26.

Ainsworth, (Henry,) a celebrated commentator on the Pentateuch, Psalms, and Canticles, General Preface, p. ix. His curious conjecture respecting the typical import of the forty-two stations of the children of Israel, Numb. xxxiii. 2. His interesting observations on the travels of the Israelites through the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, in fine.

Αιων, inquiry into the proper meaning of this term, Gen. xxi, 33. Matt. xxv, 46. 1 Cor. x, 11. 2 Cor. iv, 18. Heb. vii, 28. Whence derived according to Aristotle, Gen. xxi, 33. Matt. vi, 13, xxiv, 3. John xvii, 3. Acts iii, 21.

Aisar, עיסר, its import among the Rabbins, Matt. x, 29.

ΑΙΣΙΟΝ, one of the six Ephesian characters, Acts xix, 19. Its import, according to Hesychius, ibid.

Ajaeeb al Makhlookat, description of a beautiful painting in this work, Acts ii, 3.

Akrabbim, why probably so named, Judg. i, 36.

Alabaster-box, various conjectures concerning the import of the Greek word so translated, Mark xiv, 3.

Alamoth, possible import of this word, Psa. xlvi, in principio.

Al-cahol, Al-kahol, Alcohole, or Alcoholados, see Stibium.

Alcimus, a soldier in the army of Demetrius, extraordinary weight of his panoply, according to Plutarch, 1 Sam. xvii, 7. Probably not equal to that of Goliah of Gath, ibid.

Alcmæon, remarkable anecdote concerning, Luke vi, 38.

Aldebaran, longitude of this fixed star, B. C. 2337, and A. D. 1800, Job ix, in fine.

Aleppo, duration of the vintage at, Amos ix, 13. Commencement and termination of the sowing season, ibid.

Alexander's tomb, an Egyptian coffin vulgarly so called in the British Museum, description of, Gen. l, in fine.

Alexandria, some account of this celebrated city of Egypt, Acts xviii, 24. Principally peopled with Jews in the time of the Ptolemies, Isa. xix, in principio; xxiv, 14. The Jews of this city had privileges granted them by Alexander equal to those of the Macedonians, Isa. xix, in principio.

Alexandria on the Tanais, walls of, in what time said to have been built by Alexander, Neh. vi, 15.

Alexandrian money, Table of the, Exod. xxxviii, 24.

Αλεξικακος, The Dispeller of Evil, an epithet given by the ancient inhabitants of Malta to Hercules, Acts xxviii, 6.

Αλληλουϊα, the Hebrew words הללו יה hallelu yah, in Greek characters, Rev. xix, 1. Its import, ibid. The ελελευ ϊη of the pæans a manifest corruption of αλληλουϊα, ibid.

Algiers, Dr. Shaw's account of the summer retreats of the persons of quality round about this city, Amos iii, 15.

Allegory, derivation and definition of this word, Gal. iv, 24. The Rabbinical writings full of allegories, ibid. Examples from Heathen writers, ibid. Dr. Lowth's account of the three species of allegory to be met with in the Sacred Writings, Gal. iv, in fine. The very injudicious method of allegorizing among Jews and Christians has been of great disservice to the cause of religion, Gal. iv, 24.

Alliteration, remarkable instances of, in sacred and profane writers, Gen. xlix, 19. Psa. cxxii, 6.

Almah, עלמה, its derivation and import, Gen. xxiv, 43; xxix, 9. Isa. vii, 15. Matt. i, 23. This term, in its most obvious and literal acceptation, applicable to the mother of our Lord till she had brought forth her first-born Son, Isa. vii, 15. Matt. i, 23. The house of David could not fail till the almah or virgin had both conceived and brought forth her Son, ibid. The destruction of the Jewish polity and genealogical registers in the apostolic age an irrefragable demonstration that the miraculous conception spoken of by the prophet had already taken place, ibid. This Great Offspring of Jehovah, emphatically named from this circumstance The Son of GOD, shewn to be no other than Jesus the Christ, ibid.

Almon-diblathaim, the thirty-ninth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 46.

Almond-tree, time of its efflorescence, &c, according to Pliny, Jer. i, 11. Why used as a symbol of promptitude, ibid.

Almsgiving, Pharisaic doctrine of the meritoriousness of, Matt. vi, 1.

Almug-tree or Algum-tree, very uncertain what tree is meant by this name, 1 Kings x, 14.

Alnajab, an Ethiopian tribe who perform the rite of circumcision with knives made of stone, Josh. v, 2.

Alpha and Omega, import of this phraseology, Rev. i, 8.

Altar, derivation and import of the term, Gen. viii, 20. Deemed sacrilege to molest a man who had taken refuge there, 1 Kings i, 50; ii, 30. The altar no asylum for a presumptuous murderer, 1 Kings ii, 30.

Al-taschith, import of this term, Psa. lvii, in principio.

Alting's ingenious method of reconciling the discrepancies in the Sacred Text with respect to the number of captives that returned from Babylon, Ezra ii, 2.

Alukah, עלוקה, rendered "horseleech," probably a proper name, Prov. xxx, 14.

Aluph, אלוף, what it imports, Gen. xxxv, 15. Exod. xv, 15. Jer. xi, 19.

Alush, the ninth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 13.

Αμαρτια, reference to a great number of passages in the Septuagint where חטאה or חטאת, sin-offering, is so translated, 2 Cor. v, 21.

Αμαρτωλος, sinner, a word generally signifying a heathen throughout the Gospels, and in some other parts of the New Testament, Matt. ix, 10. Mark ii, 16. Luke vii, 37; xiii, 4; xv, 1; xxiv, 7. Gal. ii, 15.

Ambidexter, to be an, in high repute among the ancients, Judg. iii, 15. Quotations from Homer and Aristotle in illustration of this circumstance, ibid.

Amen, its import, Matt. vi, 13. John x, 1. Whence derived according to some, Matt. vi, 13. Very whimsical Rabbinical derivation of this word, Numb. v, 22. This response considered by the ancient Jews of the highest authority and merit, 1 Cor. xiv, 16. The repetition of this word among the Jewish writers thought to be of equal import with the most solemn oath, John iii, 3; xxi, 25.

American Indians, singular opinion of the author of a work intituled The Star in the West, respecting the origin of these people, Hos. ix, 17.

Americans, the Gog of Ezekiel, according to Mede, Ezek. xxxviii, 2.

Amethyst, account of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17. Rev. xxi, 20.

Amorites, where formerly situated, Josh. iii, 10. A name often given to the Canaanites in general, 2 Sam. xxi, 2.

Amos, short biographical sketch of, Introduction to Amos, pp. i, ii. Observations of Jerom, Lowth, and Newcome, on the style of this prophet, ibid. p. ii.

Amphipolis, a city of Macedonia, by whom built, and why so named, Acts xvii, 1.

Amriolkais, an Arabic poet, whose works are in the Moâllakat, Psa. lx, in principio.

Amru, an eminent Arabian poet, Psa. lx, in principio.

Amygdalus communis, or Common Almond-tree, description of the, Numb. xvii, 8.

Anammelech, an object of idolatrous worship among the Sepharvites, 2 Kings xvii, 31. Meaning of the name, ibid. Represented under the form of a horse, according to Jarchi, ibid. Probably the same with the Moloch of the Ammonites, ibid.

Αναπληρουται, a very important meaning of this Greek word which is generally overlooked, Matt. xiii, 14.

Αναστασις, and Εξαναστασις, in what these words probably differ in import, Phil. iii, 11.

Αναθεμα of the same import with the cherem, חרם, of the Rabbins, Rom. ix, 3. 1 Cor. xvi, 22. See Cherem.

Anathoth, situation of, according to Eusebius, Jerom, and Josephus, Isa. x, 28.

Anav, ענו, rendered meek, what it properly imports, Numb. xii, 3.

Anaximander, supposed by the Greeks to have been the inventor of the division of the day into hours, Dan. iii, 6.

Anaximenes, singular anecdote concerning, Eccles. ix, 14.

Ancient Versions, readings in the, confirmed by Hebrew manuscripts, Gen. xxv, 8; xlix, 25. Judges iii, 7. Job v, 15; ix, 33; xxi, 13. Psa. ix, in principio; xvi, 10; xxiv, 6; xxv, 5; xxxiv, 10; liii, 4; lvii, 8; lix, 9; lxxxix, 17; xc, 1, 17; cx, 1, 3, 6, 7; cxv, in principio. Prov. viii, 15. Isaiah i, 29; ii, 10; iii, 6; xiv, 3; xviii, 4; xxv, 2; xxix, 3, 11; xxx, 6; xxxii, 13; xli, 2, 3; xlii, 20; xliv, 11; xlvii, 13; xlviii, 11; xlix, 5; l, 2; li, 19; lii, 15; liii, 3; liv, 8; lvi, 10; lvii, 12; lviii, 13; lx, 4; lxii, 5; lxiii, 6; lxv, 23; lxvi, 18; Jer. xviii, 13.

Ancile, or sacred shield that fell from heaven in the reign of Numa Pompilius, probably an aerolith, Josh. x, 11.

Aneb el dib, a name given by the Arabs to the solanum incanum, or hoary nightshade, Isa. v, 2.

Ανηρ προφητης, a Hebraism for προφητης, according to some, Luke xxiv, 19. A more probable meaning of this phrase proposed, and illustrated by several examples from sacred and profane writers, ibid.

Ανηρ διψυχος, the man of two souls, import of this Hebraism, James i, 8.

Angari, the messengers or posts among the ancient Persians, Matt. v, 41. Their modern appellation, ibid.

Angel, its general import in the Scriptures, Genesis xxxii, 1. Exod. iii, 2. Eccles. v, 6. Hag. i, 13. Remarkable passage in Philo Judæus relative to the Angel in whom is the name of Jehovah, Exod. xxiii, 20.

Angel of death, how represented by the Jews, 1 Cor. xv, 55. Jewish fables concerning, Heb. ii, 14.

Angelic ministry, doctrine of, defended, Genesis xxxii, 1, 2. Zech. i, 2. Matt. xviii, 10. Remarkable passage in Hesiod respecting the ministration of angels, Gen. xxxii, 1.

Angels, strange opinions of the Rabbins relative to the formation of, Heb. i, 7.

Anglo-Saxon Version, some account of the, General Preface, p. xxxi. Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xix.

Animalcules, astonishing minuteness of some species inhabiting the water, Gen. i, 20.

Animals, offered to God under the Jewish dispensation, thoughts concerning the, Lev. i, 2. The Pagan theology differed widely in this respect from the law of Moses, ibid. Animals that had been employed for agricultural purposes not offered in sacrifice by the Hebrews, Greeks, Romans, nor Egyptians, Numb. xix, 2. Mark xi, 2.

Animals clean and unclean among the Jews, observations concerning, with an inquiry into the derivation of the various Hebrew words by which these animals are expressed, Lev. xi. Their Linnæan classification and description, Deut. xiv.

Anna Perenna, a Pagan feast of antiquity, how celebrated, Lev. xxiii, 34.

Annihilation of the wicked, doctrine of the, considered, Matt. xxv, 46; xxvi, 24.

Anointing, ceremony of, see Unction.

Anointing the head with oil, very frequent among the ancient Jews, Luke vii, 46.

Anointing the sick, a ceremony frequent among the ancient Jews, Mark vi, 13.

Anointing of our Lord, Bishop Newcome's account of the, Matt. xxv, in fine.

Anointing of stones, images, &c, to set them apart to idolatrous worship, common among ancients and moderns, Gen. xxviii, 18. Isa. lvii, 6.

Anomalies, instances of, which are all probably corruptions, Isa. i, 30; v, 1; li, 16; lxiii, 2.

Ant, natural history of the, Prov. vi, 6.

Antarah, an eminent Arabic poet, whose work is contained in the Moâllakat, Psa. lx, in principio.

Antares, longitude of this fixed star, B. C. 2337, and A. D. 1800, Job ix, in fine.

Antediluvian patriarchs, Table of the great discrepancies in the Hebrew, Samaritan, and Septuagint copies with respect to the time they are stated to have lived before their sons' births, Gen. v, 3.

Antehieronymian Versions of the Scriptures, some account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xvi.

Anthologia, citation of a passage from the, in which the hen's affection for her brood is very beautifully described, Matt. xxiii, 27.

Anthony, immense debt contracted by this individual, the whole of which was paid in less than a month, Esth. iii, 9.

Ανθρωπινη ἡμερα, a frequent import of this phrase, 1 Cor. iv, 3.

Anthropopathia, a striking example of this metaphor, Isaiah i, 24.

Ανθρωπος, examples produced in which this word is apparently used as an expletive, Acts vii, 2. Derivation of this word, according to the best etymologists, 1 Pet. iii, 4.

Antichrist, who or what, in the apostolic sense of the word, 1 John ii, 18.

Αντιδικος, rendered adversary, a forensic term, Matt. v, 25.

Antigone of Sophocles, quotation from the, very similar to a passage in the Psalms, Psa. cxxi, 4.

Antimony employed by the Asiatics in staining the eyes, 2 Kings ix, 30.

Antinomianism, a very dangerous heresy, against which the church of Christ should be always on its guard, Rom. iii, in fine. 1 Cor. iii, 15. Heb. iii, 1. James v, in fine.

Antioch, a city of Syria, by whom built, and where situated, Acts xi, 19. The disciples of the Lord first called Christians in this city, Acts xi, 26.

Antioch in Pisidia, analysis of St. Paul's sermon at this place, Acts xiii, 52.

Antioch, several cities of this name, Acts xiii, 14.

Antiochus Epiphanes, account of his defiling the Temple, John x, 22. This Syrian monarch supposed by Martin to be the Gog of Ezekiel, Ezek. xxxviii, 2.

Antipas, a martyr of the primitive Christian church, very uncertain who, Rev. ii, 13. A work still extant, professing to give an account of this man, a most manifest forgery, Rev. ii, 13.

Antipatris, where situated, Acts xxiii, 31. Why so named, ibid. Anciently called Capharsaba; and supposed to be the same with the Capharsalama, or Capharsaluma, of the Apocrypha, ibid.

Antonia, description of the castle of, by Josephus, Acts xxi, 31. Built by John Hyrcanus, and was the royal residence of the Asmonean princes as long as they reigned in Jerusalem, ibid. Its original appellation, ibid.

Antoninus, (Marcus,) a very remarkable saying of this Roman emperor, when speaking of Nature, whom he addresses as God, Rom. xi, 35.

Anubis, a city of Egypt, why also called Cynopolis, Exodus xi, 7.

Anubis Latrator, why this Egyptian idol was so named, Exod. xi, 7.

Apalim, עפלים, rendered emerods, probably means the bleeding piles, 1 Sam. v, 8.

Απατωρ, αμητωρ, without father, without mother, shewn to be a Jewish phrase, importing that the name of the father or mother was not entered in the public genealogical registers, Heb. vii, 3.

Απαυγασμα, synonymous with ηλιε φεγγος, according to Hesychius, Heb. i, 3. In what απαυγασμα differs in import from αυγασμα, ibid.

Αφεδρων, rendered draught, what it properly imports, Matt. xv, 17.

Apicius, an individual immensely rich, Esth. iii, 9. His tragical end, ibid.

Apion, very fanciful reason given by this ancient grammarian why Homer commenced his Iliad with the word μηνιν, Rev. xiii, 18.

Apis, an object of Egyptian idolatry, Gen. xliii, 32. Deut. iv, 17. Thought to have been posterior to the time of Joseph, ibid. The molten calf of Aaron supposed by some to have been an exact resemblance of this Egyptian idol, Exod. xxxii, 4. For what purpose a white bull was occasionally sacrificed to Apis by the Egyptians, Lev. xvi, 10. The white bull thus to be sacrificed must be without blemish, John vi, 27. Account by Herodotus of the curious mode adopted by the Egyptians of ascertaining whether the animal were proper for sacrifice, ibid.

Apocalypse, see Revelation.

Αποκρισις, inquiry into the import of this term, Luke ii, 47.

Apocryphal Writings, that St. Paul quoted from the, according to the opinion of some, utterly incredible, Isaiah lxvi, 4.

Αποκαθισανειν, different acceptations of this word, Acts i, 6.

Apollo, whence this Heathen Divinity had his name, according to Plutarch, Exod. iii, in fine. Worshipped under the form of a crow by the ancient Egyptians, Exod. viii, 26. Whence the fable of Apollo, or the sun being seated in a blazing chariot, drawn by horses which breathed and snorted fire, originated, according to some, 2 Kings ii, 11.

Apollonia, a city of Macedonia, Acts xvii, 1.

Apollos, remarkable that a Jew should have been so named, Acts xviii, 24. How this circumstance may be accounted for, ibid.

Apologies of the primitive Christians, brief account of the, 2 Tim. iv, in fine.

Apology, ancient and modern acceptations of this word, Acts xxii, 1. 2 Tim. iv, 16.

Απομυιος, why this epithet was applied to Jupiter, Exodus viii, 24.

Aponius, a commentator on Solomon's Song, General Preface, p. vi.

Apostasy, five degrees of, pointed out, Heb. iii, 12.

Apostasy of the latter times, Bishop Newton's observations on St. Paul's prophecy concerning the, 1 Tim. iv, in fine.

Apostle, derivation and import of this word, Matt. x, 2. Rom. i, 1. Αποστολοι, apostles, and κηρυκες, heralds, used synonymously by Herodotus, ibid. Essential to the character of an apostle that he had seen and conversed with Christ, 1 Cor. ix, 1; xv, 8.

Appeals to the emperor, ancient Roman laws respecting, Acts xxv, 11.

Appii Forum, a town about 52 miles from Rome, now called Cæsarilla de S. Maria, Acts xxviii, 15.

Aquila, a translator of the Hebrew Scriptures into Greek, General Preface, p. xxx.

Arabic Version of the Old Testament, some account of the, General Preface, p. xxxi. Isa. lxvi, in fine. Short account of the Arabic Versions of the New Testament, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. xiv, xv.

Arabon, ערבון, rendered pledge, inquiry into its import, Gen. xxxviii, 17. 2 Cor. i, 22.

Araboth, ערבות, the seventh heaven, according to the Rabbins, 2 Cor. xii, 2.

Arabs, their independent condition from the remotest antiquity an irrefragable proof of the Divine origin of the Pentateuch, Gen. xvi, 12. Dr. Shaw's account of the manner in which the Arabs entertain strangers, Judg. vi, 19. Volney's description of their personal appearance, Job v, 5. Various tribes of Arabs, Isa. xlii, 11.

Aram Naharaim, the same with Mesopotamia, Amos ix, 7.

Araspes, very remarkable anecdote concerning, related by Xenophon in his life of Cyrus, Rom. vii, 20.

Aratus, St. Paul's citation from the Phænomena of, in his celebrated sermon at Athens, Acts xvii, 28.

Arbiter bibendi, among the Romans, who, Esth. i, 8.

Arbor infelix, the tree on which criminals were hanged was so named among the Romans, Josh. viii, 29. Esther vii, 8.

Archangel, this word not found in the Sacred Writings in the plural number, and why, Jude 9.

Αρχεσθαι, extensive import of this word in the Sacred Canon, John xiii, 5.

Archimedes, how this celebrated mathematician destroyed the Roman fleet, and thus prolonged for a short time the political existence of Syracuse, Eccles. ix, 14. Acts xxviii, 12.

Architecture of the Temple, Dr. Delaney's remarks on the Divine original of the, 1 Chron. xxviii, 19.

Architriclinus, original acceptation of this word, John ii, 8. What it afterwards imported, ibid.

Arcturus, import of the Hebrew word so translated very uncertain, Job ix, 9.

Ardsheer Diraz Dest, the same with Artaxerxes Longimanus, Ezra. i, 1.

Areopagus, a hill not far from the Acropolis, where the supreme court of justice of the Athenians was held, one of the most sacred and reputable courts in the whole Gentile world, Acts xvii, 19. Poetic fiction from which this Athenian court obtained its name, ibid. Proverbial impartiality of the judges of the Areopagus, ibid. Time of their sitting, great solemnity of their deliberations, and their mode of giving decisions, ibid.

Argonautics, citation of a passage from the, which bears a close analogy to a part of the history of Jonah, Jonah i, 14.

Arianism, probable origin of, Heb. i, in fine.

Ariel, conjecture why Jerusalem was so named, Isa. xxix, 1.

Ariopharnes, king of Thrace, anecdote respecting, 1 Kings iii, 25.

Aristides, the author of an apology for the Christians, long since lost, 2 Tim. iv, in fine.

Αριστον, what among the Jews, Luke xi, 37. John xxi, 12. The legal hour of the αριστον on the sabbath, according to Josephus, Luke xi, 37.

Aristotle, works of, said to contain four hundred and forty-five thousand two hundred and seventy verses, in what sense we are to understand this statement, Introduction to Ezra, p. xi.

Ark of Noah, its tonnage according to Arbuthnot, Gen. vi, 15. Shown to have been sufficiently capacious to contain every species of animal, with food for twelve months, ibid. Dr. Lightfoot's calculation of its draught of water, Gen. viii, 4.

Ark, in which were deposited the two tables of stone, its construction and dimensions, Exod. xxv, 10. Why the ark is called the footstool of God, Isa. lx, 13.

Arks of the Heathens, some account of the, Exod. xxv, in fine.

Armageddon, the original of this word variously formed, and variously translated, Rev. xvi, 16.

Armenian version of the New Testament, account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xv.

Armour, burning of, as an offering made to the god supposed to be the giver of victory, a custom among some Heathen nations, Isa. ix, 4. The Romans used it as an emblem of peace, ibid. Description of a medal struck by Vespasian illustrative of this ancient custom, ibid.

Armour, offensive and defensive, of the ancients, particular description of the, Eph. vi, 13.

Arms of the first inhabitants of the earth, as described by Lucretius, Eph. vi, 13.

Arpach, ארפח, import of this memorial symbol of the Rabbins, Masoretic Notes at the end of Numbers.

Αρπαγμος, inquiry into the import of this term, Phil. ii, 6.

Arrack made of the juice of the date or palm-tree, Psa. xcii, 12.

Αρρεν, why this appellation was given to the spirit of man, James i, 15.

Arrows, customary among the Heathens to represent any judgment from the gods under the notion of, Deut. xxxii, 23. Arrows, round the heads of which inflammable matter was rolled and then ignited, were used by the ancients and shot into towns to set them on fire, and were discharged among the towers and wood-works of besiegers, Psa. lxxvi, 3.

Arsenal, for the temple provided by David, according to Josephus, 2 Kings xi, 10.

Αρτεμων improperly translated mainsail, Acts xxvii, 40.

Arvad, or Arad, where situated, Ezek. xxvii, 8.

As of the Romans, what, Matt. x, 29.

Asa, king of Judah, his very magnificent funeral, 2 Chron. xvi, 14.

Asaph, a very celebrated musician who flourished in the time of David, Psa. l, in principio. Twelve of the Psalms in the Sacred Canon, which bear the name of Asaph, thought by some to have been written by him, ibid. The style of David and Asaph compared, ibid.

Aschenaz, where situated, Jer. li, 27.

Asher, why so named, Gen. xxx, 13.

Asherah, אשרה, rendered grove, more probably signifies an idol of some description; perhaps the same with the Venus of the Pagan mythology, 2 Kings xxi, in fine.

Ashes upon the head, a sign of sorrow and great distress among many nations, 1 Sam. iv, 12.

Ashima, an ancient object of idolatrous worship, 2 Kings xvii, in fine.

Ashtoreth, an idol of the Sidonians, 1 Kings xi, 5; 2 Kings xxiii, 13.

Ashummed Jugg of the Hindoos, particular description of the, with an explanation of the mystic ceremonies, as given by the commentators upon their original scriptures, Lev. xvi, 10. A very close copy of the Jewish scape-goat, ibid.

Asia, different acceptations of this word in ancient and modern writers, 1 Pet. i, 1.

Asiarchs, those to whom the regulation of the public games was entrusted, Acts xix, 31.

Asiatic bow, description of the, Psa. lxxviii, 57. Figure of its form in its quiescent state, and when ready to discharge the arrow or missile, ibid. Zech. ix, 14.

Asiatic idols, description of several in the Author's possession. Ezek. i, 10.

Asiatic Proverbs, collection of, Prov. xxxi, in fine.

Asipatravana, what, Matt. viii, 12.

ΑΣΚΙΟΝ, an Ephesian character or amulet, Acts xix, 19. Its import, ibid.

Asmoneans, observations on the motto said to have been upon their ensigns, Exod. xv, 11.

Asnapper, very uncertain who, Ezra iv, 10.

Asp, a very small serpent peculiar to Egypt and Libya, Psa. xci, 13. No remedy for the bite of an asp, ibid. Singular effect of the venom upon the animal system, ibid. Why Cleopatra, the celebrated queen of Egypt, chose to die by the bite of this animal, ibid.

Asphaltitis, Lake of, exceedingly salt, Josh. xv, 62.

Ασπις, the clypeus or shield, account of this species of defensive armour among the ancients, Eph. vi, 13.

Ass, speech of, to Balaam, as given in the Targums of Jonathan ben Uzziel and Jerusalem, 2 Pet. ii, 16.

Ass's head in the Holy of Holies, probable origin of the story of the Heathens, that the Jews had a figure of this description to which they paid religious worship, 2 Kings xvii, in fine.

Assarius, the twenty-fourth part of a silver penny, Mark xiii, 41.

Assembly of Divines, account of their Notes upon the Scriptures, General Preface, p. x.

Assos, a maritime town of Asia Minor, called also Apollonia, Acts xx, 13.

Assyrians, their origin, Gen. xxv, 18. The same people with the Babylonians, according to Herodotus and Strabo, Isa. xlv, 25.

Astrology, Judicial, demonstrated to be vain, unfounded, absurd, and wicked, 1 Sam. vi, in fine.

Astronomical Phœnomena very difficult to be accounted for upon natural principles, and strong evidences of the being and continual agency of God, Heb. xi, in fine.

Asuppim, The House of, why so named, 1 Chron. xxvi, 15.

Asyla of the Greeks and Romans, for what purpose erected, Numb. xxxv, 11.

Athenagoras, a Christian apologist of the second century, whose work is still extant, 2 Tim. iv, in fine.

Athenodorus, remarkable anecdote concerning, Matt. vi, 15.

Athenians, a people formerly grossly superstitious, Acts xvii, 16. Citations from Pausanias and Petronius in illustration of this circumstance, ibid. Passages from Demosthenes and Thucydides which concur in the statement of St. Luke that the Athenians spent their time in nothing else but either to tell or to hear some new thing, Acts xvii, 21. Foolish notion of the Athenians that they were self-produced finely ridiculed by Lucian, Acts xvii, 26. Observations on the religious disposition of the Athenians, Acts xvii, in fine.

Athens, a very celebrated city of antiquity, by whom founded, Acts xvii, 15. Its ancient appellation, ibid. On what account it obtained its present name, ibid. Now under the power of the Turks, who have turned the celebrated Parthenion into a mosque, ibid.

Atlas, fable of, whence it originated, Job xxvi, 11.

Atmosphere, enumeration of some of the great benefits derived from the, Job xxviii, in fine. Calculation of its pressure upon the whole terraqueous globe, 1 Sam. ii, in fine. Job xxviii, in fine. Observations on its refractive nature, 2 Kings xx, in fine. In what sense the atmosphere may be termed the belt or girdle of the earth, ibid.

Atonement, or expiation, for sin, tradition concerning, strongly and universally retained among the Heathens, 2 Kings xvii, in fine. The necessity of an atonement for sin the loud and constant cry of the whole Mosaic œconomy, Luke xviii, 13.

Attic moneys, Tables of the, Exod. xxxvi, 24.

Αττικοι, Attics, in what they differed from Αττικισαι, Atticists. Acts vi, 1.

Attraction, or Gravity, thoughts on this astonishing influence which has been lately demonstrated to pervade the material universe, Heb. xi, in fine.

Attyr of roses, bottles containing this precious fluid, how sealed, Mark xiv, 3.

Atush perest, or worshipper of fire, a name given by way of derision, in Mohammedan countries, to a Christian monk, Matt. ii, 1.

Αυγασμα, see Απαυγασμα.

Augustin, some account of this celebrated commentator, General Preface, p. v. A Manichean till the thirty-second year of his age, Rom. xiii, in fine. History of his conversion to the faith of Christ, ibid.

Augustus, Cohort of, see Cohort.

Aune, an ancient king of Sweden, remarkable for having offered up to Woden his nine sons to obtain the prolongation of his life, Rom. ix, in fine.

Aur, אור, generally translated light, has various imports in different parts of the Old Testament, Gen. i, 3.

Aurea Legenda, character of this Papistical work, 1 Tim. iv, 7.

Aurichalcum, a famous factitious metal of antiquity, Rev. i, 15.

Auricular Confession, such as is prescribed by the Romish church, cannot be supported by the precept of St. James relative to confession, James v, 16.

Aurum Reginæ, or Queen Gold, what, Esth. ii, 18.

Authorized Version, detailed account of the, General Preface, pp. xx—xxiv.

Autumnal Rains, in the East, Dr. Shaw's account of the, with their accompaniments, Psa. cxxxv, 7.

Aval, עול, different acceptations of this word, Matt. xi, in fine.

Avarice, observations on this vice, when covered with the veil of religion, Matt. xxi, 12. John vi, in fine. Very nervous saying of an English poet concerning, Jer. xvii, 11.

Avatars, of the Hindoos, what, Acts xiv, 11.

Ave Maria, that this salutation was given in a dream, or vision, as some have stated, highly improbable, Luke i, 28.

Aven, or On, the famous Heliopolis, Ezek. xxx, 17.

Aven, plain of, the same with Baal-Bek, according to Calmet, Amos i, 5.

Avites, very uncertain who these people were, 2 Kings xvii, in fine. Conjecture of Grotius respecting them, ibid.

Αξινη, or common battle-ax, a sort of military weapon among the ancients, Eph. vi, 13.

Ayal, איל, Dr. Shaw's opinion relative to the meaning of this Hebrew word, Deut. xii, 15.

Azariah, import of this name, Dan. i, 7.

Azotus of the New Testament the same with the Ashdod of the Old, Acts viii, 40.

Azubah, wife of Caleb, why so named, according to the Targum, 1 Chron. ii, 18.

B.

Baal, what this term imports, Judg. ii, 11.

Baal-Bek, the ancient Aven or Heliopolis, Amos i, 5.

Baal-Hatturim, (Rabbi Jacob,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. iii.

Baal-peor, probably the Priapus of the Moabites, and worshipped with the same obscene and abominable rites, Numb. xxiii, 28. Deut. iii, 29.

Baal-zebub, the god of Ekron, why so named, Exod. viii, 24. 2 Kings i, 2.

Baal-zephon, probably an idol temple, Exod. xiv, 2.

Babbler, original acceptation of the Greek word so translated, Acts xvii, 18.

Babel, derivation and import of this name, Gen. xi, 9.

Babel, Tower of, Heathen testimonies concerning, Gen. xi, 4. Various conjectures relative to the purpose for which this tower was built, Gen. xi, 9.

Babet, or Baby, conjectures respecting the origin of this word, Zech. ii, 8.

Babylon, its great naval power before the time of Cyrus, Isa. xliii, 14. Semiramis the foundress of this part of the Babylonian greatness, ibid. Manner of the taking of Babylon by Cyrus, Isa. xxi, 1; xliv, 27; xlv, 2. Jer. l, 24. Policy of the Persian monarchs in destroying the naval importance of Babylon, Isa. xliii, 14. Some particulars of the greatness of Babylon, Isa. xiii, 19; xlv, 2. Notation of the several steps by which the remarkable prophecies against this great city were ultimately accomplished in its total ruin, ibid. The annihilation of its walls accounted for, ibid. Deliverance from Babylon a frequent figure in the prophetical writings for the deliverance of the people of God from the power of evil under the Gospel dispensation, Isa. xl, 6—8.

Babylonian embassy to Hezekiah, observations on the, 2 Kings xxi, in fine.

Babylonians, a singular custom among these people of selling all their marriageable virgins by public auction, Gen. xxix, 20. In what the dress of this people consisted, according to Herodotus, Dan. iii, 21.

Babylonish captivity, enumeration of the classes of persons who returned from the, according to the Talmud, Matt. i, 8.

Babylonish robes, some account of the, Josh. vii, 21.

Bacchus, some portions of the fable concerning, very similar to what is related of Moses, Exod. iv, 17. This idol worshipped under the form of a goat by the ancient Egyptians, Exod. viii, 26. Young women formerly scourged to death by the Spartans and Arçadians to appease the wrath of this divinity, Rom. ix, in fine.

Backbite, and Backbiter, words of Anglo-Saxon origin, Psa. xv, 3. Intended to convey the treble sense of knavishness, cowardice, and brutality, ibid.

Backbone, singular opinion of the Jews respecting the lower joint of the, 1 Cor. xv, 44.

Backsliders, awful condition of, Heb. iii, 12. 2 Pet. i, 9.

Bacon's (Friar,) method of restoring and strengthening the natural heat, 1 Kings i, in fine.

Badad, בדד, import of this word, when employed by the Jews as a memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Numbers.

Badgers' skins, the Hebrew words so translated of very uncertain import, Exod. xxv, 5.

Baeshah, בעשה, various conjectures respecting the meaning of this word, Job xxxi, 40.

Ba gad, בא גד, import of this phrase, when employed by the Jews as a memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Leviticus.

Baking in the East, manner of, with an account of the instruments employed in the process, Lev. ii, 7.

Balaam, character of this prophet of the Most High God, Num. xxiv, in fine. Observations on his famous prophecy concerning a star to spring out of Jacob, Numb. xxiv, 6. The Hebrew word בלעם, Balaâm, and the Greek word Νικολαος, Nicolaus, of the same import, Introduction to the Second Epistle of Peter, pp. v, vi.

Balance, trial by the, a species of ordeal among the Hindoos, Numb. v, in fine.

Bale, bishop of Ossory, account of this commentator, Preface to the Revelation, pp. ix, x. Specimens of his mode of interpreting the prophecies relative to Babylon the Great, ibid, and see Rev. xviii.

Balls, thoughts on their ruinous tendency, Matt. xiv, 12.

Bambukholasi, see Hierapolis.

Banditti, hordes of, frequent in Arabia to the present day, Job i, 15.

Banner, giving the, a very ingenious illustration of, by Mr. Harmer, Psa. lx, 4, et in fine.

Baptism, a rite among the ancient Jews, by which proselytes were received into the full enjoyment of the Jewish privileges, John i, 25. How baptism was administered by the primitive Christians, Matt. iii, 6; xxviii, 19. Mark xvi, in fine. Copious extract from Dr. Lightfoot relative to the nature and importance of baptism, Mark xvi, in fine. Baptism of water not superseded by the baptism of the Holy Ghost. This clearly proved in the case of the first Gentile converts, all of whom had received the Holy Ghost previously to their baptism by water, Acts x, 47, 48. The iteration of baptism, after it has been once essentially performed, a profanation of this sacred rite, Acts xix, 5.

Baptism by fire, strange trifling of the primitive professors of Christianity relative to the import of this phrase, Matt. iii, 11.

Baptismal registers in churches, origin of, Rev. iii, 5.

Bar, import of this Syriac word, Mark x, 46.

Barabbas, very remarkable reading in a Vatican manuscript relative to the name of this murderer, Matt. xxvii, 16.

Barac, ברך, generally rendered to bless, very extensive import of the original word, Gen. ii, 3. 1 Kings xxi, 9.

Barbarian, Barbarus, Βαρβαρος, what anciently intended by this term, Acts xxviii, 2. Rom. i, 14. Its etymology, according to Bishop Pearce, ibid.

Barbarous nations, dreadful violence of their irruptions into the Roman dominions in the fifth century, as described by Drs. Mosheim and Robertson, Rev. xii, 15.

Barbary, Dr. Shaw's account of the chocolate-coloured pottage made by the inhabitants of, Gen. xxv, 29.

Barchochab, an impostor in the reign of Adrian, John iv, 29. On what account put to death, ibid.

Bards, among the ancient Druids, who, Numb. xxi, 27.

Barley, considered a very mean fare in the East, John vi, 9. This illustrated by a quotation from Plutarch, ibid.

Barley-harvest, time of its commencement in Palestine, Ruth i, 22.

Barnabas, Chrysostom's conjecture why the Lycaonians took this Christian minister for a manifestation of their supreme divinity, Acts xiv, 12.

Bar Naphli, an appellation of the Messiah among the Rabbins, Acts xv, 16.

Barrady, Maundrell's account of this river, 2 Kings v, 12.

Barrows or Tumuli, in England, what, 2 Sam. xviii, 17.

Bars of the pit, what probably meant by this phrase among the ancients, Job xvii, 16.

Bartholomew, conjecture concerning the real name of this apostle, Matt. x, 4.

Βασιλευς των αιωνων, import of this remarkable apostolical expression, 1 Tim. i, 17.

Baskets and hay, why carried by the Jews, when travelling in Gentile countries, Matt. xiv, 20. Quotations from Sidonius Apollinaris and Juvenal, in which there is an allusion to this custom, ibid.

Bastard wheat, what, Matt. xiii, 25.

Bastinado, short account of the, by J. Antes, Hebrews xi, in fine.

Batanim, בטנים, its import uncertain, Gen. xliii, 11.

Bath, some account of this Hebrew measure of capacity, Exod. xvi, 16. Ezra vii, 22. Luke xvi, 6.

Battering-ram, description of the, Ezek. v, 2. This machine unknown in the time of Homer, ibid.

Battle, trial by, when and where supposed to have had its origin, Numb. v, in fine.

Baxter, (Richard,) a commentator on the New Testament, General Preface, p. xi.

Beards held in high respect in the East, the possessor considering it his greatest ornament, often swearing by it, and in matters of great importance pledging it, 2 Samuel x, 4. Song v, 13. Isa. vii, 20. Never cut off but in mourning, or as a mark of slavery, ibid. Jer. xli, 5. Considered by the Turks a great affront to take a man by his beard, unless it be to kiss it, Isa. vii, 20. Beards of the Macedonians ordered by Alexander to be shaved off, and the singular reason given by this king for this mandate, 2 Sam. ii, 16.

Beating the air, see Αερα δερειν.

Βεβηλος, Profane, whence derived, Heb. xii, 16. An epithet given by the ancient Greeks to any person or thing not consecrated to the gods, ibid.

Bedaui, or Beduui, a people of Arabia, Isa. xliii, 11.

Bede, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. v.

Bedolach, בדלח, translated bdellium, Bochart's opinion respecting the meaning of this word, Gen. ii, 12.

Bedouin, Volney's description of the, Job v, 5.

Beds of ivory, what, Amos vi, 4.

Beech-tree, juice of the, used for drink in the northern parts of Europe, Job xxx, 4.

Beelzebul, or Beelzebub, import of this word, Matt. x, 25. Dr. Lightfoot's very judicious observations, shewing in what the horrid blasphemy of the Jews consisted when they gave the name of Beelzebul to our Lord, ibid.

Bees, Homer's very nervous description of a great swarm of, Psa. cxviii, 12.

Behemah, בהמה, translated cattle, import of the term, Gen. i, 24.

Behemoth, various conjectures respecting the animal intended by this name in Scripture, Job xl, 15. Reasons for supposing it to have been an animal now extinct, perhaps the mammoth, ibid.

Beith, בית, a frequent acceptation of this word, 2 Cor. v, 2.

Belial, its derivation and import, Deut. xiii, 13; xv, 9. Masoretic Notes at the end of Exodus.

Belibbo, בלבו, import of this memorial symbol of the Rabbins,

Bellerophon, son of Glaucus king of Ephyra, story of, supposed to be a fabulous formation from the Scripture account of David's adultery with Bathsheba, and his murder of Uriah, 2 Sam. xi, 14.

Bells on horses, camels, &c, account of the, Zech. xiv, 20.

Βελος, a word signifying any kind of military missile, Eph. vi, 16.

Belt the chief ornament of a soldier, and highly prized in all ancient nations, 2 Sam. xviii, 11. Considered a rich present from one chieftain to another, ibid.

Ben, בן, a son, whence derived, Ruth iv, 11. Psa. cxxvii, 1.

Benedictus, Wakefield's criticism on a remarkable expression in the, Luke i, 76, &c.

Beneficiarii, among the Romans, who, Hab. iii, 6. Luke xxii, 5.

Bene-jaakan, the twenty-seventh station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 31.

Beney Adam, בני אדם, and beney ish, בני איש, very remarkable distinction between, Psa. lxii, 9.

Bengel, (John Albert,) author of an edition of the Greek Testament with various readings and critical notes, General Preface, p. xiv.

Benjamin, why so named, Gen. xxxv, 18. Remarks upon the provisions set before this patriarch by Joseph being much greater than what was set before each of his brethren, Gen. xliii, 34.

Benjamite messenger, remarks upon his very laconic relation of the discomfiture of the Israelites by the Philistines, and of the taking of the ark of God, 1 Sam. iv, 17.

Benson, (Dr.) a commentator on different portions of the New Testament, General Preface, p. xii.

Bequests of lands, &c, to churches or religious uses exceedingly common before the Reformation, Matt. xv, 5. A frequent form of these instruments, ibid.

Berea, a city of Macedonia, near Pella, Acts xvii, 10.

Berenge-arook, among the Hindoos, what, 1 Cor. vii, in fine.

Berenice, or Bernice, sister of Agrippa, character of, Acts xxv, 13.

Bereshith, the first Book of the Hebrew Scriptures, whence so named, General Preface, p. ii.

Berith, ברית, rendered covenant, what it imports, Gen vi, 18; Lev. xxvi, 15.

Beryl, account of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17. Ezek. x, 9.

Bethany, why so named, Isa. x, 30.

Beth-el, meaning of this name, Gen. xxviii, 19.

Bethesda, why probably so named, John v, 2.

Beth-jesimoth, the forty-second and last station of the Israelites in the wilderness, where situated, Numb. xxxiii, 49.

Beth-lehem, two cities of this name in the Promised Land, Matt. ii, 1. Derivation and import of the name, ibid. Appositeness of this appellation to the place of our Lord's birth, ibid.

Bethphagé, where situated, and why probably so named, Matt. xxi, 1.

Bethron, why probably so named, Song ii, 17.

Beth-shean, the same that was afterwards called Scythopolis, Josh. xvii, 11.

Beth-shemesh, various conjectures concerning the number of the inhabitants of, who were smitten for looking into the ark, 1 Sam. vi, 19. The words חמשים אלף איש, chameshim elaph ish, fifty thousand men, which stand in our present Hebrew copies, most probably an interpolation, ibid.

Bethyllia, or consecrated stones, remarks upon the, Gen. xxviii, 18. Job xxxi, 1. Isa. lvii, 6.

Bey of Tunis, manner of his living, as mentioned by Pococke, Neh. iv, 18.

Beza, (Theodore,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. x.

Bezer, one of the cities of refuge, import of the name, Josh. xx, 7.

Bhargas, Sir William Jones's remarks upon this Hindoo word, John i, 9.

Bibliotheca Magna Rabbinica of Bartolocci, account of this great work, General Preface, pp. iii, iv.

Bigotry, reflections on the spirit of, which is manifested by some professing Christians, Mark ix, 39. 2 Pet. i, 7.

Bildad the shuhite, who, Job ii, 11.

Binding and loosing, a mode of expression frequently used by the Jews, Matt. xvi, 19. Its import, ibid.; xviii, 18.

Bipens, a military weapon of the ancients, Eph. vi, 13.

Birds, thoughts on the wonderful structure of their wings and feathers, Gen. i, 22.

Birth-days, keeping of, a custom of very remote antiquity, Gen. xl, 20. Birth-day of a monarch either meant the day on which he was born, or on which he commenced his reign, Matt. xiv, 6.

Bishebuâh, בשבעה, a Jewish memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Deuteronomy.

Bishop, derivation and import of this word, 1 Tim. iii, 2. Fifteen requisite qualifications of a Christian bishop, 1 Tim. iii, 2—7. Remarkable saying of a bishop, Job xix, 15.

Bishop of Rome, Grenville Sharp's observations on the pretended supremacy of the, Luke ix, in fine.

Bismillahi Arrahmani Arraheemi, "In the name of the most merciful and compassionate God," a sentence in very frequent use among the Mohammedans in matters sacred and profane, Col. iv, 17.

Bithynia, boundaries of this ancient kingdom of Asia, 1 Pet. i, 1. Its various appellations, ibid. Now under the domination of the Turks, ibid.

Bitter waters of jealousy, Rabbinical notion how a Jewess, suspected of adultery, could be said, in drinking these waters, to drink the very words of the execration written by the priest, Numb. v, 23.

Bituminous Salt, a species of salt generated at the Lake Asphaltitis, easily rendered vapid, Matt. v, 13.

Black Robes of Christian ministers, thoughts concerning the, Matt. xxviii, 3.

Blair's affecting picture of the death of a wicked man, Job xxvii, 8.

Blaney, (Rev. Mr.) translator of the Prophet Jeremiah, with Notes, General Preface, p. xiv.

Βλασφημια, Blasphemy, its import when used in reference to God, Matt. ix, 3; xv, 19. John x, 33. Acts vi, 11. 1 Cor. iv, 12. 2 Tim. iii, 2; when applied to man, ibid. Among the Jews all who heard a blasphemous speech were obliged to rend their clothes, and never to sew them up again, Matt. xxvi, 65.

Blasphemy of Shelomith's son, very doubtful in what it consisted, Lev. xxiv, 16, &c.

Blasphemy against the Holy Ghost, inquiry into the meaning of this expression, Matt. xii, 31, 32. Dr. Lightfoot's vindication of this phrase and its context from a false gloss of some commentators by numerous citations from Rabbinical writers, Matt. xii, 32.

Blemishes, curious Rabbinical enumeration of the, which disabled a Jew from entering into the priest's office, Lev. xxii, 20.

Blessing, Jewish form of, before and after meat, Matt. xiv, 19; xxvi, 26. The Mohammedan form, Matt. xxvi, 26.

Blessings and curses of the law, observations on the mode in which these were pronounced, and the arrangement of the tribes for this purpose on Mounts Gerizim and Ebal, Deut. xxvii, 26.

Blindness, remarkable cure of, by Cheselden, John ix, 32.

Blood, prohibition of the eating of, one of the seven Noahic precepts, Gen. ix, 4. Philosophical reasons for the prohibition, ibid. The eating of blood forbidden by the law of Moses, Lev. iii, 17; xvii, 10—14. Acts xv, in fine. Dr. Hunter's theory of the vitality of the blood, Lev. xvii, 11.

Bloody sweat, instance of a, as related by De Thou, Luke xxii, 44.

Blotting out of the book of God, what meant by this phrase, Exod. xxxii, 32. Luke x, 20.

Boanerges, inquiry into the derivation of this word, Mark iii, 17. Why, in the opinion of some, this surname was given to the sons of Zebedee, ibid.

Board, account of the, borne by the criminal in China, to which the accusation is affixed, Job xxxi, 36. Matt. xxvii, 37.

Boccore, Dr. Shaw's account of this species of fig, Isa. xxviii, 4.

Bochart, (Samuel,) author of a very accurate work on the geography of the Sacred Writings, General Preface, p. xiii.

Bochim, why probably so named, Judg. ii, 5.

Bodies of the illustrious dead, how treated according to Virgil, 2 Chron. xvi, in fine.

Bohemian Version of the Scriptures, short account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xv.

Boiga, copious extract relative to this serpent from Cepede's History of Oviparous Quadrupeds and Serpents, Matt. x, 16.

Boldon Book, account of the, Matt. xxi, 34. 1 Cor. vii, in fine.

Bolled, import of this word, Exod. ix, 31.

Bones, enumeration of the, in the human body, Job xxxiii, 19.

Bonny, inhabitants of, mode in which these people construct their dwellings, Deut. xx, 5.

Bood-dha, a name of the Deity, among the Hindoos, Luke i, 68.

Book of Life and Book of Death among the Chinese, what, Exod. xxxii, 32. See also Ezek. ix, 1.

Book of the Wars of the Lord, Dr. Lightfoot's opinion concerning the, Numb. xxi, 14.

Booths or sheds, erected in the East by the keepers of the vineyards to cover them from the scorching sun, while watching the ripening grapes, made of the lightest and most worthless materials, Job xxvii, 18.

Borrowing and lending, Christian precept concerning, Matt. v, 42.

Borowlaski, (Count,) some account of this famous Polish dwarf, 1 Sam. xvii, in fine.

Bosc, (Peter du,) account of this French Protestant divine, 1 Cor. ii, 3.

Βοσκεω, in what this word differs in import from ποιμαινεω, John xxi, 15.

Bosom, the place where the Asiatics carry every thing precious or valuable, Job xxiii, 12.

Bottles of the ancients ordinarily made of goat's skin, Gen. xxi, 14. 2 Sam. xvi, 1. Matt. ix, 17. Luke v, 37. Description of one in the Author's possession, 2 Sam. xvii, 28. Job xxxii, 19.

Bounarbachi, a village on the site of which the ancient city of Troy is supposed to have stood, Acts xvi, 8.

Bow, the grand weapon of our English ancestors, 2 Sam. viii, 18.

Bow, Song of the, remarks upon its great excellencies, 2 Sam. i, in fine. Dr. Kennicott's Latin version, ibid.

Bow of the Asiatics, description of the, Psa. lxxviii, 57. Figure of its form in its quiescent state, and when ready to discharge the missile, ibid. Hos. vii, 16. Zech. ix, 14. General dimensions of the Persian bows according to Xenophon, Isa. xiii, 18.

Bowing the body, manner of, in Eastern countries, Exod. iv, 31. The Jewish custom in this respect described, ibid.

Boxing match between Entellus and Dares, Virgil's description of the, 1 Cor. ix, 26.

Boyd, (H. S.) observations by this Greek critic on two remarkable laws to which the Greek article is universally subjected, Eph. vi, in fine. See also the Addenda at the end of Colossians, Titus iii, in fine, and Heb. i, in fine. The influence of these rules on certain passages in the Septuagint Version, and also in the New Testament, shewn to be a very powerful auxiliary evidence in favour of an essential article of the Christian religion, viz. the Divinity of Jesus Christ, ibid.

Boyle, anecdote relative to his great reverence for the name of God, 2 Cor. xii, 4.

Βραβευτης, the person who awarded the prize to the victor in the ancient Grecian games, 1 Cor. ix, 27.

Brahma, the Hindoo deity in his creative quality, Luke i, 68. John i, 14.

Brain, contained in the cranium, and enveloped with the dura and pia mater, the golden bowl of Scripture, Eccles xii, 6. Why so named, ibid.

Branches, Feast of, for what purpose instituted, Exod. xxiii. 14.

Branches of Supplication, ικετηριας θαλλοι, import of this phrase as used by Herodian and others, Heb. v, 7.

Brass, a factitious metal known from very remote antiquity, Exod. xxv, 3. Psa. xviii, 34. How made, ibid. Job xxviii, 2.

Breaking of the bread, essential in the right administration of the Lord's supper, Matt. xxvi, 26.

Breaking the jaws of the wicked, a metaphor taken from hunting, Job xxix, 17.

Breastplate of judgment, why so named, Exod. xxviii, 15. Its description and ornaments, ibid. Breastplates, something like that of the Jewish highpriest, formerly worn by the president of the courts of justice in Egypt, Exod. xxviii, 30.

Bribery, ordinance against, in Magna Charta, Exod. xxiii, 8. 1 Sam. viii, 3. Mic. vii, 9. Some account of the intolerable abuses which prevailed in this country before the publication of the Great Charter, ibid.

Bricks, dimensions of the, commonly used by the ancients in building, according to Palladius, Ezek. v, 1. Manner of their formation, Isa. ix, 9; xiii, 19; xxx, 13. Nah. iii, 14.

Bride, how long a woman was considered among the Jews to be a, after marriage, Matt. ix, 15.

Brimstone, used by the ancients in their superstitious purifications, Job xviii, 15. This illustrated by quotations from Pliny, Ovid, and Servius, ibid.

British army, descending scale of commanders in a, Numb. ii, in fine. Ascending scale of ranks which every officer must pass through, ibid.

British Constitution, great advantages of the, pointed out, 1 Sam. viii, in fine. Shewn to be much more excellent than even the constitution of the kingdom of Israel in the reign of David, 2 Sam. v, in fine.

British and Foreign Bible Society, great extent of its operations, Rev. xiv, 6.

Broidered coat what, Exod. xxviii, 4.

Bruce's opinion respecting the situation of Ezion-geber, Tarshish, and Ophir, 1 Kings ix, in fine. His account of Solomon's voyage to Ophir, 1 Kings x, in fine. His description of the manner in which the rain-clouds are frequently collected together in Abyssinia, 1 Kings xviii, 44.

Brundusium, import of this name in the ancient language of that country, Isa. v, 1.

Brute creation, doctrine of the restoration of the, to a state of happiness considered, Rom. viii, in fine. The Sacred Canon totally silent upon this subject, ibid. Several reasons produced to shew that this doctrine is not destitute of probability, ibid.

Brydone, (Mr. Patrick,) his argument against the Mosaic account of the creation, drawn from the eruptions of Mount Ætna and the formation of the different lavas, considered, Gen. i, in fine.

Bubastis, a city in which the Egyptians were accustomed to hold their principal annual feast in honour of Diana, Exod. x, 9.

Budhoo, priests of, manner of their dancing, jumping, &c, when making offerings to their dæmon-gods, 1 Kings xviii, 26. Priests of this idol shave their heads close to the skin, Ezek. xliv, 20.

Buildings, Eastern, description of the walls, &c, of the, Isa. ix, 9; xiii, 19; xxx, 13.

Bul, an ancient Hebrew month, answering to a part of our October and November, 1 Kings vi, 38. This name supposed to be of Chaldean origin, 1 Kings vi, 1.

Burdensome stone, what probably meant by this expression, Zech. xii, 3.

Burkitt, (Rev. William,) author of a very useful commentary on the New Testament, General Preface, p. xi.

Burkius, (Phil. David,) author of Notes on the Twelve Minor Prophets, General Preface, p. xiv.

Burns, (Charles,) extraordinary stature of this man, 1 Sam. xvii, in fine.

Burnt-offerings have been common among almost all the people of the earth, Lev. i, 4.

Burying in towns, churches, and chapels, observations on the great impropriety of, Lev. xi, 8. Luke vii, 12.

C.

Cab, see Kab.

Cables made by the Egyptians of the leaves of the flag, Job viii, 11.

Cab-od, כב-וד, a memorial symbol of the Rabbins, Masoretic Notes at the end of Deuteronomy.

Caducæus, or Caduceus, the peculiar badge or ensign of the ancient heralds, Matt. iii, in fine. The Caducæus, or rod of Mercury, evidently borrowed from the Scripture account of the rod of Moses, Exod. iv, 17. Matt. iii, in fine.

Cœli ennarrant, first six verses of this Psalm from an old English manuscript, Psa. xix, 3.

Cœlius Antipater, an accredited historian who lived before the time of Pliny, Isa. ii, 13—16. This writer assures us that he had seen a merchant who had made a voyage from Gades to Æthiopia, ibid.

Cæsar, remarkable saying of, respecting his mutinous soldiers, Tit. i, 16.

Cæsarea Philippi, where situated, Matt. xvi, 13. Its ancient names, ibid.

Caftans, among the Asiatics, what, Matt. xxii, 11. To refuse to accept or wear the caftan deemed the highest insult, ibid.

Caiaphas, the highpriest, some account of, Matt. xxvi, 3.

Cain, import of this name, Gen. iv, 1.

Cairns, what, Josh. vii, 26. 2 Sam. xviii, 17.

Caius Caligula, remarkable saying of Tiberius Cæsar concerning, Luke iii, 1.

Calais, affecting history of the six citizens of, who presented themselves before Edward III, with ropes round their necks, and the keys of the town and castle in their hands, 1 Kings xx, in fine.

Calendar of the ancient Romans, in which is incorporated the festivals, &c, of the present Romish church, Rom. xvi, in fine.

Calmet, (Dom Augustin,) a very celebrated commentator upon the whole Scriptures, General Preface, pp. vii, viii, His enumeration of the different ways in which a Hebrew might lose his liberty, Exod. xxi, 2.

Calneh, the same with Ctesiphon, according to Calmet. Amos iv, 2.

Caloric, or natuarl heat, when accumulated in any particular part, will diffuse itself to all bodies with which it comes in contact, till their temperature be equal, 2 Kings iv, 35.

Calvary, the place of our Lord's crucifixion, why probably so named, Matt. xxvii, 33.

Calves of gold, set up by Jeroboam, remarks concerning the, 1 Kings xii, 28, 29.

Calvin, (John,) a commentator on all the prophets and the Evangelists, General Preface, p. ix.

Cambyses, king of Persia, the Gog of Ezekiel, according to Calmet, Ezek. xxxviii, 2.

Camel, Volney's description of the, Job v, 5.

Camel passing through the eye of a needle, a proverbial form of expression among the ancients, Matt. xix, 24. Examples produced, ibid.

Campbell, (Dr.) author of a treatise on the Evangelists, General Preface, p. xii.

Cana of Galilee, its situation, John ii, 1.

Canaan, Land of, its superficial contents, Numb. xviii, 21. What proportion of the Promised Land belonged to the Levites, ibid.

Canaanites, where those people, particularly so named, were situated, Josh. iii, 10.

Candace, Bruce's observations respecting the territory under the subjection of this queen, Acts viii, 27. Strabo's account of a queen of the Æthiopians of this name who reigned before the commencement of the Christian æra, ibid. Candace a common name of the queens of Æthiopia, according to Pliny, ibid.

Candia, how the island of Crete obtained this appellation, Preface to Titus, p. iv.

Candle, or Lamp, often used as the emblem of prosperity and posterity, Job xxi, 17.

Candles, always lighted up by the Jews at the commencement of their sabbath, Luke xxiii, 54. Solemn precept to this effect, ibid.

Candlestick, Golden, of the Temple or Tabernacle, description of the, Exod. xxv, 31.

Candlesticks in the Heathen temples, bearing a great number of lamps, Exod. xxv, in fine.

Canoes, formerly wholly constructed from the papyrus, Isa. xviii, 1, 2.

Cantate Domino, great similarity between this Psalm and the Magnificat, or Song of the Blessed Virgin, Psa. xcviii, in fine. List of the most striking parallels, ibid.

Canticles, Book of, carefully transcribed from a manuscript of the fourteenth century in the Editor's possession, Introduction to Solomon's Song, in fine.

Caoinan, particular description of this funeral solemnity of the Irish, Matt. ix, 32.

Cape of Good Hope, passage round the, known to the ancients, Isa. ii, 13—16. This navigation recovered by the Portuguese, after it had been lost for many centuries, ibid.

Capernaum, situation of this famous city of antiquity, Matt. iv, 13. John vi, 17.

Caphtor, the island of Crete, Amos ix, 7.

Capadocians, from whom descended, Gen. x, 2.

Caraba, description of the, Isa. xxv, 6.

Carabas, Philo's account of this man being invested by the inhabitants of Alexandria with the mock ensigns of royalty in derision of Agrippa, whom Caligula had appointed tetrarch, Matt. xxvii, 29.

Caravans, in the East, some account of the, Song vi, 4. Manner in which the hadgees or pilgrims are conducted by these conveyances in their travels by night, ibid.

Carbuncle, account of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17.

Carduus vulgatissimus, a species of thistle amazingly prolific, Gen. iii, 18.

Carmel, altar on this mount mentioned by Tacitus and Suetonius, which Vespasian went to consult, 1 Kings xviii, 30.

Carmelites, religious order of the, different opinions respecting the time of the foundation of this order, Josh. xix, 26.

Carolina sylvestris, a species of thistle extremely prolific, Gen. iii, 18.

Carthaginian ambassadors, very humiliating manner of their supplicating the Romans for peace, as related by Polybius, Luke vii, 38.

Caryl, (J.) a commentator on the book of Job, General Preface, p. x.

Casiphia, generally supposed to be the same with the Caspian mountains, Ezra viii, 17.

Cassiopeia, form of the constellation of, resembled by Aratus to a key, Isa. xxii, 22.

Cassiterides, the same with the islands of Scilly and Cornwall, Isa. ii, 13—16.

Castor oil, whence obtained, Jonah iv, 6.

Castor and Pollux, fable concerning, Acts xxviii, 11.

Castramentation of the ancient Israelites, Scheuchzer's remarks on the, Numb. ii, in fine.

Cataneans, from whom supposed to be descended, Gen. xxv, 2.

Catholic, reason given by Œcumenius why this epithet was given to the epistles of James, Peter, John, and Jude, Preface to James, p. i. A more probable conjecture proposed, ibid.

Cato's directions in the construction of threshing-floors, 1 Sam. xxiii, in fine.

Cattle, Mischievous, customary among the Romans to twist hay about the horns of, that people seeing it might shun them, Exod. xxi, 28.

Cauponari bellum, import of this phrase, 2 Cor. ii, 17.

Causes, two supreme, co-eternal, and independent, according to the Magian theology, Isa. xlv, 7.

Caves, vast capacity of, in the East, according to Strabo and Pococke, 1 Sam. xxiv, 3. Isa. ii, 19—21.

Cedar of Lebanon, Gabriel Sionita's description of the, Numb. xxiv, 6. Some curious particulars concerning this tree related by De la Roque, which he learned from the Maronites of Mount Libanus, ibid. Maundrell's description of the cedars he found growing on Mount Libanus in 1697, ibid. Psa. xcii, 12.

Cedreans, their origin, Gen. xxv, 13.

Cedron, situation of this very small rivulet, John xviii, 1.

Ceêneth, כענת, various conjectures respecting the meaning of this word, Ezra iv, 11.

Celibacy has no countenance in the Sacred Oracles, Gen. ii, 18, 24; Heb. xiii, 4.

Cemarim, an order of idolatrous priests in Judea in the time of Josiah, 2 Kings xxiii, 5. Why Christian ministers have been called cemarim by the Jews, ibid.

Cenchrea, situation of this seaport, Acts xviii, 18. Rom. xvi, 1.

Census of the children of Israel, in the second year after their departure from Egypt compared with another census of the same people made thirty-eight years afterwards, Numb. i, 46. Curious observation of Ainsworth on the number of families in the Twelve Tribes at the second census, Numb. xxvi, 51.

Census of the Romans, by whom instituted, Luke ii, 3. Account of its institution by Dionysius of Halicarnassus, ibid. In what a Roman census consisted, ibid. This census probably similar to that made in England in the reign of William the Conqueror, ibid.

Centaur, the name of a vessel mentioned by Virgil, Acts xxviii, 11.

Centurion, derivation and import of this word, Gen. xxxvi, 15; Matt. xxvii, 54. Acts x, 1.

Cerastes, whence this animal has its name, Gen. xlix, 17.

Certificate, form of the, among our Saxon ancestors, of a man's having purchased his own freedom, with an English translation, 1 Cor. vii, in fine. Form of the certificate of one having purchased the liberty of another, ibid. Form of the certificate of redemption in behalf of one departed, ibid. Form of the certificate of persons manumitted to be devoted to the service of God, ibid.

Chacam, one of the supreme officers in the Jewish sanhedrim, Matt. xx, 21.

Chacameya, חכמיה, rendered wise men, Porphyry's definition of the original term, Gen. xli, 8.

Chag, חג, Parkhurst's definition of this word, Lev. vii, in fine. Its import among the Jews when used as a memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Deuteronomy.

Chairs, never used in Persia but at the coronation of their kings, Isa. lii, 2. Eastern chairs always so high as to make a footstool necessary, ibid.

Chalal, חלל, a word very improperly rendered in our Version, Ezek. xxi, 14. Its genuine import, ibid.

Chalcedony, account of four species of this semipellucid gem, Rev. xxi, 19.

Chaldaic Version, account of the, General Preface, p. xxix.

Chaldeans, from whom these people probably had their name, Gen. xi, 34; Isa. xxiii, 13. Some account of the ancient condition of this people, Isa. xxiii, 13.

Chalil, חליל, a wind-instrument, 1 Sam. x, 5.

Χαλκος ηχων, sounding brass, a figure of speech for a trumpet, 1 Cor. xiii, 1. Citations from Homer and Virgil in illustration of this sense of the phrase, ibid.

Champion, whence derived, and what its import, 1 Sam. xvii, 4.

Chance, inquiry into the derivation and meaning of this word, 1 Sam. vi, 9.

Chanderaym, account of this Hindoo fast, Matt. ix, in fine.

Chaos, notions of the heathens concerning this divinity probably borrowed from the Mosaic account of the creation, Gen. i, 2.

Chapelow, a commentator on the book of Job, General Preface, p. x.

Chaplets, wearing of, at banquets, customary among the ancient Jews, Greeks, and Romans, Isa. xlviii, 1.

Chappars, the posts, or messengers, of the Persian monarchs, Matt. v, 41. Have the royal authority for pressing horses, ships, and even men, to assist them in the business to which they are employed, ibid.

Chapters, division of the Holy Scriptures into, by whom effected, Introduction to Ezra, p. xi. Instances of the very injudicious division of the chapters of Holy Writ, Isa. iv, 1; ix, 7; xiii, in principio; xv, in principio; xxvii, in principio.

Charashim, חרשים, rendered carpenters, inquiry into the true import of this word, Zech. i, 21.

Charetummim, חרטמים, import of this word, Gen. xli, 8; Exod. vii, 11.

Charger, ancient acceptation of this word, Matt. xiv, 8.

Chariot, Emblematical of Jehovah, remarks upon the, Ezek. i. Observations on it by the continuator of the Historical Discourses of Saurin, Ezek. x, in fine.

Χαρις, twelve acceptations of this word in the Scriptures pointed out, Rom. i, 7.

Charity, inquiry into the derivation and original acceptation of this term, 1 Cor. xiii, 1.

Charming of serpents and other animals, how this was professed to be done both by ancients and moderns, Psa. lviii, 4. et in fine.

Chasdim, the same with the Chaldeans, Isa. xxiii, 13.

Chatath, חטאת, and Chatah, חטאה, commonly translated sin, import of these words, Gen. iv, 7.

Chazan, an officer in the Jewish synagogue, Matt. ix, 18.

Chebar, Chaborus, or Aboras, where this river is situated, Ezek. i, 1.

Χειριδες, gauntlets, account of this species of defensive armour, Eph. vi, 13.

Cheirotonia, among the primitive Christians, what, Acts xiv, 23.

Chel, the wall that separated the court of Israel from the court of the Gentiles, Eph. ii, 14.

Chelekeca, חלקך, import of this word when used as a memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Numbers.

Chemosh, the grand idol of the Ammonites, Ruth i, 15; Jer. xlviii, 7.

Cher, (Hugh de St.) or Hugo de Sancta Clara, account of this commentator, General Preface, pp. vi, vii.

Χηρα, translated widow, probably sometimes used as the name of an office, 1 Tim. v, 10.

Cherem, חרם, what it imports, Lev. xxvii, 21, 28, 29. The Jews had a most horrible form of excommunication called by this name, Numb. xxii, 6. Translation of a form of the cherem from Buxtorf's Talmudical Lexicon, 1 Cor. xvi, 22.

Cherethites, who, 1 Sam. xxx, 14; Ezek. xxv, 16; Amos ix, 7; Zeph. ii, 5.

Chersydrus, a very venomous reptile, Numb. xxi, 6.

Cherubim, various opinions concerning the, Gen. iii, 24. How represented, ibid. Exod. xxv, 18; xxxvi, 8. Psa. xviii, 10. Improperly written cherubims, Gen. iii, 24. Exod. xxv, 18; Ezek. x, 20; Heb. ix, 5.

Chevy Chase, quotation from this old national ballad respecting the slaying Sir Hugh Montgomery, 1 Kings xxii, 34.

Chical, see Jackal.

Chickpea, Dr. Shaw's account of the, 2 Kings vi, 25.

Chief priests, among the Jews, who, Matt. ii, 4.

Child of God, who properly so called, Matt. v, 45.

Children, among the Jews, frequently employed in public acclamations, Matt. xxi, 16. Children, among many ancient nations, considered the property of their parents, who had a right to dispose of them for the payment of their debts, 2 Kings iv, 1. Carrying of Children astride upon the hip, with the arm round their body, a general custom in the East according to Chardin, Isa. lx, 4. Children formerly sometimes employed to despatch captives, Judg. viii, 21. Considered disgraceful to fall by the hand of a child, ibid.

Children of the bridegroom, who, among the Jews, Matt. ix, 15.

Chiliarch, its import, Gen. xxxvi, 15.

Chilmad, possibly Chalmadora on the Euphrates, Ezek. xxvii, 23.

Chimah and Chesil, Dr. Hales's reasons for the supposition that by these Hebrew terms the constellations Taurus and Scorpio are intended, Job ix, in fine.

Chimera, the name of a vessel mentioned by Virgil, Acts xxviii, 14.

Chinese Chronology of ancient events of a very extravagant and fabulous complexion, Isa. lxv, 22.

Chinnereth, Sea of, where situated, Numb. xxxiv, 11.

Chios, an island famous in antiquity for its extraordinary wines, Acts xx, 15.

Chiromancy, upon what the doctrine of, is built as its Scripture foundation, according to John Taisnier, Job xxxvii, 7.

Χιτων, Bishop Pearce's observations on the import of this word, Luke vi, 29. In what it differed from the ιματιον, ibid.

Chittim, the island of Cyprus, according to Josephus, Jer. ii, 10. Bochart's conjecture, ibid. Other conjectures, Isa. xxiii, 1; Ezek. xxvii, 6.

Chohelèth, or The Royal Preacher, some account of this work as given by the late Rev. John Wesley, Introduction to Ecclesiastes, p. iv.

Chomesh, חמש, rendered the fifth rib, what it properly imports, 2 Sam. xx, 10.

Chonos, see Konos.

Chopping off the different members of the body seriatim, first the feet, then the legs, arms, and head, an ancient mode of punishment, still in use among the Chinese, Matt. xxiv, 50.

Chotham, חותם, a frequent sense of this word in Rabbinical writings, Rom. iv, 11.

Choun, an idol worshipped among the Peruvians from the remotest antiquity, Amos v, 26.

Χρεια, Bishop Pearce's remark on the import of this word, Luke x, 42.

Χρησθαι Κρηγισμῳ, how these words came to import to deceive, Tit. i, 12.

Chrestus, mentioned by Suetonius in his life of Claudius, very uncertain who, Acts xviii, 2.

Christ, of the same import with Messiah, Exod. xxix, 7; Luke ii, 11. Should always have the demonstrative article prefixed, Matt. i, 16. The rectilinear ancestors of Jesus the Christ among the most illustrious of the human race, Matt. i, 1. The commonly received Greek Text of Matthew, which contains an account of Christ's genealogy, most evidently defective, Matt. i, 11. This deficiency supplied, and the Sacred Text rendered perfectly consistent with itself, by means of a very important various reading which is supported by many manuscripts, ibid. List, in collateral columns, of the three times fourteen generations from Abraham to Christ, as corrected by these manuscripts, ibid. Considerations on the best mode of reconciling and explaining the accounts of the genealogy of our Lord, as given by Matthew and Luke, Luke iii, in fine. The three offices of prophet, priest, and king, never united except in the person of Christ, Matt. i, 1, 16. What probably gave the first idea to the ancient painters of representing Christ in the manger, with a glory surrounding His head, Matt. ii, 9. Sturm's reflections on the place of Christ's nativity, Matt. ii, in fine. Thoughts on the temptation of Christ in the wilderness by a correspondent, Matt. iv, in fine. Reflections on Christ's last journey to Jerusalem, a circumstance narrated by all the Evangelists, Matt. xxi, in fine. Bishop Newcome's critical remarks on the anointing of Christ as recorded by Matthew, Mark, and John, Matt. xxvi, in fine. The question, whether Christ ate the pass-over with His disciples before He suffered, largely considered, ibid. Inquiry into the language of Christ's exclamation on the cross, as related by Matthew and Mark, Matt. xxvii, 46. The doctrine of the two natures in Christ, the human and the Divine, the only ground on which the Scriptures which speak of Him, either in the Old or New Testament, can be rationally explained, John xii, 34. Bishop Pearce's enumeration of the several appearances of Christ during the forty days which elapsed between his resurrection and ascension, John xxi, 14. Acts i, 3.

Christianity, observations on the manner of its propagation, Acts xviii, in fine.

Christians, remarks on the origin of this appellative of the disciples of the Lord, Acts xi, in fine.

Chronicle, remarks on the, which was read to Ahasuerus, Esth. vi, 1.

Chronicles, Books of, this portion of Holy Writ variously named in the Versions, Preface to Chronicles, p. i. The author or authors of the Chronicles not known, ibid. Reasons for the supposition that Ezra was the compiler, ibid., p. ii. Jerom's opinion of these books, ibid., p. iv.

Chronological List of the prophets of the Old Testament from Adam to Malachi, Introduction to Isaiah, pp. ii—iv. Chronological list of the sixteen prophets whose writings are preserved, ibid., pp. iv, v.

Chronological Tables.—Table of the principal events recorded in the book of Genesis according to the computation of Archbishop Ussher, interspersed with a few connecting circumstances from profane history, Genesis l, in fine. Table upon the same plan to the Book of Exodus, Exod. xl, in fine. Table of the great epochs, A. M., B. C., and the Julian Period, synchronized with the reigns of the sovereigns of the four principal monarchies, viz. those of Egypt, Sicyon, the Argivi, and the Athenians, from the death of Jacob, A. M. 2315, to the erection of the Tabernacle, A. M. 2514, ibid. General Chronological Table for the Pentateuch and Joshua, containing (in five and six different æras) a synchronical arrangement of the years of the life of the ante and post-diluvian patriarchs, and also of the years of the reigns of contemporary monarchs, Josh. xxiv, in fine. Chronological Table of the Book of Judges, according to Archbishop Ussher, Preface to Judges, pp. ii, iii. Chronological Table of this Book, according to the scheme of Sir John Marsham, ibid., p. iv. Chronological Table of this Book, according to Dr. Hales, ibid., p. v. Table of the kings of Israel and Judah in the consecutive order of their reigns, from their commencement to the destruction of the former by the Assyrians, and of the latter by the Babylonians, interspersed with contemporary events from profane history, 2 Chron. in fine. Chronological Tables of the Prophecies of Jeremiah, according to Doctors Dahler and Blayney, Introduction to Jeremiah, pp. ii, iii. Chronological Table of the prophecies of Ezekiel, according to Calmet, Introduction to Ezekiel, pp. vii, viii. Chronological Table of the prophecies of Daniel, according to Calmet, Introduction to Daniel, pp. iii, iv. Tables extending from A. M. 3999 to A. D. 100, in which the years of the reigns of contemporary kings and rulers are reduced to the years of thirteen different æras, to which are added the years of the principal ecclesiastical cycles, with other notations of time, Tables I, and II, at the end of Acts. Table of remarkable events from B. C. 6, to A. D. 100, in which the year of the world, the year from the building of Rome, and the year before or after the birth of Christ of each event are carefully noted, Table III, at the end of Acts.

Chronus, a divinity of the Carthaginians to whom they sacrificed many of their children, Rom. ix, in fine. Horrible mode in which these children were put to death, ibid.

Chrysolite, some account of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17. Ezek. x, 9. Rev. xxi, 20.

Chrysoprasus, a variety of the chrysolite, Rev. xxi, 20.

Chrysostom, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. v. Why so named, Psa. xvi, in principio. Extract from his fifth homily Περι Ακαταληκτε (translated by H. S. Boyd) concerning the Divinity of Jesus Christ, Eph. vi, in fine.

Chukkoth, חקת, its derivation and import, Lev. xxvi, 15.

Church, what constitutes a, according to Tertullian, Judg. xx, 2. Derivation of the word, Matt. xvi, in fine. Definition of the word according to the nineteenth article of the Church of England, ibid. The cry of "the church is in danger," by whom generally echoed, Acts xix, in fine.

Cicer, Dr. Shaw's description of this pulse, 2 Kings vi, 25.

Cicero, quotation of a beautiful passage from, to shew that even the Heathens derived consolation from the reflection that, after death, they should meet their friends in a state of conscious existence, 2 Sam. xii, 23. Commencement of his celebrated oration against Catiline, Job xxxviii, in fine.

Cimmerians, or Cimbrians, from whom these people are supposed to have originated, Gen. x, 2.

Circulation of the blood in the animal system, evidently known to the writer of the book of Ecclesiastes, Eccles. xii, 7. Probably not unknown to the great apostle of the Gentiles, Eph. iv, 16. Account of some wonderful phænomena in the animal system with which the circulation of the blood is accompanied, Heb. xi, in fine. Astonishing influence which angry or irritating language has on the circulation of the blood. James iii, 6.

Circumcision, remarkable passage in Herodotus respecting, considered, Gen. xvii, 10. This rite performed by the Jews and others with a knife made of stone, Josh. v, 2. Physical reason why metallic edge-tools are improper in the performance of this rite, ibid.

Cities of the ancients, how the larger kind were generally built, Jonah iv, 11. Consecrated to their gods, and the very walls considered as sacred, Neh. xii, 27.

Cities of the Levites, with a diagram of their dimensions, &c, Numb. xxxv, 5.

Cities of Refuge among the Hebrews, some account of the, Numb. xxxv, 11. Their typical import, Numb. xxxv, in fine. Josh. xx, in fine.

Cities walled up to heaven, inquiry into the meaning of this phrase, Deut. i, 28.

Citizen, what constituted a, among the Jews, Matt. iv, 13.

City, examples of the high, acceptation of this word, Psa. lxxxvii, 4.

City of the Sun, generally supposed to have been the same with Heliopolis, Isa. xix, 18. Conjecture of Conrad Ikenius, ibid.

Clap, how caused by the lightning, Job xxxviii, 26. Illustrated by an easy experiment on the air pump, ibid.

Clara, (Hugo de Sancta,) or Hugh de St. Cher, account of this Catholic commentator, General Preface, pp. vi, vii.

Clarius, (Isidore,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. vii.

Clauda, an island near Crete, now called Gozo, Acts xxvii, 18.

Claude's excellent remarks on the subjects treated of in the second chapter of Luke's Gospel, Luke ii, in fine.

Claudius, anecdote respecting this Roman emperor, 1 Kings iii, 25.

Claudius the poet, quotation of a part of his panegyric upon the fourth consulship of Honorius Augustus in illustration of 1 Kings i, 37.

Cleanthes, citation of a passage from this writer, in his hymn to Jupiter, almost in the same words with that which St. Paul most probably quoted from the Phænomena of Aratus in his celebrated sermon at Athens, Acts xvii, 28.

Cleopatra, queen of Egypt, Lucan's description of the splendour of her apartments, Ezek. xxviii, 14.

Clerke of Oxenforde, Chaucer's character of the, 1 Tim. iii, 2.

Climax, double, remarkable instance of a, Psa. i, 1.

Clitophon, remarkable saying of, on having received a letter from Leucippe, 1 Cor. ix, 22.

Clothed with a person, import of this Greek phraseology, illustrated by citations from Chrysostom, Dionysius of Halicarnassus, and Eusebius, Rom. xiii, 14. 1 Pet. v, 5.

Cloud, ancient Heathen writers represent their gods, in their pretended manifestations to men, as always encompassed with a, Exod. xiii, 21. Probable origin of this custom, ibid. Cloud employed metaphorically by the ancients to denote a great number, Heb. xii, 1.

Clouted, derivation and import of this old English word, Josh. ix, 5.

Clypeus, see Ασπις.

Cnidus, where situated, Acts xxvii, 7.

Coals of fire, heaping of, upon the head, a metaphor taken from smelting metals, Rom. xii, 20. Its import, ibid.

Coats of mail, how formed in different countries, 1 Sam. xvii, 5. Weight of that which appertained to Goliath of Gath, reduced to avoirdupois pounds and ounces, ibid.

Coa Vestis, see Multitia.

Cock, consecrated to Apollo, or the Sun, among the latter Heathens, 2 Kings xvii, in fine.

Cockatrice, Kimchi's observations on the sparkling of the eyes of this animal, Isa. xi, 8.

Cœna, or Supper, why so named by the Romans, Job xxxi, 17.

Coffins of the martyrs accustomed to be anointed by the primitive Christians, Gen. xxviii, 18. For a dead body to be put in a coffin a mark of great distinction among the ancient Egyptians, Gen. l, 26. Some of the Egyptian coffins made of granite, and covered over with hieroglyphics, ibid.

Cohort, among the Romans, what, Acts x, 1. Account of the Italian band or cohort, with an ancient inscription given by Gruter relative to it, ibid. The cohort of Augustus mentioned by Suetonius, and its name found by Lipsius on an ancient marble, Acts xxvii, 1.

Coin, in many countries, had its name from the image it bore, as instanced in the Jacobus, Carolus, &c, Genesis xxxiii, 19. The Jews had probably no coined or stamped money before the Babylonish captivity, Jer. xxxii, 9. Description of the coin struck by Vespasian on the capture of Jerusalem, Lam. i, 1.

Coke, (Rev. Dr.) account of this commentator, General Preface, pp. xii, xiii.

Cold at particular times so very intense in the east, as to kill man and beast, Psa. cxlvii, 17.

Collation of an archbishop to the spiritualities and temporalities of his see, and investing him with plenary sacerdotal authority by sending him the pallium or pall, whence the Romanists probably borrowed this rite, 1 Kings xix, in fine.

Collections, Feast of, for what purpose instituted, Exodus xxiii, 14.

Colony, קלניא, Κολωνια, Jewish definition of this term, Acts xvi, 12.

Coloquintida, description of this fruit, 2 Kings iv, 39.

Colosse, or Colassa, where formerly situated, Preface to Colossians, p. i. Brief sketch of its revolutions, ibid. The ancient city destroyed by an earthquake in the reign of Nero, ibid.

Colossians, Epistle to the, when written, Preface to the Epistle, p. i. Style of this apostolical letter, ibid., p. ii.

Colossus of Rhodes, account of this very celebrated statue of antiquity, Acts xxi, 1.

Columella's directions in the construction of threshing-floors, 1 Sam. xxiii, in fine. His advice to the ploughman respecting the use of the goad, Acts ix, 5.

Combat, trial by, a species of ordeal very frequent in the dark ages, Numb. v, in fine.

Coming of Christ, various acceptations of this phrase in the Sacred Writings, Preface to the Second Epistle to the Thessalonians, pp. iii—vi.

Coming in the name of another, import of this phrase as used by the Rabbins, John v, 43.

Common Prayer, Book of, observations concerning the, General Preface, pp. xxiv, xxv.

Common Swearing, ancient Jews notoriously guilty of, as shewn by numerous extracts from their own writings, Matt. v, 37. James v, 12.

Compassion, its powerful effect upon the animal system, Matt. ix, 36.

Conclamatio, and Conclamatum est, what the Romans meant by these words when employed in their funeral solemnities, Matt. ix, 32.

Concubine, its derivation and import, Gen. xxii, 24.

Condemnation, apostolic doctrine of, John xx, 23.

Con fu tsee, character of the ordinances and institutions attributed to this great Chinese lawgiver, Deut. xxxiv, in fine.

Conscience, a terrible accuser, Gen. xxxii, 6. Fine sayings of two Heathen poets upon this subject, ibid., l, 15. The question, "What is conscience?" largely considered, Heb. xiii, in fine.

Consolation of Israel, a name among the Jews for the Messiah, Luke ii, 25. Acts xiii, 15. Frequently used in the form of an oath, Luke ii, 25.

Constantia, see Salamis.

Constantine the Great, conversion of, and the amazing influence of this event in the whole Roman world, Rev. vi, 12—17; xii, 4, &c.

Contempt of Court, anecdote of a woman punished for, Exod. vi, 3.

Contingency shewn to exist in human affairs; that is, that God has poised many things between a possibility of being and not being, and leaving it to the will of the creature to turn the scale, 1 Sam. xxiii, 11, 12.

Conversation, very remarkable, between a white man and a negro, Mark x, 50.

Conversation, derivation and import of the original term thus translated, 2 Cor. i, 12.

Conversion of Saul of Tarsus, in the opinion of Lord Lyttleton, an illustrious proof of the truth of Christianity, Acts ix, 16.

Coos, an island of the Grecian archipelago, formerly famous for the worship of Æsculapius and Juno, and for being the birth-place of Hippocrates and Apelles, Acts xxi, 1.

Coptic Version, some account of the, General Preface, p. xxx, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xv.

Cor, the largest measure of capacity among the Hebrews, whether for solids or liquids, Luke xvi, 7. Its content in English measure, Ezra vii, 22.

Coral, account of the, Job xxviii, 17.

Cords of vanity, what meant by this expression, Isa. v, 18.

Corinth, a celebrated city, formerly the capital of all Achaia, or Peloponnesus, Acts xviii, 1. Greatly celebrated for its statues of Venus, the Sun, Neptune and Amphitrite, Diana, Apollo, Jupiter, Minerva, &c. Preface to the First Epistle to the Corinthians, p. i. Why this city was called by Cicero Totius Lumens Græciæ, "The Eye of all Greece," ibid., p. ii. Corinth destroyed by the Romans under Mummius, ibid. Rebuilt by Julius Cæsar, and again became an important city, ibid. Now under the domination of the Turks, ibid.

Corinthians, in their Pagan condition, excessively dissolute, public prostitution forming a considerable part of their religion, and the multiplication of prostitutes being a constant subject of prayer to their idols, Preface to the First Epistle to the Corinthians, p. ii.

Corinthians, First Epistle to the, its authenticity demonstrated by Dr. Paley, Introduction to the Epistle, pp. i—viii. Analysis of this Epistle, Preface to the Epistle, p. ii. The thirteenth chapter from an ancient manuscript, (containing the first English translation of it known to exist,) with all its peculiar orthography, points, and lines, 1 Cor. xiii, 1. General observations on this apostolic letter, 1 Cor. xvi, in fine.

Corinthians, Second Epistle to the, its authenticity demonstrated by Dr. Paley, Introduction to the Epistle, pp. i—xi. Substance of Dr. Lightfoot's observations, relative to the date of this Epistle, ibid., pp. xi, xii. Dr. Whitby's remarks upon the same point, Preface to the Epistle, p. xiii. General analysis of this apostolic letter, ibid., p. xiv.

Cornelius, remarks on the wonderful circumstances with which the conversion of this Roman centurion was accompanied, Acts x, in fine.

Cornelius Gallus, sentiment attributed to, very similar to a passage in the Apocalypse, Rev. ix, 6.

Corner of the room, among the inhabitants of the East, the most honourable place, Isa. xxxviii, 2. Amos iii, 12.

Cornet, what the import of the original word so translated, Dan. iii, 5.

Cornwall, what this county was named in the ancient British tongue, Isa. v, 1. Camden's observation on the origin of its present appellation, ibid. Conjecture of Sammes, ibid.

Corsned, trial by the, a species of ordeal common among the Catholic clergy, Numb. v, in fine.

Cosha, trial by the, a species of ordeal among the Hindoos, Numb. v, in fine.

Coune, description of this eastern vehicle, Isa. lxvi, 20.

Court of King's Bench, the place where the king presides, and where he is supposed to be always present, Psa. lxxxii, 1.

Courts of judicature among the Jews, Dr. Lightfoot's observations on the legal proceedings in the, Matt. v, in fine.

Covenant of Salt, a figure of speech denoting an everlasting covenant, Numb. xviii, 19.

Covenant with death, or the beasts of the field, a proverbial expression used by the ancients to denote perfect security from evil of any sort, Isa. xxviii, 15.

Covenants, inquiry into the practices of the ancients in the formation of, Gen. vi, 18; xv, 10; xxvii, 4. Josh. ix, 6. Jer. xxxiv, 18. Matt. xxvi, 28.

Covert for the Sabbath in the Temple, various conjectures respecting the, 2 Kings xvi, 18.

Covetousness awfully punished in Gehazi, 2 Kings v, 27.

Cracknels, the Hebrew word so translated signifies what is to the present day called Jews' bread, and used by them at the passover, 1 Kings xiv, 3.

Cranache's remarkable reply, when asked why he put no wound on either side of his figure of Christ crucified, John xix, 34.

Crassus, Plutarch's account of the great wealth of this man, Esth. iii, 9.

Creare, "to create," several citations produced to shew that the Romans employed this term when speaking of the appointment of magistrates, 1 Pet. ii, 13.

Creeshna, an incarnation of the Supreme Being, according to the theology of the ancient Hindoos, John i, 11, 14.

Remarkable words of, as related in the Bhagvat Geeta, Matt. iii, 15. John i, 11, 14; xii, 26; xv, 5, 7.

Crete, sketch of the revolutions of this island from its first mention in history to the present time, Preface to Titus, pp. ii—iv. Homer's description of its ancient condition, ibid., pp. ii, iii. Various names by which it was formerly known, ibid., p. ii. Now called Candia, ibid., p. iv.

Criminal code published by Joseph II, late emperor of Germany, remarkable character of the, Matt. v, 21.

Criminals punished by the Jews at the times of the public festivals, Matt. xxvi, 5. A constant practice among the Romans to oblige criminals to bear their cross to the place of execution, Matt. xxvii, 32. This illustrated by a quotation from Plutarch, ibid. Raiment of the criminals claimed by the executioners both in ancient and modern times, Matt. xxvii, 34. Criminals frequently offered up in sacrifice to the gods, Rom. ix, in fine.

Crimson, whence this word is derived, Isa. i, 18.

Critici Sacra, account of this immense collection of Biblical critics, General Preface, p. xv.

Crocodile, a sacred animal among the Egyptians, Exod. i, 11. Number and curious disposition of its scales, Job xii, 21. Eyes of the crocodile among the Egyptians, the emblem of the morning, Job xli, 18. Amazing strength of this animal in its tail, Job xli, 19. Particular description of the crocodile, Job xli, passim. This animal supposed to be the Leviathan of Scripture, ibid.

Crooked serpent, various conjectures respecting the meaning of this phrase, Job xxvi, 13.

Cross, curious extract from a Saxon homily relative to the canonical times of signing the body with the mark of the cross, Psa. cxix, 164.

Cross, trial by the, a species of ordeal frequent in the middle ages, Numb. v, in fine.

Crown taken from the king of the Ammonites, valuation of the, 2 Sam. xii, 20.

Crown of thorns, the Greek words so translated more probably mean the acanthine crown, or crown formed of the herb acanthus, Matt. xxvii, 29.

Crowns worn by the victors in the Olympic, Pythian, Nemean, and Isthmian games, of what constructed, 1 Cor. ix, 25.

Crucifixion, particular description of this very ancient mode of punishment, Matt. xxvii, 35. Formerly very common among the Syrians, Egyptians, Persians, Greeks, Romans, and the ancient Hindoos, ibid. Still in use among the Chinese, who do not nail, but tie, the criminal to the cross, ibid. Crucifixion probably introduced among the Jews by the Romans, ibid. Considered the most shameful of all punishments, ibid. Citations from Horace in which there is allusion to this punishment, ibid.

Crusaders, instance of their horrible cruelties, as related in the Gesta Dei per Francos, Psa. lx, in fine.

Crystal, some account of this mineral, Job xxviii, 17.

Cubians, where these people were situated, according to Ptolemy, Ezek. xxx, 5.

Cud, derivation and import of the term, Lev. xi, 3. Philosophical observations relative to the faculty which certain animals possess of chewing the cud, ibid.

Cudworth, (Dr.) his excellent remarks on the ark, table of shewbread, &c, Exod. xxv, 23.

Cumean Sibyl, Virgil's description of the seat of the, Isa. xlv, 19.

Cup, its metaphorical import in Scripture, Psa. xi, 6; cxvi, 13. This metaphor similarly employed among the Heathens, as shewn by a quotation from Homer, ibid.

Cup, observations on the denial of the, to the laity by the Romanists in their administration of the Eucharist, Matt. xxvi, 27. 1 Cor. xi, in fine.

Cup of consolation, its literal and metaphorical acceptations, Jer. xvi, 8.

Cup of trembling, probably an allusion to the ancient method of taking off criminals by a cup of poison, Isa. li, 17. Matt. xxvi, 39. Heb. ii, 9.

Cup of the wrath of Jehovah, a very bold, highly poetical, and sublime image frequently employed by the Sacred Writers, Isa. i, 22; li, 21. Whence this figure is taken, Isa. i, 22.

Cupel, a sort of instrument used in the purification of silver, Prov. xvii, 3. Its description and use, Psa. xii, 6. Jer. vi, 27.

Cupid and Psyché, an ancient allegory by which marriage is happily illustrated, Gen. ii, 24. Matt. xix, 6. Particular description of the very beautiful allegorical representation of the marriage union on an antique gem representing the marriage of Cupid and Psyché, Matt. xix, 6.

Curtius (M.) history of his devoting himself to death for the welfare of the Roman state, Rom. ix, in fine.

Customs and usages of universal prevalence, enumeration of, from which the derivation of mankind from one common stock is demonstrable, Gen. x, in fine.

Cutheans, who, 2 Kings xvii, 24.

Cutting in two, an ancient mode of punishment, mentioned by sacred and profane writers, Matt. xxiv, 50.

Cutting off the hair, a sign of great distress, and practised on the death of near relatives, Isa. xv, 2. Amos viii, 10. Mic. i, 16. 1 Cor. xi, 5. Women, when reduced to a state of slavery, had their hair cut off, 1 Cor. xi, 5.

Cuttings of the flesh, common among the Heathens in their religious rites, Lev. xix, 28. Deut. xiv, 1. Jer. xvi, 16.

Cycles, Ecclesiastical, account of some of the most remarkable, Preface to Matthew, p. vi.

Cyder, whence this word is probably derived, Lev. xi, 9.

Cymbal, description of this ancient musical instrument, Isa. xviii, 1. 1 Cor. xiii, 1. Winged cymbal, a periphrastical expression among the Hebrews for the Egyptian sistrum, ibid.

Cynopolis, why this city was so named, Exod. xi, 7.

Cyrene, where situated, Acts ii, 10. When built, according to Eusebius, Acts xi, 20. Its present appellation, ibid.

Cyrus, why so partial to the Jews, according to Josephus, Ezra i, 1. A golden eagle, αετος χρυσος, the ensign of Cyrus, according to Xenophon, Isa. xlvi, 11. This Persian monarch very probably named by Isaiah עיט, âeit, or the eagle, from this circumstance, ibid. Pliny's account of the wealth taken by Cyrus in Asia, Isa. xlv, 3. Manner of the death of Cyrus as related by Herodotus, ibid; Ezek. xxxv, 6. Vast extent of his empire, Ezra i, 2; Esth. i, 1. Xenophon's list of the nations conquered by Cyrus, Isa. xlv, 1. The righteous man mentioned by Isaiah to be understood of Abraham, and not of this monarch, Isa. xli, 2.

D

Dabar Yehovah, דבר יהוה, import of this phrase, Lev. xxvi, 15.

Dædalus and Icarus, fable of, moralized by a Roman poet, Prov. xxv, 7.

Dæmoniacs, the plain and obvious meaning of this term, Matt. iv, 24. Reason given by Dr. Lightfoot why Judea, in our Lord's time, abounded with dæmoniacs, Matt. viii, 16.

Dæmonism, notion of some, that this was a vulgar error current in our Lord's time and in that of His apostles, considered, Matt. viii, 16; xii, 43; Mark ix, 25; Luke ix, 1; Acts xix, 12. Silly trifling of some commentators on the cases of dæmonism recorded by the Evangelists, Matt. viii, 34; Mark v, 4, 9; Luke viii, 33; Acts vlii, 7; xvi, 18.

Dæmons, Material, of the Chaldaic philosophy, account of the, by Psellus, Luke viii, 31.

Dagon, description of this idol of the Philistines by Diodorus Siculus, Judg. xvi, 23. A quotation from Horace which seems to have an illusion to the image of Dagon, ibid; 1 Sam. v, 4. This idol supposed to have been the same with Dirceto, Attergatis, the Venus of Ashkelon, and the Moon, 1 Sam. v, 2.

Daily-bread, see Επιουσιον.

Δαιμων, never used by the inspired writers in a good sense, Luke iv, 33. Remarkable passage in Herodotus in which this term is employed in a similar manner to that in the New Testament, Luke ix, 39. Distinction made by Heathen writers between δαιμων and θεος, Acts xvii, 18.

Daman Israel, account of this animal, Prov. xxx, 24.

Damascenes, excessive superstition of the, according to the Midrash, Isa. xvii, 1.

Damascus, the capital of the ancient kingdom of Syria, Amos i, 3. How it could be said to have been under the government of an Arabian king in the time of St. Paul, 2 Cor. xi, 32.

Damme, (Thomas,) extraordinary longevity of this man, Psa. xc, in fine.

Damnameneus, ΔΑΜΝΑΜΕΝΕΥΣ, one of the six Ephesian characters, Acts xix, 19. Its import, according to Hesychius, ibid.

Damordara, or Darmadévé, the Indian god of virtue, Luke i, 68; John i, 14.

Dan, why this patriarch was so named, Gen. xxx, 6.

Daniel, sketch of the life and character of this prophet, Introduction to Daniel, pp. i,—iii. Chronological arrangement of the events recorded in his book, ibid. pp. iii, iv.

Daphne, Ovid's description of the beauties of, Song iv, 7.

Darkness at the time of our Lord's crucifixion, observations concerning the, Matt. xxvii, 45. Citations from ancient writers in which it is supposed there is an illusion to this preternatural darkness, ibid.

D'Arvieux's account of the costly ornaments of the Arabian ladies, Song i, 10.

Date, or Palm-tree, its description and various uses, Psa. xcii, 12.

Date-wine, see Palm-wine.

Daughters given in marriage according to their seniority, a very ancient custom still observed among the Hindoos, Gen. xxix, 26.

David, number of the children born to this prince in Jerusalem according to the Hebrew Text, 2 Sam. v, 14—16. Number according to the Septuagint Version, ibid. Our English Version, which states that David houghed all the chariot-horses of Hadadezar, shewn not to contain the sense of the original, 2 Sam. viii, 4. Dr. Delaney's enumeration of the wars which David righteously undertook, and gloriously terminated in the first nineteen or twenty years of his reign, 2 Sam. x, 19. The account of David's adultery with Bathsheba, and his murder of Uriah, (as recorded in the Old Testament,) an illustrious proof of the truth of Divine Revelation, 2 Sam. xi, in fine. Dr. Kennicott's remarks upon the song which David composed when God had delivered him out of the hand of all his enemies, 2 Sam. xxii, in fine. A peculiarly sublime passage of this song pointed out where sense and sound are astonishingly combined, 2 Sam. xxii, 11; Psa. xviii, 10. L. De Dieu's judicious observations on the Scripture statement that the kingdom of David shall be perpetual, 2 Sam. xxiii, in fine. The tomb of David said to have been ransacked by Hyrcanus the highpriest, when besieged by Antiochus, and three thousand talents taken from it, to induce Antiochus to raise the siege, 1 Kings ii, 10. Dr. Kennicott's criticism on that part of the Sacred Text containing an account of David's dying charge relative to Shimei, 1 Kings ii, in fine. Calculation of the equivalent in British standard to the hundred thousand talents of gold and to the million talents of silver that were prepared by David for the Temple, 2 Chron. x, in fine. In what sense those Scriptures are to be understood which state David to have been a man after God's own heart, 1 Sam. xiii, 14; Acts xiii, 22. Sketch of the life and character of David, Book of Psalms, in fine.

Day, Jewish division of the, Exod. xii, 6; Matt. xxviii, 1. Natural division of the day for necessary refreshment, Eccles. x, 17.

Day of judgment, various acceptations of this phrase in the Sacred Canon, Matt. xi, 24.

Days of the creation, supposed to typify the chiliads of the world which are to elapse before the commencement of the rest that remains for the people of God, Gen. i, 16.

Days of restraint, why this name was given to certain holy days ordained by the Law, Isa. i, 13.

Daysman, what intended by this term in our courts of jurisprudence, Job ix, 30.

Dayspring from the sky, ανατολη εξ υψους, Wakefield's criticism on this remarkable expression in the Benedictus, Luke i, 76. A more probable view of this portion of Holy Writ, Rev. vii, 2.

Deacon, the lowest ecclesiastical officer in the apostolic age, Matt. xx, 26. Account of the office of deacon in the Romish and English churches, Acts vi, 4.

Dead, methods of honouring the, among the ancients, Gen. l, 26. Customary in ancient times to deposit gold, silver, and precious stones, with the more illustrious dead, 1 Kings ii, 10. Raising the bodies of the dead, and scattering their bones about, formerly the highest expression of hatred and contempt, Jer. viii, 1. Rabbinical notions relative to the mode in which God will raise the dead, 1 Cor. xv, 52.

Dead body, binding a, to a living man, (who was obliged to carry it about till the contagion from the putrid mass took away his life) a mode of punishment among some ancient tyrants, Rom. vii, 24. Citation from Virgil, in which this punishment is painted in all its horrors, ibid. Remark of Servius, on this passage in Virgil, ibid.

Dead Sea, description of its waters, Gen. xix, 25.

Death, fine saying of Seneca relative to, Job iii, 19. Three kinds of death mentioned in the Scriptures, John v. 25. Thoughts on all mankind having fallen under the empire of death through the original transgression, Rom. v, in fine. Beautiful personification of Death by St. Paul, 1 Cor. xv, 54. The destruction of Death (predicted by Isaiah and Hosea) necessarily implies the revivification of all that have ever been subjected to his empire; hence the doctrine of a GENERAL resurrection, 1 Cor. xv, 26, 54. How Death is usually represented in ancient paintings, 1 Cor. xv, 55.

Death, image of, why hung up by Domitian in his dining-room, Isa. xxii, 13. Impious epigram of Martial on this image, ibid.

Death of Christ shewn to be an atonement, or expiation, for the sins of the world, Rom. iv, in fine.

Death of the righteous, import of this phrase in the time of Moses, Numb. xxiii, 10.

Debash, דבש, rendered honey, what it properly imports, Gen. xliii, 11.

Debtors, Insolvent, see Insolvent Debtors.

Decalogue, controversy whether this was written on the first Tables, Exod. xxxiv, 1.

Decapolis, where this country was situated, Matt. iv, 25. Why so named, ibid.

Decrees of God, thoughts concerning the nature of the Acts i, 7,

Dedication Feast of the, why instituted, Exod. xxiii, 14. John x, 22. Time of its celebration, John x, 22.

Defensive armour of the ancients, particular description of the, Eph. vi, 13.

Defunct, frequent repetition of the name of the, common in lamentations, 2 Sam. xix, 4.

Dehli, remarkable Persian couplet above the hall of audience in the imperial palace at, Neh. ii, 8.

Δειπνον, supper, the principal meal among the ancient Jews, Greeks, and Romans, Luke xi, 37.

Δεισιδαιμονεστερος, probably used by St. Paul in a good sense, Acts xvii, in fine. Its derivation, ibid.

Δεισιδαιμονια, synonymous with φοβοθεια, according to Hesychius, Acts xvii, in fine. Definition by Suidas to the same import, ibid. This word similarly employed by Herodotus and Josephus, ibid. See also Acts xxv, 19.

Delaney's character of David, 1 Chron. xxix, in fine. Copious extract, from this writer respecting the unlawfulness of eating blood, Acts xv, in fine.

Delphic oracle, description of the, by Diodorus and Strabo, Isa. xlv, 19. Cicero's account of the answers generally given by the, ibid.

Demosthenes, passage in, admired by Longinus for the sublimity of its sentiment, as well as the harmony of its numbers, Isa. xliv, 22.

Denarius of the Romans what, Matt. x, 29; xviii, 28; xx, 2. Luke x, 35. John vi, 7; xii, 5.

Desmond, Countess of, extraordinary longevity of the, Psa. xc, in fine.

Desolation, very nervously described by a Persian poet, Job xviii, 15. Isa. xiii, 22. Zeph. ii, 14.

Destinies, or Fatal Sisters, fable of the, Job vii, 6.

Desvœux's analysis of the Book of Ecclesiastes, Introduction to Ecclesiastes, pp. ii, iii, iv.

Deus judicium, Montgomery's poetical version of the principal passages in this Psalm, Psa. lxxii, in fine.

Deus miscreatur, an ancient opinion of the Christian church that the triple mention of אלהים, Elohim, God, in the close of this Psalm has a reference to the Holy Trinity, Psa. lxvii, 7.

Deuteronomy, the last book of the Pentateuch, why so named, Preface to Deuteronomy, p. i.

Devil, whence this word is derived, Job i, 6. Matt. iv, 24. The name of this apostate spirit nearly the same in most European languages, ibid; Psa. cix, 6.

Dew, thoughts on the manner of its production, Deut. xxxii, 2. Job xxxviii, 28.

Διαβολος, Devil, not found in any part of the Sacred Writings in the plural number when speaking of evil spirits, and why, Matt. iv, 25. Jude 9. Derivation of the word, Matt. iv, 24; xiii, 19. This word sometimes imports a calumniator, talebearer, whisperer, or backbiter, Eph. iv, 27. 1 Tim. iii, 11. 2 Tim. iii, 3. Tit. ii, 3.

Diadem of the earth, a most elegant expression to shew the progress of the sun through the twelve signs of the zodiac in a natural year, Psa. lxv, 11.

Dial of Ahaz, observations on the nature and structure of the, with a diagram of its supposed form, 2 Kings xx, in fine.

Diamond, some account of this precious substance, Exodus xxviii, 17.

Diana, Temple of, at Ephesus, its former magnificence, and dimensions, Acts xix, 24. Reduced to ashes by Erostrates on the same night in which Alexander the Great was born, ibid. Afterwards rebuilt and adorned, ibid. Now a Turkish mosque, ibid. Account of a beautiful representation of this Temple on a medal engraved by Montfaucon, ibid. Medals of this description thought by some to be what is meant by the silver shrines which Demetrius made for Diana, ibid. These silver shrines more probably small portable representations of the Temple of Diana bought by strangers as matters of curiosity and for purposes of devotion, ibid.

Diana of Ephesus, an ancient object of idolatry widely different from Diana the huntress, Acts xix, 27. General description of the statues of this goddess which still remain, ibid. Reasons for believing that by the statue of the great goddess Diana the Pagans intended to represent "Nature full of varied creatures, and mother of all things," ibid.

Diana of Ephesus, image of, supposed to have been an aerolith bearing some rude resemblance to the human form, Josh. x, 11.

Διαθηκη, derivation and import of this word, Preface to Matthew, p. ii. Dr. Macknight's observations, Heb. ix, in fine.

Dibon-gad, the thirty-eighth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, where supposed to be situated, Numb. xxxiii, 45.

Didrachma, what, Matt. xvii, 24.

Didymus, import of this name, Gen. xxv, 24. John xi, 16.

Dii Majores, among the Greeks and Romans, their number and names, Acts xix, 27.

Dii Manes, customary among the ancient Heathens, in the time of any plague or public calamity, to sacrifice one of the lowest or most execrable of the people to these infernal gods, Rom. ix, 3.

Dii Minores, among the Heathen, who, Acts xix, 27.

Δικαιοω, seven acceptations of this word in the New Testament pointed out, Rom. i, 17.

Δικαιοσυνη, ten acceptations of this word in the New Testament, Rom. i, 17.

Δικασαι, why Heathen judges were so named, 1 Cor. vi, 1.

Δικη, Diké, Justice, personified by Hesiod, and represented as a goddess, Acts xxviii, 4. The ancient Maltese seem to have had a similar idea, ibid.

Dinah, why so named, Gen. xxx, 21.

Diodorus Siculus, his account of the funeral ceremonies of the Egyptians, Gen. l, 2.

Διωκειν, rendered to persecute, a forensic term, Matt. v, 11.

Dionysian Period, account of this very celebrated ecclesiastical cycle, Preface to Matthew, p. vi.

Dionysius the Aeropagite, saying attributed to this man which is supposed to have an allusion to the preternatural darkness at the time of our Lord's crucifixion, Matt. xxvii, 45.

Diospolis, or Thebes, the No of Jeremiah. See chap. xlvi, 25. See also Ezek. xxx, 14.

Dipsas, mortal effects of the bite of the, as described by Lucan, Numb. xxi, 6.

Disciple, import of the original word so translated, Matt. v, 1; x, 24.

Discipline, absolute necessity of, in the Christian church, 1 Cor. v, in fine.

Diseases, charming away of, how professed to be done by ancients and moderns, Psa. lviii, 4, et in fine.

Dispositions, four kinds of, as stated in the Midrash Hanaalam, James i, 19.

Divination by arrows, manner of, among the Arabs, Ezek. xxi, 21.

Divination by cups, of very remote antiquity, Gen. xliv, 5.

Divination by serpents, common among the ancients, Deut. xviii, 10.

Divine Being, some observations on the manner of approaching the, in prayer, Exod, ix, 29.

Divine Inspiration, Dr. Whitby's observations on the various manners in which it was granted to the Sacred Writers, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. ii—viii, Divinity of Christ demonstrated, Psa. xlv, 8. Isaiah vii, 15; ix, 7. Mic. v, 2; vii, 20. Zech. ii, 8; xiii, 7. Matt. xii, 6, 11; xv, 30; xviii, 20; xxviii, 18. Luke v, 21; xxii, 43. John i, 1; ii, 24; iii, 13; v, 8, 19, 20, 21—23; xviii, 6; xxi, 28. Acts vii, 59. Rom. ix, 5. Ephes. iv, 7. Col. i, 16, 17; iii, 11. Titus ii, in fine. Heb. i, 3, &c, et in fine: iii, 4. 2 Pet. i, 1. Rev. v, 13; xxii, 16.

Divorce, doctrines of the two great schools of Shammai, and of Hillel respecting, Matt. xix, 3.

Divorcement, form of a bill of, among the Jews, Deut. xxiv, 3. Matt. v, 31. 1 Cor. vii, 10.

Dixit insipiens, remarks on six verses supposed to be cited by St. Paul from this Psalm, but which do not exist in the present copies of the common Hebrew Text, Psa. xiv, 3, et in fine.

Dodd, (Rev. Dr. William,) author of a very excellent commentary on the Scriptures, General Preface, p. xii.

Doddridge, (Dr. Philip,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. xi.

Dog, a sacred animal among the ancient Egyptians, Rom. i, 23.

Dogma, derivation and original import of this term, Acts xvi, 4.

Dogs, remarks upon the howlings of, Exod. xi, 7.

Δοκεω, various acceptations of this word, Luke viii, 18. 1 Cor. vii, 40; x, 12. Often an expletive, Luke viii, 18.

Domesday Book, account of, 2 Sam. xxiv, 8. At present in a state of great preservation in the Chapter House, Westminster, ibid.

Domine, Dominus noster, the whole of this Psalm given at full length from an ancient manuscript, Psa. viii, in fine.

Dominus, a title refused by the emperors Augustus and Tiberius, Acts xxv, 26. Affected by some of the succeeding emperors, Acts xxv, 26. Celebrated saying of Tiberius relative to this title, ibid.

Domitian, account of the expulsion of the Jews from Rome by this emperor, Psa. cix, 11.

Doob, among the Hindoos a species of small salad, 1 Cor. vii, in fine. Its mystical import when employed in the ceremony of the manumission of a slave, ibid.

Door, metaphorical acceptation of this term among the Rabbins, Rev. iii, 20.

Doors of the courts and houses in Palestine made very low to prevent the Arabs, who seldom leave the backs of their horses, from riding into the courts and houses, and spoiling the goods, Prov. xvii, 19.

Dophkah, the eighth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 12.

Dorcas, import of this name, Acts ix, 36.

Δωρον, דורון, its different acceptations, Matt. v, 24.

Δωρυ, or Lance, account of this military weapon of the ancient Greeks, Eph. vi, 13.

Δοσις, and Δωρημα, indifferently translated in our Version gift, distinction between, James i, in fine.

Dothan, where supposed to have been situated, 2 Kings vi, 13.

Δουλος, inquiry into the import of this term, Rom. i, 1; vi, 16.

Dove's Dung, the Hebrew word so rendered probably means a kind of pulse, 2 Kings vi, 25. Dove's dung of great value in the East for its power in producing cucumbers, melons, &c, ibid.

Dowry, to give a, for a wife, a custom very frequent among all ancient nations, Gen. xxix, 20. The Tartars and Turks still buy their wives, ibid.

Doxology of the Lord's Prayer, rejected by Griesbach, Wetstein, and the most eminent Greek critics, Matt. vi, 13. Variously written in the manuscripts, ibid. Certainly very ancient, and probably genuine, ibid.

Drachma of the Greeks of about the same value as the Roman denarius, Luke xv, 8.

Drag, an instrument used in threshing, Isa. xxviii, 27, 28. Its description, ibid.

Drag-net, the proper meaning of σαγηνη, Matt. xiii, 47.

Dragon, when this military standard was introduced among the Romans, Rev. xii, 2. The standard, and the image of the dragon itself, of a purple or red colour, ibid.

Dragon-well at Jerusalem, why probably so named, Nehemiah ii, 13.

Draught, see Αφεδρων.

Drawing nigh to God, a phrase of very frequent occurrence in the Sacred Writings, whence it originated, Matt. xxvii, 6.

Dream, ineffectual working of the imagination in a, figuratively employed by sacred and profane writers, Isa. xxix, 7. Citation of instances from Virgil and Lucretius, ibid.

Dreams, enumeration of their causes, Gen. xli, in fine. 1 Kings iii, 5. Jer. xxiii, 27. Gregory Nyssen's theory respecting dreams, 1 Kings iii, 5. Joseph's dream of the eleven stars bowing down to him supposed by Vallancy to have reference to the signs of the zodiac, Gen. xlix, in fine. Discourse on Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the metallic image, Dan. ii, in fine.

Dress, Rev. J. Wesley's remarks on, 1 Tim. ii, in fine. Dress of an English beau in the fourteenth century, as described by Dr. Henry, Lev. xix, 19. Curious extract against luxury in dress taken from a sermon composed in the fourteenth century, ibid.

Drinking, regulations respecting, among the ancient Greeks and Romans in their entertainments, Esth. i, 8.

Dropsy, why this disorder is so named, Luke xiv, 2.

Drowning with a great weight hung on the neck, an ancient mode of punishing criminals, Matt. xviii, 6. Luke xvii, 2.

Druids, Pliny's account of their great veneration for the oak and misletoe, Gen. xxi, 33.

Drunkenness, Herbert's nervous description of the baleful effects of, Prov. xxiii, 33.

Drusilla, wife of Felix, some account of, Acts xxiv, 24.

Drusius, (John,) account of this commentator, General Preface, pp. viii, ix.

Dudaim, דודאים, import of this word extremely uncertain, Gen. xxx, 14.

Duelling, when the general practice of, is supposed to have taken place, Numb. v, in fine. Account of the duel between Dioxippus the Athenian and Horratus a Macedonian as given by Quintius Curtius, 2 Sam. xxiii, 21. Description of the ancient mode of duel between the retiarius and secutor, Mic. vii, 2. Observations on the practice of duelling in this country, Hos. iv, 2.

Duke, derivation and import of this word, Gen. xxxvi, 15.

Dung of the ox and cow in a dried state a common fuel in the East, Isa. xxvii, 11. Ezek. v, 12.

Dura, plain of, uncertain where situated, Dan. iii, 1.

Durandus, his account of the manner of constructing the pallium or pall, 1 Kings xix, in fine.

Dust, shaking off the, from the clothes or feet, what this symbolical action imported among the ancient Jews, Matt. x, 14. Acts xiii, 51.

Dust, throwing of, into the air, a mark among the ancients of the greatest contempt, 2 Sam. xvi, 13. Acts xxii, 23.

Dying daily, citations from Philo, Libanius, and Livy, to shew that this is an ancient form of speech for continual exposure to a violent death, 1 Cor. xv, 31.

Dyrbeans, anecdote concerning these people, Lev. vi, 3.

E

Eagle, esteemed by the heathens a bird sacred to Jupiter, and thought by them to be employed in carrying the souls of departed heroes, kings, &c, into the celestial regions, Exod. xix, 4. Whence this fable probably originated, ibid. The eagle was the Roman ensign, Deut. xxviii, 49. Matt. xxiv, 28. Rev. xii, 12. A golden eagle was the ensign of Cyrus, according to Xenophon, Isa. xlvi, 11. The eagle proverbial among ancients and moderns for its strong and clear sight, Job xxxix, 27—29. Some individuals are stated to have attained a very great age, Psa. ciii, 5. A very current opinion among the ancients that the eagle moults in his old age, and renews his feathers, and with them his youth, Isa. xl, 31.

Ear, consecrated by the ancients to Memory, Matt. xvii, 14.

Ear, boring of the, an ancient custom in the East, Exod. xxi, 6.

Earing, whence derived, and its ancient and modern acceptations, Gen. xlv, 6.

Ear-rings formerly worn as amulets and charms, Gen. xxxv, 4. The Ishmaelites or Arabs had probably a crescent in each ear-ring, Judg. viii, 21.

Earth, notions of the ancients respecting its origin and formation, 2 Pet. iii, 5. The earth's rotation round its axis the cause of the regular succession of day and night, Gen. i, 4. Psa. xix, 5. Heb. xi, in fine. Its superficial and solid content, Psa. viii, 3. Its spheroidical figure, Gen. i, 10. 2 Pet. iii, 5. What to be understood by the pillars or compressors of the earth, 1 Sam. ii, in fine.

Earth, two mules' burden of, enquiry into what Naaman meant by this phrase, 2 Kings v, 17.

Earth and water, annual offering of, to the Persian monarchs, and its signification, Neh. ii, 3.

Earthern jars, vessels in which the people of the East keep their corn and meal to preserve them from insects, 1 Kings xvii, 12.

Earthquakes, description of, with their accompaniments, 1 Kings xix, 11.

East, opinion predominant throughout the, about the time of our Lord's nativity, that some great personage would soon make his appearance for the deliverance of Israel, and obtain universal empire, Matt. ii, 3. Citations from Suetonius and Tacitus to this effect, ibid.

Easter, Christian, rules by which the time of this moveable festival is ascertained, Acts xii, 4.

Eastern bow, description of the, Psa. lxxviii, 57. Its figure, and what named by the Greeks when in a quiescent state, and when ready to discharge the missile, ibid.; Hos. vii, 16. Zech. ix, 14.

Eastern divan, in what the furniture of an, chiefly consists, Isa. xxxviii, 2.

East Indian Ink, how made, Col. ii, 14. The whole of it readily discharged from the paper by the application of a wet sponge, ibid.; Numb. v, 23.

Ebronah, the thirtieth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 34.

Ecclesiastical Works, alphabetical list of, referred to in the various readings quoted occasionally in these Notes, with the times in which they are supposed to have been written, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. xxi—xxiii.

Εχειν, citations from classical writers to shew that this word, without the negative particle, is synonymous with οἱ πλουσιοι the rich, and vice versâ, Matt. xiii, 12.

Eclipse of the sun by the interposition of the moon, shewn not to have been the cause of the darkness over the land of Judea at the time of our Lord's crucifixion, Matt. xxvii, 45.

Eden, its derivation and import, Gen. ii, 8. Luke xxiii, 43.

Edge-tools of the ancients commonly made of stones and flints, Josh. v, 2.

Edicts of the Persian monarchs could not be formally repealed: but new edicts could be issued by which the preceding might be counteracted, Esth. viii, 8.

Edomites, their origin, and frequent hostilities with the Israelites, Gen. xxv, 23. Isa. xxxiv, in principio. Fulfilment of the prophecies concerning these people, Gen. xxvii, 28. et seq.

Edoth, עדית its derivation and import, Lev. xxvi, 15.

Education of children, instructions for the proper discharge of this duty, 1 Sam. iii, in fine. Fearful consequences to be apprehended from a neglected religious education, ibid. Thoughts on the mode of education in our national schools and universities, Dan. i, 5.

Εγγυος, Surety, in what it differs from μεσιτης, mediator, Heb. vii, in fine.

Egypt, boundaries of this extensive country of Africa, Acts ii, 10. Ancient constitution of Egypt according to Diodorus Siculus, Gen. xlvii, 23. The earliest account of a religion supported by the state is that which was established in this country, ibid. Egypt has a double seed-time and harvest, Exod. ix, 31. Amazing number of Jews in this country in the time of Philo, Isa. xix, in principio. Brief sketch of the revolutions of Egypt, Ezek. xxix, 14.

Egyptian, Josephus's account of a commotion occasioned by an, in the apostolic age, Acts xxi, 38. Great discrepance in the numbers stated by St. Luke and Josephus to have been assembled on this occasion, how accounted for by Dean Aldridge, ibid. Another mode of solving the difficulty, ibid.

Egyptians, why shepherds were had in abomination among these people, Gen. xlvi, 34. Excessive superstition of the Egyptians, Exod. viii, 26; xx, 4. Lev. xvii, 7. Formerly a settled belief among these people that their gods, in the likeness of men or animals, occasionally descended to the earth, and travelled through different provinces, to punish, reward, and protect, Acts xiv, 11.

Eheyeh asher eheyeh, אהיה אשר אהיה, rendered "I am that I am," enquiry into the import of the original words, Exod. iii, 14.

Ei, אי, a Jewish memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Exodus.

Ει, Thou art, a word above the door of the ancient Temple of Delphos, on which Plutarch has written an express treatise, 2 Tim. ii, 19.

Ειλικρινεια, and Ειλικρινης, derivation and import of these words, 2 Cor. i, 12.

Eilon, אלון, rendered oak, what it properly signifies, Gen. xii, 6.

Ειρηνη, nine acceptations of this word in the New Testament pointed out, Rom. i, 7.

Εις τον ουρανον, a Jewish phrase for εις τον Θεον, Luke xv, 18.

Εκχεω, and Εκχυω, used in the Septuagint in a sacrificial sense, Matt. xxvi, 28.

Εκκλησια, this word, generally translated church, means an assembly of any kind, good or bad, lawful or unlawful, Acts xix, 32.

Ελαχισοτερος, observations on this singular expression of St. Paul, Eph. iii, 8.

Elam, probably the same with the Elymais of the Greeks, Jer. xlix, 34.

Elanitic Gulf, why so named, 2 Kings xiv, 22.

Eldest son, giving the estates to the, origin of this law, Gen. xxv, 6.

Eleazar, manner in which this Jew of the apostolic age is said to have ejected dæmons, as related by Josephus, Acts xix, 14.

Election and Reprobation, Unconditional, doctrine of, considered, Rom. ix, in fine. 1 Thess. i, 4. Heb. iii, 10. 1 Pet. i, 2.

Electorates of the Holy Roman Empire, period of their institution involved in great uncertainty, Rev. xvii, 9. Their original number, ibid. Brief sketch of the very great influence of the sovereigns of these states before and at the period of the Reformation, ibid.

Electrical winds, Jackson's account of the, Hab. i, 9.

Ελεγχος, Demonstration, logical definition of this word, Heb. xi, 1. Aristotle's definition, ibid.

Ελελευ ϊη, words with which the pæans, or hymns in honour of Apollo, commenced and terminated, a manifest corruption of the Hebrew הללו יה, hallelu-yah, Rev. xix, 1.

Elephant, natural history of the, Job xl, 15. Supposed by some to be the behemoth of Scripture, ibid. Manner of hunting the elephant in Ceylon, Job xviii, in fine.

Elephantiasis, description of this very horrible disorder, Deut. xxviii, 27. Job ii, 7; vii, 5; xvi, 8; xxx, 18. In what it differs from the small pox, Job ii, 7.

Ελευθερος, translated freeman, properly imports freedman, 1 Cor. vii, in fine. Synonymous with libertus among the Romans, ibid.

Eliezer, son of Moses, why so named, Exod. xviii, 4.

Elihu, various conjectures respecting, Job xxxii, 2.

Elijah the Tishbite, idolatrous superstition of the Jews relative to this prophet, Mal. iv, 6.

Ηλικια, its import, Matt. vi, 27.

Elim, the fifth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, some account of, Numb. xxxiii, 9.

Eliphaz the Temanite, who, Job ii, 11.

Elisha, enquiry whether this prophet received his office by unction, 1 Kings xix, in fine.

Elishah, supposed to be the same with Elis, a part of the Peloponnesus, Ezek. xxvii, 7.

Elixir vitæ, attempts at the discovery of the, in most nations, Job xiv, 5.

Elizabeth, import of this name, Luke i, 60.

Ἑλληνες, Greeks, very extensive meaning of this word among the ancient Jews, Mark vii, 26. In what Ἑλληνες differs from Ἑλληνισαι, Acts vi, 1.

Ellipsis, instances of the, Isa. i, 9; x, 26; xli, 2; xlii, 19; lvii, 2.

Ellipsis, or Oval, the figure of every planetary orbit hitherto discovered, Heb. xi, in fine.

Elm, prodigious quantity of seeds produced by this tree, Gen. i, 12.

El Maamah, Dr. Pococke's account of this very large eastern grotto, 1 Sam. xxiv, 3.

Elohim, אלהים, demonstrated to be the plural form of אל el, or אלה eloah, by a reference to thirty-one passages in the Old Testament, Gen. i, 1; see also Deut. vi, 4. Inquiry into the derivation and import of the word, ibid. A very beautiful paranomasia upon this word, Psa. xcvi, 5.

Elymais, inquiry into the import of this name, Acts xiii, 8.

Embalming, art of, among the Egyptians, largely described, Gen. l, 2.

Ἡμερα often has the import of judgment, for which some examples are produced, 1 Cor. iv, 3.

Emerald, some account of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17. Rev. xxi, 19. Its component parts, Job xxxviii, 38.

Emeth, אמת, its derivation and import, Lev. xxvi, 15.

Emim, some account of this ancient people, Deut. ii, 10.

Emperors of Germany, great revolutions in the kind of power appertaining to the, from the ninth to the fourteenth century, Rev. xvii, 9.

Εμπλησθηναι sometimes imports to be satisfied, to be gratified, and to enjoy, Rom. xv, 24. Citations from Ælian, Maximus Tyrius, and Homer, in which this word is to be thus understood, ibid.

Empneumatosis, or windy inflation of the womb, description of this disorder by Michaelis, Isa. xxvi, 18.

Encampments of the Israelites in the wilderness, Scheuchzer's description and plan of the, Numb. ii, 2. The Arabs always form a circle in their encampments, and put their principal officers in the centre, 1 Sam. xxvi, 5.

Enchus, Εγχυς, or Spear, form of the, among the ancient Greeks, Eph. vi, 13.

Enemies, a practice among the ancients of disabling, by cutting off their thumbs and great toes, Judg. i, 7. Customary with the Persians, after they had slain, strangled, or beheaded their enemies, to hang their bodies upon poles, or to empale them, Lam. v, 12.

Enetæ, or Henetæ, where these ancient people were situated, Gen. xxxvi, 24. Whence the fabulous account of their origin is possibly derived, ibid.

Engines for the attack or defence of besieged places invented in the reign of Uzziah, king of Judah, 2 Chron. xxvi, 15.

Engrafting, mode of, among the Romans, according to Virgil, Rom. xi, 22.

Engraved stones, sometimes placed over the principal gates of cities and fortresses, in Mohammedan countries, specifying the date of erection, repairs, &c, and containing some religious sentiment or verse from the Koran, 2 Tim. ii, in fine.

Enigmas proposed at the ancient entertainments, some examples of, Judg. xiv, 14. Ancient enigma in which the double use of the stile is pointed out, 2 Kings xxi, 13. Enigma attributed to Lactantius, Matt. xxiii, 33.

Enoch, meaning of the word, Gen. iv, 17. Remark upon the age of Enoch, the father of Methuselah, at the period of his translation, Gen. v, in fine.

Enosh, אנוש, a word rendered man in our Version, its precise import, Psa. lxii, 9.

Ensigns, different sorts of, among the ancient Romans, Rev. xii, 14.

Entellus and Dares, Virgil's account of the boxing match between, 1 Cor. ix, 26.

Envy, definition of, Gen. xxxvii, in fine. Beautiful personification of this vice by Ovid, with Addison's elegant and nervous translation, Rom. i 29. Curious Rabbinical story relative to this malignant passion, which has been formed by the moderns into a fable, Prov. xxvii, 4.

Eous, one of the horses of the sun, according to the Pagan mythology, what the name imports, 2 Kings ii, 11.

Ephah, some account of this Hebrew measure of capacity, Exod. xvi, 16.

Εφεσια γραμματα, Ephesian characters, account of these amulets by Suidas, Hesychius, and Clemens Alexandrinus, Acts xix, 19.

Ephesians, very corrupt state of this people in the apostolic age, Eph. v, 7.

Ephesians, Epistle to the, demonstrated by Dr. Paley to be an authentic letter of St. Paul, Introduction to the Epistle, pp. i.—viii. Consideration of the disputed point, whether this apostolical letter were written to the Ephesians or to the Laodiceans, Preface to the Epistle, pp. i.—iv.

Ephesus, an ancient city of great celebrity, in which was the famous temple of Diana, Acts xviii, 19. Chandler's very impressive description of the ancient and modern condition of Ephesus, ibid. The illustrious title of Neocorus said to have been first assumed by this city, Acts xix, 35.

Ephod, account of the, Exod. xxv, 7. Its curious girdle, Exod. xxviii, 8. Observations on the ephod made by Gideon, Judges viii, 27, et in fine.

Ephraim, Ephrem, Ephram, or Ephratha, where situated, according to Jerom and Eusebius, John xi, 54.

Ephraim, son of Joseph, why so named, Gen. xli, 50.

Ephrem Syrus, some account of this commentator, General Preface, p. v.

Epicureans, a famous sect of ancient philosophers, Acts xvii, 18. Brief sketch of their doctrines, ibid. Why so named, ibid.

Epicurus, a celebrated Greek philosopher, when and where born, Acts xvii, 18.

Epimenides, an ancient Greek poet, an hexameter line from whom is cited by St. Paul, Tit. i, 12. Reputed a prophet by the Cretans, ibid. Citations to this effect from Plato, Diogenes Laertes, and Cicero, ibid.

Επιουσιον, a word which has greatly perplexed critics and commentators, Matt. vi, 11. Origen's conjecture concerning its origin, ibid. The interpretation of this word given by Theophylact, the most probable of any, ibid. Wakefield's conjecture, ibid. To what custom this word has probably an allusion, according to Harmer, ibid.

Επισκοπος, bishop, its derivation, Acts i, 20. What the office of επισκοπος was in the primitive Christian church, ibid.

Epithalamium, definition of the, Introduction to Solomon's Song, p. ii.

Επιθυμεω, in what sense used by our Lord, Matt. v, 28.

Επιτροπος, various acceptations of this word, Luke viii, 3. What meant by this word in the Rabbinical writings, when written in Chaldee characters, ibid.

Equal areas in equal times, description of, a law to which every primary and secondary planet in the Solar System is subjected, and probably every other body in the whole material universe, Heb. xi, in fine. This law the necessary consequence of a universal and continually operating influence diffused throughout nature, which philosophers term gravity or attraction, ibid.

Equinoctial points, precession of the, occasioned by a slow revolution of the celestial poles around the poles of the ecliptic, Psa. xix, 5. In what time this revolution is performed, ibid. From this cause the tropical year is shorter than the siderial, ibid. In twenty-five thousand seven hundred and sixty-THREE complete revolutions of the earth round the sun, there are twenty-five thousand seven hundred and sixty-FOUR summers, and as many autumns, winters, and springs, ibid. Remarkable phænomena in the starry firmament occasioned by the precession of the equinoctial points, ibid.

Equinumeral verses of Leonidas of Alexandria, three curious examples from this poet, Rev. xiii, 18. Account given by Aulus Gellius of equinumeral verses in the Iliad and Odyssey, ibid.

Equus hemionus, see Jichta.

Eras, (or Æras,) of the world, short account of the Ussherian, Alexandrian, Antiochian, and Constantinopolitan, Preface to Matthew, p. vi.

Erasmus, (Desiderius,) a commentator on the New Testament, General Preface, p. ix. How fully convinced of the doctrine of the Trinity, Eccles. iii, 14.

Ereb, ערב, translated evening, import of the term, Gen. i, 31. From this word is derived Erebus, the name of a Heathen deity, ibid.

Ermin or Erminage street, where situated, Job xxiii, 11.

Ermine, royal robes of kings and great officers adorned with the skin of this animal, 2 Kings ii, 8.

Esau, import of this name very uncertain, Gen. xxv, 25. Dr. Shuckford's character of Esau, Gen. xxxvi, in fine.

Eshcol, Valley of, where situated, Isa. v, 2.

Eso, an object of idolatrous worship among the ancient Gauls, to whom human victims were offered, Rom. ix, in fine.

Esob, אזוב, rendered hyssop, of doubtful import, Exod. xii, 22.

Εσοπτρε εν αινιγματι, inquiry into the import of this remarkable expression of St. Paul, 1 Cor. xiii, 12.

Espousal, The, among the Jews, though the marriage had not been consummated, considered as binding on both sides, Matt. i, 18. A breach of this contract deemed a case of adultery, and punished as such, ibid. The contract could only be legally dissolved by a regular divorce, ibid.

Esquire, derivation and original import of this word, 1 Sam. xiv, 1. Its modern acceptation, ibid.

Essenes, some account of this Jewish sect, Matt. xix, 12.

Esther, biographical sketch of, by Prideaux, introduction to Esther, pp. ii, et seq.

Eternal filiation of the Son of God, remarks on the doctrine of the, Psa. ii, 7. Prov. viii, in fine. Luke i, 35. Acts xiii, 33. Heb. i, in fine.

Eternity of rewards and punishments, in a future state, shewn to be a doctrine of Scripture, Gen. xvii, 7, 8; xxi, 33. Psa. lxxiii, 27. Isa. lxvi, 24. Matt. xxv, 46; xxvi, 24. Mark ix, 43—50. John iii, 36. 2 Thess. i, 9.

Eternity, thoughts concerning this vast and incomprehensible subject, Job ix, in fine. Psa. xc, 2. Beautiful saying of Plutarch relative to eternity, 2 Pet. iii, 8.

Eternity of God, reflections upon the, Exod. iii, in fine, Mic. v, 2. Remarkable passages in Plutarch on this point, ibid.

Eth, את, Rabbinical glosses upon this Hebrew particle, Gen. i, 1.

Eth, the old third person singular ending in, used by our English ancestors for the imperative mood, Isa. lv, 1. This illustrated by a quotation from an Old MS. Bible in the Author's possession, ibid.

Etham, the second station of the Israelites in the wilderness, some account of, Numb. xxxiii, 6.

Ethanim, the name of a Jewish month, 1 Kings vi, 1; viii, 2.

Εθελω, in what sense this verb is frequently used in the Septuagint, Matt. xxvii, 43.

Ets, עץ, rendered gallows, real import of the word, Esth. v, 14.

Eucharist, observations on the institution of the, Matt. xxvi, 26. Harmonized view of the account given of this ordinance in three Gospels and one Epistle, ibid.

Ευαγγελιον, Gospel, shewn to signify the reward which the bringer of good tidings is entitled to receive, 2 Sam. iv, 10. Preface to Matthew, pp. iii, iv. Six other acceptations of this term, Preface to Matthew, pp. iv, v.

Eudoxus, remarkable among the ancients for having sailed round the Cape of Good Hope, Isa. ii, 13—16.

Ευεργεσια, Dr. Macknight's observations on the meaning of this word, 1 Tim. vi, 2.

Euphorbus, death of, as related in the Iliad, cited to shew how the ancient Greeks plaited and adorned their hair, 1 Tim. ii, 9.

Euphrates, remarkable overflowing of this river, Nah. i, 8; ii, 6. Time and cause of its ordinary overflowings, Isa. xliv, 27. How Semiramis confined the waters of the Euphrates within its channel, Isa. xxi, 1.

Euripides, citation from, in which sense and sound are very happily combined, Isa. i, 5. Extract from the Alcestis of Euripides very similar to a saying of St. Paul, 2 Tim. iv, 8.

Euroclydon, in the opinion of Dr. Shaw, one of those tempestuous winds now called levanters, Acts xxvii, 14. Derivation of the word, ibid.

Euryalus, see Nisus.

Eusebius, the reason given by this writer why the Egyptians worshipped their deities under the form of certain animals, Exod. viii, 26.

Evaporation, how instrumental in the production of rain, Psa. civ, 10.

Eve, meaning of the word, Gen. iii, 20. This name contains in itself a prophecy of the redemption of the world by Jesus Christ, ibid.

Events, enumeration of the different methods of recording, among the ancients, Jer. xvii, 1.

Ever and ever, a very happy rendering of εις τους αιωνας, Matt. vi, 13.

Evermore, import of this term, Exod. xv, 18. Psa. xvi, 11. Matt. vi, 13.

Evil, thoughts on the origin of, Matt. xiii, 36. Reflections on the mysterious permission of this principle in the world for so many ages, ibid.

Evil communications corrupt good manners, a saying of St. Paul which, it is generally supposed, he cited from Menander's lost comedy of Thais, 1 Cor. xv, 33. Quotations from Æschylus, Diodorus Siculus, and Theognis, of similar import, ibid.

Evil Report, fine personification of, by Virgil, 2 Sam. xiii, 30.

Eunuchs, various kinds of, Matt. xix, 12.

Εξαναστασις, in what this word probably differs in import from αναστασις, Phil. iii, 11.

Excommunication, description of the three kinds of, among the Jews, the niddui, נדוי, the cherem, חרם, and the shammatha, שמתא, 1 Cor. xvi, 22.

Execrations against those who should rebuild those cities which had been destroyed in war, the revival of whose power and influence was dreaded, frequent in ancient history, Josh. vi, in fine. Some examples produced, ibid. Pouring execrations on an enemy previously to battle, an ancient custom, Numb. xxii, 6. Psa. lxxxiii, 15.

Exodus, the second book of the Old Testament Scriptures, whence so named, Preface to Exodus, p. i.

Exorcisms very frequent in the primitive church, Acts xix, 17. The name of Jesus was that alone used in the adjuration, ibid. The adjuration commonly made over the catechumens before they were admitted to baptism, ibid.

Exorcists, among the Jews adjured by the name of Solomon, according to Josephus, Acts xix, 14. Exorcists a distinct class in the primitive Christian church, Acts xix, 17.

Εξουσια, in what this word differs in import from δυναμις, Acts i, 8.

Εξουθενημενος, why this epithet was given to the lowest bench of justice among the Jews, 1 Cor. vi, 4.

Expedition of the ancient eastern monarchs, manner of the, Isa. xl, 3.

Expiation, feast of, why instituted, Exod. xxiii, 14.

Expounding of the Scriptures, manner of, among the Jews, Neh. viii, in fine.

Extreme Unction of the Romish church shewn to be widely different from the anointing mentioned by St. James, James v, 14.

Ezekiel, Archbishop Newcome's historical sketch of the times in which this prophet lived, Introduction to Ezekiel, pp. i—iii. Character of Ezekiel as a poet as drawn up by this great prelate, ibid, pp. ii—vii. Chronological Table of the prophecies of Ezekiel from Calmet, ibid, pp. vii, viii. Plan and description of Ezekiel's temple, Ezek. xlviii, in fine.

Ezer kenegedo, עזר כנגדו, translated helpmeet, inquiry into the import of these words, Gen. ii, 18.

Ezion-gaber, the thirty-first station of the Israelities in the wilderness, some account of, Numb. xxxiii, 35.

Ezra, biographical sketch of, by Prideaux, Introduction to Ezra, pp. ii, et seq.

Ezra, Book of, very remarkable passage said to have been originally contained in this portion of Holy Writ, which the Jews are accused by Justin Martyr of erasing through their enmity to the Christians, Ezra x, in fine.

F

Fable of Dædalus and Icarus, with its moral, as given by a Roman poet, Prov. xxv, 7.

Fables of the ancients, reasons for believing that some of these have arisen out of the names of ships, Acts xxviii, 11.

Face, or Forehead, why the first part of the body whence the sweat begins to issue, Gen. iii, 19.

Face, covering of the, a sign of mourning, 2 Sam. xix, 4. When a criminal was ordered to have his face covered, it was a sign among the Persians and Romans of his being devoted to death, Esth. vii, 8.

Faith, the GRACE by which it is produced, and the ACT of, demonstrated to be essentially distinct things, without the harmonious union of which no man ever was or can be saved, Eph. ii, 8.

Faith, hope, and love, observations on, in reference to a future world, 1 Cor. xiii, in fine.

Faithfulness of God, a favourite expression among the ancient Jews, 1 Cor. i, 9. Two anecdotes related by the Rabbins in illustration of this attribute of the Divine Nature, ibid.

Falarica, see Phalarica.

Falcon, natural history of the, Job xxxix, 26.

Fall, metaphorical import of this term, Rom. v, in fine.

Falling stars have been deemed by the common people an omen of evil times, Matt. xxiv, 29. Examples produced, ibid.

False Christs, some account of the, who appeared before the destruction of the Jewish polity by the Romans, Matt. xxiv, 5.

False Witnesses, laws of the Hebrews, Romans, and English, against, Deut. xix, 19.

Falsity diffused through the nature of man, Psa. cxvi, 11. This idea finely expressed by Herbert, ibid. Remarkable Italian proverb to the same effect, ibid.

Fame, fine personification of, by Virgil, 2 Sam. xiii, 30.

Family religion, maintenance of, indispensible, Gen. xviii, in fine; xix, in fine. Deut. iv, 9; vi, 7.

Famines that were decreed to take place before the coming of the Messiah, according to the Targum, Ruth i, 1. Account of four famines in the reign of Claudius the Roman emperor, Acts xi, 28.

Farewell, an old English form of expressing good wishes and good will, Acts xv, 29. Derivation of the word, ibid.

Farthing, a corruption of fourthing, Luke xxi, 2. Why so named, ibid.

Fasting, general observations on, Matt. ix, in fine. Considered by the Mohammedans as an essential part of piety, ibid.

Fasts of the Pharisees, many of them very superstitious, Matt. ix, 14. Particular description of the twelve kinds of fasts among the Hindoos, Matt. ix, in fine.

Father, probably a name of office in Egypt, Gen. xlv, 8. Certain officers of state among the Phœnicians, Persians, Arabians, and Romans, addressed by this title, ibid. Among the Jews father was the title of preceptor, and son that of disciple or scholar, Prov. i, 8. Curious note in a Bible published by Edmunde Becke, relative to the title of father given to the Pope, Matt. xxiii, in fine. The four things which, among the ancient Jews, every father was bound to do for his son, Mark vi, 3. He who acted a kind, instructing, and indulgent part to another, was styled the father of such a one, Rom. xvi, 13. This sense of the word illustrated by a citation from Terence, ibid. 1 Cor. iv, 15.

Favouritism has often brought prosperous nations to the brink of ruin, Eccles. x, 5.

Fearful portents that immediately preceded the destruction of Jerusalem by the Romans, Matt. xxiv, 7.

Feasts of Charity in the primitive Christian church, see Αγαπαι.

Federal act formed by Joshua with the people of Israel, a little before his death, outline of Saurin's excellent dissertation on the, Josh. xxiv, in fine.

Felix, account of this Roman governor by Tacitus and Suetonius, Acts xxiii, 24.

Felling of trees, directions of Vitruvius respecting, 1 Kings v, 6.

Female dancers, the people of the East from time immemorial very extravagant in their testimony of respect to, Mark vi, 23. A remarkable example produced, ibid.

Ferdinand IV, king of Naples and the Sicilies, institute of this monarch relative to mournings for the dead, Gen. l, 7.

Ferdoosy, remarks on the famous epic poem written by this man, Esth. vi, 1.

Festivals, Jewish, some account of the, Exod. xxiii, 14.

Feudal system, brief sketch of the, as it prevailed in Europe before the Reformation, Rev. xvii, 9.

Figs, Eastern, Dr. Shaw's account of the, Isa. xxviii, 4. Citation from Pliny relative to the medical properties of the fig, with Philemon Holland's translation, Isa. xxxviii, 21.

Filigree silver-work, Asiatics greatly excel in this kind of production, Prov. xxv, 11. Instances which have come under the Author's inspection, ibid.

Final perseverance of the saints, doctrine of the, considered, Deut. vii, 12. 2 Sam. vii, 15. Ezek. xviii, 24. John x, 28. Acts ii, 47; xi, 23. 1 Cor. x, 12. Heb. iii, 7; vi, 6.

Fine linen of Egypt, observations upon the, Gen. xli, 42.

Finger-mountain, the highest of the mountains of Ararat, where some have supposed the ark of Noah to have rested, Gen. viii, 4.

Fire, among the Hebrews, and many other ancient nations, a very significant emblem of the Deity, Exod. iii, 2. This element the offspring of Ormusd, according to the modern Parsees, ibid. Deified among the Egyptians, Exod. xii, in fine.

Fire-cross, of the ancient Highlanders, what, Judg. xix, 29. 1 Sam. xi, in fine.

Fire consuming the thorns, a beautiful metaphor used by sacred and profane writers, Psa. cxviii, 12.

Fire-ordeal, among the Persians, account of the, Numb. v, in fine.

Fire of God, import of this Hebraism, Job i, 16.

Firstborn, observations on the import of this term in various parts of Scripture, Exod. xii, 29.

Firstborn, Redemption of the, one of the rites still practised among the Jews, Numb. xviii, 16. How this rite was performed, ibid.

First Cause, general definition of the Great, Gen. i, 1. John iv, 24.

Firstfruits offered to God not only by the Hebrews; but several quotations from ancient writers to shew that the Heathens also offered them to their idols, Exod. xxii, 29.

Fishes, their amazing fecundity instanced in the tench, carp, and cod, Gen. i, 20.

Flag, Hasselquist's description of the, Job viii, 11. Ropes made of its leaves by the Egyptians, ibid.

Flail, or Staff, account of this instrument used in threshing, Isa. xxviii, 27, 28.

Flesh, preservation of, by potting, common in Asiatic countries, Gen. xlv, 23.

Flesh and blood, a Hebrew periphrasis for man in his present state of infirmity and decay, Matt. xvi, 17. 1 Cor. xv, 50. Gal. i, 16. Eph. vi, 12.

Flint, our ancestors had their arrow and spear-heads of this substance, Josh. v, 2.

Flocks, why great care was necessary in driving of the, among the ancients, Isa. xl, 11.

Flogging, system of, among the British considered, Deut. xxv, 3. Saying of a Mandarin on this subject, ibid.

Flour of parched barley, according to Mr. Jones, the chief provision of the Moors in their journeys, 2 Sam. xvii, 28.

Flux and reflux of the ocean, phænomena and cause of the, Job xxxviii, 11. Psa. civ, 9. Heb. xi, in fine.

Fool, the original word so rendered implied the highest enormity and most aggravated guilt, Matt. v, 22. How such an expression, opprobriously applied, was punished among the Gentoos, ibid.

Footstool, a necessary appendage to a throne, Isa. lii, 2; lx, 13.

Forehead consecrated by the ancients to Genius, Matt. xvii, 14.

Foreknowledge of God, observations on the, Acts ii, in fine.

Form of doctrine, the original words so rendered a figurative expression taken from the melting of metals, Rom. vi, 17.

Form of God, μορφη Θεϛ, substance of Dr. Whitby's observations on this remarkable expression of St. Paul, Phil. ii, 6.

Formido, or Terror, among the ancients, what, Isa. xxiv, 17, 18.

Forms of government of the ancient Latins and Romans, enumeration of the, in their chronological order, Rev. xii, 3; xiii, 1; xvii, 10.

Forty, Ainsworth's observations upon the very frequent occurrence of this number in Scripture, Deut. xxv, 3.

Forty days, a remarkable period in Scripture, Gen. vii, 4. Deut. xxv, 3.

Forty years, which are stated to have elapsed from the commencement of Absalom's rebellion to his departure for Hebron, most manifestly a corruption of the Sacred text, 2 Sam. xv, 7.

Fosse-street, some account of, Job xxiii, 11.

Foul, whence this word is probably derived, John iii, 20.

Four which have principality in this world, according to the Rabbins, Rev. iv, 8.

Foxes, formerly a custom in Rome to let loose a number of, in the circus, with lighted flambeaux on their backs, that the people might be amused in seeing these animals run about till roasted to death by the flames with which they were enveloped, Judg. xv, in fine. Origin of this custom as given by Ovid, and by Serrarius and Bochart, ibid.

Frankincense, description of this resinous substance, Exod. xxx, 34.

Franks, a general appellation, in Asiatic countries, for the inhabitants of Europe, Acts xi, 20.

Fray, whence this word is derived, Zech. i, 21.

Free agency of man demonstrated, Deut. v, 29; xi, 26; xxx, 15. Eph. ii, 8. Phil. ii, 18.

Freemen forbidden by Dioclesian and Maximian to be sold on account of debt, 2 Kings iv, 1.

Friend, Cicero's definition of a genuine, Psa. xxxi, 7. Aristotle's very remarkable definition, Acts iv, 32.

Friend of the bridegroom, or Paranymph, observations on the office of the, John iii, in fine.

Friendship, remarkable instances of, John xv, 13.

Frivolous questions, and the answers given to them, by the wisest and most reputable of the Jewish Rabbins, Tit. iii, 9.

Frogs, according to Bryant, a sacred animal among the Egyptians, Exod. xii, in fine; xx, 4.

Froissart's account of the six citizens of Calais who came to Edward III, with ropes round their necks, and the keys of the town and castle in their hands, 1 Kings xx, in fine.

Fuel, great scarcity of, in most parts of the East, Isa. xxvii, 11.

Ful, whence this Saxon word is probably derived, John iii, 20.

Funeral banquets to commemorate the dead, and comfort the surviving relatives, common among the ancients, Jer. xvi, 8. Matt. ix, 32.

Funeral ceremonies among the ancient Egyptians, account of the, by Diodorus Siculus, Gen. l, 2.

Fur, how this Latin word has been applied by the ancient Romans, Psa. lxxxvi, 16. Tit. ii, 10.

G

Gad, why so named, Gen. xxx, 11.

Gad, perhaps an object of idolatrous worship among the ancient Israelites, Isa. lxv, 11.

Gadarenes, see Gergasenes.

Gaius, the Greek mode of writing the Roman name Caius, 3 John 1.

Gal, גל, import of this term, Gen. xxxi, 46.

Galatæ, or Galatians, the tribes into which these people were divided, with the number of their tetrarchies and cantons, according to Strabo and Pliny, Preface to Galatians, p. i. Religion and personal appearance of the ancient Galatæ, ibid., p. ii.

Galatia, where situated, and why so named, Preface to Galatians, p. i. When reduced into the form of a Roman colony, ibid. Boundaries of Galatia, ibid. Under the Christian emperors, divided into two provinces, Galatia Prima and Galatia Secunda, ibid., p. ii.

Galatians, authenticity of the Epistle to the, ably vindicated by Dr. Paley, Introduction to the Epistle, pp. i—x. Inquiry into the date of this Epistle, Preface to the Epistle, pp. ii—iv. Synopsis of the arguments employed in this apostolical letter to prove the truth of the Christian religion, ibid., p. iv. Observations on the great similarity between St. Paul's Epistle to the Galatians and his Epistle to the Romans, Gal. vi, in fine.

Galbanum, description of this plant, Exod. xxx, 34.

Galilee, its boundaries, Matt. iv, 3. Singular tradition among the ancient Jews that the Messiah, should begin His ministry in this country, Matt. iv, 15.

Galilee, Sea of, or Lake of Tiberias, Jewish tradition relative to the right of fishing in this water, Matt. iv, 18.

Gall, anciently supposed to be that in which the poison of serpents consists, Job xx, 16.

Gall of bitterness, import of this Hebraism, Acts viii, 23.

Gallio, some account of this Roman deputy or proconsul, Acts xviii, 12. A passage in the life of this man generally misunderstood, Acts xviii, 17.

Galvanism, method of decomposing water by, Job xxxviii, 26.

Gam, גם, import of this Jewish memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Genesis, Gamaliel, some account of this celebrated doctor of the law among the Pharisees, Acts v, 34.

Gammadims, various conjectures respecting the import of the Hebrew term so translated, Ezek. xxvii, 11.

Gaoler, among the Romans, responsible for his prisoner, under the same penalty to which the prisoner himself was exposed, Acts xvi, 27.

Gaon, (Rabbi Saadias,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p, iii.

Gaphrith, גפרית, rendered brimstone, of very uncertain etymology, Gen. xix, 24.

Gardens encompassing Damascus, Maundrell's description of the, Isa. i, 30.

Garments, presents of, by Asiatic sovereigns to ambassadors and persons of distinction, very frequent, Gen. xlv, 22. Description of those garments appertaining to the Jewish priesthood, Exod. xxviii. Customary in the East to pull off the upper garments in times of great mourning, Exod. xxxiii, 5. Some account of the rough garment of the ancient prophets, Zech. xiii, 4. Heb. xi, 37.

Garments, transparent, of the ancient Greeks and Romans, Isa. iii, 23. These garments called by the Romans multitiæ and Coæ, and why, ibid.

Garvanços, Dr. Shaw's account of this plant, 2 Kings vi, 25.

Gate, the place of judgment in the East, Judg. v, 11. Job v, 4; xxix, 7. Isa. xxix, 21. Its metaphorical acceptation among the Jews, Matt. viii, 14.

Gates of many eastern cities closed at sunset, and on no consideration opened till the following morning, Neh. vii, 3. Gates in Priam's palace covered with plates of brass, 1 Kings iv, 13.

Gates of Hell, or of Hades, import of this figurative expression, Matt. xvi, 18.

Gat phe, גת ף, import of this memorial symbol of the Rabbins, Masoretic Notes at the end of Leviticus.

Gavâ ע, גוע, the Authorized Version frequently inaccurate in the rendering of this word, Gen. xxv, 8. What the original term properly imports, ibid.

Gaza, why so named, and where situated, Judg. xvi, 1. Acts viii, 26.

Γη, a term by which the land of Judea is not unfrequently expressed, Luke ii, 1. Rev. ix, 7.

Gebal, where situated, Ezek. xxvii, 9.

Gehenna, why this word is used by our Saviour for the place of punishment of the wicked in a future state, Isa. xxx, 33.

Gemarists, citation of very remarkable passages from the, in which open confession is made that the birth of the Messiah had taken place long before their times, Matt. ii, 5.

Gemoniæ Scalæ, a place at Rome where criminals were executed, Matt. xxvii, 33.

Γενεα, general acceptation of this word in the Evangelists, Matt. xi, 16; xii, 39; xxiii, 36; xxiv, 34. Mark xiii, 30.

Γενεαλογητος, he whose stock and descent is entered on record, Heb. vii, 3.

Genealogical lists contained in the Old Testament Scriptures of essential service in the cause of Divine revelation, Gen. xxxvi, in fine.

Genealogical Tables of the Jews, thoughts on their total destruction in the apostolic age, 1 Tim. i, 4.

Genealogy of our Lord, considerations on the best mode of reconciling and explaining the, as given by St. Matthew and St. Luke, chiefly extracted from the Prolegomena of the Rev. Dr. Barret's fac-simile of a fragment of the Gospel of St. Matthew, from a manuscript in Trinity college, Dublin, Luke iii, in fine.

General Council, authority of a, declared at the synods of Constance and Basil to be superior to that of the pope, Rev. xvii, 9.

Generation, various lengths of a, among the ancients, Genesis xv, 16.

Genesis, the first book of the Old Testament Scriptures, whence so named, Preface to Genesis, p. ii. General observations on the great importance of this book, Gen. I, in fine.

Genista, or Common Furze, exceedingly prolific, Genesis iii, 18.

Genius, Extraordinary, of some men, reflections concerning the, Exod. xxviii, 3; xxxi, 6.

Gennesaret, where this country was situated, Mark vii, 53. Why possibly so named, ibid.

Gennesaret, Lake of, its length and breadth, according to Josephus, Luke v, 1.

Gentile World, reflections on the dreadful state of the, as described by St. Paul, Rom. i, in fine.

Gentiles very probably borrowed their first sacrificial rites from the patriarchs, Numb. xix, 2. Citation from Virgil to shew that the Gentiles, in their sacrifices, fed on the slain beasts, and ate and drank in honour of the gods, 1 Cor. x, 21. General observations on the calling of the Gentiles, Rom. xvi, in fine.

Gentoo laws, very interesting extract from Mr. Halhed's Code of, relative to the Ashummed Jugg, Lev. xvi, 10.

Gentoos, remarkable law among these people respecting marriage, Gen. xxix, 26.

George III, tribute of praise to the character and conduct of this British king, Rom. xiii, 1.

Georgium Sidus, or Herschel, periodic and sidereal revolutions, distances from the sun and earth, diameter, volume, density, and hourly orbitical motion, of this primary planet, Gen. i, 1.

Gergasenes, Gergesenes, Gerasenes, Gadarenes, Gergesians, or Gersedonians, who, Matt. viii, 28.

Gerizim, some account of this mount, Deut. xxvii, 4.

Germany, very singular constitution of the late empire of, Rev. xvii, 9.

Γερρων, or Γερρα, the gerron, a species of shield first used by the Persians, Eph. vi, 13.

Gershom, why so named, Exod. ii, 22; xviii, 3.

Gethsemane, a garden at the foot of the mount of Olives, Matt. xxvi, 36. Conjecture concerning the derivation of the name, ibid.

Ghost, its derivation and import, Gen. xxv, 8. To give up the ghost, an act properly attributable to Jesus Christ alone, ibid., Matt. xxvii, 50.

Giants, seven Hebrew words rendered thus in our English Bibles, Gen. vi, 4. Fable of the giants, Job xxvi, 5.

Gibborim, גברים, rendered mighty men, what it properly signifies, Gen. vi, 4.

Giblites, an ancient people famous for their knowledge in shipbuilding, 1 Kings v, 18. Psa. lxxxiii, 7.

Gibyle, where situated, Psa. lxxxiii, 7.

Gideon, principle which impelled him to slay Zebah and Zalmunna illustrated by a quotation from Virgil, Judg. viii, 18. Character of Gideon, Judg. viii, in fine.

Gifts, Rabbinical enumeration of the, presented to the priests, Numb. xviii, 20.

Gifts of the Holy Ghost, Dr. Lightfoot's remarks on these being thrice summed up by the apostle in his First Epistle to the Corinthians, 1 Cor. xii, in fine.

Gifts from Jove not to be despised, a proverbial expression among the Heathen, 1 Tim. iv, 4.

Gigantic stature, account of persons of, in modern times, Numb. xiii, 33.

Gilgal, a place of great celebrity in the Jewish history, Josh. iv, 19.

Gill, (Dr. John,) author of a very diffusive commentary on the Old and New Testaments, General Preface, p. xi.

Girba, or Caraba, description of the, Isa. xxv, 6.

Girding up of the loins, what meant by this phrase, among the ancients, Jer. i, 17. 1 Pet. i, 13.

Girdle, a very general and expensive article of dress in the East, Prov. xxxi, 24. The girdle so essential a part of a soldier's accoutrement, being the last he put on to make himself ready for action, that to be girded anciently imported "to be completely armed, and ready for battle," Isa. v, 27.

Girgashites, where these people were situated, Josh. iii, 10.

Gitagovinda, or The songs of Jayadeva, given at full length. See the Song of Solomon in fine.

Glass, manufacture of, known to the ancients, Deut. xxxiii, 19. Josh. xi, 8.

Glean, whence derived, Ruth ii, 2. Formerly a custom in England and Ireland for the poor to collect the straggling ears of corn after the reapers, ibid. Present law of England with respect to gleaning, ibid.

Gleuces, Γλευκος, what, according to Hesychius and Suidas, Acts ii, 13.

Γλωσσοκομον, import of this word, as given by Pollux in his Onomasticon, John xii, 6. What the Talmudists meant by this word, when written in Chaldee characters, ibid.

Glories, round the heads of Chinese, Hindoo, and Christian saints, real or supposed, what intended to import, Acts ii, 3.

Glory, seven degrees of, according to the Rabbins, 1 Cor. xv, 42.

Glowing sandy plain, its deceptive appearance at a distance, Isa. xxxv, 7. Dr. Hyde's explanation and derivation of the original term so translated, ibid.

Gnostic theology, some account of the, Preface to the Gospel of John, pp. v, vi. Preface to the First Epistle of John, pp. i—vii.

Goadby, author of a work intituled "An Illustration of the Sacred Writings," General Preface, p. xii.

Goat, an object of religious veneration in Egypt, 2 Chron. xi, 15. Why a symbol of the Grecian or Macedonian power, Dan. viii, 5.

Goatherds represented by Homer as being so well acquainted with their own flocks, as easily to distinguish them, though intermixed with others, John x, 14.

Goats' hair, of Asia Minor, Syria, Cilicia, and Phrygia, description of the, Exod. xxv, 4.

Goat's skin used in Barbary for the carrying of meal, figs, and raisins, Deut. xxviii, 5. All sorts of things, both dry and liquid, in eastern countries, generally carried in a goat's or kid's skin, ibid.

God, derivation and import of the term, Gen. i, 1; iii, 22. Proofs à priori and à posteriori of the being of a God, Heb. xi, in fine. A notion prevalent among the ancient Jews and Heathens that if any man saw God or his representative angel, he must surely die, Judg. vi, 29; xiii, 22. Luke v, 8. The Hebrew original of Esther, (as it has come down to us,) remarkable for not containing the name of God or Lord, Esth. ii, in fine. This circumstance not true of the Septuagint Version of this Book, ibid.

God the only Ruler of princes in what sense this phrase is to be taken, 1 Sam. xxiv, 7.

God be gracious unto thee, my son, a usual form of salutation in the East from the aged and superiors to the younger and to inferiors, Gen. xliii, 29.

God make thee as fruitful as Ephraim, and multiply thee as Manasseh, a form of salutation still in use, Gen. xlviii, 20.

God make thee as Sarah, and Rebecca, a salutation still in use, Gen. xlviii, 20.

God of this world, exceedingly likely that by this expression St. Paul means the TRUE God, 2 Cor. iv, 4. Irenæus, Tertullian, Chrysostom, Theodoret, Photius, Theophylact, and Augustin, entertained this opinion, ibid.

Gods occasionally appearing in the similitude of men or animals, a notion entertained by the Heathens, Acts xiv, 11, 15. Citations from Homer and Ovid to this effect, ibid.

Gods, carrying of the, to battle, customary among most nations, 2 Sam. v, 21. Acts vii, 43. Whence this custom probably originated, Jer. xlviii, 7.

Goel, גאל, import of this term, Gen. xlviii, 16; Ruth ii, 20. Applicable to our Lord Jesus Christ in a most eminent sense, ibid.

Gog, various conjectures concerning the person of people intended by this name, Isa. lxiii, in principio. Ezek. xxxviii, 2. Rev. xx, 8.

Going to law, observations on this practice of some professing Christianity, Matt. v, 40. 1 Cor. vi, passim.

Golan, one of the cities of refuge, import of the name, Josh. xx, 7.

Gold, four Hebrew words so translated, Exod. xxv, 3. Job xxviii, 16, 17, 19. Observations on the curious properties of gold, 1 Pet. i, in fine. Saying of a Scottish poet respecting the baleful effects of the love of gold, 1 Tim. v, in fine. Calculation of the value of the gold, in British standard, which came to Solomon in one year, independently of what the chapmen and merchants brought him, 2 Chron. x, in fine.

Gold of Parvaim, various conjectures respecting the meaning of the Hebrew words so translated, 2 Chron. ii, 6.

Gold chain in several nations the emblem of civil authority, Gen. xli, 42. Psa. lxxiii, 6. Prov. i, 9.

Gold coin of the great Mogul Shah Jehan very circumstantially described, 2 Tim. ii, in fine.

Golden Age, idea of the renewal of the, among the ancient Greeks and Romans, Isa. xi, 6—8. Citations from Ferdusi and Ibn Onein upon the same subject, ibid.

Golden bowl, what meant by this phrase, Eccles. xii, 6.

Golden Bull of Charles IV, emperor of Germany, citation of a very remarkable passage from the, Rev. xiii, 6.

Golden chain of Jupiter, beautiful fable of the, with its most excellent moral, John xii, 32.

Golden chain of justice among the ancients what, John xii, 32. Description of one belonging to Jehengeer Nameh, ibid.

Golden Fleece, probable origin of the fable of the, Exod. xxv, 5.

Golden Image of Nebuchadnezzar, calculation of its weight of gold upon the supposition of its having been a circular column of solid gold, Dan. iii, 1. Highly probable that it was only gilt, or covered with thin plates of gold, ibid. Not likely that this image was in the human form, ibid.

Golgotha, the place of our Lord's crucifixion, why probably so named, Matt. xxvii, 32. The same with Calvary, ibid. Not unlikely that this was the place of public execution near Jerusalem similar to the Gemoniæ Scalæ at Rome, ibid.

Goliath of Gath, his extraordinary stature reduced to English measure, 1 Sam. xvii, 4. Description of his armour, 1 Sam. xvii, 4—6. Probable weight of his panoply, 1 Sam. xvii, 7.

Gomed, גמר, rendered cubit, of very doubtful signification, Judg. iii, 16.

Good News, when unexpected, its general effect upon the animal system, Matt. xxviii, 8.

Good shepherd, qualifications of a, Ezek. xxxiv, 6.

Goode, (Mr. Mason,) his reasons for the supposition that Moses was the writer of the Book of Job, Preface to Job, pp. iv—vii.

Gopher-wood, different opinions concerning the, Gen. vi, 14. The same with the cypress, according to Bochart, ibid.

Goshen, conjecture of Jerom and others why this land was so named, Gen. xlv, 10.

Gospel, inquiry into the derivation and import of this word, Preface to Matthew, pp. ii, iii. Dr. Whitby's enumeration of the particulars in which the superiority of the gospel dispensation over the law consists, 2 Cor. iii, in fine.

Gospel of the Infancy, character of this apocryphal work, Matt. ii, 13.

Gospels, harmonized Tables of Contents of the, by Dr. Marsh, John xxi, in fine.

Gothic Version of the New Testament, some account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. xv, xvi.

Gourd-kind, fruits of the, in much request in the East, Isa. i, 8.

Grace, see Χαρις.

Grace before and after meat, see Blessing.

Grain of wheat, death of the, what implied by this phrase, John xii, 24. A most philosophical verity beautifully illustrative of the resurrection of the body, ibid. 1 Cor. xv, 36.

Grain formerly separated from the husk, in Palestine, by the feet of the oxen trampling among the sheaves, or by bringing a rough shod wheel over them, Prov. xx, 26.

Granite, its component parts, Psa. cv, 41.

Grapes, bunches of, grow to an extraordinary size in the Promised Land, Numb. xiii, 23.

Grave the appointed house for the whole human family, a most solemn truth well expressed in several quotations from poets ancient and modern, 1 Kings ii, 2. Job iii, 19; xxx, 23.

Great fish that swallowed up Jonah could not have been a whale, and why, Jonah i, 17. That it was a shark not an improbable conjecture, ibid. Strange trifling of ancient and modern commentators relative to this subject, Jonah ii, 10. Matt. xii, 40.

Gravitation, remarks on this wonderful influence which is diffused throughout the material universe, Heb. xi, in fine. Two remarkable laws which necessarily result from this all-pervading and continued energy, and from which its existence has been demonstrated, ibid.

Great lights, the sun and moon so called in Scripture, not according to their bulk or solid contents, but from the proportion of light they shed on the earth, Gen. i, 16.

Great sea, a term in Scripture for the Mediterranean, Dan. vii, 4.

Greaves of brass or iron, account of this species of armour among the ancients, 1 Sam. xvii, 6.

Grecian armies, customary with the, before engagement, to offer prayers to the gods for their success, Eph. vi, 18.

Grecian games of antiquity, general observations on the, 1 Cor. ix, in fine.

Greece, why the Roman deputy in this country was named the proconsul of Achaia, Acts xviii, 12.

Greek article, H. S. Boyd's observations on a very remarkable rule to which it is universally subjected, viz. that when two or more personal nouns (of the same gender, number, and case,) are connected together by the conjunction και, and the article is prefixed to the first, but not to the second, third, &c, those two or more nouns, whether they be substantives or adjectives, denote one and the same person, Eph. vi, in fine. This rule illustrated by a vast variety of citations from the New Testament; and also from Chrysostom, Gregory Nazianzen, Basil, Lucian, Xenophon, Æschylus, Heliodorus, Methodius, Justin Martyr, Sophocles, Eusebius, Theodoret, Irenæus, Ignatius, and Cantacuzen, ibid. See also the Addenda at the end of Colossians, and Titus iii, in fine. Remarks by the same Greek critic on another law to which this article is subjected, viz. that when a substantive noun is the subject of a sentence, and something is predicated of it; the article, if used at all, is prefixed to the subject, but omitted before the predicate, Heb. i, in fine. This rule illustrated by several examples, ibid.

Greek cities declared free by the Romans, and the rapture of the inhabitants on the occasion, as related by Livy, Psa. cxxvi, 1.

Greeks, from whom supposed to be descended, Gen. x, 2. Joel iii, 6. This appellative not unfrequently synonymous with Gentile, Acts xi, 20.

Gregory the Great, account of this Catholic commentator, General Preface, p. v.

Gregory, (Josiah,) remarkable saying of this illiterate collier of Somersetshire, 1 Cor. xiii, 1.

Gregory VII, (surnamed Hildebrand,) ambitious character of this pontiff, Rev. xiii, 15.

Grief, excessive, its strong effect upon the mental faculty, Lev. x, 3. Remarkable saying of Seneca upon this subject, ibid. Passage in the Psalms in which deep-seated grief is surprisingly expressed in the very sound of the words, Psa. lxxxi, 13.

Grinding of corn, manner of doing this in the East, Exod. xi, 5.

Grot between Aleppo and Bir capacious enough, according to Tavernier, to hold near three thousand horse, Isa. ii, 19—21. Maundrell's account of several grots of vast capacity, ibid.

Grotius, (Hugo,) or Hugh le Groot, a celebrated commentator upon the whole Scriptures, General Preface, p. ix.

Groves, Plantations of, about idol temples, for the purposes of obscene worship, Deut. xvi, 21. Isa. i, 29, 30.

Grounds and Reasons of the Christian Religion, a Deistical work so intituled, arguments of its author purporting to shew that the promise of a Messiah is not to be gathered from the seventh chapter of the Second Book of Samuel, stated and refuted, 2 Sam. vii, in fine.

Guardian angels, opinions of the Jews and Romanists concerning, Acts xii, 15.

Γυμνος, naked, often signifies the absence of the upper garment only, John xxi, 7. Some examples produced, ibid.

H

Habakkuk, some account of this prophet, Hab. i, in principio. His style as a poet, ibid.

Habergeon, or Hauberk, description of the, Exod. xxxix, 43. Probable derivation of the word, Neh. iv, 16.

Hachammah, החמה, a Rabbinical memorial symbol, Masoretic notes at the end of Deuteronomy.

Hades, whence derived, and its import, Matt. xi, 23. Acts ii, 27.

Hades, image of, sometimes employed in ancient poetry,

Isa. v, 13, 14; xiii, in principio. Beautiful personification of, Hos. xiii, 14. 1 Cor. xv, 55.

Hadley's Hindostan Dialogues, citation from, in illustration of our Lord's parable of the unjust steward, Luke xvi, 7.

Hafiz, remarkable couplet in this author something similar to a passage in the Psalms, Psa. xxvii, 9.

Hagar, Abram's handmaid, import of her name, Genesis xvi, 1.

Hagarites, tribes of Nomade or Scenite Arabs, 1 Chron. v, 10.

Haggai, some account of this prophet, Hag. i, in principio.

Hagiographa, what books of Holy Writ were known among the Jews by this name, Zechariah vii, 7. Luke xxiv, 44.

Hail, general supposition respecting the mode of its formation, Exod. ix, 18. Job xxxviii, 22.

Hail of God, import of this Hebraism, Luke vi, 12.

Hail-storms, account of several in England and elsewhere, Exod. ix, 18. Josh. x, 11.

Haime, (John,) a preacher among the Wesleyan Methodists, singular anecdote respecting, 2 Sam. vii, in fine.

Hair, much used in divination among the ancients, and for purposes of superstition among the Greeks, Lev. xix, 27. Numb. vi, 18. Hair of the ancient Grecian and Roman women often crisped and curled in the most variegated and complex manner, 1 Tim. ii, 9. 1 Pet. iii, 3. Tearing the hair a mark of deep affliction and distress, Josh. vii, 6. 1 Sam. iv, 12. Job i, 20. Jer. xvi, 6.

Halimus, a species of plant, where found, Job xxx, 4.

Ham, Dr. Hales's remarks on the political condition of the descendants of, Gen. ix, in fine.

Haman the Agagite, remarks on his offer of paying out of his own private property into the exchequer of the Persian monarch the enormous sum of ten thousand talents of silver, to prevent any deficiency accruing to the revenue in consequence of the execution of the projected massacre of the Jews, Esth. iii, 9.

Hamath, probably the famous city of Emessa, 2 Sam. viii, 9. Amos vi, 2.

Hammond, (Dr. Henry,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. ix.

Hananiah, import of the name, Dan. i, 7.

Hand in the clouds, all the appearances of God thus represented in a very ancient manuscript of the Septuagint, Dan. x, 10.

Hand placed on the head, a mark of deep sorrow occasioned by utter desolation, Jer. ii, 37.

Handmills formerly in use among the ancients, and still used in many parts of the east, Deut. xxiv, 6.

Hands, stretching out of the, and lifting them up to heaven, in frequent use among the ancients, Exod. ix, 29. This practice of antiquity illustrated by quotations from Homer and Virgil, ibid. See also 1 Kings viii, 22.

Handwriting on the wall of Belshazzar's palace, conjecture why it could not be read by the wise men of Babylon, Dan. v, 8. Exhibition of the writing in the ancient Hebrew characters, in which it is thought to have been originally written, Dan. v, 25.

Hanger, origin of this word, Gen. xxvii, 3.

Hanging up by the hand, very probably a mode of punishment in former times, Lam. v, 12.

Hannah, import of the name, 1 Sam. i, 2. Dr. Hales's observations on her prophetic song, 1 Sam. ii, 1. Exhibition of the whole of this hymn in hemistich or poetic lines, ibid.

Hannets, חנץ, a Rabbinical memorial symbol, Masoretic notes at the end of Deuteronomy.

Hanno the Carthaginian, remarkable among the ancients for having sailed round the Cape of Good Hope, Isaiah ii, 13—16.

Haphtorah, see Sections of the Law and Prophets.

Happy man, Virgil's definition of a, Matt. v, 3.

Happy are the dead, a proverb of frequent occurrence in the Greek and Roman poets, Rev. xiv, 13. Two examples produced, ibid.

Haradah, the twentieth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 24.

Hardening of Pharaoh's heart, inquiry into the import of this phrase, Exod. iv, 21. When properly understood, gives not the least countenance to the doctrine of unconditional election and reprobation, ibid. Exod. ix, 15, et in fine.

Hardicanute, quotation from the old ballad of, relative to predatory excursions, Job v, in fine.

Hardy, publisher of a Greek Testament with Notes, General Preface, p. x.

Hareth, an eminent Arabian poet, Psa. lx, in principio.

Harlot, conjectures respecting the origin of this word, Gen. xxxiv, 31.

Harmer, (Rev. Mr.) author of a very useful work intituled "Observations on various Passages of Scripture," General Preface, p. xiii.

Harmosyni, a sort of magistrates among the Lacedemonians, 2 Cor. xi, 2. The nature of their employment, ibid.

Harpocrates, the god of silence, represented with his finger compressing his upper lip, Job xxi, 5.

Hart, reason assigned by Ælian, Appian, Nicander, and Pliny, why this animal more than any other thirsts for the waters, Psa. xlii, in fine. Ridiculous assertion of several of the primitive fathers relative to this animal, ibid.

Harvest-field, Homer's description of the labours of a, as represented by Vulcan on one compartment of the shield which he made for Achilles, Ruth ii, 5.

Harvest-home, probable origin of this custom, Exod. xxii, 29.

Hashem, השם, possibly the name of some Egyptian deity, Lev. xxiv, 10.

Hashmonah, the twenty-fifth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, conjecture respecting, Numb. xxxiii, 29.

Hassan Sabat, anecdote respecting, Gen. xxxiv, 24.

Hastati, who, among the Romans, Matt. viii, 9.

Hatem Taï Nameh, very instructive anecdote from the, 1 Thess. iv, 12.

Hawk, the flight of this bird wonderfully swift, Job xxxix, 26. Instances produced, ibid. From the swiftness of this bird the Egyptians, in their hieroglyphics, made it the emblem of the wind, ibid.

Ha-yemim, הימם, rendered mules, numerous conjectures respecting its import, Gen. xxxvi, 24.

Hazeroth, the thirteenth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, where situated, according to Dr. Shaw, Numb. xxxiii, 17.

Head, covering of the, the attitude not only of a mourner but of a culprit, 2 Sam. xv, 30.

Head, lifting up of the, inquiry into the import of this phrase, Gen. xl, 20.

Head, putting dust upon the, a mark of deep affliction and distress, Josh. vii, 6.

Heads of the married and single women how distinguished in monuments of antiquity, 1 Pet. iii, 3.

Health, description of, by Maximus Tyrius, Heb. iv, 2.

Heathen, state of the, who have no opportunity of knowing how to escape from their corruption and misery, Rom. v, in fine.

Heathenism, brief sketch of the rapid decline of, in the Roman world in the fourth century, Rev. xii, 9.

Heathen names, great impropriety of the use of, in Christian countries, Acts xxviii, 11.

Heathen rites, enumeration of, which greatly resemble those contained in the Jewish worship, Exod. xxv, in fine; xxvii, in fine.

Heathens, when about to perform some very sacred rites, were accustomed to command the irreligious to keep at a distance, 1 Tim. i, 9. Citations from Orpheus and Virgil in illustration of this circumstance, ibid.

Heavens, seven in number, according to the Rabbins, 2 Cor. xii. 2. Their names, ibid. The number of heavens that can be legitimately deduced from the Sacred Records are only three, ibid. Their names, ibid.

Hebrew Manuscripts, account of, formerly in the possession of the Rev. Cornelius Schulting, a Protestant minister at Amsterdam, Isa. lxvi, in fine.

Hebrew Moneys, Table of the, Exod. xxxviii, 24.

Hebrew Scriptures, how divided by the ancient Jews, Matt. xvii, 9. Luke xxiv, 44.

Hebrews, whence these people are supposed to have derived their name, Gen. x, 21. Highly probable that the language of this people was the only one spoken in the earth till the time of Peleg, ibid.

Hebrews, Epistle to the, Dr. Lardner's inquiry to whom it was written; in what language; by whom; and the time and place of writing it, Introduction to the Epistle, pp. i—xii. Mr. Thomas Oliver's observations relative to the occasion and design of this Epistle, ibid., pp. xii—xvi. This letter by far the most important and useful of all the apostolic writings, Preface to Hebrews, p. i. General plan and analysis of this Epistle, ibid., pp. ii—iv.

Hebron, conjecture why so named, Josh. xiv, 15; xx, 7. Where situated, Luke i, 39.

Hegiage, remarkable harangue of this prince to his people, Job xxxiv, in fine. Singular anecdote respecting, as related by Jami in his Baharistan, ibid.

Helen compared by Theocritus to a horse in a Thessalian chariot, Song i, 9.

Hell, whence derived, and what it now imports, 1 Sam. ii, 6. Matt. xi, 23. Mohammed's description of hell, Psa. xi, 6. This place or state of torment as described, by two of our greatest poets, Matt. viii, 12.

Hellenists, who, Acts vi, 1; xi, 20.

Hen, citation from the Anthologia in which the strong affection of this animal for her brood is very beautifully described, Matt. xxiii, 37.

Hennah, Hasselquist's description of this plant, Deut. xxi, 12. How the leaves of this plant are prepared by the Indians for the purpose of staining with a beautiful reddish yellow the nails of their fingers and toes, and other parts of their bodies, ibid.

Henry, (Dr.) his account of the English dress in the reign of Edward III, Lev. xix, 19.

Henry IV, remarkable passage in the life of this emperor of Germany, Rev. xiii, 15.

Henry, (Rev. Matthew,) author of a very extensive and popular commentary on the whole Scriptures, General Preface, p. xi.

Herald, copious disquisition concerning the office of, among the ancients, Matt. iii, in fine. Various conjectures respecting the derivation of the word, ibid. The herald acts an important part in all heroic history, ibid.

Heraldry, whence it probably originated, Dan. viii, 4.

Herbert, advice of, respecting the spirit in which religious disputation should be always conducted, Job xx, in fine. Rom. xv, in fine. James iii, 14.

Herculaneum and Pompeii, observations on the ruins of, 2 Chron. xxxiv, 12.

Hercules, worshipped by the ancient Maltese, to whom they gave the epithet of Αλεξικακος, Acts xxviii, 6.

Hercules, statue of, mentioned by Cicero as having its chin and lips considerably worn by the frequent kissing of its worshippers, 1 Kings xix, 18.

Hercules and Samson, parallel between, traced by M. de Lavaur, Judg. xvi, in fine.

Heresy, ancient and modern acceptations of this word, Acts v, 17; xxiv, 5, 14.

Hermes, his very reverential epithets of the Supreme Governor of heaven and earth, 2 Cor. xii, 4.

Herod Agrippa, very tragical end of, as related by St. Luke and Josephus, Acts xii, 21.

Herodians, account of this Jewish sect, Matt. xvi, 1.

Herodotus, his account of the mode of embalming among the Egyptians, Gen. l, 2. His description of the principal annual feast held by the Egyptians in honour of Diana, Exod. x, 9. In what the dress of the Babylonians consisted according to this writer, Dan. iii, 21. Citation of a very remarkable passage in this author respecting dæmonism, Luke ix, 39.

Heroopolis, thought to be the same with Goshen, Genesis xlvi, 28.

Herods, list of the family of the, with their genealogy, Matt. ii, 1.

Herschel, see Georgium Sidus.

Hertham, or Herthum, an object of idolatrous worship among our Saxon ancestors, Exod. xxv, in fine. Whence the name of this idol is plainly derived, ibid.

Hewers of wood and drawers of water, Harmer's observations on the condemnation of the Gibeonites to this employment, Josh. ix, 23. In what the disgrace of it consisted, ibid.

Hhadesi, a people of Arabia, living in cities, Isa. xlii, 11.

Hiceteria, a branch of olive, rolled round with wool, which suppliants were accustomed to deposit in some place, or to carry in their hands, Heb. v, 7.

Hidden chambers of the south, a phrase supposed to allude to those constellations around the antarctic pole which never appear above the horizon of Arabia, Job xxiii, 9.

Hiel the Bethelite, thoughts on his rebuilding of Jericho, 1 Kings xvi, 34.

Hiera Picra, Ἱερα πικρα, some account of this modern quack medicine, Eph. iv, 31.

Hierapolis, a town of Phrygia, famous for its hot baths, now called Bambukholasi, Col. ii, 1.

Hieroglyphics of Scripture, explanation of the, Introduction to Isaiah, pp. vii—xi.

Highlanders, Sir Walter Scott's account of their superstitious modes of enquiring into futurity, Isa. lxv, 3.

High place of Isaac, where situated, Amos vii, 9. Demolished by Josiah, 2 Kings xxiii, 8. Amos vii, 9.

Highpriest, consecration of the, among the Romans, bore a considerable resemblance to the consecration of the Jewish highpriest, Lev. viii, 23. A long quotation from Aurelius Prudentius in attestation of this circumstance, ibid.

Highwayman, singular case of the conversion of a, Job xxiv, in fine.

Hillel of the Jews, what, Matt. xxvi, 30.

Hin, some account of this Hebrew measure of capacity, Exod. xvi, 16; xxix, 40.

Hind, natural history of the, Job xxxix, 1—4. Remarkable longevity attributed to some individuals, Job xxxix, 1.

Hindoos, remarkable law among these people respecting marriage, Gen. xxix, 26. Their great hospitality to travellers, Matt. x, 42. Citation of a beautiful passage from their ancient scriptures, John i, 9.

Hinnom, Valley of the son of, where situated, Josh. xv, 8. Appears to have been the receptacle of all the filth and impurities which were carried out of Jerusalem, ibid. Continual fires are supposed to have been kept up in this valley to consume those impurities, and prevent infection, ibid., and see 2 Kings xxiii, 10. The rites of Moloch are said to have been performed in this valley, 2 Kings xxiii, 10. Isa. xxx, 33; lxvi, 24. Matt. v, 22.

Hippopotamus, or River-horse, natural history of the, Job xl, 15. Supposed by some to be the behemoth of Scripture, ibid.

History, derivation and original import of this word, Gal. i, 18.

Hitopodesa, Sir William Jones' account of the, Judg. ix, in fine.

Hittites, where these people were situated, Josh. iii, 10.

Hivites, where these people were situated, Josh. iii, 10.

Hoarfrost, phænomena of the, Job xxxviii, 29. Their causes not yet well ascertained, ibid.

Holiness unto the Lord, observations on this inscription upon the highpriest's forehead, Exod. xxviii, 36. 2 Tim. ii, 19.

Holinshed's account of the condition of the English and French armies previously to the battle of Agincourt, Esth. iii, 7.

Holocaust, account of the, Lev. i, 8.

Holy Ghost, sin against the, Matt. xii, 31, 50. Acts v, 3.

Holy Roman empire, why the late Germanic empire was so named, according to Leibnitz, Rev. xiii, 1.

Holy Sepulchre at Jerusalem, account of the destruction of the, in 1808, John xix, in fine.

Homage, Eastern modes of, Isa. xlix, 23; li, 23. Matt. ii, 2.

Homer, some account of this Hebrew measure of capacity, Exod. xvi, 16. In what it differed from the omer, ibid., Lev. xxvii, 16.

Homer, cities which claimed the honour of giving birth to this celebrated Greek poet, Preface to Job, p. xii.

Honeycomb, flavour of the honey in the, much finer than after it has been expressed from it, and exposed to the action of the air, Prov. xxiv, 13.

Hoop-net, among the Goths, what, Job xix, 6.

Hope, comparison of, to an anchor, frequent in ancient Heathen writers, Heb. vi, 19.

Hor, the thirty-third station of the Israelites in the wilderness, remarkable for the death of Aaron, Numb. xxxiii, 37.

Horace, sentiment of, respecting the training up of children not unlike that celebrated one of Solomon, Prov. xxii, 6. His description of the commonwealth of Rome under the emblem of a beautiful ship, Ezek. xxvii, 4. His epistle to Tiberius in behalf of Septimius, exhibiting a fine model of recommending a friend to the attention of a great man, Philem. 17. Successful issue of this letter of Horace, Philem. in fine.

Horatius, Caius, daughters of, remarkable for having six fingers on each hand, 2 Sam. xxi, 20.

Hor-hagidgad, the twenty-eighth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, conjecture why so named, Numb. xxxiii, 32.

Horites, where these ancient people resided, Isa. ii, 19—21.

Horn, its symbolical import, Deut. xxxiii, 17. 1 Sam. ii, 1. Job xvi, 15. Psa. lxxv, 10. Lam. ii, 3. Dan. vii, 7. Amos vi, 13. Frequently worn on crowns and helmets, Job xvi, 15. Bruce's description of that worn by the Abyssinian chiefs, ibid. Luke i, 69. Horn filled with various fruits, the emblem of abundance among the ancients, Luke i, 69.

Horne, (Rev. Dr.) author of an excellent commentary on the Psalms, General Preface, p. xiv.

Hornet, natural history of the, Exod. xxiii, 28.

Horns, why the Heathen god Apollo was represented with, Luke i, 69. Horns frequently blown by the Derveeshes, when any thing is given to them, in honour of the donor, Matt. vi, 2.

Horse, among the ancient Asiatics used only for war, Prov. xxi, 31. Because of his swiftness and utility, formerly dedicated to the sun, 2 Kings xxiii, 11. Extract from the Guardian of 1713, containing a critique on the description of the horse in the book of Job compared with similar descriptions in Homer and Virgil, Job xxxix, 19. Why the horse is one of the most timid of animals, Job xxxix, 20. How brought to bear the din of arms and the thundering cannon, ibid. Price of a horse in the time of Solomon, 2 Chron. i, 17.

Hosanna, and Hosanna Rabba, import of these terms, Matt. xxi, 9. John vii, 2.

Hosea, time of his prophesying, and a sketch of his life, Introduction to Hosea, and chap. i, in principio.

Hospitality, observations on the duty of, Heb. xiii, in fine.

Host of God, a Hebraism for an exceedingly numerous army, 1 Chron. xii, 22.

Hostilities, commencement of, among the ancients signified by casting into the country to be invaded a dart, spear, or arrow, 2 Kings xiii, 17.

Hot iron, conscience seared with a, to what custom the apostle alluded when he used this expression, 1 Tim. iv, 2. A saying of Claudian very similar to this of St. Paul, ibid.

Houbigant, some account of this very celebrated Hebrew critic, General Preface p. viii. His Table of the booty taken by the Israelites from the Midianites, with its division among the soldiers and people, and the proportion given by each to the Lord and to the Levites, Numb. xxxi, 32.

Hours, Jewish day divided into, Exod. xii, 6. John i, 39. The ancients divided the time from sunrise to sunset into twelve equal parts, or hours, which were longer or shorter according to the different seasons of the year, John i, 39; xi, 9.

House, Warming the, a custom observed in some parts of England, Deut. xx, 5.

Houses in the East, how generally constructed, Deut. xxii, 8. Josh. ii, 6. 1 Sam. ix, 25. Isa. xxii, 1. Mark ii, 4.

Houses of the soul, what meant by this expression, Isa. iii, 20.

Hugo de Sancto Claro, or Hugo Cardinalis, author of the division of the Books of the Holy Scriptures into chapters, Introduction to Ezra, p. xi.

Huldah the prophetess, Dr. Priestley's judicious remark respecting her Divine call, 2 Kings xxii, 14.

Human body, thoughts on the wonderful construction of the, Psa. cxxxix, 14, 15, 16.

Human events, thoughts on the contingency of, Hos. xiv, 1.

Human friendship, striking view of the fickleness of, as given by Mr. Heath, Job xlii, 11.

Human knowledge, thoughts on the great imperfection of, even in the wisest men, Job iv, in fine.

Human prudence, in what it generally consists, 1 Cor. iv, in fine.

Human victims offered, on extraordinary occasions, by almost all nations to their gods, Deut. xii, 31. 2 Kings iii, 27. Rom ix, in fine. 1 Cor. iv, 13. Method by which the Rabbins account for the horrible sacrifice of the eldest son of the king of Moab in the time of Elisha, 2 Kings iii, 27. Account of the human victims which Themistocles was obliged to offer up to Bacchus, Rom. ix, in fine.

Humiliation of Jesus Christ, thoughts concerning this great and unfathomable subject, Phil. iii, in fine.

Hunger, particular effects of, upon the animal system, Psa. cix, 24.

Hunger and thirst, what metaphorically represented by, Matt. v, 6.

Hunter, (Dr.) his theory respecting the vitality of the blood, Lev. xvii, 11.

Hunting, various arts and methods practised in, Job xviii, 9. Isa. xxiv, 17, 18. Account of a Treatise on, by Tuberville, Psa. xvii, in fine.

Husband, its derivation and original import, Gen. ix, 20. Matt. xix, 9.

Hycsos, or King-shepherds, account of the, Gen. xliii, 32; xlvi, 34.

Hydrogen, a constituent part of water, Gen. vii, 11; viii, 1. Job xxxviii, 26. Jer. x, 13. 2 Pet. iii, 10.

Hydrus, terrible effects with which the bite of this serpent is accompanied, Numb. xxi, 6.

Hygeia, a certain mixture of flour, mingled with oil and wine, used as a charm against sickness, Lev. ii, 1.

Hykes, among the Arabs, what, Exod. xx, 34; xxii, 26. Judg. xiv, 12.

Hyle, ὕλη, what the ancients intended by this term, 2 Pet. iii, 5.

Hyperbole, definition of the, John xxi, 25. This figure of speech abounds in Oriental writings, ibid. Several examples produced, ibid. Rev. xiv, 20.

Hypocrite, description of the, in the Scripture sense of the term, Job viii, 13; xxxvi, 13. Matt. vi, 5.

Hypolitus, account of this commentator of the third century, General Preface, p. v.

Hyssop, its description and medicinal properties, Exod. xii, 22.

I

Iberians, conjecture concerning the origin of this people, Gen. x, 2.

Ibex, or Mountain Goat, natural history of the, Job xxxix, 1.

Ice, supposed to be the natural state of water, Job xxxviii, 29. Specific gravity of ice, ibid. To what the rarefaction of ice is thought to be owing, ibid.

Ichnograph, of the Temple, with elevations, sections, and specifications, of every part given by David to Solomon, 1 Chron. xxviii, 11.

Icknild or Ricknild-street, where situated, Job xxiii, 11.
Iconium, where situated, according to Strabo, Acts xiii, 51; xiv, 6. Its present appellation, Acts xiii, 51. Why not called by St. Luke a city of Lycaonia, Acts xiv, 6.
Iddo the seer, author of a history of the reign of Solomon, the whole of which work is lost, except some slight fragments preserved in the books of Kings and Chronicles, 1 Kings xi, 41.
Idleness, its ruinous tendency, Matt. xiii, 55. Rom. xii, 11.
Idolatrous practices among the Jews, Isa. lxv, 3, 4, 11.
Idolatry, origin of, as stated by Maimonides, Gen. iv, 26. The sacred writers generally large and eloquent upon the subject of idolatry, treating it with great severity, and setting forth its absurdity in the strongest light, Isa. xliv, 12. Citations from Horace and Juvenal, in which idolatry is very severely ridiculed, Psa. cxv, 4. Isa. xliv, 12.
Idyl, definition of the, Introduction to Solomon's Song, p. ii.
Ιερoδουλοι, γυναικες, who, Gen. xxxviii, 21.
Ignorance, plea of, will be of no avail to any who has the book of God within his reach, and lives in a country blessed with the preaching of the gospel of Jesus Christ, Luke xii, in fine.
Ije-abarim, the thirty-seventh station of the Israelites in the wilderness, why probably so named, Numb. xxxiii, 44.
Ἱκετηρια, and Ἱκετης, definition of these words by Suidas, with an account of the ancient custom to which they have an allusion, Heb. v, 7.
Ιλασκω, or Ιλασκομαι, inquiry into the import of this term, Luke xviii, 13.
Iliad of Homer, what verse in the, in the opinion of Alexander the Great, the most correct in sentiment, 1 Samuel ix, 16. Quotation of a line in this poem, in which the rolling up of the waves into a swell, and the break of the top of the swell, and its dash upon the shore, are surprisingly represented, Psa. xlii, 7. Very remarkable passage on the subject of prayer, Psa. lxxxviii, 2. Citation of a passage in which the ancient Pagan notion relative to the cause of good and evil is exhibited, Isa. li, 21.
Illud inexprimabile, an epithet given by Cicero to the Supreme Being of heaven and earth, 2 Cor. xii, 4.
Illuminated manuscripts, account of, Psa. lx, in principio.
Illyricum, Illyria, Illyrica, Illyris, or Illyrium, Pliny's account of the extent of the country known by these names, Rom. xv, 19.
Image worship, consideration of a passage of Scripture which the Romanists allege in favour of, Heb. xi, 21.
Image of Adam in his heavenly or paradisaical state, Rabbinical notions concerning the, 1 Cor. xv, 49.
Image of God, what is meant by man being made in this similitude, Gen. i, 26. Heb. ii, 7.
Image of jealousy, various conjectures concerning the, Ezek. viii, 3.
Imagery of the prophets, explanation of the, Introduction to Isaiah, pp. vii—xi.
Images, trial by, a species of ordeal among the Hindoos, Numb. v, in fine.
Images said to have fallen from Jupiter, Acts xix, 35.
Images of the destroyer, or of the things on which the plague particularly rested, were anciently made of gold, silver, ivory, wax, clay, &c, under certain configurations of the heavens, and set up in some appointed place, that the evils thus represented might be driven away, 1 Sam. vi, in fine.
Images of the gods, among rude people made of wood, Judg. vi, 26. Account of several ancient Ægyptian images of Isis, Osiris, Anubis, &c, in the Author's possession, Ezek. i, 7. Rev. xix, 16.
Ιματιον, import of this word, Matt. v, 40. Luke vi, 29. In what it differed from the χιτων, ibid.
Imma, mother, slaves were not permitted to use this term, when addressing their mistresses, Rom. viii, 15.
Immanuel, a name given to the Messiah, Isa. vii, 15. Matt. i, 23. Its derivation and import, ibid. Could not be applied to Jesus the Christ, unless he were truly and properly God, ibid.
Immersion, baptism, in the apostolic age, not always administered by, Acts xvi, 32.
Impaling, horrible punishment of, described, Esth. ii, 23.
Imposition of hands, inquiry into the nature of this rite in the primitive Christian church, Acts vi, 6; xiv, 23.
Imprecation, form of, used by the Romans and Albans in their solemn leagues, Gen. xv, 10.
Impressions, of various kinds indelibly made on the arms, breast, and other parts, by the inhabitants of the East, Song viii, 6.
Imputed righteousness of Christ, doctrine of the, considered, Rom. iv, in fine.
Imreth, אמרת, its derivation and import, Lev. xxvi, 15. Distinction between אמרת, imreth, or imrath, and דבר, dabar, both sometimes indifferently rendered word in our Version, Psa. cxix, in principio.
Incantations, forms of, which were used to induce the tutelary gods to forsake the cities, &c, over which they were reputed to preside, and to devote cities and whole armies to destruction, Numb. xxii, 6.
Incense, manner of burning among the Jews, Lev. x, 1.
Indago, or Snare, description of the, as made by the ancients, Isa. xxiv, 17, 18.
Inebriating liquors, three species of, according to the Institutes of Menu, Luke i, 15.
In exitu Israel, Anglo-Saxon version of this Psalm at full length, Psa. cxiv, in fine.
Infallibility of the Romish church, observations on this Papistical doctrine, 2 Pet. iii, 16.
Infant, reflections on the manner in which it extracts the milk from the breast of its mother, Psa. viii, 2.
Infant baptism, Dr. Lightfoot's observations concerning, Mark xvi, in fine.
Infants, state of, who die before they are capable of hearing the Gospel, considered, Rom. v, in fine.
Infernum Poeticum of the Hebrews, Isaiah xiii, in principio.

Influence of the Spirit of God, necessity of the, in both preachers and hearers, John v, 4. Acts xi, 21; xiii, 1. Rom. viii, 26. 1 Cor. xii, 3. Phil. iii, in fine.

Inhabitants, probable number of, in the world at the time of Abel's murder, Gen. iv, 15.

Inheritance, an immemorial custom in the East for sons to demand and receive their portion of the, during their father's lifetime, Luke xv, 12. Gentoo law in case of the irreproachable character of the father, and the profligacy of his son, ibid.

Inn, no such place of entertainment in the desert of Arabia, Gen. xlii, 27. Jer. ix, 2. The Hebrew word so translated, what it imports, ibid.

Inner man, import of this phrase, 1 Pet. iii, 4.

Innocence, primitive age of, succeeded by the age of depravity, as described by Spencer, Heb. i, 11.

Innocents, Murder of the, modern objection against the evangelical history respecting the, (founded on the statement by St. Luke that our Lord's thirtieth year coincided with the fifteenth of the reign of Tiberius) demonstrated to be wholly destitute of foundation, Advertisement to the Chronological Tables placed at the end of the Acts.

Inns, striking contrast between those of ancient and modern times, Luke ii, 7.

Inscriptions on a gold circular coin of the Great Mogul Shah Jehan, struck at Delhi, A. D. 1651, 2 Tim. ii, in fine.

Inscriptions, Eastern, frequently in relievo, Deut. xxviii, 2. Account of one of these inscriptions in the Author's possession, ibid. Inscriptions frequently found on the images of the ancient deities, princes, victors at public games, &c, Rev. xix, 16. Several instances produced from Herodotus, Dempster, Montfaucon, and Gruter, ibid. Description of eight ancient images with inscriptions in the Author's possession, ibid. Remarkable inscription which Sesostris caused to be put on all the temples which he built in Egypt, 1 Kings ix, 21.

Insolvent Debtors, thoughts on the manner of their treatment in this country, Matt. xviii, in fine.

Inspiration, see Divine Inspiration.

Instructer, Chrysostom's excellent remark on the prerogative of an, Acts i, 8.

Insurrection in England, chiefly under the direction of Wat Tyler, history of the, Numb. xxv, 8.

Intercession of Christ, doctrine of the, Luke xxiii, 42. Heb. v, 7.

Interment, Asiatic mode of, for princes, saints, and nobles, Job xxi, 33.

Invested with an office, origin of this phrase, Exod. xxix, 5. Numb. xx, 26.

Investigate, two derivations of this word, Psa. lxiv, 6. Distinction between investigate and ransack, ibid.

Ionians of Asia Minor, whence these people had their origin, Gen. x, 2.

Iphigenia, sacrifice of, supposed by M. De Lavaur and others to be a fable founded on the Scripture history of Jephthah's daughter, Judg. xi, in fine. Parallel between Jephthah and Iphigenia as drawn up by M. De Lavaur, ibid.

Ireland, not infested with any venomous creature, 1 Sam. vi, in fine. Reason given by superstition for this fact, ibid.

Ireland, Inhabitants of, reason for the supposition that these people received the Christian Religion not from the popes of Rome, but through the means of Asiatic missionaries, Matt. i, 18.

Iron, the ancient Gauls had no method of hardening this metal, Psa. lxxxix, 43. Ready method of gilding this metal, 1 Pet. i, in fine.

Iron, Red hot, trial by, a species of ordeal among the ancient Greeks and modern Hindoos, Numb. v, in fine.

Iron age, degeneracy of man in the, as described by a Heathen poet, Job xxviii, 11.

Irony, instance of, quoted from Ovid, Job ii, 9.

Isaac, why so named, Gen. xvii, 17. Character of this patriarch, Gen. xxxv, in fine.

Isaiah, Vitringa's observations on the work of this prophet, Introduction to Isaiah, pp. xiii, xiv. Rabbinical tradition concerning the manner of his death, Heb. xi, 37. Calmet's division of the subjects contained in Isaiah, Introduction to Isaiah, p. xiv.

Iscdriot, Lightfoot's conjecture why this surname was given to one of the Twelve Apostles, Matt. x, 4. Observations on the death and final state of Judas Iscariot, Acts i, in fine.

Ish, איש, and Ishah, אישה, observations on these words, Gen. ii, 23. Very remarkable distinction between אדם, Adam, and איש, ish, which are both rendered man, in our Version, Psa. lxii, 9. In what they both differ from אנוש, enosh, another word for man in the Hebrew, ibid.

Ish debarim, איש דברים, a man of words, import of this Hebrew periphrasis, Exod. iv, 10.

Ishmael, its derivation and import, Gen. xvi, 11.

Isis, an Egyptian goddess of great celebrity, Exod. xii, in fine. Worshipped under the form of a heifer, Numb. xix, 2. Jer. xlvi, 20. The priests of this idol shave their heads close to the skin, Ezek. xliv, 20. Description of five images of this idol in the Author's possession, Rev. xix, 16.

Isles of the Gentiles, very generally supposed to be a Hebrew periphrasis for Europe, Gen. x, 5.

Ismed, a powder with which the women of Barbary blacken the middle of their eyelids, 2 Kings ix, 30. Their method of doing it, as described by Russel, ibid.

Ισοψηφια of the ancients, what, Rev. xiii, 18.

Israel, why the patriarch Jacob was so named, Gen. xxxii, 28. This term often used by Ezekiel for the Jews, exclusively of the TEN tribes carried into captivity by Shalmaneser, Ezek. vi, 2.

Israelites, observations on the travels of these people through the wilderness, Exod. xl, in fine. Scheuchzer's observations and calculations relative to the prodigious multiplication of the children of Israel in Egypt, Numb. i, 46. Their order of marching in the wilderness, Numb. x, 14.

Israelitish camp in the wilderness, Scheuchzer's plan of the, with a diagram, Numb. ii, in fine.
Issachar, why so named, Gen. xxx, 18.
Ισης, critical observations on Greek words terminating in, Acts vi, 1.
Isthmian games, account of the, 1 Cor. ix, 24. Celebrated every fifth year, ibid. The crown won by the victor in these games made of the pine, 1 Cor. ix, 25.
Itala, or Antehieronymian Versions, some account of the, General Preface. p. xxx. Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xvi, Italian band or cohort, see Cohort.
Italian proverb, in which the falsity diffused through the unregenerate nature of man is finely expressed, Psalm cxvi, 11.
Italy, Mezeray's account of a very dreadful storm of hail in, accompanied with a horrible darkness, Exod. ix, 18.
Itinerant ministry, remarkable account of the, established by Jehoshaphat for the diffusion of the worship of God throughout his kingdom, 2 Chron. xvii, 7—9. Observations on a similar itinerant system established in these kingdoms by the late Rev. John Wesley, A. M. ibid.
Iturea, where situated, Luke iii, 1.
Itureans, from whom descended, Gen. xxv, 14.
Ivory house, what probably meant by this expression, Amos iii, 15.

J

Jabbok, from whom this book took its name. according to Calmet, Gen. xxv, 2.
Jabesh-gilead, remarks of a literary friend upon the inhabitants of this place taking the bodies of Saul and his sons from the wall of Bethsham, and burning them in Jabesh, 1 Chron. x. in fine.
Jabez, great discordances in the Versions in their rendering of the Sacred text relative to this man, 1 Chron. iv, 9. Observations on the prayer of Jabez, 1 Chron. iv, in fine.
Jacinth, account of this precious stone, Rev. xxi, 20.
Jackal, or Shiagal howlings of the, by night most lamentable, Mic. i, 8. Hasselquist's account of this animal, Isa. i, 8.
Jacob, why so named, Gen. xxv, 26. Dr. Kennicott's remarks relative to the time spent by this patriarch in the service of his father-in-law Laban in Mesopotamia, Gen. xxxi, in fine. Character of this patriarch, Gen. xlix, in fine.
Jacob's Well, Maundrell's account of, John iv, 6.
Jaddua, stratagem of, by which Jerusalem was prevented from being destroyed by Alexander, Eccles. ix, 14. Zech. ix, 8.
Jael, thoughts on her conduct towards Sisera, Judg. iv. in fine.
Jah, יה, a name of God, inquiry into its import, Exod. xv, 2.
Jailor, see Gaoler.
Jamaica, remarkable phænomena occasioned by an earthquake in this island, Psa. xviii, 15.
James, the writer of one of the Books of the New Testament Scriptures, very uncertain who, Preface to James, p. i. Opinion of Doctors Lardner and Macknight, ibid. pp. ii—vi, and see James v, in fine. Martin Luther's singular saying relative to the Epistle of James, James ii, 14. How James the apostle is represented in ancient paint ngs, Mark vi, 8.
Jami Jemsheed, or The Cup of Jemsheed, traditions concerning, Gen. xliv, 5.
Jao, Ιαω, (evidently a corruption of Jehovah,) frequent on Egyptian monuments, Exod. iii, 15.
Japheth, remarkable coincidence between the name of this son of Noah and the political condition of his posterity, Gen. ix, in fine. Japheth supposed to have been the same with the Japetus of the Greeks, Gen. x, 2.
Jarchi, or Isaaki, (Rabbi Solomon,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. iii.
Jarmain, or Mishnical Doctors, some account of the, Introduction to Ezra, pp. vi, vii.
Jasher, Book of, possibly the same with the Book of the Wars of the Lord mentioned by Moses, Numb. xxi, 14.
Jasper, some account of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17. Rev. xxi, 18.
Java, eldest son of the emperor of, who was reigning in 1648, remarkable for having six fingers on each hand, and six toes on each foot, 2 Sam. xxi, 20.
Jayadeva, Songs of, given at full length. See Song of Solomon in fine.
Jebusites, the ancient inhabitants of Jerusalem, Josh. iii, 10.
Jehangeer Nameh, curious account of the golden chain of justice belonging to this eastern monarch, John xii, 32.
Jehoram, king of Judah, remarks on the writing said to have been sent him from Elijah the prophet, 2 Chron. xxi, 12.
Jehovah, observations upon this appellative of the Divine Being, Exod. vi, 3; ix, 1; xxxiv, 6. Luke ii, 11. Great reverence of the Jews for this name, which they never venture to pronounce; Adonai, אדני, being always substituted whenever they meet with it in their reading of the law and the prophets, 2 Cor. xii, 4. Rev. xix, 12.
Jehu, inquiry into the import of the original words rendered top of the stairs, where Jehu was proclaimed king, 2 Kings ix, 13. Character of this prince, 2 Kings x, in fine.
Jenkins, (Henry,) his great age, Job xiv, 5. Psa. xc, in fine.
Jeopardy, a word of French origin, derived from the exclamation of a disappointed gamester, Judges v, 18. Luke viii, 23.
Jephthah, vow of, inquiry into the meaning of the Hebrew text respecting the, Judg. xi, 31, et in fine.
Jeremiah, some account of this prophet, Introduction to Jeremiah, p. i. His character as a writer, ibid, p. ii, Chronological Tables of his prophecies, as drawn up by Doctors Blaney and Dahler, ibid, pp. ii—iv. Remarks on a supposed interpolation in the tenth chapter of this prophet, Jer. x, 11.

Jericho, observations on the curse pronounced against this city by Joshua, Josh. vi, 26, and on its rebuilding by Hiel, 1 Kings xvi, 34.

Jeroboam I, King of Israel, his invention of a political religion, something similar to that contained in the law of Moses, 1 Kings xii, 28—33.

Jerom, account of this celebrated commentator, General Preface, p. v.

Jerusalem, conjecture concerning the derivation of this name, Josh. x, 1. Surrounded by hills and mountains, Psa. cxv, 2. The inhabitants of this city did not let out their houses to those who came to the annual feasts, but afforded all accommodations of this kind gratis, Matt. xxvi, 17. Acts ii, 44.

Jeshurun, its derivation and import, Deut. xxxii, 15. Isa. xliv, 2. Conjecture of Grotius, Isa. xliv, 2.

Jesus, of the same import with Joshua, Matt. i, 21. Heb. iv, 8. Dr. Lightfoot's judicious remark why this name was given to the Messiah, ibid. Professor Schulten's excellent observations respecting the origin of this name, John i, 17.

Jesus, very remarkable cry of a Jew of this name against Jerusalem and the Temple, Matt. xxiv, 7. Manner of his death, ibid.

Jether the Ishmeelite, why so named, according to the Targum, 1 Chron. ii, 17.

Jew, remarkable saying of a, to the Author, Zeph. iii, 13.

Jewels of the feet, nostrils, &c, Isa. ii, 17.

Jewish benches of judicature, account of the, 1 Cor. vi, 4.

Jewish colonies, remarkable passage from Philo respecting the great number of, in Heathen countries in his time, Acts ii, 11.

Jewish commonwealth, collection of passages in the Old Testament that seem to point out a restoration of the, to a higher degree of excellence than it has yet attained, Rom. xi, 27.

Jewish priesthood, great corruption of the, in the apostolic age, Rom. ii, 21.

Jewish Registers, thoughts on the total destruction of these documents in the first and second centuries of the Christian æra, Matt. xxii, 42.

Jewish rolls, description of the, Jer. xxxvi, 2.

Jewish women, names of the, sometimes taken from flowers and trees, Acts xii, 13. Instances produced, ibid.

Jews, particular description of their very gross idolatries previously to the Babylonish captivity, Ezek. viii, passim. Dr. Blayney's observations on the six deportations of these people in the reign of Nebuchadnezzar, Jer. lii, 28—30. Circumstantial history of the Jews from the taking of Jerusalem by the Babylonians to their retreat into Egypt, Jer. xl—xliv. Great favour shewn to the Jews by Alexander and the Ptolemies, Isa. xix, in principio. This the means in the hand of God of diffusing the knowledge of the true God among Heathen nations, and preparing them for the reception of Christianity, Isa. xxiv, 14. Citations from Juvenal and Seneca to shew that the Jews were despised by the Heathens for observing the Sabbath, Lam. i, 7. Remarkable custom among the ancient Jews in behalf of one capitally convicted, as related in the Mishna and the Gemara of Babylon, Isa. liii, 8. When and how the Jews lost their power of life and death, according to Lightfoot, John xviii, in fine. Prophetic penitential confession and supplication of the Israelites in their present state of dispersion, Isa. lxiii, 7, &c. Enumeration by Josephus of the Jews who perished in their final conflict with the Romans, Matt. xxiv, 31. Brief sketch of the history of the Jews from the Babylonish captivity as given by Dr. Taylor, Esth. x, in fine. Bishop Newton's observations on their wonderful preservation as a distinct people for so many ages, Jer. xlvi, in fine.

Jezebel, reflections on the very tragical end of this wicked woman, 2 Kings ix, 37.

Jezreel, import of the name, Hos. i, 4.

Jichta, or Equus hemionus, natural history of the, Job xxxix, 5.

Joachin ben Zachai, parable of this Rabbi very similar to that of our Lord relative to the wise and foolish virgins, Isa. lxv, 11.

Joash, curious circumstance mentioned by the Targum, relative to the coronation of, 2 Chron. xxiii, 21.

Job, reasons advanced to shew that this man lived posterior to the promulgation of the law, Job i, in fine; ix, in fine. Sketch of his character, Job xlii, in fine.

Job, Book of, its character, and various opinions respecting the writer. See the Preface, and chap. xlii, in fine. How divided, according to Mr. Mason Goode, Preface to Job, pp. xvii—xx. Very remarkable prophecy in this book relative to the redemption of the world by Jesus Christ, and the general resurrection, Job xix, 25, et in fine.

Jochanan ben Zachai, very affecting and instructive remarks of this Rabbin, as reported in the Talmud, Matt. xxv, 6.

John, this name of Hebrew origin, Mark i, 4. Conjecture why given to the harbinger of the Messiah, ibid. Luke i, 60.

John, the son of Zebedee, some account of this evangelist and apostle, Preface to John, pp. i—iii. Various opinions respecting the motive which influenced this apostle to write his Gospel, ibid. pp. iv—vi.

John, First Epistle of, inquiry of Michaelis to whom it was written, Preface to the Epistle, pp, i—vii. Dr. Macknight's observations on the authenticity of this Epistle, ibid, pp. vii,—ix. Whether the term Epistle be properly applicable to this work of St. John, ibid. p. ix.

John, Second and Third Epistles of, inquiry into their authenticity, Preface to the Second Epistle, p. i. Very uncertain when written, ibid. p. ii.

Jonah, some account of this prophet, Introduction to Jonah, pp. i, ii. Fable of Laomedon, king of Troy, and his daughter Hesione, supposed to be founded upon the story of Jonah being swallowed by a great fish, ibid., p. ii.

Jonathan ben Uzziel's curious reason for the command given by Pharaoh to the Egyptian women to destroy all the male children of the Hebrews, Exod. i, 16.

Joppa, where situated, Jonah i, 3.

Jordan, some account of this celebrated river of Israel, Numb. xxxiv, 12. Description of its source as given by Josephus, Josh. i, 2. When it overflows its banks, and the reason, Josh. iii, 15.

Joseph, why so named, Gen. xxx, 24. Extravagant notions of the Mohammedans with respect to the comeliness of this patriarch, Gen. xxxix, 7; xlix, 22. Dr. Delaney's remarks on Joseph's bowing himself, with his face to the earth, before his dying father, Gen. xlviii, 12. The Doctor's strong encomium of Joseph on this account very reprehensible, ibid. Strictures on the moral and political conduct of Joseph, Gen. l, in fine. History of this patriarch by Justin, the Roman historian, ibid.

Josephus, a celebrated Jewish historian and commentator, account of, General Preface, p. ii. Substance of his history relative to the destruction of the Jewish polity by the Romans, Matt. xxiv.

Joshua, brief sketch of his character, Josh. xxiv, in fine. See also the Preface to Joshua.

Josiah, king of Judah, very remarkable prophecy concerning, 1 Kings xiii, 2, 3.

Jotbathah, the twenty-ninth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 33.

Jotham, Parable of, the oldest and best fable or apologue in the world, Judg. ix, 8. Its most excellent moral pointed out, Judg. ix, 14, and illustrated by a quotation from Shakspeare, ibid.

Jove, or Jupiter, a corruption of Jehovah, Exod. iii, 15.

Jubilate Deo, a Psalm which has long made a part of the public worship of the Established Church, Psa. c, in fine. The Anglo-Saxon and Anglo-Scottish Versions of this Divine ode, given at full length, ibid.

Jubilee, institution of the year of, Lev. xxv, 8, &c. Conjecture relative to the derivation of the word jubilee, Lev. xxv, 11. Typical import of this institution, according to Parkhurst, ibid. Calmet's thoughts on the very great advantages which the Jewish people derived from this Divine ordinance, Lev. xxv, in fine.

Judah, why so named, Gen. xxix, 35. Illustrious prophecy concerning the Messiah who was to spring from this patriarch, Gen. xlix, 8—12.

Judah Hakkodesh, very remarkable saying of this Rabbi concerning the death and resurrection of the Messiah, Matt. xxviii, 17.

Judah, kingdom of, its north and south boundaries, 2 Chron. xix, 4.

Judas of Galilee, mentioned by St. Luke, uncertain who, Acts v, 37.

Judas, whence this Asmonean prince is said to have obtained his surname of Maccabeus, Exod. xv, 11.

Judas Iscariot, remarks on the manner of his death, Matt. xxvii, 5. Dr. Lightfoot's singular opinion on this subject, ibid. See Iscariot.

Jude, canonical authority of the Epistle ascribed to, extremely dubious, in the opinion of Michaelis, Preface to Jude, p. viii. Great uncertainty as to the persons to whom, and the time when, it was written, ibid., pp. iii, iv.

Judea, Harmer's observations on the fertility of the land of, Deut. viii, 8. Judea sometimes called The Mountain, and why, Isa. v, 1.

Judges, Book of, very uncertain by whom written, Preface to Judges, p. ii. Chronological Table of this Book, according to Archbishop Ussher, ibid., pp. ii, iii. Chronology of this Book, according to Sir John Marsham, ibid., p. iv.

Judgment, great variety of acceptations of the Hebrew word so translated, Isa. xlii, 1.

Judgment-day, Scripture doctrine concerning the, Matt. xxv, 31. John iii, 19. Acts xvii, 31. Rom. ii, 11. 1 Cor. vi, 2. 1 Thess. v, in fine. 2 Pet. iii, 10.

Juggernaut, a Hindoo temple, where human victims are frequently offered to Cali, the goddess of the Hindoos, Deut. xii, 31.

Juju, a serpent-god worshipped by the inhabitants of Bonny in Africa, Deut. xx, 5; to whom they dedicate an apartment of their dwellings, ibid.

Julian period, account of this very celebrated factitious æra, Preface to Matthew, p. vi.

Juliopolis, why the city of Tarsus was so named, Acts xxii, 28.

Julius Cæsar, his letter to the Roman senate, communicating the total defeat of Pharnaces, king of Pontus, 1 Sam. iv, 17. Three hundred senators and knights said to have been sacrificed to the divinity of this emperor on the ides of March, Rom. ix, in fine. Great mourning for the death of Julius Cæsar as described by Virgil, Jonah iii, 8.

Juniper, roots of, formerly used for food among the Goths, according to the testimony of one of their prelates, Job xxx, 4.

Juno, distances from the sun and earth, diameter, and relative surface and volume, of this primary planet, Gen. i, 1.

Juno, worshipped under the form of a heifer by the ancient Egyptians, Exod. viii, 26.

Jupiter, periodic and sidereal revolutions, mean distance from the sun, perigeal and apogeal distances, diameter in English miles, relative volume, time of rotation, inclination of axis to orbit, mass or quantity of matter, and mean hourly orbitical motion, of this primary planet, Gen. i, 1.

Jupiter, worshipped by the ancient Egyptians under the form of a ram, Exod. viii, 26. Whence the name of this divinity is said to have been derived, Acts xiv, 13. Sublime address to Jupiter extracted from the Antigone of Sophocles, 1 Tim. vi, 16. The infant Jupiter, according to Callimachus, tenderly nursed with goat's milk and honey, Isa. vii, 15.

Jupiter and Semele, fable of, whence it originated, Exodus xxxiii, 20.

Jupiter Brontes, or Jupiter Keraunos, always represented with forked or zig-zag lightnings in his hand, Hab. iii, 4.

Jupiter Bustos, or Jupiter Propuleius, description of a fine engraving of this Heathen deity in Gruter, Acts xiv, 13.

Juror, among the Jews, lifted up his right hand to heaven, Ezek. xx, 5.

Just persons, a phrase sometimes used in contradistinction to taxgatherers and heathens, Luke xv, 7.

Justification by faith, without any merit of works, shewn to be a doctrine of Scripture, Gen. xv, 6; xxviii, 4; xlviii, 14. Job ix, 3. Mic. vi, 8. Rom. iv, in fine. Eph. ii, 8. 2 Tim. i, 9. James ii.

Justin Martyr, the author of two very important Apologies for Christianity, almost the whole of which has come down to us entire, 2 Tim. iv, in fine.

Justus, bishop of Orgelitanum, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. vi.

Juvenal, excellent advice of, with respect to putting confidence in the Divinity, Psa. xxxvii, 7. Remarkable passages from this Roman poet in which is described the miserable condition of the Jews after the destruction of their polity by the Romans, Psa. cix, 11. Beautiful passage against false witness, Matt. x, 39. Citation in which there is an allusion to Nero's horrible persecution of the Christians, 2 Tim. iv, 16.

K

Kab, some account of this Hebrew measure of capacity, Exod. xvi, 16. 2 Kings vi, 25.

Kadim, or The East wind, a very stormy wind in the Levant, supposed to be the same with that called by the Greeks Euroclydon, Job xv, 2.

Καλον αγων, a phrase used among the Greeks to express a contest of the most honourable kind, 2 Tim. iv, 8. This illustrated by a citation from the Alcestis of Euripides, ibid.

Καπηλευοντες, the import of this term illustrated by citations from Herodian and Aristophanes, 2 Cor. ii, 17.

Karaïtes among the ancient Jews, who, Matt. xxvi, in fine. 1 Cor. viii, 1.

Καρδιογνωστος Θεος, an epithet of the Divine Being, Acts i, 24; xv, 8.

Karkor, קרקר, rendered in our version as the name of a place, more probably signifies rest, Judg. viii, 10.

Καρφος, definition of this word by Hesychius, Matt. vii, 3.

Kasheth, or The Song of the Bow, exquisite excellencies of the, pointed out, 2 Sam. i, in fine. Dr. Kennicott's Latin version of this song, ibid.

Καταπαυσις and Σαββατισμος, indifferently rendered rest in our Version, not absolutely synonymous, Heb. iv, 9.

Kataskion, ΚΑΤΑΣΚΙΟΝ, an Ephesian amulet, Acts xix, 19. Its import, according to Hesychius, ibid.

Καταστολη, probably the same with the pallium, or mantle, worn by the ancient Roman and Grecian ladies, 1 Tim. ii, 9.

Κατηγωρ, Accuser, an appellative of Satan found in Rabbinical writings in Hebrew characters, Rev. xii, 10.

Κατεχω, definition of this word by Hesychius, Rom. i, 18.

Καθαιρειν, sometime imports to prune, John xv, 2.

Καθισανειν, import of this word, when the preposition απο is prefixed, Acts iii, 21.

Καθ' ὑπερβολην εις ὑπερβολην, Chrysostom's explanation of this very strong expression of St. Paul, 2 Cor. iv, 17.

Kedesh, one of the cities of refuge, import of the name, Josh. xx, 7.

Kedeshah, קדשה, rendered harlot in our Version, inquiry into its precise import, Gen. xxxviii, 21.

Keeumras, the first king of the Peeshdadian dynasty, according to the Persian historians, Gen. xiv, 1. Possibly the same with the Chedorlaomer of Scripture, ibid.

Kehelathah, the eighteenth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 22.

Keimah, כימה, rendered the Pleiades, of very uncertain import, Job ix, in fine.

Kenchrea, see Cenchrea.

Kennicott, (Dr.) his account of the great differences in the Hebrew and Samaritan copies with respect to the history of the first seven Egyptian plagues, Exod. xi, in fine. Observations of this great biblical critic upon the four hundred and thirty years' sojourning of the children of Israel, Exod. xii, 40. His removal of some difficulties in the book of Numbers, chap. xxi, in fine. Reasons advanced by him to shew that from the twelfth to the thirty-first verse, (both inclusive) of the seventeenth chapter of the First Book of Samuel is an interpolation of some Rabbin, 1 Sam. xvii, in fine. His translation of that portion of the sacred history which gives an account of David's taking from the Jebusites the strong hold of Zion, 2 Sam. v, 6—8. His remarks upon the catalogue of David's mighty men of valour, as given in two different portions of Scripture, 1 Chron. xi, 11. His reasons for the supposition that the first fourteen verses of the fortieth chapter of Job are transposed, Job xl, in fine.

Κενος καρπος, how this phrase is used by Lucian, Mark iv, 28.

Kepler, account of a wonderful law regulating the motions of the planets, first discovered by this philosopher, and afterwards demonstrated by Sir Isaac Newton, Heb. xi, in fine. Curious notion of Kepler relative to the animation of the whole material universe, Neh. ix, 6.

Κερατια, rendered husks, in the opinion of Bochart means the fruit of the ceratonia or charub tree, Luke xv, 16.

Kerchief, derivation and import of this word, Ezek. xiii, 18.

Kermes oak, a shrub growing in Provence and Languedoc, why so named, Isa. i, 18.

Kermez, or Summer Fig, some account of the, by Dr. Shaw, Isa. xxviii, 4.

Kernaw, the ancient name for Cornwall, Isa. v, 1. Its import in the ancient British and Phœnician languages, ibid.

Kerub, כרב or כרוב, translated cherub, derivation and import of the word, Gen. iii, 24.

Kesil, כסיל, rendered Orion, of very uncertain import, Job ix, in fine.

Kesitah, a word of doubtful signification, Gen. xxxiii, 19.

Kethem, כתם, its derivation and import, Job xxviii, 16.

Kets, קץ, beautiful paranomasia on this word, Ezek. vii, 6. Hakets, הקץ, The End, personified, ibid.

Keys of the ancients, description of the, Isa. xxii, 2. When borne on the shoulder, a mark of office, ibid. The four keys which, according to the Rabbins, God never trusts to angel or seraph, Rev. i, 18.

Keys of the kingdom of heaven, meaning of this phrase, Matt. xvi, 19.

Khondemir's fabulous relation respecting Job, Preface to Job, pp. xvi, xvii.

Khosroo, a verse in this Persian poet very similar to a passage in Job. See Job xiv, 10. Citation of a very beautiful passage in which the poet deplores the loss of all his friends, Psa. lxxxviii, 18.

Kibroth-hattaavah, the twelfth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, some account of, Numb. xxxiii, 16.

Kicking against the goad, a proverbial expression among the ancients, Acts ix, 5. Several examples produced, ibid.

Kidneys of wheat, inquiry into the meaning of this phrase, Deut. xxxii, 14.

Kikaion, קיקיון rendered gourd, probably the ricinus, or palma Christi, Jonah iv, 6.

Kimchi, (Rabbi David,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. iii. Quotation from this writer very similar to our Lord's parable of the ten virgins, Matt. xxv, 1. One of his parables very like that of the unjust steward, Luke xvi, 1.

King, remarkable saying of a, to his particular friend, Matt. vi, 33.

King, manner of the, which God commanded Samuel to shew to the Israelites, Puffendorf's excellent observations concerning the, 1 Sam. viii, 9.

King can do no wrong, on what ground this political maxim in our laws is formed, 2 Sam. xix, 43.

King of terrors, an epithet given to death (either literally or substantially) by the ancient Greeks and Romans, Job xviii, 14. The words so rendered in the book of Job shewn not to contain the sense of the original, ibid.

King's Gallery, Στοα βασιλικη, account of this part of the Temple by Josephus, Matt. iv, 5.

King's mowings, what to be understood by this expression, Amos vii, 1.

Kingdom of heaven, two acceptations of this term in Scripture, according to Lightfoot, Luke xvii, 20.

Kings, Books of the, this portion of Holy Writ generally supposed to have been compiled by Ezra, Preface to 1 Kings, p. ii.

Kings, folly of, to have foreigners for their valets and most confidential servants, 2 Chron. xxiv, 26.

Kings of Israel, how the ceremonies of their proclamation and anointing were probably performed, 1 Kings i, 35.

Kings of Israel and Judah, years of the reigns of the, synchronically arranged, from the commencement of the reigns of Rehoboam and Jeroboam to the destruction of the kingdom of Israel by Shalmaneser, 2 Chron. in fine.

Kinnor, כנור, rendered harp, what it imports, Gen. iv, 21. 1 Sam. x, 5. Job xxi, 12. Psa. lxxxi, 2. The testudo, or lyre with three strings, according to Calmet, Psa. xxxiii, 2.

Kir, thought to be the same with the country of Cyrene, Amos i, 5.

Kir-haraseth, the royal city of the Moabites, 2 Kings iii, 25. Isa. xvi, 7, 11.

Kirjath-arba, or City of the Four, conjectures why so named, Gen. xxiii, 2. Josh. xiv, 15.

Kishon, some account of this brook, Judg. iv, 6.

Kiss anciently used as an emblem of love, religious reverence, subjection, and supplication, Luke vii, 38. Used by the primitive Christians in their public assemblies as well as in their occasional meetings, Rom. xvi, 16. Afterwards discontinued, and shaking of hands substituted, ibid., 1 Cor. xvi, 20.

Kissing the beard, the neck, and the shoulders, in use among the Asiatics to the present day, Gen. xlv, 14.

Kissing the feet, a Heathen expression for subjection of spirit and earnest supplication, Luke vii, 38. This illustrated by a remarkable passage from Polybius, ibid.

Kissing the hand often practised by idolaters in honour of their divinities, 1 Kings xix, 18. How this ceremony was performed, ibid. Kissing the hand shewn to be synonymous with adoration, ibid.

Κλεπτης, in what it differs from ληστης, John x, 8.

Knatchbull's remarks upon the statement of St. Paul that God gave the Hebrews judges for the spaces of four hundred and fifty years, Acts xiii, 20.

Knave, ancient and modern imports of this word, Psa. lxxxvi, 16; cxiii, 1.

Kneading troughs of the Arabs, description of the, Exodus xii, 34.

Κνημιδες, Greaves, account of this ancient species of defensive armour, Eph. vi, 13.

Kneeling, ever considered to be the proper posture of supplication, Exod. ix, 29. 1 Kings viii, 22. If the person to whom the supplication was addressed was within reach, the supplicant caught him by the knees, ibid.

Knees consecrated by the ancients to mercy, Matt. xvii, 14.

Knight, great stature of two brothers of this name who were born in the same township with the Author, 1 Sam. xvii, in fine.

Knives of rock, stone, or flint, common among the ancients, Josh. v, 2.

Knowledge, four things easily distinguishable in, James i, 5.

Kodrantes, Κοδραντης, the smallest coin among the Romans, Matt. v, 26.

Koheleth, derivation and import of this word, Eccles. i, 1.

Κολπος, this word shewn to have sometimes the signification of lap, and why, Luke vi, 38. This sense of the word illustrated by a remarkable passage from Herodotus, ibid.

Κωμοπολεις, what meant by this word, Mark i, 38.
Konos, or Chonos, a city possessing the site of the ancient Colosse, Preface to Colossians, p. i, and see Col. i, 2.
Korah and his company, probable allusion in the book of Job to the destruction of, Job xx, 26, 27, 28.
Koran, for what excellencies it possesses it is principally indebted to the Sacred Scriptures, Exod. xx, in fine. Numb. iii, 1. Deut. xxxiv, in fine. The Mohammedans never write the Koran upon vellum or skin of any kind, Ezek. xliv, 17. Copies of the Koran frequently highly illuminated, Psa. lx, in principio. Citation of a beautiful passage from the Koran which is said to have been the means of converting Labid, an Arabian poet, to Mohammedanism, Isa. viii, 21.
Korban, import of this word, Lev. i, 2. Matt. xv, 5.
Κορινθια χορη, why this phrase was used by the Greeks for a common prostitute, Preface to the first Epistle to the Corinthians, p. ii.
Κορινθιαζεσθαι, to Corinthize, how it came to be synonymous with to act the prostitute, Preface to the First Epistle to the Corinthians, p. ii.
Κορυνη, a military weapon used by the ancient Greeks and Persians, Eph. vi, 13.
Κοσμος, a frequent acceptation of this word, 1 Cor. iii, 22; vi, 2. Pliny's definition, Heb. ix, 1. In what it differs from αιων, according to Lightfoot, Luke xii, 30. Distinction betwixt κοσμος and οικεμενη, Heb. i, 6.
Κρασπηδον, a term importing rather the fringe than the hem of a Jewish garment, Numb. xvi, 38.
Krebsius, (Jo. Tobias,) an eminent biblical critic, General Preface, p. xvi.
Κρητιζειν, imports to lie, and why, Tit. i, 12.
Κρινω, rendered in our Version to judge, sometimes imports to punish, and why, Acts vii, 7.
Κυλλος, meaning of this word according to Wetstein, Kypke, and Wakefield, Matt. xv, 30.
Kumund, a sort of running loop among the Persians, for what purpose employed, Job xix, 6.
Κυριε often improperly translated Lord, Matt. xxvii, 63.
Κυριος, derivation of this word, according to Hesychius, Luke ii, 11. This lexicographer states it to be a proper rendering of, יהוה, Jehovah, ibid.
Kurtuk Dumnik, Frazer's account of the, Judg. ix, in fine.
Kypke, a great biblical critic, General Preface, p. xvi.

L

Laal-koner, her great influence with the Mogul emperor Maaz-eddin, Mark vi, 23.
Labarum, what, Rev. xii, 10.
Lacedemonian women, usual sayings of the, when they presented the shields to their sons going to battle, Hebrews x, 35.
Lachrymatories, or Urnæ Lachrymales, small phials so named, into which it was customary among the ancient Greeks and Romans to put the tears shed for the death of any person, and offer them upon the tomb of the deceased, Psa. lvi, 8. Of what materials these lachrymatories were constructed, ibid. Account of one in the Author's possession, ibid.
Lactantius, enigma attributed to, Matt. xxiii, 33.
Lad, a word supposed to be of Hebrew origin, Gen. xxxvii, 2.
Ladder of Jacob very probably an emblem of the providence of God, by which He watches over and regulates all terrestrial things, Gen. xxviii, 12.
Lahatim, להטים, rendered enchantments, what the probable import of this term, Exod. vii, 11.
Lais, some account of this celebrated Corinthian prostitute, Preface to the First Epistle to the Corinthians, p. ii.
Λασηιον, the Laseion, a species of shield, covered with rough hides or skins with the hair on, Eph. vi, 13.
Lake below the wine-press, what, Isa. v, 2.
Lambs, immense number of, annually slain in Jerusalem at the feast of the Passover, in the time of Cestius, the Roman general, Numb. xxix, 12.
Lamech's speech to his wives, as it stands in the Hebrew original, probably the oldest piece of poetry in the world, Gen. iv, 23. Inquiry into the cause of this remarkable speech, ibid.
Lamentations very noisy among the Asiatics, Gen. xlv, 2.
Lamentations of Jeremiah, Hebrew names of this portion of the Sacred Canon, Introduction to the Lamentations, p. i. Its appellation in the Septuagint Version, ibid. Singular opinion of Herman Van der Hardt relative to this poem, ibid. Its very technical character, ibid., pp. i, ii. Observations of Doctors Lowth, Smith, and Blayney, on the peculiar style of this composition, ibid., p. ii.
Lamentations, days of, among the Jews, John xi, 31.
Lamp, to raise up a, to a person, what intended by this phrase both in sacred and profane history, 2 Sam. xiv, 7.
Lamps first introduced into Pagan temples by the Egyptians, Exod. xxv, in fine.
Lamps of Israel, a term given by the Jews to their eminent doctors, John v, 35.
Lamps of the East, some account of the, Matt. xxv, 7.
Lampsacus singular preservation of this city by Anaximenes, Eccles. ix, 14.
Lance, usual in Arab camps for every man to have his lance, stuck in the ground beside him, that he may be ready for action in a moment, 1 Sam. xxvi, 12.
Land measurement of, by the ancients by lines or cords of a certain length, in a similar way to that by the chain among us, and the schœnus or cord among the Egyptians, Deut. iii, 4.
Land of Promise, some account of the, Numb. xxxiv, 13.
Landmarks of the ancients, in what they generally consisted, Deut. xix, 14. Job xxiv, 2. Held very sacred among the Romans, and at last deified, Deut. xix, 14. Prov. xxii, 28. A passage from Ovid in illustration of this circumstance, Prov. xxii, 28.

Land-torrents which make a sudden appearance, and as suddenly vanish, allusion to, Job vi, 15.

Laodicea, a city of Asia Minor on the borders of Caria, Phrygia, and Lydia, Col. ii, 1. Rev. i, 11. Originally named Diospolis, ibid. Afterwards called Rhoas, Col. ii, 1. How it obtained the appellation of Laodicea, ibid. Its present name, ibid.

Laodiceans, apocryphal Epistle to the, given at full length, (from the best Latin copies,) with an English translation, Col. iv, in fine. Character of this spurious production, ibid.

Lapide, (Cornelius à) account of this voluminous commentator, General Preface, p. vii.

Lapis Lazuli, its component parts, Job xxxviii, 38.

Lass supposed to be a contraction of ladess, an old English word for a girl or young woman, Gen. xxxvii, 2.

Latin church, Ἡ Λατινικη εκκλησια, a name given by the Greeks of the Lower Empire to that of Rome, and why, Rev. xiii, 1.

Latins, supreme forms of government of these ancient people, Rev. xvii, 10.

Latter days, a phrase in Scripture, generally importing the times of the Messiah, Isa. ii, 2. Dan. ii, 28.

Law, remarkable saying of Rabbi Chanina, why the words of of the, are likened to water, Matt. v, 3.

Lazarus, import of this name, Luke xvi, 20.

Leaping on or over the threshold, what probably meant by this expression, Zeph. i, 9. Harmer's conjecture, ibid.

Learning, remarks on that species of, which may be a useful handmaid to religion, in the ministry of the gospel, 1 Tim. vi, in fine.

Leasing, derivation and meaning of this old English word, Psa. iv, 2; lv, 6.

Leb, לב, and Lebab, לבב, what these words import, when employed by the Jews as memorial symbols, Masoretic notes at the end of Numbers and Deuteronomy.

Lebeid, quotation of several sentiments from the poem of, very similar to some in the Book of Job, Job xxxi, 21. This poem contained in the Moâllakat, Psa. lx, in principio.

Leca, לך, import of this Jewish memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Genesis.

Lecheum, situation of this seaport, Rom. xvi, 1.

Lectisternium, Jerom's account of this Pagan festival of antiquity, Isa. lxv, 11.

Leech, the ancient English word for a physician, Isa. iii, 7.

Left hand, its metaphorical acceptation among the Rabbins, Matt. xxv, 33.

Legion, a grand division of a Roman army, Matt. xxvi, 53. Contained different numbers at different times, ibid. The legionary soldiers were not permitted to engage in husbandry, merchandise, or any thing inconsistent with their employment, 2 Tim. ii, 4.

Lemuel's description of a virtuous wife, Prov. xxxi, 10—31.

Lent, why this annual fast is so named, Matt. ix, 15.

Lentulus the augur, the immense wealth this man is said to have possessed, Esth. iii, 9.

Leonidas of Alexandria, account of the equinumeral distichs of this Greek poet, Rev. xiii, 18. Three examples produced, ibid.

Leopard, proverbial among the ancients for its swiftness, Hab. i, 8.

Leper, an emblem of the wretched state of man by the fall, according to Dr. Lightfoot, as contradistinguished from the Nazarite, an emblem of man in his state of innocence, Numb. vi, 2.

Leprosy, description of this terrible disorder, Matt. viii, 2. Maundrel's account of the appearance of several persons whom he saw infected with this disorder in Palestine, Lev. xiii, 2. Dr. Mead's relation of a remarkable case, which came under his own observation, Matt. viii, 2. Herodotus mentions this disorder as existing among the Persians, who considered it as a punishment from their great god the sun, ibid. This malady a most expressive emblem of the pollution of the soul of man by sin, Lev. xiii, in fine; xiv, in fine. Matt. viii, 2.

Lepton, the same with the prutah, which see.

Λῃστης. See Κλεπτης.

Let, derivation and import of this old English word, Rom. i, 13.

Lethé, among the ancient mythologists, what, Psa. lxxxviii, 12.

Letters sent to chiefs and governors in the East always carefully folded up and put in costly silken bags, and these carefully sealed, Neh. vi, 5. An open letter sent by Sanballat to Nehemiah a mark of contempt, ibid.

Letters of the Alphabet used by the ancients for numbers Rev. xiii, 18.

Levanters, Dr. Shaw's account of these tempestuous winds, Acts xxvii, 14. Customary among the Mohammedans, during these levanters, to tie to the mast, or ensign staff, some apposite passage from the Koran; then to collect money, sacrifice a sheep, and throw them both into the sea, ibid.

Levi, import of the name, Gen. xxix, 34. Conjectures why the posterity of this patriarch were appointed to the service of the sanctuary, Numb. iii, 12. Very beautiful paranomasia on the name of Levi, Numb. xviii, 2.

Levi ben Gershom, (Rabbi,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. iii.

Leviathan, supposed to be the crocodile, Job xli, 1. Isa. xxviii, 1. This hypothesis not without its difficulties, Job xli, in fine. Not impossible that the animal described in Scripture under this name is now wholly extinct, ibid.

Leviticus, the third book of the Pentateuch, why so named, Preface to Leviticus.

Lex, derivation and import of the word, Exod. xii, 49.

Lex Talionis, earliest account we have of the, Exod. xxi, 24. Constituted a part of the Twelve Tables so famous in antiquity, ibid.

Libations of water, wine, milk, honey, and blood, frequent among the Greeks and Romans, 1 Sam. vii, 6. 2 Sam.

xxiii, 16. The term libation sometimes synonymous with covenant, Isa. xxx, 1.

Libertines, Bishop Pearce's observations concerning that portion of the Jewish people formerly so named, Acts vi, 9.

Libnah, the sixteenth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, uncertain where situated, Numb. xxxiii, 20.

Lick, supposed to be of Hebrew origin, Prov. ii, 16.

Lictors, who, among the ancient Romans, Acts xvi, 35.

Lie, definition of a, Gen. xx, 12.

Life, unreasonable attachment to, strongly ridiculed by the Heathen poets, Gen. xxv, 8. Probable origin of the phrase, I put my life in my hands, Judg. xii, 3. Its import, Psa. cxix, 109.

Light, inquiry into its production on the first day of the creation, Genesis i, 3. Its immense diffusion and extreme velocity, ibid. 1 Kings viii, 27. Job xxxviii, 26. 1 John i, 5.

Light of the world, a title anciently given to the most eminent Rabbins, Matt. v, 14.

Lightfoot, (Dr. John,) a very learned commentator on the whole Scriptures, General Preface, p. x. His very ingenious solution of the difficulty existing in the Gospel of St. Matthew respecting the writer of the prophecy concerning the thirty pieces of silver for which our Lord was betrayed, Matt. xxvii, 9.

Lignum infelix, the tree on which criminals were hanged was so named among the Romans, Josh. viii, 29.

Ligure, account of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17.

Limereece, a species of food, how prepared, 2 Samuel xvii, 28.

Linen yarn, the import of the Hebrew word thus rendered extremely uncertain, 1 Kings x, 28.

Lines in the writings of prose-authors, as well as of poets, termed verses by the ancients, Introduction to Ezra, p. xi.

Lion, Homer's beautiful description of the great courage and fierceness of this animal after a long abstinence from food, Isaiah xxxi, 4. Five Hebrew words rendered lion, in our Version, with an inquiry into the particular import of each, Job iv, 11.

Lion, the standard of Judah, Gen. xlix, 8.

Lion of God, an ancient appellation for a hero; a figure still employed in the same sense by the Arabians and Persians, Isa. xxxiii, 7.

Liturgy, derivation and import of this term, Acts xiii, 2.

Liverpool, great storm of hail near this town, Exod. ix, 17.

Living stones, the import of this apostolic metaphor largely considered, 1 Pet. ii, 5.

Living waters, what meant by this phrase among the ancients, Gen. xxvi, 19. Lev. xiv, 5. Psa. xxxvi, 9. Zech. xiv, 9. John iv, 10. Rev. vii, 17.

Lix, ΛΙΞ, an Ephesian character or amulet, Acts xix, 19. Its import, according to Hesychius, ibid.

Lo, לֹא, the Hebrews had a peculiar way of joining this particle to a noun, to signify in a strong manner a total negation of the thing expressed by the noun, Isa. x, 15. Several examples produced, ibid.

Loadstone probably known in the East long before its discovery by the Europeans, Job xxviii, 18.

Lo-ammi, son of Hosea, meaning of the name, Hos. i, 9.

Loan, in what respects better than a gift, Matt. v, 42.

Locke, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. xii.

Locusts, description of the, Exod. x, 4. Volney's account of their terrible devastations in Syria, Egypt, and Persia, ibid. Dr. Shaw's relation of most formidable swarms of these insects in Barbary which came under his immediate observation, ibid. Joel i, 12; ii, 2. Curious remark of an Arabic writer with respect to the similitude of the locust to ten different kinds of animals, Joel ii, 4. Relation by Livy and Augustin of a pestilence occasioned by an immense swarm of Locusts, Joel ii, 20.

Log, some account of this Hebrew measure of capacity, Exod. xvi, 16.

Logos, or Word, remarks upon this appellative of the Divine Being who was incarnated for the redemption of man, John i, 1. Testimonies concerning the Logos from the Chaldee Targums, John i, in fine. Testimonies concerning the personality, attributes, and influence, of the Word of God, taken from the Zend Avesta and other writings attributed to Zoroaster, ibid. Testimonies concerning the Logos from Philo the Jew, ibid. List of some of the particular terms and doctrines found in Philo, with parallel passages from the New Testament, ibid. Chinese testimonies concerning the Logos, ibid. St. John the only New Testament writer, who has used this word in a personal sense, Heb. iv, 12.

Λοιμος, how figuratively used by the ancients, Acts xxiv, 5.

Long, (Dr.) his ingenious experiment to ascertain the superficial proportion of land and water on the whole terraqueous globe, Gen. i, 10; vii, 11. Job xxviii, 25.

Longevity, some instances of, among the moderns, Psa. xc, in fine.

Longinus, (Dionysius,) his remarkable criticism upon passages in the first chapter of Genesis, Gen. i, 3. Preface to Job, p. v.

Lord, its derivation and import, Gen. ii, 4.

Lord's day, or Christian sabbath, should be kept strictly holy, Amos viii, 5.

Lord's Prayer, as it stands in the present Authorized Version, exhibits the best specimen of our ancient language now in use, Preface to Job, p. xi. This form of prayer collected by our Lord from the Jewish Euchologies, according to Gregory, who gives us the whole form, Matt. vi, 13.

Lord's Supper, see Eucharist.

Lo-ruhamah, import of the name, Hos. i, 6.

Lost Property, laws relative to the finding of, among the Hebrews, Romans, and others, Lev. vi, 3.

Lot, meaning and use of the, Numb. xxxvi, 55. Manner of casting lots in the case of the scape-goat, Lev. xvi, 8, 9.

How the land of Canaan was divided to the Israelites by lot, Josh. xiv, 2; xviii, 11.

Lo-techsar, לא תחסר, import of these words when used as a memorial symbol, Masoretic notes at the end of Deuteronomy.

Louis de Dieu, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. ix.

Louis XIV, motto on the brass ordnance of, Judges xiv, 3.

Love, inquiry into the import of this term, Matt. xxii, 37. A word of Anglo-Saxon, or perhaps of Teutonic origin, 1 Cor. xiii, 1. Apostolic definition of the Greek word so translated, in which are sixteen particulars, 1 Cor. xiii, 4—8.

Love-feasts of the primitive Christians, see Αγάπαι.

Love of enemies, Christian precept concerning, Matt. v, 42. John xiii, 34. Rom. v, 6, 10.

Love of God, Deut. vi, 5; x, 12; xi, 1. Matt. xxii, 36—40. Luke vii, 47. John iii, 16; xv, 12, 13. Eph. iii, 18. Tit. iii, 4. 1 John iv, 8; v, 18.

Love of neighbour, Scripture precept concerning, Lev. xix, 18. Matt. xxii, 39. Col. iii, 14.

Lowth, (Dr.) a very celebrated commentator on portions of the Old Testament Scriptures, General Preface, pp. xi, xiii, xiv.

Lu, לו, import of this Hebrew interjection when used as a memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Numbers.

Lucan's description of the splendour of the apartments of Cleopatra, queen of Egypt, Ezek. xxviii, 14.

Lud, the same with Lydia, Ezek. xxvii, 10.

Luke, some account of this Evangelist, Preface to Luke, pp. i, ii. Five classes or sections into which some critics have divided his history, ibid., p. ii. Facts and circumstances related at large by Luke, which are either not mentioned at all, or but very transiently, by the other Evangelists, Luke xxiv, in fine. From what epoch Luke computed the years of the reign of Tiberius Cæsar, Advertisement to the Chronological Tables at the end of Acts.

Lunacy, observations on the cause of this disorder, Matt. iv, 24.

Luther, (Martin,) character of, 2 Kings xii, 6.

Λυτρα, definition of, by Suidas, Rom. ii, 24.

Λυτρον, its import, Matt. xx, 28. Luke i, 68. 1 Tim. ii, 6.

Luxury, formerly the characteristic of the Eastern princes, and particularly of the Persians, Esth. i, 4.

Lycaonia, account of, by Strabo, Acts xiii, 51. Jablonski's remarks upon the language probably spoken in this district in the time of St. Luke, Acts xiv, 11. How Lycaonia is said to have obtained its name, Acts xiv, 15.

Lydda, situation of this town, Acts ix, 32.

Lying, excellent advice of a genuine Christian poet against, Josh. ii, in fine. Saying of Diphilus upon this subject not defensible upon Christian principles, 1 Sam. xxi, 2.

Lyranus, or Nicholas de Lyra, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. vii.

Lystra, a city of Lycaonia, Acts xiv, 6. Reputed to have been under the guardianship of Jupiter Propuleius, or Jupiter Custos, ibid.

M

Maachah, mother of Asa, king of Judah, inquiry into the nature of the idolatry patronized by this woman, 1 Kings xv, 13.

Mabul, מבול, a word applied only to the general deluge, Gen. vi, 17. Its derivation, Gen. vii, 11.

Maccabees, very fanciful Rabbinical derivation of the name of this people, Psa. xxi, 15.

Μαχαιρα, a species of sword frequently used by the ancient gladiators, or in single combat, Eph. vi, 13.

Machpelah, cave at, the first public burying-place mentioned in history, Gen. xlix, 29.

Macknight, (Dr.) author of a translation of the Epistles, with Notes, General Preface, p. xii.

Macrobius, citation of a remarkable passage from this Roman writer relative to the slaughter of the innocents by Herod, Matt. ii, 16.

Maédi, a tribe of Arabs, whence so named, Isa. xlii, 11.

Magdala, the name of a city and country, where situated, according to Whitby, Matt. xv, 39.

Magdalene hospitals, great impropriety of this appellation for the receptacles of penitent prostitutes, Luke viii, 2.

Magi, some account of the, Matt. ii, 1. Whence the name is derived, ibid.

Magian religion, great principle of the, Isa. xlv, 7.

Magicians among the Jews, why named בעליהשם, baâleyshem, "Masters of the name," Acts xix, 14.

Magnet, reasons for believing that this stone was known in the East long before its discovery by the Europeans, Job xxviii, 18.

Magnificat, observations on this very sublime specimen of Greek poetry, Luke i, 46, &c.

Magnitudes, bulks or volumes, of the sun, moon, and planets, compared with that of the earth, Gen. i, 1.

Magog, conjecture where situated, Ezek. xxxviii, 2.

Maher-shalah-hash-baz, meaning of the name, Isa. viii, 1.

Mahesa, among the Hindoos, the Deity in his destroying quality, Luke i, 68. John i, 14.

Maimonides, or Rabbi Moses ben Maymon, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. iii.

Major hostia, or chief sacrifice, what so considered by the Pagans, according to Livy, Lev. i, 2.

Μακαρ, and Μακαριος, derivation and import of these words, Matt. v, 3. Μακαρ and Ὄνητος, used antithetically by Homer, ibid.

Makheloth, the twenty-first station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 25.

Malachi, some account of this prophet, Mal. i, in principio.

Maldonat (John) a commentator on particular parts of the Old and New Testaments, General Preface, p. vii.

Malta, see Melita.

Mammon, inquiry into the derivation and import of this word, Matt. vi, 24. An idol of this name mentioned in Kircher's Œdipus Ægyptiacus, ibid.

Man, beautiful passage in a Heathen poet relative to the formation of, 1 Pet. iii, 4.

Man of sin, Bishop Newton's and Dr. Macknight's observations on St. Paul's prophecy concerning the, 2 Thess. ii, in fine.

Manasseh, why so named, Gen. xli, 51.

Mancipium, why a prisoner was so named by the Romans, 2 Pet. ii, 19.

Mandrakes, some account of these plants, Gen. xxx, 14.

Manes, or ghosts of the dead, or spirits presiding over the dead, formerly supposed to have their habitation in the centre of the earth, or in the deepest pits or caverns, Job xxviii, 11. A quotation from Ovid to this effect, ibid. Several captives have sometimes, in time of war, been sacrificed to the manes of the departed hero, 2 Chron. xvi, in fine.

Mania, children sacrificed to this divinity by the Romans in the first ages of their republic, Rom. ix, in fine.

Manifesto of the Duke of Brunswick, reflections on this document, 2 Kings xviii, 17. Isa. xxxvii, 9.

Manipulus, a subdivision of the Roman infantry, Matthew viii, 9.

Mankind, curious Rabbinical division of, with respect to their moral character, Rom. v, 7. Heb. xii, 23.

Manna, why so named, Exod. xvi, 15.

Manners of the ancients and moderns compared, 2 Sam. iii, in fine.

Mantes, or bald locusts, Dr. Shaw's account of the, Joel ii, 2.

Mantle, or Pallium, the peculiar garb of a Hebrew prophet, 1 Kings xix, 19. 2 Kings ii, 8. Probably dressed with the hair on, ibid. A sort of mantle was the habit of the Greek philosophers, 1 Kings xix, in fine.

Manumission of slaves, three modes in which this was performed by the ancient Romans, 1 Cor. vii, in fine. Various accounts on which these manumissions were granted among our Saxon ancestors, ibid. Particular description of the manumission of a slave among the Gentoos, with an explanation of the mystical ceremonies, ibid. See Certificate, Form of the.

Manuscripts of the Greek Testament, classification of the, by Griesbach and Michaelis, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xi. Account of the manuscripts of the Gospels and Acts, referred to by the letters ABCD, &c, ibid. pp. xi—xiv.

Marah, the fourth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, where supposed to be situated, Numb. xxxiii, 8.

Maran-atha, import of this Syriac phrase, 1 Cor. xvi, 22. Jude 15.

Marble, Temple built of large blocks of white marble beautifully polished, according to Josephus, 1 Chronicles xxix, 2.

Marcus Minucius Felix, Dr. Lardner's character of his Apology for the Christian religion, 2 Tim. iv, in fine.

Mareshah, Maresheth, or Marasthi, a place famous for being the birthplace of the prophet Micah, and for a battle fought near it between Asa, king of Judah, and Zerah, king of the Æthiopians, Josh. xv, 44.

Mark, variety of opinions respecting that which God set upon Cain, Gen. iv, 15.

Mark, some account of this Evangelist, Preface to Mark, p. 1. Thought by many of the primitive fathers to have been merely the amanuensis of St. Peter, ibid., pp. i, ii. Other opinions, ibid., p. ii. The original language of Mark's Gospel most certainly the Greek, though some have contended for the Latin, ibid. List of circumstances omitted by Mark in the beginning of his Gospel, which are mentioned by Matthew and Luke, ibid.

Marks indelibly imprinted on the hands and other parts of the body both by ancients and moderns, Isa. xliv, 5; xlvi, 16.

Maroth, מראת, rendered looking-glasses in our Version, signifies polished metallic surfaces of any description, Exod. xxxviii, 8.

Marriage, a very solemn contract among the ancients, Gen. xxix, 22. Reason for believing that sacrifices were offered and libations poured out on such an occasion, ibid. Customary in the East, according to Sir John Chardin, for youths that were never married always to marry virgins, and widowers, however young, to marry widows, Isa. lxii, 5. Dr. Macknight's observations on the mystery of marriage, Eph. v, in fine. Remarkable law among the Gentoos respecting marriage, Gen. xxix, 26. Customary in ancient times for a king or great man to promise his daughter in marriage to him who should take a city, kill an enemy, &c, Josh. xv, 16. General observations on marriage, 1 Cor. vii, in fine. Citations from Menander and Metellus Numidicus concerning the general expediency of marriage, 1 Cor. vii, 1. Laws of Lycurgus relative to marriage, ibid. Singular opinion of the ancient Jews respecting those who would not enter into this state, ibid., and ver. 6.

Marriage-ceremonies among the Romans, Song v, 6.

Marriage-feasts, duration of, among the Jews, Matt. ix, 15. John ii, 1. Times of extraordinary festivity, and even of riot, among several people of the East, Matt. ix, 15. Formerly customary for the ruler of the feast to procure suitable raiment for accidental guests on such occasions, Matt. xxii, 11.

Marrow, in what manner this substance is contained in the bones, Prov. iii, 8. The solidity and strength of the bone occasioned by the marrow which is diffused through it, ibid. This circumstance illustrated by an easy experiment, ibid.

Mars, periodic and sidereal revolutions, semimajor axis of orbit in English miles, perigeal and apogeal distances, diameter, relative volume or bulk, time of rotation, inclination of axis to orbit, mass or attractive power compared with that of the earth, (from which the density or specific gravity is easily deducible) and mean hourly orbitical motion, of this primary planet, Gen. i, 1.

Marseilles, ancient inhabitants of, when afflicted with any pestilence, sacrificed one of their citizens to appease the wrath of the divinity, Lev. xvi, 10.

Martin, (David,) translator of the Scriptures into French, with Notes, General Preface, p. ix.

Mary I. queen of England, number of bishops, clergymen, lay-gentlemen, tradesmen, husbandmen, women, and children, burnt to death in this reign on account of their religious principles, James iii, 16.

Mary Magdalene, conjecture why so named, Matt. xxvii, 56. The common opinion concerning this woman most probably erroneous, Luke viii, 2.

Maschil, or Maskil, why this title is given to several of the Psalms, Psa. xxxii, in principio.

Mashal, what among the Hebrews, Isa. vi, 10; xiv, 4; xxviii, 20; xxix, 17.

Mask, definition of a composition so named, Introduction to Solomon's Song, p. ii.

Masoretic punctuations, critical observations on the, Isa. lxvi, in fine.

Mass, sacrifice of the, Dr. Macknight's judicious observations on the antichristian character of this Romish ceremony, Heb. x, 18.

Massa, משא, rendered burden, inquiry into the meaning of this word, Nah. i, 1. Hab. i, 1. Zech. ix, 1.

Masses, or attractive powers, of the sun, moon, and primary planets, compared with that of the Earth, Gen. i, 1.

Mastodonton, or Mammoth, an animal long since extinct, Gen i, 24. Job xl, 15. Description of a part of a skeleton of this animal, ibid. Calculation of the probable stature of the mammoth, ibid. Reasons for the supposition that the mammoth is the same with the behemoth of Job, ibid.

Materia Medica, of the ancients extremely simple, Isa. i, 6.

Materiality of the human soul, a doctrine which has no place in the Sacred Records, Numbers xvi, 22. Job xiv, 12. Psalm lxxviii, 39. Eccles. iii, 21. Luke xxiv, 3.

Matthew the Evangelist, some account of, Preface to Matthew, pp. v, vi. The original language of his Gospel most probably the Hebrew, ibid. Critical remarks on the list given by this Evangelist of our Lord's rectilinear ancestors, Matt. i, 8—12. General observations on the Gospel of Matthew, Matt. xxviii, in fine.

Maurbanie, what the Aleppines mean by this term, Song ii, 11.

Maver-al-nahar, where situated, and why so named, Jer. ii, 18.

Maxim, advanced by some that children ought not to be taught religion, but should be left to themselves till they are capable of making a choice, considered, Deut. vi, in fine,

Mazoretes, account of these eminent Jewish commentators, General Preface, p. iii.

Measures of capacity among the Hebrews, short account of the, Exod. xvi, 16.

Mecasheph, מכשף, its import, Deut. xviii, 10.

Mecholoth, מחלת, rendered dances, what it properly signifies, Exod. xv, 20.

Mecon, מכון, the sixth heaven, according to the Rabbins, 2 Cor. xii, 2.

Media, where formerly situated, Acts ii, 9.

Mediator and Surety, distinction between, Heb. vii, in fine.

Medicine, art of, in the East, in what it principally consists, Isa. i, 6.

Mediterranean, why called the Great Sea in Scripture, Josh. i, 4.

Medulla oblongata, or spinal marrow, the silver cord of Scripture, Eccles. xii, 6.

Meek, derivation and import of this word, Matt. v, 5.

Megiddo, the same with Magdolum, according to Ussher, 2 Kings xxiv, 30.

Megilloth, what books of the Sacred Canon are so named by the Jews, Introduction to the Lamentations, p. i.

Meimra, מימרא, and פתגם, pithgam, very remarkable distinction between, in the Targum of Joseph, 2 Chron. i, 9.

Melancthon, (Philip,) character of, 2 Kings xii, 6.

Melas, why the Nile was so named by the Greeks, Isa. xxiii, 3.

Melchizedek, king of Salem, derivation and import of his name, Gen. xiv, 18. Josh. x, 1. Heb. vii, 1. This Canaanitish prince an illustrious type of Christ, ibid. Heb. v, 10, 11; vii, 1, &c.

Melita, or Malta, a celebrated island in the Mediterranean, between Sicily and Africa, Acts xxviii, 1. Conjectures why so named, ibid. Sketch of its revolutions from its first mention in history to the present period, ibid. The modern language of the Maltese bears a strong resemblance to the ancient Punic, ibid.

Melita, an island in the Adriatic Gulf, or Gulf of Venice, near Epidaurus, Acts xxviii, 1. Several reasons to shew that St. Paul was not wrecked at this island, but at another of the same name now called Malta, ibid.

Melitta, every young woman of Babylon obliged once in her life, according to Herodotus, to prostitute herself to some stranger in honour of this idol, 2 Kings xvii, in fine. Melitta the same with the Venus of the Greeks and Romans, ibid.

Melo, the same with the Nile, Isa. xxiii, 3. Why so named, ibid.

Members, cutting off, from the Christian church, manner and spirit in which this should be done, 2 Cor. ii, in fine. 1 Tim. v, 2.

Memorial symbols of the Jews, several curious examples of the, Masoretic Notes at the end of Genesis, Exodus, Leviticus, Numbers, Deuteronomy, and Joshua.

Memphis, now Cairo, Hos. ix, 6.

Menachash, מנחש, its derivation and import, Deut. xviii, 10.

Mendicant Friars, amazing influence of the, during the three centuries that immediately preceded the Reformation, Rev. xiii, 12.

Menenius Agrippa, famous apologue of, as related by Livy, and the effect it had upon the Roman people, 1 Cor. xii, 21.

Meni, supposed to have been an object of idolatrous worship among the ancient Hebrews, Isa. lxv, 11.

Menochius, (John,) account of this commentator, General Preface, p. vii.

Menu, some account of the Institutes of, by the late Sir William Jones, Deut. xxxiv, in fine. Fine saying of this Heathen lawgiver respecting the only means by which man can arrive at beatitude, John xiii, 17. Another on the true knowledge of one Supreme God, John xvii, 3.

Mêōn מעון, the fifth heaven according to the Rabbins, 2 Cor. xii, 2.

Merab, or Saba, city of, account of a dreadful inundation by which this ancient city was overthrown, Isa. i, 30.

Merachepheth, מרחפת, inquiry into the meaning of this term, Gen. i, 2.

Mercury, revolutions as measured by the Equinoxes and fixed stars; semimajor axis of orbit in English miles; perigeal and apogeal distances, when the radius vector is precisely one half of the line of the apsides; diameter; relative magnitude, volume, or bulk; mass or attractive power, that of the earth being considered as unity; and mean hourly orbitical motion, of this primary planet, Gen. i, 1.

Mercury, a Heathen deity to whom the gift of great eloquence was attributed, Acts xiv, 12. Mercury considered by the ancients as the deity who presided over the highways, Prov. xxvi, 8.

Mercy, different acceptations of this word, Matt. v, 7. Elegant and nervous saying of one of our best poets on the subject of mercy, ibid.

Mercy-seat, why so named, Exod. xxv, 17. Its description, ibid.

Merib-baal, the same with Mephibosheth, 1 Chron. viii, 34. Why the Israelites changed Merib-baal into Mephibosheth, ibid.

Μεριμνα, its import, Matt. vi, 25; xiii, 22.

Merit of works, doctrine of the, in the Romish church, reprobrated, Matt. vi, 20.

Meroë, why so named, according to Diodorus Siculus, Acts viii, 27.

Meshach, import of the name, Dan. i, 7.

Meshelim, of the ancient Asiatics, probably the same with the poetæ of the western world, Numb. xxi, 27; xxii, 6.

Μεσιτης, Mediator, what signified by this term, 1 Tim. ii, 5. Synonymous with ειρηνηποιος, peace maker, according to Suidas, ibid. In what it differs from εγγυος, Heb. vii, in fine.

Mesopotamia, why this country was so named, Gen. xxxv, 26. Judg. iii, 8. Where situated, Judg. iii, 8. Amos ix, 7. Its modern appellation, Acts ii, 9.

Messiah, import of the term, Gen. xlix, 8. Exod. xxix, 7. Citation of very remarkable passages from the Talmudists and Gemarists relative to the birth of the Messiah, Matt. ii, 5. Curious Rabbinical saying respecting the cessation of all sacrifices in the days of the Messiah except the sacrifice of praise, Heb. xiii, 15. Strange Rabbinical story about the ass on which the Messiah was to ride, Matt. xxi, 8. Childish notion of the Rabbins relative to two Messiahs:—Messiah ben David, who should reign, conquer, and triumph; and Messiah ben Ephraim, who should suffer and be put to death, Acts xxvi, 23. Remarkable saying of Judah Hakkodesh relative to the resurrection of the Messiah, Matt. xxviii, 7.

Metal, some account of a factitious, in use among the Asiatics, as bright and fine as gold, Ezra. viii, 26.

Metallic image, discourse on Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the, Dan. ii, in fine.

Metallurgy, the Israelites employed in, in Egypt, Deut. iv, 20.

Metempsychosis, or transmigration of souls, a doctrine credited by the Pharisees, Matt. xvi, 1, 13. John ix, 2. The Hindoos still hold this doctrine; and profess to tell the sin which a person committed in another body by the nature of his present afflictions, John ix, 2.

Metheg-ammah, a word of very doubtful import, 2 Sam. viii, 1. Variously rendered by the Versions, ibid.

Methuselah, the oldest man on record, Gen. v, 27. Meaning of his name, Gen. v, in fine. Apparently prophetical of the destruction of the world by water, ibid.

Μεθυσκω and Μεθυω, what these words import, John ii, 8.

Metretes, an ancient measure of capacity, John ii, 6.

Μετρον, as used by St. Paul, an agonistical expression, 2 Cor. x, 13.

Mezahab, Rabbinical gloss on this name, 1 Chron. i, 50.

Micah, some account of this prophet, Introduction to Micah, p. i. Newcome's observations on the style of his writings, ibid, pp. ii—iv.

Michael, apparent import of this name, Jude 9. The Rabbinical writings abound in allusions to this personage, ibid. Considered the advocate of Israel in contradistinction to Sammael, who was reputed their enemy, ibid.

Michtam, or Mictam, meaning of this word, Psa. xvi, in principio; lx, in principio.

Mid-day, the time allotted by the Heathens for the worshipping of dæmons, Psa. xci, 6.

Midrash Shochar, curious story in, where Korah is represented as shewing the oppressive nature of the law, and avarice of its priests, in justification of his rebellion, Acts xv, 10.

Migdol, the same with Magdolum, Jer. xlvi, 14.

Mikoch, מקוח, a word of very uncertain import, 1 Kings x, 28. Variously rendered in the Versions, ibid.

Milcom, an idol of the Ammonites, 1 Kings xi, 5. 2 Kings xxiii, 13. Jer. xlix, 1. Amos i, 15.

Mile, among the Jews, of what length, John xi, 18.

Miletus, a city of Caria, famous for being the birthplace of Thales and Anaximander, Acts xx, 15. Its modern appellation, ibid.

Militia, manner of raising the, among the Romans, Matt. xx, 18; xxii, 14.

Milk, metaphorically used by sacred and profane writers to express the first principles of religion and science, Heb. v, 11.

Milk and honey, land flowing with, a figure used by sacred and profane writers to denote great fertility, Exod. iii, 8. Job xx, 17. Ezek. xx, 6.

Milky way, or Galaxy, Dr. Herschel's idea of the nature of the, Gen. i, 16. Prodigious multitude of stars in the milky way which passed through the field of view in his telescope in the space of forty-one minutes of time, ibid.

Mill, when the noise of the, is not heard, how a sign of desolation, Jer. xxv, 10.

Mill, behind the, inquiry into the meaning of this phrase, Exod. xi, 5.

Millenary of the world, reflections upon our Saviour's being born at the termination of the fourth, Gen. i, 16. Titus ii, 11.

Millenium, thought concerning the duration of the, Matt. xix, 28. Rev. xx, 4.

Mills, grinding at, the work of females in Algiers, Tunis, and other places, Isa. xlvii, 2.

Mina, what, Luke xix, 13.

Mingrelia, inhabitants of, sleep with their swords under their heads, and their other arms by their sides, Isa. xiii, in principio.

Mining, process of, among the ancients, Job xxviii, 1, &c. Difficulties miners had to encounter previously to the invention of the steam-engine, Job xxviii, 4, &c.

Minister, anecdote of a, Psa. lxv, 2. Another anecdote, Matt. xxi, 13.

Ministry, Divine call to the, and directions for the proper discharge of the ministerial office, Ezek. xxxiv, 6. Matt. iv, 18; vii, 28; viii, 21; ix, 9, 18; x, 1, 5, 8, 10; xi, 7, 8; xiii, 1, 52; xv, 24; xvii, 20; xix, 20; xxiv, 45. Mark iii, 15; iv, 29, 33. Luke iii, 23; v, 16; xxii, 2. John x, 1, 2, 10; xv, 17. Acts iv, in fine; xiii, 47. Rom. xi, 13. 1 Cor. iv, in fine; 2 Cor. x, in fine. Titus i, in fine. 1 Pet. v, 3.

Minor Prophets, order and time in which they flourished, according to Archbishop Newcome, Introduction to Hosea, p. iii.

Mirrors of brass, steel, tin, copper, and silver, in use among the ancients, Exodus xxxviii, 8. Isaiah viii, 1. 1 Cor. xiii, 12.

Misenus, funeral rites paid to, as related by Virgil, 2 Chron. xvi, in fine.

Μισεω, an important meaning of this word generally overlooked, Luke xiv, 26.

Misery, in what manner the animal system is affected at the sight of, Jer. iv, 19.

Mishael, import of this name, Dan. i, 7.

Mishemerotim, משמרותים, its derivation and import, Lev. xxvi, 15.

Mishnah, or oral law of the Jews, account of the, General Preface, p. ii. When composed, according to Prideaux and Lardner, Isa. liii, 8.

Mishpat, משפט, its import, Isa. xlii, 1. A beautiful paranomasia on this word, Isa. v, 7.

Misletoe held in extraordinary veneration among the ancient Druids, Gen. xxi, 33. The golden branch mentioned by Virgil apparently an allusion to this plant, ibid.

Missionary, very remarkable providence in behalf of a, Luke iv, 30.

Mite, a word derived from the French, Mark xiii, 41. Luke xxi, 2. Its import, ibid.

Mithcah, the twenty-fourth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Calmet's conjecture concerning, Numb. xxxiii, 28.

Mithras, human victims offered by the ancient Sabian idolaters in Persia to this idol, Rom. ix, in fine.

Mitre, its derivation and import, Exod. xxviii, 4.

Mitsevoth, מצות, its derivation and import, Lev. xxvi, 15.

Mitylene, where situated, Acts xx, 14.

Mizbeach, מזבח, rendered altar, what it properly signifies, Gen. viii, 20; xiii, 18.

Mizmor, מזמור, why a psalm was so named among the Hebrews, Introduction to the Psalms, p. i. Psa. iii, in principio.

Mnevis, an object of idolatry among the ancient Egyptians, Hos. viii, 5.

Moab, Plains of, the forty-first station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 48.

Moâdeem, מואדים, translated seasons, inquiry into its import, Gen. i, 14.

Moâllakat, some account of this collection of Arabic poems, Psa. lx, in principio.

Moderation, definition of this word by Dr. Macknight, Phil. iv, 5.

Modhahebat, a collection of Arabic poems, why so named, Psa. lx, in principio.

Μοδιος, Modius, what, among the Greeks and Romans, Matt. v, 15.

Mohammed, manner of his death as related by Al Kodai, Abul Feda, and Al Janabi, Mark xvi, 18.

Moleth, curious Rabbinical description of this idol, Lev. xx, 2.

Molech passing through the fire to, several opinions concerning the meaning of this phrase, Lev. xviii, 21.

Monarchy, hereditary succession in a, to be preferred to the elective, 1 Kings i, 12.

Mongoz, natural history of the, 1 Sam. xiv, in fine. This animal kept by the inhabitants of the East for the purpose of destroying the snakes that infest them, Amos v, 19.

Monies of different ancient nations, Tables of the, Exodus xxxviii, 24.
Monoceros of Scripture, probably the same with the rhinoceros, Psa. xcii, 10.
Monodon. See Narwall.
Montgomery's metrical version of the principal passages in the seventy-second Psalm, Psa. lxxii, in fine.
Months, names of the, among the Hebrews, 1 Kings vi, 1.
Moon, great probability of her being a habitable globe, Gen. i, 16. Telescopic appearance of her disk, ibid. Her motion round the earth of a very intricate character, Heb. xi, in fine. Periodic and sidereal revolutions; mean distance from the Sun; perigeal and apogeal distances; diameter; relative magnitude, volume, or bulk; time of rotation; inclination of axis to orbit; mass, quantity of matter, or attractive power, that of the earth being considered as unity; and mean hourly orbitical motion; of this secondary planet, Gen. i, 1.
Moorish dress, Jackson's description of the, Judg. xiv, 12.
Μωρος, definition of this word in the Etymologicon, Matt. xxv, 2.
Morosycus, why this tree is so named, Luke xvii, 6.
Mosaic chronology, specious objections of modern sceptics against the, answered, Gen. i, in fine.
Mosaic pavement, some account of the, Exod. xxiv, 10. John xix, 13. Its origin, Esth. i, 6.
Moscovites, from whom descended, Gen. x, 2.
Moseroth, the twenty-sixth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, conjectures respecting, Numb. xxxiii, 30, 37.
Moses, why so named, Exod. ii, 10. His character as a historian, philosopher, and chronologer, Gen. i, in fine. Observations on the staying up of his hands in the conflict of the children of Israel with the Amalekites, Exod. xvii, 11. Enumeration by Moses of the seven different means used by the Almighty in effecting Israel's deliverance, Deut. iv, 34. Sketch of the history and character of Moses, Exod. xix, in fine. Deut. xxxiv, in fine.
Most High, thoughts on the very mysterious character of the counsels and purposes of the, Rom. xi, in fine.
Moths, various modes adopted in the destruction of these insects, Gen. xxvii, 27.
Motions of the planets, reflections on their wonderful harmony, Heb. xi, in fine.
Motto, very singular one affixed to a pamphlet written by a young woman of the city of Gloucester against Bishop Warburton's Doctrine of Grace, 2 Kings xix, 21.
Mount of Beatitudes, Maundrell's account of this small elevation, Matt. v, 14.
Mountain of the Precipitation, Maundrell's description of the, Luke iv, 29.
Mountain of God, import of this Hebraism, Psa. xxxvi, 6. Luke vi, 12.
Mountain-torrents, how produced, Job xxiv, 8.
Mourning among the Jews, how long it generally lasted, John xi, 19. Mannner of it as described by Lightfoot, ibid. Mourning sometimes indicated among the ancients by the changing or reversing the harness or ornaments of cattle, Jonah iii, 8.
Mourning songs, or lamentations, composed by the Hebrews upon the death of great men, princes, and heroes, Lam. v, in fine.
Mourning-women, account of the, among the ancients, who were hired to make lamentations for the dead, Jer. ix, 17. Matt. ix, 32.
Muagrus of the Eleans, why this idol was so named, Exod. viii, 24.
Μυλλαδα μυλλειν, a Greek paranomasia, Job xxxi, in fine.
Multimammia, a name of Diana of Ephesus, Acts xix, 27.
Multitia, Multicia, or Coa Vestis, a name given by the Romans to the transparent garments of the Greeks, Isaiah iii, 23. Sometimes worn even by the men, but looked upon as a mark of great effeminacy, ibid. Humourous and satirical description of the multitia by Publius Syrus, ibid.
Mustard plant, astonishing size to which this herb attains in eastern countries, Matt. xiii, 32.
Mummies, description of the Egyptian, Gen. l, 2. Peter du Val's account of a mummy supposed to be the remains of one of the supreme judges, Exod. xxviii, 30. Manner in which the mummies were wrapped round with strong swathings of linen or cotton cloth, Job xl, 13. Prov. xxxi, 22.
Mundus, World, Pliny's definition of this Latin word, Heb. ix, 1.
Munster, (Sebastian,) a Protestant commentator, General Preface, p. viii.
Μυωδης, why this epithet was applied to the supreme divinity of the Heathens, Exod. viii, 24.
Murder, the only crime for which a human being should be punished with death, Gen. ix, 6. Matt. v, 20.
Murderer, who reputed a, among the ancient Jews, Mark iii, 4.
Murex, or Purpura, a species of shellfish, from which the Tyrian purple is supposed to have been obtained, Exod. xxv, 4. Deut. xxxiii, 19.
Muscarum abactor, why this epithet was given to Hercules, Exod. viii, 24.
Music, Treatise on, by Philodemus, where discovered, 2 Chron. xxxiv, 12.
Music, strange effects of, 2 Kings iii, 15. Those skilled in music seldom remarkable for piety, 1 Cor. xiv, 15.
Musical instruments, observations on the use of, in the house of God, 1 Chron. v, 39; xvi, 42. 2 Chron. xxix, 25. Amos vi, 5. Reasons for believing that musical instruments were employed to encourage and enliven the workmen when engaged in the repairs of the temple in the reign of Josiah, 2 Chron xxxiv, 12.
Musive or Mosaic work, origin of, Esth. i, 6.
Mutability of human affairs, thoughts concerning the, James i, in fine.
Myra, a city of Lycia, supposed by Grotius to be the same with Limyra, Acts xxvii, 5.
Myriad, Μυριας, the highest number known in Greek arithmetical notation, Matt. xviii, 24. Amount in British sterling of a myriad of gold and silver talents, ibid. This word often used by the Greeks for any indefinite multitude, 1 Cor. iv, 15.

Myses, a name of Bacchus in the hymns of Orpheus, evidently borrowed from the name of the great Jewish legislator, Exod. iv, 17.

Mysia, its boundaries, Acts xvi, 7.

Mystical or Spiritual sense very often the most literal of all, Isa. lii, 13.

N

Nubatheans, their origin, Gen. xxv, 13.

Nabi, נביא, rendered prophet in our Version, its precise import, Numb. xi, 25.

Nachash, נחש, commonly translated serpent, has several meanings in the Old Testament, Gen. iii, 1. A variety of reasons produced to shew that the animal instrumental in deceiving our first parents was probably of the simia genus, ibid. Objection against this hypothesis that in the Septuagint Version and the New Testament נחש, nachash, is translated by οφις, answered, ibid.

Naharaga, see Pallacopas.

Naharmalca, or The Royal River, a canal constructed by Nebuchadnezzar to let the abundant waters of the Euphrates into the Tigris, Isa. xliv, 27.

Nahum, some account of this prophet, Introduction to Nahum.

Nails, staining of the, practised by the ancient Egyptians and modern Indians, Deut. xxi, 12.

Nails, spikes, or pegs, of the ancients, some account of the, Isa. xxii, 23.

Nain, where situated, according to Eusebius, Luke vii, 11.

Naksi Rustam, description of the, Isa. xxii, 16.

Name of the owner anciently stamped with a hot iron upon the forehead or shoulder of his slave, Rev. vii, 3.

Names of ancient generals and princes frequently taken from those of birds and beasts, Judg. vii, 25. Names given in derision to the people of God often become the general appellatives of religious bodies, Mark xvi, 6. Instances produced, ibid. Names of the Jewish ancestors formerly continued among their descendants, and why, Luke i, 61. Calmet's judicious remarks on the difference of names, which so frequently occur in the Sacred Canon, Acts ix, 33. Representation of names by the numbers contained in them, an ancient custom, Rev. xiii, 18.

Names, changing of, frequent among the ancients, 2 Kings xxiii, 34. A mark of supremacy in those who changed them, ibid.

Napeir, (John) account of his commentary on the Revelation of St. John, General Preface, pp. xxxi, xxxii.

Naphtali, why so named, Gen. xxx, 8.

Napkin, or kerchief, by which a Jewish criminal was strangled, why buried with him in the same grave, Isa. xv, 19.

Naplouse, the ancient Shechem or Sychar, Matt. x, 5. John iv, 5.

Napoleon, reflections on the singular fortune and sudden reverses of this late emperor of the French, Psa. cvii, 40.

Narwall, or Monodon, a species of whale, with a very fine curled ivory horn, Psa. xxii, 21. Length of a horn of this animal in the Author's possession, ibid.

Nard, Calmet's description of this Indian plant, Mark xiv, 3.

Nasi, the supreme officer in the Jewish sanhedrim, Matt. xx, 21; xxiii, 9.

Nathan the prophet, author of a history of the reign of Solomon, long since lost, 1 Kings xi, 41.

Nathanael, reasons for supposing this apostle to have been the same with Bartholomew, John i, 45.

Nativity of our blessed Lord, vast variety of conjectures respecting the period of the, Luke ii, 8. Very unlikely that it took place in the month of December, ibid. Julius I, fixed it on the 25th of December, the very day on which the ancient Romans celebrated the feast of their goddess Bruma, ibid. What might have moved the pontiff thus to alter the festival of the Nativity, ibid.

Nativity, account of the vulgar æra of the, Preface to Matthew, p. vi.

Natron of the ancients, some account of the, Prov. xxv, 20. Used in the East, according to Dr. Shaw, for the purposes of washing, ibid. Jer. ii, 22.

Nature, observations on this divinity of the modern infidel, Job v, 5.

Navel-string, the medium by which the fœtus receives nourishment while in the womb of its mother, Prov. iii, 8. Song vii, 2.

Nausicaa, daughter of Alcinous, king of the Phæacians, anecdote concerning, Exod. ii, 4.

Nazarene, what meant by this word in its application to our Lord, Matt. ii, 23.

Nazareth, where situated, Matt. iv, 13.

Nazarite, enumeration of the particulars in which the vow of a, consisted, Numb. vi, 5.

Neapolis, see Naplouse.

Nebel, נבל, probably a musical instrument similar to the bagpipe, 1 Sam. x, 5. Psa. lxxxi, 2.

Nebuchadnezzar, in what the malady of this Babylonish monarch probably consisted, Dan. iv, 32.

Nebuchadnezzar's dream of the metallic image, discourse on, Dan. ii, in fine.

Necoth, נכאת, rendered spices, what it imports, Gen. xliii, 11.

Necromancy, pretenders to the art of, among the ancients, chiefly women, Isa. xxix, 4.

Neder, נדר, account of this species of Jewish vow, Lev. xxvii, 29. In what it differed from the cherem, חרם, ibid.

Neginoth, probable import of this term, Psa. v, in principio. Hab. iii, 19.

Nego, one of the Babylonish divinities, Dan. i, 7.

Nehemiah, biography of this eminent reformer of Israel, Introduction to Nehemiah, and chap. xiii, in fine. Eminent men who were contemporary with Nehemiah, Chronological Notes at the commencement of Nehemiah, p. ii.

Nehiloth, probable import of this term, Psa. v, in principio.

Nehushtan, the name given by Hezekiah to the brazen serpent of Moses, conjectures why so denominated, 2 Kings xviii, 4.

Neighbour, what the original word so rendered imported among the Jews, Matt. v, 43. Luke x, 29.

Neith, a name of Diana, Exod. x, 9.

Nemean games, crown worn by the victor in the, made of parsley, 1 Cor. ix, 25.

Neocorus, Νεωκορος, rendered worshipper, originally imported the sweeper of the temple, Acts xix, 35. Afterwards, a title of great distinction assumed by whole cities, ibid.

Nephalim, נפלים, rendered giants, much more probable meaning of the original word, Gen. vi, 4.

Neptune, remarkable speech of, to the winds, contained in the Æneid, Psa. xxvii, 13.

Nergal, an idol of the Cutheans, supposed to have been the sun, and why, 2 Kings xvii, in fine. How represented, according to the Rabbins, ibid.

Nezek, נשך, why usury was so named by the Jews, Ezek. xviii, 8.

Nesiim, נשיאים, among the Jews, who, Eph. i, 21.

Ness's observations on the marriage of Orpah and Ruth, Ruth i, in fine.

Νηστις implies a total abstinence from food, Matt. vi, 16.

Net, description of that species of combat among the Romans, in which one of the combatants was armed with a sword and shield, and the other with a trident and net, Job xix, 6.

New Birth, doctrine of the, considered, John iii, 10.

Newcome, (Dr.) translator of the Minor Prophets, with critical Notes, General Preface, p. xiv.

New Covenant or New Testament, why this appellation is given to that portion of the Sacred Canon written in the Greek language, Preface to Matthew, pp. i, ii. Matt. xxvi, 28. Dr. Lardner's observations on the credibility of the gospel history, Acts xxviii, in fine. Chronological arrangement of the books of the New Testament, with the places where written according to Lardner, and the number of chapters and verses in each book, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xxiv.

New Moon, Feast of the, when celebrated, Exod. xxiii, 14. Psa. lxxxi, 3. Method adopted by the ancient Jews of ascertaining the day of the new moon, Psa. lxxxi, 3. Matt. xxvi, in fine.

New Song, meaning of this phrase illustrated by two quotations from Virgil, Psa. cxlix, 1.

Newton, (Sir Isaac,) epigram on this great mathematician and philosopher, by one of our best poets, 1 Cor. xiii, 9.

New Year's day, a time of festivity in all civilized nations, Numb. xxix, 1.

Nibhaz, an object of idolatrous worship among the Avites, 2 Kings xvii, in fine. According to the Rabbins, was in the shape of a dog, much like the Anubis of the Egyptians, ibid. Conjecture respecting the derivation of the name, ibid. Jurieu's ingenious idea upon this subject, ibid.

Nicanor's gate, the east gate of the court where the women were placed for purification after delivery, Luke ii, 22.

Nicias, remarkable passage in Thucydides which gives an account of the total overthrow of this Athenian general, Eph. iv, in fine.

Nicolaitans, account of the doctrines of the, Introduction to the Second Epistle of Peter, p. v. Rev. ii, 6. Criticism of Michaelis on the name of these people, Introduction to the Second Epistle of Peter, pp. v, vi.

Nicopolis, situation of two towns of this name, Tit. iii, 10.

Nidui, or Niddui, נדוי, the less excommunication among the Jews, John ix, 22. 1 Cor. xvi, 22.

Night, very philosophical saying of Servius respecting, in his comment upon a passage in the fourth Æneid, Job vii, 2.

Nile, overflowing of the, of essential service in the fertilization of Egypt, Gen. xli, 25, 31. Isa. xviii, 2. Pliny's scale of the different heights to which the waters of the Nile ascend, with the consequent degrees of plenty and dearth, ibid. The Nile an object of religious worship among the ancient Egyptians, Exod. vii, 15; viii, 26. Great salubrity and peculiar pleasantness of its waters, Exod. vii, 18. Abounds with incredible numbers of all sorts of fish, according to Diodorus, Isa. xix, 8.

Nilus, a name given to Bacchus by Diodorus and Macrobius, on account of his being said to have been exposed on the Nile, Exod. iv, 17.

Nimbus. A practice among many nations to represent those men to whom they attributed extraordinary sanctity, and whom they supposed to have had familiar intercourse with the Deity, with a lucid nimbus or glory round their heads, Exod. xxxiv, 29.

Nimrod, probably the same with Ninus, Gen. x, 11.

Nineveh, some account of this very celebrated city of antiquity, Jonah i, 2; iii, 3. Bishop Newton's remarks upon the fall and irretrievable ruin of Nineveh, Nah. iii, in fine.

Ninyas, son of Ninus and Semiramis, supposed by Dr. Shuckford to be the same with Chedorlaomer, Gen. xiv, 1.

Nissah, נסה, rendered tempt, what it properly imports, Gen. xxii, 1.

Nisus and Euryalus, affecting account of the friendship of, as given by Virgil, John xv, 13.

Noah, whence this name is probably derived, Gen. v, 29.

No-Ammon, the Diospolis of the Greeks, Nah. iii, 8.

Nominative case often used for the vocative by the ancient Greeks, especially in the Attic dialect of their language, Psa. xlv, 6.

Νομος, its derivation and import, Exod. xii, 49.

Noonday, the time allotted by the Heathens for the worshipping of Dæmons, Psa. xci, 6.

Noph, the same which was afterwards named Memphis, and now Cairo, Ezek. xxx, 13. Jer. ii, 16; xlvi, 14.

Northern army, why this name is given to immense swarms of locusts, Joel ii, 20.

Northern nations, grand transmigration of, into the Roman territories in the fifth century, Rev. xii, 15.

Norwich, ancient city of, formerly stood some miles from the modern city so named, Josh. xvi, in fine.

Nose, or Nostrils, considered by the ancients the seat of anger, Psa. xviii, 8.

Nose, cutting off of the, a frequent punishment of adulterers among the Persians and Chaldeans, Ezek. xxiii, 25. Adultresses formerly thus treated by the Egyptians, ibid.

Nose-ring, or jewel for the nose, of very frequent use in the East, Gen. xxiv, 22. Prov. xxv, 12. Isa. iii, 21.

Νοσος, import of this word, Matt. iv, 23. In what it differs from μαλαχια, ibid.

Nova-Zembla, extraordinary instance of refraction of the solar light in this island in the sixteenth century, 2 Kings xx, in fine.

Novus, not unfrequently synonymous with magnus, mirandus, Psa. cxlix, 1.

Nullis majoribus orti, "Sprung from no ancestors," import of this phrase in Horace, Heb. vii, 3.

Numanus, remarkable saying of, to the Trojans, as related by Virgil, Nah. iii, 13.

Number of the beast, conjectures respecting the import of this hieroglyphical prophecy, Rev. xiii, 18. The name of the power or being to which this number has apparently an allusion still involved in the greatest uncertainty, Rev. xi, 7. The reason for so long and so general an ignorance of the import of symbolical prophecy, Dan. xii, 9. The time appointed for the unfolding of these great mysteries probably still at considerable distance, Dan. xii, 9, 11, 12.

Numbered, observations on the Greek word thus rendered, and the ancient custom to which it has an allusion, Acts i, 26.

Numbers, the fourth book of the Pentateuch, why so named, Preface to Numbers.

Numbers in the Sacred Scriptures often erroneous, and why, 2 Sam. x, 18. How numbers are represented on the Arundelian marbles, Rev. xiii, 18.

Nunc dimittus, Claude's remarks on this beautiful song, Luke ii, in fine.

Nuptial crown, among the Greeks and Romans, what, Song iii, 11.

Nuptial solemnities of the ancients, account of the, Matthew viii, 12.

O

Oak, a sacred tree among the ancient Greeks and Romans, Gen. xxi, 23; the Druids had their feasts and sacrifices under it, ibid. Why this tree was named robur by the Romans, Hos. iv, 13. Accounted one of the most long-lived of all the trees of the forest, Isa. lxv, 22.

Oath, inquiry into the spirit and essence of an, Gen. xxiv, 9. Deut. vi, in fine. 2 Cor. i, in fine.

Obadiah, some account of this prophet, Obad. in principio.

Obed, the father of Jesse, why so named, Ruth iv, 17.

Obed-edom, very curious and whimsical Rabbinical account of the mode in which God is said to have blessed this Gittite, while the ark remained in his house, 1 Chron. xiii, 14.

Oboth, אבות, what this term imports, Lev. xix, 31.

Oboth, אבת, the thirty-sixth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 43.

Οχημα ψυχης, and Οχημα οσραχινον, what, among the Platonists, 2 Cor. iv, 7.

Ode, what is generally understood by this term, Introduction to the Song of Solomon, p. ii. Isaiah's prophetic ode on the destruction of Babylon by the Medes and Persians, and the deliverance of Judah from captivity, a composition of supreme and singular excellence, standing unrivalled among all the monuments of classic antiquity, Isa. xiii, in principio.

Oded, remarks on the beautiful speech of this prophet to the Israelites, 2 Chron. xxviii, 9.

Œconomy, οικονομια, definition of, by Dr. Macknight, Eph. i, 10.

Offend, critical inquiry into the import of the Greek word thus rendered in our Version, Matt. v, 29; xi, 6.

Offensive armour of the ancients, particular description of the, Eph. vi, 13.

Offerings, Jewish, general account of the, Lev. vii, in fine. The reference in which they all stood to the great sacrifice offered by Christ, ibid.

Og, king of Bashan, remarks upon his very great stature, Deut. iii, 11. Extreme trifling of the Rabbins upon this subject, ibid.

Οικονομος, or steward, who, among the ancients, 1 Cor. iv, 1.

Οικουμενη, a term by which the land of Judea was commonly expressed, Luke ii, 1. Difference in import between οικεμενη and κοσμος, Heb. i, 6.

Oil, sanative properties of, James v, 14.

Oil, anointing with, an ancient method of installation to particular offices, Exod. xxix, 7. Luke ii, 11.

Oil, Holy Anointing, its component parts, and the quantity of each ingredient, Exod. xxx, 21.

Oil, trial by boiling, a species of ordeal among the Hindoos, Numb. v, in fine.

Olam, עולם, inquiry into its general import, Gen. xiii, 15; xvii, 7, 8; xxi, 33. Exod. xii, 14. Numb. xxv, 13. 2 Kings v, 27. Eccles. iii, 11, 12; xii, 15. Mic. v, 2. Hab. iii, 6. 1 Cor. i, 20; ii, 6. 2 Tim. iv, 10. Heb. ii, 5.

עולם הבא, Olam haba, the world to come, a phrase applied by the Jews to the days of the Messiah, Heb. ii, 5.

Old age, great reverence paid to, by the ancient and modern Egyptians, Gen. xlviii, 12; by the ancient Romans, ibid. and even to this day by the Mohammedans, ibid. Bacon's grand secret for the strengthening of the natural heat in aged persons, Ruth iv, 16. 1 Kings i, in fine. Very affecting picture of old age and death, Eccles. xii, 7.

Old wine, what so named among the Rabbins, Luke v, 39.

Olive tree, account of the, Rom. xi, 24.

Olympiads, account of the very celebrated ancient æra of the, Preface to Matthew, p. vi.

Olympic games, description by Epictetus and Horace of the painful preparations those were obliged to go through who contended in these exercises, 1 Cor. ix, 25. The crown won by the victor in these games made of the wild olive, ibid.

O'M, a mystic emblem of the Deity, among the Hindoos, forbidden to be pronounced but in silence, Luke i, 68. John i, 14. How this emblem is formed, ibid. Of the same import among the Hindoos, as יהוה yehovah, among the Hebrews, ibid.

Omer, some account of this Hebrew measure of capacity, Exod. xvi, 16.

Omniscience of God, thoughts concerning the, Gen. xvi, 15.

Ομοθυμαδον, critical remarks on this Greek word, Acts ii, 1.

On, or Aven, the famous Heliopolis, Ezek. xxx, 17. Three men said to have been sacrificed in this city every day to Juno, Rom. ix, in fine.

One accord, amazing expressiveness of the Greek word thus rendered, Acts ii, 1.

One jot or one tittle, a proverbial expression among the Jews, Matt. v, 18. Its import illustrated by numerous extracts from Rabbinical writers, ibid.

One thing needful, a phrase in St. Luke's Gospel generally misunderstood, Luke x, 42.

Onycha, account of this perfume, Exod. xxx, 34.

Onyx, the name of a precious stone, whence it has its name, Gen. ii, 12. Exod. xxv, 7. Job xxviii, 16. The Hebrew word so translated of uncertain import, Exod. xxviii, 17.

Opal, its component parts, Job xxxviii, 38.

Opes, riches, whence derived, Gen. xxxiii, 19.

Οφειλεται, meaning of this word among the Jews, Luke xiii, 4. In what it differs from αμαρτωλοι, ibid.

Ophel, a part of Mount Sion, rising higher than the rest, Isa. xxxii, 14.

Ophiomanteia of the Greeks, what, Lev. xix, 26.

Ophir, situation of, utterly unknown, 1 Kings ix, 28. Dr. Jubb's conjecture, Isa. ii, 13—16.

Ophthalmia, how generally caused in Egypt, Deut. xxviii, 24.

Opprobrious expressions, how punished among the Gentoos, Matt. v, 22.

Οψε, import of this word illustrated by quotations from classical writers, Matt. xxviii, 1.

Optic nerve, account of the, Eccles. xii, 3.

Oracles of the Heathens expressed in such dubious language as to appear to be fulfilled in whatever way the events might happen, 1 Kings xxii, 15. Some examples produced, ibid. The credit given to oracles formerly so very great that, in all doubts and disputes, their determinations were held sacred and inviolable, Heb. v, 12. The Pagan oracles generally delivered their answers from some deep and obscure cavern, Isa. xlv, 19.

Oral Law of the Jews, what, Matt. xv, 2. Finally digested and collected into the book called the Mishneh, ibid.

Orange-garden of the emir of Beroot, Maundrell's description of the, Isa. i, 30.

Orbits of the primary and secondary planets not circular, but elliptical, Heb. xi, in fine. The areas which the radius vector of a planet describes being equal in equal times, though the portions of the periphery of its orbit moved through in the same times be unequal, a very plain demonstration of the principle of universal gravitation, ibid. Mean hourly motions of the primary planets in their orbits, Gen. i, 1. Great advantage which the northern hemisphere of the earth derives from the higher apsis of the terrestrial orbit being placed near the summer solstice, Heb. xi, in fine. Inclination of the axes of rotation of the Earth, Moon, Mars, Jupiter, and Saturn, to the planes of their orbits, Gen. i, 1. Angles which the semidiameters of the orbits of the satellites of Jupiter, Saturn, and Herschel, subtend, as seen from the Earth, when the radii vectores of their primaries are equal to one-half of the latera transversa or principal diameters of the ellipses in which they move round the Sun, ibid.

Ordained, inquiry into the import of the original term thus rendered, Acts xiv, 23.

Ordeal, trial by, some account of the, Numb. v, in fine. Why called Judicium Dei, "The judgment of God," ibid. Supposed to have taken its origin from the waters of jealousy, ibid.

Oreb, a prince of the Midianites, import of his name, Judges vii, 25.

Οργυια, definition of, by the Etymologicon, Acts xxvii, 28. About the quantity of our fathom, ibid.

Origen, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. v. Specimens of his very fanciful interpretation of Scripture, Exod. i, in fine. Numb. xii, 14. His thoughts on the miracle of the fleece, dew, and dry ground, Judg. vi, in fine. Origen's account of a dispute he had with some of the Jews relative to a passage in Isaiah, Isa. liii, 8.

Original sin, doctrine of, Job xiv, 4. Psa. li, 5. Rom. v, 1—21, et in fine.

Orion, Hebrew word so translated of very uncertain import, Job ix, 9. The constellation of Orion, according to Mr. Goode, a correct and elegant synecdoche for the winter at large, Job xxxviii, 31.

Ormusd, the supreme divinity of the ancient Persians, John i, in fine.

Ornaments upon the heads, necks, bodies, and legs, of camels, horses, and elephants, common from the remotest antiquity, Judg. viii, 21. Seven kinds of ornaments still in use in Asiatic countries, Gen. xxiv, 22.

Ορφανος, orphan, derivation of the word, according to Mintert and others, John xiv, 18.

Orpheus, remarks on the fable concerning this very celebrated musician of antiquity, 2 Chron. xxxiv, 12.

Orphic dæmonology, classes into which evil spirits were divided, according to the, Matt. xii, 43.

Os Coxendicis, or lower joint of the backbone, singular opinion of the Jews respecting the, 1 Cor. xv, 44.

Osiris, description of a beautiful marble figure of, in the Author's possession, 1 Sam. vi, in fine. Rev. xix, 16.

Ossifrage, why this animal is so named, Lev. xi, 13.

Ostracism among the Greeks, what, Gen. xxvi, 16. Remarkable saying of Bacon upon this subject, ibid.

Ostrich, observations on its remarkable fleetness, Job xxxix, 13, 18. Natural history of this bird, as given by Dr. Shaw, Job xxxix, in fine. Mic. i, 8.

Oth, אות; translated sign, inquiry into its import, Gen. i, 14. Deut. xiii, 1. Rom. iv, 11.

Οτι has sometimes the import of διοτι, Luke vii, 47.

Ottoman Court, conjecture why called The Porte, Isa. xxix, 21.

Ου πας, a Hebraism for ουδεις, Matt. vii, 21. Examples of a similar idiom in Roman writers, ibid.

Outer darkness, its literal and metaphorical acceptations, Matt. viii, 12.

Outer man, import of this phrase, 1 Pet. iii, 4.

Ovens in the East heated with dry straw, withered herbs, and stubble, Matt. vi, 30.

Ovid's account of the ceremonies used in laying the foundations of the walls of the city of Rome by Romulus, Neh. xii, 27. The fable of Dædalus and Icarus very beautifully moralized by this great Roman poet, Prov. xxv, 7.

Ox, particular description of its four stomachs, Lev. xi, 3. This animal an object of idolatrous worship among the ancient Egyptians, Hos. viii, 5.

Ox-goad of Palestine and Syria, description of the, Judg. iii, in fine. Acts ix, 5. The ox-goad appears to havebeen known in the time of Homer, ibid.

Oxen, the Hebrew word thus rendered most clearly a corruption of the Sacred Text, 2 Chron. iv, 3.

Oxurunchus, an Egyptian idol, Exod. xx, 4.

Oxygen, a constituent part of water, Gen. vii, 11; viii, 1. Job xxxviii, 26. Jer. x, 13. 2 Pet. iii, 10. In what proportion oxygen exists in water as to its weight and volume, 2 Pet. iii, 10.

P

Padan-aram, the same with Mesopotamia, Gen. xxxv, 26.

Pagan priests believed by their adherents to have been able to walk on burning coals unhurt, Dan. iii, 27. Quotation from Virgil in illustration of this circumstance, ibid. How the feet of the priests were enabled to resist the action of fire, according to Varro, ibid.

Paganism, brief sketch of the rapid decline of, in the Roman empire in the fourth century, Rev. xii, 9.

Pagans, notion among the, that every district had its tutelary deity, who could do nothing out of his own sphere, 1 Kings xx, 23. 2 Kings xvii, 25.

Παγις, signification of this word, 1 Tim. vi, 9.

Παιδαγωγος, Pædagogue, who among the ancient Greeks, 1 Cor. iv, 15. In what the παιδαγωγος, pædagogue, differed from the διδασκαλος, or teacher, ibid.

Παιδια, a term of familiarity and affectionate kindness, John xxi, 5.

Παιζειν, import of this word, as used by the apostle, 1 Cor. x, 7.

Παλιγγενεσια, import of this term in the Pythagorean philosophy, Matt. xix, 28.

Palinurus, death of, as related by Virgil, a very remarkable example shewing the notions the Heathens entertained respecting vicarious atonement, John xi, 51.

Pall, ceremony of the, among the Romanists, 1 Kings xix, in fine.

Pallacopas, or Naharaga, a canal made by Nebuchadnezzar, by which the redundant waters of the Euphrates were carried into a vast lake forty miles square, Isa. xliv, 27.

Palladium, the Greeks employed all their artifice to steal away this from the Trojans, and why, Numbers xxii, 6. Conjecture that the Trojan palladium was an aerolith, Joshua x, 11.

Pallas, distances from the sun and earth, diameter and relative surface and volume, of this primary planet, Gen. i, 1.

Palliatus, why this word is used to signify a Greek, 1 Kings xix, in fine.

Palma Christi, account of the, as given by Celsus, Jonah iv, 6.

Palm-tree, its description and various uses, Psa. xcii, 12. Leaves of the palm-tree used in the East instead of paper, Job xix, 23.

Palm-wine, how made by the ancients, according to Pliny, Isa. v, 11. The Jews had plenty of this wine, ibid. According to Theodoret and Chrysostom, the same with the שכר, sacar, of the Hebrews, and the σικερα of the Greeks, ibid.

Palmyra, some account of the ruins of, 1 Kings ix, 18.

Palsy, definition of this disorder, Matt. iv, 24. In general incurable, except in its slighter stages, ibid.

Pamphilia, the same with the modern Caramania, Acts ii, 10.

Panegyric, Πανηγυρικος λογος, origin of this phrase, Hebrews xii, 23.

Panoply, ordinary weight of a soldier's, according to Plutarch, 1 Sam. xvii, 7.

Papal Power, brief sketch of the amazing extent of the, before the Reformation, Rev. xiii, 15.

Paphlagonians, conjecture concerning their origin, Gen. x, 3.

Paphos, account of, Acts xiii, 6.

Papyrus of Egypt, description and use of this very celebrated plant, Exod. ii, 3. Esth. x, in fine. Isa. xviii, 1. Its Linnean classification and description, Job viii, 11. Gerarde's account of this plant, ibid.

Παρα τους ποδας, at the feet, several quotations from classic writers to shew that this phrase is often used in the sense of πλησιον, near, Acts xxii, 3.

Parable, its derivation and general definition, Matt. xiii, 3. In what parable differs from fable and similitude, Matt. xiii, in fine.

Parable, or allegory, example of a, in which a variety of images are employed, all taken from the science of agriculture, Isa. xxviii, 23—28.

Parabolic style of the Hebrews, some very striking examples of the, Isa. ii, 13—16; xiii, 10; xxiv, 21—23; xxvii, 1; xli, 19; xlii, 7; xlviii, 21; xlix, 23; liv, 11, 12; lv, 13; lx, in principio.

Parabolical writing, dissertation on the nature and use of, Matt. xiii, in fine.

Paradise, its derivation and import, Gen. ii, 8. Luke xxiii,

43. Eccles. ii, 5. Notion of the Mohammedans respecting Paradise, ibid. 2 Cor. xii, 4. Great variety of opinions concerning its situation, Gen. ii, 10.

Paragogic letters in the Hebrew always increase and deepen the meaning of the words to which they are attached, Psa. lxxxix, 16.

Παρακαλεω, derivation and import of this term, Matt. v, 4.

Παρακλητος, Paraclete, why this name is given to the Holy Ghost, John xiv, 16.

Parallax, the import of this astronomical term, illlustrated by a diagram, James i, in fine.

Paranomasia, or play upon words, instances of, Numb. xviii, 2. Job xxxi, in fine. Isa. v, 7; xxiv. 17, 18; xxv, 11; xxxii, 7; xxxviii, 17; lxi, 3. Jer. i, 12. Amos v, 5; viii, 2. Mic. i, 10. Acts xvii, 23. 1 Cor. vi, 1. Philem. 2.

Paranymph, observations on the office of the, John iii, in fine.

Parcæ, or The Fates, fable of, Job vii, 6; xxxiii, 22.

Parents laying up property for their offspring, under what limitations this is proper among those professing Christianity, 2 Cor. xii, 15.

Pareshah, see Sections of the Law.

Parnas, פרנס, a sort of deacon in the Jewish church, Acts vi, 4. Derivation of the word, ibid.

Paros, one of the Cyclade islands, famous for its white marble, 1 Chron. xxix, 2.

Parr, (Thomas,) his great age, Job xiv, 5. Psa. xc, in fine.

Παρθενος, rendered virgin, signified among the Greeks an unmarried person of either sex, 1 Cor. vii, 25.

Parthia, where situated, Acts ii, 9.

Partridges, manner of hunting, among the Arabs, 1 Sam. xxvi, 20.

Πασχα, a very improper rendering of this word pointed out, Acts xii, 4.

Paschal Cycle, or Dionysian Period, account of the, Preface to Matthew, p. vi.

Passages, Tables of, in the New Testament cited from the Old, Mal. iv, in fine.

Pass-over, a Jewish festival, whence so named, Exod. xii, 11. Deut. xvi, 1. Isa. xxxi, 5. Matt. xxvi, 2. Its typical import, Exod. xii, 27. The Heathen sacrifice termed Propter Viam probably borrrowed from this Jewish ordinance, Exod. xii, 10. The question considered whether our Lord ate the pass-over before He suffered, Matt. xxvi, in fine. Citation from the tract Pesachim to shew that the Jews, in eating the pass-over, did it to represent the sufferings of the Messiah, Luke xxii, 19.

Pastoral, definition of the, Introduction to Solomon's Song, p. ii.

Patara, a seaport of Syria, Acts xxi, 1.

Pathros, conjectures where situated, Ezek. xxix, 14; xxx, 14.

Patmos, account of this island of the Ægean sea, Rev. i, 9. Its present appellation, ibid.

Παυραλυμης, derivation and import of this word, 1 Tim. i, 9.

Πατριαχης, Patriarch, two etymologies of this word, Heb. vii, 4.

Patrick, (Dr. Simon,) a celebrated commentator on the Old Testament, General Preface, p. xi.

Patritiate of the Romans, what, Rev. xvii, 10.

Paul, Παυλος, whence this name of the great apostle of the Gentiles is derived, according to Jerom and Hesychius, Acts xiii, 9. Another conjecture, ibid. Remarks on the method adopted by St. Paul of quoting Scripture, Rom. x, in fine. Citations from Nicephorus and others respecting the personal appearance of this apostle, 2 Cor. x, 10. Observations on the very extraordinary circumstances with which his conversion was accompanied, Acts ix, in fine. Manner of his death extremely uncertain, Acts xxviii, 31. What is said by Eusebius and others upon this subject not to be depended upon, ibid. Eminent men who were contemporary with St. Paul, Chronological Notes at the commencement of 2 Corinthians, p. ii.

Pavilion, derivation of this word, 1 Kings xx, 12. Psa. xxvii, 5.

Paz, פז, its derivation and import, Job xxviii, 17.

Peace, remarkable saying of the Rabbins relative to, Matt. x, 12. Very extensive meaning of the Hebrew word thus rendered, ibid.

Pearce, (Dr. Zachary,) author of an excellent commentary on the Four Gospels, the Acts, and the First Epistle to the Corinthians, General Preface, pp. xi, xii.

Pearl, the production of a shell-fish of the oyster kind, called berberi, Job xxviii, 18. Sometimes found in the common oyster and muscle, ibid. Six pearls taken by the Author out of one oyster, ibid. Account of a pearl which formed the entire body of a Hindoo idol, ibid.

Pecunia, money, whence derived, Psa. xv, 5.

Πειρασμος, its derivation and import, Matt. vi, 13.

Peleg, the son of Eber, from what circumstance he had his name, Gen. x, 25. What is probably meant by the division of the earth which happened in his time, ibid.

Πελεκυς, or Bipen, a sort of battle-axe, with double face, one opposite to the other, Eph. vi, 13.

Pella, remarkable for being the place whither the Christians retired from the desolating sword of the Roman army, Matt. xxiv, 13, 16, 20. 1 Pet. iv, 18. Citation from Eusebius amd Epiphanius in which this wonderful interposition of Providence in behalf of the primitive Christians is stated, Heb. x, in fine.

Pelta, Πελτη, account of this species of shield used by the ancients, Eph. vi, 13.

Penal wheel of the Greeks, account of the, James iii, 6.

Peninnah, import of the name, 1 Sam. i, 2.

Penny, the daily wages in this country, in the fourteenth century, of cornweeders and haymakers, without meat, drink, or other courtesy, demanded, Matt. xx, 2.

Pentateuch, Dr. Priestley's excellent observations respecting the, Deut. xxxiv, in fine.

Pentecost, Feast of, why instituted, Exod. xxiii. 14. Acts ii, 1.

Perâoth, פרעות, rendered revenges, what it properly imports, Deut. xxxii, 42.

Perdition, or Destruction, personified, John xvii, 12. Terrible description of perdition by one of our best poets, Matt. viii, 12.

Perfection, Christian, doctrine of, stated and defended, Gen. xvii, 1. Psa. cxix, 96. Matt. v, 48; vi, 10. Luke xvii, 10. Heb. vi, 1.

Perfume, Holy, its component parts, Exod. xxx, 34.

Perfumes, Eastern, account of the, Isa. iii, 24.

Perfuming the head, beard, and other parts of the bodies of guests very frequent in the East, Prov. xxvii, 9. Description of two vessels in the Author's possession, employed for this purpose, ibid.

Pergamos, account of this ancient town of Mysia, Rev. i, 11.

Peri, פרי, import of this word when employed as a memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Deuteronomy.

Περικεφαλαια, the helmet, some account of this species of armour among the ancients, Eph. vi, 13.

Perillus, the first person burned alive in the brazen bull which he had made for the punishment of others, Esth. vii, 9.

Peripatetics, a very famous sect of philosophers, founded by Aristotle, Acts xvii, 18.

Περιψημα, a sacrificial term among the ancient Pagans, Lev. xvi, 10. This word improperly rendered in our Version, 1 Cor. iv, 13. Heathen custom to which the apostle alluded in applying this term to himself and his fellow-labourers, ibid.

Perizzites, where these people were probably situated, Joshua iii, 10.

Peroun, or The Thunderer, a divinity of the ancient Slavi, to whom human victims were offered, Rom. ix, in fine.

Perpetual Fire of the Hebrews imitated by the ancient Persian Magi, and their descendants the Parsees, Lev. vi, 13. Perpetual fire in the temple of Vesta, Lev. ix, 23.

Perpetual Table, shewing, through the course of thirteen lunar cycles, the day of the week with which the Jewish year begins, and on which the passover is held, as also the length of the months Marchesvan and Cisleu, Deut. xxxiv, in fine.

Persic Version of the Pentateuch, some account of the, General Preface, p. xxxi.

Persian Versions of the Gospels, account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. xvii, xviii. Some quotations from the Persian Version in the London Polyglott to shew its Catholic origin, ibid.

Perverse, Kypke's definition of the original term thus rendered, Matt. xvii, 17.

Peshito, The, some account of this celebrated Syriac Version of the New Testament, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. xix, xx.

Pestis, how figuratively used by the ancients, Acts xxiv, 5.

Peter, import of this name, Matt. xvi, 18. Luke ix, in fine. John i, 42. Peter's denial and fall illustrated by a fact in the English martyrology, John xiii, in fine. Farther observations on Peter's denial of our Lord, John xviii, 27. Thoughts on the prevarication of Peter mentioned by the apostle Paul, Gal. ii, in fine. Biographical sketch of this apostle, Preface to the Epistles of Peter, pp. i—iv.

Peter, Epistles of, inquiry into their authenticity, Preface to the Epistles, pp. iv—vi. Mr. Hallett's arguments to shew that these apostolical letters were addressed to Gentile converts, and not to the Jews, ibid., pp. vi—viii. The Babylon mentioned at the close of the First Epistle to be literally, and not mystically understood, ibid., pp. viii—xii.

Peter's Supremacy, Romish doctrine of, a fable, Matthew xvi, 18.

Petronius Arbiter, citation from, very similar to a passage in Isaiah and the First Epistle to the Corinthians, 1 Cor. xv, 32.

Phœnomena, Astronomical, see Astronomical Phœnomena.

Phagrus, an ancient object of idolatry, Exod. xx, 4.

Phalarica, or Falarica, a dart or spear with a spherical leaden head, to which fire was attached, Psa. lxxvi, 3; cxx, 4. Why so named, ibid. Eph. vi, 16.

Pharaoh, a common name for the kings of Egypt till the commencement of the monarchy of the Greeks, Gen. xii, 15; xli, 44. Exod. i, 11. Why Pharaoh is called in the Koran the lord or master of the nails, Isa. xxii, 23.

Pharez, import of the name, Gen. xxxviii, 29.

Pharisaic Pride, genuine specimen of, Luke xviii, 12.

Pharisees, some account of this ancient Jewish sect, Matt. iii, 7; xvi, 1. Derivation of the name, ibid.

Pharmacy, in great repute among the ancient Egyptians, Exod. xii, in fine.

Pharpar, a river of Damascus, reason for supposing that the river known by this name in the time of Elisha is a branch of the Barrady, 2 Kings v, 12.

Φαυνη, meaning of this word according to Wetstein, Luke ii, 7.

Φελωνης, rendered cloak, probably means a bag or portmanteau, 2 Tim. iv, 13.

Phetirath Mosheh, substance of a very ridiculous legend in the, relative to the dispute of Michael and the devil concerning the great Jewish lawgiver, Preface to Jude, pp. vi, vii.

Philadelphia, a city of Natolia, now called Alah-sheker, Rev. i, 11.

Philemon, Epistle to, reason which moved the apostle to write this letter, Preface to Philemon, pp. i, ii. General observations on the great excellencies of this Epistle, Philem. in fine.

Philip the apostle, some account of, John i, 43.

Philippi, a town of Macedonia, remarkable for two great battles, Acts xvi, 12. Preface to Philippians, p. i.

Philippians, Epistle to the, when it was written, Preface to the Epistle, p. ii. Style of the Epistle, ibid.

Philo, bishop of the Carpathians, author of a comment on Solomon's Song, General Preface, p. vi.

Philo Judæus, account of this Jewish commentator, General Preface, p. ii.

Philosopher, anecdote of a, who walked through the streets of Athens with a lighted lamp in his hand, Jer. v, 1. Remarkable saying of a philosopher when at sea in a violent storm, Jonah i, 7.

Φιλοσοφος, probable origin of this word, Genesis xli, 8. Eph. v, 15.

Philoxenian Version, some account of this translation of the New Testament into the Syriac tongue, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xx.

Phlegon, citation from this writer, in which it is thought there is an allusion to the preternatural darkness at the time of our Lord's crucifixion, Matt. xxvii, 45.

Phlegon, one of the horses of the sun, according to the Pagan mythology, what the name signifies, 2 Kings ii, 11.

Phoceans, remarkable imprecation of the, when resolved to leave their country and never to revisit it, Jer. li, 64.

Phocion, remarkable saying of the wife of this celebrated Athenian general on receiving a visit from a lady who was elegantly adorned with gold and jewels, and her hair with pearls, 1 Pet. iii, 4.

Phocylides, citation of a very remarkable passage from this poet, Jer. ix, 24.

Phœnicians and Canaanites, these names frequently confounded in the Septuagint, Matt. xv, 22.

Phosphorescence of the sea in certain states of the weather, Job xli, 32.

Phrygians, Bochart's conjecture concerning their origin, Gen. x, 2.

Φυσει, rendered by nature, according to Suicer frequently imports certainly, truly, Rom. ii, 16. It also frequently signifies the natural birth, family, or nation, of a man, a sense of the word illustrated by citations from Josephus, Chrysostom, and others, Gal. ii, 15. Dr. Macknight's observations on the various acceptations of this word, Eph. ii, 3.

Phut, a people of Africa, Ezek. xvii, 10.

Phylacteries, particular account of the, Exod. xiii, 9. Matt. xxiii, 5. Description of one in the Author's possession, ibid.

Physiognomist, remarkable anecdote of a, 1 John iii, 9.

Pibeseth, probably the same with Bubastum, or Bubaste, Ezek. xxx, 17.

Pihahiroth, the third station of the Israelites in the wilderness, what supposed to be its present appellation, Numb. xxxiii, 7.

Pikudim, פקדים, its derivation and import, Lev. xxvi, 15.

Pilgash, פלגש, rendered concubine, inquiry into its import, Gen. xxii, 24; xxxiv, 31.

Pilgrim, a word of French or Latin origin, Gen. xlvii, 9.

Pilkington's reasons for the supposition that from the 12th to the 31st verse of the First Book of Samuel is an interpolation of some Rabbin, 1 Sam. xvii, in fine.

Pillar and ground of the truth, variety of opinions relative to the import of this apostolical expression, 2 Tim. iii, 15.

Pillar of a cloud in the wilderness, observations concerning the, Exod. xiii, 21; xiv, 20.

Pillar of Salt, into which Lot's wife was changed, various opinions and legends concerning the, Gen. xix, 26.

Pillars of Heaven, what intended by this strongly figurative expression, Job xxvi, 11.

Pillars of the World, men of great eminence and importance were so named among the Jews, Gal. ii, 9.

Πιναχιδιον, meaning of this word illustrated by a passage from Shaw's Travels, Luke i, 63.

Pindar's elegant ridicule of the work of the statuary, when set in competition with his own poetry, Isa. xlvi, 3.

Pinna Magna, a species of muscle found on the shores of the Mediterranean, 1 Chron. xv, 27. Prov. xxxi, 22. Description of a pair of gloves which the Author has seen made of this very rich stuff, ibid.

Pipes anciently used by the Jews in times of calamity, Matt. ix, 32.

Πιπτω, quotations from Homer in which this word imports to be slain, Rom. xi, 12.

Pipublasara of the Islandic, who, Matt. ix, 32.

Piscator, (John) author of a comment on the whole Scriptures. General Preface, p. vii.

Pisidia, situation of this province of Asia Minor, Acts xiii, 14. Four languages anciently spoken in this district according to Strabo, viz. the Pisidian, the Solyman, the Greek, and the Lydian, Acts xiv, 15.

Pitcher broken at the fountain, what meant by this phrase, Eccles. xii, 6.

Pitfall, or Fovea, among the ancients, what, Psa. vii, 15; lvii, 6. Isa. xxiv, 17, 18. Ezek. xix, 4.

Plagues of Egypt, times of their happening, according to Archbishop Ussher, Exod. vii, 17. Critical observations on these Divine judgments, Exod. vii, et seq. Seven of these plagues more largely described in the Samaritan copies than in the Hebrew, Exod. xi, in fine. Translation of the eleventh chapter of Exodus from the Samaritan text ranged in collateral columns with that in our common Version, to shew the great additions in the former, ibid. General observations on the ten plagues of Egypt, Exod. xii, in fine.

Plaiting the Hair, observations on the manner of, among the ancients, 1 Pet. iii, 3.

Plane-tree, conjectures why this tree was so named, Gen. xxv, 37.

Planets, Primary and Secondary, Tables of their revolutions, distances, &c, Gen. i, 1. To prevent mistake, it will be proper to observe that the least and greatest distances of the planets and satellites from the earth, contained in these Tables, are their perigeal and apogeal distances when the radii vectores of the planets are equal to the semimajor axes of their orbits, the earth being in every case assumed to be at its mean distance from the sun. But, on account of the eccentricities of the planetary orbits, the distances of the planets from the earth, when in perigee and apogee, are very variable. The nearest possible approaches of the inferior planets Mercury and Venus to the earth, (viz. when the inferior conjunction of each takes place in the higher apsis,) are, respectively, 52,376,602 and 27,339,176 English miles. The greatest possible distances of these planets from the earth, (viz. when the superior conjunction of each is made in the aphelion,) are, respectively, 138,620,495 and 163,667,549 English miles. The perigeal distances of Mars, Jupiter, Saturn, and Herschel, (when the opposition of each to the Sun takes place in the lower apsis or perihelion,) are, respectively, 35,357,826, 376,944,330, 766,223,200, and 1,642,663,450 English miles. The greatest possible apogeal distances of these planets, (viz. when the conjunction of each with the Sun is in the higher apsis,) are, respectively, 255,709,508, 616,586,248, 1,056,059,684, and 2,002,487,006 English miles. In these calculations the eccentricities of the orbits of the planets, in English miles, have been assumed as follows:—that of Mercury 7,598,601, Venus 471,320, the Earth 1,604,800, Mars 13,665,466, Jupiter 24,346,964, Saturn 50,988,386, and Herschel, 85,035,892.

Plant of renown, observations on the Hebrew words thus rendered, Ezek. xxxiv, 29.

Platforms common on the houses of the East, Judg. iii, 20.

Platina, the heaviest of all the metals, 1 Pet. i, in fine. But recently known to Europeans, ibid. Its specific gravity, ibid.

Plato, Republic of, thoughts concerning the, Deut. xxxiv, in fine.

Plautus, citation from, very similar to a saying of our Lord, Luke xii, 34.

Pleasure-takers and Voluptuaries, saying of Seneca respecting, 1 Tim. i, 6.

Pledge of the Beard, in the East, the most secure of all pledges, which the owner will redeem at the hazard of his life, 2 Sam. x, 4.

Pleiades, Hebrew word so translated of very uncertain import, Job ix, 9; xxxviii, 31.

Πλησιον, its meaning among the Hellenistic Jews, Matt. v, 43. Luke x, 29.

Pliny, Epistle of, to his friend Sabinianus, in behalf of his manumitted slave who had offended him, Philem. in fine. Pliny's second letter to Sabinianus in which he expresses his obligation for the successful issue of the preceding, ibid.

Plowing the foundations of cities, a custom among ancient conquerors to signify an irreparable and total destruction, Mic. iii, 12.

Plowing with one's heifer, or Plowing in another man's ground, what meant by this phrase among the ancient Jews, Greeks, and Romans, Judg. xiv, 18.

Plowing iniquity and reaping the same, a proverbial mode of expression illustrated by quotations from sacred and profane writers, Job iv, 8.

Plutarch's account of a man who, aiming a blow at his enemy's life, cut open an imposthume, which, by a salutary discharge, saved his life, Prov. xxvii, 5. Remarkable passage in the Conjugalia Præcepta of Plutarch very similar to a saying of St. Peter, 1 Pet. iii, 3.

Πνεω, a frequent acceptation of this word in classical writers, Acts ix, 1.

Πνευμα, in what this word differs in import from ψυχη, 1 Thess. v, 23.

Poetic compositions, titles of, among the Asiatics, frequently bore no resemblance to the subjects, Psa. xxii, in principio. Many examples produced, ibid.

Poetry, in use among all nations from the remotest antiquity, Exod. xv, 1. Its advantages pointed out, ibid. Deut. xxxi, 19. Character of the Hebrew poetry; and its great superiority, in many respects, over that of any other nation, Isa. ii, 13—16.

Poison, Trial by, a species of ordeal among the Hindoos, Numb. v, in fine.

Poison of serpents supposed by the ancients to consist in their gall, which is thought to be copiously exuded when these animals are enraged, Job xx, 16.

Πολιτευμα, rendered conversation, properly signifies citizenship, or civil rights, Phil. iii, 20.

Πολυμαος, an epithet of the Ephesian Diana, Acts xix, 27.

Polygamy tolerated under the Mosaic dispensation, 2 Sam. v, 13. Shewn to be unnatural, and what could not have entered into the original design of God, ibid. Mal. ii, 14, 15.

Polytheism, in some of its branches so utterly contemptible, that it became an object of ridicule among the more serious heathens, Psa. cxv, 4. Quotation of a remarkable passage from Juvenal to this effect, ibid.

Pompey, how he was enabled to take Jerusalem, Matt. xii, 2.

Pontius Pilate, Roman governor of Judea in the reign of Tiberius, Matt. xxvii, 2. Deposed by the emperor on account of his great cruelties to the Samaritans, and banished to Vienne in Dauphiny, ibid. His tragical end, ibid.

Pontus, formerly a very powerful kingdom of Asia, Acts ii, 9. Its boundaries, ibid.

Poole, (Matthew,) account of this commentator, General Preface, pp. x, xvi.

Pools, Maundrell's description of the supposed remains of those made by Solomon for the reception and preservation of the waters of a spring, Isa. i, 30.

Popilius, remarkable anecdote concerning this Roman legate, Dan. xi, 30.

Popish Bishops, remarkable saying of the, in the time of Mary I, queen of England, respecting the then recent art of printing, Acts v, 40.

Poplitcal Artery, great weight raised by the action of the, Heb. xi, in fine.

Popular Fame, remarkable example of the great fickleness of, Acts xiv, 19.

Porch, or Portico, of Solomon, account and dimensions of the, John x, 23.

Porte, The, why the Ottoman Court was probably so named, Isa. xxix, 21.

Portents, Fearful, see Fearful Portents.

Postdiluvian Patriarchs, Table of the great discrepancies in the Hebrew, Samaritan, and Septuagint copies, with respect to the times they are stated to have lived before their sons' births, Gen. v, 3.

Potter's wheel, description of the, Jer. xviii, 3.

Pound, great impropriety of thus rendering the original word, pointed out, Luke xix, 13.

Power, Might, and Energy, in what these words differ in import, Eph. i, 19.

Præfect, or overseer, of the mountain of the Temple, plain allusion to the office of the, Rev. xvi, 15.

Præster, terrible effects of the bite of the, as described by Lucan, Numb. xxi, 6.

Prætorium, a place of judicature among the Romans, why so named, Matt. xxvii, 27. John xviii, 28.

Praise, ascription of seven species of, to the Lamb, a Rabbinism, Rev. v, 12. This illustrated by a remarkable passage in the Sepher Rasiel, ibid. Seven kinds of praise ascribed to God, which are nearly the same with those ascribed to the Lamb, and a very illustrious proof of the essential Divinity of Jesus Christ, Rev. v, 12; vii, 12.

Prayer, observations on, Psa. lxxxviii, 2. Matt. vi, 5; vii, 8; ix, 18; xiv, 23; xv, 22; xviii, 19; xx, 33. John xi, 5; xii, 32. Acts i, 14; iv, 31; x, 2. Rom. viii, 27. 1 Tim. ii, 8. Heb. x, 19. Citation of a very remarkable passage from the Iliad upon this subject, Psa. lxxxviii, 2. Jewish superstition relative to the place or places where prayer could be legally offered, 1 Tim. ii, 8. In what light prayer to God is viewed by the Mohammedans, Matt. vi, 16. Distinction between prayer and supplication, Acts i, 14.

Prayer for all secular governors, the constant practice of Christians, 1 Tim. ii, 2. Sayings of Cyprian, Tertullian, and Origen, on this subject, ibid.

Prayers, Hours of, among the Jews, Acts iii, 1. By whom appointed, in the opinion of the Rabbins, ibid.

Prayers to Angels and departed Saints, examination of a passage in the Psalms which the Romanists allege in favour of, Psa. cxxxviii, 1.

Preaching from a Text, probable origin of, Neh. viii, in fine.

Precession of the Equinoxes, quantity of the, in 4138 years, Job ix, in fine. The precession caused by a very slow revolution of the celestial poles around the poles of the ecliptic, Psa. xix, 5. See Equinoctial Points, Precession of the.

Precipitation, Fable of the fatal effects of, from the Ayar Danush of Abul Fuzl, 1 Sam. xiv, in fine.

Predestination, Unconditional, to eternal life and to eternal death cannot be supported by the example of God's dealings with Jacob and Esau, or their posterity, Gen. xxv, 23; xxvii, 28—40, et in fine; xxix, 31. Mal. i, 3. Matt. vi, 24. Rom. ix, 12, &c, et in fine. Heb. xii, 17. See also upon the doctrine of unconditional predestination, Acts xiii, 48. Rom. viii, in fine. 2 Cor. ii, 16. Eph. i, 5. 1 Thess. i, 4. Heb. iv, 6. 1 Pet. i, 2. 1 John ii, 2.

Preference given to one thing beyond another usually expressed in the Sacred Canon by an affirmation of that which is preferred, and a negation of that which is contrary to it, 1 Cor. i, 17. An example produced, ibid.

Preparation for the Sabbath, when it commenced, John xix, 31.

Presbyters, or Elders, of the primitive Christian church, who, Acts xx, 17. The επισκοποι, or bishops, anciently selected from the presbyters, ibid.

Presbytery, Πρεσβυτεριον, all who held offices in the Christian church at Lystra collectively so named, 1 Tim. v, 17.

Presents to the great indispensible in eastern countries, Isa. lvii, 9. When accepted by the superior, a certain pledge of favour, Gen. xxxiii, 10. Offered with very great ceremony, Judg. iii, 18. Numerous examples in Homer and other ancient writers of presents of arms and clothing made by warriors to each other in token of friendship, 1 Sam. xviii, 4.

Presumption, observations on this vice, Matt. xxvi, 33.

Presumption on a precarious life, curious Rabbinical relation in which this is very strongly reproved, James iv, 13. Another anecdote to the same effect from the Gulistan of Saady, James iv, in fine.

Prevent, acceptation of this term among our English ancestors, Psa. xxi, 3. Whence derived, ibid.

Prices of labour, provisions, and clothing, in this country in the fourteenth century, Matt. xx, 2.

Pride ever makes its possessor unhappy, Esth. v, 13. Examples produced, ibid. Nothing more hateful in the sight of God, Matt. xxiii. 12.

Prideaux's account of the monies of different nations, Exod. xxxix, 24.

Priest, derivation and original acceptation of this term, Acts xx, 17.

Priesthood, Jewish and Pagan, none eligible to the, that had any sort of blemish, Lev. xxi, 17—21.

Priestley, (Rev. Dr.) author of a useful commentary on the Scriptures, General Preface, p. xiii. His observations on the genuineness of the Apocalypse, Rev. xxii, in fine.

Priests, customary among the Jewish, according to the Talmud, to divide the different functions of the sacerdotal office by lot, Luke i, 9.

Primasius of Utica, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. vi.

Primitive Fathers, alphabetical list of the, referred to in the various readings quoted occasionally in these Notes, with the times in which they were born, flourished, or died, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. xxi—xxiii.

Primogeniture, rights generally supposed to have been attached to, in ancient times, Gen. xxv, 31. Heb. xiii, 16.

Principes, who, among the Romans, Matt. viii, 9.

Principles which the Author of this Commentary, on carefully reading and studying the Sacred Writings, finds unequivocally revealed there, Conclusion of the Notes on the New Testament.

Prisoners of the earth, Dr. Blayney's observations on the import of this phrase, Lam. iii, 34.

Privy Seal of many of our sovereigns appears to have been inserted in their rings, Esth. iii, 9.

Probation, nature of a state of, defined, Numb. v, 4.

Proclamation of T. Quintius, declaring freedom to the Grecian cities, and the effect it had upon the inhabitants, as related by Livy, Psa. cxxvi, 1.

Prodigal Son, Quesnel's reflections on the parable of the, Luke xv, in fine.

Προδρομος occurs only once in the New Testament, Heb. vi, 20. Its import, ibid.

Profane, whence derived, 1 Tim. i, 9. Heb. xii, 16.

Projectile Forces of the planets, satellites, and comets, what, Heb. xi, in fine. The harmonious adjustment of the projectile force of a planet to its gravitation, or the sun's attraction; or, in other words, the balancing of the centrifugal and centripetal forces in such a manner as to cause the planet to describe an ellipse little differing from a circle; a very strong evidence of the being of a God, ibid. Quantities of projectile force necessary to be impressed on a planet, or other celestial body, to cause it to move in a circle, ellipsis, parabola, and hyperbola, ibid.

Prophecies of Enoch, this work a most manifest forgery, Preface to Jude, p. viii. See also Jude 14.

Prophecies of Jeremiah, Ezekiel, and Daniel, chronological arrangement of the, see Chronological Tables.

Prophecy of Isaiah against Babylon, one of the most beautiful examples that can be given of elegance of composition, variety of imagery, and sublimity of sentiment and diction, Isa. xiii, in principio.

Prophecy concerning Nineveh, related by Diodorus Siculus, Nah. ii, 6.

Prophet, what this word imports in different parts of the Sacred Oracles, Gen. xx, 7. 1 Sam. x, 5. 1 Kings xviii, 29. 1 Chron. xxv, 1, 2. Matt. x, 41. Luke i, 67; ii, 36. Rom. xii, 6. Celebrated prediction of Moses of a Prophet like unto himself, Deut. xviii, 15—19. Many reasons advanced to shew that this prophecy was fulfilled in Jesus the Christ, Deut. xviii, in fine; xxxiv, 10.

Προφητεια, Prophecy, apostolic definition of this Greek word, 1 Cor. xiv, 3.

Prophetic Song of Isaiah upon the overthrow of Babylon, see Ode.

Prophetical Symbols, explanation of the, Introduction to Isaiah, pp. vii—xi.

Prophets probably employed by the kings under whom they lived to compile the annals of their reigns, Preface to the two Books of Chronicles, p. ii. Succession of prophets in the Jewish church, Introduction to Isaiah, pp. ii—iv. Chronological arrangement of the major and minor prophets, ibid, pp. iv, v. Dr. Smith's summary view and explanation of the writings of the prophets, ibid. pp. v—xii. Manner in which the prophets were generally clad, ibid. p. xii.

Proprætor and Proconsul, distinction between the, Acts xiii, 7.

Propter Viam, a Heathen sacrifice, in what it consisted, and whence probably derived, Exod. xii, 10.

Προσαγορευομαι synonymous with αρπαζομαι, according to Hesychius, Heb. v, 9.

Proselyte, derivation and import of the word, Exod. xii, 43. Distinction between proselytes of the gate and proselytes of justice or of the covenant, ibid.

Proselytism, four conditions of, among the ancient Jews, Mark viii, 34.

Proseucha, among the Jews, what, Acts xvi, 13; xvii, 1; xxi, 5.

Προσευχη, derivation and import of this word, Matt. vi, 5. In what it differs from δεησις, Acts i, 14. Eph. vi, 18.

Προσευχη τε Θεε, the import of this phrase illustrated by numerous citations from sacred and profane writers, Luke vi, 12.

Prosopopœia, a figure of rhetoric very frequent in Scripture, Gen. l, 25. Lev. xviii, 25. Isa. xiii, in principio. Jer. ii, 33; ix, 17. Lam. i, 4. Hos. ii, 22. Zech. xiii, 7.

Prosperity and Adversity shewn to be no marks either of the Divine approbation or disapprobation, Job ix, 24; xlii, in fine.

Prostaphæresis Orbis of Ptolemy, what, James i, in fine.

Prostration on a religious account, and before great men, how performed in Hindostan, Matt. ii, 2. Prostrations to superiors common in all Asiatic countries, Acts x, 25. Rev. xix, 10. Reason why the act of prostration was refused by the angel of the Apocalypse, Rev. xix, 10; xxii, 8.

Πρωτος, Chief, the title of the Roman governor of the ancient Maltese, Acts xxviii, 7.

Proverb, its derivation and import, Introduction to Proverbs, p. ii. A collection of Asiatic proverbs extracted from Galand's Maximes des Orientaux, Prov. xxxi, in fine.

Providence, General and Particular, doctrine of, Esth. iv, 14. Psa. xcvii, 1. Matt. x, 29, 30. John iv, in fine. A popular saying of one of our best poets upon this subject shewn to be a direct contradiction to the words of our Saviour, Matt. x, 30. Observations on the œconomy of Divine providence, Acts x, 17; xiv, 17; xxiii, in fine; xxvii, 31.

Providentia, Cicero's definition of this Latin word, Psa. xcvii, 1.

Prudence, definition of, by Sir William Temple, Eph. i, 8.

Prutah, the smallest coin among the Jews, Matt. v, 26. Mark xii, 42. Its weight, Matt. v, 26.

Psalms, Book of, why called by the Hebrews ספר תהלים, Sepher Tehillim, Introduction to the Psalms, p. i. General division of this Book, ibid. pp. i, ii. Table of the differences in dividing the Psalms between the Hebrew text and the ancient Versions, ibid. p. ii. Compilation of the Book, and the authors to whom the Psalms have been attributed, ibid., pp. ii, iii, iv. Classification of the Psalms as they stand in our common Version, ibid. pp. iv, v. Chronological arrangement of the Book of Psalms, ibid. pp. v—ix. Psalms which contain no note or indication of the time when written, ibid. p. v. Psalms composed by David while persecuted by Saul, ibid. pp. v, vi.

Psalms composed after the commencement of the reign of David, and after the death of Saul, ibid, p. vi. Psalms composed during the rebellion of Absalom, ibid. Psalms written between the rebellion of Absalom and the Babylonish captivity, ibid, p. vii. Psalms composed during the captivity, ibid, pp. vii, viii. Psalms written after the Jews were permitted by the edict of Cyrus to return to their own land, ibid, pp. viii, ix. General observations on the great difference of character between the Hebrew poets and those of Greece and Italy, ibid. pp. x, xi. Manner in which several of the Psalms appear to have been composed, ibid, pp, xi—xiii. On the use made of the Psalms in the New Testament, ibid, pp. xiii—xv. On the subject-matter of the Psalms, and the method of applying them, ibid, pp. xv, xvi. On the particular subject and use of each Psalm, ibid, pp, xvi, xvii. General use of the Psalms in the Christian church, ibid, pp, xvii, —xx. Observations on the metrical Version of the Psalms by Sternhold and Hopkins, and on that by Dr. Brady and Nahum Tate, ibid. pp. xviii, xix. Reasons for the great discrepancies between the Psalms in the Prayer Book, called The Reading Psalms, and those in our Authorized Version, ibid, p. xix. Anglo-Saxon Version of the one hundred and fourteenth Psalm, with a literal reading, line for line, as near to the the Saxon as possible, to shew the affinity of the languages, Psa. cxiv, in fine. Psalms which constitute the Great Hallel, Psa. cxii, in principio.

Psalter, why the Book of Psalms is so named, Introduction to the Psalms, p. i.

Psaltery of ten strings, singular reason given by Eusebius why this instrument was used by David in celebrating the praises of God, Psa. xcii, 3.

Φηλαφωμενον ορος, import of this phrase, Heb. xii, 18.

Ψηφος λευκη, and ψηφος μελαινη, of the ancients, what, Rev. ii, 17.

Ψυχη, in what this word differs in import from πνευμα, 1 Thess. v, 23.

Psylli, a people of Libya, whose peculiar property, according to Lucan was to be unhurt by the bite of serpents, Isa. xxviii, 15.

Ptolemais, a seaport of Galilee, Acts xxi, 7. Its ancient appellation, ibid.

Πτωχος, derivation of this word, Matt. v, 3.

Public Worship, times of among the Turks, proclaimed from the housetops, Matt. x, 27. Observations on the great importance of a strict attendance to public worship among Christians, Luke iv, 16. John xx, 24. Heb. x, in fine.

Publicans, who, among the Jews, Matt. v, 46. Their character, ibid. Remarkable saying of Theocritus respecting these Roman officers, ibid.

Pudding, description of this large collar of iron fastened to the feet of slaves, Job xiii, 27.

Puffendorf's excellent remarks concerning the manner of the king which God directed Samuel to shew to the Israelites, 1 Sam. viii, 9.

Pulsation of the heart, natural cause of the, unknown, Heb. xi, in fine.

Punctures indelibly made on different parts of the body both by ancients and moderns, Isa. xliv, 5; xlix, 16.

Punic Language, remarkable specimen of the, as copied from a square stone discovered in Malta in the last century; with Sir W. Drummond's translation, Acts xxviii, 1.

Punon, the thirty-fifth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, where situated, Numb. xxxiii, 42.

Pupil of the eye described, Eccles. xii, 3. Why so named, ibid.

Purgare, a peculiar meaning of this word in Horace, John xv, 2.

Purgation of the Temple by our Lord, whether performed once or twice, John ii, 14.

Purgatory, doctrine of, in the Romish church, whence it originated, Matt. iii, 11. Inquiry into the import of a saying of St. Paul, which the Romanists have applied to the fire of purgatory, 1 Cor. iii, 15.

Purim, or Feast of Lots, for what purpose instituted, Exod. xxiii, 14. Esth. ix, 26. Manner in which the Jews at present celebrate this festival, Esth. x, in fine. Part of the ceremony performed by the ancient Jews ordered to be discontinued by the emperors Theodosius and Justinian, and why, Esth. v, in fine; x, in fine.

Πυρουσθαι, import of this word illustrated by a curious story from the Rabbinical tract Kiddushin, 1 Cor. vii, 9.

Purple Island, citation of a very remarkable passage from this poem of Phineas Fletcher respecting the conversion of a soul to God, John viii, 12.

Purpura, a kind of shell-fish from which the famous Tyrian purple is supposed to have been obtained, Exod. xxv, 4. Prov. xxxi, 22.

Purver, (Anthony,) Author of an English translation of the whole Scriptures, with critical Notes, General Preface, p. xi.

Pushtoo, the language of the Afghans, has a manifest resemblance to the Chaldaic, 2 Kings xvii, 6.

Puteoli, a town of Naples, now called Pozzuoli, Acts xxviii, 13. Two etymologies of its name given by Varro, ibid. Famous for the temple of Jupiter Serapis, and for the remains of Cicero's villa, ibid. Present condition of Puteoli, ibid.

Πυθαγορειοι, Pythagoreans, in what they differed from Πυθαγορισαι, Pythagorists, Acts vi, 1.

Pyramids of Egypt, conjecture respecting their origin, Exod. i, 11. Pliny's account of the time taken up in the erection of one of the pyramids, and the number of men employed. 1 Kings vi, in fine.

Pyroeis, one of the horses of the sun, according to the Pagan mythology, signification of the name, 2 Kings ii, 11.

Pythagoreans accustomed to calm their minds, and soothe their passions, by singing, and playing upon the harp, 2 Kings iii, 15.

Pythian Games, crown worn by the victor in the, made of laurel, 1 Cor. ix, 25.

Pythias the Lydian, immense wealth of this individual, according to Herodotus, Esth. iii, 9.
Pythias, why this epithet was given to Apollo, Acts xvi, 16.
Pytho, in the Heathen mythology, what, Acts xvi, 16.

Q

Quadragesima, different opinions concerning the meaning of this word, Matt. ix, 15.
Quadrans, the fourth part of the Roman as, Luke xxi, 2. In Plutarch's time the smallest piece of brass coin in use among the Romans, ibid.
Quadratus, a Christian apologist of the second century, 2 Tim. iv, in fine.
Quails, Hasselquist's account of flocks of these birds which he saw in Egypt, Numb. xi, 31. Allusion, in the Book of Job, to the quails which God showered down upon the murmuring Israelites pointed out, Job xx, 23, &c. The quail considered by the ancient Egyptians an emblem of safety and security, Exod. xvi, 13.
Quaker, thoughts concerning the affirmation of a, in a court of judicature, Deut. vi, in fine. 2 Cor. i, in fine.
Quarles' homely rhymes on the wife's usurpation of the authority of her husband, Eph. v, 22.
Queen of Sheba, or Queen of the south, who was contemporary with Solomon, called Balkis by the Arabians, and Maqueda by the Abyssinians, 1 Kings x, 1.
Quenching the light of Israel, what intended by this phrase, 2 Sam. xiv, 7; xxi, 17.
Querns, among our Saxon ancestors, what, Judg. xvi, 21.
Quesnel, remarks upon his Moral Reflections on the New Testament, General Preface, p. vii.
Quick, derivation and import of this old English word, Acts x, 42.
Quintius, (T.,) proclamation by this Roman general of freedom to the Grecian cities at the time of the Isthmian games; and the extraordinary effect the words of the herald had on the inhabitants, as related by Livy, Psa. cxxvi, 1.
Quotations, how made in the New Testament from the Old, according to Surenhusius, Gusset, Wolf, Rosenmüller, and others, Matt. ii, 23.

R

Rabanus Maurus, account of this very voluminous commentator, General Preface, p. v.
Rabbi, a title of dignity among the Jews, Matt. xxiii, 7. In what it differs from Rabh, and Rabban, ibid.
Rabbinoo Isaiah, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. iii.
Rabdomancy, explanation of this species of divination, Hos. iv, 12.
Rabsaris, the name of an office, and not of a person, according to Calmet, 2 Kings xviii, 17.
Rabshakeh, the name of an office, and not of a person, according to Calmet, 2 Kings xviii, 17.
Raca, its derivation and import, Matt. v, 22. Citations from Rabbinical writers to shew how this word was used by the ancient Jews, Matt. v, in fine.
Raging waves of the sea, foaming out their own shame, explanation of this very elegant metaphor, Jude 13.
Rahab, generally called the harlot, inquiry into her character, and reasons advanced to shew that the original word translated harlot, should rather be rendered a tavernkeeper, Josh. ii, 1.
Rahab, the angel of the sea, according to the Rabbins, Rev. xvi, 5.
Raiment shaking of the, what it imported among the ancient Jews, Neh. v, 13. Matt. x, 14. Acts xviii, 6.
Rain, how produced, Gen. ii, 6. Exod. ix, 27. Job xxxvi, 27. Eccles. i, 7. Rain, according to St. Jerom, never falls in Judea in the time of harvest, 1 Sam. xii, 17. Times of the former and latter rain, Jer. iii, 3; v, 24. Luke iv, 26.
Rainbow, origin and nature of the, Gen. ix, 13. Reasons for believing that this phænomenon was of as frequent occurrence before as after the flood, ibid. Quotations from Homer and Virgil to shew that both the Greeks and Romans considered the rainbow as a Divine token or portent, Genesis ix, 17.
Rakesh, רקש, rendered dromedaries, probably means post-horse, 1 Kings iv, 28.
Rakiâ, רקיע, translated firmament, proper meaning of the term, Gen. i, 6. The second heaven, according to the Rabbins, 2 Cor. xii, 2. The lowest of the three heavens that can be legitimately deduced from the Sacred Records, ibid.
Ram, a sacred animal among the Egyptians, Exod. viii, 26. Eusebius's reason for this, ibid. Rams with red or violet-coloured fleeces often mentioned by ancient writers, Exod. xxv, 5.
Ramayuna, account of this sacred book of the Hindoos, Rom. ix, in fine.
Rameses, the same with Goshen, Gen. xlvi, 28, 34; xlvii, 23.
Ramoth, one of the cities of refuge, import of the name, Josh. xx, 7.
Rangers for pots, description of an Arabian custom to which this expression has an allusion, Lev. xi, 35.
Rape of the Sabine women, substance of Livy's account of the, Judg. xxi, in fine.
Raphael's cartoon of Paul preaching at Athens, particular description of, by Mr. Thomas Holloway, Acts xvii, in fine.
Raphelius, (G.) an eminent biblical critic, General Preface, p. xvi.
Rash judgments doubly pernicious, 2 Sam. vi, 22.
Rashim, ראשים, a degree of civil distinction among the Hebrews, Josh. xxiii, 2.
Ravens, arguments to shew that Elijah was not fed by these animals as stated in our English Version, but that the Hebrew word ערבים, orbim, is probably the name of a people that lived in or near Arabia, 1 Kings xvii, in fine.

Reapers, an appellation given by the Jews to their Rabbins, Matt. ix, 37.

Rebellion against the state, act of, defined, Judg. iii, in fine. Ezra iv, 19.

Rechabites, short sketch of their history, Jer. xxxv, 2.

Receipt of custom, the place where the taxes levied by the Romans of the Jews were collected, Matt. ix, 9.

Reconciliation, apostolic doctrine of, John xx, 23.

Red Heifer, remarks upon several curious particulars respecting the ordinance of the, Numb. xix, 2.

Red Sea, conjecture why so named, Exod. x, 19. Numbers xxxiii, 10. Description of its two gulfs, ibid. Observations upon the miraculous separation of its waters in the time of Moses, Exod. xiv, 21, et in fine. The sixth station of the Israelites in the wilderness was in the vicinity of this sea, Numb. xxxiii, 10. Manifest allusion, in the Book of Job, to the miraculous passage of the Israelites through the Red sea, Job xxvi, 12.

Redeemer of Blood, who, among the Jews, Numb. xxxv, 19.

Redemption of the Firstborn, a rite still practised among the Jews, Numb. xviii, 16. How performed, according to Leo of Modena, ibid.

Refraction, observations on the nature of, 2 Kings xx, in fine. Extraordinary refraction of the rays of light in Nova Zembla in the year 1596, ibid.

Regular Clergy, astonishing influence of this branch of the Papal hierarchy in the dark ages, Rev. xiii, 12.

Rehoboam, Houbigant's conjecture relative to the age of this prince at the commencement of his reign over Judah, 2 Chron. xii, 13.

Relics, Romish doctrine concerning, Acts v, 15.

Religion, definition of, by Cicero and Lactantius, James i, 27. Distinction between religion and superstition, ibid. Religion in its pure state the strongest bulwark of the state, 1 Chron. xxvi, in fine. Definition of true religion, Gen. ix, 20. Prov. i, 7. James i, 27.

Religious Persecution, very sensible observations of Dr. Dodd on the absurdity and wickedness of, Luke xiv, in fine.

Remes, רמש, translated creeping thing, inquiry into its import, Gen. i, 24.

Remigius of Auxerre, a commentator on the Twelve Minor Prophets, General Preface, p. vi.

Remphan, or Rephan, conjectures concerning this ancient object of idolatry, Acts vii, 43.

Rending the Clothes, a mark of deep affliction and distress among the ancients, Josh. vii, 6. 1 Sam. iv, 12. Ezra ix, 3. Job i, 20; ii, 12. Jer. xvi, 6.

Reominatus, derivation and import of this Latin term, Gen. vi, 4.

Rents of a farm, payment of the, in kind, an ancient custom in most nations, and still prevailing in the Highlands of Scotland, and in some other places, Matt. xxi, 34.

Repentance, Genuine, what essential to, Matt. iii, 6.

Repetitions in civil and religious supplications common among the ancient Greeks and Romans, and even among the primitive Christians, Matt. vi, 7. The Mohammedans also remarkable for vain repetitions, of which an example is produced, ibid. Citation from the Heautontimorumenos of Terence in which this Heathen practice is very strongly ridiculed, ibid.

Rephaim, Valley of, celebrated for its plentiful harvest, Isa. xvii, 5. Used poetically for any fruitful country, ibid.

Rephidim, the tenth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 14.

Represent, or signify, this expressed in the Hebrew, Chaldee, and Chaldæo-Syriac languages by the substantive verb, Matt. xxvi, 26.

Reprobation, Unconditional, doctrine of, demonstrated to be a lie against all the attributes of Deity, Psa. cxlv, 9. Jer. xviii, 6. Matt. vii, 11; xxii, 12. John x, 27; xi, 33; xii, 39. 2 Cor. ii, 16; xiii, 5. 1 Pet. iii, 15. 2 Pet. iii, 9.

Reshith Chocmah, citation of a passage from this Treatise very similar to our Lord's parable of the ten virgins, Matt. xxv, 1.

Resipiscentia, why repentance was so named by the Romans, Matt. iii, 2.

Respect of persons, good Rabbinical saying concerning, Eph. vi, 9.

Responsive Songs frequent among the ancient Jews, Isa. vi, 3; xxvii, 2; xl, 9.

Restitution, doctrine of, stated, Gen. xlii, in fine.

Restitution of all things, inquiry into the import of this phrase as employed by St. Peter, Acts iii, 21. This phrase, as used by our Lord, gives not the least countenance to the doctrine entertained by some that the punishment of the wicked in a future state of existence shall be of a limited duration, Matt. xvii, 11.

Resurrection of the Dead, doctrine of the, a popular and common doctrine among the Jews long before the advent of our Lord, Isa. xxvi, 19; xlv, 8. Matt. xiv, 2. Luke xx, 38, et in fine. John xi, 34. 2 Tim. i, 10. Analysis of St. Paul's argument relative to the doctrine of a general resurrection, 1 Cor. xv, in principio.

Retiarius, among the Romans, who, Job xix, 6. Mic. vii, 2.

Reuben, import of the name, Gen. xxix, 32.

Revelation, or Apocalypse, Dr. Lardner's inquiry into the authenticity of this book of the Sacred Canon, Introduction to the Revelation, pp. i, &c. Various opinions concerning the time in which it was written, ibid., p. v. Great uncertainty as to the writer of the Apocalypse; and the arguments of Dr. Lardner, who defends the generally received opinion of the church, not satisfactory, ibid., pp. v, vi. The very elevated style of this book, so totally dissimilar from that of St. John's accredited works, a sufficient demonstration that it is not the production of this apostle, unless we could suppose that the words as well as the matter were inspired, a point which we have not conceded in examining the claims to authenticity of any of the other books of Holy Writ, ibid., p. vi. But its want of authenticity of no consequence to the church provided its genuineness be admitted, Preface to the Revelation, p. ii. Different plans upon which the Revelation has been attempted to be explained, ibid., pp. i, ii. The scheme of Signor Pastorini, ibid., p. ii; of Wetstein, ibid., pp. iii—v; and of Protestants in general, ibid., pp. vi, vii. Eichorn's singular scheme, ibid., p. vii. Mr. Lowman's scheme and order of the Apocalyptic visions, Rev. xxii, in fine. Conjecture concerning the design of the Apocalypse, Preface to the Revelation, p. viii. Rabbinical character of its phraseology and imagery, Rev. iv, 8. Observation of Graserus on the insuperable difficulties which present themselves in this book of sacred hieroglyphics, a sentiment in which the Writer of this Commentary most heartily concurs, Preface to the Revelation, p. x. A most solemn and awful warning relative to the words of the prophecy of this book. If any man have an ear, let him hear, Rev. xxii, 18, 19.

Revelation of God, particular explanation of the various terms employed to point out different properties of the, Lev. xxvii, 15. Psa. cxix, in principio.

Reverend, and Most Reverend, observations on these ecclesiastical titles, Psa. cxi, 9.

Revolutions, periodic and sidereal, of the sun, moon, and planets, Gen. i, 1. Periodic and synodic revolutions of the satellites of Jupiter, Saturn, and the Georgium Sidus, ibid. Observations on Kepler's famous discovery that the mean distances of the planets from the Sun are in subsesquialteral geometrical proportion to their periodic revolutions, Heb. xi, in fine.

Rhegium, a city and promontory in Italy, now called Reggio, Acts xxviii, 13. Why so denominated, ibid.

Rhodes, an island of the Mediterranean, Acts xxi, 1.

Riblah, where this ancient city was situated, Jer. xxxix, 5.

Rice, method practised by the ancients of sowing this grain, Eccles. xi, 1. Isa. xxxii, 20.

Rice, Trial by, a species of ordeal among the Hindoos, Numb. v, in fine.

Rich Man, in the apostolic sense of the term, 1 Tim. vi, 9. Sense in which our Lord is to be understood when he asserted the extreme difficulty of a rich man's entering into the kingdom of Heaven, Matt. xix, 25.

Riches, instances of immense, possessed by some of the ancients, Esth. iii, 9.

Ricinus, or Palma Christi, account of the, as given by Celsus, Jonah iv, 6.

Ricknild or Icknild street, where situated, Job xxiii, 11.

Riddles or Enigmas, customary among the ancient Greeks to propose such at entertainments, and to give a recompence to those who found them out, Judg. xiv, 14. Examples of Greek enigmas, with their solutions, ibid. From what the English word riddle is derived, Ezek. xvii, 2.

Ridorus, (C. Cœcilius,) immense wealth of this individual, Esth. iii, 9.

Right hand consecrated by the ancients to Faith, Matt. xvii, 14. Metaphorical acceptation of this term among the Rabbins, Matt. xxv, 33. Giving the right hand to another formerly a mark of confidence, friendship, and fellowship, Gal. ii, 9. In eastern countries the highest favourite of the king sits on the right hand of the throne, Heb. i, 3.

Righteous and Righteousness, true etymology of these words, Psa. xii, 8. Their import, ibid.

Rights of God and Cæsar defined, Matt. xxii, 16—21.

Rimmon, a Syrian idol, possibly the same with the Remphan of the New Testament, 2 Kings v, 26. Supposed by Selden to be the same with Elion, a god of the Phœnicians, ibid. Other suppositions, ibid.

Rimmon-parez, the fifteenth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 19.

Ring of Saturn, its perigeal and apogeal distances, diameter, time of rotation, and inclination of axis to the orbit of the planet, Gen i, 1.

Rings of gold, ensigns of civil power among the ancients, Psa. lxxiii, 6.

Rissah, the seventeenth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 21.

Rithmah, the fourteenth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, where situated, and why so named, Numb. xxxiii, 18.

River of the Pool, see Pallacopas.

Robe of the Jewish highpriest, description of the, Exod. xxviii, 4, 31.

Rock in Horeb, some account of the, Exod. xvii, 6. Psa. cv, 41. Its present appearance, ibid.

Rock of a Sword, meaning of this phrase, Deut. viii, 8.

Rolls of the Jews, how made, and in what manner written upon, Jer. xxxvi, 2. Ezek. ii, 9, 10.

Roman armies, how anciently recruited, Matt. xx, 16.

Roman Calendar, observations on the progressive improvement of the, from the days of Romulus, about 730 years before Christ, to the present time, Rom. xvi, in fine.

Roman Catholic Monarchies, enumeration of the, at the commencement of the Reformation, Rev. xvii, 16.

Roman Census, see Census of the Romans.

Roman Citizen, great privileges of a, in the apostolic age, Acts xvi, 37; xxii, 29; xxv, 11.

Roman Consuls, Table of, for one hundred and seven years, (from 6 B. C. to A. D. 100.,) with the times in which these magistrates ruled, reduced to the years of seven different epochs, Table II, at the end of the Acts.

Roman Infantry, how divided and subdivided, Matt. viii, 9.

Roman Law and Government, remarks on the grand principle of the, "to condemn no man unheard, and to confront the accusers with the accused, Acts xxv, 16, et in fine.

Roman Moneys, Table of the, Exod. xxxviii, 24.

Roman Women, Tertullian's description of their superstitious and idolatrous practices during pregnancy, 1 Cor. vii, 14.

Romans very jealous of their national worship, Acts xvi, 21.

Romans, Epistle of Paul to the, its object excellently shewn by Dr. Paley to be, to place the Gentile convert upon a parity of situation with the Jewish, in respect of his religious condition, and his rank in the Divine favour, Preface to Romans, pp. ii, iii. Various opinions respecting the language in which this Epistle was originally written, ibid. pp. iv, v. Copious extract from Dr. Taylor's Key to the Apostolic Writings, in which St. Paul's principal design in writing his Epistle to the Romans is very luminously set forth, ibid. pp. vi—xl. In this extract the following subjects are discussed:—The original and nature of the Jewish constitution of religion, ibid. pp. vi—viii. The peculiar honours and privileges of the Jewish nation, while they were the peculiar people of God, with an explication of the terms by which these honours are expressed, ibid. pp. viii—xiii. Reflections on the Jewish privileges and honours, ibid. pp. xiii—xvii. The Jewish peculiarity not prejudicial to the rest of mankind, the Jewish œconomy being established for the benefit of the world in general, ibid. pp. xvii—xix. The Jewish peculiarity to receive its perfection from the Gospel, ibid., pp. xix—xxii. The particular honours and privileges of Christians, with an explanation of the terms by which they are expressed, ibid. pp. xxii—xxvii. Reflections on the honours and privileges of the Christian church, ibid. pp. xxvii—xxix. All the grace of the Gospel is dispensed to us by, in, or through, Christ, ibid. pp. xxix—xxxiii. Irresistible conclusion from an harmonious union of all the arguments employed in the discussion of the preceding topics, ibid. pp. xxxv, xxxvi. General survey of the Epistle to the Romans, ibid. pp. xxxvii—xl. The three grand divisions into which the Epistle to the Romans is naturally divisible,—the Preface, the Tractation, and the Peroration or Epilogue, Rom. i, in principio.

Rome, Ovid's account of the ceremonies used in laying the foundations of the walls of the city of, Neh. xii, 27. Rome at present exhibits but a very faint image of its former magnificence, Acts xxviii, 14. Its population in 1709; and the number of bishops, priests, monks, nuns, courtesans, Jews, and Moors, at the time of that census, ibid.

Romish Church, observations relative to the doctrine of the, Rom. xvi, in fine. 2 Pet. iii, 16.

Romish Hierarchy, amazing influence of the, in the dark ages, Rev. xiii, 12. Account of its two grand divisions, the regular and secular clergy, ibid.

Root of Bitterness, a Hebraism for a poisonous plant, Heb. xii, 15.

Ropes of great strength made in Ireland of the fibres of bog-wood, or the larger roots of the fir, Judg. xvi, 7. Ropes made of the leaves of the flag by the Egyptians, Job viii, 11.

Rotations of the sun, moon, and planets, in what times performed, Gen. i, 1.

Rough Garments of the ancient prophets, some account of the, Zech. xiii, 4. Heb. xi, 37.

Royal River, see Naharmalca.

Ruach, רוח, various opinions concerning the meaning of this word, Gen. i, 2. Eccles. iii, 21.

Ruby, some account of the oriental, Job xxviii, 18. Its component parts, Job xxxviii, 38.

Ruler of the Jews, a member of the Grand Sanhedrim was usually so named, John iii, 1.

Rushn Achter's extraordinary fortune, as expressed in a Persian couplet, Eccles. iv, 15.

Russian or Slavonic Version of the New Testament, account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xix.

Ruth, Book of, uncertain by whom written, Preface to Ruth, p. i. Sum of its history, ibid. pp. i, ii.

Rutty, (Dr. John,) extract from his Spiritual Diary, Introduction to the Psalms, pp. xi, xii.

S

Saady, beautiful couplet in this poet, in which the work of total desolation is most forcibly expressed, Job xviii, 15.

Saba, Reservoir of, description of this stupendous work of antiquity, Isa. i, 30. By whom supposed to have been constructed, ibid.

Sabbath, observations on the institution of the, Gen. ii, 3. Matt. xii, 7, 8. Mark ii, 28. Rigorous observances of this day by the ancient Jews, Exod. xvi, 29. Matt. xii, 2. The coming in of the Sabbath formerly announced by the minister of the synagogue with a trumpet sounded six times from the roof of a very high house, Matt. x, 27.

Sabbath day's Journey what, Acts i, 12.

Sabbaths, Houbigant's excellent observations on the remarkable fulfilment of the prophecy, that the land of Israel should enjoy her sabbaths in a state of desolation which the Israelites had profaned in the time of their prosperity, Lev. xxvi, 34.

Sabbatical Year, reasons for its institution, according to Calmet, Exod. xxiii, 11.

Σαββατον δευτεροπρωτον and Σαββατον δευτεροδευτερον, Lightfoot's observations on the import of these Greek phrases, Matt. xii, 1. Dr. Whitby and Wotton's observations Luke vi, 1.

Sabeans, from whom descended, Gen. xxv, 3. In the opinion of Bruce, a distinct people from the Æthiopians, 1 Kings x, 1.

Sabeism, in what this idolatrous system of religion consisted, Job xxxi, 26.

Sabine Women, account of the rape of the, Judg. xxi, in fine.

Sacceans, from whom thought to have descended, Gen. xxv, 2.

Sacerdotal Absolution, doctrine of, held among the ancient Jews as well as modern Papists, Acts xxiii, 12. A remarkable instance produced, ibid.

Sack, פש, a word that has passed into a great number of languages, Job xvi, 15.

Sackbut, why this musical instrument was probably so named, Dan. iii, 5.

Sacramental Cup, observations on the denial of the, to the laity by the Romanists, Matt. xxvi, 27.

Sacred Hieroglyphics, explanation of the, Introduction to Isaiah, pp. vii—xi.

Sacrifices, design of the, under the Mosaic œconomy, twofold, Gen. ix, 20. No genuine religion could ever possibly exist without sacrifice actually offered or implied, ibid. Sacrifices formerly not unfrequently sent by the Gentiles to the Temple at Jerusalem, John xi, 20.

Sacrum Romanum Imperium, or Holy Roman Empire, origin of this appellative of the late Germanic empire, Rev. xiii, 1.

Sadducees, some account of this famous Jewish sect, Matt. iii, 7; xvi, 1. Acts xxiii, 8.

Sahidic Version of the New Testament, account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. xviii, xix.

Sakar, שכר, the same with the date or palm-wine, according to Theodoret and Chrysostom, Isa. v, 11; xxiv, 9. According to Jerom, any inebriating liquor, Luke. i, 15.

Salam, sacredness of this word of salutation among the Arabs, Gen. xxxvii, 4. 1 Sam. x, 4. 2 John 10.

Salamis, the capital of Cyprus, afterwards called Constantia, Acts xiii, 5. Its present appellation, ibid.

Salisbury, ancient city of, was not situated where the modern city of the same name now stands, Josh. xvi, in fine.

Salmone, Sammon, or Samonium, a promontory on the eastern coast of Crete; now called Cape Solomon or Salamina, Acts xxvii, 7.

Salonichi, the ancient Thessalonica, Acts xvii, 1.

Salonius, bishop of Vienna, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. vi.

Salsaria, Salsola, or Saltwort, an extensive genus of plants, Job xxx, 4.

Salt, an essential ingredient in all offerings, Jewish or Pagan, Lev. ii, 13.

Salt, Sowing a place with, a custom in different nations to express permanent desolation and abhorrence, Josh. ix, 45. Some examples produced, ibid.

Salt Sea, where situated, Gen. xix, 45. Numb. xxxiv, 3.

Salutation, various forms of, Gen. xxix, 6; xxxvii, 4; xliii, 29; xlviii, 20. 1 Sam. x, 4. Harmer's Observations on the manner of giving and receiving salutations in eastern countries, Matt. v, 47.

Salvation brought by Jesus Christ, in what it consists, Luke i, 74.

Salvation FROM Sin, the spirit and design of the Gospel, Rom. vi, passim.

Samandraki, the ancient Samothracia, Acts xvi, 11.

Samaria, slight sketch of its history, 1 Kings xvi, 24. Its modern appellation, Isa. xxviii, 1.

Samaritan Text, some account of the, General Preface, p. xxix.

Samaritan Version, character of the, General Preface, p. xxix.

Samaritans, account of the, Matt. x, 5. Their present condition, according to Baron Sylvestre de Lacy, 2 Kings xvii, 27.

Samiel, a pestilential east wind, 1 Kings xx, in fine.

Sammael, Jewish fable concerning, John xii, 31.

Samson, why probably so named, Judg. xiii, 24. Sketch of his character, Judg. xvi, in fine.

Samuel, derivation and import of the name, 1 Sam. i, 28. Sketch of the character of this prophet, 1 Sam. xxv, in fine.

Samuel, Books of, very uncertain by whom written, Preface to I. Samuel, pp. ii, iii. Calmet's conjecture, ibid. p. iii. Several reasons advanced to shew that the Twenty-first Chapter of the Second Book of Samuel as it stands in the Hebrew, is in a state of great corruption, 2 Sam. xxi, in fine.

Sanctification, Scripture doctrine of, Exod. xiii, 2. John xvii, 17. Acts x, 43. Rom. iii, in fine. 2 Cor. vii, 1; xi, 30. 1 Thess. v, 23. James iv, 8.

Sanctuary, a part of the tabernacle, why so named, Exod. xxv, 8. Its typical import, ibid.

Sandal, what among the ancients, Mark vi, 9.

Sandal-tree, some account of the, Numb. xxiv, 6.

Sanhedrim, account of this famous Jewish council, Matt. v, 22. Its supreme officers, Matt. xx, 24.

Santeer, an Egyptian instrument of music, probably the same with the psaltery, Dan. iii, 5. Dr. Russel's description of it, ibid.

Saphet, supposed to be the same with the ancient Bethulia, Matt. v, 14.

Sapphire, description of this precious stone, Exod. xxiv, 10. Job xxviii, 16. Ezek. i, 26. Rev. xxi, 19.

Saracens, memorable defeat of the, by the Spaniards, Ezek. xxxix, 9.

Sarah, wife of Abraham, import of her name, Gen. xvii, 5. In what this name possibly differs from Sarai, ibid.

Sarbal, סרבל, rendered hat, what its real import, Dan. iii, 21.

Sarcasm, remarkable example of this figure of speech, Ezek. xxxv, 6. Rev. xvi, 6.

Sard, some account of this precious stone, Job xxviii, 16.

Sardis, an ancient city of Asia Minor, now called Sardo, and Sart, Rev. i, 11.

Sardius, description of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17. Rev. xxi, 20.

Sardonyx, account of this precious stone, Job xxviii, 16. Rev. xxi, 20.

Sarepta, or Zarephath, where situated, Luke iv, 26. Its present condition, according to Maundrell, 1 Kings xvii, 9.

Saris, סרים, import of this word, Gen. xxxvii, 36.

Saron, situation of this country, Acts ix, 35.

Satan, שטן, Σατανας, meaning of this word, 1 Kings v, 4; xi, 14. Job i, 6, 7. Not found in the plural number in the originals of the Old and New Testaments, and the reason assigned, Job i, 6. Observations on the permission given to this great adversary to tempt man, Job xiii, in fine.

Satan, delivering over to, what meant by this phrase, John xx, 23. 1 Cor. v, 5. A species of power never committed to any but the apostles, ibid.

Satellites of Jupiter, Saturn, and Herschel or the Georgium Sidus, Tables of their motions, distances, &c, Gen. i, 1. Radii of the orbits of these satellites in parts of the ecliptic, as seen from the Earth, when their primaries are at their mean distances from, and in quartile aspect with, the Sun, Gen. i, 1. See Orbit.

Saturn, periodic and sidereal revolutions, semimajor axis of orbit in English miles, mean perigeal and apogeal distances, diameter, proportional bulk, time of rotation, inclination of axis to orbit, mass, and mean hourly orbitical motion, of this primary planet, Gen. i, 1.

Saul, his tragical end, with a sketch of his character, 1 Sam. xxxi. Import of his name, Acts xiii, 9. The appearance of Samuel to this king after the prophet's death shewn to have been wholly independent of the incantations of the witch of Endor, 1 Sam. xxviii, 14.

Saul's Malady, Dr. Scheuchzer's theory respecting, 1 Sam. xvi, 14.

Saurin's singular apostrophe to Louis XIV, when treating of the banishment of the Protestants from France by the revocation of the edict of Nantz, 2 Sam. ii, 5.

Sauromates, from whom descended, according to Calmet, Gen. x, 3.

Saxon or Anglo-Saxon Version of Holy Writ, some account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xix.

Scale, Ainsworth's conjecture concerning the derivation of this word, Gen. xx, 16.

Scape-goat, ceremonies concerning the, and its very expressive typical import, Lev. xvi.

Scaurus, (M.) valuation of his furniture which was burnt at Tusculum, Esth. iii, 9.

Scelus incredibile et inauditum, " an incredible and unheard of wickedness," what so styled by Cicero, 1 Cor. v, 1.

Sceptre, swearing by the, usual among the ancients, Numb. xvii, 8. Quotations from Homer and Virgil illustrative of the form of this oath, ibid.

Sceptre of Gold worn by the ancient princes of Persia, Esth. v, 2. Citation from Xenophon in illustration of this, ibid.

Schuchzer, (Dr. I. James,) author of an elaborate work on the natural history of the Bible, General Preface, p. xiii.

Sciences and Arts, the late amazing and extraordinarily rapid discoveries and improvements in every department of the, shewn to be not the effect of chance, but the result of a most gracious providence of God in behalf of His intelligent offspring, Exod. xxviii, 3.

Schism in religion defined, Josh. xxii, in fine.

Schoettgenius, (Christian,) author of Horæ Hebraicæ et Talmudicæ in universum Novum Testamentum, General Preface, p. x.

Schultens, (Albert,) a commentator on the Book of Job, General Preface, p. x.

Scinocephalus, an animal peculiarly sacred to the ancient Egyptians, 2 Kings xvii, in fine. Of what it was reputed hieroglyphical, and for what purpose kept in their temples, ibid.

Scoffers, manner in which they turned into ridicule the warnings of God by His prophets, Isa. xxviii, 9.

Scorpion, a military weapon among the Romans, why so named, 1 Kings xii, 11. Rev. ix, 5.

Σκορπιος, whence derived, according to the Greek etymologists, Luke xi, 12.

Scotch Woman, remarkable anecdote of a, Job xxxiv, 28

Scott, (Rev. T.) author of a very useful commentary on the Scriptures, General Preface, p. xiii.

Scourging, great severity of this punishment among the Romans, Matt. xxviii, 26. The criminal was sometimes scourged to death, ibid. How the punishment of scourging was performed among the Jews, 2 Cor. xi, 24.

Scribes, who, among the Jews, Matt. ii, 4. How the Greek word so translated is used in the Septuagint, ibid.

Scriptures, remarkable passage in the Talmudical Tract Shabbath relative to the study of the, John v, 39. Examination of a passage of Scripture which the Romanists allege in favour of their doctrine that the Oracles of God cannot be understood without the help of an authorised expositor, Acts viii, 31. Observations on the Papistical doctrine that the Holy Ghost has constituted the Romish hierarchy the only infallible interpreters of the Holy Scriptures, 2 Pet. iii, 16.

Scuta, see Θυρεος.

Scythians, whence they had their origin, Gen. x, 2. The Gog of Ezekiel, according to Houbigant, Ezek. xxxviii, 2.

Seah, what this Hebrew measure contained, according to Bishop Cumberland, Gen. xviii, 6. See also Exod. xvi, 16.

Seal, formerly customary for a purchaser to mark his goods with a, that he might be able to distinguish and claim them, if mixed with others, Eph. i, 13.

Seal, setting of a, upon the victim, see Victim.

Sealing up transgression in a bag, what meant by this expression among the ancients, Job xiv, 17.

Seals for sealing clay frequent in the East, Job xxxviii, 13. Description of six of these seals in the Author's possession, ibid.

Seals of the Apocalypse, their import, according to Wetstein, Preface to the Revelation, p. iii. Mr. Lowman's scheme of interpretation, Rev. xxii, in fine.

Seamless garment of our Lord, observations concerning the, John xix, 23. Description of it by Josephus, ibid.

Seasons of the Y ar, time of their commencement, according to the Copts, Gen. vii, 22. Method of dividing the seasons among the Jews, John iv, 35.

Sebaste, the ancient Samaria, Isa. xxviii, 1. Maundrell's account of its situation, ibid.

Σεβαστος, a term usually translated Augustus, appears to be used by St. Paul as simply synonymous with βασιλευς, or emperor, Acts xxv, 21.

Second Death, a Jewish phrase for the punishment of hell in a future life, Rev. ii, 11.

Secondary Planets, revolutions, distances, magnitudes, &c, of the, Gen. i, 1.

Sectarian Marks of the ancients and moderns, some account of the, Lev. xix, 28. More largely explained, Deut. xxxii, 5. Isa. xliv, 5; xlvi, 16. Ezek. ix, 4.

Sections of the Law, Table of the, as read in the different Jewish synagogues for every Sabbath of the year; in which are incorporated the haphtaroth, or sections of the Prophets, as they are appointed to be read in the synagogues of the Portuguese and Italian, and German and Dutch Jews, Deut. xxxiv, in fine. To determine the order of the reading the pareshioth and haphtaroth for any given Jewish year, the following Tables, inserted at the end of the Notes on Deuteronomy, have been carefully constructed:—I. A Perpetual Table, shewing, through the course of thirteen lunar cycles, (which embrace every possible variation) the day of the week with which the Jewish year begins and on which the pass-over is held; as also the lengths of the months Marchesvan and Cisleu. The radix of this Table is the Rabbinical year of the world 5568, corresponding with A. D., 1807, 1808. II, A Table containing the whole variations in the reading of the pareshioth for every year (embolismic and common) of the Jewish cycle of 247 years. III, and IV, Tables to determine upon what day of the week any Jewish month commences for any given year, as also the day of the week upon which the Jews celebrate their principal fasts and festivals. V, Table containing the order of reading the pareshioth and haphtaroth for ninety Jewish years, i. e., from A. M., 5572 to A. M., 5661, (both inclusive) connected with the corresponding dates in the Christian æra according to the Gregorian or New Style. VI, Table containing the year of the Jewish lunar cycle, the golden number, the first day of the Jewish pass-over, Easter Sunday, and the commencement of each Jewish year, according to the Gregorian calender, from A. D., 1812 to A. D., 1900, (both inclusive.)

Secutor, among the Romans, who, Job xix, 6. Mic. vii, 2.

Sedulius Hybernicus, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. vi.

Seed of the Woman, an epithet applicable only to our blessed Lord, and why, Gen. iii, 15.

Seedtime at Aleppo, when it begins and terminates, Amos ix, 13.

Seer, what intended by this word, 1 Sam. ix, 9. Introduction to Isaiah, p. i. The words seer and prophet not altogether synonymous, 1 Sam. ix, 9.

Seething a Kid in its mother's milk, observations on this very ancient Heathen custom, Exod. xxiii, 19.

Segor, סגור, what it imports, Job xxviii, 16.

Selaâ, the same with the shekel, Matt. xxvi, 15. Thirty selâin, סלעין, of pure silver the standard price of a slave according to the Rabbins, ibid. Amount of this in British sterling, ibid.

Selah, various conjectures respecting the meaning of this word, Psa. iii, 2. Probably a nota bene, or note of attention, Psa. iii, 2; iv, 2, 4; vii, 5; ix, 16, &c.

Selavim, שלוים, rendered quails, observations of Harmer and others relative to the import of the original term, Exodus xvi, 13.

Seleucia of Pieria, where situated, Acts xiii, 4.

Seleucidæ, Æra of the, or Æra of Alexander, account of the, Preface to Matthew, p. vi.

Self-idolatry, instances of, from ancient authors, Hab. i, 16.

Self-love, what, in the only proper Scriptural sense of the term, Matt. xix, 19.

Semiramis, account by Diodorus Siculus of the marches of this monarch into Media and Persia, Isaiah xl, 3. Matthew iii, 3.

Seneca, citation of a passage from the Octavia of, very similar to a verse in the Psalms, Psa. lv, 7.

Senir, where this mountain is situated, Ezek. xxvii, 5. Its Sidonian and Hebrew name, ibid.

Sennacherib, king of Assyria, in what manner the destruction of his immense army was probably effected, 2 Kings xix, 35.

Sennachies, among the ancient Celtic inhabitants, who, Numb. xxi, 27.

Sepharad, various conjectures respecting the place intended by this name, Obad. 20.

Sepharvites, probably the same with the Saspires of Herodotus, 2 Kings xvii, in fine.

Sepher, ספר, rendered book, meaning of the original word, Gen. v, 1.

Sepher Toledoth, ספר תולדות, a phrase of frequent occurrence in the Jewish writings, Matt. i, 1. Its import, ibid.

Septuagint Version, great importance of, to every minister of the word of God, General Preface, p. xvii. Esth. x, in fine. Heb. i, 6. When made, General Preface, pp. xxix, xxx. Psa. cii, 15. Isa. lxvi, in fine.

Sepulchres of the ancients, account of the, Isaiah xxii, 16; liii, 9.

Sepulture, forms of, among the Hebrews, 1 Samuel xxxi, 12.

Serab, derivation and import of this Arabic word, Isaiah xxxv, 7.

Serpent, Lucan's account of the terrible effects of the bite of a, Acts xxviii, 6. See Boiga.

Servant, this word shewn not fully to express the sense of the original, Rom. i, 1.

Servus and Fur, frequently used synonymously, and why, Tit. ii, 10.

Sesostris, in erecting temples all over Egypt, did not employ a single Egyptian in the work, 1 Kings ix, 21. This king supposed by some to have been the same with Shishak, who was contemporary with Solomon, 1 Kings xi, 40.

Seven, a number of perfection, or completion, among the Hebrews, Exod. xxix, 30. Psa. cxix, 164. Zech. iv, 2. Matt. xii, 45; xviii, 21. Rev. i, 4; v, 6; x, 3.

Seven Churches of Asia Minor, Rev. David Lindsay's account of their present condition, Rev. iii, in fine.

Seven Things created before the foundation of the world, according to the Rabbins, Matt. xxv, 34.

Seventy Weeks of Daniel, Dean Prideaux's remarks on the, Dan. ix, 24, &c. Collection of various readings in the different MSS., of this very celebrated prophecy, Daniel ix, in fine.

Sexdigitism, examples of, in ancient and modern times, 2 Sam. xxi, 20. An instance of this sort known to the Author, ibid.

Shaal, שאל, unhappily rendered borrow, what its real signification, Exod. iii, 22.

Shabbath, relation in this Talmudical tract very similar to our Lord's parable of the merchantman seeking goodly pearls, Matt. xiii, 45.

Shadow of Death, צל מות, Σκια Θανατου, observations on this remarkably energetic expression, which is of frequent occurrence in the Sacred Scriptures, Matt. iv, 16.

Shadow on the Dial of Ahaz probably brought back by means of refraction, 2 Kings xxi, in fine. Reasons for this supposition, ibid.

Shadrach, import of this name, Dan. i, 7.

Shah Jehan, circumstantial description of a gold circular coin of this great Mogul prince, 2 Tim. ii, in fine.

Shah we Guddah, remarkable couplet in a Persian poem so intituled, Psa. xxvii, 9.

Shaking of the Nations spoken of by Haggai, observations of a correspondent relative to the, Hag. ii, in fine.

Shalashim, שלשים, inquiry into the import of this word, 2 Sam. xxiii, 13, 24.

Shalom, a term frequent in Hebrew salutations, its import, Gen. xxix, 6; xxxvii, 4. Matt. x, 12, 34.

Shammatha, שמתא, the most dreadful of all the Jewish excommunications, 1 Cor. xvi, 22. Some account of it, ibid.

Shapher, the nineteenth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 23.

Shark, the original word κητος, should rather be understood of a species of this fish than of the whale, and why, Matthew xii, 40.

Sharp, (Grenville,) his remarks on the pretended supremacy of the Bishop of Rome, Luke ix, in fine.

Sharp, (Dr.) archbishop of York, singular anecdote respecting, Job xxiv, in fine.

Shaving the Head, in Eastern countries, a token of a person having abandoned Christianity and turned Mahommedan, Deut. xxi, 12.

She-bear, remarkable instance of affection in a, 2 Sam. xvii, in fine. Observations on the destruction of forty-two persons by two she-bears in the time of Elisha, 2 Kings ii, 23.

Shechakim, שחקים, the third heaven, according to the Rabbins, 2 Cor. xii, 2.

Shechem, one of the cities of refuge, import of the name, Josh. xx, 7.

Sheep at Aleppo, Dr. Russel's account of the, Lev. iii, 9. An ancient custom in Eastern countries for the shepherd to go at the head of his sheep, and they to follow him from pasture to pasture, John x, 4. A circumstance of this kind witnessed by the Author on the extensive downs in the western parts of England, ibid.

Sheked, שקד, why the amygdalus communis, or common almond-tree, was so named by the Jews, Numb. xvii, 8.

Shekel of the Sanctuary, before the captivity equal in weight to three hundred and twenty grains of barley, Genesis xx, 16; after the captivity to three hundred and eighty-four grains, ibid. Its value according to Prideaux, Genesis xxiii, 15; xxxvii, 28. Exodus xxv, 39; xxx, 13; xxxix, 24.

Shekinah, what, Exod. xxv, 22.

Shem, Dr. Hales's account of the political condition of the descendants of, Gen. ix, 20. Remarkable prophecy concerning the Messiah, of whom Shem was appointed to be the linear ancestor, ibid.

Sheol, שאל, what this word imports, Numb. xvi, 30. Job vii, 10; xxiv. 19. Ezek. xxxii, 21. Hos. xiii, 14.

Shephatim, שפטים, its derivation and import, Leviticus xxvi, 15.

Shepherd, sentiment of a, as related by Virgil, when enraptured with the elegy which his associate had composed on their departed friend, Hos. xiv, 5.

Shepherd, (Miss Mary Freeman,) her observations on the genealogy of Job, and the time in which he is thought to have lived, Preface to Job, pp. xiii—xvi.

Shepherds, an abomination among the ancient Egyptians, and why, Gen. xlvi, 34.

Shepherds of the people, ποιμενες λαου, a title given by the ancient Greeks to sovereign princes, 2 Samuel v, in fine. Matt. ii, 6.

Sherah, daughter of Ephraim, why so named, according to the Targum, 1 Chron. vii, 24.

Sheshbazzar, probably the Chaldean name of him who was originally called Zerubbabel, Ezra i, 8. Corruption in the Sacred Text relative to the number of sacred vessels of the Temple which were restored to Sheshbazzar, Ezra i, 11.

Shetum, שתם, falsely rendered in our English Version, Numb. xxiv, 15.

Shewbread, why probably so named, Exod. xxv, 30. Matt. xii, 4. Observations concerning the shewbread, Exodus xxv, 30. Parkhurst's thoughts on its typical import, Matt. xii, 4.

Shewing good works or good things, a Hebraism, John x, 32. Its import, ibid.

Shiagal, howlings of the, by night most lamentable, Micah i, 8.

Shibboleth, its import, and in what it differed in meaning and sound from Sibboleth, Judg. xii, 6.

Shibta, שיבתא, among the Rabbins, the name of an evil spirit, Matt. xv, 2.

Shibto, שבטו, his rod, the ט teth in this word written large in the Masoretic Bibles, and the curious reason assigned for this circumstance, Job ix, 34.

Shichor, why the Nile is so named by the Hebrews, Isaiah xxiii, 3.

Shields, account of the different sorts of, employed by the ancients, Eph. vi, 13.

Shields of beaten gold, made by Solomon, calculation of their value in British sterling, 1 Kings x, 17. 2 Chronicles ix, in fine.

Shiggaion, שגיון, import of this word, Psa. vii, in principio.

Shiloh, derivation and import of this word, Gen. xlix, 8—10. Demonstrated, when taken in connexion with the context, to be applicable to Jesus Christ ALONE, who is, in a very peculiar sense, the SENT of God, Gen. xlix, 8—10.

Shinar, the ancient name of Babylon, Dan. i, 2.

Ship, the original word thus rendered more frequently means a fishing-boat, Matt. iv, 22.

Ships of Tarshish used metonymically for ships in general employed in carrying on traffic between distant countries, Isa. ii, 13—16.

Shittim wood, different opinions concerning the import of the original term thus rendered, Exod. xxv, 5.

Shiver, this word evidently derived from the Hebrew שבר, shabar, or shavar, Psa. li, 17.

Shoe of the ancients, properly only a sole tied round the foot and ankle with strings for thongs, Mark i, 7.

Shoeing of horses with iron plates nailed to the hoof, unknown to the ancients, Isa. v, 28. Description of the horse-shoes of leather and iron sometimes mentioned by ancient writers, ibid.

Shoes, pulling off the, an emblem of laying aside the pollutions contracted by walking in the way of sin, Exod. iii, 5. General agreement among Eastern nations to perform all their acts of worship barefooted, ibid.

Shoes, putting on, taking off, and carrying the, of their masters, the work of the vilest slaves among the Jews, Greeks, and Romans, Matt. iii, 11.

Shoes of matting or rushes, always worn by the Egyptian priests, Ezek. xliv, 17.

Shomeron, the same with Samaria, 1 Kings xiii, 32; xvi, 2.

Shopher, שופר, a species of musical instrument, Psa. xxxi, 3. This term was also applied by the Rabbins to the hole in the public alms-chest, Matt. vi, 2.

Shophetim, שפטים, a degree of civil distinction among the Hebrews, Josh. xxiii, 2. See also the Preface to the Book of Judges, p. i.

Shoshabin, or Paranymph, see Paranymph.

Shoshanim, שששנים, import of this term, Psa. xlv, in principio.

Shoterim, שטרים, a degree of civil distinction among the Hebrews, Josh. xxiii, 2. In what the Shoterim differed from the Shophetim, Deut. xvi, 18. Josh. i, 10.

Shrine of our Lady of Loretto, supposed by the Italian Papists to have been a Divine gift to their country, Acts xix, 35.

Shrub we krub, a beautiful rill of water that runs into a basin of Roman workmanship, Judg. v, 11. Why so named, ibid.

Shuâl, שועל, rendered fox, inquiry into the precise import of the original term, Judg. xv, 4. Dr. Kennicott's arguments to shew that Samson's destruction of the standing corn of the Philistines was not effected by three hundred foxes with one hundred and fifty firebrands, but by three hundred handfuls or sheaves of corn, and one hundred and fifty firebrands, ibid. Reasons for rejecting the Doctor's hypothesis, ibid.

Shuner, (Agnes,) extraordinary longevity of this woman, Psa. xc, in fine.

Shushan-eduth, import of this term, Psa. lx, in principio.

Sibba, סבה, inquiry into the import of this term, 1 Kings xii, 15.

Sibyl, Cumean, Virgil's description of the seat of the, Isa. xlv, 19.

Sicarii, Σικάριοι, why assassins were so named, according to Josephus, Acts xxi, 38.

Sidon, סדון, whence supposed to be derived, and its import, Prov. xxxi, 24. The mother city of Tyre, Isa. xxiii, 4.

Signs of the approaching destruction of Jerusalem, observations on the, contained in our Lord's prophecy to His disciples, Matt. xxiv, 1—7.

Sikera, Σικερα, the same with the date or palm-wine, according to Theodoret and Chrysostom, Isa. v, 11. See Sakar.

Sikkir, the same with the σικερα of the Greeks, Luke i, 15. How made, according to the Hedaya, ibid. One of the four prohibited liquors among the East-Indian Moslimans, ibid.

Silence, a species of reverence paid by the retinue, visirs, foreign ambassadors, &c, of an Asiatic sovereign when he goes to the mosque on any of the great festivals, Hab. ii, 20.

Silence in heaven for the space of half an hour, Sir Isaac Newton's very beautiful explanation of this phrase, Rev. viii, 3.

Siloah, Brook of, where situated, Isa. viii, 6, 7.

Siloam, Pool of, where situated, John ix, 7. The Turks have this fountain in great veneration, ibid. Thought by Calmet to be the same with En-rogel, or Fuller's Fountain, mentioned in the Old Testament, ibid.

Silver, account of the purification of, by the cupel. See Cupel.

Silver Cord, what to be understood by this phrase, Eccles. xii, 6.

Simeon, import of this name, Gen. xxix, 33. The tribe of Simeon generally believed among the Jews to have been schoolmasters to the other tribes, Gen. xlix, 7.

Simeon, Claude's remarks on the song and prophecy of this holy man, Luke ii, in fine.

Simikinthia, Σιμικινθια, what, Acts xix, 12.

Simon Magus, various opinions and legends concerning the heresy of this man, Acts viii, 9, 24. Very remarkable various readings in the Scripture account of Simon Magus, Acts viii, 10, 24.

Simoom, or Smoom, account of this very destructive Eastern wind, Gen. xli, 6. Deut. xxviii, 22.

Simple, whence this word is derived, Prov. i, 4. Striking contrast between its ancient and modern acceptation, ibid.

Sin, import of this word, Judg. xx, 16. 1 Sam. xvii, 49. Job v, 24. Doctrine that there is no total deliverance from sin in this life, stated and refuted, 1 Kings viii, 46.

Sin, Motions of, irritated by the law, Rom. vii, 8, &c. Citations from Livy, Horace, and Ovid, in which this evil propensity in man is acknowledged, ibid.

Sin unto Death, and Sin not unto Death, import of these Jewish phrases, 1 John v, 16.

Sin, Wilderness of, the seventh station of the Israelites in the wilderness, where situated, Numb. xxxiii, 11.

Sinai, whence this name is probably derived, Exod. iii, 1.

Sinai, Wilderness of, the eleventh station of the Israelites in the wilderness, where probably situated, Numbers xxxiii, 15.

Sincere, derivation and import of the term, Genesis xvii, 1. Phil. i, 10.

Singing, remarks on the use and abuse of, in the church of God, 1 Cor. xiv, 15.

Singular Number, the ancient Hebrews not unfrequently substituted the plural for the, Matt. xxvi, 8; xxvii, 44.

Sinners. See Ἁμαρτωλοι.

Sin-offering. See Ἁμαρτια.

Sistrum of Egypt, description of the, Isaiah xviii, 1. This musical instrument given in a medal of Adrian as the proper attribute of Egypt, ibid. In shape somewhat like the ancient lyre, ibid.

Sitting, the general posture of the ancient Jews when commenting on the Sacred Writings, or the traditions of the elders, Luke iv, 16.

Sitting, common manner of, in Eastern countries, Isa. lii, 2. Account of the Asiatic mode of sitting in state, ibid.

Sitting at the feet of the Rabbi said to be the usual posture of a Jewish scholar while listening to his instructions, Luke x, 39. This statement controverted by Vitringa, Acts xxii, 3.

Sitting on the ground, a token of sorrow among the ancients, Gen. xxxiii, 3. Job i, 20; ii, 13. Isa. iii, 26.

Six hundred and sixty-six, see Number of the Beast.

Σκανδαληθρα, explanation of this word by Suidas, Matthew v, 29.

Σκευη οσρακινα and Σκευη κεραμεως, distinction between, according to Chrysostom, 2 Cor. iv, 7.

Σκευος εκλογης, import of this Hebraism, Acts ix, 15.

Σκηνοποιος, various conjectures concerning the nature of the employment intended by this term, Acts xviii, 3.

Skins of the Sacrifices appertained to the priests among both Jews and Gentiles, Lev. vii, 8. The Heathen priests lay upon them in their temples in hope to have future things revealed to them in their dreams, ibid. This superstition prevails to the present day in the Highlands of Scotland, ibid.

Slavery, among the ancients, as described by Dr. John Taylor, 1 Cor. vii, in fine.

Slaves employed in the Brazils to search for particles of gold and diamonds; and, by a law of the state, he who finds a diamond of a given number of carats obtains his liberty, Prov. i, 4. Ceremonies observed by our Saxon ancestors in the enfranchisement of slaves, 1 Cor. vii, in fine.

Slave-trade, remarks on this odious traffic, Lev. xxii, 10. Hab. ii, 12.

Slavonian, or Russian Version of the New Testament, account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, p. xix.

Sleep, common metaphor among the Jews for death, John xi, 11. Probably used by them to signify their belief in the immateriality of the soul and the resurrection of the body, John xi, 11. Saying of Menander respecting the beneficial effects of sleep, John xi, 12.

Sleep of the Soul, from the moment of the death of the body till the resurrection, a doctrine which cannot be legitimately deduced from the Sacred Oracles, Job xiv, 12. 2 Cor. v, 6.

Sling, a very ancient warlike instrument, Judg. xx, 16. The inhabitants of Majorca and Minorca the most famous slingers of antiquity, ibid. Observations respecting the velocity of the ball projected from the sling, ibid. From what distance, according to Vegetius, expert slingers could, in general, hit the mark, ibid. Description of the sling that was in use among the Greeks and Hebrews, 1 Sam. xvii, 40. Quotation from Diodorus Siculus to shew the great destructiveness of the missiles discharged by skilful hands from the slings, 1 Sam. xvii, 49.

Slot, or Track, of the hart, observations on the, Psa. xvii, in fine.

Sloth, passage from the celebrated fable of, by Prodicus, describing the transparent garments of the ancients, Isa. iii, 23.

Sluggard, remarks on Solomon's very beautiful and instructive parable of the, Prov. xxiv, 30, et seq.

Smiting upon the thigh, a usual sign of deep affliction, Jer. xxxi, 19. Two quotations from the Iliad in illustration of this, ibid. Ezek. xxi, 12.

Smoom, see Simoom.

Smyrna, some account of this ancient city, Rev. i, 11. Its present appellation, ibid.

Snare, or Toils, account of the, among the ancients, Isa. xxiv, 17, 18.

Snow, general definition of, Job xxxvii, 6. Mode of its formation, ibid. Appearance of a flake of snow, as seen through a magnifying glass, ibid. To what the whiteness and lightness of snow are owing, ibid. The immediate cause of the formation of snow not well understood, ibid. Snow an especial blessing of Providence in northern countries, ibid.

Snow-houses in use in the East, Prov. xxv, 13.

Snow-water, supposed by the ancients to have a more detergent quality than common water, Job ix, 30.

Soap, what known at present by this name probably unknown to the ancients, Mal. iii, 2.

Social worship among Christians, thoughts respecting, Heb. x, 25.

Socrates, remarkable passage in the last conversation of this great philosopher with his friends, 2 Pet. i, 15.

Sofas of the Asiatics, account of the, Isa. lii, 2.

Sohar Chadash, citation from, similar to our Lord's parable of the talents, Matt. xxv, 15.

Solar Light, how much it exceeds that of the full moon, Gen. i, 14. Dr. Herschel's very probable hypothesis that the solar light, abstractedly considered, is not the cause of heat, but that heat is the result of the action of the rays of light upon the atmosphere, Gen. i, 16.

Solar System, general view of the, Gen. i, 1. Psa. viii, 3.
Solea, among the Romans, what, Mark vi, 9.
Solomon, son of David, the commencement of the reign of this monarch inauspicious, 1 Kings iii, 1. His marriage of Pharaoh's daughter shewn to have been a direct violation of the law of God, ibid. His decision of the case brought before him by the two tavernkeepers, a proof of his sound wisdom, penetration, and acquaintance with human nature, 1 Kings iii, 25. Great extent of Solomon's kingdom, 1 Kings iv, 21. In what the great wisdom of Solomon consisted, 1 Kings iv, 29—33. Reasons advanced to shew that this king was probably the writer of the book of Job, Preface to Job, pp. vii—ix. The Iliad of Homer supposed by some to have been the work of Solomon, ibid. p. xii. Solomon's dreadful apostasy, 1 Kings xi, 1, &c. Sketch of his reign and character, 1 Kings xi, in fine.
Solomon's Throne, curious account of the, extracted from a Persian manuscript, 2 Chron. x, in fine.
Solon, law of, excluding natural children from the paternal inheritance, Gen. xxv, 6. His law respecting lost property, Lev. vi, 3.
Somerhill, (Mrs.) remarkable longevity of this woman, Psa. xc, in fine.
Son, among the Jews, was the title of a disciple or scholar, Prov. i, 8. In the Jewish phraseology, a man who has any good or bad quality is called the son or child of that quality, Luke x, 6. A person is sometimes called the son or child of what he is doomed to, ibid. Examples of these different acceptations, ibid.
Son of David, an appellation of the Messiah among the Jews, Matt. ix, 27.
Son of God, when applied to the Messiah, points out His miraculous conception in the womb of the virgin, Mark i, 1. This appellation not given to the Divine nature of Christ, but to that holy person born of the virgin by the energy of the Holy Ghost, Luke i, 35. Heb. i, 5. Essential absurdity of the contrary doctrine, ibid; Acts xiii, 33. Remarks on that passage in Mark's Gospel, which states the Son of God to have been ignorant of the time in which the Jewish polity should be destroyed by the Romans, Mark xiii, 32.
Son of man, import of this phrase when applied to a created being, Ezek. i, 3; when applied to our Lord Jesus Christ, ibid.
Song of Deborah and Barak, Doctors Kennicott's and Hales' observations on the, Judg. v, in fine. Their versions of it in collateral columns, ibid.
Song of Moses, celebrating the discomfiture of the Egyptian host, and the miraculous passage of the Israelites through the Red sea, the earliest specimen of epic poetry extant, Exod. xv, 1. Observations on the song which Moses composed a short time before his death, Deut. xxxii, in fine.
Song of Solomon, various opinions respecting this composition, Introduction to Solomon's Song, p. ii. Harmer's view of the design of the Canticles, ibid. pp. iv, v. Considered by some as a regular drama, ibid. pp. v, vi. Dr. Mason Goode considered the Canticles as a collection of sacred idyls; twelve in number, ibid. p. vii. Scheme of the idyls, according to this celebrated critic, ibid. See Canticles.
Song of the Blessed Virgin, parts into which this inimitable piece of poetry is obviously divisible, Luke i, 54.
Songs, Sacred and Profane, in great repute from very remote antiquity, Exod. xv, 1. Deut. xxxi, 19. The record of things of great importance, and of common concern, whether in verse or prose, generally sung by the ancients, Deut. xxxi, 19.
Sons of Thunder, import of this Hebraism, Mark iii, 17.
Sons of Zebedee, probable import of this very extraordinary petition of the mother of these apostles to our Lord, Matt. xx, 21.
Soothsayer, derivation and import of the word, Acts xvi, 16.
Sophocles, passage in the Antigone of, very similar to one in the Book of Psalms, Psa. cxxi, 4.
Sophonites, a people mentioned by Ptolemy, whence they probably had their name, Deut. i, 1.
Sophronia, anecdote concerning, as given by Tasso in the Gerusalemme Liberata, Josh. ii, in fine.
Sorcerer, a word of French origin, Acts viii, 9.
Sorek, Valley of, where situated, Isa. v, 2. The vine of Sorek known to the Israelites, ibid.
Σωτηρ, definition of this word by Mintert, Luke ii, 11. Ιησους and Σωτηρ nearly of the same import, John i, 17. Acts v, 28.
Soul, doctrine of the materiality of the, has no place in the Sacred Records, Job xiv, 12. Matt. x, 28. Acts vii, 59.
Sound, how produced, Job xxxvii, 4. Its rate of travelling, ibid.; xxxviii, 26.
Sound Eye, οφθαλμος απλους, a very elegant and expressive metaphor employed by our Lord for that simplicity of intention and purity of affection with which the supreme good should be pursued, Matt. vi, 22.
Sovereigns of Persia, their affectation of the highest degrees of majesty, and even of Divine honours, Esth. iv, 11.
Spaces fallen through by bodies, in their descent to the Earth, (no matter what their surfaces, volumes, masses, or specific gravities, provided they are weighty enough not to be sensibly affected by the action of the atmosphere,) being as the squares of the times of falling; or, in other words, the velocities being as the square roots of the spaces fallen through; a very plain demonstration of the attraction of the Earth, Heb. xi, in fine. The periodic times of the planets being in sesquialteral geometrical proportion to their mean distances from the Sun, a most manifest evidence that the influence of the Earth on falling bodies is precisely of the same nature with that which emanates from the Sun, and retains the planets in their orbits, ibid.
Sparks, criticism on the Hebrew words thus rendered, Job v, 7.

Σπαταλωσα them caning of this word illustrated by a remarkable passage from an epistle of Thuanus to Eubulus, 1 Tim. v, 6.

Spears in very ancient times used by kings instead of diadems, and consecrated to the gods, 1 Sam. xviii, 11; xxvi, 12.

Speech of Ghosts, probable origin of the popular notion that this was a weak, stridulous, almost inarticulate, sort of sound, Isa. xxix, 4.

Spell, derivation and import of this word, Preface to Matthew, p. iii.

Σφραγις, or Seal, among the ancients, a figure cut in a stone, and that set in a ring, by which letters of credence and authority were stamped, 1 Cor. ix, 2.

Spinal Marrow, or Medulla Oblongata, the silver cord of Scripture, Eccles. xii, 6.

Spira, according to some the same with the Roman cohort, John xviii, 3. The fortieth part of a legion, according to Raphelius, ibid.

Spirit, existence of an immaterial and immortal, in man, demonstrated, 1 Kings xvii, 22. Matt. x, 28. Luke xxiii, 43, 46; xxiv, 37.

Spirit of God, office of this Person of the Holy Trinity in the work of man's redemption, Matt. iii, 11. John iii, 5.

Spirits, remarks on the evocation of, 1 Sam. xxviii, 11, et in fine.

Spirits in Prison, observations on this remarkable expression attributed to St. Peter, 1 Pet. iii, 19. Various readings of this passage in the manuscripts and Versions, ibid.

Spitting in any one's presence a high offence among the Medes and Persians, Isa. l, 6.

Spitting upon the Ground, in speaking of any one's actions, an expression, throughout the East, of the utmost detestation, ibid.

Σπλαγχνιζομαι, Mintert's definition of this word, Matt. ix, 36.

Splinter, a more proper rendering of καρφος than that contained in our common English Version, Matt. vii, 3.

Spoils won in Battles, customary among most people to dedicate a portion of these to the divinities to whom their successes have been attributed, 1 Chron. xxvi, 27.

Spondé, Σπονδη, why this Greek word means both a covenant and a libation, Isa. xxx, 1.

Spring Fast, or Lent, the only annual fast observed in the primitive church, Matt. ix, 15. Kept in commemoration of the time the body of our Saviour lay in the grave, ibid. Discordant opinions among ancients and moderns relative to the duration of this fast, ibid. Τεσσαρακοστη and Quadragesima, the Greek and Latin names for this fast, shewn to have originally meant a fast of the duration of forty HOURS, and not of forty DAYS, ibid.

Squares of the periodic times of the planets being to each other as the cubes of the semimajor axes of their orbits, or, which is the same thing, as the cubes of their mean distances from the Sun, a wonderful law by which the whole Solar System is governed, Heb. xi, in fine.

Stacte, account of this gum, Exod. xxx, 34.

Stadium, a measure of length among the Romans, Luke xxiv, 13. Arbuthnot's statement of the number of yards in the stadium, ibid.

Stag, incredible longevity attributed to some individuals, Job xxxix, 1. Remarkable inscription on a collar which was upon the neck of one taken by Charles VI, in the forest of Senlis, ibid.

Standards, different sorts of, among the ancient Romans, Rev. xii, 14.

Standing, the posture of the Jews when reading either the Law or the Prophets, Luke iv, 16.

Standing before the Lord, meaning of this phrase, Josh. xx, 9.

Star, which guided the Magi to the place of our Lord's nativity, probably a simple meteor provided for the occasion, Matt. ii, 2, 9. Highly improbable that Balaam's prophecy of a star to arise out of Jacob has any reference to this preternatural phænomenon, Numb. xxiv, 19.

Stars, (Fixed,) with very great probability supposed to be suns, similar to that which occupies the lower focus of our system, Gen. i, 16. Dr. Herschel's very ingenious theory concerning the Fixed Stars, ibid. Number of stars that can be seen with the naked eye in both hemispheres, Deut. i, 10. Table of the most remarkable Fixed Stars from the first to the sixth magnitude, 1 Cor. xv, in fine. Reflections upon the inconceivable multitude of stars scattered throughout the vast immensity of space, Deut. x, 14.

Stars, Falling of, see Falling Stars.

Stars in their courses fighting against Sisera, what probably meant by this phrase, Judg. v, 20.

Stater, value of this ancient piece of money, Matt. xvii, 27; xxvi, 15.

Stature, judicious criticism of a very learned writer on the original word thus rendered in our common Version, Matt. vi, 27.

Steel, method of gilding, 1 Pet. i, in fine.

Στεφανος ακανθινος, see Crown of Thorns.

Στεφανοφοροι, why the priests and priestesses among the ancient Greeks were so named, Exod. xxxix, 30.

Στερεωμα, the Septuagint translation of the Hebrew word רקיע, rakiâ, shewn not to contain the sense of the Sacred Text, Gen. i, 6.

Steward of the Household, who, Luke viii, 3. Derivation of the word steward, according to Junius, ibid.

Stibium, or Antimony, employed in Asiatic countries to the present day in staining the eyes, 2 Kings ix, 30. Isa. iii, 16. Jer. iv, 30. 1 Tim. ii, 10. Waring's account of this custom among the Persians, 2 Kings ix, 30. The Romans used stibium for the same purpose, according to Cyprian, ibid.

Stiff-neck, Bruce's remarks on the ancient custom to which the original thus rendered is supposed to have an allusion, Psa. lxxv, 5.

Στιγματα of the ancients what, Lev. xix, 23.
Stile, construction of the, with which the ancients wrote on boards thinly spread over with wax, 2 Kings xxi, 13.
Stocks, description of this ancient mode of punishment, Acts xvi, 24.
Stoics, a very celebrated sect of ancient philosophers founded by Zeno, Acts xvii, 18. Why so named, ibid. Brief sketch of their doctrines, ibid.
Stola, Στολη, particular description of this part of the dress of the ancient Greek and Roman ladies, 1 Tim. ii, 9.
Stomachs of the Ox, description of the, and their particular uses, Lev. xi, 3.
Stone which Jacob set up for a pillar, foolish tradition concerning, Gen. xxviii, 18. Stone by which a Jewish criminal was stoned to death, why buried with him in the same grave, Isa. xv, 19.
Stones which Joshua set up as a memorial of the passage of the Israelites through the Jordan, Dr. Kennicott's remarks concerning the, Josh. iv, 9.
Stoning, Dr. Lightfoot's observations on the punishment of, among the Jews, Acts vii, in fine.
Στωπυρα, why the few persons who are said to have survived the deluge of Deucalion are so named, 2 Sam. xiv, 7.
Stories in the Heavens, observations on this remarkable expression, Amos ix, 6.
Storm, Virgil's description of the, that dispersed the fleet of Æneas, Psa. cvii, 26, et in fine.
Strabo, or Walfridus Strabus, account of this commentator, General Preface, pp. v, vi.
Strait Gate, Η στενη πυλη, to what our Lord probably alluded, in His use of this phrase, Matt. vii, 13. Observations on a very remarkable various reading of τι στενη ἡ πυλη, Matt. vii, 14.
Strangers, Hospitality to, a duty strongly inculcated in the Scriptures, Heb. xiii, in fine. The Heathen considered those who entertained strangers to be under the peculiar protection of Jupiter, ibid. This sentiment very beautifully and forcibly expressed in the Odyssey, ibid.
Strato's Tower, the same with Cæsarea of Palestine, Acts x, 1.
Στρατοπεδαρχης, inquiry into the import of this word, Acts xxviii, 16.
Straw, various conjectures concerning the use of, in making brick, Exod. v, 7.
Street, derivation of the word, Job xxiii, 11. Some account of the four grand Roman or British streets or roads which intersected this kingdom, ibid.
Stripping a man of his Gown, the form of degradation from ecclesiastical offices among Roman Catholics and others, Numb. xx, 26.
Strymon, sacrifice of white horses to this river by the Magi, Rom. ix, in fine.
Στυγεω implies to shiver with horror, and why, Tit. iii, 3.
Stupifying Potions usually administered by the ancients to condemned malefactors to assuage their pains, Matt. xxvii, 34. Of what ingredients composed, according to the Rabbins, ibid. Michaelis's critical inquiry into the kind of potion offered to our Lord while hanging on the cross, ibid. Dr. Marsh's sensible remarks upon this subject, ibid.
Styx, according to the Heathen mythology, the river of hell, by which, if any of the gods swore falsely, he was for a certain time expelled from their society, Tit. iii, 3.
Subordination to the Civil Powers, great political question of, discussed, Rom. xiii, 1, et in fine.
Substantive Verb, a very frequent acceptation of the, in the Hebrew, Chaldee, and Chaldæo-Syriac languages, Gen. xl, 12. Matt. xxvi, 26. Rev. v, 8.
Succoth, whence this place was probably so named, Exod. xii, 37. Numb. xxxiii, 5. Josh. xiii, 27. The first station of the children of Israel after their departure from Egypt, Numb. xxxiii, 5.
Succoth-benoth, an object of idolatry among the Babylonians, 2 Kings xvii, 30, et in fine. Conjectures respecting the meaning of the name, ibid. Very probably the same with the Melitta of Herodotus, ibid.
Suetovid, the god of war among the ancient Slavi, to whom a great number of prisoners were annually presented as a burnt-offering, Rom. ix, in fine. Supposed residence of this divinity, ibid.
Suffetes, the chief magistrates of the Carthaginians were so called, and why, Amos ii, 3.
Συγκαταψηφιζω, inquiry into the derivation and import of this word, Acts i, 26.
Suicide, a very frequent preventive of, finely expressed by one of our best poets, Heb. ii, 15.
Sukkiims, the same with the Troglodytes, 2 Chron. xii, 3.
Sulphur, uses of, natural and superstitious, according to Pliny, Ovid, and Servius, Job xviii, 15.
Sultan, conjecture respecting the origin of this word, Gen. xlii, 6.
Summer-parlour of Ehud, observations concerning the, Judg. iii, 20.
Συμφυτα, Dr. Taylor's definition of this term, Rom. i, 5.
Sun, its amazing magnitude, telescopic appearance, &c, Gen. i, 16. Psa. viii, 3. An object of idolatrous worship among Heathen nations, Exod. xii, in fine. Judg. viii, 21. Form used by the Egyptian priests in addressing the sun on behalf of a deceased person, that he might be admitted into the society of the gods, according to Porphyry, ibid. Standing still of the sun and moon at the command of Joshua explained agreeably to the Newtonian system of the universe, Josh. x, 11. Matt. viii, 26. Perigeal and apogeal distances, relative volume, time of rotation, and mass or attractive power, of this great luminary of day, Gen. i, 1. Method by which the distance and magnitude of the Sun have been ascertained, James i, in fine.
Sun-dials, general observations on the invention and construction of, 2 Kings xx, in fine.
Supernatural Directions and Assistances, so frequent in ancient times, why not communicated now, 2 Sam. v, in fine.

Superstitio, Superstition, origin of this word, according to Cicero, James i, 27. Its definition by Lactantius, ibid. Distinction between religion and superstition, ibid.

Suphah, סופה, a Hebrew word in which sense and sound are well expressed, Prov. i, 27.

Supper, why named cœna by the Romans, according to Plutarch, Job xxxi, 17.

Supremacy of the Bishop of Rome, observations on this Papistical tenet, Luke ix, in fine.

Supreme Being, very remarkable invocation of the, (translated from the original Sanscrit by Dr. C. Wilkins,) still existing on a stone in a cave near the ancient city of Gya in the East Indies, Luke i, 68.

Susa, or Shuster, the Shushan of Scripture, Nehemiah i, 1. Esth. i, 2.

Surety and Mediator, inquiry into the import of the Greek words εγγυος and μεσιτης so translated, Heb. vii, in fine.

Suwarrow, character of this late Russian general, 1 Kings ii, 25.

Swathing of the Corpse, manner of the, among the Jews, John xi, 44.

Swearing, remarks upon the form of, by putting the hand under the thigh, Gen. xxiv, 9.

Sweat of Blood, Galen's statement of its cause, Luke xxii, 44. An instance of bloody sweat related by Thuanus, ibid.

Swineherd, no character meaner in the sight of a Jew than that of a, Luke xv, 15. Not permitted by the Egyptians to mingle with civil society, nor to appear in the worship of the gods, ibid.

Sword by which a Jewish criminal was beheaded, why buried with him in the same grave, Isaiah xv, 19. Acts viii, 2.

Sword and Arrow, metaphorically applied to powerful speech, Isa. xlix, 2.

Sycamine, probably the same with the sycamore, Luke xvii, 6.

Sycamore, whence the name is derived, 1 Kings x, 27. The ancient Egyptians made their coffins of the wood of this tree, Psa. lxxviii, 47. Barques constructed by the modern Egyptians of sycamore wood, ibid.

Sychar, situation of this city, John iv, 5. The same with Shechem of the Old Testament, ibid. Its present appellation, ibid.

Sycophant, Potter's account of the origin of this word, Luke xix, 8.

Syene, where situated, Ezek. xxix, 10. Its modern name, ibid. Famous for a well into which the rays of the sun fell perpendicularly at mid-day, ibid.

Symbols of Scripture, explanation of the, Introduction to Isaiah, pp. viii—xi.

Symmachus, a translator of the Hebrew Scriptures into Greek, some account of, General Preface, p. xxx.

Symphonia, Συμφωνεια, what, Dan. iii, 5.

Synagogues, or places for religious worship among the Jews, shewn to have been in existence long before the Babylonish captivity, Psa. lxxiv, 8. What number of persons considered necessary to compose a synagogue, Matt. iv, 23. Great number of synagogues in Jerusalem in the apostolic age, ibid. Enumeration of the chief things belonging to a synagogue, ibid. The Jewish place of worship governed by a council, over whom was a president, called the ruler of the synagogue, ibid. Times at which Divine service was performed by the Jews, ibid. Four kinds of men who enter the synagogues, according to the Rabbins, James i, 25. In ancient times petty courts of judicature were held in the synagogues, James ii, 2.

Synesius, two passages from the third hymn of this Greek poet on the mode of the Divine existence, the sentiment of which was probably borrowed from St. Paul, 1 Tim. vi, 16.

Syracuse, account of the temporary preservation of this city by Archimedes, Eccles. ix, 14. Acts xxviii, 12. Present condition of Syracuse, Acts xxviii, 12.

Syriac Version of the Old Testament, some account of the, General Preface, p. xxx. Account of the Syriac Versions of the New Testament, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts pp. xix, xx.

Syrtis Major, and Syrtis Minor, two quicksands near the African coast, Acts xxvii, 17.

T

Taberna, rendered tavern, its general import, Acts xxviii, 15.

Tabernacle, description of the, Exod. xxvi, 1—37. Heb. ix, 2. Calculation of the total value and weight of all the gold, silver, and brass, contributed by the Israelites for the service of the Tabernacle, Exod. xxxviii, 24. Typical import of the Tabernacle and its contents, according to Cyril, Heb. ix, 5.

Tabernacles, Feast of, how celebrated, Exod. xxiii, 14. John vii, 2.

Tabitha, import of this name, Acts ix, 36.

Tabor, Maundrel's description of this mount, and of the beautiful prospect from its summit, Judg. iv, 6.

Tacitus, citation from his Roman history relative to the crucifixion of Christ and the horrible persecution of his followers, Matt. xxvii, 26.

Tadmor in the Wilderness, universally allowed to be the same with the celebrated Palmyra, 1 Kings ix, 18.

Taghairm, Sir Walter Scott's account of this Highland superstition, Isa. lxv, 8.

Tahapanes, or Tahpanhes, a city of Egypt, the same with Daphne, Jer. ii, 16; xliii, 7. According to Jerom, the place where Jeremiah was stoned to death, Jer. xliii, 7.

Tahath, the twenty-second station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 26.

Taisnier, author of a famous work on chiromancy, Job xxxvii, 7.

Tale, its derivation and import, Exod. v, 8.
Talent of Gold among the Hebrews, what was its value, Exod. xxxviii, 24. Valuation of the Babylonish talent of gold and silver, ibid. Calculation of the value, in British standard, of the 120 talents of gold which the queen of Sheba gave to king Solomon, 2 Chron. x, in fine. Amount, in British sterling, of ten thousand talents of gold and silver, Matt. xviii, 24. Valuation of the six hundred and sixty-six talents of gold that came to Solomon in one year, 1 Kings x, 14. 2 Chron. ix, in fine.
Talmud of Babylon, account of the, General Preface, p. ii. Matt. xv, 2.
Talmud of Jerusalem, account of the, General Preface, p. ii. Matt. xv, 2.
Tambellit, Sir John Chardin's account of the, Gen. xlii, 25.
Tamisra, what, Matt. viii, 12.
Tammuz, see Thammuz.
Tanchum, remarkable saying of this Rabbin respecting the importance and excellence of implicit faith in the testimony of God, John xxi, 29.
Tancred, Banner of, what, Psa. lx, in fine.
Tanneenim, תנינם, translated whales, inquiry into the import of this word, Gen. i, 21.
Tarah, the twenty-third station of the Israelites in the wilderness, Numb. xxxiii, 27.
Tarassa the ancient Tarsus, Acts ix, 11.
Targets of beaten Gold, calculation of the value of the two hundred, which Solomon put in the house of the forest of Lebanon, 2 Chron. x, in fine.
Targum on the Two Books of Chronicles, attributed to Rabbi Joseph the Blind, account of the, General Preface, p. iii. Preface to the Two Books of Chronicles, p. iv.
Targum, or Chaldee Paraphrase, on Solomon's Song, given at full length, Song of Solomon, in fine.
Targum ascribed to Jonathan ben Uzziel, account of the, General Preface, p. ii.
Targum Yerushlemey, account of the, General Preface, p. ii. Singular comment in this Targum relative to the two great lights of heaven, 1 Tim. i, 7.
Tarrentes, Vinisauf's account of these animals, Exodus viii, 16.
Tarshish, the place to which Jonah attempted to flee, various conjectures where situated, Jonah i, 3. Dr. Jubb's reason for thinking that to go to Tarshish and to Ophir is one and the same thing, Isa. ii, 13—16.
Tarsus, a city formerly the capital of all Cilicia, Acts ix, 11. In what manner the inhabitants obtained the privilege of Roman citizens, ibid.; xxii, 28. Citations from Xenophon, Josephus, and Ammianus Marcellinus, in attestation of the great respectablity of this city, Acts xxi, 39.
Tartak, an object of idolatrous worship among the Avites, Kings xvii, in fine. Whence the name is probably derived, according to Parkhurst, ibid. What the emblem of this idol, according to the Jews, ibid.
Tartan, the name of an office, and not a person, according to Calmet, 2 Kings xviii, 17.
Tartars, or Tatars, whence they had their origin, Genesis x, 2.
Tartarus, or Hell, opinion of the ancients respecting, Job xxvi, 6. 2 Pet. ii, 4.
Tatian, author of a Harmony of the Four Gospels, General Preface, p. v.
Tatnai's letter to Darius, remarks upon, Ezra v, in fine.
Tau, the last letter of the Hebrew alphabet, why probably so named, Psa. lxxviii, 41. Its form on the ancient Samaritan coins still extant, Ezek. ix, 4.
Taxgatherers, or Publicans, two classes of, in the land of Judea in the apostolic age, Matt. v, 46.
Taylor, (Dr.) remarkable reply of, to his persecutors, Job xix, 22.
Tebeth, תבת, rendered ark, what it properly signifies, Genesis vi, 14.
Tectosagi, a tribe of the ancient Galatæ, Preface to Galatians, p. i.
Teeth, description of the, Eccles. xii, 4. Names and uses of the three kinds of, in the human subject, ibid.
Tehaphnehes, Tahpanes, or Tahapanes, the same with the Pelusian Daphné, Ezek. xxx, 18. See Tahapanes.
Τεχνια, a word frequently used by St. John, the whole force of which is not expressed in our English Version, John xiii, 33. Anecdote related by Jerom respecting the frequent repetition of this word by the apostle to his flocks in his old age, John xv, 12.
Τελειωσις, a word importing (among the primitive Christians) martyrdom, Phil. iii, 12. This shewn by citations from Clemens Alexandrinus, Basil Magnus, Œcumenius, Balsamon, and Eusebius, ibid.
Telesm, corruptly call talisman, whence derived, and what it signifies, Numbers xxxiii, 41. 1 Sam. vi, in fine. Description and reported virtues of several telesms, 1 Samuel vi, in fine.
Tempest, superstitious practices of the ancient sailors during a, Acts xxvii, 14. The tempest supposed by the heathens to be occasioned by evil spirits, ibid. Sir George Taunton's account of similar superstitions among the Chinese, ibid.
Temple, Dr. Delaney's remarks on the Divine original of the architecture of the, 1 Chron. xxviii, 18. Which gate of the Temple was probably called Ωραια, or Beautiful, Acts iii, 2. Reflections on the spoliation of the Temple by Titus, Exod. xxv, 31.
Temple of Solomon, dimensions of the, in English measure, 1 Kings vi, 2. Reason why neither hammer, axe, nor any tool of iron, was suffered to be heard in the Temple during the time of its building, 1 Kings vi, 7. Its description and history according to Calmet and Josephus, 1 Kings vi, in fine.
Temple of Diana at Ephesus, some account of this celebrated edifice, 1 Kings vi, in fine.
Temptation, the Greek word πειρασμος not fully expressed by this term, Matt. vi, 13. How the petition in the Lord's Prayer, in which this word is contained, was understood by several of the primitive Fathers, ibid. The usual process of temptation pointed out, ibid. Observations on the THREE forms under which Satan tempts the human race, 2 Cor. xi, 14.

Temptation of Christ in the Wilderness, ingenious theory of a correspondent relative to the, Matt. iv, in fine.

Tempter, Ὁ Πειραζων, apparent allusion of St. Paul to this appellative of Satan, Matt. iv, 11.

Tent, Portable, a necessary part of a traveller's baggage in countries subject to violent tempests, Isa. iv, 6.

Tents, Feast of, a Pagan festival of antiquity, in imitation of the Jewish Feast of Tabernacles, Lev. xxiii, 34.

Teraphim, various opinions concerning the, Gen. xxxi, 19. 1 Sam. xviii, 13. Isa. ii, 8.

Terebinth-tree, the אלה ellah of Isaiah, according to Celsius, Isa. i, 29, 30.

Terminus, see Landmark.

Terror, or Formido, description of the, used by the ancients in hunting, Isa. xxiv, 17, 18.

Tertullian, quotation of a remarkable passage from, to shew that the Heathens borrowed many of their religious rites from the Hebrews, Exod. xxvii, in fine. Quotation from a work against the heretic Marcion, attributed to Tertullian, respecting Gideon's three hundred men who were victorious over the Midianites, Judg. vii, 20. Tertullian the author of an apology for the Christians, still extant, 2 Tim. iv, in fine.

Tertullus, observations on the oration of, against St. Paul, Acts xxiv, 2, 8.

Tesseræ of the ancients what, and why so named, Rev. ii, 17.

Tetragrammaton, an appellation of יהוה, Jehovah, on account of the number of letters it contains, 2 Cor. xii, 4. Rev. xix, 12. See Jehovah and Adonai.

Tetrarch, meaning of this word, Matt. xiv, 1. Luke iii, 1.

Tetrax, TETPAΞ, one of the six Ephesian characters, Acts xix, 19. Its import, according to Hesychius, ibid.

Teutate, an object of idolatrous worship among the ancient Gauls, to whom human victims were offered, Rom. ix, in fine.

Thallus, citation from this writer, in which it is supposed by some there is an allusion to the preternatural darkness at the time of our Lord's crucifixion, Matt. xxvii, 45.

Thammuz, or Tammuz, probably the same with Adonis, Ezek. viii, 3. Meaning of the name, Ezek. viii, 14.

Tharafah, an eminent Arabic poet, Psa. lx, in principio.

Theatres often used by the ancients for popular assemblies and public deliberations, especially in matters which regarded the safety of the state, Acts xix, 29.

Theb, anecdote of a prince who was required to pronounce this word, Judg. xii, 6.

Thebais, Mountains of the desert of, described, Deut. xxxii, 10.

Thebes, City of, the No of Jeremiah, see chap. xlvi, 25. Whence the fable respecting the manner of its being built probably originated, 2 Chron. xxxiv, 12.

Θελω, in what sense this verb is frequently used in the Septuagint, Matt. xxvii, 43.

Θηλυ, this appellation given by the ancients to the soul, which they considered the seat of the appetites and passions, and why, James i, 15.

Theocracy, the political state of the Jews, before the reign of Saul, Judg. iii, 10. 1 Sam. viii, 5.

Theodotion, a translator of the Hebrew Scriptures into Greek, some account of, General Preface, p. xxx.

Theodulus of Cælosyria, a commentator on the Epistle to the Romans, General Preface, p. vi.

Theophilus of Antioch, a commentator on the Four Gospels, General Preface, p. vi.

Theophylact, account of this commentator, General Preface, p. v.

Θεος, several citations from the Septuagint in which this word with the article prefixed has the import of Θεε, O God, Psa. xlv, 8. Heb. i, in fine.

Θεος εφανερωθη εν σαρκι, "God was manifested in the flesh," inquiry whether these words were originally in St. Paul's First Epistle to Timothy, 1 Tim. iii, 16.

Θεος and Δαιμων, distinction between, in Heathen authors. Acts xvii, 18.

Therapeutics of the ancient Jewish physicians in reference to hæmorrhages, Mark v, 26.

Thessalonians, First Epistle to the, generally believed to be the first letter which St. Paul addressed to any of the churches of Jesus Christ, Preface to the Epistle, p. ii.

Thessalonians, Second Epistle to the, what principally moved the apostle to write this letter, Preface to the Epistle, pp. i, ii. Parts into which it naturally divides itself, ibid. p. vi.

Thessalonica, a celebrated city of Macedonia, situated on what was formerly called the Thermaic Gulf, Acts xvii, 1. Different opinions concerning the origin of its name, ibid. Its present appellation, ibid. See also the Preface to the First Epistle to the Thessalonians.

Theudas mentioned by St. Luke, very uncertain who, Acts v, 36.

Third Hour, remarks on this hour being stated by St. Mark to have been the period of the day in which our Lord's crucifixion commenced, Mark xv, 25.

Third Part, a Rabbinism for a considerable number, Rev. viii, 8.

Thirty Pieces of Silver, various readings of the passage of Scripture thus rendered, Matt. xxvi, 15.

Thomas, import of this name, Gen. xxv, 24. John xi, 16. Observations on the very remarkable exclamation of Thomas Didymus, when he first saw Christ after His resurrection, John xxi, 28. Strange trifling of some of the ancients and moderns relative to the import of this exclamation, ibid.

Thomas de Cantelupo, extract from a letter which Edward I, wrote, at the instigation of his clergy, to Pope Clement V, relative to this bishop of Hereford, in which the gross superstition of that age is very conspicuous, 1 Tim. iv, 2.

Θωραξ, or Breastplate, account of this ancient species of defensive armour, Eph. vi, 13.

Thorn in the Flesh with which St. Paul was afflicted, various conjectures concerning the, 2 Cor. xii, 7. The false apostle at Corinth most probably intended by this phrase, ibid.

Thought, the import of the original term μεριμνα not fully expressed by this word, Matt. vi, 25.

Thousand, very probably the name of a division of a Jewish tribe, in the same manner as certain divisions of our English counties are called hundreds, Matt. ii, 6.

Thousand Years, a mystical number among the Rabbins, Rev. xx, 4. A famous number in Heathen authors, ibid.

Thracians, from whom descended, Gen. x, 2.

Three, a mystical number in Scripture, according to Ainsworth, Gen. xxii, 4.

Three Heavenly Witnesses, passage in St. John's First Epistle relative to the, most evidently spurious, 1 John v, 7, et in fine. Fac simile of this disputed passage, and its context, from the Codex Montfortii in Trinity College, Dublin, 1 John v, 7. Fac simile from the Editio Princeps of the Greek Testament printed at Complutum, ibid.

Three Days and three Nights, what meant by this phrase, according to the Jewish method of reckoning, Matt. xii, 40. Illustrated by some extracts from Rabbinical writers, ibid.

Three and four times, a mode of expression among the ancients denoting abundance and excess, Amos i, 3. Several examples produced, ibid.

Three Taverns, a place about thirty-three miles from Rome in the Appian way, Acts xxviii, 15. Quotations from Cicero and Zozimus in which this place is mentioned, ibid.

Three Years and Six Months, the duration of the great famine in the time of Ahab, according to Luke and James, how reconcileable with an apparently different statement in the First Book of Kings, Luke iv, in fine.

Threshing, different ways of, in use among the Hebrews, and the manner of performing them, Isa. xxviii, 27, 28.

Threshing-floors, Cato's directions in the construction of, 1 Sam. xxiii, in fine. How to be constructed according to Columella, ibid.

Θρησκυειν, to worship, origin of this word, according to Suidas, James i, 26. Indifferently applied to true religion and superstition, ibid.

Throne, Description of a, by Athenæus, Isa. lii, 2.

Throne of Solomon, curious account of the, extracted from a Persian manuscript, 2 Chron. x, in fine.

Thunder and Lightning, according to the Pagans, the mode by which Jupiter testified his approbation of the sacrifices offered to him, Lev. ix, 23.

Thunder-clap, how caused by the lightning, Job xxxviii, 26. Illustrated by an easy experiment on the air-pump, ibid.

Thunder-cloud, rule by which its distance from the spectator of the lightning issuing from it is calculated, Job xxxvii, 4.

Thunders of the Apocalypse, very probable conjecture why seven in number, Rev. x, 3. Import of each of these thunders professed to be understood by some expositors, though the writer of the Apocalypse was not permitted to reveal what they uttered! Preface to the Revelation, p. viii, and see chap. x, 3.

Θυρα, a metaphorical acceptation of this word illustrated by quotations from Cicero and Ovid, Col. iv, 3.

Θυρεος, or Scuta, some account of this oblong shield of the ancients, Eph. vi, 13.

Thyatira, a city of Natolia, in Asia Minor, now called Akissat, and Akkissar, Rev. i, 11.

Thyne, Thyin, or Thyine, a tree mentioned by Homer, Theophrastus, and Pliny, Rev. xviii, 12.

Thyrsus of Bacchus, fable of the, evidently borrowed from the story of the rod of Moses, Exod. iv, 17.

Tiberias, Sea of, its length and breadth according to Josephus and Pliny, John vi, 19.

Tiberius Cæsar, remarkable saying of, Mic. iii, 1. Character of this Roman emperor, Luke iii, 1.

Tides, phænomena and cause of the, Job xxxviii, 11. Heb. xi, in fine.

Tiger, a vessel so named, according to Virgil, Acts xxviii, 11.

Tiglath-pileser, king of Assyria, supposed by Prideaux to have been the same with Arbaces, called by Ælian Thilgamus, and by Ussher Ninius junior, 2 Kings xv, 29.

Tigranes, remarkable anecdote respecting, John xv, 13.

Tigris, account of a very remarkable overflowing of this river, Introduction to Nahum, p. i. See also chap. ii, 6.

Time, עדן, îdden, מועד, moâd, and καιρος, thus rendered in our common Version, the prophetic symbol for a year, Dan. iv, 16; vii, 25; xii, 8. Rev. xii, 14.

Τιμη, frequently signifies a pecuniary recompense or present, Acts xxviii, 10. Several examples produced, ibid. 1 Tim. v, 18.

Timothy, biographical sketch of this minister of Jesus Christ to whom two apostolical letters in the Sacred Canon are addressed, Preface to the First Epistle, pp. i, ii.

Timothy, First Epistle to, the time when, and the place from which, it was probably written, discussed at considerable length, Preface to the Epistle, pp. ii—vi. This apostolical letter of great use to every minister of the gospel, ibid, p. ii.

Timothy, Second Epistle to, observations of Dr. Paley and Lewis Capellus relative to the date of this apostolical letter, Preface to the Epistle, pp. i—iv.

Tin, method adopted in Cornwall of purifying this metal from all its dross, Jer. xxiii, 29.

Tippoo Sultan, description of a seal of, in the Author's possession, Esth. iii, 9. Remarkable form of prayer used by this prince, Matt. vi, 7.

Tirshatha, probably the name of an office, Ezra ii, 63. Neh. viii, 9.

Titan, Τειταν, a name famous for containing the Apocalyptic number 666, a number supposed by Wetstein and others to have an allusion to the name of the Roman emperor Titus, who was an instrument in the hand of God of dissolving the whole Jewish polity, Preface to the Revelation, p. iv. Without the last letter the name contains 616, a various reading of the number of the beast supported by some very respectable manuscripts, ibid.

Titans, fable of the, Job xxvi, 5. Hesiod's description of Jupiter fighting against the Titans, one of the grandest things in all Pagan antiquity, Psa. xviii, 7.

Τιθεναι τινα εις τι, a phrase frequent among the purest Greek writers, 1 Pet. ii, 8. Its import, ibid.

Tithes, disquisition concerning, Gen. xxviii, in fine. Ezek. xliv, 28.

Tithing the Sheep, manner of, among the Jews, Ezek. xx, 37. Zech. xi, 7.

Titles given to the sovereigns and great men of the East, extremely pompous, Job xxxii, in fine. Some examples produced, ibid. Dr. Taylor's observations on the titles bestowed on Christians in the New Testament, 1 John ii, in fine.

Titus, inscription in honour of, extracted from Gruter's work, Matt. xxiv, 34.

Titus, Triumphal Arch of, on what account erected, Matt. xxiv, 34. Still exists in the Via Sacra, leading from the forum to the amphitheatre, ibid. Particular description of the devices and inscription on this arch, Exod. xxv, 31. Matt. xxiv, 34.

Titus, biographical sketch of this frequent companion of St. Paul, Preface to Titus, pp. i, ii.

Titus, Epistle to, great affinity between this apostolical letter and St. Paul's First Epistle to Timothy, Preface to Titus, pp. iv, v.

Tobh, טוב, generally translated good, inquiry into its import, Gen. i, 10.

Toga Prætexta, description of this Roman vestment, Gen. xxxvii, 3.

Toga Virilis, or Toga Pura, account of the, Gen. xxxvii, 3.

Togarmah, what people possibly meant by this name, Ezek. xxvii, 14.

Togatus, why this word is employed in speaking of a Roman, 1 Kings xix, in fine.

Tohoo, תהו, and bohoo, בהו, translated "without form and void," inquiry into the import of these words, Gen. i, 2. The names of the Syrian and Egyptian gods Teuth and Baü, probably borrowed from these terms, ibid.

Toleration, Unlimited, in religious matters, should be allowed under the Christian dispensation, and why, Numb. xv, 14.

Tolistoboii, a tribe of the ancient Galatæ, Preface to Galatians, p. i.

Tombs of the Dead very sacred among the ancients, Neh. ii, 5. Why the Jewish tombs were whitewashed, Matt. xxiii, 27.

Tongue, curious Rabbinical saying relative to the, James iii, 10.

Tongue of Fire, a Hebraism, Acts ii, 3. Its import, ibid. Examples of a similar Hebraism, ibid.

Tongue of the Heart, what has been so denominated, Matt. vii, 16.

Toozuki Teemour, beautiful saying in the, quoted, Deut. xxxii, 24. Lam. iii, 12.

Topaz, description of this precious stone, Exod. xxviii, 17. Job xxviii, 18, 19. Rev. xxi, 20. Where found in abundance, according to Diodorus Siculus, Job xxviii, 19.

Toph, תף, its import, Exod. xv, 20. 1 Sam. x, 5. Job xxi, 12. Psa. lxxxi, 2.

Tophet, Jerom's account of, 2 Kings xxiii, 10. Derivation of the name, according to the Rabbins, ibid. Further description, Isa. xxx, 33.

Τοπος, a very frequent import of this term in the sacred and apocryphal writings, John xi, 48.

Torah, תרה, its derivation and import, Exod. xii, 49. Lev. xxvi, 15.

Tormentors, delivering over to the, Asiatic custom to which these words have an allusion, Matt. xviii, 34.

Tormil, תורמיל, in what sense this word is used by the Rabbins, Matt. x, 10.

Tortures of a very cruel description among the Asiatics to induce confession, Matt. xviii, 34.

Toston, (Peter,) extraordinary longevity of this man, Psa. xc, in fine.

Τοξον, or Bow, a military weapon of the ancients, Eph. vi, 13.

Τραχηλιζω, inquiry into the import of this word, Heb. iv, 13.

Trachonitis, where situated, Luke iii, 1.

Traditionists, a Jewish sect, who interpreted the Divine testimonies agreeably to the decisions of the elders, 1 Cor. viii, 1.

Traditions of the Jewish Elders, remarks upon the, Matt. xv, 2, et in fine.

Transfiguration of our Lord, impious trifling of some of the foreign critics on the Scripture account of the, Matt. xvii, in fine.

Transmigration of Souls, a Pythagorean doctrine. See Metempsychosis.

Transposition in the Greek Text, Matt. vii, 6.

Transpositions in the Hebrew Text, some instances of, Isa. vii, 4; viii, 12. Jer. xxiv, 1. Matt. vii, 6.

Transubstantiation, doctrine of, shewn to be in direct opposition to the plain tenor of Holy Writ, Matt. xxvi, 26. When this doctrine was first advanced among the Romanists, Rev. xiii, 6. Date of its full reception as an article of the Roman Catholic faith, ibid.

Trap to catch rats, foxes, &c, particular description of the, Amos iii, 5.

Treading of Cattle, a method employed by the ancients in separating the corn from the ear, Isa. xxviii, 27, 28.

Tread-mill, in this country, the revival of an ancient employment for slaves, Isa. xlvii, 2.

Treasure, Hebrew and Greek words so translated import any kind of store or collection, Rom. ii, 5.

Treasure hid in a Field, a phrase very generally misunderstood, Matt. xiii, 44.

Treasure, laying up of, how far this is consistent with the Christian character and profession, Matt. vi, 19.

Tree, acounted by the Jews as accursed and polluted, on which a malefactor had been executed, or on which he had been hanged after having been put to death by stoning, Isa. xv, 19.

Tree of the Knowledge of Good and Evil, observations concerning the, Gen. ii, 9.

Tree of Life, observations concerning the, Gen. ii, 9; iii, 19.

Trees, remarkable longevity of some species, Isa. lxv, 22. Extravagant notions of the Chinese respecting what they call the Immortal Tree, ibid. Trees in very ancient times frequently served for the temples of the gods, Judg. iii, 7.

Trees of God, import of this Hebraism, Luke vi, 12.

Trefoil, this herb said to have been the means of fully convincing the learned Erasmus of the truth of the doctrine of the Trinity, Eccles. iii, 14.

Tremellius, author of a Latin version of the Hebrew Bible, with critical notes, General Preface, p. viii.

Trespasses, remarkable difference in import between παραπτωματα which is thus rendered in our common Version, and οφειληματα translated by the same word in the Book of Common Prayer, Matt. vi, 15.

Trial by Jury, one of the greatest ornaments of the British constitution, Gen. xxxvii, 36.

Triarii, who, among the Romans, Matt. viii, 9.

Tribute, supposed amount of the Jewish, paid into the imperial exchequer after the destruction of the Temple, Matt. xxii, 21.

Tribute Money, the τα διδραχμα thus rendered in our common Version alludes not to a tax to be paid to the Roman government, but to a tax for the support of the Temple, Matt. xvii, 24.

Trinity, doctrine of the, shewn to be a doctrine of Scripture, Gen. i, 1, 26. Deut. vi, 4. Isa. xlviii, 16. Matt. iii, 16; xix, 17; xxviii, 19. John i, in fine. 2 Cor. xiii, 14. Eph. ii, 18.

Trinity of the Hindoos, account of the, Luke i, 68.

Triumph, particular description of this public and solemn honour conferred by the ancient Romans on a victorious general, 2 Cor. ii, 14.

Trocmi, a tribe of the ancient Galatæ, Preface to Galatians, p. i.

Troglodytes, who, Isa. ii, 13—16.

Troy, calamities of, described by Virgil under imagery similar to what Jeremiah employs in narrating the miseries of Jerusalem, Lam. i, 20. Its supposed situation, Acts xvi, 8.

Trumpet holes, שופרות, shopheroth, what, Matt. vi, 2.

Trumpets of the Apocalypse, what they import, according to Wetstein, Preface to the Revelation, pp. iii, iv. Mr. Lowman's scheme of interpretation, Rev. xxii, in fine.

Trumpets, Feast of, why so named, and when celebrated, Exod. xxiii, 14.

Truth was of small account among many even of the best Heathens, Eph. iv, 25. Dr. Whitby's collection of some of their maxims on this subject, ibid.

Tryphon, human beings sacrificed to, in several cities of Egypt, according to Plutarch, Exod. xii, in fine.

Tsach, צח, a memorial symbol of the Rabbins, Masoretic notes at the end of Leviticus.

Tsahar, צהר, rendered window, of very doubtful signification, Gen. vi, 16.

Tsal, צל, literally importing to overspread or overshadow, how metaphorically applied, Numb. xiv, 9.

Tse, צא, import of this word among the Jews, when employed as a memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Genesis.

Tseba, צבא, host, or army, inquiry into the meaning of the original term, Gen. ii, 1.

Tsebi, צבי, Dr. Shaw's opinion relative to the meaning of this Hebrew word, Deut. xii, 15.

Tsidekah, or Tsidekath, צדקה, its derivation and import, Lev. xxvi, 15. A common word among the Jews for alms, Matt. vi, 1. A beautiful paranomasia on this word, Isaiah v, 7. Striking contrast between the ancient and modern acceptations of this word, Matt. vi, 1.

Tug, a species of cord among the Irish, how manufactured, and for what purposes employed, Judg. xvi, 7.

Tuisco, an object of idolatrous worship among the ancient Germans, Rom. ix, in fine.

Tuneet, a species of food, how prepared, 2 Sam. xvii, 28.

Tumuli, or Barrows, in England, what, 2 Sam. xviii, 17. To make the tumulus still more elevated and conspicuous, a pillar or some other ornament was often erected upon it, Isa. liii, 9.

Tunicatis Popellus, why the common people of Rome were so named, Luke vi, 29.

Τυπος διδαχης, import of this figurative expression, Romans vi, 17.

Turkish couch, description of a, Song iii, 10.

Tutelary Deity, among Heathen nations, every city said to have a, Jer. ii, 28. The image of the tutelary deity was placed at the entrance of the city to signify that he was the guardian and protector, Acts xiv, 13. The tutelary saints of the Romanists a copy of this Pagan superstition, Jer. ii, 28.

Twelve Years, the age at which, according to the Jewish canons, a child was obliged to begin to learn a trade, Luke ii, 41.

Twice-born, a term used by the Brahmins in the same sense as born again among the Christians, Luke i, 15.

Twice Dead, how this phrase is to be understood, Jude 12.

Twilight, how caused, 2 Kings xx, in fine. Job xxxviii, 12. Prov. iv, 18. Rules by which it was distinguished by the Rabbins, Mark xvi, 2.

Twin, a word of Saxon origin, John xi, 16.

Tympanum, description of this musical instrument, Gen. xxxi, 27.

Typhon, the evil dæmon, worshipped among the Egyptians

Numb. xix, 2. Formerly customary to sacrifice red bulls to appease this divinity, ibid.

Tyre, some account of this celebrated city of antiquity, and its great vicissitudes of fortune, Josh. xix, 29. Ezek. xxv, xxvi, xxvii. Isa. xxiii. Why called the daughter of Tarshish, Isa. xxiii, 10.

U

Ugab, עגב, rendered organ, what it imports, Gen. iv, 21. Job xxi, 12; xxx, 31.

Υιος Θεϱ and Ο Υιος τϱ Θεϱ, critical observation on the difference of import between these two Scripture phrases, Matt. xiv, 33.

Ulai, the same with the Eulæus, a river which divided Shushan, or Susiana, from Elymais, Dan. viii, 2.

Ulaloo, or Ullaloo, the funeral song of the Irish, Isa. lii, 5. Particular description of it, Matt. ix, 42.

Umbilical Cord, the medium by which the fœtus receives its nourishment while in the womb of its mother, Prov. iii, 8. Song vii, 2. Ezek. xvi, 4.

Unbelief, good saying of Quesnel respecting, Matt. xiii, 58.

Unam Sanctam, citation from this celebrated Papal document, Rev. xiii, 15.

Uncircumcision, different species of, as enumerated by Rabbi Seira, Acts vii, 51.

Unction, prophets, priests, and kings, among the Jews, consecrated by, in order that they might legitimately exercise their respective offices, Matt. i, 16. Luke ii, 11. What unction considered an emblem of, ibid.

Understanding, general definition of this term, Rom. viii, 16. Eph. i, 18. Philo's definition of the Greek word, νϱς, which is sometimes thus rendered, Eph. i, 18.

Ungodly, definition of this word, Psa. i, 1. In what it differs in import from sinner and scornful, ibid.

Unicorn, what animal probably intended by the Hebrew word so translated, Numb. xxiii, 22. Deut. xxxiii, 17. Job xxxix, 9. The animal like a horse, with one long rich curled horn growing out of his forehead, commonly called the unicorn, shewn to be wholly fabulous, Job xxxix, 9. Very curious passage in an old Psalter respecting this animal, Psa. xxii, 21.

Uniformity of Worship, absolute necessity of, under the Mosaic œconomy, Deut. xii, 14. Why not so necessary under the Christian dispensation, ibid.

Uninterrupted Succession boasted of in the Romish church shewn to be a mere fable, Ezek. xxxiv, 23, 24. Rom. xvi, 15. Heb. v, 4.

Universe, thoughts on the vast immensity of the, 1 Kings viii, 27. Amos ix, 6.

Universal Restoration, remarks on this antiscriptural tenet, Matt. v, 26.

Unleavened Bread shewn to be necessary in the proper administration of the Lord's Supper, Matt. xxvi, 26.

Unregenerate Mind, apostolic doctrine of the perpetual struggles of two opposite principles in the, when enlightened by natural or revealed religion, Rom. vii, 15, &c. Citations from Ovid, Terence, Horace, Arrian, and Euripides, in which these two opposing principles in man are acknowledged, and very forcibly expressed, ibid. Relation of a very remarkable anecdote by Xenophon in his life of Cyrus, which is strongly illustrative of this doctrine, Rom. vii, 20.

Υπηρετης, imports of this word, 1 Cor. iv, 1.

Υποκριτης, Hypocrite, derivation and import of this word, Matt. vi, 5.

Υποσασις, hypostasis, meaning of this term, Heb. xi, 1.

Upper Garments, customary in the East to pull off the, in times of deep mourning, Exod. xxxiii, 5.

Upper Rooms in private houses formerly used by the Jews for the purposes of devotion, Acts i, 13. The upper room in which the apostles with some others were assembled after the ascension of our Lord, and at the election of Matthias, probably an apartment of the Temple, ibid.

Ur, account of this very ancient city of Chaldea, Gen. xi, 31. Its primitive inhabitants generally supposed to have been ignicolists, ibid.

Urim and Thummim, various conjectures concerning, Exod. xxviii, 30. Inquiry into the mode of consultation by, ibid, Josh. vii, 14. 1 Sam. xxviii, 6.

Urnæ Lachrymales, see Lachrymatories.

Urns containing the ashes and half-calcined bones of the dead, of frequent occurrence in barrows, or tumuli, in this country, 2 Chron. xvi, in fine. Jer. xxxiv, 2.

Uro, citations from Terence and Virgil to shew that this word sometimes imports to vex or trouble, 1 Cor. vii, 9.

Ushwamedha, or solemn sacrifice of the white horse, description of this very remarkable Hindoo ceremony, Rom. ix, in fine.

Usury, observations concerning, Exod. xxii, 25. Psa. xv, 5. The Jews remarkable for usury and usurious contracts, Psa. xv, 5.

Uttermost Farthing, Ο εσχατος κοδρηαντης, import of this phrase, Matt. v, 26. This expression as figuratively used by our Lord, when considered in connection with its context, gives not the least support to the doctrines of purgatory and of universal restoration, ibid.

Uxor, why a married woman was so called among the Romans, Song v, 5.

Uz, the country of Job, where probably situated, Preface to the Book of Job, and chap. i, 1.

V

Vagabond, ancient and modern acceptations of this word, Acts xix. 13.

Vail of the Eastern Women, particular description of the, Song iv, 1.

Vail of the Tabernacle, description of the, Exod. xxvi, 31. Its great costliness, ibid.

Vail of the Temple, typical import of the rending of the,

at the time of our Lord's dismissing His spirit, Matthew xxvii, 51.

Vail on the Face of Moses, its typical import, Exod. xxxiv, 32.

Vail to shade the Court, of what form, Isa. xl, 22.

Vain Repetitions, see Repetitions.

Valerianus, how this Roman emperor was treated by Sapor, king of Persia, Isa. li, 23.

Vallancy, (General,) his ingenious hypothesis that the twelve patriarchs are resembled to the twelve signs of the zodiac, Gen. xlix, in fine. The asterism belonging to each patriarch, ibid.

Valley of Salt, Maundrell's description of the, Matt. v, 13.

Valley of Vision, what meant by this expression, Isa. xxii, in principio.

Van of the ancients, what, Isa. xxx, 28.

Various Readings in the Scriptures, thoughts on the, with an enumeration of the sources whence almost the whole of them have sprung, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. viii—xi. Excellent Remark of Dr. Mill on their immense number, ibid. p. x.

Vasco de Gama, a celebrated Portuguese navigator, who recovered the passage round the Cape of Good Hope after it had been intermitted and lost for many centuries, Isa. ii, 13—16.

Vates and Poeta, synonymous terms among the Romans, Gen. xx, 7. Tit. i, 12.

Ve-heyeh, ואהיה, import of this memorial symbol of the Rabbins, Masoretic Notes at the end of Leviticus.

Veeshnoo, among the Hindoos, the Deity in his preserving quality, Luke i, 68. John i, 14.

Vegetable Creation, astonishing power with which God has endued its different species to multiply themselves, instanced in the elm, Gen. i, 12.

Veil, see Vail.

Vein of Lives, a phrase probably alluding to the great aorta in the human system, Psa. xxxvi, 9.

Velo Hethmahmaheti, ולא התמהמהתי, inquiry into this amazingly emphatical expression of the Psalmist, Psalm cxix, 60.

Velum, or Curtain, וילון, the first of the seven heavens, according to the Rabbins, 2 Cor. xii, 2.

Vena Cava, the fountain of Scripture, why so named, Eccles. xii, 6.

Venema, (Herman,) author of a commentary on the Psalms and Malachi, General Preface, p. xiv.

Venite, exultemus Domino, a Psalm long used in the Christian church towards the commencement of public service, Psa. xcv, in principio. Parts of which it is composed, according to Houbigant and others, ibid.

Ventriloquism, of the ancients, as described by Psellus, Isaiah xxiv, 4.

Venus, formerly customary for women to appear in armour in their worship of this idol, Deut. xxii, 5. Prostitutes publicly kept in the temple of Venus Melytta, whose gains were applied to the support of her abominable worship, Deut. xxiii, 18. 2 Kings xvii, 30. Conjecture respecting the origin of the name of this idol, 2 Kings xvii, 30.

Venus, revolutions as measured by the equinoxes and fixed stars, mean distance from the Sun, perigeal and apogeal distances, diameter, relative volume, time of rotation, mass, and mean hourly orbitical motion, of this primary planet, Gen. i, 1.

Verbs which express the accomplishment of a thing often to be understood as only signifying the beginning of that accomplishment, Luke v, 6. An example produced, ibid.

Vermillion, whence produced, according to Pliny, Isaiah i, 18.

Verriculum, definition of this word by Martinius, Matt. xiii, 47.

Versions of the New Testament, short account of the, Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. xiv—xxi.

Vespasian, description of the coin (several of which are in the Author's possession) struck by this emperor at the capture of Jerusalem, Isaiah iii, 26. Lamentations i, 1. Matthew xxiv, 34.

Vessels of Earth and Silver, very interesting and instructive saying of the Rabbins relative to, 2 Cor. iv, 7.

Vestry, the place where the sacerdotal robes and pontifical ornaments are kept, whence the word is derived, 2 Kings x, 22.

Vesuvius, some account of the eruption of, in A. D. 79, Gen. l, in fine.

Vetaron, ותרן, import of this Jewish memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Joshua.

Vials of the Apocalypse, their import according to Wetstein, Preface to the Revelation, pp. iv, v. Lowman's scheme of interpretation, Rev. xxii, in fine. Mr. Robert Fleming's very remarkable explanation of the hieroglyphic of an angel pouring out of his vial upon the sun, Rev. xvi, 8.

Vicarious Sacrifices, after the similitude of the Jewish scapegoat, have been common among most ancient nations, Lev. xvi, 10. Matt. xx, 28. John xi, 51. Rom. ix, in fine. 1 Cor. iv, 13.

Victim of the Heathens being brought without reluctance to the altar considered by them a good omen, and vice versâ, Isa. lx, 7. An ancient custom to set a seal upon the victim deemed proper for sacrifice, John vi, 27. This illustrated by a quotation from Herodotus, ibid. How the ancient Heathens adorned their sacrificial victims, Acts xiv, 13. This illustrated by citations from Ovid and Virgil, ibid.

Victimæ Optimæ, or Chief Sacrifice, what the Pagans so considered, according to Pliny, Lev. i, 2.

Victor of Antioch, a commentator on St. Mark's Gospel, General Preface, p. vi.

Vile, whence this name is probably derived, John iii, 20.

Vile Person, definition of the Hebrew word thus rendered, Isa. xxxii, 5.

Villani, among our Saxon ancestors, who, 1 Corinthians vii, in fine.

Vine, when probably first cultivated, Gen. ix, 21. Mode adopted in its cultivation, Psalm lxxx, 8, &c. The vine formerly cultivated in Egypt for the sake of eating the grapes, not for wine, Isa. v, 2. The leaves of this tree often used by the Egyptians for wrapping up their mincemeat, Psalm lxxviii, 47. This tree very frequently used in a metaphorical sense in Scripture, Psa. lxxx, 8.

Vinegar, whence this word is derived, Matt. xxvii, 34. A common drink of the Roman soldiers, Luke xxiii, 36.

Vines, large trunks of the, in Persia, Isa. v, 2.

Vineyards of Tripoli, principally enclosed, according to Rawolf with hedges of the rhamnus, paliurus, oxyacantha, &c, Isa. xxvii, 4.

Vineyard-tower of the ancients what, Isa. v, 2.

Vintage at Aleppo, its time and duration, Amos ix, 13.

Virgil's description of Neptune appeasing the storm raised by Juno for the destruction of the fleet of Æneas, Psalm xxix, in fine.

Virgin, see Almah.

Virginity of Mary, previously to the birth of our Lord, an article of the utmost consequence to the Christian system, Matt. i, 25. The doctrine of her perpetual virginity, so much insisted on by the Romanists, a mere chimera, Matt. i, 25; xii, 46; xiii, 55. John vii, 3.

Virtue, whence this word is derived, Prov. xii, 4.

Vision, Mr. Mason Goode's remarks on the, related by Eliphaz the Temanite, Job. iv, 13. Mr. Hervey's striking and natural illustration, ibid.

Vision, manner of, described, Eccles. xii, 3.

Vitringa, (Campegius,) author of a comment on Isaiah, General Preface, p. xiii.

Vitruvius's directions relative to felling of trees, 1 Kings v, 6.

Vitzliputzli, the supreme deity of the Mexicans, how represented, Exod. xxv, in fine.

Voice of the Lord, thunder frequently called by this name in Scripture, Exodus ix, 28. Job xxxix, 1. Psalm xxix, 3, &c.

Volcatius the poet, according to Pliny, had six fingers on each hand, 2 Sam. xxi, 20.

Voltaire, examination of a passage of Scripture grossly misrepresented by this philosopher, Ezek. xxxix, 19.

Volumen, Volume, why the Romans gave this appellation to a book, Ezek. ii, 9. Heb. x. 7.

Volumes, Magnitudes, or Bulks, of the Sun, Moon, and planets, compared with that of the earth, Gen. i, 1.

Vow, Ainsworth's definition of a, Lev. xxvii, 2. Enumeration of the different kinds of vow, Numbers xxx, 2. Dr. Hales' observations on the vow of Jephthah, Judges xi, in fine. Saying of Philo relative to rash vows, Numbers xxx, 3.

Vulcan, a Heathen deity probably derived his name from Tubulcain, the son of Lamech, Gen. iv, 22.

Vulgate, or Latin Version of the Scriptures by Jerom, some account of the, General Preface, p. xxxi. See also Isaiah lxvi, in fine; and the Introduction to the Gospels and Acts, pp. xx, xxi. High veneration entertained by the Romanists for the Vulgate Version of the Scriptures, Isaiah lxvi, in fine.

W

Wages of a Roman soldier per diem, Luke iii, 14.

Wain, an instrument employed in threshing, Isa. xxviii, 27, 28. In what it differed from the drag, ibid.

Waking, or Watching of the Dead practised among the ancient Greeks, Acts ix, 37. A similar custom still observed among the native Irish, ibid.

Wall said to have fallen upon twenty-seven thousand Syrians, Dr. Kennicott's remarks concerning the, 1 Kings xx, in fine.

Walls of ancient cities in the East built of unbaked bricks, Ezek. xiii, 11. Mic. vii, 10.

Walls of the Houses and Gardens of Damascus, as described by Maundrell, Isa. xiii, 19.

Walls of the Tombs of the Kings and Nobles of Egypt covered with figures of the ancient objects of idolatry, Ezekiel viii, 10.

Wandering Stars, Αστερες πλανηται, why this phrase should not be understood of the planets, but rather of the ignes fatui, Jude 13.

War, manner of the proclamation of, among the ancients, 2 Kings xiii, 17.

Warburton's judicious remarks on Solomon's multiplying horses, 2 Chron. i, in fine.

Wardrobes of the Asiatics, account of the, Isa. iii, 7. Isaiah's inventory of the wardrobe of a Hebrew lady, as explained by Shroeder, Isa. iii, 16.

Warfare, barbarous character of, in ancient times, Psalm cxxxvii, 9.

War Song, Dr. Kennicott's remarks on a very ancient one of the Hebrews, Numb. xxi, 17, 18, et in fine.

Washing the Corpse before interment, and before it was laid out to lie in state, a custom of very remote antiquity, Acts ix, 37.

Washing the feet of a Superior, a custom observed by the Hindoos, Luke vii, 44. The office of the meanest slaves, John xiii, 5.

Washing the Hands, a religious ceremony among Jews and Mohammedans, Mark vii, 3. Washing the hands in token of innocence an ancient rite among the Hebrews, Greeks, and Romans, Job ix, 30. Psa. xxvi, 6. Matt. xxvii, 24.

Watch, why a division of the season of darkness was so named, Exod. xiv, 24. Into how many watches the night was divided, ibid. Matt. xiv, 25. Mark xv, 25.

Watches in the East, how performed, Isa. xii, 6.

Watchmen in the Temple, on constant duty, Isa. lxii, 6. Luke xxii, 4.

Water constituent parts of, Gen. vii, 11. Job xxxviii, 26. Jer. x, 13. 2 Pet. iii, 10. Decomposed by the Galvanic fluid, Gen. viii, 1. Jer. x, 13. Expansive power of water in freezing, Job xxxvii, 10.

Water Baptism, see Baptism.

Water, Pouring out of, in the way of libation, a religious ordinance among the Hebrews and other nations, 1 Sam. vii, 6. Deep penitential sorrow often represented under the notion of pouring out water, ibid.

Water, Trial by, a species of ordeal among the Hindoos, and the Bithynians and Sardinians, Numb. v, in fine.

Watering the Ground with the Foot, what intended by this phrase, Deut. xi, 10. Psa. i, 3.

Waters of Jealousy, Rabbinical comment on the, Numb, v, in fine.

Water-Drinking, saying of Libanius respecting, 1 Tim. v, 23.

Water-Mills not invented till a little before the time of Augustus, Isa. xlvii, 2.

Water-Spouts, description of, Psa. xlii, 7. Frequent on the coast of Syria, ibid.

Watling-Street, some account of, Job xxiii, 11.

Watson, (Dr.) late Bishop of Llandaff, character of his Apology for the Bible, 2 Tim. iv, in fine.

Wax-board, or cloth, employed by the ancients to write upon, Luke i, 63.

Wealth, instances of astonishing, possessed by some of the ancients, Esth. iii, 9.

Wean, whence this word is derived, Gen. xxi, 8. Time for the weaning of children as fixed by the Koran, ibid.

Weather, signs of fair and foul, according to the Jews and Romans, Matt. xvi, 2, 3.

Wedding, account of the celebration of a, in Persia, as given in the Zend Avesta, Matt. xxv, 7.

Weeping, Days of, what, among the Jews, John xi, 31. On what account they were succeeded by the seven days of lamentation, ibid.

Weights anciently made of stone, Deut. xxv, 13. The standards of the Jewish weights and measures kept in the sanctuary, Exod. xxx, 13. 1 Chron. xxiii, 29.

Wells scarce in every part of the East, Judg. v, 11. Job xi, 18. Esteemed a great virtue in the East to furnish thirsty travellers with water, Job xxii, 7. Some of the Indian devotees accustomed to stand with a girbah to give drink to weary travellers, ibid. Matt. x, 42.

Wells, (Dr. Edward,) publisher of a New Testament in Greek and English, with notes, General Preface, p. x.

Wench, various opinions concerning the derivation of this word, 2 Sam. xvii, 17.

Wesley, (Rev. John,) author of Notes on the Old and New Testament, General Preface, p. xii.

Wesley, (Mrs.) mother of the late celebrated John and Charles Wesley, her character, Prov. xxxi, 29.

Wetstein, (J. James,) a celebrated critic on the New Testament, General Preface, p. x.

Whale, a very improper rendering of κητος, Matt. xii, 40.

What have we to do with thee? import of this Jewish phrase, which is of frequent occurrence in the Sacred Oracles, Matt. viii, 29.

Wheel broken at the Cistern, what meant by this phrase, Eccles. xii, 6.

Wheels of Ezekiel, observations upon this very remarkable vision, Ezek. i, 15—21; x, in fine.

Wheel-Carriages in use from very remote antiquity, Gen. xlv, 21; xlvi, 29.

Whirlwind, סופה suphah, and סערה seârah, indifferently thus rendered, in what they may possibly differ in import, Job xxxvii, 9; xxxviii, 1. Psa. lviii, 9. Prov. i, 27.

Whispering, or Chirping, out of the Dust, import of this phrase, Isa. xxix, 4.

Whit, or Wid, derivation and import of this old English word, 1 Sam. iii, 18, Whited Sepulchres, or Whitewashed Tombs, see Tombs.

Whitby, (Dr.) a very ablecommentator on the New Testament, General Preface, p. xi.

White Asses, or Ass Colts, riding upon, anciently the privilege of persons of high rank, Gen. xlix, 8.

White Bulls without blemish offered in sacrifice to Apis by the ancient Egyptians, John vi, 27. Curious mode adopted by the Egyptians to ascertain whether the animal was proper for sacrifice, ibid.

Whoredom, the only case in which the Author of the Christian religion admits of divorce, Matt. v, 32. The idolatries of those people to whom were entrusted the Oracles of God very frequently termed whoredom in the prophetical writings, 1 Chron. v, 25. Ezek. xvi, xxiii. Rev. xvii, 1.

Wicked one, Ὁ πονηρος, derivation and import of this appellative of the great adversary of mankind, Matt. vi, 13; xiii, 19. Απο του πονηρου, in the Lord's Prayer, should be rendered from the wicked one, and not as in our common Version, Matt. vi, 13. See also 1 John v, 19.

Widow's Son of Nain, reflections on the resurrection of the, Luke vii, in fine.

Wild Ass, natural history of the, Job xxxix, 5—8.

Wild Grapes, the Hebrew word so translated, in the opinion of Hasselquist, means the solanum incanum, or hoary nightshade, known to the Arabs by the name of Aneb el dib, Isa. v, 2.

Will, observations on the freedom of the, Psa. cx, 3. Prov. i, 10. Matt. vi, 10. Phil. ii, 13.

Will-worship, Εθελοθρησκεια, observations on the meaning of this word, as used by the apostle, Col. ii, 23.

Wind of God, import of this Hebraism, Luke vi, 12.

Windmills, an invention posterior to that of watermills, Isa. xlvii, 2.

Wine, anciently the expressed juice of the grape, without fermentation, Gen. xl, 11. Method adopted by the inhabitants of the East in cooling their wines, Prov. xxv, 13. How the ancients preserved their wine, Song ii, 4. The wines of Egypt, according to Hasselquist, not the produce of its own vineyards, Isa. v, 2. Account of the mixed wine of the ancient Greeks and Romans, Isa. i, 22. 1 Tim. v, 23. Laws among the ancient Greeks and Romans relative to the drinking of wines mixed and unmixed, 1 Tim. v, 23. Observations on the mode of the treatment of wines, Isa. xxv, 6.

Wine of Three Leaves, what meant by this phrase among the Rabbins, Luke v, 39.

Wine-presses in Persia, how formed, according to Chardin, Isa. v, 2.

Wing, an emblem of protection, Ruth iii, 9.

Winged Cymbal, the same with the Egyptian sistrum, according to Bochart, Isa. xviii, 1.

Winnowing of Grain, how formerly effected, Ruth iii, 2. Psa. i, 4. Nearly the same with that practised in various parts of England and Ireland before the invention of the winnowing machine, Psa. i, 4.

Wisdom, definition of, by Sir W. Temple, Eph. i, 8. The wisdom that is from above, חכמה עליונא chocmah âliona, a very favourite expression among the Rabbins, of which some examples are produced, James iii, in fine. Dr. Lightfoot's observations on a fourfold wisdom mentioned by St. Paul, 1 Cor. ii, 6.

Wisdom of Solomon, the sacred historian's resemblance of the extraordinary greatness of the, to the sand on the seashore very beautifully illustrated by Lord Bacon, 1 Kings iv, 29.

Witches, consideration of the question whether the persons thus denominated only pretended to have, or actually possessed, the power commonly attributed to them, Exodus xxii, 18.

Withred, king of Kent, singular anecdote respecting, 2 Chron. ii, 11.

Wives of the conquered king the property of the conqueror, 2 Sam. xvi, 21.

Wizzard, or Wizard, derivation and import of this word, Lev. xix, 31. Deut. xviii, 11. Wizzard usually considered the masculine of witch, ibid.

Woden, a principal divinity of the ancient Swedes, to whom human victims were very frequently offered, Rom. ix, in fine. Account of the grand festival formerly celebrated every ninth year to this idol, ibid. A similar abomination practised by the ancient Danes and Norwegians, ibid.

Woe unto thee, the original words ουαι σοι thus rendered, to be understood rather as an exclamation of pity than a denunciation of judgment, Matt. xi, 21; xviii, 7.

Wolf remarkable for its fierceness and quick sight, Hab. i, 8. Why the tribe of Benjamin was resembled to this animal, Gen. xlix, 27.

Wolf-Grapes, the same with the solanum incanum, or hoary nightshade, Isa. v, 2.

Woman, inquiry into the derivation of the term, Gen. ii, 23. To be slain by a woman considered by the ancients a mark of great disgrace, Judg. ix, 54.

Woman taken in Adultery, account of this circumstance in St. John's Gospel, translated from the Codex Bezæ and other MSS., John vii, in fine.

Women employed in Eastern countries in grinding the corn, Exod. xi, 5. Isa. xlvii, 2. Matt. xxiv, 40, 41. Political condition of women under the ancient Roman government, 1 Tim. ii, 12. Their state under the British laws, ibid. Women, among the ancients, generally kept houses of entertainment; or, in other words, were tavern-keepers, Josh. ii, 1. Several quotations from ancient writers in attestation of this circumstance, ibid. Women formerly employed in the Tabernacle service, Exod. xxxviii, 8. 1 Sam. ii, 22. The announcing and celebrating of great events formerly performed by women, Isa. xl, 9. Women, especially those advanced in years, employed by the ancients as porters, John xviii, 17. Examples produced, ibid. Ancient method of purifying woman who were appointed to be consorts to kings, Eph. v, 26.

Word, see Logos. Citations from the Targums in which מימרא meimra, or Word, is evidently used personally, Gen. xv, 1; xxvi, 5; xxxi, 3. Exod, iv, 12. Judg. i, 19. 1 Chron. v, 22; vii, 21; ix, 20; xvi, 2; xxi, 13, 15. 2 Chron. ii, 1; xiv, 11; xv, 2; xvii, 3; xx, 17, 20, 29, 37; xxi, 14; xxv, 7; xxvi, 16; xxviii. 3; xxxii, 8, 16, 21, 31; xxxiii, 13, 17, 18; xxxvi, 33. Job xlii, 10. Psa. xxiii, 4; lv, 16; lxviii, 16. Isa. xlv, 22.

Works, beautiful personification of, Rev. xiv, 13.

World, this word sometimes used for land, or country, Isa. xiii. 11; xxiv, 14. Matt. iv, 8; xxvii, 45. Luke. ii, 1. Destruction of the world by fire, an ancient opinion among the Heathens, 2 Pet. iii, 12. Notions of the ancients respecting the origin and formation of the world, 2 Pet. iii, 5. Very affecting apostolical account of the moral condition of the world, 1 John v, 19.

Worlds, thoughts respecting the plurality of, Deut. x, 14, 1 Kings viii, 27.

Wormwood, figurative import of this word in Scripture, Deut. xxix, 18. Lam. iii, 15. A man grievously afflicted termed by an Arabic poet a pounder of wormwood, Lam. iii, 15. Supposed import of the Apocalyptic hieroglyphic of a star named Wormwood which fell from heaven upon the third part of the rivers and fountains of water, Rev. viii, 12.

Worship, reflections on that species of, which can alone be acceptable in the sight of God, Matt. xv, 9.

Worshipping of Images, consideration of a passage of Scripture which the Romanists allege in favour of, Heb. xi, 21.

Wotteth, its derivation and import, Gen. xxxix, 8. Acts iii. 17.

Writing on the Egyptian Papyrus, mode of, in ancient times, Numb. ix, 1. Transpositions, errors of very easy occurrence, ibid. Account of the different modes of writing in the time of Job xix, 23.

Writing of Divorcement, see Divorce.

Writing-Table, or Little Board, Dr. Shaw's description of the, used by the boys in Barbary, and also by the Jewish children, Luke i, 63.

X.

Xerxes, immense wealth of this Persian monarch, Dan. xi, 2. His prodigious armament against Greece, ibid.

Ξιφος, a sort of ancient sword originally made of brass, Eph. vi, 13.

Xylophoria, a Jewish feast, for what purpose instituted, Exod. xxiii, 14. Neh. x, 34.

Y

Yacoub, ibn Leits Saffer, remarkable anecdote respecting, Luke xiv, 1.

Yad, יד, a Jewish memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Joshua.

Yagid, יגיד, a Jewish memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Deuteronomy.

Yam, ים, rendered sea, its general import, Numb. xxxiv, 6. Deut. xxxiii, 23. Josh. i, 4. Generally rendered in the Septuagint by θαλασσα, Numb. xxxiv, 6.

Year, length of a tropical, or natural, according to the computation of modern astronomers, Gen. i, 14.

Year of Release, institution of the, Deut. xv, 1. The whole book of Deuteronomy appointed to be read at this time, Deut. xxxi, 10, 11. This precept appears to have been very little attended to by the Jews, ibid.

Yechaveh, יחוה, and Yehegeh, יהגה import of these Jewish memorial symbols, Masoretic Notes at the end of Exodus and Leviticus.

Ye ho wah, import of this phrase used by the Indians of North America in their religious worship, Rev. xix, 1.

Yenachilam ינחילם, import of this Jewish memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Deuteronomy.

Yidêonim, ידעונים, why witches were so denominated by the ancients, Lev. xix, 31. Deut. xviii, 11.

Yisâdeca, יסערך, import of this memorial symbol of the Rabbins, Masoretic Notes at the end of Exodus.

Yobelim, יובלים, improperly rendered rams' horns, Josh. vi, 4.

Yod and Point, see One Jot and Tittle.

Yoke, formerly a custom at Rome to put the necks of those to be crucified into a yoke, and to stretch out their hands and fasten them to the end of it; and having thus led them through the city, to carry them to the place of execution, John xxi, 18. How the word עול âval, rendered yoke, has been figuratively employed by the Jews, Matt. xi, in fine.

Yom, יום, examples in which this word is taken in the sense of judgment, 1 Cor. iv, 3.

Youth of both Sexes in Eastern countries marriageable at a very early age, 2 Kings xvi, 2.

Yuchanan, parable of this Rabbi similar to that of our Lord concerning the wise and foolish virgins, Matt. xxv, 1.

Z

Zabii, singular instance of superstition among the, Exod. xxiii, 19.

Zacharias, or Zechariah, import of this name, Luke i, 60.

Zahab, זהב, its derivation and import, Job xxviii, 17.

Zaleucus, law of, against the drinking of unmixed wine, unless prescribed by a physician, 1 Tim. v, 23.

Zalmonah, the thirty-fourth station of the Israelites in the wilderness, where probably situated, and why so named, Numb. xxxiii, 41.

Zamarenians, from whom probably descended, Gen. xxv, 2.

Zamzummim, some account of this ancient people, Deut. ii, 20.

Zaphnath-paaneah, import of this word very uncertain, Gen. xli, 45. Probably an Egyptian epithet, ibid.

Zarah, import of the name, Gen. xxxviii, 30.

Zarephath, the same with Sarepta of the Sidonians, 1 Kings xvii, 9.

Zarphon, remarkable saying of this Rabbi, Matt. vii, 5.

Zeal, description of that species of, which every minister of Jesus Christ should possess, 1 Cor. iv, in fine. Remarkable saying of a pious Papist respecting that species of zeal which prompts to the extirpation of heretics and wicked men, Matt. xiii, 29.

Zebul, זבול, the fourth heaven of the Rabbins, 2 Cor. xii, 2. זבול zebul, dung, or a dung-hill, a very common Jewish appellation of an idol or an idol-temple, Matt. x, 25.

Zebulun, why so named, Gen. xxx, 20. Situation of the country of the descendants of this patriarch, Matt. iv, 15.

Zechariah, some account of this prophet, Introduction to Zechariah.

Zeeb, a prince of the Midianites, import of his name, Judg. vii, 25.

Zeh, זה, import of this word among the Jews, when used as a memorial symbol, Masoretic Notes at the end of Genesis.

Zelgaphoth, a pestilential east wind suddenly killing those who are exposed to it, 1 Kings xx, in fine. Highly probable that a wind of this description, and not a wall, as stated in our translation, occasioned the death of the twenty-seven thousand Syrians in the time of Benhadad, 1 Kings xx, in fine.

Zelophehad's Daughters, peculiar case of, Numb. xxvii, 1. Solemn trifling of some commentators relative to the mysterious imports of their names, Numb. xxvii, 7.

Ζηλος, Zeal, derivation and import of this Greek word, Acts v, 17.

Zelotes, a surname given by the Jews to certain persons, and why, Luke vi, 15.

Zend Avesta, citation from this work in which is contained an account of the celebration of a wedding in Persia, Matt. xxv, 7.

Zeno, the founder of the Stoic sect, when and where born, Acts xvii, 18.

Zeradusht, Zerdust, or Zeratusht, see Zoroaster.

Zidon, where situated, Ezek. xxvii, 8.

Zif, a Hebrew month answering to a part of our April and May, 1 Kings vi, 38. This name supposed to have been borrowed from the Chaldeans, and to be an evidence that the books of Kings were written after the Babylonish captivity, 1 Kings vi, 1.

Zikenim, זקנים, a degree of civil distinction among the Hebrews, Josh. xxiii, 2.

Zimerah, זמרה, probably a kind of musical instrument, Psa. lxxxi, 2.

Zin, Wilderness of, the thirty-second station of the Israelites in the wilderness, some account of, Numb. xxxiii, 36.

Zion, capture of this very celebrated fortress of the Jebusites by David, 2 Sam. v, 7. Dr. Kennicott's translation of the Hebrew text which contains the account, ibid.
Ziph, where situated, Psa. liv, in principio.
Ζιζανια, inquiry into the import of this word, Matt. xiii, 25.
Ζωα, very improperly rendered beasts in our Version, Rev. iv, 6.
Zoan, the same with Tanis, Ezek. xxx, 14.
Zodiac, signs of the, known in Egypt and Chaldea in the time of Joseph, Gen. xlix, in fine. Very elegant allusion in the Book of Psalms to the twelve signs of the zodiac, Psa. lxv, 11.
Zohair, an eminent Arabic poet, Psa. lx, in principio.
Ζωμα, or Girdle, account of this species of defensive armour among ancients and moderns, Eph. vi, 13.
Zonah, זנה, commonly rendered harlot, what it properly imports, Gen. xxxviii, 15, 21. Distinction between זנה zonah and קדשה kedeshah, both indifferently rendered harlot in our Version, Gen. xxxviii, 21.
Zophar the Naamathite, who, Job ii, 11.
Zoroaster, or Zeradusht, traditions concerning, Exod. iii, 2. Character of the Institutes attributed to him, Deut. xxxiv, in fine. In what sense we are to understand the tradition that the works of Zoroaster, which are in prose, contain two millions of verses, Introduction to Ezra, p. xi. Zoroaster supposed by some to be a confused picture of the prophet Daniel, Introduction to Daniel, p. ii.
Zuleekha, the name of Potiphar's wife, according to the Asiatics, Gen. xxxix, 6. Remarkable anecdote concerning this woman as related in the Koran, ibid.
Zumeet, a kind of food, how prepared, 2 Sam. xvii, 28.
Zuzim, a people of antiquity, possibly the same with the Zamzummim, Gen. xiv, 5. Deut. ii, 20.

FINIS.